Too terrible to contemplate: Old lady (after the character of a servant)—"Is she an early riser?"
Esthetic young lady—"Don't know,
I'm never down before 12 or 1." O.
L.—"Is she honest?" E. Y. L.—
"That's a matter that has never troubled me." O. L.—"Can she cook?" E. Y. L. (indignantly)—
"We seldom eat." O. L.—"Why are you getting rid of her?" E. Y.
L. (shuddering)—"She has a mother who eats onions. I know that mania to be hereditary. She might break out at any moment."

The statement that grain absorbs enough moisture on a sea voyage to pay the freight charges has been to some extent confirmed by experiments made at the California Agricultural College. Various kinds of grain were placed in a moist atmosphere and the increase in weight was noted. The greatest increase was noted during the first twenty-four hours.

London Spectator: "The human race has been studying the art of war for 4000 years, and has discovered exceedingly little, except the fact that an explosive in a confined space will drive a missile a long way.
They have learned to throw stones
scientifically."

The Sydney Mail says that Emerson "took down our idols from their pedestals so tenderly that it seemed like an act of worship." He could have made his fortune as a servant girl.

THE EVILS OF PAINTING
And their Remedy.

"It has been said with much truth,
too, that house painting might, with study and acquirement of taste, resume
its rank as a liberal art."—Painters' Manual.

Believing the above to be true, A. B.
KERR has now re-organized his system
of working the business in Honolulu.
In the first place he has secured the services of that celebrated artist, Mr. MAX KOHN, formerly of San Francisco, whose work in the line of plain and decorative paper-hanging, frescoing, &c., is up to the present time unsurpassed, and on these Islands has never been equalled.
For house painting jobs first-class mechanics only will be employed. In future patrons can depend upon my filling every order on the most scientific basis known to the trade.

The Sign Painting and Lettering department will be permanently presided over by Mr. GEO. SEITZMEYER, (further communication unnecessary.)

P.S.—Send for designs of frescos for ceiling and cornices. Something new;
and if you want any glass put in call at

PALAMA RICE PLANTATION.

Rice culture is one of our leading industries; although it has excited less talk than sugar growing, owing probably to its being almost wholly in the hands of Chinamen. Our rice lands are being much more rapidly occupied and cultivated than our sugar lands; for the reason that a sugar plantation requires more capital and a longer time to wait for returns than a rice plantation. During the last few years hundreds of acres of swamps and bogs, within a half dozen miles of Honolulu, have been reclaimed and reduced to cultivation. Where, in many places, a short time ago, nothing but rank bulrushes grew, beautiful rice fields now bespeak the patient industry of the Chinaman.

At Kapalama, less than one mile from the city limits, may be seen an instance of this pleasing transformation. The Ewa road, immediately beyond what is known as the second bridge, passes over a causeway. Each side of this causeway, not long since, was an untraversable marsh, overgrown with bulrushes and other kinds of swamp vegetation. The land was generally regarded as almost valueless, because of the difficulty and expense of clearing and draining. No one ever dreamt that there was a fortune hidden in its deep, rich vegetable soil; until an energetic Chinaman, named Mac Shee, came along and secured a long lease, at a nominal rental.

Between four and five years ago Mac Shee commenced the laborious task of draining, clearing, and planting; but, like many other good men in similar undertakings, exhausted his limited capital and his credit, before realizing any returns. The lease and improvements were then transferred to a joint stock company, known as Wong Leong & Co.

This company, having command of requisite funds, prosecuted operations on a larger scale than their predecessor. In a surprisingly short time the entire leasehold was intersected with dykes, cleared of rubbish, and prepared for cropping. The bed of bulrushes now no longer exists, but all the way from four or five hundred yards above the causeway, right to the sea beach, there is one magnificent field of rice; and this field of rice, in some stage of growth, from the tender blade to the full grain in the husk, may be seen at almost any and every period of the year; for one crop follows another in quick succession.

This plantation comprises about 120 acres of extremely fertile land, the soil being largely composed of decomposed vegetation. The plowing of the land, preparatory to cropping, is done by oxen and Chinese buffaloes. The latter would be used entirely were they procurable in sufficient numbers, and at a moderate price; but Mr. Wong Leong says that in China they cost $250 each, and cannot be readily got even at that figure. Preference is given to them because they are capable of doing more work and require a less number of drivers than oxen. One of these sturdy little creatures, with one man to drive and hold the plow, can easily plow an acre of land in a day. It takes four oxen with two men to do the same amount.

The planting is all done by hand. The seed rice is first sown very thickly in small beds, and when the young blades are two or three weeks old they are transplanted in rows twelve or fifteen inches apart, each row consisting of little clumps of diminutive stalks, the clumps being seven or eight inches from each other; although to an ordinary observer, a field of rice, with two or three months' growth, has the appearance of having been sown broadcast, like a field of wheat. Water must be kept constantly around the roots and bottom ends of the stalks, until the grain is matured and commences to harden, when the water is drained off and the soil allowed to stiffen somewhat before harvesting begins. In a little less than five months from the time of planting, the crop is ready for gathering, without regard to any particular season of the year.

The entire harvesting operations are performed by manual and animal labor. The rice is cut with sickles and tied in bundles, similar to the old style of reaping and sheafing wheat and other cereals. The bundles are carried by Chinamen from all parts of the field to the thrashing-floor, the ground being too soft to admit the use of wheeled vehicles. Thrashing is done by the primitive and tedious method in vogue at the times of Moses and his ancestors, that is, by the treading of horses and cattle. The chaff is then blown out of the grain by an ordinary hand winnowing machine, and the paddy put into sacks ready for market.

This plantation produces an average yield of two tons of paddy per acre, each crop, and as there are two crops in the year, the annual average is four tons per acre. The entire work of the plantation, including plowing, planting, tending, reaping, thrashing, and preparing for market, is done by thirty-five laborers.

At the present time harvesting operations are in process, and those interested in such matters may go and see for themselves, fully assured of polite attention and ready answers to all inquiries, from Mr. Wong Leong.

THE ORGAN RECITAL

On Tuesday night was, in the opinion of the audience, the best Mr. Taylor has yet given. We were not present at it ourselves, so we have had to spend some time in getting the various opinions of the audience. From what we hear we are certain that Mr. Taylor surpassed all his previous efforts in producing a pleasing and interesting programme. Bach's Ave Maria, on the organ with violin obligato, by Mr. Yarmley, was specially mentioned as good. Mrs. Hanford and Mr. Atkinson were both in excellent voice, and gave unqualified satisfaction. Mr. Wray Taylor's efforts to provide a thoroughly musical and yet pleasant entertainment once a month, is getting to be better and better appreciated. This will be seen from the fact that, though Tuesday night was stormy, still the Church was well filled.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The German bark Livingston arrived yesterday noon, after a fair passage of 55 days from Hongkong. She brings 770 tons of freight and about 20 Chinese.

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS.

Quite an epidemic of poetry seems to have set in lately.

Some of the boys serenaded the Alaska on Wednesday night.

So far as is known yet in the race between the schooners Emma and Kauikaouli, the Emma was ahead.

We hear that the boot-blacks have raised their prices lately. Isn't there some way of having a fixed and regular scale of charges adopted?

A boat in the harbor got slightly burned and blackened through an accidental explosion of fire-works on Wednesday night.

Messrs. Dillingham & Co. have just received a fine new line of doormats in immense quantities. Just the thing for this weather.

On Wednesday noon a gentleman was riding up Fort street when his horse slipped and fell in the mud. The gentleman carried away considerable of the mud on his apparel.

A novel sight was seen in Merchant street on Wednesday afternoon. A hack was being driven quietly along the street and a young pigeon was sitting peacefully on top.

J. T. Waterhouse's Fort street store, No. 10, has had its external attractions added to by a very handsome sign on a semi-cylinder, fastened on the makai side of the main door, painted at their establishment.

This time, owing to the dock being otherwise occupied and other matters, the Suez was much delayed in getting out her cargo. Some consignees were very wrath over it. The delay was occasioned by the City of Sydney's arrival.

We understand that Capt. B. Hempstead resigned the command of the Pele on Wednesday. It is further stated that Capt. Jno. Rice, the brother-in-law of the Minister of the Interior, has been appointed to the vacant position.

We have received from the Boy's Reading Room Association a pleasant memento of their first annual dinner in the shape of a slice of cake, for which we thank them. As a memento, however, it was not a success, for it has already vanished, but the memory will live on.

Roars of laughter have from time to time filled our office on Queen street with a wild melody that even now fills our ears. The cause of this unusual cachinnation is the number of people who have been to see those comic pictures of a fireman's life, previously referred to by us. Still there are numbers who haven't seen them yet: we cordially invite them to step in.

We do not believe the report that as soon as the nihilists in Europe heard that a new Crown was about to be manufactured for foreign parts, that a desperate Russian nihilist, perfectly infatuated with his trade, was detailed to see that the proper quantity of the real genuine "blow me to atoms stuff" was safely introduced into the Crown.

During the whole of yesterday a little crowd could be seen in front of Messrs. Dillingham & Co.'s, maku window, admiring the splendid specimens of plated ware displayed therein. Amongst the most artistic and beautiful things we saw were the cake baskets and trays, and the elegant jewel-cases, opening by means of a novel arrangement of mechanism.

Another window decked out for Christmas. Mr. McFarney is not behind other establishments in getting his goods displayed for the approaching holiday season. He has one window specially filled with articles intended as Christmas presents for ladies. Here you may find all that is necessary for a souvenir; beautiful satchels in plush and velvet which, when opened, display the finest triple extract perfumes; all sorts of toilet requisites in handsome cases; celluloid goods, seal-skin bags and purses, and ladies satchels in all styles.

The telephone line to Kaimuki was repaired yesterday afternoon, and now in working order again.

BIRTH. Thursday, Nov. 23rd, at 12 o'clock, noon, to Mr. and Mrs. Cruzan, a Son.

Old Chief Pocotello, now at the Fort Hall Agency, in answer to an inquiry relative to the true Christian character of a former Indian agent at that place, gave in very terse language the most accurate description of a hypocrite that was ever given to the public: "Ugh! too much God and no flour."—[Laramie Boomerang.

"Too much absorbed in his business," was the comment of a newspaper on the death of a brewer found drowned in a tank of his own beer.

Shakespeare says that avarice is "worse than poison to men's souls, doing more murders in this loathsome world than any mortal drug."

After a man has been hugged nearly to death by Sin, he generally turns round and embraces religion.
