WHAT A DEED CONVEYS. Memoranda of Interest to Buyers and Sellers of Land. [Exchange.] Judge Bennett, of Massachusetts, before the state board of agriculture, said, in substance, that a deed conveys the fence standing on the farm, the fencing stuff, posts, rails, etc., which had once been used in the fence, but had been taken down and piled up for future use on the same place. But now fence material not bought and never attached to the soil will not pass. Standing trees pass as part of the land; so do trees blown up and still left in the woods where they fell, but not if cut and corded up for sale; the wood has then become personal property. Manure in the barnyard, or in a compact heap ready for immediate use, the buyer ordinarily takes as belonging to the farm; though it might not be so if the owner had previously sold it to some other party and had collected it as a heap by itself. Growing crops pass by the deed of a farm, unless they are expressly reserved, and when it is intended to reserve those it should be so stated in the deed itself; a mere oral agreement would not be valid in law.

Another mode is to stipulate that possession is not to be given until some future day, in which case the crops or manure may be removed before that time. As to the buildings on the farm, though generally mentioned in the deed, it is not absolutely necessary they should be used. A deed of land ordinarily carries all the buildings on it belonging to the grantor, whether mentioned or not; and this rule includes the lumber and timber of any one building which has been taken or blown down and been packed away for future use on the farm. But if there be any buildings on the farm built by some third person, with the farmer's leave, the deed would not convey these, since the buildings are personal property and do not belong to the land-owner to convey. The real owners thereof might move them off, although the purchaser of the farm supposed he was buying and paying for all the buildings on it. His only remedy in such a case would be against the party building the premises.

As a part of the buildings conveyed, the window-blinds are included, even if they be at the time taken off and carried to the painter's shop to be painted. It could be otherwise if they had been newly purchased and brought into the house but yet attached or fitted to it. Lightning-rods go with the house. A furnace in the kitchen, or a portable, is considered a part of the house, but an ordinary stove, with a loose pipe running into the chimney, is not, while a range set in bricks or work is Mantel-pieces so attached to the chimney as not to be removed without marring the plastering go with the house, but if merely resting on brackets they may be taken away. Pumps, sinks, etc., fastened to the walls are a part of it in law, and so are the water-pipes connected therewith bringing water from a distant spring. If the farmer had iron kettles set in brickwork near his barn for cooking food for his stock, or similar uses, the deed of his farm covers them, as likewise the bell attached to his barn to call his men to dinner. If he indulges in any ornamental statues, vases, etc., resting on the ground by their own weight, and sells his estate without reservation, these things go with the land.

Queer People on the "Elevated." [New York Sun.] "I am sorry, madam, but you will have to go to the company's office at 71 Broadway to get your quarter back."

The above remark was made at the One Hundred and Sixth street elevated railroad station to a lady who had deposited a quarter in the glass receptacle, while at the same time she held her ticket tightly clasped in the other hand.

"We have no key here to unlock the box," continued the employee. "Do such mistakes occur often?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, yes, every day. Passengers in a hurry to catch a train will rush from the window with their ticket in one hand and change in the other, and in their haste will drop almost anything. A woman the other day tried to deposit her baby instead of a ticket."

"Did she succeed?"

"No. I called her attention to the matter, and the baby was saved, but she lost her train. A shop girl would have given her a lunch basket to the company in lieu of a ticket had I not interfered, and yesterday a young man deposited a cigar, and when placed his ticket in his mouth and attempted to smoke it. Some people lose their heads the minute they begin to travel."

The Sacking of San Francisco. Officers of the Chilean navy talk a great deal about the anticipated time when they will sack San Francisco, and their idea is not seriously to be that a project of that kind is quite feasible.

WE TAKE THE LEAD.

In one respect at least the city of Honolulu may justly claim a proud pre-eminence. There are few, if any, cities of similar dimensions which can count upon their streets so many apparently unmanageable horses.

Yesterday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock Her Majesty the Queen held a reception and tea party for ladies at Iolani Palace.

The San Francisco papers have been commenting considerably of late on our miserable passport system.

The second number of the "Paradise of the Pacific" is out. A large number of copies were sent away by the Alameda, a much larger number will go on the Australia to-day, and the Zealandia, due on Thursday, will take a batch to the Colonies.

TO MAKE TOBACCO SWEAT.

The Process Explained by a Warehouse Clerk—Results Obtained.

"Sweating and resweating tobacco," said a young man in the top story of a South Charles street warehouse "are very interesting and curious industries."

"What does the term sweating mean?" asked the reporter. "Drying out the rankness and the gum," answered the young man.

"The resweating is done, as I said before, to dry out the rankness, and the superfluous gum and to bring out the dark colors that are so much admired in cigar wrappers.

"How is the resweating done?" fell from the mouth of the listening scribe. "We get the hands of tobacco in large boxes from the dealers. It is first taken out of these boxes and cased—there, like that," he said, pointing to a man who was gathering up double handfuls of the stalks and dipping them, butts down, into a trough filled with water.

"Next the tobacco is tightly packed in hermetically sealed cast iron boxes, lined with wood, the boxes holding one third of a case apiece. After being sealed up, the boxes are subjected to a steam heat ranging from 60 degrees to 150 degrees during periods varying from three days to thirty-three days, according to the kind of tobacco under treatment.

"After the tobacco comes out of the sweating room it is removed from the airtight cases and again put on bulk in small piles, where it gradually cools during forty to forty-eight hours.

"Success of Pasteur's Method. Vast possibilities have been suggested by the success of Pasteur's method of protecting cattle and sheep from anthrax by inoculation with the attenuated virus.

"The odoriferous molecules of musk must be incomprehensibly small. We can not imagine their smallness as it is said that the same grain of musk undergoes absolutely no diminution in weight.

"The Trotting Stallion Doncaster. The exhibition of the New South Wales Agricultural Society opened at Sydney January 25th.

"The Apparent Gain Accounted for. According to President Warren, of Boston university, the apparent gain in numbers of the black race over the south is largely due to the fact that the white is credited by the census simply with its own white offspring.

Our Walk to the Board of Health.

AN EPIC-ODE.

Oh! gentlemen, Oh! gentlemen, how can you treat us so? Just when we land, in trusting faith—arrived from San Frisco.

We've escaped the boiling ocean, and the dangers of the sea. To fall into your ruthless hands—all legal though they be.

Your yellow flag so frightened us, our knees began to give. As we scanned your solemn visages—"how long have we to live?"

We left our homes all innocent—it seems a little hard To find ourselves like criminals—and all put under guard.

Consistency's a jewel—our ship lies at the dock, And Kanakas and other folk both on and off do flock.

Majestic law, to vindicate a method must be found, And so the cabin passengers are all put in the "pound."

No leniency our portion—we catch it every way— And we wonder if old Job were here what he would have to say.

Would he say, "that modern Boards of Health are past all finding out?" Like the "heavenly Chinese" method that the poet wrote about.

Incarcerated Christians—no chance to go to Church— We hear the sweet bells ringing, but we are in the lurch.

Our sons of piase are silent—it wouldn't do, you know, To break out into anything—there's danger in it so.

Infection dire is in our breath—for twenty feet or more They've stretched a rope across to keep us near our door.

We merely wish to intimate the softness of the "snap" That the hotel man has got on us—he does not care a rap.

He puts the matter frankly when we ask why things are just what I give you or to the reef can go.

Your islands can't be healthy—are sure they can't be so, They're noted for volcanoes, and eruptions are the go.

Our guard he does his duty, and is constantly about; His business is to keep us all quite safe from breaking out.

We are kind and gentle people, and we wish you gents no wrong, But you'll find that retribution is the burden of our song;

And when frightful deep oppression shall wake you from your rest, You each will find twelve phantoms grim a sitting on his chest,

And you'll cry in vain for succor—you can struggle as you may, They will not budge an inch, gents, till your hair stands with a fright.

And you pray for morn to dispel all the horrors of the night, But the phantoms will stay by you—for eighteen days at least;

And the nineteenth day is breaking thro' the portals of the east, And you swear, "So help me, gracious," that the island now has seen

The Royal Hawaiian Band gave a concert at Puna, on the 12th evening, which was very successful. The band consisted of 25 members, and played a variety of music, including waltzes, polkas, and national airs. The concert was well attended, and the music was much appreciated by the audience.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

St. Valentine's Day. Mail closes at 11 a. m. To-day is Shrove Tuesday. The Likelike sails this evening.

Welcome to the U. S. S. Marion. Poor Polly, come home to your master. The Australia sails for San Francisco at noon to-day.

Plenty of business in the Police Court this morning. To-morrow will be Ash Wednesday—the first day in Lent.

H. B. M. S. Caroliue will probably leave for Hawaii on Saturday. This afternoon Mr. Theo. H. Davies will give a garden party from 3 to 6 o'clock.

The foreign jury will be required in the Supreme Court at 10 o'clock this morning. The concert at Kaunakapili Church last evening was well attended, and a success.

The "Owl" is always howling about Hawaii Pono. What's the matter with it, Mr. Owl. Who will make a present of a croquet set to the Queen Emma Hall? Don't all speak at once.

The Surprise brings the news that the smoketack of the old Paahau Mill, Hawaii, has been blown down. If you want a hack, ring up Hawaiian Livery Stables. Mutual telephone No. 494; Bell, No. 249. Moses Palau, Manager.

Mr. John Markham is a victim to leap year. Next Monday evening is the time set when Miss Dyer will lead him to the altar. Embroideries and laces to set of the faces of pretty young sweethearts and wives. If you would buy them, at Sachs' I'd try them.

You will find children's dresses there too. Send copies of the "Paradise of the Pacific" to your friends. You can get them free gratis for nothing of Mr. J. J. Williams, the business manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce of Chaplain street were arrested yesterday, and stand charged with assault and battery on Mrs. Bruce's niece, a girl of eleven years. Yesterday the Government and Consular flags were flying, and salutes were fired at noon from the shore battery and the men-of-war, in honor of Accession Day.

Table linen and napkins, fine towels and linen crash. In Turkish and in Russian (and Mikado shades so flash). At Sachs' store you will find them, and polite attention too. Take my advice and go there; it will pay you if you do.

Mr. Chas. B. Wilson, Superintendent of the Water Works, leaves for the Leper Settlement this week to look after the laying of the water pipes which recently arrived by the bark Min. He will take a gang of men with him.

Among the passengers leaving by the Australia to-day will be Mr. Oliver C. Swain, delivery clerk in the Post Office. He will be much missed, as he has always been a very polite and faithful servant to the public, whose wants he had to attend to. We wish him a very pleasant voyage, and much success through life.

If perchance you need a Shade Hat, a sailor's Poke or Flat, A little hat for Lovie, trimmed with this or that; A bonnet for the baby, of muslin, silk or lace, I can tell you where to find them—104 Fort street is the place—N. S. Sachs, proprietor.

The following resolution, passed at the Blue Ribbon League annual meeting, was omitted from our report: Resolved, That any committee of this League, being called together by notice through the last issued numbers of the daily papers preceding the time of meeting, provided such notices can be had free of cost, shall be held to have a quorum if two members of the committee are present.

THE U. S. S. MARION. Her Arrival at this Port From Acapulco. The U. S. S. Marion, under command of Commander N. M. Dyer, arrived yesterday afternoon, and was anchored on the Ewa side of the Vandalia. The Marion was 32 days from Acapulco, Mexico, and experienced pleasant weather, but no trades the entire passage. She arrived in splendid condition, her decks having been newly varnished. The Marion is a wooden vessel of 1,900 tons register, the same size and class as the U. S. S. Mohican, and was built at New Hampshire in 1876. Her engines are of 1,000 horse power and can attain a speed of twelve knots an hour under favorable circumstances. She carries eight guns, including six 9-inch smoothbores, one 60-pounder breech-loading rifle and one 8-inch rifle. The Marion's complement of men is 185, exclusive of officers.

Following is a list of her officers: Commander—N. M. Dyer. Lieut.-Commander—C. T. Hutchins. Lieutenants—C. F. Emmerich, D. L. Wilson, J. C. Gilmore and W. G. Hogg. Ensign—W. G. Miller. Chief Engineer—Jas. Butterworth. Physicians—Dr. P. Fitzsimmons and Dr. Louis Atlee. Naval Cadets—W. G. McMillan, A. H. Scales, F. M. Russel and C. S. Craig. Paymaster—Jno. Macmahon. Past Assistant Engineer—R. D. Taylor.

First Lieutenant of Marines—L. C. Webster. Assistant Engineer—E. Stuart Smith. Boatswain—J. Glynn. Carpenter—G. Davis. The Marion's next destination will be Hongkong. Island Views. By calling at J. Gonsalves' photographic gallery, Fort street, you can obtain views of the different points of interest on all the islands of the group and of the Vandalia. The plants were obtained from the Vandalia. Camphor trees are growing thriflily at Quincy, Fla. The plants were obtained from the Vandalia.

Life in Winnipeg. (New York Sun.)

"The Northwestern Canadian is not a visiting man. He spends all his time in winter between his house and his out-offices, if he has any. He looks forward to splendid fields of wheat and oats to compensate him for the hardships he endures. But he must be careful. These large yields per acre will become less every year unless the farmers manure their lands. In Minnesota and Iowa thirty-five bushels of wheat to the acre were not uncommon when the lands in those states were first broken, and now I suppose that they do not average more than sixteen. The American farmers neglected to farm scientifically, and worked the land for all it was worth. It is just the same with us. The summers are short and hot.

It is hotter in Winnipeg than it is in New York. But here, too, we are ahead of you people in some things. As we dress for the winter in furs, we dress for the summer in a becoming way. Down here a man is supposed to shiver in a tall, black hat and kid gloves in winter, with a pair of earlaps making him hideous, while in summer he is expected to change the color of the hat only, while he roasts under an overcoat which he calls a duster. It is very different with us. In summer we wear thick helmets with good ventilation, and we keep the sun off our heads while we have plenty of air. We all wear light clothes, suited to the season, and flannel shirts with flannel collars attached are general even among the wealthy. When these are white they are becoming, and nothing else is so cool. Then we wear white canvas shoes, and if we dress for comfort we also dress with taste. But we are worried with flies. They come in millions. There are black flies, musquitoes, bull-dogs, and sand-flies, or "bite and can't see 'em," as the Indians call them.

The Early Days of Central Park. (Gen. Egbert L. Viele.) I first drew up the plans for Central park in 1856. My report was printed in full in several newspapers, taking a whole page. William Cullen Bryant, in an editorial article, praised my scheme, but declared that I would never live to see it carried out. When the driveways of the park were thrown open to the public in 1862, there were no public conveyances to that part of the city. The lot now occupied by the Fifth Avenue hotel was used as a circus ground, and a tombstone yard adorned the spot upon which the Albee and Hoffman houses now stand. There were no buildings in Broadway above Union square.

It was about the year 1856 that the Lenoxes and Astors abandoned Second avenue, which was at that time the fashionable quarter of the city, for Fifth avenue. Everybody was laughing at the absurdity of the movement. It wasn't long, however, before nearly all the high-toned families had left their establishments in the old, for the more spacious buildings in the new, fashionable quarter. Many people living down town hardly ever heard of Central park until several years after it had been opened. The great breathing place of the city is now completed with a few changes according to the plans which I drew up thirty years ago.

The Toilet of the Snake. [Good Cheer.] Prior to shining forth resplendent in fresh attire, a serpent seeks retirement. He becomes blind for a few days, refuses food, and appears to be in a melancholy state generally. When all is ready he begins at the lips to extricate himself from his old dress, rubbing against whatever is in his way. The first part of the process is tedious, but as he progresses he works more rapidly; when he reaches the ribs they assist the operation, until finally the old skin is shed entire, turned inside out, and Mr. Snake revels in his new suit. His eyes, covered by a perfectly transparent layer of cuticle, are bright and beautiful. It is only while this cuticle is forming over the eye that the serpent is blind. Their toilet is made in the spring, but not alone at that time; any unusual circumstance is apt to make them wish for a new suit of cuticle, beginning when they are infants from one to two weeks old. Some are so fastidious as to require a change once a month, and even oftener, while others, more plebeian, will wear the same garment for six months.

Forrest's Tragic Dietary. (Brooklyn Eagle.) The relation between food and artistic eminence probably exists rather subjectively than in primary form. What a man eats can scarcely be converted into passion, imagination or fervor by any known chemical process or any subtle transformation that can be stated in language. It is truer than most stage traditions that Forrest did regulate his dietary by the theatrical programme in his later years—at least it is vouched for as truth by more trustworthy authorities than generally father these professional legends. Macbeth booming up before him his midday meal would be beefsteak very rare. Fried eels was dietary preparation for Iago; lamb and Lent went together and when, in his basso profundo he shook the air with a demand for roast beef, rare with a tremendous tragic roll of the rs, the initiated knew that he would that evening "launch the curse of Rome" with his accustomed adjustment of sound and fury.

A False Weather Prophet. (Lime-Kill Club.) Extract Hastings offered the following preamble and resolution: "Whereas, De weather prophet now in de employ of dis club has all along predicted an open winter, an led us to believe dat robins an' blue birds an' roses would almos prove a nuisance between December an' April; an' "Whereas, We has bin baseley deceived, an' frozen hitchin' posts hev take de place of singin' birds an' climbin' roses; now, darfore, "Resolved, Dat Prof. Pendulum Backwater, de prophet above referred to, be giben de grand bounce widout pay."

Pickles Smith explained that man was liable to make mistakes, and that the professor should be given another trial, but on a vote being taken the false prophet was decapitated in good shape. Old Stamps to Order. [San Francisco Chronicle.] A wholesale manufactory of Swiss stamps of old issues has just been discovered in Zurich. The forgers have gone about their work very thoroughly. They have collected scraps of old letters bearing postmarks with various dates from 1843 to 1860, and the better to deceive the unwary, they have stuck the stamps on to these pieces of envelope.

Hartford Times: A little off color—the paint on the back of a man who leaned against a newly decorated wall. Camphor trees are growing thriflily at Quincy, Fla. The plants were obtained from the Vandalia.

OYSTERS IN SEASON.

AN EXPERIENCED DEALER TELLS WHAT HE KNOWS ABOUT THEM.

The Universal Demand and How it is Supplied—The Number New York Devours in a Day—Oyster Planting.

[New York Mail and Express.] "There will be plenty of oysters this season," said a veteran oyster dealer of the North River wholesale market.

"Where do you expect to get the oysters?" "A considerable number will be brought from the James river. The Potomac promises to furnish a large quantity."

"How many oysters will be required for the opening of the season?" "From the orders received by the different wholesale oyster dealers there was needed for the first day of September from 75,000 to 100,000 bushels for New York."

"That seems a large number. Is each day's demand as great?" "Pretty nearly. I should say that during the whole season fully 10,000,000 oysters, reckoning at the average rate of bushels, will be required to supply the market each day."

"You speak of the season. Are not oysters good all the year round?" "Yes, but it would not do if the demand should be kept up all the summer as heavy as it is in the winter."

OF FLOWERS.

[Maurice Egan in Town Topics.] There were no roses till the first child died. No violets, no balmy-breathed heartsease, No heliotrope, nor buds so dear to bees.

Cats for the Coming War. [Chronicle "Undertones."] They are busy training carrier pigeons in Europe for the coming war. They are experimenting with balloons and things.

Persian Barber-Shops. [Foreign Correspondence.] In Persia the barber shops are entirely open. One of the common sights in the streets of Teheran is a man seated on the pavement against a wall, while a barber shaves the crown of his head.

Car Nicholas in Love. [Chicago Tribune.] How princes make love is told in the "Reminiscences of the Marquis Custine," which have just appeared in Paris.

To Learn How. [Whitehall Times.] If you want to know what a sermon should be—ask some one who never wrote or preached one.

An Interesting Collection. [Chicago Times.] A Michigan girl outdid her companions in a craze for autograph albums by having about 100 letters from the same number of men bound in a volume for her parlor table.

Ireland's Peat Bogs. Peat bogs cover about one-seventh of the surface of Ireland. Some of these bogs are supposed to represent 20,000 years of growth.

Lord Bacon: Only they despise riches who despair of them.

Foundation of Consumption. [Hall's Journal of Health.] The foundation of three-fourths of all cases of consumption is laid before the age of 25 years; in women, during their teens.

A Novel Arrangement. A new Presbyterian church in Carroll Iowa, has a novel arrangement for the accommodation of babies.

What They Spend. It is estimated that New Yorkers spend no less than $3,000,000 in summer recreation every year.

Fiber of Silk. The fiber of silk is the longest continuous fiber known. An ordinary cocoon of a well-fed silk-worm will often reel 1,000 yards.

Memorizing. [Chicago Herald.] A professor at the university in Berlin, having tried it, says that it takes ten times as long to commit to memory eighty meaningless syllables as it does to master eighty that have meaning.

A Hindoo Loom. A Hindoo loom complete is worth 63 cents, and weaves shawls, silks and muslins, which our most expensive apparatus cannot equal.

Imitations of English Swiftdom. [Cor Kansas City Times.] Newport is to the rest of America what Louis XIV is to Benjamin Franklin!

DOG-DAYS IN RUSSIA.

FAIRY PLAYS AND OTHER ST. PETERSBURG FRIVOLITIES. Official Junketing Trips at the Public Cost—The Czar's Visit to Finland—Merry St. Petersburgers—Lively Competitive Contests.

[St. Petersburg Cor. New York Sun.] The activity of the Russian officials, to all appearances, reaches its highest point in dog-days.

On the shore of the Finnish bay, in a picturesque spot, there is a little town, Willman strand. The czar and czarina made up their minds to go there and see the sights.

At last the czar, in company with scores of general and officers, went on his Finnish journey, or, as the papers style it, "his triumphal march."

Among other official trips of this season is worth noticing that of bishops. In the city of Ka'an there met twelve bishops, each accompanied by half a dozen learned theologians.

During these dog-days the St. Petersburgers live as merrily as in any other season. The fairy play is the rage of the day here.

Now the theater goes in Arcadia and other dog days places of amusement will see charming scenes and a host of fairies; they will hear music and songs, and notice ingenious disguises, wonderful transformations, and suggestive pantomimes.

Competition in Russia is just now very lively. The czar's brother, Grand Duke Vladimir, is watching the military cook competition in preparing the soldier mess.

IMITATIONS OF ENGLISH SWIFTDOM.

Newport is to the rest of America what Louis XIV is to Benjamin Franklin! When one sees a fair lady driven about in a carriage with four horses, the leaders ridden by postillions, and with two footmen standing up behind, one rubs one's eyes and looks again to see if we are not somewhere else.

I went to Newport with a man who was very much irritated by all he saw. The folksy and address a very commonplace looking young man with: "Yes, my lord," one hesitates to believe in the permanence of democratic institutions.

It is those who neither hate us nor love us who torture us most successfully. And I fancy the ill-concealed indifference of these fashionable people is what most irritated my friend.

In spite of the theory of a bad penman who wrote a sprawling hand (was it not the first Napoleon?) that the poorer a man's handwriting is the more character it has.

A fortune awaits the man who will invent a flexible writing stick—not a gold pen tipped with platinum—of some non-corrosive material. It is so hard to break in a pen; and having worn down the points to suit your style, they are likely to snap or splutter before you have tossed off a dozen pages of manuscript.

Well, I really don't know," was the response, with a quizzical glance down at the legs of his fellow-officer, who had just got out of a chair; "but maybe he said to his orderly, 'Shorten these stirrup straps.'"

Jack Sparrow, the English "coper," is pretty well known in the trade, and many a dealer at his wits end to find a nag for a customer has been known to consult him—generally with success—though they have to keep both eyes very wide open to avoid being done up.
