THE Daily Bulletin FRIDAY, JULY 10, 1891. The Waikiki bridge gets to praise these days from the people it carries over to the Park. They say the dust is inches deep on it, covering up spots that are dangerously weak. No doubt the Road Supervisor has only to have his attention called to the bridge to have it put in good condition. Next Legislature should provide for a more permanent structure as well as the widening of the bridge. Safe access to Kapiolani Park is constantly becoming a more important matter, as lots are being taken up and the fine pleasure ground is increasingly sought for recreation. The Pioneer Building & Loan Association of Honolulu appears to have made a satisfactory start in its first year. It has received $29,000 and loaned $28,000 in round numbers. The money loaned will have results in homes of their own for the borrowing members. This is an institution that was a little late in appearing here, but it is a satisfaction to believe that thus far ability and prudence have characterized its management. The history of similar institutions elsewhere has been blotted by some scandalous collapses, and these should be a warning to members not to allow the affairs of the Association ever to drift into any the least degree of looseness.

THAT CANAL AND THIS HARBOR.

Mr. Warner Miller, president of the construction company that has the contract for the Nicaragua Canal, lately delivered an enthusiastic lecture in San Francisco on the subject of that great work. He was visiting the Pacific Coast to solicit financial assistance for the enterprise. He said he was not there for any great sum of money, but he did count on the moral support of the people. The information he gave about the progress of the work was very interesting. Since he had taken charge a year ago, the company had made a harbor at Greytown, opening to traffic the harbor that had been closed for twenty-five years. Half a mile of the canal had been excavated to a depth of seventeen feet and 207 feet wide. Of the 170 miles total length of the canal only 27 miles are to be excavations. The rest is free navigation on the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua. The climate has proved quite favorable to the health of the Americans engaged on the canal. Trade winds blow regularly, driving off malaria. The temperature never goes above 90, nor below 65 degrees. There are no problems remaining to puzzle the engineers—nothing but to lay out the work and have it done. These things are very encouraging for an early completion of the canal, even allowing that Mr. Miller's interest has colored the facts somewhat. What concerns Honolulu is to have the harbor dredged so as to be ready for its share in the expansion of commerce in the Pacific inevitable on the opening of the canal. There is the most reasonable probability at this date that such a state of readiness will be realized far in advance of that particular occasion. There are other considerations, however, which will save our harbor improvement from being premature, no matter how soon accomplished. Many great ocean steamships on other routes than the canal one will shortly give us the option of either accommodating them at our wharves or letting them sail majestically past beyond our horizon. Even now the place loses a great advantage when a large warship visits us and has to anchor in the heaving roadstead, while much annoyance and loss of time and trade is occasioned frequently when large American-Chinese liners call without being able to come inside.

American Quinine. Adolph Sutro is trying the experiment of raising cinchona trees at his grounds above the Cliff house. It is from the bark of about a dozen varieties of this tree that quinine is extracted, and if they will thrive in this climate the trees will become very valuable. Moreover, the cinchona is a very showy tree and highly ornamental, some of them growing to a height of eighty feet. The enormous medicinal consumption of the bark of the cinchona has caused the tree to be extensively cultivated in India and Java. It grows in high altitudes in New Grenada, Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia, where there is a great deal of moisture. It has been tried with success in Australia, near the seacoast, and Mr. Sutro thinks some of the varieties will grow here, where there is a moisture in the atmosphere all the year round.—San Francisco Examiner.

CHINESE MISSION SCHOOL.

The closing exercises of the Chinese Mission School were held at the Chinese Y. M. C. A. hall, Beretania street, yesterday evening. Friends and acquaintances of the pupils, and others, were present in large numbers. Mr. A. T. Atkinson, Inspector-General of Schools, attended the examinations, and was highly pleased with what he saw and heard. Miss May Green and Miss Nellie Waterhouse had charge of the English portion of the exercises, and the way the young people went through their different parts, in the singing and recitations, reflected great credit on the lady tutors. The enunciation of the young Chinese was so distinct that every word they spoke was easily heard throughout the hall. Mr. Kong and Mr. Ho Poi had the management of the Chinese exercises, which language being unintelligible to our reporter, of course, cannot be commented upon; but judging by the ovation they received from the Chinese assemblage, the exercises must have been highly satisfactory. The entire school and a large number of their friends took the 9 o'clock car this morning and went out to Punahou, where the annual picnic was given. They returned at 3 o'clock this afternoon in high glee, having enjoyed themselves to their hearts' content.

FAREWELL SOCIAL.

The Y. M. C. A. takes leave of Mr. P. C. Jones and General Secretary Fuller.

Y. M. C. A. hall was crowded yesterday evening, on the occasion of a social to bid farewell to Mr. P. C. Jones and Mr. S. D. Fuller, retiring General Secretary, and to welcome Mr. H. W. Peck to the vacant office. Mr. W. J. Lowrey, ex-President, presided. The front of the platform was bordered with luxuriant plants and ferns.

The chairman stated the object of the gathering and Mr. Fuller's letter of resignation and Mr. Peck's letter of acceptance were read. A very fine quartet was sung by Prof. Wood, W. H. Hoogs, J. Barnett and David Morgan.

Mr. Peck related the circumstances of his acceptance of the office of General Secretary. He eulogized Mr. Jones' services to the association. As to Mr. Fuller, he said, "I may follow in his footsteps, but cannot expect to fill his shoes," which caused an audible smile. He praised Mr. Fuller's qualities as a man and spoke admiringly of his good judgment. Messrs. Jones and Fuller could not take away the results of their work. Speaking of his aims and prospects the new Secretary said one lack on the part of the churches had been in reaching the workmen. If he could not get the workmen into a building to hear the word of God, he for one would go out to meet them wherever they might be found. (Applause.) Mr. Jones had been the recognized leader of the temperance work of the Association, and it devolved on all of the young men now to take up this work. The Custom House returns showed a consumption of liquor for 1890 equal to five gallons for every man, woman and child in the country. There was an increase in the quantity imported of 19,000 gallons. They wanted to put themselves behind some scheme to fight the drink business unitedly. Most of the spirituous liquor was drunk by the natives, for whom they owed a concern equally to that for foreigners. He had cast his last vote for any legislator who was not pledged to oppose the liquor traffic.

A duet was sung with exceeding charm by Misses Susie Young and Emily Halstead, the accompaniment being played on the piano by Miss Hopper. An irrepressible encore brought out another duet as sweetly sung as the first.

Mr. Geo. P. Castle, President, read a parting address to the retiring General Secretary. They regretted his departure more keenly because it was caused by ill health. He had not only served the Association with the greatest efficiency and fidelity, but he had earned the respect of the entire community. During his incumbency the Association had increased in numbers, while its system of work had been greatly improved.

The President also read an address to Mr. Jones, in which reference was made to his connection, twenty-five years ago, with meetings for young men in the Sunday school room of Fort-street Church. He was congratulated on having been one of the "stickers" to the Association, and thanked for the influence of his character on young men. As his church would miss himself, his wife and daughter, so the Association would miss him.

Mr. Fuller, in reply, referred to his six years' services. Since deciding to leave he had not dared to think of the parting moment. In going he wanted to say something to young men about the "Come!" He could do no better than commend to them for their guidance the verse: "Commit thy ways unto the Lord and he shall direct thy paths." On his conversion he had cast in his lot with the Association, and decided to spend a vacation in its service. Eleven years ago he closed the lid of his carpenter's tool chest, and it had not been opened since. He was offered the secretaryship of an Association in the East, and after filling the place some years was given a similar position at Sacramento, Cal., where, just as he had to give up on account of failing health, he received and accepted the offer of the Honolulu Association. They could easily fill the place of Secretary but it would be very hard for them to fill the place of a man who had been so much to the Association as Mr. Jones. He gave instances of that gentleman's substantial support in discouraging emergencies. Who could fill his place? It would be a man who commits his way to the Lord. Mr. Fuller said no Secretary anywhere could have a pleasanter position than with the Honolulu Association: nowhere else in proportion to size was there such a body of business men identified with the Y. M. C. A. He could congratulate Mr. Peck on having such a body of men to support him. Wherever he should go he should remember them in his prayers, and always hope that each year that came should be brighter and happier for them.

Mr. Jones, replying to the Association's address, said he never knew before that he was a "sticker," but he realized that he was "stuck" now. (Laughter.) It was very true that "if you want to get into business you should go out of business." So occupied had he been in arranging affairs for his departure that he had no speech made. But he had a heart to feel gratitude for all their kind expressions. He could give his testimony that the best thing was to commit your ways to the Lord. Mr. Jones then addressed Mr. Fuller, saying he was deputized to offer him a small testimonial as a farewell token of the members' esteem. He handed him an envelope containing a draft on California, which it has been learned was for $368.

BAREFOOTED BILL.

Mr. Fuller in receiving the gift was almost overcome with emotion. He had not expected it. For all his services they had already amply rewarded him. He could only say that he thanked them more than words could express for this new token of their friendship and love.

The Association sang a hymn. Miss Nellie Lowrey accompanying on the piano, after which an unlimited supply of ice cream and cake was produced. Nearly an hour was spent, while the gathering gradually dispersed, in social converse over the refreshments.

STILL ROOMS UNSCATED THROUGH COUNT OF ROOMS AT NIGHT.

Several stores in town were entered last night by the same barefooted individual, presumably, who has for some time past been exploiting business and dwelling houses.

J. J. Williams' photograph gallery was entered from a window in the back, whence the plunderer started through the store, rummaging and throwing papers about carelessly. Three drawers were chiselled open, but finding nothing of any value "Bill" lit a match of the safe standing near by and smoked a cigarette, several stamps being found on the floor this morning. All the drawers in the place and even an old trunk were opened and examined. A box of cigars is the only thing missing, but, with his usual generosity, the thief left six cigars for Mr. Williams, which were found on his desk this morning.

Mr. Sachs' store was also entered. The marks of the intruder's feet were plainly seen on the corrugated iron in the rear. He got up on the roof, broke through the skylight and dropped to the floor. Finding nothing of value in the room, he tried to wrench off the iron door separating the room from the main store. Failing to do so, he sat down and indulged in another smoke, several lighted matches and cigarette stumps being found on the floor. On his exit he broke the window and let himself out.

Theo. H. Davies & Co.'s warehouse on the Esplanade was visited. Entrance was gained by means of a ladder taken from Mr. Purdy's boat-house, whereby the burglar climbed to the roof, whence he let himself into the building through a netted ventilator. The drawer of a desk was forced open, but there was no money in it. There was nothing else to be sought that could be carried off without the help of a dray, so the robber stole the seven or eight keys to the different rooms. With one of the keys he let himself out, leaving the outer door wide open. The firm sustains a loss of new locks to replace the old ones deprived of their keys.

A considerable haul was made in the Beehive Saloon, Nuuanu street. There are marks of an ineffectual attempt to open a window on the mauka side. Entrance was obtained through a window on the opposite side. Things were found in the morning scattered about the floor, also the usual assortment of burnt matches. The sum of $14 was stolen from the till, and liquors valued at $25 were abstracted. As usual in this whole series of robberies, a barefoot track was left as the trademark of the thief. An employee in Mr. Tinker's butcher shop, while going to Love's Bakery for coffee at a late hour, saw a light in the saloon, also a man apparently on watch in the street opposite. He informed a policeman who had just passed there of the circumstances, but it seems the guardian of the peace paid no attention to the matter. Mr. Vierra, proprietor of the Beehive, says this is the third time the saloon has been depredated.

FROM RUFF TO NECKTIE.

The necktie, now become a purely ornamental detail of dress, was originally useful. It was intended to protect the throat. Its history may be traced from the time of the Romans in England, when immense ruffs, which served as neckcloths and collars, were worn.

Later neckcloths or cravats were adopted, and no doubt were a welcome change from the stiff, uncomfortable ruff. They were of Brussels or Flanders lace, tied in a knot under the chin, the ends being allowed to hang square.

Still later they were worn much longer, the ends being passed through the button holes of the waistcoat.

The lace neckcloth was succeeded by small cambric bands, but was reintroduced in Queen Anne's reign, and did not go out of use entirely until about 1735. Then a broad silk ribbon, tied in a large bow in front, was worn, and this in turn was followed by white cambric stocks buckled in the back, and by muslin cravats, which were tied in front in an immense bow.

In the early part of this century the stiff linen collar had begun to be worn, and the cravat was passed twice around the collar and tied in a fanciful bow in front.

About 1820 cravats were made very wide in the center and tapered off toward the ends. Thirty years ago stocks and cravats began to disappear, and scarfs began to take their place. From these scarfs, gradually growing smaller, was developed the modern neat necktie.—Youth's Companion.

A Pretty Table Scarf.

A very pretty scarf for table or dresser came to my notice lately. Lined of rather fine quality was hemstitched on ends and sides, and grouped in twos and threes with some single flowers were dogwood blossoms without foliage. The edge of each panel was outlined in white silk and then closely darned across the same silk, a single thread of flouless being used for the darning and two for the outline. The lines of darning were as close together as could be made and the stitch was taken as short as possible on the wrong side and quite long on the right, so an almost solid silk flower in appearance was the result when finished, which was extremely pretty.—Washington Star.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Yesterday afternoon a native named Kuanama, who used to be employed in the Metropolitan Market, fell off his horse on Beretania street and was badly hurt in the head. He was going home and riding rather fast, when the rein broke. Kuanama leaped forward trying to catch the horse, and while doing so was thrown to the ground. His shoulder struck a rail of the Government quarry track, knocking him senseless and causing an effusion of blood from mouth and ears. The unfortunate man was picked up and sent to the Queen's Hospital in a bad condition. To-day it is believed he will recover.

POLICE RECORD.

Kaahaua was proved this morning to be another victim of the prevailing chee gambling mania. His penalty was made $25 fine and $4.25 costs. Two cases of drunkenness were punished by fine and forfeiture respectively.

MEMORIES OF PUUNUI.

There is something in this afternoon, In this dreamy day of June,
Wakes old themes—
Such sweet strains of memory,
Like the low song melody
Heard in dreams.

Something in this summer light,
Something in this jessamine white,
Speaks to me,
And I listen and rejoice,
For it comes, that gentle voice,
O'er the sea.

And the home upon the hill,
Green within my memory still,
Holds me now,
And again that subtle breeze,
Floating idly through the trees,
Cools my brow.

Resting in the silent shade,
By the bamboo's branches made,
I, once more,
Gazing round, below, above,
See the 'bride of summer's' love,
Beauteous shore!

In my dream content I rest,
Pillow'd on her dear, warm breast;
But, alas,
Earth and sky too fleetingly,
From my vision I can see
Slowly pass.

Just a gift of dying June,
Was the spell this afternoon
Cast o'er me?
Yet I bless the loving art
That can take, sweet land, my heart,
Back to thee.

NEW STEAM LINE.

The Johnson-Locke Mercantile Company, of this city, announce the inauguration of a new steamship line from New York to this coast. The pioneer steamer of the line is the Ke-weenaw, which is now loading at New York, and will take freight for San Diego, this port and Seattle. She will be followed by another steamer in about three weeks after her departure, and steamers will thereafter be dispatched at regular intervals. Low rates of freight are offered, and about sixty days between New York and this port is the time figured on. Returning from Seattle the steamers will touch here, and at San Diego, with the expectation of obtaining a cargo of canned fruits, salmon, wine, and other Pacific coast products, destined for New York. The company is represented in New York by Barber & Co.—S. F. Commercial News, June 24.
