NISEI CREED TOWARD UNITED STATES PLACED IN CONGRESS RECORD BY SENATOR THOMAS

SALT LAKE CITY U. S. CITIZEN OF JAPANESE DESCENT, MIKE M. MASAOKA, IS AUTHOR OF CREED

The Japanese-American Creed, written by Mike Masaoka, Chairman of the Intermountain District Council of the Japanese American Citizens League, has been made a part of the Congressional Record.

In his letter to National JACL President Saburo Kido, Senator Thomas stated: "I was very happy to have had the opportunity of introducing this in the Record and I am taking the liberty of enclosing herewith for your interest a copy of my remarks."

Tribute Paid Nisei Creed

Senator Thomas paid a glowing tribute to the Nisei leader of Salt Lake City when he introduced the Creed in the Senate.

"I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the Appendix of the Record the Japanese-American Creed, which has come to be accepted as representing the true sentiments of American citizens of Japanese ancestry."

"The author of this creed is a young friend and constituent of mine, Mike M. Masaoka of Salt Lake City. . . Mr. Masaoka has made a splendid record, having served in many community activities, such as the community chest, the Red Cross, and the infantile paralysis drive.

"I am sure Senators will agree with me that the Japanese-American Creed reflects the true American spirit and the American way."

Widely Published In U. S. The Japanese-American Creed was first published in the Intermountain District Convention program last December. It has been widely acclaimed and quoted by the Japanese and American newspapers and magazines.

Together with the National JACL resolutions introduced in the House of Representatives by Representative Anderson of San Benito County, the Japanese-American Creed will be a splendid manifestation and testimonial of the Nisei's stand. For those legislators who come from states where few Nisei reside or have had little con-

EDUCATIONAL FUND OF $100,000 SET AS GOAL

The $100,000 Endowment Fund Drive of the National JACL will be underway throughout the 51 chapters. The first honor belongs to the latest member admitted to the organization, the Idaho Falls chapter of Idaho. The representatives of the chapters decided to donate the entire amount to the National Endowment Fund as a gesture of the three chapters' full support for the drive.

Chairman Thomas Yege of Newcastle has announced that the goal by the 1942 National Convention time will be $25,000. The quota for each chapter has been set as an average contribution of $1 for every paidup member of 1940.

Quota for Chapter Set The 1938 National Convention set the quota to be raised by each chapter. The largest amount is expected to be raised by Los Angeles, the sum being set as $15,000. SEE THE UP TO THE MINUTE REFRIGERATORS IMMEDIATELY

By Mrs. EDITH F. ELLIOT

Probably you have read time and again the good new features of every succeeding year's model of refrigerators. And perhaps you have thought wistfully that the advantages were really luxuries and you couldn't afford luxuries. But did you ever stop to think of the advantages your old refrigerator or ice box doesn't have—the economies you don't get in your time and cost of operating your old refrigerator? For instance:

Do you get impatient trying to remember when to turn on the refrigerator again after defrosting so that the food doesn't spoil? Well, the latest model boxes have motors that will start up when defrosting is pau and make the unit cold enough to keep foods perfectly. Save time—saves food—saves money.

The irritating sound effects of old refrigerators are signs of higher fuel consumption as well as being a source of annoyance. You need a doctor's stethoscope to hear the operation of a first class modern refrigerator. Sound destroying insulation, highly efficient freezing units and the absence of the cooling fan, once necessary, now makes the G. E. and

SCRIPPS-HOWARD DAILY SEES OFFICIAL WASHINGTON READY FOR U. S.-JAPAN PEACE TALK

Diplomacy and Military Strategy Dictate Both Countries Should Conclude A Mutually Beneficial Pact

WASHINGTON, May 30—Under the title "Good News For Japan" the Scripps-Howard Daily News says one of the more surprising features of President Roosevelt's fireside chat was not what was said but what was left unsaid, notably the avoidance of any verbal attack against Japan.

ROOSEVELT, A REALIST

The Japanese should not twist this to mean that Washington is scrapping its Pacific policy; to the contrary, they should know that the recent reinforcement of Pacific bases with planes needed elsewhere constitutes the best proof that the United States is not pursuing any panty-waist policy.

As a realist, the President knows neither the United States nor Japan wants war nor profit therefrom. There is no reason to believe that the President would fail to cooperate with many of Japan's plans envisaging an honorable peace in the Pacific.

Secretary Hull's recent statement that peace aims may or may not be on the way supports the kind of international economic justice for "have not" nations which the Japanese have been demanding these many years.

US-JAPAN CANNOT AFFORD WAR

There is little analogy between the American Monroe Doctrine and one Japan is trying to impose on China and in the south Pacific, but there is enough truth in Japan's case to cause endless words unless she is permitted to develop peacefully under a system of economic cooperation such as Hull emphasized. In case such an understanding is arrived at, it might provide a realistic basis whereby Washington and Tokyo could work together for peace and order.

Apart from the obvious future benefits of such cooperation, there are immediate reasons why neither government can afford to continue the drift towards war. Every dictate of diplomacy, military strategy and common sense on both sides calls for peace in the Pacific.

JAPANESE-DUTCH INDIES PACT TO REACH CLIMAX SOME TIME DURING FIRST WEEK IN JUNE

NEI AUTHORITIES ASK FOR POSTPONEMENT OF CONVERSATIONS DUE TO FAST-CHANGING INTERNATIONAL SITUATION

TOKYO, May 31—In an exclusive international radio-telephone interview with the newspaper Yomiuri, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, 67-year-old leader of Japan's economic delegation to the Netherlands East Indies yesterday stated that next week would likely prove the "peak of conversations for better or worse."

The delegate, whom Miles Vaughn, former United Press far eastern correspondent called one of Japan's most patient diplomats, said that he was hopeful of meeting with NEI authorities either on June 5th or 6th.

NEI Answer Is Delayed

Yoshizawa said that while Netherlands East Indies failed to explain their request for postponement of their answer to Japan's final proposals, this was undoubtedly due to the rapidly changing international situation which they wished to study closely.

Outside of conversations, the Dutch officials are most friendly, Yoshizawa said.

Answering Yomiuri's question whether Anglo-American pressure affected the Netherlands East Indies' policy, Yoshizawa replied that Dutch authorities told him that their diplomacy was entirely autonomous and did not depend on United States or Britain.

ESCAPE from HEARTBREAK

by MARGARETTA BRUCKER

Valerie Wentworth, clerk in a department store in the town of Pelton, foolishly elopes with Phil Prescott, son of the owner of the store. When she learns that he means to keep the marriage a secret, they quarrel and, shortly afterward, she hears that his mother has persuaded him to have it annulled. Broken-hearted, she leaves Pelton and goes to New York, hoping to become a model. Terry Sullivan, reporter, lends her the money for a training course, and arranges for her to live with a model named Dot Turner. She falls in love with Terry, but his attitude toward her is very casual. Dot is hoping to land a big job through her friend Duke Maxwell, orchestra leader, whose father heads an advertising agency. She becomes jealous when he shows an interest in Valerie. The latter is flattered by his interest but, not wishing to antagonize Dot, she snubs him. Then, one evening, while working temporarily in the checkroom of the night club where his orchestra plays, she sees him again.

CHAPTER XVII

"HELLO," Duke said. "What are you doing here?"

Valerie, recovering her composure, said archly, "Can't you see?"

Duke laughed. "Well, in any case, it's a pleasant surprise." He leaned over the counter. "Look—I'm busy until one o'clock but, then, my assistant takes over. What about a dance later?"

Valerie felt herself tingling with excitement, but she feigned cool indifference.

"I couldn't possibly—I can't leave my job."

"When do you get through?" Duke persisted.

"Not for a long time."

"Well, you shouldn't go home alone."

Then, without explaining this statement, Duke walked off with two men who had been waiting for him.

Valerie turned to find the other check-girl staring at her in open-mouthed astonishment.

"Gee!" the girl gasped enviously. "Where did you meet him?"

"He's a friend of a friend of mine," Valerie replied, with a careless shrug.

SHE felt sure that Duke planned to meet her later and offer to take her home, but she told herself that she mustn't let him. Dot would be simply furious!

How was she to avoid him? She tried to think of some excuse for leaving early, but she could think of no valid reason. Besides, it would be unfair to leave the other check-girl when they were so rushed.

In the end, she stayed on until two o'clock. Then, the manager came and said that the other girl could manage alone until closing time.

Valerie counted over the money she had made in tips—decided she could be extravagant and take a taxi home.

Outside, as she had expected, she found Duke waiting.

"At long last," he said mischievously.

He took hold of her arm and gently propelled her toward his car—opened a door invitingly. Valerie hesitated. It seemed silly to return to step into the car.

"Just regard this as a taxi—maybe your own car," Duke said. He drew himself up stiffly. "Well, to, madam?"

Valerie laughed, and got into the car.

"Home, James," she said, climbing into the car.

When Duke had slipped into the driver's seat beside her, he drove for several blocks without speaking.

Then, he asked suddenly, "Why don't you like me?"

"Who said I didn't?" Valerie countered.

"Actions speak louder than words. You must admit you've acted as though you didn't."

Valerie shrugged. "I don't think about you at all."

"What a pity," said Duke, with a sigh.

HE REFUSED to take her straight home, but the ride he suggested was just a short run through the park.

"There's lot to see in New York," he hinted, "and lots to do."

"For one who has leisure," Valerie agreed.

"Busy these days?"

"Very."

"So you're training to be a model?" Duke glanced at her. "I might help you, you know. My dad's advertising agency is getting ready for a big campaign for Nomad cigarettes. Maybe you know."

"Yes—Dot told me."

Duke frowned, and was silent a minute. "I haven't had the nerve to tell Dot, but she's not going to be used as the model, after all. The original plan for the campaign has been thrown out, and Dot's the wrong type for the new set-up."

"Oh, that's a shame!" Valerie was genuinely dismayed. "Dot was counting so much on that job. She'll be terribly disappointed!"

"I know, but it can't be helped. That's the way things go in the modeling game." Duke paused, then went on. "But look here, I've been turning something over in my mind. I believe you'd be just the type for this new stuff they're planning. How would you like for me to suggest you to my dad?"

Valerie gasped. "Me?"

"Sure. A new face always makes an appeal. I'd be your discoverer."

VALERIE'S heart skipped a beat. For an instant, she visioned her picture in every national magazine—saw it smiling down from billboards. She'd be made overnight! In one step, she'd be in line for top-flight work!

Then, she checked such dizzying thoughts. Why, of course she couldn't accept Duke's offer! She couldn't take the job that Dot had expected!

"No," she said flatly.

"Because of Dot?" Duke asked. She nodded.

"I see your point but, after all, Dot doesn't qualify and she ought to be fair enough to prefer seeing you get the chance than some stranger."

"I couldn't," said Valerie.

"When will you be through with your training?"

"In about four weeks."

"Well, look—let me see if I can fix things with Dot. I think I can. In the meantime, say nothing—and work hard. Maybe I can arrange it."

"Thank you, but—well, I wish you wouldn't," Valerie said.

When she reached home and let herself into the apartment, she was thankful that Dot was asleep and couldn't ask her questions that might have proved embarrassing.

She was filled with a feeling of guilt. Though she tried to convince herself that there was no harm in letting Duke bring her home, she was unsuccessful. If she had turned him down, that would have been the end of Duke Maxwell. Now—she had even listened while he suggested that she take Dot's place in the Nomad job. It was disloyal—although she had never said anything before she fell asleep, she vowed that she would have nothing to do with Duke.

SAME ENGINES FOR 1942 AUTOS APPEAR LIKELY

NEW MODELS PROBABLY WILL HAVE ONLY BODY CHANGES

DETROIT, — New model automobiles next fall will have the usual body style changes but very small, if any, variations in the motors, unofficial sources believe.

While no company can forecast the trend of national defense requirements in the automotive industry, William S. Knudsen, production chief, already has warned industrialists not to plan any changes requiring new machine tools. Concerns manufacturing machine tools are swamped with orders, mostly from aircraft companies attempting to expand production in this vital phase of defense.

Changes in motor design would necessitate new layouts of machine tools, but new body styles are stamped out by dies which at present are not needed for defense production. The large die shops has been asked of it for production now are in their seasonal slack period awaiting orders from the motor industry.

Despite talk of suspending production on 1942 models to devote all facilities toward defense, there is little likelihood of this occurring, according to the general belief here. The only point where defense and auto production conflict is in the machine tool shops and the obvious solution is to give defense the priority. Outwardly, next year's cars are likely to appear as different as they always do.

It is believed that some manufacturers even may gamble on an attempt to introduce some changes in engines for 1942. It has been reported here that some companies have been rushing plans for 1942 models in hope of obtaining new machinery before President Roosevelt issues possible priority orders.

Basic changes in auto powering, however, are believed to be absolutely out except in companies that make their own machine tools. Even those exceptions might be caught by a priority order in the midst of their own retooling jobs if they decide to go forward with

BARBER WRITES THREE MARCHES TO STIR ARMY

BOSTON—Just in case you are wondering whatever became of the corney barber-shop chord, here is the answer. Pasquale De Cesare, a Dorchester barber, has given it a six-to-the-bar treatment with a little off the top and lots of brass.

No sooner had Warrant Officer Ernest B. Walford, leader of the Yankee Division's 181st Infantry band, publicly lamented the dearth of a few "stirring marches that really stir," than up popped Pasquale waving a hot towel in one hand and three hot marches in the other.

"These are marches as are marches," declared the barber. "And have they got brasses!" De Cesare's brassy "Leader of the American Spirit," dedicated to President Roosevelt, hasn't yet been auditioned, but he makes it plain that, compared with his brass treatment, the trumpet chorus from "Aida" is just a whisper in the hills.

The stocky, bright-eyed barber has completed the arrangements of three of his marches and is working now on a fourth, titled, "Americans Are Marching." This one, he says, has got more brass than a convention of con-men.

The industry is giving all that of trucks, tanks, airplane engines and machine guns, the major items needed from the auto factories.

General Motors Corporation, Chrysler Corporation, the Ford Motor Company and Reo, Inc., are rolling trucks and various types of army cars off assembly lines on schedule. Construction of Chrysler's tank plant is progressing on schedule, while the same is true of Ford's and the Packard Motor Car company's airplane engine factories. General Motor's preparations for machine gun manufacture are going smoothly.

Thus it seems that Knudsen's appeal for "speed and more speed" was directed at the machine tool shops which have huge backlogs of orders for tools urgently needed for tank, machine gun and airplane engine manufacture. A shortage of skilled workers in this industry has caused a bottleneck in production plans at several vital points.

FOOD STAMPS TO AID 5,000,000 WILL BE URGED

EXPANSION TO DOUBLE RECIPIENTS SOUGHT BY MID-MARCH

WASHINGTON, —The administration is putting renewed effort behind rapid expansion of the stamp plan for distributing surplus food and clothing to the nation's 20,000,000 persons on relief.

Coupled with the defense program re-employment, the stamp plan is expected to raise the living standard of the nation's one-third who are under-privileged to at least the minimum for health requirements.

The Federal Surplus Marketing Administration, which has charge of the stamp plan, expects to be distributing free stamps for food and clothing to at least 5,000,000 persons by mid-March. Approximately 2,750,000 persons are receiving the stamps now.

400 Million Sought

The Agriculture Department has proposed a plan for expansion to include 15,000,000 persons next year, if Congress votes $500,000,000 for that purpose. Administrative plans have been prepared for the expansion.

The stamp plan enables participating families to increase their food buying power 50 per cent. Records show they have used the free blue stamps to increase butter purchases 14 per cent; eggs, 14; flour, 17; cereals, 17; vegetables, 11; fruits, 13, and pork products, 31.

The blue stamps are being used to dispose of 2,000,000 pounds of butter, 3,000,000 dozen eggs, 17,500,000 pounds of flour, 7,500,000 pounds of cereals, 10,000,000 pounds of beans, cabbage and tomatoes and 3,500,000 pounds of other vegetables into relief homes each month.

The plan is now reaching only about 15 per cent of the 20,000,000 persons on relief. Full expansion would result in a sharp increase in demand for farm products and greatly improve the diet of participating families, officials said.

Plan 19 Months Old

Latin Americas Offer Japanese Big Opportunity

TOKYO — The exploitation of mineral resources in South America by the Japanese is welcomed by the people there, according to Shoen Katsuno, mining engineer, who returned here from South America recently.

Mr. Katsuno was dispatched by the Pacific Applied Mineralogy Society in July, 1938 to South America, in order to instruct the Japanese residents there on how to develop mines.

"The Peruvian Raw Cotton Company, which is under Japanese management, took a hand in the development of gold, silver and copper mines in that country in February last year.

"Needless to state, almost all of the large mining companies in Bolivia and other countries are being operated by American capital, but there are many opportunities still open for the Japanese.

"A preference for Japanese guidance in the development of mines is noticeable among mine-let owners in the territory," he concluded.

months ago, is past the experimental stage. The cotton stamp plan, now only six months old, is proving equally effective, officials declare. Fewer than 100,000 persons, however, are benefitting from the cotton stamp program.

In suggesting a $400,000,000 stamp plan appropriation for next year the department said farm income would be raised by at least that amount through a larger market, and perhaps higher prices, for farmers.

Full expansion of the food stamp plan to all low-income families (those having an income of $1,000 or less a year) would cost about $1,000,000,000 a year, the department estimated. That would include approximately 35,000,000 persons, the number which President Roosevelt has said are undernourished.

Congress appropriated $235,000,000 for removal of farm surpluses this fiscal year. About $100,000,000 of that will be used for the stamp plans. The remainder will be used for direct distribution through state relief agencies, for school lunches and export subsidies.

Buddy Baer was disqualified in the seventh when his handlers refused to leave the ring at the bell.

"Joe Louis hit Buddy Baer at the bell, and not afterwards" began Donovan.

"I want to get that straight right from the start. There was no question about it in my mind," he added. The popular referee, however, admitted that this was the toughest situation that he has faced in his 16 years as referee. In his own words this is what happened.

"Hoffman (Baer's manager) rushed up to me and wanted me to disqualify Louis, claiming the blow was struck after the bell. I told him to go back to his corner and that his fighter would have to come out for the next round.

"I waited 10 seconds before the start of the seventh round and told Hoffman and Baer's handlers to leave the ring. They didn't answer me."

"When Joe Louis came out for the seventh, Donovan held him back and insisted that Baer's handlers leave the ring. They refused so, Donovan disqualified Buddy and awarded the fight to Joe Louis.

"I made my decision and I am sticking by it," said Donovan.

To the ringsiders comment on the blow being struck after the bell, Donovan added.

"Now suppose, as some thought, that the blow was on its way before bell sounded, but that it did not strike until after the bell. That still would be a legal blow."

"Suppose also, as some claim, but with whom I absolutely do not agree, that Louis hit Baer after the bell. In that case, it would have been a matter for my own discretion. If I thought Louis did it deliberately, then I would have had to disqualify him. But, it would be virtually impossible to prove it was deliberate. If there was no deliberate intent, the most I could have done in such a case would have been to take the round from Louis as a warning to him. And if Baer couldn't have come out for the seventh round, then I would have counted him out in his corner."

Arthur Donovan also pointed out that the Heavyweight Title is too big a prize in pugilism to be allowed it to be won or lost in that fashion, particularly when a man, Baer, was apparent on his way out.

Donovan said that the responsibility was all his and not that of the judges. He concluded.

"My decision stands. It is final. There is no appeal from my decision as far as I am concerned."

FINAL RELAY RACE DECIDES BIG SWIMFEST

GODFREY KANG VOTED OUT STANDING HONOLULU SWIMMER

Three rousing cheers to Charles "Sparky" Kawamoto and the Hawaii swimming team!

Winners of the big inter-island dual swimming meet between Hawaii and Yoshito Sagawa's Nuuanu Y stars held yesterday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. at the pool back of Pier I in Hilo harbor. The final score was Hilo 39 1-2, Honolulu 33 1-2.

A large crowd of interested fans took advantage of the clear weather to see Hilo's best come through in the 200 yards relay race, the final and deciding event on the program, to win the meet by a close margin. Hilo led by just one point, 34 1-2 to 33 1-2, as the relay got going and a win for Honolulu would have reversed the team standing outcome.

In coping the meet yesterday, Hilo's swimmers turned in a sparkling performance taking five of the nine open events listed on the program, coming through first in the 150 yards backstroke, the 220 yards breaststroke, the 50 freestyle, the 100 yards freestyle, and the final 200 yards relay.

Honolulu swimmers won in the 300 yards medley relay, the 220 and 440 yards races, and the 150 yards individual medley.

Close Race

In the most exciting races of the day, James Mahuna of Hilo barely outouched James Takano of Honolulu in the 100 yards freestyle after swimming neck and neck all the way; and Hisayoshi Fujino nosed out Fred Volberg for first place in the 50 yards sprint race for all Hilo finish. The times were 60.9s and 27.9s, respectively.

Nuuanu's ace freestylist, Godfrey Kang, won in a close duel with Masami Takahata of Hilo in the 220 open, finishing in 2m 30.6s; while teammate Kaoru Oka beat Shizuo Sumida of Hilo in the 150 yards medley race in the time of 2m 4.3s. In the other Nuuanu Y victories Robert Sumida took the 440 in 5m 48.3s, while their medley relay team of Godfrey Kang, James Takano, and James Koizumi took the three-man event in 3m 28.6s.

Hilo Winners

Hilo's other winning performances were turned in by Susumu Miyamoto in the 150 yards backstroke (time: 1m 58.3s), Toshiyuki Murata in the 220 yards breaststroke (time: 3m 10.6s), and the 200 yards relay team composed of H. Fujino, S. Miyamoto, M. Takahata, and James Mahuna (time: 1m. 40.2s).

Trophies Awarded

Although losing the meet, Honolulu will bring home four of the seven awards made at the pool yesterday. The visitors' honors include: the James Kealoha goodwill trophy to Coach Yoshito Sagawa; the Charles Takahata medley relay trophy presented to Godfrey Kang; the Moses and Co. 220 yards freestyle award to Godfrey Kang; and the Edwin Desha outstanding swimmer award to Godfrey Kang.

Hilo retained the B. F. Schoen backstroke trophy which was won by Susumu Miyamoto; the Sam Spencer 200 yards relay trophy presented to Masami Takahata; and Honolulu's award to the outstanding local freestylist, to Masami Takahata.

Hilo's victory and the performances of the various swimmers yesterday clearly indicated that there are potential champions among the youth of this town, and all they need are better competitive swimming facilities and faster competition of the type provided by the visiting Nuuanu Y team members, together with course with the backing of the sports fans of the town.

OPEN RESULTS

300 yards medley relay: won by Oahu (G. Kang, J. Takano, J. Koizumi), Hilo No. 1, second; Hilo No. 2, third. Time: 3m 28.6s.

Tripleheader in Commercial Loop

Teams in the HRC commercial softball league were slated to meet in a triple-header at Mocheau Park this afternoon beginning at 1:30 p. m. in games that will decide the title chances of three of the teams playing.

The three contests are in their order: Amfac vs. Helco, County vs. Waiakea Mill, and Davies vs. Canec.

Helco and Canec must win to keep in the running, having already lost one each; while County's unbeaten two-game record will be at stake against the Millers. Amfac, Waiakea Mill, and Davies are definitely out of the title picture.

TESTS PROMISE LARGE SOURCE OF MAGNESIUM

lighter than aluminum. When combined with aluminum it forms a light weight, high strength alloy used widely in the aircraft industry. The increasing use of magnesium alloys boosted production of magnesium from 114,464 pounds in 1930 to 2,365,260 pounds in 1939.

"Because of the national defense program, domestic production and consumption of magnesium in 1941 and 1942 is expected to reach unprecedented levels," the bureau said.

Defense officials point out that the trend in airplane construction is toward wider use of magnesium alloy products since their great strength and relative lightness make for the greater speed and maneuverability needed in modern combat planes. In addition, the munitions industry needs magnesium to manufacture tracer bullets, star shells, flares and bombs.

CLASS B TO OPEN SEASON WITH 3 GAMES

LONE JUNIOR GAME BETWEEN OLA AND 299th INFANTRY

Only four games are scheduled for Sunday in the HRC baseball league as class B teams show for the first time following interruption of their openers last week.

In class B contests at two fronts, Kalaoa and Dairyman are booked to pry off the lid in the 9:00 o'clock game down at Hoolulu Park; while in double-header matches at Hilo Intermediate, beginning at 12:30 p. m., Waiakea Mill meets Panaewa CCC and Hilo CYO stacks against Pihoonua.

The opening matches scheduled for last Sunday have been postponed to the close of the series.

Showing in the lone junior league tussle of the day are the 299th Infantry stars and Olaa, said game to be played down at Hoolulu Park at 9:00 a. m. All other junior matches were postponed as Kaumana field will be unavailable for games all day.

No inkling as to the relative strengths of the class B teams is available but it is expected that the six clubs entered will make a mad scramble for the crown which was left vacant by Amateurs, who moved up into the junior bracket after taking the title in 1940.
