TO ENTERTAIN THE TAFT PARTY

A SOUVENIR PROGRAM TO BE SENT BY THE ALAMEDA TO THE MEMBERS.

The Taft Reception committee held a meeting yesterday afternoon at the rooms of the Hawaii Promotion Committee.

The sub-committee on Transportation reported that a special train for a visit to a sugar plantation had been arranged for, and that the Rapid Transit Company had offered special cars and issued orders that the badge adopted by the committee should act as a pass on all cars for the day the party is in Honolulu, whether the visitors were in the hands of a committee or traveling independently. The question of autos or taily-hos to the Pull was placed before the committee. There was a long discussion over the use of the various vehicles and later in the meeting, on motion of E. D. Tenney it was decided that the journey to the Pull should be made in coaches instead of autos.

The official badge of the day will consist of a silver Hawaiian shield with a distinctive legend appropriate to the occasion.

It was decided that the joint committee should tender a luncheon to the visitors and that Mrs. George R. Carter be requested to name a committee of ladies to assist in the entertaining of the ladies of the party.

On motion three special committees were provided to have charge of optional side trips, in addition to the two arranged by the committee for the entire party. These are a committee on Public Buildings, Committee on Army and Navy, Committee on Escort. The personnel of these committees has not been named but will be announced by the chairman later.

A souvenir program of events will be issued in time to be sent in the Alameda to San Francisco, there to be placed in the hands of the various members of the party.

TOO OLD AT FORTY.
 Andrew Lang writes as follows regarding Dr. Oiler's remark that men are comparatively useless after forty years: "I fancy that Titian, at 70, had nothing to fear from the competition of any young portrait painters. Mr. Watts in his day was probably the best of our painters long after he was 70. In poetry, Sophocles wrote the 'Edipus Coloneus' in extreme old age, and it has for many centuries outlived the forgotten works of the younger dramatists who were carrying off the prizes in the dramatic competitions. Tennyson, when about 80, wrote 'Crossing the Bar' and Pindar, when as old, wrote, I am informed, a deathless lyric, which, alas! I have never perused. Milton can have been no young fellow when he finished 'Paradise Lost.' In fiction Scott turned novelist after he was 40, and could have gone on delightfully as long as he had health. He knew too much of books and life to write himself out. There is a lady novelist among us who, though the remark is ungalant, certainly is not under 40, and who seems to improve in her art and advance in public favor as years roll on.

"As to science, Helmholtz, I understand, took it up when 'you would look at him often before you took him for a chicken.' Mr. Darwin was not under 40 when he wrote the 'Origin of Species.' Mr. Huxley never grew old, and Lord Kelvin d'sproves the dictum of the American philosopher. In history, Carlyle had well passed the fatal age when he gave birth to his 'Frederick the Great,' one of the most delightful books in the world.

"Horace Walpole never fell off as a letter writer, though he did fall in love very late in the day; and John Knox (who also fell in love) was far over 40 when he wrote his entertaining 'History of the Reformation.' Froude's writing, to the last, was exactly as good as ever; and so one could go on with instances to prove that there is more blood in the old man than our American philosopher thinks."

STILL HOPE.
 President Roosevelt may yet be persuaded to address a few words of reproof to landlords who refuse to rent to families with children.

Stein-Bloch Smart Clothes

A lot of mystery has been wafted into crack tailoring; "handwork" and that sort of talk. In reality, high grade clothing making is as simple as the three R's—Master brains, Master work and Master fabrics. The long-price tailor princes who clothe the careless spenders of Gotham can give no more. Our Spring and Summer models (Stein-Bloch made) give no less. You could not spell out the difference at five inches. Try!

What Won The Naval Battle

Superior science won the recent great naval battle, is the conclusion of the best critics. Just what part submarines played in the great conflict may not be known for some time, but it is generally believed that they did a lot of work for the Japanese. But submarines or no submarines, it is recognized that the Japanese showed strategy that was superior to that of their enemies. The Washington Star, certainly one of the best informed critics of the country, says of the encounter:

Expert observers of the naval conflict in the far east are now trying to ascertain the part played in the battle of Tsu Shima by submarines and torpedo boats, how far, in fact, the "new warfare" came into evidence in the remarkable destruction of the Russian fleet with so little damage to the Japanese. It may be that when all details are laid bare the submarine will be found to have been an important factor. But at present enough is known to indicate that the major strokes of the battle were dealt by the guns of the Japanese ships, that Japan's superior strategy, gunnery, seamanship and discipline proved the chief forces of Russia's undoing.

In the first place, Togo's position was chosen with great shrewdness. It was an absolute secret to the world-at large and in detail even to the Japanese people. Indeed, it is stated that the various divisions of his fleet were not aware of the exact situation. Each subcommander was charged with a certain duty, and was held to its performance without thought for what others were doing. In consequence Rojestvensky sailed into a trap as complete as was ever laid on the seas. When he attempted to pass the Tsu Islands he was attacked on three sides at once and enveloped in such a way that the Japanese fire was of maximum efficiency while his own was hampered and futile.

Togo, it also appears, had the advantage of wind and sun, both being behind him as he fought. The light favored his gunners and in some degree blinded those of Rojestvensky, while the wind made the Russian aiming difficult. But the wind played an even greater part in the conflict, for while it heeled the Russian ships so that their hulls were exposed below the normal water line, offering vulnerable points to the enemy's fire, it correspondingly reduced the size of the Japanese target.

Furthermore, and chief of all, the Japanese gunnery was normally better than that of the Russians. Their shots went true to the mark and swept the decks of the enemy with precision, while few of the Russian shells found lodgment save in the sea beyond the Japanese ships, or between the two lines. A majority of the shells from Rojestvensky's guns, the reports state, passed over the Japanese vessels in the early part of the fight.

In these circumstances it is probable that Togo would have won just as handily, though perhaps not as cheaply, had he not used submarines or torpedo boats. These craft undoubtedly hastened the end by throwing the Russian line into confusion at the beginning and causing the loss of some of the most powerful ships. But the victory was not scored through them alone or chiefly. It was won by dint of better work in all the departments of naval warfare, more thorough preparation, more advantageous position, more efficient personnel and more reliable and effective materials. There was not a single phase of the conflict, indeed, in which the Japanese preponderance does not now appear.

Continue The Band

There is nothing that the new county government can do that will prove at once so popular and so sound, as a measure of policy, as to make provision for the continuance of the band. Viewed from either the practical or the aesthetic side, the band is one of the most valuable institutions we have. Independent of the associations which cannot fail to have grown up in the more than thirty years of the band's existence, it has served a utilitarian purpose in the development of the country that is past computation. Who can say how much of bitterness of political and other stress through which the country has passed has been softened and effaced by the influence of the music of the Hawaiian Band? No one can say, and yet no one who knows the history of Hawaii, knows our social and political life, but must realize that it has been a constant and powerful influence to restore to "sweet reasonableness" the temper and the feelings of the community when torn and frayed by strife.

As an educational factor its influence has been beyond calculation. Of course there are many people, many of our leading people, who seldom go to a band concert. The affluent have always at their command means of entertainment and of diversion, and opportunities for culture and self-containment that are denied to the humbler. In our cosmopolitan community with its diverse elements of race and nationality, music and the Hawaiian Band have been perhaps the most constant factors reaching and appealing to all of them, of all ages, in the amalgamating process through which our civilization must work out our particular social and industrial problems. It is through the Hawaiian Band that thousands and thousands of Chinese and Japanese, who are an integral and a permanent part of our community, have received their first impressions and first instruction in western music. There is no doubt but that thousands of Japanese have learned their own national hymn or anthem from hearing it played by the Hawaiian Band.

The Hawaiian Band gives on an average probably ten or twelve public concerts a week, including the times it plays when steamers depart, at the Capitol grounds in the mornings, at school and other gatherings, and at the set and regular concerts in the squares and parks. The attendance at many of these concerts is often as high as five hundred or more. Not that there is often that many in attendance at any one moment of the concert, but that during the course of the concert that many come, stop and listen awhile, and go away. What may not be credited, with justice, to such a constant influence for good order? for quiet? for the cheering and uplifting of troubled or anxious minds? for the dissipation of the downward and evil tendencies of idleness?

In an isolated community like this a band like ours, giving frequent public concerts to which attendance is barred by neither gate fee nor social custom, or prejudice, considered merely as a police force, is worth infinitely more than it costs. Without it the hours that are now given up to its concerts, would to hundreds be hours of idleness, with all the tendency to the fruits of idleness which that would mean. The band concerts from half-past seven to half-past nine every evening except Friday and Sunday evenings, means to every one within our gates pleasant diversion, pleasing and profitable occupation for the time, to hundreds, almost the only uplifting influence that breaks into their lives, and to many hundreds more, that salvation from themselves, which without it would be reflected in the police courts, in neighboring strife, in constant downward tendency.

have theirs. So also have the kindergartens and the many other institutions which at the same time that they mark us as a progressive community, make life here better and more worth living. But humanly speaking, perhaps none of them has a more widespread, a more permeating influence than the band. And it is an unconscious, impersonal influence, that encounters in its good work none of the obstacles of prejudice which the others do. Each individual feels his right to listen to the band is as free, untrammelled, and unassailable as his right to breathe. He is beholden to no one in any sense of obligation for favors received, for the pleasure he has in listening to the music of the band. The influence of the band is like the quality of mercy. It is twice blessed. It blesteth his that gives and him that takes.

GONE TO JURY

The argument of A. G. M. Robertson for plaintiff in the libel suit of Ballou against Parker was concluded this afternoon at about half past two, and Judge Lindsay at once began reading his instructions to the jury. The case occupied all of the last two weeks and all of this week so far. In closing Robertson called special attention of the jury to the permanence of the alleged libel, declaring that it was set forth in imperishable records of the First Circuit Court and would remain for the perusal of all future generations as the sworn statement of Sam Parker. He also declared that the prominence of Parker in the community made the libel specially damaging, and he urged that the plaintiff was entitled to a substantial verdict. The jury is now out.

A PROBLEM OF LANGUAGE

EXACT INTERPRETATION OF A FEW HAWAIIAN WORDS WHICH ARE FOUND IN MANY DEEDS BECOMES A MATTER OF IMPORTANCE TO OWNERS OF PROPERTY ALONG NUUANU AND OTHER STREAMS THROUGHOUT THE TERRITORY.

The correct translation of the Hawaiian words "i kahawai" or "i ka kahawai" and "ma ka kahawai" have become an issue of importance in the matter of settling the title to land in Nuuanu valley, for which the estate of S. G. Wilder, Limited, petitioner for a title. Lyle A. Dickey, examiner of titles for the court, has made a report in which the phrases in question are interpreted to mean to the "edge of stream," while other opinions are that the middle of the stream is the boundary line intended to be indicated.

C. Alexander court surveyor, has made a report to Judge Weaver of the land court giving the following: "The examiner's translations 'along edge of stream' and 'down edge of stream' are certainly wrong, for neither the words lili (edge) or makai (down) are used in either of these descriptions.

"That the expressions 'i ka kahawai' and 'ma ka kahawai' were intended to mean to the center of the stream and along the center of the stream I think in most cases is hardly open to doubt. These are the expressions always used in the original kuleana surveys for describing boundaries along a stream. Except in rare instances, such an expression as 'waena o ka kahawai' (in the middle of the stream) is never used. The fact is that the distances, particularly in the case of the two kuleanas under consideration, do not take to the present center of the stream does not make any material difference. My experience is that the compass surveyors of fifty years ago rarely extended their courses to the middle of the stream, but always terminated them at points where a compass could be easily set up."

Alexander quotes a decision by Judge Cooley to the following effect: "There never was any doubt that, except on the large navigable rivers the boundary of the owners of the banks is the middle line of the river; and while some courts have held that this was the rule on all fresh water streams, large and small others have held to the doctrine that the title to the bed of the stream below low water mark is in the state, while conceding to the owners of the banks all riparian rights."

The proposition affects many owners of real property along streams or rivers in the Territory, as there are numerous titles which contain the same phrases as are used in the title under examination.

THE WILL OF SAMUEL C. ALLEN

CASTIRON PROVISIONS ABOUT GEORGE ALLEN IN THE ONE WHICH WAS PROBATED.

Some careful examination of the will of the late S. C. Allen and the probate records in his case are being made with a view to preparing for a possible contest of the will by George C. Allen, who has returned to Honolulu after a long absence and is reported to have employed Attorney Alexander of San Francisco to investigate the matter for him. The Allen estate was a very big one and George Allen had large expectations in it at one time. S. C. Allen made a number of wills, in some of which the possible contestant is believed to have been contemplated. The one which was probated has the following to say as to him:

"I give, devise and bequeath unto George C. Allen, late of Honolulu aforesaid and now supposed to be of Seattle, State of Washington, the sum of one dollar and expressly direct and provide that said George C. Allen shall otherwise receive nothing whatsoever, either directly or indirectly from my estate or any part of portions thereof. And I expressly declare to all whom it may concern that I owe the said George C. Allen nothing and have executed no instrument or writing whatsoever under which he could or would receive and profit, benefit or emolument whatsoever excepting certain prior wills which are hereby expressly annulled, and excepting certain unrecorded articles of adoption dated November 13, 1877 between myself and my wife Bathsheba M. Allen on the one part and said D. K. Fyfe on the other part whereby I and my said wife assume to adopt the said George C. Allen as our own child and as to said articles of adoption I do hereby declare that I have repudiated and do hereby repudiate said articles of adoption as being illegal void and of no effect among other reasons for that the same are unrecorded and for that said George C. Allen has failed, neglected and refused to perform the obligations imposed upon him under and by virtue of said article of adoption and otherwise and by gross misconduct has caused to have any claim morally or otherwise upon my estate or bounty by virtue of said articles or otherwise. And I hereby declare that the devise of One Dollar herein made to the said George C. Allen is all that I leave to him of my estate real, personal or mixed and this is my will respecting George C. Allen even though the said articles of adoption are legal and in full force and effect."

The probated will was filed in April 1903, a few days after the death of Allen. It was witnessed by W. A. Kinney, G. H. Robertson and E. A. R. Ross. George Allen was away at the time and no contest was offered. Beyond the examination of the records which is now going on nothing has been done to start a contest yet, but it is said that there may soon be a move to open the matter.

WHAT TOTEMISM IN ALASKA MEANS

NEW LIGHT ON AN INTERESTING AND LITTLE UNDERSTOOD SUBJECT—BADGE OF CLAN OR TRIBE

It is interesting to note that totemism is found not only in Alaska, but among the North American Indians, the aborigines of Australia, the Hottentots of Africa and even the hill tribes of India. Totems are also common among the Samoans.

Broadly, the totem is the badge of a clan or tribe; but it signifies a great deal more than mere political or social alliance. It is not only a tribal emblem, but also a family signal; not merely a symbol of nationality; but also an expression of religion; not simply a bond of union among primitive people but also a regulator of the marriage laws and of other social institutions, says a writer in the House keeper.

A totem has been defined as "a class of material objects which a savage regards with superstitious respect, believing that there exists between him and every member of the class an intimate and special relation." Among the Ojibway Indians there are no fewer than twenty-three different totems. Nine of these are quadrupeds, making out the wolf, the bear, the beaver and other clans, eight are birds, five are fishes and one is the snake.

Some extraordinary superstitions regarding totems prevail in Samoa. Thus it is believed that if a Turtle-man eats of a turtle, he will grow very ill and the voice of the turtle will be heard in his inside, says: "He ate me; I am killing him." If a Banana-man uses a banana leaf for a cap he becomes bald. If a Butterfly-man catches a butterfly it strikes him dead. If a Fowl-man eats a fowl, delirium and death result. And so on—all going to show that the totem has something of the quality of a fetish as well as the significance of a family emblem.

Regarding totemism, it is noted that the relation of mutual help and protection includes also the totem itself; that is to say, if a man takes care of his totem, he expects the totem to return the compliment. If the totem is a dangerous animal, it must not hurt his clansmen. The Scorpion-men at Sonegambia declare that the most deadly scorpions will run over their bodies without hurting them. There is a Snake clan in Australia which holds a similar belief. Among the Crocodile clan of the Ibochuanas if a man is bitten by a crocodile, or even has water splashed on him by one, he is expelled from the clan as one esteemed unworthy by the totem.

NO INDICTMENT IN POLICE CASE

GRAND JURY HAS COMPLETED ITS INVESTIGATION OF THE MULLEITNER SCANDAL.

There will be no indictment of any of those in charge at the police station, on account of the matter of the Mulletner salary warrant, which was mysteriously cashed for a larger sum than Mulletner claims to have either earned or received. The Grand Jury completed its investigation of William Henry or any of the others concerned. The jury will make its final report tomorrow and will be discharged by Judge De Bolt. New indictments will be found, it is stated, against the Japanese of Honolulu Plantation who were indicted for conspiracy to incite a strike, etc., the former indictment having been knocked out.

The S. S. Alameda is due tomorrow morning from San Francisco. She will have four days later mail.

RESTORER TO LEAVE HONOLULU

WILL GO TO SAN FRANCISCO TO GO ON DRY DOCK—WILL BE STATIONED AT HONOLULU.

It is expected that the cableship Restorer will go to San Francisco within the course of a couple of months. The vessel will have to be sent to the dry dock for a cleaning. She has been in the waters of the warmer climes for some time, so her bottom is getting foul. She will not go to San Francisco to be stationed, for Honolulu is to be her regular port.

There is also a possibility that she may be subsequently sent to Shanghai for dry docking, as the cost of that operation forms a material consideration, and the dry docking at Shanghai is understood to be considerably less than that in San Francisco.

For the Skin

You cannot have a clear and smooth skin unless the blood is pure. Blotches, eruptions, rashes, pimples, all show how impure the blood must be. Get all impurities out of your blood before you are seriously ill.

Miss Dorothy Maher, of Pittsburg, Victoria, sends her photograph and this letter: "I had a terrible eruption on my face which was of a very irritating nature. I tried many blood medicines, but without result. Friends told me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as it was a most famous blood remedy. I did so, and after taking only two bottles I began to see a great change. By the time the third bottle was used the eruption had entirely disappeared, and without leaving a mark on my face. I am perfectly well now, and I owe it all to this great blood-purifying remedy."

WERE MARRIED LAST EVENING

Miss Alice Campbell Became the Bride of Walter Macfarlane at the Catholic Cathedral.

The marriage of Miss Alice Campbell and Walter Macfarlane which took place last evening at the Roman Catholic Cathedral was one of the most important functions of the season owing to the social prominence of the contracting parties and the great number of their friends. The cathedral, which was beautifully decorated with palms, mailes, lilies and ferns, was filled with guests when the wedding party arrived.

The ushers, Arthur Mackintosh, Frank Armstrong, Samuel Walker and Will Roth preceded the bridesmaids up the aisle and the bride entered leaning on the arm of her step-father, Col. Samuel Parker. Father Ulrich stood at the chancel where the bridal party met the groom accompanied by the best man, Will Dickson.

The solemn ceremony of the Catholic Church having been concluded the party retired to the vestry to sign the register, Hugo Hertzner meanwhile singing a baritone solo with organ accompaniment. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the party left the cathedral and drove to the Parker residence on Emma street.

Naturally the bride's costume was one of the features which interested the feminine portion of the guests. It was a Parisian creation fashioned from a toilette worn at the coronation of King Edward, a garment of white silk chiffon, trimmed with white applique roses, revealed still another chiffon skirt beneath which in turn concealed a white tulle skirt. Billows or ruffles fringed the lower part of the triple skirts. The waist was a dream of soft chiffon at the throat, with Panne silk and trimmings of applique roses below. The sleeves were short and puffed at the shoulder, from which depended long angel sleeves of figured white Chiffon. Suede gloves and kid slippers were worn. A court train of heavy silk, edged with applique roses, fell from the collar. The tulle veil was caught in the coiffure by a large diamond forget-me-not pin, the center composed of a solitaire diamond, the gift of the bride's mother and sister, Princess Kawanakoa. She also wore three bracelets composed of diamonds, rubies and sapphires, the gift of her stepfather, Col. Samuel Parker.

The maid of honor, Miss Muriel Campbell, wore a gown of accordion pleated blue chiffon over tulle trimmed with blue chiffon roses, with a blue picture hat to match.

The bridesmaids, in white, were Miss Irene Dickson, Miss Alice Campbell, Miss Clara Cummings and Miss Ada Rhodes. Each one carried a bouquet of daisies upon one arm, and falling from each were chiffon streamers sprayed with clusters of white daisies and maiden hair ferns. Miss Dickson wore a dainty costume en traine of cream chiffon over peau de soie trimmed with applique lace and satin roses, elbow sleeves. Miss Cummings' dress was of white chiffon over peau de soie trimmed with applique lace. Miss Macfarlane was in a cream chiffon gown and Miss Ada Rhodes was in a gown matching the others. Each wore, as a gift from the bride, a jeweled orchid pin with pearl settings, the maid of honor's having a diamond. Each of the bridesmaids wore a white picture hat.

Mrs. Samuel Parker wore a magnificent gown—called a peacock costume, owing to the pattern describing as nearly as fashion's decree would allow, the wonderful colors of the peacock's feathers. From waist to the end of the train the black silk was almost hidden under a mass of glittering peacock blue, forming a likeness to the golden-eyed peacock feathers. She wore a necklace of pearls and diamonds and her hair ornament was a feather of diamonds.

Miss Beatrice Campbell wore a pretty frock of pink. The Parker residence was beautifully decorated for the reception. After this ceremony the newly-wedded pair were driven over the Pali to Ahuimanu, the Macfarlane ranch, where they will spend the honeymoon.

SONS OF THE REVOLUTION

Met Yesterday and Elected Officers for the Ensuing Year—Will Celebrate Bennington.

The following were elected officers for the ensuing year of the Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at the adjourned annual meeting held yesterday:

President, C. M. Cooke; vice-president, John Effinger; secretary, W. C. Parke; treasurer, W. J. Forbes; registrar, W. D. Alexander; directors, Jared Smith, Lyle Dickey and L. A. Thurston.

A resolution was passed instructing the directors to arrange for an early celebration of some revolutionary event, if possible to include the participation of the Society of the Daughters of the Revolution.

After the adjournment of the meeting the Board of Directors met and decided to hold exercises suggested above, on August 17 next, the same being in commemoration of the battle of Bennington, fought August 17, 1777.

The following report was presented by the Registrar, W. D. Alexander: "Mr. President and Compatriots:

"I have the pleasure to be able to report that no deaths of members of this Society have occurred during the past year. The total number of members in good and regular standing at the time of our last annual meeting was 60. The applications of Messrs. Nathan C. Willfong and Jared G. Smith having been approved by our local society, May 12th, 1904, were approved and registered by the Registrar-General, July 21st, 1904, as National Numbers 14629 and 14630, respectively.

"The total number of applications filed since the formation of the Society is 80. Of this number, eight have died, one failed to gain admission, three have been demitted to join other societies, one applicant, R. B. Brenham, never obtained a demit from the Oregon Society, to which he belonged, and seven have been dropped for non-payment of dues, or on account of their long-continued absence from this Territory, without obtaining a demit from the Secretary, leaving 59 members in good and regular standing.

"I am sure that other members of our society will bear me out in saying that we greatly need a head-quarters, which we can call our own, where our library, such as it is, can be safely kept and our meetings held. At our last meeting I think some action was taken to this end, but without result so far.

"If I am not mistaken, our books are boxed up and stored in the second story of Castle & Cooke's building.

"As has been suggested in a former report, it is much to be desired that the Society should form the nucleus of a reference library, containing such works as Heitman's, Register of the Officers of the Continental Army, Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors in the Revolutionary War, the Record of Connecticut Men in the War of the Revolution, etc., besides those volumes of the Archives of the original thirteen States, which relate to that period.

"It appears to me that an infusion of new blood into the Society is very desirable, and that special efforts should be made to interest the many eligible persons in this Territory who have not yet joined it. I would suggest the plan of issuing a circular for this object.

"The Registrar-General kindly urges upon members the importance of compiling genealogical records, the dearth of which among American families, he says, is proverbial and lamentable.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution are setting an example of patriotic zeal, which we should do well to follow. I trust that our society will experience a revival of patriotism, and that there will be more for your Registrar to report at our next annual meeting."

THE PECULIAR WAITER.

Richard Jordan, the famous Scottish checker player, was praising America. "I will even praise," said Mr. Jordan, "the independence of the American waiter. In Europe the waiter is obsequious, not out of any real respect for you, but because, without this hypocritical humility and veneration he would starve to death. Here in America there is no need for any strong man to starve to death, and the waiter need not be an obsequious and fawning hypocrite."

Mr. Jordan smiled. "I meet the most peculiar waiters," he said. "The other day I said to one: 'Waiter, is this a pork chop or a mutton chop?'"

"Can't you tell by the taste?" the waiter asked. "No," I answered. "Well, then," said the waiter, "What difference does it make which it is?"—New Orleans States.

PERPETUITY.

Earth our joys will never banish, Leaving us to utter gloom; Though the spring time blossoms vanish There are other flowers to bloom. When this day, with task unfinished Into darkness deep has gone, Let your faith be undiminished, There are other days to dawn, Should the life be sufficient For ambition's reckless sum, Trust once more to the Omniscient, There are other men to come.

PRICE OF LUMBER.

Lumber is ordered up the ladder another round or two by the Christian gentlemen forming the combine to whom, to quote Beer, the Almighty, in His infinite wisdom, has committed the lumber property of this nation that they may care for the comfort of His people. Snow did it, says the combine. Price goes up now because there was too much snow, just as in other years it has gone up because there was too little.—St. Paul Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The President now has before him a proposition made by Minister Takahira of Japan to furnish any required number of Japanese laborers for Panama canal work at 75 cents a day, transportation to and from the isthmus to be furnished by the Japanese Government and the United States to furnish board, housing and medical attendance. This offer was made by Minister Takahira after receiving data gathered by Consul Uyeno of San Francisco, who visited Panama in company with a Japanese army surgeon. SOME OF THE POLICE ARE GREATLY WORRIED

LEAST THEY PAY THE PENALTY OF POLITICAL TREACHERY TO THEIR FORMER CHIEF BROWN.

Now that the old regime is to prevail on the police force on Oahu there is considerable worry about the police station as to who will stay and who will leave. There was considerable treachery on the force to Brown and a number of the men whom Brown had had reason to suppose would support him, declared themselves for William Henry. Brown has won though and those who declared against him are trembling in their official shoes. More than one man on the force is worrying and does not know whether he will be carrying his head on his shoulders or will be a headless man without a job after the county government goes into effect.

But aside from this feature of the situation the force undoubtedly needs some reorganization and some changes will no doubt be made by Brown in order to bring the force to the high state of efficiency that marked it at the time of his retirement from the direction of police affairs last October.

of the Japanese Government that the war with Russia will soon terminate. So far as can be learned the President is not inclined to accept the offer of the Japanese Minister on account of the growing opposition to the admission of Japanese laborers into the United States. If the coolies are admitted to the canal zone there will be no method under the present law of preventing them from entering the United States. Chinese coolies, on the other hand, may be employed at Panama and excluded from this country. Unless means are found for preventing wholesale immigration of Japanese laborers into this country, it is not likely they will be introduced into the canal zone.
