FOUGHT WITH CONVICTS

PURSUERS GET WITHIN GUNSHOT OF GANG OF DESPERADOES AND EXCHANGE SHOTS—NOBODY INJURED—TWELVE MEN ARE STILL AT LIBERTY ALTHOUGH CLOSELY PURSUED.

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

FOLSOM, Cal., July 29.—The twelve escaped convicts are still uncaptured. The pursuers have gained on the crowd and shots have been exchanged with the convicts. Nobody was injured. The entire country is alarmed.

The convicts are keeping together. They appear to have organized a systematic campaign whereby they will be able for a time to successfully combat their pursuers. It is feared as the pursuers close in on the convicts that the latter will become more desperate and perpetrate outrages upon the residents in the districts through which the convicts are escaping.

DAVIS DISBARMENT CASE A LIVELY ONE

THE RESPONDENT FINALLY DECLARES THAT THE SUPREME COURT HERE HAS NO JURISDICTION TO TRY THE CASE AGAINST HIM—ONLY SUPREME COURT AT WASHINGTON HAS POWER.

The George A. Davis disbarment proceeding began before a crowded court room in the Supreme Court this morning. After the reading of the information and answer and introduction of records, R. W. Davis was called to the stand and told of how he went to consult the respondent. The attorney general caused the first tiff by using the term "Davis" in a question as to Wylie's talk with George A. Davis.

"Mr. Davis if you please," said George A. Davis.

"Well, the respondent then," said Andrews, instructing the witness to pay no attention to the interruption. Davis objected, claiming the use of the term Davis was discourteous. "The attorney general said 'respondent' later," sair the chief justice.

Wylie asid that George A. Davis wanted a retainer and that the sum of $500 was mentioned. Here Davis objected again, declaring that the attorney was not bringing out sufficiently the fact that the $500 was a retained. He was overruled.

"My mother wanted Davis to look after her brother John K Sumner," said Wylie, "and he told her she would have to bring suit. The papers were then already drawn up and my mother signed them. He mentioned something about non compos mentis and she wanted to know what that was. I told her it meant insane and she said her brother was not insane and she didn't like it. Neither my mother nor myself ever said we wanted to get any money from Sumner."

The suit came to an end when Sumner one day called on his aged sister. "He told her that it wasn't right for brother and sister to be quarreling and that he didn't like to be called into court. Sumner said to his sister that he wanted to give her $10,000 each of the Ellises $10,000 and the church a like amount and then be clear of all. My mother said that all her suits were to save her brother and that if he wanted to give the money he could do it. I went to Davis' office and told him my uncle had called on my mother and wanted to settle the case and Mr. Davis said 'How about my fee,' and that he wa snot doing business for nothing. He said he wanted $5,000." Wylie said that he told the attorney this would leave Wylie's mother only $5,000, and she would not agree. Mr. Davis said he would have something to say about a fee. Sumner also refused to pay the fee and Davis said he would see Dillingham. He did so later the attorney said Dillingham had agreed to pay the $5,000 extra for his fee. The sale to the Oahu Railway and Land Company for $10,000 was consummated and the general settlement was made.

"Did you or your mother retain any other lawyer?"

"Not until I saw Mr. Magoon in court with Mr. Davis and Davis said he had taken Mr. Magoon into the case. I told my mother and she said it was all right."

"Did you instruct Mr Davis to employ another lawyer?"

"As near as I can recollect I did. I think I said Magoon had had a similar case years ago and knew all about it."

"Did you make any agreement to pay Mr. Magoon?"

"I object to that" said the respondent Davis The court overruled the objection and the answer was "No."

The witness said that his first conversation with Davis was about the later suit. He met the lawyer down town and the lawyer told him he could get out the tied-up money. "He said he'd sue the bank" said Wylie "and have the money out of the bank in 24 hours. I shope to my uncle about it and my uncle told me to bring Davis, Mr. Davis came out to the house. He said something about a notary and I mentioned Burnette and Burnette and Mr. Davis went to the house.

The first talk was about the money. Mr. Davis said if you will give me power to act I will get that money and if I don't get it in 24 hours I will bring suit. My uncle asked about the fee and Mr. Davis said $3,000. Mr. Sumner said that was better than going to court.

"Mr. Davis read a paper before my uncle and Mr. Burnette. It was something about a power. It was in Mr. Davis' handwriting and I couldn't read it."

Andrews offered in evidence the promissory note, signed by Sumner on December 1, for $3,000 It was endorsed later "$1,000 remitted, $2,000 received in full, George A Davis."

After the interview with Sumner Mr. Davis met Wylie the next day, to go to the bank and draw the money. Sumner duly signed a check for $48,025 and appeared to be very happy. "I went in a hack to the bank and George A. Davis asked the cashier for Mr. S. M. Damon. We saw Sam Damon and Davis presented the check and demanded payment. Sam laughed and said the money was in dispute Davis then went to the cashiers and tried them all. I went back and told my uncle and he was very much disappointed. I said Mr. Davis would now sue the bank."

"Did he sue the bank?"

No, Sir."

"Did he return the note for $3,000."

"No."

The next event was the final decision of the Supreme court in Sumner's favor Sumner went to Magoon's house at once Mr. Davis was there. Davis demanded $2,500 and displayed the note for $3,000. "He said he had worked hard day and night and deserved $2,500. My uncle said he would give $1,500 and Mr. Davis refused. Davis got mad and my uncle wouldn't say much then and stood up and said he wanted to go home and I went with him. My uncle said he would think about it and see tomorrow.

"The next morning we talked the matter over in Magoon's office. My uncle said he had thought over the matter and decided $1,500 was enough. Davis insisted on $2,500. He said 'If I don't get it I'll tie that money up in the bank unless the fee was settled.' My uncle and I talked aside and though best to offer $500 more and avoid trouble and Davis agreed to take $2,000. He said it wasn't right, after he had worked so hard. The money was paid in Judge De Bolt's office.

"Judge De Bolt knew there was an agreement or note and he wanted to know about it. The note was produced and it was then that the endorsement was made showing it was paid. Judge De Bolt remarked that he was a witness to it."

Andrews inquired whether Davis had been retained to appear in the case. Davis objected and the attorney general stated that he wanted to prove that Davis had never been retained and that the $3,000 note had been given for another purpose. The objection was overruled and the witness said he did not know of the retining of Davis.

On cross-examination Davis showed Sumner's power of attorney, authorizing him to appear in all matters. He asked if it had been all read over to Sumner and Wylie said that it had and that Sumner understood it as meaning a power to get the $48,025 out of the bank.

The witness testified that he was not present at Davis' first interview with his Mother. There was a very lively interchange of questions and answers over the locality of Mrs. Maria S. Davis' home at that time.

"You don't know what took place at that interview?" asked Davis

"No, I don't."

The witness didn't deny that Mrs. Davis had sent for George A. Davis. "Didn't you tell me your mother was in reduced circumstances and that the Ellises were going to get some money and she should have some?" asked Davis.

"No." Wylie also denied that he had said he was supporting his mother. He admitted telling Davis that Sumner was going to give the church $25,000 and the Ellises $50,000. The attorney produced a letter from Kinney and Ballou which Wylie had brought.

"Didn't I tell you I was negotiating with Dillingham for the settlement of this suit over he reef property?"

The witness first replied that all the negotioting Davis did was about his fee but finally remembered some such conversation.

"Did I do my work at the instance and request of yourself and your mother?"

"Yes."

"Were these matters all ended before the first of December when the power of attorney was given?"

"Yes."

The witness admitted that George A. Davis had refused to act for Sumner without power of attorney.

UNUSUAL ACCIDENT REPORTED FROM WAILUKU TO POLICE—J. HOLT JR. ALLEGED CAUSE.

J. Holt, Jr., was arrested last week at Wailuku to await the decision of a coroner's jury in the case of a Chinese that had come to his death it is said, as the result of being thrown to the ground by Holt.

News of the occurrence was received today by the local police from Sheriff Baldwin. On last Thursday, a Chinese and Holt were scrapping From the statements of the affair, Holt was teasing the man. The Chinese got angry and struck Holt with a rock. Holt then caught hold of the Chinese and threw him to the sidewalk. The Chinese was rendered unconscious and on Saturday died, presumably from the effects of the injury. A coroner's inquest was called for Saturday.

T. F. LANSING IS COMMISSIONER

GOVERNOR DOLE APPOINTS HIM TO THE OFFICE CREATED BY THE LEGISLATURE TO SEEK TO SECURE FOR THE TERRITORY DESIRABLE IMMIGRATION TO DEVELOP OUR VARIOUS RESOURCES.

T. F. Lansing has been appointed Commissioner of Immigration. The commission was made out this morning by Secretary Carter in accordance with a letter received from Governor Dole yesterday. When the governor left for Maui and Hawaii the matter was in the air. He left a blank commission, signed, and this morning Carter filled in the name of Lansing and sent the commission to him.

Lansing was a member of the old firm of Gear, Lansing & Company, and was formerly treasurer of the Territory. His name was not mentioned as a candidate for the place up to the time of the Governor's departure.

He is now manager of the Hawaiian Hardware Company.

THE COMET IN THE NORTHERN SKY

CAN BE SEEN TONIGHT IN THE BIG DIPPER—DIRECTOR CAMPBELL OF THE LICK OBSERVATORY TELLS WHERE TO LOOK FOR IT AND WHAT IT LOOKS LIKE—THE BORRELLY COMET.

Concerning the comet, known as the Borrelly comet, now approaching the sun through the northern sky, W. W. Campbell of the Lick Observatory gives the following popular account of its movements and directions for finding it:

The motion of this comet is unusually rapid, at present being about five degrees daily, northwest. The head of the comet is a fairly conspicuous object in the evening sky, being somewhat brighter than a fourth-magnitude star. Observers will have no difficulty in seeing it if they know where to look. In the clear, dark skies of Mount Hamilton, a short tail can be seen projecting from the head in a direction opposite that of the sun. The photographic plate is so much more efficient, however, in recording faint objects of this kind that no attempt is made to secure visual observations of the tail.

The structure of the tail changes from night to night. It is probable that the attenuated matter composing it is driven off into space and lost, to be replaced within twenty-four hours by an entirely new tail.

On Saturday evening, July 18, after the sky is thoroughly dark, observers may find the comet easily by drawing a line from the Pole star to Vega, the very bright star a little northeast of the zenith, and looking about four degrees west of the middle point of this imaginary line.

On the evening of the 23d the comet will be nearly between Alpha Draconis and the Pole star, about two degrees from the former. On the 28th it will be in the Big Dipper, a little above the star Delta, at the junction of the bowl and handle. On the 30th it will be near the star Gamma.

The comet can readily de distinguished from stars by the fact that it presents the appearance of a hazy ball of light in contrast to the sharply defined points presented by the stars.

ARBUCKLE TO HUNT BURIED TREASURE.

Coffee Millionaire Fitting Out an Expedition to Sail to South American Coast.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Journal says that John Arbuckle, the coffee millionaire, has fitted up the old bark Jacob A. Stammler for an expedition to search for buried treasure. The bark is at the foot of Van Brunt street, Brooklyn. There she has been coaled and provisioned for a long voyage, the end of which is known to two men only—Arbuckle himself and Commodore Field, his trusty skipper.

The story is that a clairvoyant, one of the kind who look into glass globes and foretell the fall of obviously insecure dynasties, told a clerk in the employ of the millionaire of the existence of buried treasure at a spot on the coast of South America 100 miles from Rio Janeiro. The clairvoyant is said to have made a chart, fixing her pencil mark on the exact spot where the treasure might be found. The description so impressed the clerk that he repeated the story to Arbuckle.

Arbuckle does not deny that the bark Jacob A. Stammler, now being fitted with a crew of twenty able seamen, is to be used for the purpose described. "I have nothing to say about this matter now," he said today. "Our arrangements are not yet complete. But I promise that you shall have full details in the course of the next few days."

A bright moonlit night, a cool evening, under the trees of the beautiful grounds of the Castle home at Waikiki: The concert of the Symphony Society must attract a large audience. Friday August the seventh the date.

THE HILO STRIKE.

HILO, July 24.—The threatened strike by the union laborers employed by the Hilo Mercantile Co. in discharging lumber from the schooner Wilber F. Smith did not take place. The men were put to work discharging wharf material from the schooner the day after the dissatisfaction was expressed. Under the contract the men discharging this class of material were to work nine hours each day. There was no agreement regarding the other lumber. An employe of the Hilo Mercantile Co., in reply to a question said: "We had been paying a dollar a day for laborers of this class but in the case of this cargo we voluntarily raised the pay of the men twenty-five cents a day and supposed they would be willing to give us the extra hour. When we found they were not we said we could put the wages back and pay them an hour overtime. Some lumber was taken off the schooner on Monday but is not yet off the scows. The condition of the lumber is better for handling than any previously received as it is free from water and sand and the carry is only about fifty feet. We do not antagonize the union but we believe the men, if they want work, should, under the conditions existing meet their employers half way."

At the Union meeting last Thursday night the members voted unanimously to stand by their constitution which provides that nine hours shall constitute a day.—Hawaii Herald.

SMALL BOYS IN DANGER.

Young brothers the boatmen, say that small boys cause a great deal of trouble in the harbor by going out rowing or sailing in small boats. The youngsters get carried out to sea or else are capsized by the breakers on the Waikiki side of the channel. Young brothers have frequently had to rescue the youngsters. The police will take steps to stop small boys who cannot manage boats, going out side.

MAGOON CASE SUBMITTED

THE RESPONDENT TESTIFIES AND SUBMITS THE MATTER WITHOUT ARGUMENT.

The Magoon disbarment case ended yesterday afternoon without argument. Magoon was the only witness for himself and most of his testimony was on cross examination, his answer filed in the case being taken as direct testimony. Under questions by Andrews and members of the court Magoon went into many details regarding his services for Sumner, for which he received a fee of $4,000. Magoon told of his various suits and some matters still pending, which he said he would have to fight to a finish without further recompense, under the terms of his agreement. Much of the time of the hearing was taken up with questions as to Magoon's rate of charging fees.

Magoon said that he thought his services in the Ropert-Sumner case alone, leaving out all the other matters were worth over $4,000 He said that it was the hardest and most trying litigation he had ever engaged in and that he would not undertake it again for $5,000. He considered that his fee should have been $5,000, and thought, when he asked Sumner to fix the fee that he would fix a larger amount than $4,000. Sumner proposed $2,500 and Magoon asked $4,000 and Sumner agreed.

At the conclusion of his testimony Chief Justice Frear asked Magoon how long he wanted for argument. Magoon said he would submit the case without argument and Attorney General Andrews didn't want to argue and the matter was therefore submitted, the chief justice announcing that the George A. Davis case would be taken up at ten this morning.

JUDGE DE BOLT OVERRULES MOTIONS TO QUASH THE SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

Judge De Bolt yesterday overruled the motions of the defendant in the case of Emma Claudina Spreckels Watson against Claus Spreckels. The court held that the showing by Humphreys of his authority to bring the action was sufficient and that there was therefore a suit in court. The other grounds for quashing service of summons were overruled.

Charles L. Wight, guardian of Wilder Wight as minor, has submitted final accounts with a petition for discharge, as the ward has come of age. "IN SHEEP'S CLOTHING."

This exciting melo-drama will be presented next Saturday, August 1st, at the Orpheum.

W. D. Adams will be seen as the senior member of the banking firm of "Lincoln and Merrill," and the junior member, "Merrill," a crabbed old man, will be ably impersonated by Bruce Hartman.

"Commercius Merry," the irrepressible book-agent, falls to the lot of George Kunkel. Abbott is cast as "Phillip Hall" a victim of fate, but finally triumphant over the wicked plotting of the villain.

The real "fat" part is that of the wolf "In Sheep's Clothing," Jim Cavanaugh" who is posing as "Herbert Devere," and which will be a revelation to an audience in its realistic, clever, interpretation by Jean de Lacey. De Lacey's conception of this role far surpasses any of his past characterizations, notwithstanding his well established reputation which has been borne out by his work with the Lyceum Company.

Hugo Herzer will appear as "Black Bill," a rascal steeped in crime. Gerald Ryan will relapse into darkness in this show, playing the part of "Joe" a negro.

Dixie Ward, whose accident it was feared would prevent her appearing as "Daisy Dew" a giddy, chic, typewriter, has nearly recovered from the shock of the fall, and will positively appear. Maude Cince is cast as "Hortense" the daughter of "Lincoln" and "Philip Hale's" sweetheart. Mrs. Carl Taylor will interpret the character of "Mrs. Cavanaugh."

The tickets are on sale for reserved seats at Lyon's Book Store. Telephone Main 401.

TRANSPORT DIX ASHORE.

Associated Press. Morning Service.
WASHINGTON, July 29.—The transport Dix with Philippine exhibits for the St. Louis fair is ashore on Japan. She was floated Saturday and will be docked at Araga. Repairs will take forty days.

The transport Dix, originally a very fine steamer, but greatly imporved after being purchased by the government for use as a transport has an interesting history. In 1901, as the freight steamer Samoa, the name of the Dix at that time, the government purchased her She was then comparatively new, having been built at Sunderland, England, in 1892. She is registered at 4507 tons but can carry 9,600 tons dead weight. The Dix, as the Samoa, had been engaged in the East Indian trade. She had no passenger accommodations but on one occasion carried 2,000 Mohammedan pilgrims from Jeddah to Java. The length of the Dix is 465 feet, with a beam of fifty-two and one-half feet, and a depth of thirty-six feet, and a speed of about ten knots an hour The steamer is of steel and has steel decks. Although ashore the Dix was probably in no perilous position as she has a double bottom and seven watertight bulkheads separate her into eight different compartments. The Dix is in command of Captain Hopkins and is carrying about 500 tons of the Philippine exhibit for the St. Louis World's Fair.

CONVENTION IS PAU.

County Conventions Will be Called Later by President.

The Home Rule territorial convention came to an end yesterday afternoon. Charles Notley detailed the affairs of the Home Rule paper and said that the printers had been paid in full but that the editors had not been paid. Notley said that he did not favor fusion in politics.

President Kalauokalani gave a detailed explanation of the workings of the county bill and the rates of pay of the officials and their bonds. He also said that the manager of the car system had said that a tour of the city on the street cars, could not be exended to the convention as there was not time in which to prepare the cars.

Kaniho spoke on the county bill also. He said that true Home Rulers should be nominated.

J. M. Poepoe, M. K. Koahou, Makekau, Keha and Z. W. Waikalani spoke of the necessity of nominating good men The convention adjourned to the first Monday in July, 1904. President Kalaokalani announced that the only county convention thus far called, was that of Maui for September 8 He would visit the other islands and call the county conventions when it was desired by the people. The convention also decided to issue stock at $1 a share in order to secure control of the Kuokoa Home Rula, the native paper.

THE HARVEST HOME.

WAILUKU, July 25.—A novelty on Maui is to be offered by the citizens of Puunene on next Saturday evening, August 1, which is nothing less than a harvest home dance to celebrate the close of the Puunene sugar season a record-breaking season by the way, for the big mill has been running steadily for the last eighteen months, enriching the world by an output of sixty-four thousand tons of sugar.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the ball and supper, for which several hundred invitations are to be issued. A special orchestra of ten or twelve pieces will be brought from Honolulu, to furnish music for the occasion.

Free trains will be run from all points on the road to Puunene as follows: Leave Paia 6:45; Spreckelsville, 7; Kahului, 7:15; Wailuku, 7; Kihei, 6:45; arriving at Puunene at 7:30 p. m., and will leave again after the ball and supper. All who desire to avail themselves of train service are earnestly requested to make special note of the time of departure of the several trains and be on hand promptly, as it will be necessary to run the trains on close schedule time, in order to reach Puunene by 7:30. The dance will begin at 8 o'clock sharp, and supper at 12.—Maui News.

HOME RULE PLATFORM.

Apparently the Home Rule party is under the impression that the county elections are a general election to the legislature. All the pent up venom of the party has been devoted to a vigorous denunciation of the Territorial government. One might almost think that the person who drew up the document had been studying the rhetoric of Judge Davis. It is modeled very much in his style.

One of the most amizing things in this very curious document is that the Home Rulers claim that they and they only passed the county bill. This shows the utter dishonesty of the person who drew up the document. The legislative campaign was fought out upon the county bill question, that is upon the local self-government question. Local self-government was the main plank in the Republican platform. It was upon this platform that the party was elected. As soon as the legislature was called together the county bill was ready for discussion. It had been carefully prepared and as soon as it could be printed and translated it was discussed section by section, and with some minor changes it passed. The Home Rule section of the legislature opposed the county bill, and had it not been for the Republicans there would have been no county bill today. Repeatedly did prominent Home Rulers announce outside the legislative halls that they did not want any county bill, that they doubted whether the country was ready for a county bill, and so forth.

The history of the old Home Rule county bill in the session of 1901 is well known. After posing in the political arena as advocates of a county act, and spending two months or more in so-called preparation, the Home Rulers arrived at the session with no county act prepared. They talked and they vapored but they did not do anything. The session dragged on and still no county act materialized. Even the opponents of the Home Rulers clamored. At last, late in the session, some one went to work and scissored out portions of county acts from Arizona and Nebraska, with a few paragraphs from Illinois. These were put together without thought and consideration for conditions here. This so-called "act" provided for a colored and a white population, classing the Hawaiians with the American negroes. It provided also for fuel to warm public buildings and many other absurdities which were pointed out at the time. Portions of it were utterly unintelligible, but it is needless to recapitulate the arguments and criticisms upon a dead bill. With all its crudities and absurdities it passed both House and Senate and then it suffered the fate it deserved. It was not worth the paper that it was written and printed on.

In face of these facts it is amusing to say the least of it to see the Home Rule county platform state "that through the efforts of this party and its settled, persistent and determined opposition to those who would establish in this Territory a rule of corporate and class wealth the people are at last assured a small measure of Home Rule." Behold! says this precious document, how good and great we are. We failed utterly in the 1901 session with our county bill. We opposed the county bill in 1903. Now, give us credit for our "settled, persistent and determined opposition." Great and good is the Home Rule party which strove to keep county government from the people.

Of the remainder of the so-called platform there is not much to say. There are three paragraphs which commence "we denounce" and one paragraph commencing "we condemn." As there are nine paragraphs in all including the exordium, just one-half of the document consists of denunciation and condemnation, while the remaining four paragraphs contain a fair measure of vituperation. There is not a word of the manner in which the Home Rulers intend to administer the counties, not a word about the hoped for economy which will be obtained by the exercise of and installation of county government, not a word as to the advantages to be obtained by the people through county government, not a syllable about the public works in the counties. In plain words the so-called platform of the Home Rule party, upon which it intends to stand before the county election, is a mere emitation of bile which must have sat very uncomfortably upon the political stomach of the framer. It is not a winning platform by any means. It is certainly a very bilious one.

THE DELAYED MEMORIAL.

The suggestion that a memorial should be sent to congress by the Home Rule party to ask for the restoration of the monarchy, for that is practically what is meant by the agitators of the scheme, is one calculated to increase the political unrest and therefore retard the progress of the Territory. The engineers of the movement are perfectly aware that there can be no result from such a movement, but they strive to blind the voter for their own ends. At first the plan was to be carried out right away, but second thoughts urged delay. In fact it is very doubtful whether there was any second thought. The probability is that the delay was planned when the first statement was made.

The argument based upon Cuba have no analogy with the circumstances here. The United States occupied Cuba and always said that when the conditions in Cuba warranted it, the United States would withdraw its troops. The time came and the United States withdrew. Cuba was never annexed. The case of the Philippines is not analogous, and no one can say what will be the ultimate result in those islands. Casual remarks in congress have no bearing upon the question.

Hawaii has been formally and completely annexed by act of congress. Hawaii is today American soil. We are living under a constitution—for the organic act is our constitution—granted by Congress. No nation willingly cuts away a portion of itself. Hawaii is and will remain a portion of the United States as long as the Great Republic shall last, and the end of the Republic must be looked for in a very far vista of future centuries, mayhap of eons.

There is a method, however, by which Hawaii can obtain entire self-government, and that is by acquiring statehood. The Republic of the United States is not in the way of restoring monarchies but it is in the way of making self-governing states when the people show themselves fitted to bear such responsibilities. The last legislature produced a crop of legislators who certainly helped to retard rather than further the chances of our becoming a state. The present Home Rule platform for the county elections also tends that way, and the proposed memorial is another nail in the coffin of statehood. As long as the voters follow blind leaders, so long will they put off their chances of full political expansion.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra seem to have made an excellent impression in Ireland. King Edward is extremely fortunate in his manner and wins friends where ever he goes. The Irish are a very warm-hearted people and easily susceptible. The few disgruntled agitators would have been glad if the King and Queen had stopped away, and did their best to make it appear that they would not be welcome, the effort failed however. By the way it is remarkable how many Irishmen have risen to high honors in the state, as jurists, as soldiers, as sailors and as writers.

It begins to look as if Sir Thomas Lipton might lift the cup after all. The Emerald Isle will then have great sporting honors through the "Shamrock."

A solemn requiem mass for the repose of the soul of the late Pontiff, held simultaneously throughout the globe, makes us realize how speedily news travels and with what ease arrangements of this kind can be made in our present state of civilization. As the sun rolled in his course throughout yesterday, at the same hour on every meridian the solemn service was performed, till the twenty-four hours were complete. The congregations throughout the world were swelled by people of all denominations, who desired to show their respect for the memory of Leo XIII.

There has been for a long time friction between German and American trade. Ambassador White had great influence in the way of smoothing such difficulties over, in as much as he was a personal friend of the Emperor. There seems now a chance of there being a tariff struggle which is much to be deprecated. Trade wars are very unsatisfactory to general commerce.

The advantages of an oil trust are receiving a practical illustration by the shortage of gasoline here. The Standard Oil people have sent all their gasoline north and California and Hawaii may wait and shut down if they like until the oil autocrats are ready to throw them a scrap. Next we shall hear of a charitable donation from Rockefeller, the percentage upon what he and his fellows have been able to cinch from the Nome people. Great are the beauties of monopoly.

The House of Representatives did well. It cleared up every dollar that it could, leaving a bare treasury, and the Senate has had to squeeze out its surplus. Smart House. But suppose the Senate had had no surplus, what then?

The convicts who escaped from Folsom released their captured guards. Their exact reason for this is not clear, though when the coast files arrive we shall know. As long as the prisoners were in their hands they had an asset to treat with. The coroner's jury has returned a verdict of murder against all the convicts engaged in the escape, so those who are not shot will be in danger of the rope.

The Russian passport system which is strict enough, is going to be made still more strict. But a five rouble bill has a wonderful effect upon the official optics.

As the telegrams state that there will be no oriental war this fall, it is a just deduction that war is more nearly imminent than it has been through any part of the year. Russia is said to have made 'concessions" to Japan, the United States and Great Britain. This hardly agrees with the statement which emanated from the Foreign Office at St. Petersburg a few days ago.

The most sensational episode at the afternoon session of the Home Rule Convention yesterday was a speech by Robert W. Wilcox the ex-delegate to Congress. Wilcox said that he proposed to present to the convention, a memorial addressed to Congress requesting the supreme power in the land to grant independence to Hawaii, with a protectorate or to make its general government similar to that of Cuba. Delegate Kuhio was expected to present this memorial to Congress. Wilcox hoped that every delegate of the convention would sign the memorial. This part of his speech caused great enthusiasm. The probabilities seemed to be that there would not be the slightest hesitancy on the part of the members to sign these memorials.

CARRARA Mixed Paint

Is not an old paint in the sense that it has been in the market for many years, but the pigments used in its manufacture are believed to be old, because they are supposed to represent the re-discovery of the secret of permanent color, thought to have been lost with Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Fra Angelico, Corregio, Murillo, Titian, Guido, Raphael and other Old Masters.

CARRARA has been in the market long enough, however to establish the fact that it gives a BETTER FINISH, lasts LONGER, under the most severe tests,covers more surface, and COSTS LESS than the best Lead, Zinc, and Oil.

If you want the Best Effect and the Best Results, USE CARRARA

Of course some people want what came over in the "Mayflower" and think that pure lead, Zinc and Oil Paint is the thing to use because "Grandpa" used it. "Grandpa" was no doubt an authority in his day and a man of judgment; but if he were alive today, it goes without saying, that he would use CARRARA.

In passing, we may say, that we still have a balance of the OLD KIND OF PAINT, as good as can be made under the old formulas, which we were selling when our knowledge was in the rudimentary stage.

This we can give you at A BARGAIN.

The Hammer Man.

The man with the little knocking machine is at work to mar the good name of the "Douglas." For him, and to tell the truth:

1. For three years the "Douglas" has had a price on its highest grade make of only $50.00. The pipe-dream prices circulated by the envious are mere, harmless, smoke-talks.
2. The other standard and invariable prices of the "Douglas" are $25.00, $35.-00 and $40.00. These prices have stood for several years and no amount of extra expense would cause an advance in price. The supply and demand regulates the market of an article, not an investment in advertising.
3. The Douglas Patent Closet can stand all sorts of knocks arising from spite as it is a fixture that is a fixture and it is here to stay.

MAJOR POND.

Major James Burton Pond, the well-known manager of lecturing tours, died lately at his home in Jersey City, having failed to recover from the shock caused by the amputation of one of his legs. He was known in nearly every city in the country, for he had taken famous people to nearly all of them at one time or another to talk about the things which they had done or seen or thought. He was America's foremost lion-tamer. Major Pond was born in Cuba, N. Y., June 11, 1838, and went to Wisconsin when a boy, where he learned the trade of a printer, and in 1860 published a little paper at Markesan. When the civil war broke out he was given a commission as a 2nd lieutenant in the 3rd Wisconsin cavalry and was promoted to a majority before the war ended. He was one of the survivors of the Baxter Springs (Kan.) massacre in 1863, when the confederate Col. Quantrell and his band of marauders, disguising themselves in federal uniforms waylaid Gen. Blunt and an escort of 100 men, 78 of whom were killed, most of them being shot down after surrender. On retiring to civil life Major Pond became a merchant in the West until 1874, when he bought the Lyceum lecture bureau in Boston and began his long and successful career as a lecture manager. He paid some enormous sums to prominent men and women for a season of lectures, and during the interim between trips wrote several books, among them being "Eccentricities of Genius," which was published in 1900. Major Pond was twice married the first time to Ann Frances Lynch in 1859 and then to Martha Marion Glass at Jersey city in 1888.

A FAMOUS CHOCTAW CHIEF.

The Mississippi department of archives and history has received a valuable contribution to the gallery of portraits of distinguished historical personages of the state. It is an elaborate oil painting of Greenwood Leflore, the Choctaw chieftain. The painting was done by a granddaughter of the old chief, Miss Florence Ray. Leflore was the last of the great chiefs of his tribe who ruled the tribe of the Choctaws before they migrated to the western reservations. Leflore was the son of Louis Le Fleur ,a French-Canadian, who came to the Mississippi territory in the early days and settled and married an Indian maiden, daughter of the then chief of the Choctaws. He was born in 1800.

As soon as he was old enough, Leflore's father sent him to Nashville to school, where he remained until he was 17 years of age. He returned to Mississippi in 1817. At the age of 24 he was chosen chief of his tribe. One of his most important acts as chief was his advocacy of the celebrated treaty of Dancing Rabbit creek. In return for his valuable services in peaceably adjusting the differences between the Indian tribes and the government, Leflore was granted several large tracts of land by treaty with the government. These lands were located in what is now Leflore county, which takes its name from the old chief. At one time he represented Carroll county in the legislature of the state.

He decided not to follow his tribes in their migration from Mississippi, and settled down on his lands in Leflore county, where he built a most elegant home, nine miles from the present town of Greenwood, "Malmaison," a historic old landmark that is pointed out with pride by the citizens of that community to this day.

Greenwood Leflore is one of the most picturesque and interesting characters in the history of Mississippi. One of the heirlooms of his family is a magnificent sword that was presented to him by the president of the United States when he was made chief of the Choctaws. It was Leflore who had a clash with Andrew Jackson, then president of the United States. He was protesting against the acts of some Indian agent in Mississippi. After a lengthy going over of the matter, Old Hickory said: "I, Andrew Jackson, president of the United States, say that the agent is an honest man." To which Leflore replied: "And I, Grenwood Leflore, chief of the Choctaws, say he is a thief."

If you have a small sum of money that you can't find a good investment to "fit," we can "club it" with several other small sums and invest it in guaranteed securities for you—and pay you the interest in cash every six months. Let us tell you about it.

MRS. HARRIET LANE JOHNSTON

With the passing last week at Narragansett Pier, R. I., of Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, niece of President Buchanan and mistress of the White House during her uncle's residence there, a career of national interest came to a close.

Mrs. Harriet Lane Johnston, writes a biographer in the Washington Star, was born at Mercersburg, Pa., her mother being a sister of James Buchanan, afterward President of the United States. Left an orphanage at 7 years, with a comfortable fortune, she was adopted by her bachelor uncle and spent her girlhood at Wheatland, his mansion near Lancaster, Pa. A part of her schoolgirl life was spent at the Georgetown Convent of the Visitation at the period when her uncle was Secretary of State and when her over Sunday visits were made at his home. When, in 1852, Buchanan was made Minister to the court of St. James, she accompanied him abroad and presided over his London home with the dignity and grace that were eminently characteristic of her maturer years. She was received at the English court with great cordiality and at subsequent notable events in the life of Queen Victoria and of the present sovereign was honored by invitations. She attended last year the coronation festivities, being especially invited by King Edward.

During President Buchanan's residence in the White House the Prince of Wales was his guest for five days. This visit renewed the pleasant intimacy between the English Queen and the fair young American, which was marked on the part of the former with pleasant remembrances from time to time. One of the interesting events recalled by Mrs. Johnston of her life in England was the ceremony at the University of Oxford, when her uncle and Alfred Tennyson received the degree of doctor of laws. This demonstration, always boisterous on the part of the students, was on this occasion directed largely toward the beautiful niece of the American minister.

The marriage of Harriet Lane and Henry Elliott Johnston of Baltimore took place in 1868, after a long engagement, Miss Lane being unwilling to leave her uncle, who, in his old age, became more and more dependent upon her companionship and care. The great sorrows of her life following the death of her uncle were the deaths of her husband and their two young sons. Her married life was spent mostly in Baltimore.

In historic old St. Paul's church, Charles and Saratoga streets, in that city, there is a beautiful memorial window on the northern side of the edifice which Mrs. Johnston had placed there in memory of her two sons. Besides this she founded in the Church Home, on North Broadway, in their memory a free ward for children.

Her home in Washington, whither she later removed, contained many interesting souvenirs of her career, and especially in its connection with public life. On its walls there is a portrait of the Prince of Wales, painted just after the Prince left the United States, and sent by him to President Buchanan. Just under the portrait in black in a little black frame is the letter which the Prince sent with the portrait. The letter was penned by his royal highness on the shores of Palestine, where he was traveling. It reads:

JAFFA, March 29, 1862.—Dear Mr. Buchanan: Permit me to request that you will accept the accompanying portrait as a slight mark of my grateful recollection of the hospitable reception and agreeable visit at the White House on the occasion of my tour in the United States.

Believe me that the cordial welcome which was then vouchsafed to me by the American people, and by you as their chief, can never be effaced from my memory.

I venture to ask you at the same time to remember me kindly to Miss Lane, and believe me, dear Mr. Buchanan, yours very truly,

ALBERT EDWARD.

Mrs. Johnston represented the grande dame of the old school. As a girl, when she was presiding mistress of the White House, her portraits gave evidence of her beauty and grace. These comely attributes seemed to increase with her years, and Washington society for the past ten years, whenever she appeared in public, has continuously expressed its admiration and respect. Robed in black velvet, a favorite costume, with her splendid diamonds and pearls, there were not often seen on gala occasions at the White House a more distinguished face and figure.

CALL'S MANAGER RESIGNS.

W. S. Leake to Retire From Journalism in October or Perhaps Sooner.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—W. S. Leake, who has been manager of the Call for the last six years, is about to sever his connection with that journal. It is understood that the resignation has been in the hands of John D. Spreckels, the owner of the paper, for some time, Mr. Leake desiring to retire from journalism to engage in enterprises of his own.

Mr. Spreckels, when interviewed last night as to the change of management of his newspaper, said: "Mr. Leake tendered his resignation a month or more ago, to go into effect the latter part of September or early in October, unless his personal affairs should make it necessary for him to retire earlier. Mr. Leake has some enterprises of his own in which he proposes to engage. He will continue as manager of the Call until such time as he carries his resignation into effect."

Captain W. W. Winn of the ship Tillie E. Starbuck which arrived lately from Newcastle after an almost record trip, received a very complimentary letter by the Doric from Welch & Co., of San Francisco, continuing him in command of the vessel.

MRS. CATAN KILLED.

Mrs. Frank Catan of Haywards, a sister of Charles H. and W. E. Bellina of the Club Stables, was killed by an accident that fractured her skull, while driving along the streets of Haywards, July 18.

NEBRASKAN SAILS TOMORROW.

The S. S. Nebraskan will not sail for Kahului until tomorrow afternoon. She will return to Honolulu in time, however, to sail from here on August 1 according to schedule.

TOLD TO SIN NO MORE.

Four native women Hattie Aoe, Hattie Thompson, Mrs. Waiamau and Sarah Ayu were before Judge Davis this morning to answer to charges of disturbing the peace and quiet of the night. They had been arrested by Deputy Sheriff McGurn in Palama. The court fined them $1 each and told them not to behave so that they would be brought before him again.

TERRY NOT ON ALAMEDA.

According to advices received today by Captain Rodman of the naval station, Admiral Terry, the new commandant of the local naval station, did not sail on the S. S. Alameda as was first reported. Admiral Terry is not expected to sail from San Francisco for Honolulu until August 15. He will arrive here August 21.

Lieutenant Commander Niblack is expected here August 14 by the S. S. Siberia. He will be acting commandant until the arrival of Admiral Terry.

COPTIC MAY ARRIVE TOMORROW

The S. S. Coptic may arrive tomorrow some time from the Orient. She will probably reach here in any event on Friday and will sail on that date for San Francisco.

NEW SCHEME FOR CARNEGIE.

People in Paris who are interested in giving working girls a bit of pleasure now and then have devised a scheme where worthy girls are given two tickets to a good theater once in a while. The scheme calls for an elaborate system of registration, but it is working to perfection. The kaiser is thinking of introducing the idea into the royal theaters in Germany, and the Parisians want Andrew Carnegie to introduce it into this country, as they claim that it would do more good than libraries.

GEN. GRANT'S REQUEST.

A pretty story is told of how Lieut. U. S. Grant, who has just graduated from West Point, got his appointment. A short time before his grandfather, the great General Grant died he wrote a short notice for the boy addressing it to whosoever should be president of the United States. The note was simple and short, saying that it was General Grant's wish to have his grandson go to West Point when he was old enough and asking that a presidential appointment be given him as a favor in return for the services of the grandfather to his country. Mr. McKinley honored the note as soon as it was given to him.

HE UNDERSTOOD.

Luigi Arditi, under the guidance of his pupil, Mme. Valerria, and her husband, once paid a visit to Stratford-on-Avon, where he was shown all the relics connected with the immortal Shakespeare. "Ah!" exclaimed the enthusiastic conductor, when matters were explained to him, "Shakespeare, Romeo e Giulietta, Macbeth ,Hamlet. Ah! I understand, ze librettist."

Thin Blood

Thin blood always makes trouble. Your circulation is very poor, you have cold hands and feet. Your nerves are weak, you are despondent and discouraged. Your stomach is bad, you have indigestion and sick headache. Your muscles are weak and you can hardly drag about the house. But there is a prompt cure

Mrs. M. Archer, of Hobart, Tasmania, sends her photograph and says:

"My blood was so thin and my circulation was so poor that my fingers were cold and blue all the time. I lost all energy and was almost lifeless. But Ayer's Sarsaparilla soon restored vitality to my whole system. It purified my blood and made it rich and healthy. I believe it is the greatest medicine in the world for the blood."

THEFTS NEARLY HALF A MILLION

BUFFALO LAW CLERK'S SHORTAGE RAPIDLY GROWS AS INVESTIGATION PROCEEDS—HANDLED LARGE SUMS BELONGING TO ESTATE—RECEIVED BUT SIXTY-TWO DOLLARS A MONTH IN SALARY.

BUFFALO, July 22.—As investigation continues into the defalcations of Frank V. La Bountie, confidential clerk and bookkeeper for the law firm of Wilson & Smith of this city, it develops that La Bountie's embezzlements were on a far larger scale than originally thought or admitted by Charles R. Wilson, the senior member of the firm. The figures now are approximately the half million mark and the investigation is not nearly finished.

Mrs. La Bountie made a statement this morning on behalf of her husband, in which she voluntarily admitted that his operations were on a more extensive scale than had been guessed. She said: "My husband returned $80,000 before his employers knew anything about his wrongdoing and since the beginning of the investigation he has turned over to the firm property that aggregates in value not less than $100,000."

It ws supposed that La Bountie received a fine salary for the reason that he alone practically carried the entire burden of the vast law business. Wilson & Smith's law work aggregated $1,000,000 a year. The firm had fifty-two estate accounts alone, and it was La Bountie's duty to look after these accounts. On some days he handled as much as $50,000 in cash. His salary was $25 a month at first. It was raised gradually to $50, and since July 1st he has been receiving $62.50 per month.

La Bountie developed a desire to get rich quick. He had been able on a number of occasions to make a little money on commissions. He also managed to make small sums by investing a little money he had saved. These small amounts made in this way whetted his appetite for more, and gradually the idea took possession of his mind that if he could have at his disposal some of the large sums intrusted to his care it would not be long before he would be a rich man.

Last July La Bountie plunged into real estate speculations. Once he had taken the plunge he lost all sense of fear and there was no limit to the daring which he displayed in robbing his employers to put through gigantic real estate speculations. His transactions with the bank in which the personal, firm and trust funds of Wilson & Smith were kept, are striking illustrations of his daring and absolute absence of fear of detection. Yesterday there were three more transfers of fine realty to Wilson & Smith of property which La Bountie had bought. This, like other restored property, was in the Elmwood district.

Wilson made a statement tonight in which he said that no one should lose a cent because of the operations of their dishonest clerk. The firm will stand for the entire amount.

THOUSAND MILES IN TWENTY DAYS

THOUSAND MILES IN TWENTY DAYS.

An English Vegetarian Pedestrian Is In Training For a Very Lengthy Walk.

An English vegetarian pedestrian, George H. Allen, who is now living at the Socialist colony at Whiteway, about eight miles from Stroud, is about to undertake the feat of walking 1000 miles in twenty days. When a London Express representative visited the colony to inquire into Allen's mode of training and diet, he found that the vegetarian walker had gone to Leicester on a visit to his wife and two children, and that a letter received at the colony that morning stated that as a result of getting his right hand jammed in a door at Birmingham, he would probably lose one or two injured fingers. This, however, will not deter him from proceeding with his training.

The colonists readily gave all information respecting Allen's mode of life. Although the morning was raw and cold they walked bareheaded, and clad only in shirt and trousers, across their plot of ground, merrily chattering of the advantages of their primitive style of life. All appeared in robust health and quite happy in this isolated spot on the Cotswolds.

Allen is about 35 years of age, five feet, five inches in height, and weighs ten stone. He joined the colony last August, and in November he began to erect a wooden house on the land. This is now nearing completion and Allen intends to bring his family there shortly.

He proposed first to walk from Land's End to John O'Groats, as part of his 1000-mile course, but he has now decided to take a route that will enable him to visit all the large centers of population, where he will lecture each evening on the advantages of a simpler method of living. He is a vigorous man, and contends that his primitive habits at the colony have strengthened his constitution. He has gained considerably in muscle since his residence at Whiteway. Allen is generally astir by 6 o'clock in the morning, and spends until 10 o'clock in digging on the land. He then takes a simple meal, consisting of bread—made either by himself or by a friend named Sinclair, who lives with him—with butter made from peanuts. He often drinks only water, but occasionally this is varied by the use of coffee or cocoa. He resumes the digging until 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon, when he partakes of his second and last meal of the day. This consists only of garden produce, such as peas, parsnips, carrots, etc., with water to drink. Often he sits up writing until 2 o'clock in the morning, but this never causes him to vary his early rising for work on the land.—London Express.

BOARD SCHOOLS ARE PROUD NOW.

The board schools, at which British novelists are so fond of sneering, and which are the English equivalent of the American public school, while the English public school is more nearly the equivalent of the American private school, are taking pride in the fact that the highest prize which Cambridge university offers to the student body, the honor of senior wrangler, has fallen to a Mr. Batement, who had his early instruction at a Manchester board school. High honors also fell to other graduates of the despised and plebeian board school. The highest place won by a woman was taken by Miss Hudson of Newnham, who bracketed with the seventh man in the honor list.

POPE'S DEATH CERTIFICATE.

ROME, July 21.—Dr. Lapponi yesterday sent to Prince Colonna, Mayor of Rome, the following notice:

"To the Illustrious Mayor of Rome, the Capital—With grief I announce to you that at 4 p. m. today there ceased to live, from a dynamic pneumonia, followed by hemorrhagic pleurisy, the Holiness of our Lord, Leo XIII, Pope, formerly Gioacchino Pecci of Carpineto, province of Rome, at the age of 93 years and 5 months.

"DR. GUISEPPE LAPPONI,
"Pontifical physical and sanitary officer delegated to the Vatican by the Nuncio of Rome.
"From the Vatican, 20th of July, 1903."

THE HOUR OF DEATH.

ROME, July 21.—Dr. Lapponi now fixes the precise hour of the Pope's death at 4:06. The fact was immediately communicated to the Associated Press, but, under the rule which requried that two hours should elapse after the doctors pronounce life extinct before the dean of the Sacred College shall officially announce the death, the telegraph office was unable to forward the message at once. It left Rome on one of the nineteen wires working from that city to Paris about 6 o'clock local time (12 o'clock noon New York time).

PAPER FOR WOMEN TO BE RUN BY WOMEN

New Publication Soon to Make Its Appearance Will Be Unique in Journalism.

NEW YORK, July 22.—There is to be a morning one-cent newspaper printed in this city in which the interest and doings of men will have little part—perhaps none at all. This newspaper is to be of, for and by women, to quote the language of Hayden Talbot, the business manager.

Mr. Talbot, who expressed the greatest surprise that the project had become known, discussed it, though he did not explain how it haopened that he is to handle the financial ribbons in a publication in which the personnel of nearly every department will be women. Editors and reporters will all be women. Talbot said some of the best women reporters had been secured. He declared there was plenty of money back of the enterprise, and that the paper would be devoted strictly to subjects of interest to women. It will not be a woman's suffrage paper nor plunge into politics, though the first number will be issued the day before election.

FRAUD CHARGED TO CULLOM'S NEPHEW

Will Be Tried For Alleged Crooked Work While Revenue Officer in Arizona.

PHOENIX, A. T., July 22.—Shelby M. Cullom, clerk of the Territorial Supreme Court, and nephew of Senator Cullom, was arrested here this morning and taken a prisoner to Prescott, by United States Marshal McCord, to face charges of defrauding the Government, said to have been committed while chief revenue officer for this Territory. The United States Grand Jury at Prescott found an indictment against him yesterday. Before leaving he stated to friends that he did not know the nature of the charges preferred, but he supposed them to be the outgrowth of a quarrel with another revenue officer, whom he had reported to the Washington officials for irregularities.

It is charged that when Cullom was deputy internal revenue collector, covering Arizona, he imposed penalties without cause and pocketed the money. It is said that he has been under suspicion since retiring from that office, more than a year ago, and recently an agent of the Government from Washington visited Santa Fe, N. M., where the internal revenue office for both Territories is located, and also Phoenix, and made an investigation. Cullom was informed of the situation, it is said, and refunded the money supposed to have been misappropriated and thought the incident was closed. The Government, however, was not satisfied with restitution of the penalties and is probing into the matter further.

A BOW DRAWN AT A VENTURE

One of the most interesting and curious turns and developments in political controversy was brought to a startling climax by a communication from Col Curtis P. Iaukea in the Evening Bulletin of yesterday and an editorial on the subject in this morning's Pacific Commercial Advertiser. Col. Iaukea's communication in the Bulletin is as follows:

Editor Evening Bulletin:—However one may differ on polities and I confess that I do take issue with you and many Republican supporters on the question of drawing strict party lines in purely local matters, I cannot help but say that in your criticisms and comments of public acts and utterances, the Bulletin attitude has always maintained a manly and dignified attitude to friend and foe alike

I am compelled to make this assertion publicly, by reason of an unfair and base insinuation, which in a recent issue of the Advertiser, I was by implication placed in a most uneviable light Had the paper in question any sense of honor and fairness, it would have caused to be corrected (especially after the reference made in your editorial comments of the same afternoon) any wrong impression the combination of cirsumstances may have left its readers to infer

To be charitable, I viewed the matter —when my attention was called to it, as a simple and pure coincidence; but the Advertiser further aggravates the case by reverting to similar insinuations of malfeasance, etc, in its editorial notes of this morning with the implied accusation of yesterday still fresh in the minds of its readers, and no word of explanation as to whom it was directed against

I am not airing this as a personal grievance, Mr. Editor, but to show to what base uses men high in influence can descend to attain their own selfish ends. It is because that I have dared to come out in open opposition to the element that the Advertiser represents. Must threats and insinuations of this nature be held over a man's head because forsooth the dictates of his conscience will not permit him to longer eat of the crumbs that fall from their table?

Were my present attitude of opposition based on personal grounds, there might be some excuse for resorting to tactics of this kind. But if I was ever sincere in my life it is when I say that I believe the Advertiser and the faction it represents is and has been and always will be antagonistic to the people in the establishment of republican institutions in Hawaii. A strong advocate of popular government for this Territory, must I also fall a victim to the same "thrust in the back" that many another independent spirit has been forced before now to submission.

That there may be spots and stains around my skirts that can never be erased by mortal hands, I will not deny. To God alone must I atone for these shortcomings. But in the words of the Gospel, "Let him who is among you without sin, cast the first stone."

C. P. IAUKEA.

Haleiwa, Oahu, July 25, '03.

The following is the Advertiser's editorial on the communication:

IAUKEA'S NAIVE CONFESSION.

Some days ago the Advertiser remarked, apropos of the fight for the Republican nomination for Sheriff, that any candidate for the honor would do well to explain what became of the money entrusted to him in his last office before aspiring to another one. In view of the unsolved mysteries left over in the Board of Public Works, the hint was not lost upon any man of average intelligence, but it seems not only to have been lost on Curtis Iaukea but to have awakened in him a most uneasy conscience. Not only does Iaukea assume, as a matter of course, that the criticism was directed at him, but in an extraordinary letter to the Bulletin he admits that there may be some ground for it. Listen to this concluding paragraph of a tirade of abuse of the Advertiser: "That there may be spots and stains around my skirts that can never he erased by mortal hands. I will not deny. To God alone must I atone for these shortcomings. But in the words of the Gospel, 'Let him who is among you without sin, cast the first stone.'"

It had not occurred to the writer of the paragraph of which Mr. Iaukea complains, that the shot which was aimed at a more conspicuous bird on the wing would also bring him down. But here he is, confessing that he was as fair game as the other fowl of passage. Even yet we are not sure what it is all about, but as Iaukea confesses that there are spots and stains on him which no mortal hand can erase and which can only be cleansed by God, we infer that the offence was serious. Suppose, then, that he tells the public what it is? What has he done in office to earn such an indelible brand? It would be best to explain before the Republican party in its present state of sensitievness on question of official honor, imagines the case to be worse than it is. Of course the Advertiser's columns are at Mr. Iaukea's service for any statement he may have the courage to make.

The original editorial in the Advertiser which started such a surprising train of developments, was this:

"No man ought to aspire to Sheriff of Oahu who cannot tell what became of the missing funds in his former office."

At whom the public understood this to be aimed is made pretty clear in the Advertiser's editorial of this morning, reprinted above.

Apparently the "implication" that placed Col. Iaukea "in a most unenviable light was the publication by the Advertiser, on the same page with the last quoted editorial paragraph, of the following communication from Col. Iaukea:

COL. IAUKEA ON LOCAL POLITICS.

In presenting my morning compliments kind Editor, let me at the same time thank you for mentioning myself as a mover in a Citizens' Party for the coming election, and placing my name at the head of the movement as Candidate for County Sheriff

I am not so sure that my ambitions will lead me to this distinction. This I desire to say, however, that if there was ever a time in the history of this Territory for the good citizens to take matters into their own hands and show by their votes that they will have none of "bossism" and "party machine" in local politics, it is now; especially after the strange spectacle which this community recently witnessed, of a so-called republican party executive conniving with republican members of the House to elect a Home Rule Speaker; and white Republicans at that! Bah!

Yes, Friend Advertiser, I shall gladly help to head a movement of good citizens for good government As for seeking the office of County Sheriff or any other office in the gift of the people, I regard it as an honor to be so elected than to receive such appointment at the hands of a centralized and un-American government such as exists today

Respectfully,
C. P. IAUKEA.

The further "aggravation" given by the Advertiser "by reverting to similar insinuations of malfeasance, etc, in its editorial notes of this morning (July 25) with the implied accusation of yesterday still fresh in the minds of its readers," seems to be the following editorial paragraph:

"A man should have his financial record clear in one office before he aspires to another."

CHINESE CAN ENTER.

Mok Kim and Mok Bu Chinese laborers, have been granted permission by the Department of Commerce to enter this country. This order was issued to the local Inspector of Immigration recently, word having been received at the local Chinese consulate to this effect. The Chinese left this country over a year ago to go to their own country. Under their return permits, they could not be absent longer than a year. The men succeeded in having their time of absence extended by an American consul in China. When they arrived here June 28 on the S. S. City of Peking they were refused a landing. An appeal was taken on the ground that an extension of time by an American consul was not subject to review by any immigration official. This position appears to have been sustained by the department.

THE GOOD OLD WAY.

Church White of Atchison regrets that the merchants of the present day do not do business as they did at Hainesville, Mo., where he was raised. The custom there was to settle with the store once a year, on the 1st of January. Once White's father went into McCrory's store to settle. "What's my bill?" he asked of McCrory. "Well George," said McCrory "pay what you think is right; I ain't kept no account."

HAD A VERY NARROW ESCAPE

POLICE OFFICER APANA STRUCK IN FACE BY FLYING AWNING ON HOTEL STREET TODAY.

Officer Apana received a very painful injury this morning through the alleged carelessness of a Japanese store keeper on Hotel street near River. The officer was riding on an electric car going toward Punahou. As the car ran near the sidewalk, a hanging awning which was suspended from a wooden awning was swung against the car by the wind. The canvas awning was attached to a hevy piece of wood about 30 feet in length and about three inches in diameter. Before Apana realized the danger, a piece of this heavy wood struck him on the left cheek while another piece struck him on the breast. He was knocked clean over the seat and rendered unconscious.

Had the piece of wood not first struck against one of the standards on the car and the full force been thus broken, Apana might have been killed by the direct collision.

In company with Officer McDuffie Apana later placed the Japanese under arrest on a charge of common nuisance. Y. Okomoto was the name of the Japanese. It is claimed that had the awning been properly secured with a line, it would not have been blown against the car. The police will institute a crusade against the offenders of the awning ordinance and require them to properly secure the awnings so as not to endanger the safety of traffic.

WILLIE CRAWFORD RETURNED.

Willie Crawford the Chinese Interpreter, has returned from an extended absence on Hawaii and Maui.

COFFEY WAS LOST IN THE ORIENT

THE GAMEWELL ALARM SYSTEM MANAGER WAS FINALLY LOCATED AT AUCKLAND.

Col. Jack Coffey of the Gamewell Fire and Police Alarm system will shortly be in Honolulu High Sheriff Brown has finally gotten in touch with Coffey and appraised him of the fact that the appropriation for the additional alarm boxes is now available.

Coffey passed through here months ago en route to the Orient and Australia By the time that the appropriation for an extension of the system was available here, the local people had lost trace of him High Sheriff Brown sent word to various places throughout the Orient Hong Kong was tried, a cablegram was sent to Manila and a message was sent to Shanghai, but no answer came Apparently no such man was known in those places

Sydney and Melbourne were tried A message was sent to Brisbane but no trace was secured of Coffey His friends here began to think that there was some mystery attached to his strange disappearance They wondered what kind of a shuffle they gave you over in the Orient when an old seasoned man of the world like Colonel Jack, would get lost

Finally High Sheriff Brown thought he would try Auckland, New Zealand and did so. This attempt proved successful. Coffey was in Auckland. He was informed that the $20,000 appropriated by the legislature for the extension of the Honolulu police and fire alarm systems was available and as soon as he could come on, the new boxes could be installed Coffey sent word that he would hurry to Honolulu

The appropriation provides for the installation of 50 new police boxes and a similar number of fire alarm boxes. The present alarm and signal system has worked in splendid fashion and has given complete satisfaction. The additional boxes will enable High Sheriff Brown and Fire Chief Thurston to give protection to additional sections of the city.

GETS INTO THE SPEEDY CLASS

S. S. DORIC ARRIVES FULL DAY AHEAD OF TIME FROM SAN FRANCISCO—SAILS TONIGHT.

The biggest kind of a surprise was caused this morning when it became known that the S. S. Doric was off the port. The vessel was not expected until late this afternoon from San Francisco. Captain Smith has evidently been reserving plenty of speed, for he brought his boat down in time that puts her in the class with the fast ones running to this port. The time from San Francisco was 5 days 19 hours and 7 minutes.

The vessel sailed from San Francisco the afternoon of July 23. She encountered pleasant weather. Nothing was sighted during the trip. She has a good sized crowd of passengers on board. A number of young men employes of the government at Manila are going out to Hongkong from where they will proceed to the Philippines.

The only passenger to stop over at Honolulu was Mrs. J. T. Barraclough, a wealthy woman of Oakland.

Rev. M. Martin is a missionary who is going out to the fields of southern China.

Mrs. Major W. C. Langfitt is going to join her husband in the Philippines.

M. S. Beal is a wealthy business man of San Francisco who is going to the Orient on a pleasure trip.

Benjamin Campbell, assistant traffic manager of the Southern Pacific, is going out to Hongkong with his family.

The Doric has 3,250 tons of freight. In her cargo are 1,000 tons of flour and 50,000 feet of lumber. Treasure amounting to $200,000 is aboard the Doric.

Third Officer James Dennison has resigned from the vessel. His place is filled by E. J. Hales, formerly fourth officer of the Coptic.

The Doric brought seven days later mail. She is scheduled to sail at 10 p. m. today for the Orient.

AORANGI ON TIME.

Arrives This Morning From the Southern Colonies.

The S. S. Aorangi arrived this morning from the Colonies. She left Sidney July 13, Brisbane July 16 and Suva July 21. The Hoxie islands were passed on July 21 and Hull island on the following afternoon. Moderate to fresh southeast and northeast trade with moderate seas and occasional heavy showers were experienced.

The Aorangi has a big list of passengers. Five passengers stopped at Honolulu and 139 through passengers will continue to Victoria and Vancouver. Among those who stopped at Honolulu was R. Noel Paton the artist. He and his wife will be at the Moana for some weeks.

Sir James Hector, the scientist, who was in charge of an exploration party for the Canadian government some years ago, and made a trip across the American continent, is a through passenger. Mount Hector, one of the big peaks of the Canadian Rockies is named after him.

The Aorangi will sail for Victoria and Vancouver at 4 p. m. today.
