Posthumous Poem of Thackeray.

King Fritz at his palace of Berlin I saw at a royal caroque; In a periwig powdered and curting

He sat with his hat on his brows. The handsome young princes were present Uncovered they stood in the hall;

And oh! It was wholesome and pleasant To see how he treated them all.

Reclined on the softest of cushions His majesty sits to his meats, The princes, like loyal young Prussians, Have pever a back to their seats.

Off salmon and venison and pheasants He dines like a monarch august ; His sons, if they eat in his presence, Fut up with a bone or a crust. He quaffs his bold bumpers of Rhenish,

It can't be too good or too dears The princes are made to replenish Their caps with the smallest of beer, And if ever by words or grimaces Their highnesses dare to complain, The King flings a dish in their faces,

Or batters their bones with his cane. 'Tie thus that the chief of our nation The minds of his children improves,

And teaches polite education By boxing the ears that he loves. I warrant they vex him but seldom, And if so we dealt with our sons,

If we up with our cudgels and felled 'ens, We'd teach 'em good manners at once. -Cornhill Magazine.

VARIETY.

To remove dandruff: Go down to Arizona and interview the Apaches.

Chicago wants to see them, and will give $75,000 each for Henry and Theodore for fifty The wicked flea. "It ain't so much the biting, if only the plaguey thing wouldn't keep getting up and sitting down all the time." Exactly. Minnie, I'm in such a quandary; for if I turn my back on Charley he becomes offended at once, and if I don't he can't see my new buckle.

When a man breaks his neck trying to get out of the way of a "lightning bug," supposing it to be the head-light of a locomotive, it is time | for him to sign the pledge.

The women cleaned the saloons out of Urbana, Ohio, and now rattlesnakes, that for fifty years tent that not a man dares stir abroad without his bottle of whisky as an antidote against the apprehended poison.

We are pamed to notice that papers taking our items, and appropriating them as their own, seek to palliate the theft by publishing a column of religious miscellany. This may look well enough in the eyes of heaven, but it don't satisfy us .-Danbury News.

"Papa, do you think Beech-" "Hush, Johnnie." "But, papa, don't you think Beech-. " "Didn't you hear me tell you to stop your noise, sir? I won't have you talking about these things. Go in and got your face washed. And dolume, with tears in his eyes, wants to know why papa won't tell him whether beech-nuts are ripe.

One of the least flattering tributes ever paid to a rising young artist have been paid to a Cineinnati dauber by a Western critic: "He possesses some merits as an artist, but it is hard to say whether it lies in landscape or marine painting; you can never tell his cows from his ships, except when they have their tails exalted, when the absence of spars betrays their character, even then they may be mistaken for schooners scudding under bare poles."

DON'T NEED IT .- An itinerent phrenologist stopped at a small farm house, the proprietor of which was busily engaged in threshing. "Sir," said he, "I am a phrenologist. Would you like me to examine the heads of your children? I will do it cheap." "Well," said the farmer, pausing between two strokes, "I don't think they need it. The old woman combs 'em with a fine tooth comb once a week.

DREAMING ON A WEDDING CAKE, - A young lady in a Pennsylvania town put a piece of wedding-cake under her pillow, and went to bed with the happy belief that she would dream of seeing her future husband. That evening, however, she had eaten two plates of ice-cream, about a pint of strawberries, several sweet cakes, and two large pickles, and she now says she would rather remain single all her life than marry the man she saw in her dream.

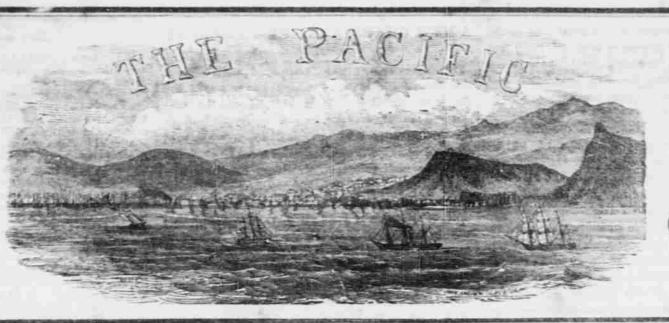

THE LOVE-LETTER OF THE FUTURE .- In view of the new theory of the scientists that the feelings are not located in one particular spot, but are distributed over the whole frame, the Boston Transcript thinks the love-letter of the future will read something like this: " Dearest: believe me, I do love you with my whole nervous organism. which pervade my undivided gray matter, and if I were conscious of a ganglion that throbbed not for thee, he sure I would not also till I had not for thee, be sure I would not sleep till I had procured its neurotomy."

A JUVENILE PUNSTER.-It is scarcely credible so perfect a pun as the one alleged in following GROCERS AND PROVISION DEALERS, incident; but its truth is certified to us by a Philadelphia correspondent. The author of it was a little girl. She was playing with her doll by the side of her mother, when, after some consideration, she said, "Mother, I wish my doll was realized." "Why, what do you mean?" her mother inquired. "Why," she replied, " you see, she has only glass eyes; I want her to have real eyes."

A SHORT TEMPERANCE LECTURE. -- The Sanitarian tells "What Alcohol Will Do," thus: "It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless true, that alcohol, regularly applied to a thrifty farmer's stomach, will remove the boards from the fence; let cattle into his crops; kill his fruit trees; mortgage his farm, and sow his fields with wild queen Street, Honolalu, U. I. oats and thistles. It will take the paint off his building, break the glass out of the windows and fill them with rags. It will take the gloss from this cluthes and polish from his manners, solidor to C. E. Williams, Henolula. his clothes and polish from his manners, subdue his reason, arouse his passions, bring sorrow and disgrace upon his family, and topple him into a drunkard's grave. It will do this to the artisan and the capitalist, the matron and the maiden, as well as to the farmer; for in its deadly enmity to the human race alcohol is no respecter of persons."

WESTMINSTER ABBEY .- Bailey, of the Danbury News, writes as follows about Westminster

You are rushed about from point to point, and from trying to store your mind with impressions you full to be looking out for your legs. You are up to your neck in romance, over your head in history, and your whole performance is a reckless and aimless effort to claw your way out. The impressions you receive are but transitory; Dry Goods, Clothing, Hats furnishing Goods, Ladies' and they come and go like a flash, and after you are they come and go like a flash, and after you are bowed out of doors you feel as if you had taken a | Capt. During that time shipped some heavy seas, doing considerable damage to sails and bulwarks; washing spars adrift from their lashings, and also filling cabin with water, the captain and mate having had a narrow escape from being washed overboard. Up to the 23d June had 8 to 8W winds, which lasted till next day. In lat 29° 37' S, long 48° 35' W, encountered a heavy SW gale with high sea which continued up to the 27th; then moderate westerly winds until the 2d July. July 3d sighted the Falkland Islands, a fresh NE wind blowing, attended with heavy snow storms which lasted up to the 5th. July 7th sighted land cast of Cape Horn, wind veering towards west and com menced to blow very strong; see rising very fast; ship labor ing very heavy and shipping a great quantity of water on deck. On the 9th, gale increased with violent squalls, in which the lower topsall yards turned jack-stay downwards and drew the same; also split middle staysall; had to lash the head of the salls around the yard and reef foresail. In lat 58° 05' S, long 72° W, experienced hard frost and snow storms, which hasted for a considerable time, after which the wind hauled to the NE, lasting a few hours, when it veered to the westward and WNW. Then commenced to blow with redoubled fory, ship laboring very heavy and taking a great quantity of water on deck. In lat 57° 32' 8, long 67° 13' W, sprung rudder head and unshipped the tiller; had great trouble in shipping tiller and securing rudder head. Experienced hard frost and very severe weather, four of the crew having had rheumatic cramps and unable to work. July 20th in lat 56 ° 50° S, long 64 ° 38° W, ship plunged heavy; carried away starboard jib-boom guys; during the gales was unable to cook anything in the galley—five hands new faid up. July 22d at noon wind shifted suddenly to the ESE, attended with heavy snow storms, causing a very cross sea. At noon on the 24th, Diego Ramerez Islands bore WNW about 15 miles; wind increased to a strong gule which lasted till the 25th, then veered to N and NE; bles very strong with high sea. on this subject.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of the recall of C. S. Mattoon, Esq., United States Consul at this port, appears to be confirmed; and it is stated that the change is made solely on the American principle of rotation in office. There certainly could exist no other reason, for Mr. Mattoon during his incumbency of four years has discharged the duties of his office in a manner that has done honor to his country and himself; and as a resident of our city he has made many and warm friends. We cordially second the suggestion thrown out by the Friend, that our government might with advantage secure the services of a gentleman of Mr. Mattoon's ability and integrity.

It is sufficiently annoying to have to put up with the Gazette's reckless utterances from week to week in our own community, but when they are credited abroad and are circulated in print to the manifest injury of the country, annoyance must give place to indignation. Here, for instance, are two paragraphs which we translate from the Courrier des Etats Unis, of New York,

July 18, and Aug. 15: "The Honolulu Gazette makes some melancholy reflections on the fact that many members of the National Assembly have been seen dead-drunk in the streets." "The Honolulu Guzette complains bitterly on account of the bad composition of the present Ministry, all the members of which, it assures us, are merely having to expose the persistent false and reckless statements of the Gazette. For instance, the editor of that paper, "after full inquiry," finds that we had no correspondent on the tour by His Majesty around Hawaii and Maui, and that " the alleged diary was cooked by some sensation monger to fill " our columns. Of whom was the inquiry made? Assuredly of no one connected with this office. We have the manuscript of the diary," which was written by a gentleman who traveled in the King's suite, and it was printed by us as furnished by the author. He was engaged by us before setting out on the journey, to supply a written account of the trip, and he was paid for his trouble, as our books will show. What he stated in regard to the evil influence exercised by the native newspaper Kuokoa, was fairly learned by him from the best of authority, in the course of the trip. The editor of the Gazette, previous to penning his item, had been credibly informed of all the above facts, of which we have the clearest and most positive proofs; and we can only account for his persistance in the falsehood by supposing that he loves it bet-

"REGARDING the discussion about the Supreme Court Bench," the Gazette "desires to say " something, and succeeds in saying very little that is pertinent. In the face of a decided public opinion, based on common sense and the plainest principles of justice, it attempts to excuse and palliate our chronic system of judicial absenteeism. The fair deduction, after reading the Gazette's brief allusion to the Bench, is that the presence of the Chief Justice in the country is not, after all, a matter of any importance-we have hitherto got along very well without him, and may do so again. "All important cases before the Court," we are informed, " will be disposed of before the Chief Justice leaves." industry and application to details of business docket of some twenty cases for the term, besides other matters of gravity to be disposed of. But we can see no reason for retracting one word of keeping the Bench full. And the Gazette itself was of that opinion not very long ago, on one of those occasions - now alas, so rare! - when common sense and clear judgment got a hearing in its columns, when it made use of the following

" The duties of the Chief Justice are of such a nature as to require his attendance at al! times. Frequent appeals to the full Bench occur, and it is not right that the public service should be delayed by the absence of either of the Judges in a foreign country."

Some two years ago or more, we called attention to the fact that in this city, the modern temples of Cloacina were pesthouses, which if allowed to go unbeeded and unregulated, would gradually cause Honolulu to lose its high reputation as a health resort. Instead of digging a pit, place this box under your water-closet. Fill an old barrel with dust swept from the highway from day to day. Keep the night-soil in the box covered thoroughly with this dust, and you will find this center of foul and disgusting odors is as free from any disagreeable smells as your parlors. In addition to this, the accumulations in the box may be removed, from time to time, as readily and with as little offense to the nostrils as remov-

The entire editorial article under here. In due time we shall hear more definitely the heading "Political Force vs. Personal Record," is so absurdly false in its assertions and inferences, and so outrageous a libel upon the Representatives (and Nobles as well) lately assembled in the Legislature of the country, that one is equally astounded at the temerity and the shamelessness of the editorial management that puts it in print. It only shows what a perverted judgment and a diseased imagination will lead some men into, who are so unfortunate as to get possession of types and a press.

> Occasional drunkenness there may have been among a few individuals in the Assembly, but we can honestly say that there was no more intemperance apparent among the members than during any session in previous years. Alt is a wicked libel, a vicious stab at the reputation of the Hawaiian people, to publish abroad to the world, as is done by the Gazette, that "Rum alone influenced the votes of our Representatives" in the Session of 1874. It is just as false to say that the lunches provided for the House "included beers and stronger drinks," as it is false and absurd to lead readers to infer that the Attorney General had anything to do with providing lunches, or with the apocryphal supplies of Rum that so fearfully haunt the dreams of the Gazette writer.

It was not to be supposed that minds of the Gazette calibre should comprehend or appreciate the value and importance of political force in public men. To such minds, the study of history is as a tale that is told, and the passage of con temporaneous events fixes on them no lessons of wisdom. They learn nothing of the necessity of political force in a Ministry from the records of a triumphant mutiny of a score of soldiers; an illconcocted and ill-managed cession scheme; a petty mob temporized with until it becomes dangerous; or a body of Representatives who openly It is becoming monotonous-this constantly exhibit their contempt for the absence of that same political force in those who seek to lead them. All this goes for naught with our shallowpated critics, while they persistently burrow among the rubbish of "private records" of pub-

Perhaps there never was a period when this country was so much in need of a full Cabinet of strong men-men of political force-as just now. The Legislature, which our contemporary so villifies, has done more than any Hawaiian Legislature ever did before, in clearing the way and affording facilities for a live Ministry to advance the prosperity of the Islands. The prospects are apparently good that an efficient embassy will be sent to the United States to negotiate for reciprocity; but it will need to be cordially supported at home by a Ministry that will be energetic and united in using every effort to carry an agreed and declared policy.

Influence of Rain-Fall on Crops.

The report by Governor Rawson upon the rain-fall of the Island of Barbadoes, lately published by the Legislature of that colony, presents a remarkable example of the practical value of meteorological observations. The mean of the yearly rain-fall in Barbadoes, on the average of the last twenty-five years (1847-1871) is established on ample data, at 57-74 inches. It appears that the rain-fall influences, almost certainly, the sugar-crop of the following year, but that of the current year only in a slight degree. In fifteen wet years, twelve were followed by crops more or less above the average, and in nine dry years eight were followed by short crops. The crop of any year may, in fact, be measured by the rain-fall of the preceding year, with such an approach to accuracy a yield of crops in each year proportionate, without any great variation, to 800 hogsheads for each inch of rain in the preceding year. His tables prove that Perhaps so; but we imagine that His Honor's the crop of the current year was by multiplying the total rain-fall of the preceding year by 800, and addwill be severely taxed, there being already a ling 74 per cent, if that year was a dry one, or reducing 71 per cent, if it was a wet one. The Governor justly remarks that the theory of the calculation and its practical application "may be of service not only what we said last week as to the necessity of to the planters of Barbadoes in particular, but to the agriculturists of other countries who have the means of comparing the relation between the rain-fall and crops (especially sugar), for which it is hoped this report will afford some useful materials and sugges-

A NEW CHAPTER IN THE TICHBORNE ROMANCE.

Stranger things have happened than that a solution of the mystery which hangs about the death of Sir Roger Tichborne, should be discovered in these Islands. A correspondent of the ADVERTISER, writing from Hilo, under date of the 22d ult., thinks he has discovered in that district the man who saw Sir Roger die, and who buried bim on Sydney Island, in the South Pacific Ocean. This island lies Southeast from the island of Rotumah, from two to three hundred miles, and is oocasionally visited by vessels in quest of biche de mer. George Claridge is the name of the man who claims to have seen the last of Tichborne. He is a person of limited educaing so much sand. If our citizens will unite in tion, being able to read but little and cannot write; he is an Englishman, and so far as our may be left to itself for many years to come. correspondent is aware, bears a good name. Recently, in looking at the engravings of the Tichborne Family in some numbers of the Illustrated London News, he pointed at that of Sir Roger and exclaimed, "That is the man whom I buried on Sydney Island !" The following is his state-

Like many others of his class in the Pacific, he had drifted about from one island to another, and in 1854, as near as he can remember, he left a ship at Rotumah. After he had been on that island some time, a schooner named the Annie, engaged in the biche de mer fishery called there. On going on board, Claridge found that she was just out from home, and that off the River Platte she had picked up a boat, containing two men in a famished condition, and they were then on board the schooner. The master of the schooner, who was a Frenchman, told Claridge that one of the rescued men was an English gentleman, very sick, and that he spoke French as well as himself. Claridge engaged to go in the schooner, to take care of the sick gentleman, and to help get a cargo. He thinks this was in the early part of 1855, but does not remember distinctly. The vessel he believes was American, but he remembers no particulars about her, nor the names of any of the Five days after leaving Rotumah, they reached Sydney Island, where they found no inhabitants, and a plenty of biche de mer. Claridge with some natives of Rotumah went ashore to pursue the fishery, and the sick gentleman at his own request was also put on shore, with everything the vessel afforded to add to his comfort. The schooner sailed away, intending to return in a short time, but Claridge has heard no tidings of her from that day to this, and conjectures that she was lost. He was some two years on the Island before it was again visited by a vessel. For some time after landing on the island, the sick gentleman said but little to any one, but as he got worse he called Claridge to him, and told him that he was near his end, and requested him to procure a quill from one of the wild birds that frequented the island, to make a pen of. He had a scrap of paper in which had been wrapped a bit of cheese from the schooner, and on this, with blood from a bird, he wrote something. This paper he gave to Claridge and told him to keep it sacred, and the first ship that came to have it copied; to keep the original himself, but by all means to make it public whenever he got to a civilized land. He then informed Claridge that his name was Roger Tichborne. This happened the tenth or twelfth day after landing on the isl-

After this, the sick man was frequently delirious, until he died about the eighteenth day after landing. In his lucid moments, he stated that he sailed from Rio in a ship deeply loaded, that she went down in a squall, and that himself and seven others got into a boat, which drifted about until all perished except himself and one other, who were forty days in the boat before being picked up. He said that if he could get to Hong Kong, he should find a plenty of friends and

In his delirium, he frequently spoke of his father, with whom he appeared to have quarreled, and he often fancied himself talking to his mother, whom he addressed in French.

Claridge kept the paper as directed, and showed it to the Captain of the ship who eventually took him from the island, but it met with no attention. After getting to Wellington Island, a New Bedford boy, named Mandell, copied a part of the writing (some of it being in French) but Claridge does not know what disposition he made of it. Claridge kept the original until eight years ago, when it was lost with other papers by the

Such is the plain, and, it appears to us, probable story of the man who belives that he buried Sir Roger Tichborne. Many of our readers have doubtless become familiar with the remarkable trial in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster in 1871, entitled Tichborne vs. Lushington, and the no less remarkable second trial of the CEIVED. Sir Roger, it will be remembered, left Rawson shows that between 1856 and 1869 there was | Europe in March, 1853, for Valparaiso. Arriving there in due course of time, he traveled across the continent to Rio de Janeiro, whence he took passage for New York in the month of April, during the period named the formula for calculating | 1854. That ship, called the Bella, is believed to have foundered at sea, the owners and underwriters having treated her as lost, but no tidings were ever heard as to the fate of her crew except that one boat identified as belonging to the Bella was met with at sea, with no one on board. The "Claimant," it will be remembered, stated in his affidavit that the Bella sprung aleak and was abandoned on the fourth day out from Rio, and that himself and eight of the crew, after being three days and nights in the boat, were picked up by a vessel called the Osprey, and landed at Melbourne in July, 1854.

The Short of a Long Story.

The New York World disposes of the Beecher-Tilton squabble in this fashion:

The least said is truly the soonest mended. Decent people who find life too short to wade through the filth of the Brooklyn scandal may like to have the pith of the case laid before them in its four cardinal points, now all in evidence, and fatally correlated by Titton to Moulton - December, 1870. Six months ago I learned from my wife that H. W. Beecher had dishonored my home. I can bear it no longer. Bring him to me that I may mention it to him Moulton to Beecher .- January, 1871. Tilton thinks you have ruined his business. Prove yourself his friend and it will be all right. You can stand on the Beecher to Moulton .- May, 1873. Pay to F. D. Tilton to Beecher .- June, 1873. To H. W. B. Grace, mercy and peace.

Philadelphia used to be thought the stamping ground of the 'cutest lawyers, but Boston appears to have one who is entitled to go up head. This Boston lawyer, under the will of a deceased wife, claimed a life interest in a large estate in Kansas, left by her, but her friends sought to break the Ascertaining that under the laws of Kansas session of the estate.

The London Daily Telegraph claims to have the soon discovered that it was a cock-and bull story instead of a dwarf-and bull-dog one. In other words, it was a boax.

Not a Success.

It has been published in this State that the soundings made by Commander Belknap, on the United States steamer Tuscarora, had demonstrated the feasibility of the proposed route for a cable between the Pacific Coast and Asia. This statement is not in accordance with the facts. Commander Belknap expresses the opinion that the project will have to be abandoned. The reasons he assigns for arriving at this conclusion are, the extraordinary depth of water, bottom not having been found in places with five miles of wire, and the rapidity and force of submarine currents. The latter were so powerful as to mutilate the apparatus, and in many cases to snap the wires used in sounding. In making his report to the Secretary of the Navy, Commander Belknap expresses his belief that, although the proposed great circle route is a failure, the discoveries made by him will be of great value to hydrographic science, as establishing the fact that depths exist in the Pacific hardly before supposed. It is almost certain that a vast thrench has been made by the Japan Stream similar to that work by the Gulf Stream in the Atlantic. We copy the foregoing from the S. F. Call of Sept. 11. The truth of the matter is probably that Commander Belknap has reported adversely to the Northern route for the cable, for the reasons given, but which do not apply to the route via these Islands.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3. NOTES OF THE WEEK.

A BAT.-A recent visitor at Lahaina informs us that he saw a genuine bat there flying about in the daytime. Where did he come from - the Gazette sanctum?

THE EQUINOCTIAL last week amounted to a heavy rain-fall at various points all over the islands. At Koolau, on this island, a freshet carried away the Kaneohe bridge. Masonic.-The regular monthly meeting of Hawaiian Lodge, No. 21, F. & A. M., will be held at their rooms in Makee's block, on Monday evening next, October 5th, at 74 o'clock. FOREMAN, No. 2 .- At a recent special meeting of "Mechanic" Engine Company No. 2, Mr. James W. McGuire was elected as Foreman, in the place of Mr.

William Love, resigned. Mr. McGuire is an experienced fireman, and has filled the position of Foreman before. A SURPRISE PARTY .- The officers of the U. S. S. Benicia gave a pleasant surprise to His Excellency the American Minister Resident, at his home in the valley on Thursday evening last, at which a brilliant

THE RAINY SEASON BEGINS .- On Thursday night and yesterday copious showers of rain fell in the city and neighborhood, and yesterday morning we had real thunder and lightning. Kauai letters say that that island was similarly visited on Sunday last Music this Afternoon.-The Band will play at Emma Square, commencing at half-past four. The following is the programme: Beautiful Ursula, March.....

EUCALYPTUS SEED .- Capt. Makee sends us from Ulupalakua a branch of Eucalyptus in blossom, with a number also of seed vessels of the same. He informs us that several of his trees have borne seed for three years past, and that in future he intends to plant more extensively than ever. This popular Australian is likely to spread all over our islands, as it is found to succeed best on high lands and mount-

FIRE AT KOHALA .- We regret to have to record the destruction by fire on the night of Sept. 21st, of the recently erected Sugar Mill on the Hinds Plantation, at North Kohala, Hawaii. Nothing of the buildings was saved, and the loss is estimated at about $10,000. The sympathies of the entire community are with Mr. Hinds who has thus lost his all, but which it is which few, however innocent, could pass unscathed. hoped may yet be found to be partially covered by insurance. Investigation may prove the fire to have his own letters and conduct so inexplicable, that been the result of incendiarism, although so far nothing has transpired to lead to that conclusion.

HAWAHAN BIRDS .- A letter from Hilo says : There is in this town a beautiful collection of Hawaiian birds, finely preserved. It would be a valuable acquisition to the Government Museum, if Mr. Mills, the gentlemen to whom it belongs, and who has been some years and at considerable expense in the work of collection, would part with it. Among the specimens is one called 'the wingless bird,' now nearly if not quite extinct on these islands. They are, however, numerous on Wake's and Laysin Islands, where I have seen them, and supposed they were a new species. The body is about the size of a pigeon's, they have no feathers on the flipper-like wings, and they run with such speed that one would take them for rats at first sight." the Boston Daily Globe of August 17, devotes a column to a flattering review of the "Report of the Secretary of the Hawaiian Immigration Society." The editor commences by saying that it seems almost impossible that within a century's time such a leap could have been made as is represented by the two facts of the slaying of Capt. Cook ninety-five years ago and the issuance of the pamphlet before him. "Add to this, that the islands possess an excellent system of common schools, support Normal Schools, had abused him while living, it was plain enough have half a dozen colleges and female seminaries, a score or more of churches, a Supreme Court, excellent hotels, and are governed in very much the same manner as the citizens of this Commonwealth, by largest and tenderest sympathy, had placed Mr.

laws enacted by a regular Senate and House of Representatives, and the impossibility seems still Kites!!! more certain." SCANDAL AND SCANDAL MONGERS, is the heading of a very sensible article in the Boston Daily Globe of a late date, commenting on Mr. Beecher's statement. We can find room to-day for only one sentence, which might well have been penned in the latitude of Honolulu: "We have seen newspapers exerting themselves to the utmost, not only to get at facts from authentic sources bearing on a case which naturally enough excited great interest, but to put in form floating rumors and give them a semblance of credibility, to obtain the surmises and opinions of all manner of people who had no right to pass judgment in the premises, and to gather up and | the following paragraph: embarrass the case with a huge mass of irrelevant gossip, merely to feed the morbid appetite for it which had been awakened." INTERESTING RELICS .- Recently the pile of coral stones which once formed the walls of the building known as the "Bungalow," on Richard street near Queen, were sold to be removed, and the corner stone was unearthed. In the cavity beneath were the remains of a tin box, in which were two newspapers, the Sandwich Island News, of April 7th, and The Polynesian, of June 12th, of the year sheet of foolscap, on which was some writing, exhave deciphered the following: "This house was erected by Theodore Shillaber, Esquire, a mer-

MR. EDITOR: The inconsistency of your contemporary of the Gazette is something wonderful. In the first part of one of his articles this week, he accuses you of slandering the foreign community, because you deprecated too close a scrutiny into private records; and then in the latter half of the article, he repeatedly says that rum, and rum alone influenced the votes of the Representatives of the people during the late Session of the Legislature. Now I call that a base slander on the Hawaiian people. now publishes to the civilized world that after fifty years of Gospel teaching and the influences of civiligation, the best men to be found among the Hawaiians those elected to the Legislature-have all sold their Notes for rum! outrageous libeller of a whole nation. Kaual, September 26th, 1874. MR. EDITOR .- In the ADVERTISER you have at intervals endeavored to bring before the attention of the people and the government the necessity of years. Also there has been from time to time articles written urging the planting of trees and clearly showing the importance of such a course to the present and future welfare of the country. Here, on Kauai, we believed that the settled wise policy of the former incumbents of the Interior Office not to lease lands for wood-cutting, was to be adhered to. We would ask, what use is there in making an effort to plant trees or forests; or why should the interests of the people of Kanai suffer for one or two schooner interests in Hono-Inlu? Since the present head of the Interior Department has been in office the cutting of timber for firewood on the government lands on Kanal has gone on at an alarming rate, and daily cargoes line were Russel & Co., of China and New York.

are leaving for Honolulu. It is generally to be supposed that a Crown Minister is in the possession of the confidence of the people; but with us here who have risked our stake in the country, we ask, have we a woodcutting ring and monoply in Honolulu-and have government officers any interest in the same?

A erop of one hundred bushels to the acre, of any grain or root, would be considered something enormous. Yet this kind of a crop is reported from Minnesota and Iowa. In the sections where the greatest devastation has been wrought, the reports estimate the grasshoppers at "one hundred bushels to the acre." Certainly not; but neither any one would sign checks, read newspapers, make bargains, indite poetry, nor deliver addresses against puffing the weed in the last hour of life. Believing that the 260 daily and weekly periodicals published in Paris, of all sizes, shapes, prices, and aims, were in-sufficient to instruct the population, a new print at one sous per number, has been produced. It endeavors to be as full of information as an egg is of ment, and as varied as an encyclopædia. Special classes are allowed to subscribe at reduced terms. The marvel is, to have the advantage of being exempted from the taxes that weigh on other publications, a favoritism which will bring the little stranger forward for a public examination in the Assembly. Among other attractions, the print has its romance; serial novel, its feuillelon. It is calculated that serial novel, its feuilleton. It is calculated that twelve millions of individuals in France, belonging foster and encourage an enterprise that promises to all classes of society, read a chapter of a romance by this means per day; or perhaps some 20 volumes per annum for a total. Now what temperament can resist this regime? and as if one story at a time was not sufficient, some journals give two. It is the part of the paper that pays best, and that must be paid for. It forms perhaps the principal intellectual food of the French; now a romance is dangerous precisely because it is a romance, and the virtuous novel is not a whit better because it creates only Don Quixotes. Also, after a romantic man, there is nothing more deplorable than a romantic nation; and the novel .which seeks the reader in France, is so cheap in form, that it is seductive. It is in addition an important means of propagandism, and the Second Empire never neglected its agency to keep alive the Napo-leonic legend, indeed a member of the Corps Legislatif defended the trash on the grounds that the who fell in the late battles around Paris. Man," France is at last resolved to deal with the rights of babies." A severe law is being prepared to subject the children given out to nurse to humane control. From the results of the Commission of Inquiry, 100,000 nourrissons die annually in France from hunger, misery, absence of care and proper surreillance. Now, we ask, why should not the rearing of Angoras be made an extensive and profitable business in this and other States? The above assertions are not made without substantial proofs of their correctness. A few days ago we saw three different pecimens of Angora fleece which commanded in England, in May last, from 47 to 94 cents per pound, gold, according to grade, and the specinens were inferior in quality to fleece from the

It would be an incalculable blessing if this gum tree accomplished what is hoped for it, and changed those fever-stricken, uninhabitable plains into salubrious and pleasant abodes for busy men. It is claimed to emit a fragrant antispeptie, camphorate effluvia; as it grows with extraordinary rapidity, it engages from the decaying vegetable matter in the ground the poison called malaria, and discharges the pure aqueous moisture into the air. It further acts to produce a shade, and thereby lowers the temperature in Summer, which causes the water in the soil to stagnate more slowly; and any delay to stagnation is a gain to health. The French expect to revolutionize the climate; productions and salubrity of Algeria with it; and the Romans are fondly hoping that it may eventually be the means of restoring health in Summer within her walls, and rendering hospitable once more their fertile Campagna over which disease and death have so long brooded.
