LIFE-PRESERVER LAW ENFORCED

Yachts Couldn't Go on Cruise
Without Obeying the Regulations.

When the yacht club members were getting up yesterday's regulations to Paul Harris, they found Uncle Sam's inspectors at hand and better camping on their track. The inspectors demanded that the schooner Lani and the sloop Maudslowi would have to be provided with life preservers, hats, etc. The change in regulations and the curious of orders were a check but when the inspectors had a look at the regulations, when the club members had been furnished for the last time with more trouble.

The inspectors found the life preservers, hats, and such things were not and would have to be destroyed. The life preservers were destroyed by the inspectors. Then a number of the preservers were borrowed and returned. Then came with more trouble. The preservers have the shape of a vessel which was for the Maudslowi and the Lani. The hats and caps were painted and the hats and Maudslowi painted on Friday. The yacht club boys got the things straightened out, signed clearances and then a big crowd to Pearl Harbor yesterday.

ABOUT READING AND MARKING

It is an advice to read and mark, and mark a student makes the second opinion, trouble, and how it goes at that. Reading with a pencil is, however, advocated by a popular novel writer, who finds that her best loved books are the most underlined and annotated. And that to lend these volumes to a friend or to read such a book belonging to a friend is as good as personal talk. Indeed, one may say that it is often better than face to face conversation. Here one's quiet store of knowledges, matched with the author's, as they open direct talk can never die. The writer's book, however, out to his pen, as he did not do in passing that, and the two readers meet so close together, of the highest and truest that each has seen.

Down on the marks, look is some, down each to be owned, the much like an in-hand comparison will say the wrong thing at the wrong moment. The marked book allows the reader of the marked to be able to find the reading enjoyment, interesting story. There's a great deal to be said for marking to a book or to a track, or to a piece of property, some of marking is to give, but taking what the owner wishes of the hour in marking is to give, to give and receive. The marked passage may distract from the sentence loss in it, which is the usual accident, though it may be the finding of things, have it done before than the usual method. When a question is asked, "What shall I do?" the answer is, "What shall I do?" This is the way to get the best of individual thought and the wisdom of the family opening.

VIA SUBMARINE TO THE POLE.

Paul Harris comes the following interesting suggestion: "The old idea of reaching the pole, not by submarine, as was proposed, but by the Japanese Navy's vessel of 7,000 tons, the Japanese Navy's vessel, the 'Mikasa' has been revived. The suggestion is that Dr. Kemp, the well known inventor, has resolved to make the attempt. It is said that he has been working for a number of years on the project and that he will build a submarine of his own design. It will be capable, it is asserted, of remaining under water at a great depth for a long period. Dr. Kemp has been patented and patented in all civilized countries the different apparatus by means of which he hopes to take his soundings and borings when deeply submerged.

Upon arrival at San Francisco the party will proceed by rail to New York, via Chicago, and take steamer on May 21 for London, where they are expected to arrive on June 8 after a short stay in Liverpool. The party will stay in London for ten days, and return home via Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg and Tientsin, arriving at Mosh on July 12.

SUGAR PLANTATION IN KONA IS PLANNED

YOKOHAMA, March 5.—General Uchiyama, president of the Oriental Colonization Company, is quoted by the Maaui Times as stating that among the various enterprises to be started by the company is a sugar plantation. Investigations made by the company reveal the fact that the districts between Seai and Phongsang are most suited for the cultivation of sugar cane. The company is therefore determined to start work in those districts in 1911, Korean farmers to be largely employed.

BOTTLES DATE BACK

Although the oldest bottles known were made of skins, glass bottles are represented on Egyptian monuments which are more than 4000 years old, while as early as the Pharaoh of the Exodus there were bottles made of bronze, silver, gold, porcelain and alabaster, which from their superior workmanship and elegant design go to prove that even at that period the art of bottle making was by no means in its infancy.—London Globe.

- Regatta -

crowded to the quays with merry makers, fan, food and frolic, the yachts and launches that yesterday took place in the regatta of the Hawaiian Yacht Club sailed from the foot of their street to Pearl Harbor, spilling good humor and exhilaration all the way along. Starting at 10 in the morning the last of the boats did not return until almost seven last night with the same amount of money as ever, and horses, a little more tired and a few years to their credit in the National Bank of Napa.

Some of the three hundred people who made the trip returned by the train yesterday afternoon, unwilling to reach home after dark, but the majority sticking by the boats that had carried them out and ending the day as they had begun, on the water.

At nine o'clock sharp six men were left the Marble Boat Club on the first race of the day from Honolulu harbor to Pearl Harbor. Although the crowd awaited them at the boat house in Pearl Harbor, the finish was as exciting as any that took place yesterday. The cup, which is the winner by George Turner was annexed by Bowen's crew, a pretty little boat that was not far enough in the lead of her competitors to laugh at them.

The Moholl and the Laka, the former towing the latter, were the last to arrive in the scene, and Vice Commodore King was forced to start the rowing races before they dropped anchor opposite the boat house. There was some misunderstanding on the part of Commodore Jaeger. According to arrangements made previously he was supposed to stand by and use the Kalamau II in towing off the passengers of the other boats to the shore, but instead he continued with his party on board the Kalamau II, and left the others marooned on ship board. The day, being the captain of the Moholl, stepped in and became the hero of the day, rescuing the party by means of the little launch Kalamau.

Nothing so sinister as the dark boat, which was in the bay as a boat house, was passing the Pearl Harbor. The Kalamau II was at the boat house with his own party on board, and the passengers who were bound to make the trip with him were waiting for their boat on the Miller wharf at the foot of Fort street. He had already started out of the harbor when King noticed him and he finally returned and took the people on board.

The man who was supposed to direct the affairs of the boat had made a mistake, bringing them to the Oceanic wharf instead where they were looked up, Commodore Jaeger was not on hand and the crew carried up to him for them. When they found them they had to get a watchman to unlock and then waited for the half hour's delay in starting.

Soon after the Moholl and the Laka dropped anchor in Pearl Harbor, the two six-oared barges rowed by crews from the Oahu College and the High School came to the end of an exciting race at the boat house. The High School crewmen won by a narrow margin in the midst of a volley of cheers.

Following the six-oared barge race, one of four-oared barges rowed by two Myrtle crews, the Alia M., rowed by Captain Lytle's own crew, won 62.

The most exciting race of the day came off when the sea was used in opposition to the landmen and started on their headquarters race around the harbor. They went from the boat club to the lower end of Pearl Island, to the base of the Peninsula, to the Marble Quay off the Peninsula, to the Miller wharf and back to the boat house. The first boat to cross the line was the Racing Club, McHenry's crew. Next in order came the Gallant, Wilder and then the crews of Charlie Wilder and H. J. King. The whole course the crews had to make in a bunch and all finished in a bunch.

While the races were in progress, Captain Naylor was acting as a caterer on the shore to a large number of hungry spectators and under his direction many quantities of "gravy" were supplied with amazing rapidity. There was no time for the swimming race for by the time the crews had been pulled off it was getting late. The party broke up in degrees, those who were going on the water leaving earlier and those who were going to the shore and departing earlier were gone.

The day was marked by some of the most spirit to be pulled off by the water club will be a "Night in May" some time next month. From this program plans it promises to be as good as a night in the regatta which has just been pulled off.

Tomorrow morning, says the harbor,

Sport Notes

The second game of the Triangular League was played yesterday afternoon between the Liberty and the Minors clubs. The results of the battle were the heavy hitting of the Minors, although they were defeated by the close score of 7 to 4. Their creek catcher and pitcher failed to turn out. Wong and Manager Pong also went some where else to have a good time instead of showing up to represent their team. Next week the Minors will cross bats with the Vineyarders.

The Chinese Main Club will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening, at its clubhouse, Merchant street, at eight o'clock. All members are urgently requested to attend as important business will be transacted.

The Kowala baseball nine yesterday defeated the Ewa Plantation League at Ewa by a score of 8 to 0. The Kowala benches were thirsting for blood and were stimulated by their defeat of the Ewa five days some time ago. They put a good one over on the farmers and will probably rest satisfied, if said farmers let them.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

It would be a refreshing innovation in local politics if those who are announcing themselves as candidates for the various elective offices would take the public into their confidences as to why, in their opinions, the public should elect them to office.

It is very early in the game, nearly eight months before any nominating convention will be held, but it is not too early to hear what the plans of the prospective candidates may be.

To be the mayor of Honolulu is to be the business head of a great corporation, and to hold the position in a way to benefit the community requires some brains, some definite ideas, some executive plan and the business sense and moral backbone to carry out such a plan.

It is presupposed that the Democrats will nominate Mayor Fern. He is said to be a "strong" candidate. Before the convention, however, and at least before the election, it will only be an act of common sense on the part of the voters to review Mayor Fern's official actions and consider whether, in a business way, he has earned his salary or not.

Is it not about time, now that the season for selecting the business heads for the municipality is approaching, to apply a few ordinary business principles to the business of the city?

What is true of the mayor and the mayoralty candidates is true in regard to every other department of the municipal government and to the territorial government as well.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN AS ALLIES.

In the Russian Duma last Wednesday a member attacking the government declared that Russia was practically in alliance with Japan and was pursuing a policy, in accord with Japan, which was antagonizing China and might lead to dangerous complications.

The Mainichi Dempo alleges that besides the effects of the Anglo-Russian entente and the increasing Russo-Japanese cordiality in connection with the cooperation for joint traffic by railways and steamers, the recent American proposal for the neutralization of the Manchurian railways has incidentally convinced the statesmen in Japan and Russia that their interests are identical.

The Mainichi Dempo is authority for the statement that a new compact is likely to be reached between Russia and Japan in order to further strengthen the Japanese agreement signed last year. Since the issue of the American proposal for the neutralization of the railways in Manchuria, it has been ascertained that the policy of both countries in Manchuria is nearly identical.

Just at the time that this was published in Japan, accusing the American secretary of state of helping to bring about an alliance between Japan and Russia, Knox was attacked in congress on the same grounds.

THE SITUATION AT WASHINGTON.

The business of congress is at a standstill and no one can say when the routine of legislation will be resumed. Such is the result of the present conflict between the regular Republicans, led by Speaker Cannon in the house, and the allied forces of the insurgent Republicans and the Democrats.

Three months of the session have gone. Only one wheel in the President's program has been turned in the house. The Ship Subsidy bill has been reported. In the senate only two wheels in the program have turned.

Early in the session the talk was that adjournment would come in May, now, no one can tell when adjournment will come.

The reason for the present situation in which congress finds itself is two fold. One is a desire to debate at length the important legislative measures on President Taft's program. The other, and more important, is that the rules committee of the house, which is in reality the Republican steering committee, was to all intents and purposes paralyzed.

It was against the rules committee, of which the Speaker was a member holding the balance of power between the Republicans "insurgents" and "regulars," that the attack was made.

TONIGHT WILL SHOW.

The performance given by the Hawaiian Opera and Ballet Company at the Grand Opera House last night was a most successful one.

ings of the ordinance, that they would show the white feather now. What ever else may be said concerning Aylett, no one has heretofore accused him of such arrant cowardice as this, while Kane has always been credited with some backbone.

If they are still prepared to stay with their first votes, the opportunity of proving it will come this evening. In the meanwhile let us believe as long as it is possible that the majority of the city supervisors have sufficient ordinary manhood to withstand what influence the slums can bring to bear upon them.

When Perelstons arrives to start in on settling the various troubles of the Russians he will probably find that he is due for some troubles of his own.

Whatever other mistakes may have been made in the Russian experiment, Jack made no mistake in getting a year's contract before he sailed away.

HONOLULU FIFTY YEARS AGO

(From The Advertiser, March, 1860.)

The arrival in our harbor of the Japanese embassy to the United States, is a matter of no ordinary interest. This embassy consists of two ambassadors plenipotentiary who are nobles or princes of the highest rank.

Whatever we may think of this people, comparing them with ourselves, they are by no means ignorant. Their customs are novel to us, it is true but they are skillful and intelligent for all that.

Will the Comet Affect Us?

More than one eminent scientist now holds the ancient idea that the meteorological conditions which determine some of the greatest terrestrial disasters, most notably inundations like that from which Paris is suffering, are in a large degree due to the influence of comets.

However distant comets may be, it is not impossible that their enormous tails, measuring 75,000,000 to 125,000,000 miles in length, may come in contact with our atmosphere.

Even the oldest among American cities, as well as the best and most closely built, have their outlying districts where the tall building on the corner turns a blank wall toward all the other buildings in the block.

The Dread Blank Wall

A western contemporary deplors the fact that the dread blank wall in towns and cities persists in offending the artistic eye and in offering temptation to the billboard painter.

In this respect, as in many others, the older cities of the United States and Europe can teach our younger cities a useful lesson. Where there is reasonable ground for believing that a side wall is not to be built against for a considerable time, pains are taken to plant ivy or some hardy vine, which may be trained to cover and to beautify the blank space.

LAY THE CORNER STONE OF CHURCH

of Samuel F. Smith, the writer of "America's," of his 20th anniversary in a New England graveyard on a Fourth of July a few years after the death of Smith.

It was against the rules committee, of which the Speaker was a member holding the balance of power between the Republicans "insurgents" and "regulars," that the attack was made.

another and could find no difference. "The Methodist Episcopal Church never dies. Never in my experience have I seen it die though your experience may differ from mine.

Then Pastor Jones arose and read off the list of things that went in the little tin box; photographs of those who have worked for the new church, those who have designed it, those who have and are to build it and above all those who have made it possible.

The Lord's prayer was read the last amidst said, and the pastor, bishop and other gentlemen on the platform picked up the trowel one after the other and deposited the mortar "and that which was stronger than any mortar than the builder will supply us," on the top of the box.

There can be no question but that the visit of this embassy will result favorably in opening Japan to foreign intercourse, though it may be years before it has that effect.

FILIPINOS' LEGAL RIGHT TO COME TO HAWAII

MANILA, February 19.—Governor-General Forbes was interviewed today regarding the attitude of the government to the departure of the Filipino laborers for Hawaii, in connection with which there has been considerable discussion pro and con.

In reply to the question as to whether the government would interfere in anyway with the movement, Mr. Forbes said: "The government can take no hand in the matter without interfering with native rights.

The proof of the above entire article has been read over in our office by Namura Kohatsiro, one of the interpreters of the embassy, who has noticed several errors and suggested alterations, which have been made.

To explain, then, the action of a comet on our atmosphere, it suffices to know that the X rays have the property of causing the condensation of vapors.

On the other hand, many eminent astronomers deny that there is the slightest possibility of any modification of our atmosphere in consequence of the approach of the comet.

The Heir to the Hoorah, Again

SCENE FROM THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH.

Tonight the Henry Mells company will once more present "The Heir to the Hoorah." The large audience that greeted the opening performance was greatly pleased. "The Heir to the Hoorah" will run until Wednesday, and a large sale of seats for each performance is already registered. On Thurs- day another popular play will be offered by the company's manager. A music- ian will be given on Saturday evening for the ladies and children. Next week's plays have not yet been decided upon, but requests have been made for "The House of the

What the Retail Merchants of Honolulu Offer This Week

Several of the big weekly papers of the mainland have taken up the subject of impure food, street weight pack- ings and divers articles in the line of trade to such good advantage that when one buys a reputed pound of anything one is reasonably sure of getting full weight. The latest in the line of sci- entific investigations by these papers has been published in a recent number of Harper's. It goes into drygoods in a way that one wonders if the greed for gain among manufacturers has not reached the limit. Pure linen comes have proven to be so thoroughly cotton that but a few threads of linen are found to prove the contrary to be the case, and some silks contain as little of the work of the cocoon as the towels contain manufactured flax. So far has the investigation gone and so much has it proven that it seems likely the time is not far distant when the character of the goods will be seen on the label as it is seen now on the packages of food.

The "American Brokerage Com- pany" is rather a long title for an es- tablishment that makes a business of selling a superior grade of groceries at prices which remind one of those asked at the corner grocery for goods that are not half so fresh nor half so pure. The A. B. C. will take your order by phone and deliver the articles to your house, preferably for cash, and you will have as much satisfaction as you gen- erally experience at shops where you pay more for the goods.

Jordan seems to have built up a repu- tation that requires very little to draw a crowd to his doors. "Jordan's," that is all," does not go far in telling what is offered there this week, but it will probably be sufficient and the people will go in as large numbers as if he had said "Small silks at sixty cents."

Business at Jordan's seems to be good and if there were not bargains there it would not be so.

Unless a lady lives where the mud is always in sight or her business or so- cial affairs compel her to take the streets during the days when the mud is everywhere, a polish to her shoes once a week is sufficient. It is not an uncommon thing to see one of the fair sex peered on a shoe stand at the en- trance to an alley or in front of a bar- ber shop. These contrived contrives, how- ever, give them a shiver with every stare from a man. W. H. McInerney of the McInerney Shoe Store on For- street, just above King, has installed a comfortable stand in the rear section of his store with an expert shoe polish- er in charge. Ladies may go there at any time they happen down town and have their shoes polished up in comfort. If there have to wait there is a com- fortable chair at their disposal.

A glance into the window of Silken- Toggery, King street near Fort, shows us a new arrival of Hart, Schaffner and Marx clothing that makes one's heart itch to get them on. The suits were received only a few days ago and they are beautifully made from exceptional- ly attractive patterns of all wool material. The styles have changed consid- erably since last season, so it is not hard to distinguish the vintage of the

SYRIAN BABY'S FIRST TOOTH.

Event Celebrated by Exchange of Sweets and Pastries.

Among the Syrians there is no such thing as giving a party in celebration of the first anniversary of the birth of a child. The celebration is held when the baby opens its first teeth. On such an occasion friends of the parents are invited to a party at which the young mother and father are treated to a feast of sweets and pastries. The guests are invited to bring with them a gift of sweets or pastries. The mother has to give to the guests after the birth of the child.

GOVERNMENT COSTS IN MAINLAND CITIES

Many Places Spend One-Third and More of Total Incomes on Schools.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—In the United States, census bureau's special annual report for 1907 on the state of 158 of the largest cities, which is in press, it is shown that the per capita running expenses of the government in 148 of the largest cities increased from $12.36 in 1902 to $15.91 in 1907. There has been a progressive increase in nearly every part of the government. The per capita increase in the fire department was from $1.33 to $1.91; in the health department, from 22 cents to 29 cents; in charities and corrections, from 86 cents to $1.06, and in education, from $8.85 to $4.50.

Of special interest in a comparison of the general expenses of the cities are payments for the maintenance of the health department. In several cities the State maintains a dispensary or health bureau, but in most cities nearly all the expense of the care of the public health is borne by the city alone. New York paid $1,094,500 for the maintenance of its health department, or more than six times as much as any other city. The other cities paying more than $200,000 for the maintenance of this department were Chicago ($2,441,111), Philadelphia ($2,440,000) and San Francisco ($2,440,000).

Cities of over 30,000 population with notably small payments for their health department were Detroit ($22,887), Milwaukee ($10,417) and Buffalo ($11,288). In the smaller cities the large populations of Los Angeles and Oakland, Cal., reflect payments for the suppression of the tubercle plague.

The payments for schools, libraries and art galleries of the cities considered were 26.6 per cent of the total running expenses of the government. Of the cities of over 200,000 population, the percentage spent for education was highest in Cleveland, Ohio (33.4); in cities of from 100,000 to 200,000 population, the highest percentages were in Rochester, Pa. (21.5) and Seattle, Wash. (16.2); in cities of from 50,000 to 100,000 population, in Salt Lake City (18.2) and Des Moines, Iowa, (16.3); and in the smaller cities, in Topeka, Kas. (15.4) and Lincoln, Neb. (15.5). Payments for outlays are not included in the above computations.

TREES MAY BE USED AS ELECTRIC BATTERIES

It appears that M. Connelley, a French engineer, has proved by experiments that trees, soil and water possess electric currents. By using a delicate galvanometer connected by its plates of paper 8x84 to a tree and in another place buried in the earth, he detected the passage of an electric current, the amount of which was increased in proportion to the number of trees connected together. M. Connelley also succeeded in depositing 20 milligrams of copper by means of an electrolytic cell laid in 408 hours. This he did by placing two copper plates in the earth, which one was short-circuited and using the current which passed between them. It is presumed that with plates of a larger size more powerful currents could be obtained, which could then be put to practical use.

NUMBER OF SALOONS IS DECREASING

Census of Cities Gives Saloon Figures Six Per Cent Lower.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—There was in 1907 a decrease of 6 per cent in the number of saloons throughout the country, according to the United States census bureau's forthcoming report on the statistics of the 158 largest cities, which had a population of over 200,000 each that year.

The report, prepared by Chief of Division E. H. Maling, contains the complete statistics of the number of liquor licenses in force at the close of the license year in each of the cities and the number of saloons in each dealer selling liquor by the drink.

More than one-fourth of such dealers in the 158 largest cities were reported from New York and Chicago; the cities of over 200,000 population with the smallest number of saloons were Washington (721) and Pittsburgh (818). In cities of this class, the largest number of saloons in proportion to the population were in Milwaukee and New Orleans, where, in the former, there was one dealer selling liquor by the drink to every 142 inhabitants, and, in the latter, to every 200 inhabitants. The number of saloons to every dealer in Philadelphia was 74, and in Boston 78. The other cities having less than 200 inhabitants to each dealer were Galveston (144), East St. Louis (143), Mobile (150), Houston (158), Hoboken (168), Sacramento (191), San Antonio (179), La Jolla, Wis. (183), Springfield, Ill. (188) and West Haven (191).

The smallest number of saloons in proportion to population is shown for the cities of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts, and the largest for those of Texas, Ohio and Wisconsin.

In comparing the number of retail liquor dealers in 141 cities reporting for both 1907 and 1905, it is shown that there was a decrease of 6 per cent in the number of saloons in 1907. The decrease was general in nearly every part of the country except the Rocky Mountain and southwestern States.
