ADMIRAL JONES INSPECTS RECOVERY WORK

Rear Admiral Carlton B. Jones, Commander of Naval Forces, Marianas, arrived in Saipan yesterday morning at 9:45, accompanied by members of his staff, to inspect typhoon recovery programs and confer with High Commissioner W. R. Norwood and Marianas District Administrator Peter T. Coleman.

Admiral Jones made a tour of the island's stricken villages, inspecting activities of the military contingent presently here aiding in typhoon emergency relief work. The Navy, Air Force, Marines, Coast Guard and Army are represented in the operations.

He returned to Guam in the afternoon, flying on route over Tinian for an aerial view of the damage and recovery operations there.
