Suffered Greatly For The Lack Of Water

LAST OF SHIPWRECKED SAILORS FROM CONNETABLE DE RICHEMONT ARRIVES TODAY FROM KAUAI—TRIED TO RETURN TO VESSEL FOR WATER—SAVED BY SHOWER OF RAIN LAST WEEK.

The remaining members of the crew of the wrecked French bark Connetable de Richemont arrived this morning from Niihau on the steamer Mikahala. One of the sailors was very badly used up by his experience and was sent to the Queen's Hospital. It was the crew of the boatswain's boat that arrived today. They had by far, the worst experience of the three boats that put away from the bark at French Frigate Shoal. The crew was short of water for several days and but for good fortune would certainly have perished. The crew tried to make their way back to the bark after they lost the captain's boat near Niihau. For three days the boatswain's crew were bailing to keep their boat afloat.

In the boatswain's boat were Boatswain Rault, Seamen Orteil, Daniel, Destricksen, Dugiperon, La Curne, Charless and Diven. This boat was the poorest of the trio that put away from the wrecked vessel on the morning of October 11. It was not a life boat at all, but was intended to be used as a harbor boat for loading supplies on the bark. There was no chart in the boat. A compass was given them. No one in the boat had any idea of navigation however.

The boat crew succeeded in remaining in the company of the captain's boat until the evening of October 16, then they lost his boat in the darkness. When the morning of October 17 arrived, the boatswain and his crew found themselves in the open sea with only the vaguest idea of their location. During the night previous the boat had been kept along in a south-easterly by east course in hopes of catching up with the leading boat, or else making some of the Hawaiian Islands. The boat would not sail against the wind, however, she kept drifting further south. It was decided on the morning of October 17 to try and return to the ship. The reason for attempting such a course was because the supply of water was running out.

The boats were then put on a north by west course and on Sunday, October 18, the craft arrived at Necker Island. The boatswain and three sailors got ashore and hunted about for water. None was to be found. Only rocks, sand, a couple of palm trees and countless numbers of birds were there. Two hours were passed in this search and the four men returned to their boat. There was no water left, so, in desperation the crew decided to continue toward the Connetable de Richemont in hopes of finding more water. They put their boat on a northwesterly course and sailed until the following morning.

The morning of October 19 found them about 150 miles away from Necker Island. Their boat had been making slow progress, only about four knots an hour. The men came to the conclusion that it would be suicidal to remain in that vicinity searching for the ship. They were entirely out of water. They decided to retrace their course and make a final effort to reach Niihau. On the night of October 19, Monday, rain fell. The rainfall lasted but half an hour, but it was undoubtedly the means of saving the lives of the entire crew. The canvas hammock was called into use to catch the rain. Sufficient water was caught to put the men on a ration of half a pint of water a day.

Necker Island was passed on Tuesday, and on this day the boat began leaking. It was found impossible to carry a sail with the craft in this condition, so the sail had to be taken down and the boat permitted to drift. Two men were kept constantly at work bailing out the water. Had they fallen behind ten minutes in this work, the water would have filled the boat completely. The biscuits held out however, so the men were not forced to go on shortened rations of food.

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock Niihau was sighted. The boat got in the lee of the island and by 11 o'clock at night was nearly capsized in the breakers, trying to make a landing. It was then decided to stand by until morning. A landing was made on Saturday and on the following day the steamer Mikahala arrived and took the crew off. The crew speak in the highest gratitude of the kindness shown them by the people of Niihau and by Captain Gregory and the officers of the steamer Mikahala. This morning when the crowd arrived at the Inter-Island wharf from Kauai and were leaving the Mikahala, they gave three cheers for Captain Gregory. Destricksen, the sick sailor, can scarcely walk. His feet are swollen to a shocking degree.

All of the crew with the exception of him and Captain Rault were sent away on the S. S. Alameda today by Consul Raas. The French consul at San Francisco will take the men in charge when they arrive in that port. Captain Rault remained behind at the request of Consul Raas. It is very likely that the master is desired to be in Honolulu until after the steamer Kauai returns from her attempt to save the wrecked bark. Consul Raas says the owners still have a claim on their vessel.

COMMUNITY PAYS TRIBUTE TO ESTEE

DURING THE MORNING HOURS ALL BUSINESS IS SUSPENDED WHILE THE LAST SERVICE OF THE LIVING TO THE DEAD IS RENDERED—SERVICES AT CENTRAL UNION—TO THE STEAMER.

Honolulu as a community gave the first half of today to mourning. Business was suspended and the funeral of Judge Estee, in some respects a unique one, beginning at a Masonic Temple, continuing in a church and ending at the side of a steamer weighing anchor, had almost universal attention.

The Masons took charge of the remains almost immediately after Judge Estee breathed his last yesterday and they held the first observances today. At 9 o'clock lodge was opened in Masonic Temple and almost immediately after the members of the lodge proceeded to Central Union church, where it had been decided to hold the services, the Temple being too small for the general public.

The body was removed last night at about 8 o'clock from the undertaking parlors to the Masonic Temple, where it remained all night under a guard of honor.

The Masonic lodge decided to have even its Masonic services in the larger auditorium and at half past nine the funeral procession from the Temple arrived at the church, led by the Government band playing the dead march. The band lined up in front of the church, while the rest of the members slowly filed past and the music continued until the casket was lifted from the hearse to be borne by the pallbearers to its beautiful resting place in front of the congregation.

Floral decorations began to arrive at the church at a very early hour and before the arrival of the body they formed a most beautiful embankment in front of and around the pulpit. There were many elaborate pieces among them and the entire first row of the pews was given over to them.

The mourners were given the first pew behind the flowers and behind them were seated the master masons of the Blue Lodge. On the right were Knights Templar, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias, and on the left the pallbearers, Governor Dole and staff, military officers, federal and territorial, consuls, heads of departments of the territorial government, federal officials and members of the bench and bar. The rest of the church was given to the general public.

At 8 o'clock the National Guard assembled at the Drill Shed, to prepare for its part in the exercises. There was a very general turn out of the local soldiery and they formed on Alakea street in a line extending along Beretania street to the church.

The military arrived at about 9:15 and the doors of the church were opened at the same time. A number of people were awaiting admission and at once began to fill up the seats set apart for the general public. Meanwhile floral pieces continued to arrive until there were scores of them piled about the coffin and pulpit. Purple and green and red and white predominated. The casket rested on purple and around it was a most magnificent display. A large centerpiece had the words: "The Gates Ajar."

FRIGHTENED, BUT HAPPY. A freight train backed into an electric car at the L. & N. crossing, and the prominent business man who was thrown violently from his seat smiled as he thought, "Thanks to that insurance agent, my wife will get $10,000 from the New York Life!" Many good men in Hawaii will die happier because of life insurance policies taken through the Henry Waterhouse Trust Co., general agents for the New York Life.

PUBLIC WORKS PLAN AND ACTIVITY

STORM SEWER TO CARRY OFF THE WATER FROM ALAPAI AND KING STREETS—THE HARBOR.

A storm sewer is just being completed down South and Huxtable streets to carry off the water which pours down Alapai street from the sunny slopes of Punchbowl after every heavy rain, and for years has made a reservoir of the intersection of Alapai and King streets. It is expected that hereafter this intersection will not be an impassable pond of water after every rain, as it has been for a long time.

The dirt taken from the trench dug for the sewer was hauled over the Rapid Transit road to Kapiolani park where it is being used in the effort to start grass and help the growth of trees in the sandy parts of that public place.

Preliminary work has been started in the cutting out of brush for the extension of School street from Liliha street to Kamehameha IV road. This improvement is to be made from the loan fund and will open up fine suburban tracts of land.

Waikiki road from King street to Kalia road is being oiled for the maka half of its width as an experiment to test that method of road perfecting. Traffic on that side will be tabued until the crude petroleum dressing has had time to dry.

Bids for the removal of Brewer's warehouse in Queen street will soon be invited.

The A. Harrison Mill Co. Ltd., has been awarded the contract for building the Oahu jail, its bid being the lowest at $18,865 with an undertaking besides to do the work in four months.

Work has been started on the completion of Diamond Head reservoir, also in raising the frame of the Oceanic wharf shed. This will be one of the most commodious wharf sheds in the Pacific.

Surveys having been completed for section 2 of the harbor, the results are found to be such that the Department of Public Works will include section 3 with section 1 in the call for tenders for dredging, so that one contract will cover the work to be done under the special appropriations.

Section 1 is the bar outside the harbor. Section 2 is what is called the outer harbor, where the large ocean steamers are to be accommodated, in the improved harbor scheme. It extends from the entrance to a line drawn in extension of Fort street. Section 3 is the inner harbor, consisting of the water inside of the line just mentioned.

The surveys of section 2 show that the dredging of that part done two years ago is still good. This was to a depth of 30 feet below low water and for a width of 400 feet from the docks. By the soundings just completed it appears that, with the exception of a small area toward an outer point there has been hardly any filling up of the bottom where it was then dredged. Therefore, there is no need for any present expenditure of money on that section.

Section 3 will be dredged to a depth of 24 feet for a width of 550 feet in general, the outer bound of the plan beginning on the Fort street line at a distance of 600 feet out. The inner lines are drawn to include all public locks, leaving the owners of private wharves to do their own dredging.

When the work is completed, there will be room for a steamship 400 feet long to be swung around within the inner harbor.

Tenders for the work on both sections 1 and 3 will close on November 16. Superintendent Cooper has taken into consideration the published objections to the Judiciary building premises as a site for the N. G. H. Armory. It was stated yesterday that the site was not yet decided. Bids for the armory construction will close on December 7.

TELEGRAPHERS' SPEED CONTEST

AN EVENT OF GREAT INTEREST TO THE MEN WHO SEND MESSAGES AND OTHERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 12.—The greatest event in the history of telegraphy in this country will take place on October 20 and 21st in the National Exposition buildings at Philadelphia. The primary feature will be the speed contests in the different branches of telegraphy.

Another important event, says the press of that city, is the contest for the best "all-round" telegrapher in the world, for which Andrew Carnegie last year presented a gold medal studded with diamonds, which was donated for annual competition. This medal was won last year by F. M. McClintic of Dallas, Texas, who attained the record-breaking speed of sending 517 words in ten minutes and receiving on a typewriter 300 words in the same time.

Two decades ago such a speed was considered an impossibility, as was also the record of Harry V. Emanuel of Philadelphia, the champion of the "message receiving" class, who at Atlanta, Ga., last year, received perfectly fifty and a half messages in thirty minutes. These champions will endeavor to hold their laurels in the coming tournament.

Probably one of the most interesting features of the various contests is an event in which the sending key does for the typewriter does for the receiver—facilitates speed.

An operator, after a few years, is attacked with some paralysis of the hand which prevents his reaching any speed on the key. The transmitter is practically an automatic key, designed in the form of a typewriter. The operator merely touches a key and the transmitter forms the letter. A much higher speed is attained than is possible with the ordinary key.

In previous tournaments the scope of contests has been limited to press and commercial work, but on this occasion there are many new classes, embracing the different branches of telegraphy, according to the following enumeration: Prizes for high speed by railroad operators, broker operators, the ladies, the "old-timers" and the champion class.

The "old-timers" event is for operators more than 60 years of age, and it is expected that it will develop the fact that, while in these days age is a detrimental factor, some of the old operators will demonstrate that they can nearly approach the lightning records of McClintic and Emanuel.

THE KOHALA DITCH.

The Kohala Ditch proposition is one which it is well should be thoroughly threshed out. There seems to be a very strong feeling on the part of A. C. Gehr that he has not been treated as he should have been.

It may be taken as a point of fact that this Kohala water scheme has been most seriously considered from the people's point of view. It has never been considered by the conservative members of the Governor's council as a money making scheme.

And it may be at once allowed that there is nothing reprehensible in this. The filling of pockets is the aim of financial manipulators. It is the aim of the steel trust, the aim of the great shipping trust, the aim of the sugar trust, the aim of the commercialism of the present century.

As far as the general public is concerned it cares very little as to the company that may control the Kohala ditch, because it does not particularly affect the general public, but from the point of view of those who have the vital interests of the Territory in charge, the Kohala ditch proposition is a most serious one.

Who ever carries the Kohala ditch matter to Washington is wasting his time and his money. The affair is well understood at the Capitol and at the White House. It might make a slight flurry, less important things have made a flurry in legislative assemblies, but the flurry has died down and been forgotten, while the true hard work has been continued and has gained its end.

To an onlooker it looks very much as if a bluff were being played off upon the Territorial Government. But bluffs can be called, and it is quite on the cards for Governor Dole to call Mr. Gehr's bluff, and he probably will.

One is informed that Mr. Gehr could not find his maps, and that when he did find them they were in an improper condition, having been opened. Mr. Gehr should remember that his negotiations were largely conducted with James H. Boyd, then Superintendent of Public Works, and that also Mr. Campbell was a trusted employe of that gentleman.

And now for the end of the whole matter. No one engaged in this is eager to do any particular good to his fellowman, whether it be Gehr or whether it be his opponent or opponents. The object is to get as much as possible out of the man who works and cultivates. If the exploiters can get everything for nothing, so much the better for him.

A RAPID GROWTH.

The use of tropical and subtropical products by any people marks in a great measure their spending power, and their growth in material wealth. The value of these products imported last year was over $400,000,000. In 1895 the value of these products was $300,000,000, in 1875 it was $200,000,000 and in 1870 only $140,000,000.

But money value does not really show the increase, since there has been a reduction in the price of these articles. The value of sugar for instance, imported into the United States—that is cane sugar not above No. 16 Dutch standard—at the end of the fiscal year June 30, 1903, was $104,000,000, while in 1870 the value was $70,000,000, but the number of pounds brought in from the tropics was four times greater in 1903 than it was in 1870.

As long as the consumption of sugar, tropical cane sugar, continues, our prosperity on these islands will continue. The demand for sugar not only increases with the growth of the population, but the per capita amount is constantly increasing. If at the present time the mainland of the United States consumes 5,000,000,000 pounds of tropical sugar the time is not far distant when it will consume 8,000,000,000 pounds.

Of the $400,000,000 imported from the tropics to the mainland, the tropical islands of the United States supplied articles, chiefly sugar, to the value of $50,000,000. Under the term tropical islands are included Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

A NOBLE LIFE.

In losing Judge Estee, Hawaii has lost a friend. The late Judge took a very living interest in the Territory and its progress. He wanted it to advance upon American lines, because first and last he was essentially an American, and he believed, and justly, that those lines were best for the Territory. No one who was present at the last Fourth of July in the Judge's court can forget the impression that he made. There was no general celebration of the day, but the Judge determined that though there might be no general celebration, his court at least should mark the day, and he invited a large number of people to be present and speak upon the occasion. His own remarks in opening the proceedings showed how he valued his citizenship, and how earnest he was to impress the value of American citizenship upon others. To him it was no light thing to take up, it was a vital thing, a living thing, and he guided his lifework by his views.

It was fortunate for the Territory of Hawaii that Judge Estee came as the first representative of the Federal court. He came to us a ripened jurist, trained in the broad school of the West, with an understanding of men and manners which can only be obtained in that field.

Of Judge Estee's career on the mainland, others may speak. It was, starting and brilliant. High civic honors have been his, and yet higher honors have been proposed for him. He passed through an adventurous youth and he reached a calm and dignified old age. He left an impress on his time, which will not be forgotten. With him it was not out of sight, out of mind.

But it is not his career in California that we have to consider. It is his career here. Having been sent to represent Federal justice in the new territory, what success did he make? There can only be one opinion expressed upon this point, he worthily fulfilled the duties of his high office. His judgments have been sound and have been supported by the higher tribunals.

Brief, as measured by time, has been Judge Estee's career in this Territory. Far reaching, as measured by results, will be the influence of that career. The late Judge set an example, struck a keynote, which can not be forgotten and can not be unheard. He showed us what should be the ideals of a Federal Judge, and he worthily lived up to those ideals.

I have erected for myself a monument more enduring than brass, taking a just pride in his poetry. But there is something more enduring, something more noble than poetry. A man may write noble sentiments, may weave lofty ideas into poetic form, and may be a very poor kind of a man after all. But to live noble sentiments, to make lofty ideas a part and parcel of the life, to weave them into the woof of daily existence is truly to erect a monument more enduring than brass.

live. A man's life has tremendous influence either for good or for evil. When he has lived a worthy life, when he has lived an example of high ideals, and good practical common sense, he has done his duty as a good citizen and a good man and can lay down his weary head upon his last pillow in full consciousness that he has fulfilled the work which his creator has given him to do. And it was with such consciousness that Judge Estee passed to his reward.

The members of the Legislature and the officials of the House of Representatives are beginning to realize that going away with documents which are the property of the Federal Government is some what of a serious offence, and that it may lead those connected with the matter into a very serious position with a dangerous possibility of being placed within the prison walls. In course of time our representatives will learn that they are responsible and not irresponsible persons, but the lesson will probably require to be very sharp.

MILLET WINS

Joe Cohen's protegee, Joe Millett defeated Al Wenig last night before the Reliance Club, Oakland in two rounds. Al Wenig, who was formerly the trainer of Jimmy Michael, the crack bicycle rider, has been in the ring with hard hitters and had a reputation for being a handy man with his fists. He had fought twice with Jack Root, once defeated and once lucky enough to get a draw. He had two contests with Marvin, and two fights with Kid Carter were declared draws. Wenig once defeated "Philadelphia" O'Brien.

Millett's local record is a victory over Tom Mattox in the first round, on June 6. He next defeated Billy Woods. He knocked out Sailor Brown at the Chinese theater. He is a hard hitter and takes heavy pounding like a Trojan. The fight last night was for 60 per cent of the gate receipts, the winner taking 75 per cent and the loser 25 per cent. It is the opinion that the attendance was large as considerable interest was manifested in coast sporting circles in the outcome. Millett, it is now believed, will be able to arrange a fight with Jack Root. A good deal of local money had been bet on Millett. Cohen, it is said wins about $700.

The two companies of Coast Artillery from Camp McKinley were brought into the city in three cars of the Rapid Transit Company. They arrived at Alakea street promptly at 9 o'clock, and formed there and marched thence to the church, where they awaited under arms the services at the church, and later took their places in the procession.

Worshipful Master A. Lewis, Jr., conducted the masonic services in the church. "Nearer My God to Thee," was sung by the choir and then at the solemn three taps of the Master Mason the members of the order rose, the congregation following, to listen to the responses of the masons. "Lead Kindly Light," was sung with the same beautiful blending of voices that marked the former hymn. Further responses ending with the impressive "So Mote It Be" of the masons was followed by prayer and "Abide With Me."

The Rev. W. M. Kincaid, who was well acquainted with the late judge and was with him in his last illness, then delivered an eloquent eulogy.

"Rest Noble Heart," was sung by Mrs. Montague Turner very effectively and then the Rev. Kincaid offered a last prayer, closing with special intercession for the widow of the deceased. The Masonic benediction, delivered by Grand Master Lewis, closed the services and, led by the Knights Templar, those who were to take part in the procession left the church. Behind the lodge members the casket was borne out by a force of police.

Mrs. Estee followed the coffin, escorted by H. Wingate Lake, Miss Ryan, Miss Handy, Mrs. Lake, Mrs. C. A. Galbraith, Mrs. W. B. Maling, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith were among the mourners.

The services throughout were distinctly Masonic and one feature which attracted a good deal of attention was that Worshipful Master Lewis wore his hat throughout the services in the church, according to masonic custom. It is the rule of the lodge that the Worshipful Master shall keep his hat on during the services, though all others be uncovered, and this rule was carried into the church.

Governor Dole, followed by his staff, walked after the mourners and then came Admiral Terry and Captain Rodman, representatives of foreign consulates, Chief Justice Frear, Judges Robinson and De Bol and members of the bar.

All along the streets and at the windows were large crowds of people watching the procession. The Knights Templar were conspicuous with their plumed hats and black suits and they marched with precision. The Masons, Odd Fellows and Knights of Pythias were also in their uniforms and added much to the impressiveness of the line. The police and military made another noteworthy feature.

As the hearse passed along the streets the throngs on the sidewalks raised their hats. There was genuine respect and mourning among the onlookers and the place Judge Estee had won in public esteem was attested over and over again by expressions of appreciation of his character and sorrow over his taking away.

Among those in carriages were Admiral Terry and Captain Rodman, Mrs. W. B. Maling, Miss Handy, Mrs. E. A. Douthitt, Chief Justice Frear, Attorney General Andrews, Judge De Bolt and A. G. M. Robertson, Judge Kepoikai, Land Commissioner Boyd, Judge Weaver. Among those in line in addition to those among the membership of the various organizations, which took many of the Bar Association from the ranks of the bar were a group of lawyers, headed by W. O. Smith, president of the Bar Association. Following him were Judge Kaulukou and T. McCants Stewart, Judge Lindsay, J. A. Mathewman, S. F. Chillingworth, General Hartwell, C. L. Clemons, E. A. Douthitt, Judge Stanley, J. A. Magoon, W. T. Rawlins, T. I. Dillon, Frank E. Thompson and others.

A slight shower fell during the early part of the march and some of the silk hats and handsome uniforms were threatened, but the rain didn't last, and little damage was done.

The procession wound its way slowly down Alakea street to King and along King to River and thence to the Hackfeld wharf, where the steamer Alameda lay. Here the band took up a position in front, where it is usually stationed to play steamers off, while the Masons and Odd Fellows formed in a long line behind them. It was a solemn steamer day. Instead of the usual scene of gaiety, leis and music there was silence and mourning. Mrs. Estee, accompanied by Miss Ryan and a number of friends, went on board early. Many friends called with last farewells to the bereaved woman, who bore herself bravely. Past Master Andrew Brown was on board and accompanies the body to San Francisco, to deliver it to the lodge of which the late judge was a member.

At San Francisco there will be another service, in charge of the Masonic lodge of which Judge Estee was a member. The local funeral allowed Hawaiian friends of the late judge to gather and show respect to his memory before the body left the islands. At San Francisco relatives and brother lodgemen and friends of all sorts will observe the final rites before interment.

The last ceremony in Hawaii was at the wharf. While the crowd stood around the uniformed lodgemen and the band and while those on the deck of the steamer were waiting for the signals of departure, the band struck up in subdued tones the strains of "Aloha Oe." The casket was carried forward and over a short, lower gangway through a port-hole into the hold of the vessel. A flag was arranged above the port-hole, so that the remains of the late Judge Estee left the shores of Hawaii as he would have wished, under an American flag.

FUNERAL ORATION

Rev. Kincaid's address was as follows:

There are occasions in the life of men and of communities when we turn from the turmoil of business and of civil duties to behold the work of that great reaper, death; there are times of solemnity and bereavement, when language cannot portray the emotions of the soul; there are moments when sadness, like a tidal wave, sweeps over our hearts with a resistless force; there are experiences which beget bitter though unavailing tears and vain regrets which are fraught with desolation.

Who can glory in his strength, or stretch forth his hand and stay the Angel of Death? Who can defy the dread summons to join the innumerable host whose way lies through the portals of the tomb? Who can tell the day or the hour when his earthly life shall be closed and he himself called to render an account of the deeds done in the body? The uncertainty of human life looms up ever before us and seems to make all earthly achievements futile and worthless, but this is only apparently so. Men pass away, but their life-work endures. The body may be laid in the grave, but the rich legacy of the lessons and influences of the good, brave, honorable man remain to us and to our children. The subtle, powerful, though silent influence of such a life bears perennial harvests which death cannot destroy. A few weeks ago, our beloved friend and fellow-citizen, Judge Estee, seemed to us who loved him to be in fair health. A few days ago disease seized upon him. He sickened and died. Such is the weakness of human life. Health, ener-worked with increasing energy for the success of the party. He was the chairman of the national convention which nominated Mr. Harrison for the presidency. His political acumen became traditional; his loyalty a constant inspiration. He was a whole-hearted patriot. He loved his country, its institutions and its flag. He was one of those who conscientiously assume the burdens and face the duties of citizenship. He knew that good government is an individual affair; that there can be no honest mass unless there be honest particles. This was an American citizenship which from the keynote of the masterly addresses time to time he gave from the rostrum of Central Union Church and in other places. He was model citizen himself. He came as near my conception of the ideal American as any man with whom I have had to do of late years.

HIS KINDLINESS.

And if he was a model citizen, he was an equally model judge. Neither the partiality of friendship nor the interest of individuals ever warped his judgment or colored his decisions. He made no hasty rulings, nor did he indulge in careless opinions. Strong in convictions he had the moral courage to express them and be governed by them. He was absolutely fearless in his judicial conduct. He loved justice. His sense of fairness made him the friend of the people and the people his friend. He believed in fair dealing and common honesty. A keen, unerring judge of men, he was charitable in his judgment of them. In an intimate intercourse with him that extended over the period of his residence on the islands I never heard from his lips an expression which would wound the heart or feelings of another. He was naturally broad-minded, and his great heart was full of kindness and human sympathy. His loyalty to his friends fenced the point of genuine chivalry. Being the first federal judge to occupy a place on the bench of Hawaii, he believed, as he often said to me, that he was making history; and he was making history. Well for Hawaii that she has had such a man for her first federal judge; God grant that his judicial mantle may fall upon another equally as wise and fair and loyal to the spirit and laws of America.

ESTEE AS A MAN.

I have spoken to you of Judge Estee as a patriot, a citizen, a judge, what shall I say of him as a man? His character was as the open day—neither darkness nor shadow rested upon it. There was nothing hidden that should be revealed; there was nothing concealed that should be known. Rock-ribbed by integrity and probity, his conduct was ever just and honorable. The dignity of his manhood spurned all that was mean and worthless, and his virtues lent a charm of manner and a social attractiveness that gave him pre-eminence. Dear friend the page of thy life has been clearly written, and without blot or stain. Thy record is unchallenged. The breath of suspicion or the shafts of obloquy cannot reach thee; the rancor of aspersion cannot touch thee. Malignity and vindictiveness had no place in thy nature, thy loyalty to truth, thy fealty to duty, thy unswerving devotion to the right has carved for thee an enduring tablet in our hearts.

THE GOSPEL OF KINDNESS.

Judge Estee, like all true men, was sensitive to unjust criticism, and this very sensitiveness made his sympathy reach out to those who were maligned and wronged. As I sat by his side last Saturday morning with my hand clasped in his, he said to me: "Mr. Kincaid, I have never made any professions of religion but I have always tried to do the right thing by every human being." But is not that being a Christian in the truest sense of the word? I claim thee in the best of all gospels, the simple gospel of human kindness. "So many gods, so many creeds, So many ways so hard to find, When all this wicked world doth need Is just the art of being kind."

Judge Estee was thoroughly imbued with the Christ spirit—that beautiful spirit which holds the whole human family, irrespective of race or color condition, together in the bonds of unity and love, which seeks to make the world realize that we are all children of the same Father, travelling toward the same home, and hoping to sit down at last at the same banquet, and that therefore we should love one another. In life there is nothing except what we put in it. In all the many years of his life, Judge Estee crowded so much work, such numerous duties as to merit from his fellow-citizens that most eloquent tribute paid to Goethe by the German Emperor: "You are a man." Michelet has gone into raptures over the force of that tribute paid to the great German poet, and we may well thank God that there has died in the harness in our midst a man who could well be called "a man." It has been well said that death and duty enable all men. Devotion to duty enable all men. Devotion to Judge Estee's life. Her command to him was "as thus saith the Lord." His entire career exemplified the truth that the path of duty is the upward way—duty, nobly performed, toward his neighbor and to himself.

HIS FAMILY LIFE.

It is not for me to enter that "holy of holies," the family life of Judge Estee; that is too sacred to be exposed to public gaze. Suffice to say that no truer man, as a loving husband and devoted father, ever lived, and as such he will be remembered by wife and daughter as long as life shall last. My own personal relations with him whom I delighted to call "my friend" extended over the period of his life in Honolulu; and as I look back upon it now it seems as a golden chain, each link of which constitutes a loving service performed or some loving assistance rendered. None will miss him more from the community than the pastor of Central Union Church. I wish that I had the eloquence to pay the tribute that I would fain lay upon

SAN FRANCISCO MERCHANTS DEPARTS

VICE-PRESIDENT OF MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION RETURNS HOME ON ALAMEDA.

Andrew W. Davis vice-president of the Merchants Association of San Francisco returned to the Coast today on the S. S. Alameda. He paid only a brief visit to Honolulu but was delighted with the trip. He has travelled extensively, but he says that the Hawaiian islands are about the finest place he has ever visited. Mrs. Davis is one of the proprietors of the Emporium and Golden Rule Bazaar of San Francisco. He was one of the proprietors of the latter institution and after the consolidation of the two concerns, took charge of the affair of the new firm. He had been over worked and decided to make the round trip on the Alameda for the purpose of getting relief from business cares. He brought numerous letters of introduction to prominent people of this city but did not present them, as he desired complete rest. He was entertained during his visit however by Mrs. W. W. Dimond at her Niu home. He brought letters to Emil Berndt the manager of W. W. Dimond and Company and was entertained by Mr. places of interest about the island.

BOSTON WINS.
BOSTON (Mass.), October 13.—By taking the eighth and decisive game in the series from the Pittsburgh National League champions today the Bostonians, who won the American League pennant, captured the baseball championship of the world by five games to three. The final game today, which resulted in a score of 3 to 0 in favor of Boston, was a battle between Phillip, the Pittsburgh crack and Dineen. A triple, two singles and a sacrifice gave the Beaneaters two runs in the fourth inning to which a triple and a single added another in the sixth, leaving no doubt as to the issue of the contest.

THE FUNERAL ORATION

his heir, and which his memory deserves. By those who knew him he will be fondly spoken of until the last survivor has passed away. In our memories he will live as one who loved his country, who loved its institutions and its people. I cannot better summarize than to say he lived a true life, and in the language of the great philanthropist, Horace Greeley, who said: "Whoever seeks to know if his career has been prosperous and brightening from start to finish, should ask not for broad acres or towering edifices or laden coffers; let him ask rather, Did he live a true life?"

A TRUE LIFE.
Yes, dear friend, thou hast lived a true life, and as thou hast lived a true life, so much greater shall thy reward be in the hereafter. Thou sleepest the sleep that knows no awakening, but thou wilt live with us all in our memory. Many times and oft, will we find ourselves looking for a face we cannot see and listening for a voice we cannot hear. But thank God the grave is not the end. We look beyond to the great fact of immortality, and we cling to the great fact that we are immortal; that there is light and life and love and friendship beyond the grave, and comforted by the thought, we can say "Dear friend, hail and farewell."

"The city of our God
Her gates shall open wide,
And through her streets and portals
Broad
Shall pour a living tide.
There no more night shall be,
And death shall reign no more;
There shall be no more sea,
No parting on the shore."

PROCESSION TO THE WHARF

It became very evident yesterday afternoon that the Masonic Temple was entirely inadequate in seating capacity to accommodate the large number of all classes of citizens who desired to pay the last mark of respect to the late Judge Este, Rev. William Morris Kincaid, placed Central Union church at the service of the committee of arrangements, and the services were held there this forenoon.

In the seating arrangements, seats were set apart for those attending as follows:
On the left side, entering the church, Governor Dole and staff, Admiral Terry and staff, the Judiciary, officers from Camp McKinley, the whole Bar Association, heads of Territorial departments, Federal officials, postoffice, customs, internal revenue, quarantine, immigration, justice, etc.
On the right, entering the church, will be seats for the Honolulu Commandery, K. T., followed by the I. O. O. F. and K. of P. lodges.
In the middle, the chief mourners will occupy the front pew but one, followed by the Masons occupying the next six rows.
The general public will fill up the back part and extreme sides of the church.
A. Lewis, Jr., Worshipful Master of Hawaiian Lodge, will have charge of the services at the church.

Mrs. Montague Turner sang as a solo, "Rest Noble Heart," by Nevins, and hymns were sung by choir composed of Miss Kelley, Miss Hartnagle, Mrs. C. B. Cooper, Miss Marie von Holt Isaac Dillingham, Clifford Kimball and Walter F. Dillingham and Arthur Wall.
Col. J. H. Soper was grand master of the procession, assisted by Captain John Kidwell. Eight policemen as body-bearers and the following gentlemen as honorary pall-bearers: Robert Lewers, E. A. Schaefer, J. A. McCandless, B. F. Dillingham, E. F. Dole, Justice C. A. Galbraith, Judge Austin Whiting, H. W. Breckons, E. R. Hendry and W. B. Maling.

The procession formed on Alakea street near Beretania and extending out the latter street to and past the church. The line of march was down Alakea to King street, Ewa along King to River street, along River across the mid-wharf to Hackfeld wharf, at which point the Federal and Territorial troops formed in line on the Waikiki side of the wharf. The Odd Fellows gathered on the Waikiki side of the wharf immediately mauka of the soldiers, allowing the Masons to open ranks and permit the hearse and pallbearers to pass through.

BAR ASSOCIATION.
A meeting of the executive committee of the Hawaiian Bar Association was held at 4 p. m. yesterday afternoon in the office of the president, W. O. Smith. At that time it was supposed that the funeral of Judge Este was to be from Masonic Temple, where the limitation of space caused an allotment of but five seats to representatives of the Association. The following were appointed as the five members to represent the bar: A. S. Hartwell, Cecil Brown, W. O. Smith, J. L. Kaulukou and J. A. Matthewsman. It was agreed that the larger number of the members of the bar should assemble on the outside and join in the procession to the steamer. The marshaling of the members was placed in charge of C. R. Hemenway.

President Smith was authorized to obtain a suitable floral piece for presentation on behalf of the Association.
E. P. Dole, J. W. Cathcart and T. McCants Stewart were appointed as a committee to prepare resolutions to be presented before the Supreme Court at such appropriate time as may be arranged.

MADAME PELE STILL WORKING

Madame Pele is still doing business at the old stand. Mauna Loa is still in eruption. Mokuaweoweo is still active. The following wireless message was received at 10:45 o'clock this morning:
"Holuaoa, Hawaii, October 28, 1903.

"Richard H. Trent, Honolulu.
"Party just returned from Mokuaweoweo. Active lake 1000 feet diameter. Cone shooting lava 150 feet high. Indications point to continuation."

Owing to some reports that had percolated here from Hawaii, a feeling had begun to spread that the activity was about at an end; that those who had not already seen the great phenomenon, would not now have a chance to see it for several years, perhaps. This message by wireless telegraph however, seems to indicate that the volcano is just as active as ever and that it is not yet too late to visit the marvel.

MORSE TO MIDWAY BY THE IROQUOIS.

longitudes. Mr. Morse, besides his instruments, will take sufficient lumber to build an observatory, though he is not at all certain that he will get it to Midway. It will have to go as deck load on the Iroquois, and she is low in the water, and the seas about Midway are so boisterous at this time of year, that it is quite likely to be washed overboard. However the attempt to get it to Midway will be made. Mr. Morse will take canvas along, so that in case he does not get his lumber there he can provide a canvas observatory. There are no hotels at Midway so he will sleep in his tent and he has made arrangements with the cable people to get his meals with them. However he will take his own supply of provisions along.

After he gets to Midway and has his instruments in position he will get into communication with Mr. Smith who is at Guam, and they will make their observations from those two points together. Then Mr. Smith will leave Guam and go by way of Manila to Honolulu when joint observations will be made from these two stations. When these are completed the whole chain of observations will be completed which the department started out to make. All the data of the observations will be sent to Washington and will be worked up there.

Coughs Quickly Stopped

If you know what to take. They seem to be prevalent just at this time and we are having a continuous call for one of the best remedies ever sold here for coughs and colds.

Putnam's Cherry Cough Comfort

is so well known that it seems hardly necessary to mention the name because this remedy will be found in every home. The moment a cough develops a few doses stop it. You want to nip the cough at the start then it's easy. An old cough is troublesome to cure, but Putnam's Cherry Cough Comfort will stop any cough that's curable.

Another reason for its wide popularity is, it is easy to take. Children do not object to it. It does not contain injurious ingredients, like opium, but is made principally from the extract of wild cherries, one of the best remedies for throat and pulmonary troubles known.

Insist on having the genuine Putnam's Cherry Cough Comfort, and accept no other that is recommended "just as good" because you will be disappointed.
