EIGHTEENTH YEAR WAILUKU, MAUI CO., HAWAII, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1918. NUMBER 934

MAUI SQUARELY BEHIND THE TERRITORIAL FAIR

Local Association Cancels Plans For Anything Here, In The Interest Of The More General Proponent At Honolulu, The Success Of Which Is Threatened By War Conditions--Other Matters Considered

The Maui County Fair & Racing Association, at its annual meeting held yesterday afternoon, decided to abandon all thought of holding a fair on this island in 1918 and to throw all the energies of the county to the Territorial fair to be held in Honolulu in June.

When the question came up quite a number spoke, and the opinion seemed to be that while a local fair was to be desired, conditions generally were such that if Maui went wholeheartedly into the Territorial proposition it would be quite enough to attempt this year.

Harold W. Rice, who is Maui commissioner for the Territorial fair, recommended that the Association name a fair committee, to represent Maui and assist him in his work. He put this later in the form of a motion and it carried by unanimous vote. The president will appoint the committee later.

The question of the Association offering prizes to be awarded in connection with the fair was also taken up, and there was a good deal of argument on the point of whether these prizes should be for Maui exhibitors only or be thrown open to all exhibitors of the Territory. That there should be prizes was decided favorably, but the question as to making them general was left to the fair committee, with the advice that either way would suit the Association.

It was voted that the county supervisors be requested to assist financially and otherwise in an exhibit for Maui county at the Territorial fair next June.

The meeting got under way at 2:30, President Frank Baldwin in the chair. Enos Vincent, John Watt and F. H. Loeey were elected to membership.

In addition to card notices to members, the secretary was instructed to advise meetings of the Association in the Daily Wireless.

All of the old officers and directors were re-elected to serve for another year.

The secretary was instructed to have 500 copies of the by-laws printed.

The secretary was also authorized to have signs upon the windows of the new home of the Association and to have a suitable banner made.

R. A. Wadsworth and H. W. Rice were appointed a committee to raise a fund for baseball and bats for American soldiers in France.

On motion it was decided to make provision in the by-laws for a permanent racing committee of three. On this committee F. B. Cameron, L. von Tempisky and Dr. Fitzgerald were appointed.

MOLOKAI SICK CONTRIBUTE TO THE RED CROSS

Sufferings Of The Wounded And Dying In Europe Touch The Hearts Of Lepers

SUM OF $248.00 IS CONTRIBUTED

Even the Settlement on Molokai has done its "bit" for the war of humanity. A list was prepared by Superintendent McVeigh and subscriptions invited for the uses of the Red Cross. Accompanying the list was the following set of resolutions:

"Whereas, The United States is at war and soldiers are being wounded at the front and are in urgent need of proper care and treatment; and

"Whereas, Red Cross relief funds are being subscribed all over the United States, even in all the Territories and other possessions of the United States; and

"Whereas, We are a part of the United States, and the greater number of us here are good, patriotic citizens;

"Now, therefore, let us not be backward in showing our spirit of patriotism, and like true patriots, subscribe such an amount as we can afford, as an aid to the Red Cross relief fund.

"And, furthermore, let it be remembered that a number of us, who have subscribed hereto, are afflicted and receive first aid and assistance from people outside of the Leper Settlement. So now let us show that we who are able and can give and are glad of the opportunity to aid those who

Meeting Trustees Commerce Chamber

Honolulu Committee Wishes Fire Crusade Throughout Islands -- Other Matters

The trustees of the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting early yesterday afternoon and transacted routine business.

One new member was elected.

County Attorney Bevins called attention to the fact that there was no deputy U. S. marshal on Maui, although there was need for one. He stated that he had communicated with the Marshal about the matter but the latter had replied that he had no funds for such an officer.

The county attorney wished to know if the Chamber cared to finance such an official, but the trustees did not feel that they were in position so to do.

The following letter from the Honolulu committee on rules and regulations for fire marshal and a fire prevention day, asking the co-operation of Maui, was read:

We are pleased to advise you that

CONSERVATION TREATED FROM MANY ANGLES

Speakers Address Large Audience In The Kahului Community House

MEAT, FISH AND CANNED GOODS

Despite the inclement weather, the Kahului Community House was comfortably filled Tuesday evening for the food conservation meeting called by Mrs. A. C. Bowdish.

The purpose of the meeting was to arouse enthusiasm in "food pledge week," which will start on February 12, and to that end a number of set talks on various phases of the subject had been arranged for.

Conspicuous on the walls of the meeting place were several mottoes applicable to the work in hand. One was: "Save the ham for Uncle Sam. Our boys will bring home the bacon." Another: "Do your bit by doing without." Still another: "Remember the wheatless day to keep it wholly."

Mrs. A. C. Bowdish presided and Mrs. Alice V. Cameron officiated as secretary. Reading of minutes, reports, etc., took up but a few minutes, following which came the "talks."

Mr. John J. Walsh was the first speaker, he taking the subject "Why"—why conserve food. He went more or less extensively into the subject of world conditions, the responsibility of the United States in taking care of the Allies and the necessity for conserving in order to meet the demands made upon the country.

Japanese Woman Commits Suicide

A Japanese woman living at Puukoli camp, Lahaina, hung herself between 6 and 7 o'clock this morning using an obi, suspended from a rafter in her house to accomplish her purpose. The name of the woman could not be learned by telephone.

The suicide lost her husband about six years ago, since when she had been more or less of a nervous wreck. Two weeks ago she told her daughter that she was tired of living.

The appearance of furniture in the room indicated that she climbed upon a table, adjusted the obi to the rafter and about her neck, and then kicked the table away.

Boy Writes Friends Of War Experience

The following letter has been received at Lahaina from a young man now doing his "bit" in France:

I read a letter which you wrote to mother recently, so I decided to write a letter to you right away.

How I envy you just at present—being in such a lovely climate for it is most bitterly cold here—not a bit like our Canadian cold, and we all seem to feel it more than at home. I'm sure I would have been a corpse long ago but mother bought me the easiest sleeping bag. It has one fault though of being too comfortable so that I have some difficulty in getting up to reveille. Our life here as a whole is very happy; and of course, having mother only two miles away where I can go in to dinner every night makes mine as nearly like home as possible. You have no idea what a blessing it is having her so close. It surely counts for a lot, because you know the atmosphere surrounding your life in the army is not always ideal by any means.

In a letter which Verner wrote mother not long ago—from France, he said he expects to get his leave inside of two month's time. I hope he can get to England a little sooner than that, so that I could see him again before I go over to have a look around France—which I expect to do within two weeks. Of course you knew Nan was nursing in London. She expects to go to the East some where at almost anytime now. It will probably be Palestine or Mesopotamia.

If Verner gets his leave before either Nan or I move away we could have quite a family reunion once more. Oh, this old war has blown our home to the four winds all right, but you know "it's an ill wind", etc., and besides just fancy what we have to look forward to—all together again back home.

Coming over there were only 100 of us Canadians on with a whole boat full of American troops—and a jollier, nicer bunch I never have met before. They all were lively and full of fun so that the time did not pass slowly. We were very fortunate in getting excellent weather all the way over. We were the only artillery on board, so supplied the crews for various guns mounted for defensive purposes and they were beauties, too. At times we almost wished a sub would poke its nose out, so that we could get a smack at it.

We all had 2nd. class accommodations on the boat, which was very good. However, I "swiped" a first class stateroom which was empty and three of us moved into it. Of course we expected to be "ejected" by the steward when he found us but after we eased his conscience, in the usual way, he became quite chummy and used to steal food for us from the officers' dining-room and bring it up to our room at night. So you see our journey was a tolerably successful one.

On our way here we had a two hour stop at London, so I phoned to mother. She didn't know I had left Canada and you can imagine her surprise. Oh, it surely was great to hear her speak again after such a long time. Over since I have been here she has been staying in a town just two miles away. It was there she stayed a year ago when Verner was over here in camp.

Mrs. Schoenberg Given Farewell Luncheon

On Friday, of last week, a farewell luncheon was given by Mrs. Gannon and Mrs. Decoto, at Lahaina, for Mrs. Victor Schoenberg, who leaves Maui shortly for Waipahu, Oahu. Covers were laid for eight guests, and the table was extremely pretty, the color scheme throughout being red, white and blue. The place cards, with appropriate rhymes, were held by tiny soldiers and Red Cross nurses carrying flags. Before taking their seats the guests sang the "Star-Spangled Banner".

THE STRIKE IN GERMANY

London—Not all European comments on the strikes and disorder credit Germany with as bad a strike as might be supposed from the reports sent out. The view expressed in Holland is that Germany is exploiting what is nothing more than a peace demonstration, with the object of encouraging dissension in Entente countries. One estimate reduces the number on strike to 120,000, which is semi-officially admitted. This statement says that the streets are quiet and that there have been no serious disorders since Tuesday. The Colonische Volkszeitung, copies of which were received yesterday in Amsterdam, says that the strike is spreading in Berlin and the provinces. It says that the reason is the demand of the Fatherland Party that the war be continued, and the poor food supply. German socialist leaders ask for a special session of the Reichstag, according to an Exchange telegram, which adds that the strikers now number 800,000. Copenhagen is forward with a Hamburg despatch in which it is declared that a siege has been instituted at Hamburg, Altona and Wandsbeck.

It is permitted to disclose that all recent casualties reported to Washington occurred in this sector, the deaths being caused by shell fire, principally shrapnel.

THE BERLIN STRIKE SERIOUS

Berlin—The Vorwaertz, a Socialist daily, announces that the Berlin strikers are more numerous and threatening and have addressed an ultimatum to the government demanding the acceleration of a peace conclusion. They demand general peace on a basis of no indemnity or annexation, with the participation of workmen delegates of all countries in peace arrangements; immediate abolishment of declaring announcing a state of siege; restoration of right to hold public meetings; abolishment of militarism, of war factories and the immediate release of military prisoners. A fundamental democratization of all state institutions. Equal electoral suffrage and direct, secret ballot.

GERMAN PAPERS MUST QUIT

Amsterdam—The censor orders the Berlin Tageblatt, Post and Vorwaertz to cease publication on account of their attitude regarding the strikers. It is reported that von Hindenburg has warned the strikers that they are all being misled and must cease their movement immediately. He said every hour lost means a weakening of German defenses.

The Vorwaertz reports that the largest flour mill in the environs of Vienna was destroyed by fire on Sunday. Damages considered as small importance in provisioning city.

The Corn Crop At Parker Ranch

Editor Maui News:

The writer has just returned from a two weeks trip on Hawaii, studying agricultural conditions, and none has proved more interesting and instructive. The greater diversification of agriculture is apparent on every land. A day was spent on the Parker Ranch at Waimea and Waieke, the latter district embracing the now famed corn areas of Parker Ranch. At the time of my visit, some forty men and women were harvesting the crop of 2500 acres of excellent corn. Expert workmen earn as high as $3.00 per day by piece work. One easily imagines himself in a prosperous section of the great American corn belt. Great corn cribs are fast being filled to over flowing. Already six tractors are ploughing new lands to be planted to corn this year so that 4000 acres will be devoted to this one crop in 1918. Mr. Carter estimates that he will be able to produce 11,000,000 pounds of corn towards supplanting the 25,000,000 pounds wheat flour now imported into Hawaii, should conditions make such substitution necessary. It is interesting to note in this connection that, only a few years ago Parker Ranch boasted of its initial 3 acres experimental plot of corn. From 3 acres to 4000 acres in about a decade is certainly a record to be proud of and we may well extend high praise to the man through whose energy and perseverance so great an accomplishment was possible, and especially so should we become dependent upon our own resources for food stuffs. With its great herds of fine cattle, sheep and swine and unlimited areas in corn, which will possibly be supplemented with wheat, potatoes and other food crops, it does not seem that Hawaii need ever fear famine or even the stress of hunger. Turning from the largest single agricultural unit in the Territory to the small farms which fill the interspaces, some fine examples of successful enterprises were met with. Time and space will not now permit me going into detail conserving these very essential units to the upbuilding of a strong and lasting commonwealth. In subsequent letters I hope to share with you and your readers the benefits of my "little journeys to successful farmers, both large and small."

Maui Japanese In Trouble At Hilo

Carried A Gun To Protect Him From Pilikia But It Boomeranged On Him

The following is from the Daily Tribune, of Hilo:

Ikehara Mase evidently thinks that Hilo is a very dangerous city, for on leaving Lahaina, Maui, he bought a six-chamber revolver and fifty cartridges. Then, feeling well protected against attack, he boarded the good ship Mauna Kea and made his way hither.

Arriving in Hilo, Ike spent pleasant hours visiting the Japanese hotels. The little gun went with him every time, also twenty-five cartridges. Whenever Ike noticed anybody who looked suspicious, his hand grasped the gun. It was this peculiarity that finally landed him in trouble, for, while watching a game of billiards Ike's attention was brought to the fact that a suspicious looking individual was watching him closely. Down went his hand to the butt of his trusty little pistol.

The suspicious looking stranger moved closer and Ike became even more alarmed. Then came a sudden move and the stranger grasped Ike's wrist and twisted the revolver from his hand.

"Come along with me," shouted the stranger as he flashed his detective's badge. Ike wilted and explained that he thought the sleuth was a hold-up man.

In the police court, Ike was fined $25 for carrying a concealed weapon. He also lost his revolver and ammunition, as they were confiscated by the police. He also lost the steamship Mauna Kea in which he intended to return to Maui. Now he is wondering if he hadn't better get lost himself before worse befalls him.

Talks Thrift Stamps To School Children

C. D. Lufkin, upon invitation, addressed the pupils of Wailuku school Friday on the subject of the new thrift stamps. He took up with him cards and stamps, but, much to his surprise, did not have enough. About 35 accounts were opened with the pupils.

In his talk Mr. Lufkin emphasized the fact that the Bank of Maui wishes to encourage thrift, by means of the stamps, in all schools. Stamps may be obtained at any bank or post-office until enough have been procured when a war certificate will be issued. Mr. Lufkin stated that if any school teacher is interested, his bank or its branches will make such the bank's agent for the purpose of opening accounts with pupils or others.

The idea of the bank, explained Mr. Lufkin, is to encourage thrift among the children, and he said he would like to see every pupil in the schools of Maui, in position so to do, take the stamps.

Catholics Are Urged To Conserve Food

The following has been sent out by the National Food Administration:

"We suggest that you communicate with the Catholic bishop in your territory and request his patriotic cooperation to the extent that in sending out Lenten regulations he ask the priests to cooperate with your local and county agents. Also request that he urge his people to join in the work of conserving the food supply of this nation, following the president's proclamation and the rules promulgated by the food administration, to secure the desired results. Immediate action is necessary as regulations are now being prepared."

Trombones Out of Step

Colonel G—is a fine commander, but not a musician. He sent for the chief musician of his regimental band one day and delivered this scathing criticism:

"I notice a lack of uniformity about the band which must be regulated. Yesterday morning they were out on parade, and the largest man in the band was playing a little bit of an instrument—flute or something of the kind—and you had the big drum played by a small man. That sort of thing doesn't look well, and must be attended to. I want the small men to play small instruments and the big men the big instruments. And another thing—I want the trombone players to slide their instruments in and out in unison. It annoys me to see them all out of step with their hands."—Pittsburg Chronicle Dispatch.

Artist Christmas Defends Capt. Green

Declares That Draft Officer Did Not Drink While On Maui And Deplores Attack

Artist E. W. Christmas, who lived at the Maui Hotel with the late Captain Francis J. Green, while the latter was here sometime ago, is now in Hilo, and last Saturday afternoon the following interview with him appeared in the Daily Post-Herald, of that city:

"I don't quite understand this persecution of a dead man," said E. W. Christmas, R. B. A., referring to the many rumors that have been circulated about the late Captain Francis J. Green, head of the Selective Draft for the Territory of Hawaii. "It seems to me a pernicious, not to say cowardly thing to make defamatory statements about a man after he is dead unless they can be proved as absolutely true.

"Governor Pinkham has done this, notwithstanding the fact that he posed as a friend of the dead man. I do not believe, personally, that Major Green was a drinking man at the time of his death. I stayed in the same hotel with him on Maui for a week or more. (It was on Maui that the Governor said Captain Green had indulged in a fondness for drink). During that entire week I did not once see him even the least little bit under the influence of liquor. He was always up, shaved, bathed and clothed in immaculate white, alert, and evidently deep in the day's affairs when I came downstairs in the morning. A man who had been drinking heavily the night before could not look as Captain Green looked every morning in the hotel in Maui. And I am equally sure that he did not drink to excess during the day. It seems that Governor Pinkham, in his desire to see prohibition established in Honolulu, used poor Captain Green as an illustration of the evil effects of alcohol because at the time he had no one else he could use for such an illustration. And that message the Governor sent to Washington was doubtless published all over the United States.

"It is rather an awful thing to brand a dead man a thief, a drunkard and a self-murderer because it has happened that he is less than $30.00 short in his accounts, a fact which he has admitted, and because he is found dead in his bed. True, it has been pretty clearly shown that Captain Green bought poison, but he stated that he was buying it to kill a cat. That doesn't seem to me such an impossible thing for a man to want to do. I know many men who have not only desired to kill a cat, but have carefully planned to kill a cat. I know other men who have killed a cat on impulse. To buy poison to kill a cat is a most reasonable thing to do, and, until it has been absolutely proved to the contrary, it seems to me that the public should be allowed to believe that Captain Francis J. Green bought the poison he is known to have purchased for the purpose he gave—to kill a cat.

"As for the shortage in his accounts—that was a mere nothing to a man of the Captain's means. He could have made up the $29 or $30 and never have missed it. It is possible, of course, that I am mistaken in my estimate of the man, but until some actual proof has been established to the contrary I shall continue to believe that this dead man is being persecuted by those who once professed to be his friends."

Million And A Half Men Now In Service

No figures as to how many men the United States now has in Europe have been given out, but there has just come to hand figures of the total now in service, and, reading between the lines of information given out a short time ago, the inference was drawn that nearly a third of those in service had been safely landed in the war zone.

On January 10 Secretary Baker presented to Congress a statement of the standing of the army, which showed that there were nearly 1,500,000 men under arms, this not including the navy in Europe and the marines on shore duty there. A part of Mr. Baker's statement was as follows:

"On the 1st day of April, 1917, the Regular Army comprised 5,791 officers and 121,797 enlisted men; the National Guard in Federal service, approximately 3,733 officers and 76,713 enlisted men, and the Reserve, 4,000 enlisted men. There were also at that time approximately 2,573 officers in the Reserve, but as these were on inactive duty they can not properly be considered in estimating the strength of the Army of the United States at that time. On the 31st day of December, 1917, the Regular Army consisted of 10,250 officers and 475,000 enlisted men; the National Army of 480,000 men, and the Reserve of 84,575 officers and 72,750 enlisted men. In other words, in nine months the increase has been from 9,524 officers to 119,856 officers; from 202,510 to 1,428,650 men.

"During the war with Spain the Army of the United States at its maximum strength aggregated 272,000 men and officers. The Army now in the field and in training is, therefore, roughly six times as great as the maximum number under arms in the Spanish-American War."

Mr. W. A. Clark, manager of Grove Ranch, discussed the subject from the standpoint of the producer, giving interesting information as to what his and other enterprises were doing to enable Maui to become self-sustaining in important food items.

Harold W. Rice began by announcing that the Maui Chamber of Commerce, of which he is president, pledged itself to support the food pledge campaign in every way. He then discussed the meat situation, what was being done to meet the situation and how the community could help.

Clarence E. Barter, superintendent of the Haiku Fruit & Packing Co., discussed the food problem from the standpoint of the local packer. He urged the increase of locally grown produce, and that all surplus be canned. A "home run", to use a baseball term, was scored when he recommended that Maui people use no canned foods whatever, as canned meats, vegetables and fruits were forced on the mainland and by our forces in Europe. "Can all we can for our soldiers and our Allies and use the residue ourselves" was about the substance of his excellent idea.

David T. Fleming went at length into the subject of fishing for market, pointing out the hardships and expense of extensive fishing and going into the merits of various species of fish. The interesting announcement was made that the company represented by him had decided to go into the fishing business on a more or less extensive scale and that in a few months the problem of an abundance of fish at reasonable prices would probably be near solution.

Mr. R. A. Wadsworth, at that point, addressed the meeting on the special subject of liberty loans and thrift stamps, pointing out that the conservation of money was important, as well as the conservation of food; and that by investing in thrift stamps the government could be aided in winning the war.

Messrs. Frank Baldwin and Dr. W. D. Baldwin spoke for the Maui section of the Vigilance Corps, stating that that organization was much in sympathy with the food conservation proposition, and while it might possibly complicate the work for it to take it up actively as an institution, the members would assist in every way possible.

Mrs. Bowdish called attention to a table filled with "conservation" breads and invited all present to "sample" the same after the meeting—which was done, to the general satisfaction of all.

The meeting as a whole was a great success, much valuable information being disseminated and considerable enthusiasm being aroused on the purposes of conservation week, now so close at hand.

OUR ATTITUDE TOWARD ENEMIES

"We do not wish in any way to impair or to rearrange the Austrian-Hungarian Empire. It is no affair of ours what they do with their own life, either industrially or politically. We do not purpose or desire to dictate to them in any way. We only desire to see that their affairs are left in their own hands, in all matters, great or small.

"We shall hope to secure for the people of the Balkan Peninsula and the Turkish Empire the power and right to make their own lives safe, their own fortunes secure against oppression or injustice and from the dictation of foreign courts or parties.

*"And our attitude with regard to Germany herself is of a like kind. We intend no wrong against the German Empire, no interference with affairs. * * * We are in fact fighting for her people's emancipation from fear along with our own—from the fear as well as from the fact of unjust attack by neighbors, or rivals, or schemers after world empire. No one is threatening the existence or independence of the peaceful enterprise of the German Empire." (From the President's Message of Dec. 4.)*

THAT "CONSERVATION" MEETING

A gratifying feature of the conservation meeting held in the Kahului Community House Tuesday evening was the keen interest manifested by both speakers and audience in the various phases of the subject under discussion. Deep concern and determination were in evidence, the meaning of which can only be that the food pledge drive, which will begin on the 13th., will be a success. The program was so arranged that experts from all fields to be affected by the conservation program were heard, and the information drawn out was not only intensely interesting but instructive in the highest degree.

Many points in the speeches impressed us favorably, and a great deal might be written in endorsement of them. One, particularly (the point made by Mr. Barter, of the cannery interests, that no canned foods be used), was striking. We have in the past advocated the use of locally canned vegetables, legumes, etc., on the theory that people simply would use the canned article anyway and that by confining their purchases to home canned goods, the imported product might be left where it is, on the mainland, for use in connection with the war. Acting upon what seemed to be a reasonably large demand, the Haiku Fruit & Packing Company started canning local produce, in addition to pineapples, on quite an extensive scale, and it began to look as though the idea would work out all right. Now, however, Uncle Sam has entered the field and asks for the entire local pack—and every patriot is willing that he should have it!

There is enough fresh stuff left, however, for all local needs, plus a great deal for the assistance of Honolulu; and Mr. Barter's suggestion that the residue be used is timely, businesslike and patriotic. On Tuesday Luunene Store will go extensively into the business of keeping and delivering locally grown, fresh produce, and we hope the people of Maui will show their appreciation of this patriotic endeavor by backing it to the limit. Other stores of Maui will, we assume, follow this splendid example, until, at no distant day, we will be helping Uncle Sam to our limit, in this particular line, and taking care of ourselves as well. What, pray, could be nearer true "conservation?" What could be nearer the ideas of the President and the Food Administration than that?

In furtherance of this idea, we believe the time has now come for merchants to cease entirely the importation of canned meats and canned vegetables. It is difficult to stop, or even curtail, the use of imported foodstuffs so long as the merchants conspicuously display such, in pretty wrappers, on their shelves. We can get along for a few months without most, if not all, canned goods. It is up to the merchants to automatically assist conservation at this point by ceasing to import, until such time as the necessity for food conservation no longer exists.

Splendid progress has been made in the effort to conserve flour, but to date only the better informed among our people have been impressed with the necessity of flour saving. There are among us many who do not read the papers (in fact, do not read at all.) Hundreds of them do not know that a conservation campaign is on, and hundreds upon hundreds more have only the vaguest of ideas about it. One numerically important element of Maui's population uses wheat flour almost exclusively for its bread. It has done so in the past and is doing so today. This element has no language newspaper here, and the only ways to reach it are through the few who read English and understand, or by personal advice and instruction of the conservation workers. It is a problem, but it must be tackled and worked out. If it cannot be worked out in any other way, it may yet become advisable to cease importing flour in any quantity whatever until the need for saving is over.

But this is getting away from the subject of the meeting in Kahului. That gathering was a public affair (a sort of mass meeting,) and it worked out well. Open discussions are of great advantage in times like these, and we hope that there may be other meetings of the same kind.

We commend the ladies in charge for the very excellent idea.

PATIENCE MISTAKEN FOR COWARDICE

Cardinal James Gibbons, of Baltimore, a leader of the Roman Catholic hierarchy and the College of Cardinals, and one of the profoundest thinkers and most influential heads of the Catholic church in America and the world, thinks that America's patience and forbearance have been mistaken by Germany for cowardice. The Cardinal has just issued a statement on the matter which is gaining wide publicity and will doubtless make an impression in Europe. One part of his letter, which is of interest everywhere, is as follows:

"As an evidence of the righteousness of America's cause in the war, I would point to the patience of our President and Congress under the long series of grave injuries and broken pledges endured by the United States during the time that Germany was professing its friendship for us. We were shocked to see our property unjustly destroyed in vast quantity, but what was immeasurably more serious, to read of our men, women, and children killed in violation of the universally accepted customs of the sea.

Folly to Hope for Change

"When at length not only American citizens but neutrals everywhere suffered appallingly under the cruelties of a nation which hesitated not to disregard international law we learned that patience was being construed as cowardice, and that it was folly to hope that wiser counsels would prevail among our enemies to bring about a change in their lawless policy. Then we took the only course open to us, the defense of our sovereign rights as a nation and the upholding of the ideals of truth and justice in the hearts of all peoples.

"We have entered into the struggle with a clean conscience, seeking no territorial or financial gain, but the peace of the world, the liberty of its people, and the security of all nations."

We hope that the Maui branch of the American Vigilance Corps will take steps to see that no more alien enemies are shipped as sailors, from the Sound to ports of this island, on lumber vessels. We have one too many alien enemies here already, and do not want any more, either as residents, stop-overs or sailors on ships.

GERMAN STRIKE CANARDS

There is quite probably unrest and a desire for peace in Germany and Austria, and there have doubtless been demonstrations in the interest of peace movements, in both of those countries; but when Berlin and Vienna begin firing out into the world reports of strikes and rioting and blue revolution, our suspicions are aroused. This great strike rumor came first from Vienna through Switzerland, and was followed by direct, official confirmation of the gravest disorders in the Austrian capital. If the rumors were true—if the Austrian government were in the throes of near-revolution, as was stated—does any sane man imagine that the Austrian government would be the first to flash the fact out to the world and enemies on the battlefield?

Official Germany first sent out the news of strikes in Berlin and elsewhere in Germany; and the reports were confirmed by the German papers, which are controlled by and forced to be the mouthpieces of the Kaiser. These newspapers, containing the alarming reports, were sent by wholesale into Holland, whence it was known that their statements would reach the Allies without delay.

If the reports were true, Germany and Austria could not be regarded as other than on their last legs. And if that were really the situation, any sane mind will likely agree that the Teuton governments would turn their countries upside down before allowing any hint of it reaching the Allies.

We are inclined to accept the Holland opinion—that Germany is practicing another ruse. She is seeking to fool the Allies into believing that she is nearing the end, in the hope and expectation that the latter may ease up on their preparation for the big drive in the Spring. If the Entente powers are as wise as we think they now are, they will pay no attention to the new lies from Berlin, and will go on with their plans with increased energy and determination.

Until we have something more substantial to rely on we shall regard all strike and rioting reports from Germany and Austria as more or less canards.

DECEPTION OF GERMAN PEOPLE

The United States government has given out, through the Official Bulletin, copies of instructions issued by the German government to German newspapers during the months of April, May, June and July, this year, telling them what they shall not publish and what they may publish, but prescribing how the latter shall be treated and used. The long list of orders to the papers, as they were issued to the German publications, were procured by Uncle Sam's long arm, and make interesting reading, for they show in the most positive way that the German government is not only censoring the news but is compelling the newspapers of that country to publish falsehoods by wholesale.

In these orders, for instance, the papers are forbidden to publish anything whatever about strikes, or labor unrest; are to minimize German reverses and play up, with big headlines, successes. "The discussions in the Austrian Parliament. . . .," says one order, "are to be carefully concealed," while the coming of American troops is to be belittled, so as to allay alarm.

There is a lot of it, and it is rich reading. In due course we will likely have copies of other orders to the German newspapers regarding American operations on the battle front, which will be even more interesting.

The whole thing goes to prove, in the most conclusive way, that the German government, in a systematic manner, is withholding from the people of that country all facts concerning the war except such as may keep them hopeful of eventual success. Fine state of affairs, eh?

Speaking of fairs, county and Territorial, there is this to be said: We are at this moment rapidly approaching one of the most critical periods in the history of the country. In a few months the greatest republic on earth will measure swords with the strongest autocracy the world has ever known. The crash will jar every part of our land, to the extent that Americans will be thinking of it first of all and have little time or inclination to think of anything else. Our experience here is destined to be the same, and it is doubtful that, in the Spring or in June, any great enthusiasm will develop itself in the matter of fairs. We are heartily in favor of such institutions. We do not favor passing over any good thing on account of the war, provided that people are in a frame of mind to warm up to it. But under the circumstances, with the outlook ahead, we have our doubts that anything of large consequence can be accomplished in the way of fairs this year. Perhaps it would be best to plan modestly and let it go at that.

The ladies of Maui have, thus far, done well in planning for food pledge week, which will begin on the 13th. of this month; and can really go little farther with their original outlines. Among the people who read and think there is undoubtedly interest and enthusiasm as to the campaign. We have with us, however, people of various nationalities who do not read, and being uninformed, conservation methods in general appear as an imposition. They do not understand the need of it, and, under the circumstances, everything depends upon a carefully manipulated campaign of education. Everybody can help in this—in the effort to inform these people of the exact meaning of "food pledge week" and the necessity for it. It will require tact, patience and perseverance but by a reasonable employment of these we believe the veil may be lifted and all of the people may be induced to come in, take the pledge and live up to the rules.

The Nawiliwili breakwater proposition has been repeatedly urged by unanimous vote of the Chamber of Commerce of Kauai, and at the request of that organization was, some years ago, endorsed by all the commercial organizations of the Islands. There was never any opposition to a suitable harbor at that island, although there always has been some question as to just where it should be located so as bring the greatest good to the largest number. If homesteaders were the consideration, Nawiliwili has had rather the best of the argument in the past; but with the impending opening of new lands above Hanapepe and around Kekaha, Port Allen as a possibility is brought more insistently to the front again. The best (and most) tillable lands owned by the Territory today are on the island of Kauai, so that the choice of this harbor, as it may affect homesteads, is of general interest to all the Islands.

F. W. Koehnen, bookkeeper and confidential man in the branch house of Hackfeld & Company, at Hilo, when confronted with the accusation that he is an alien enemy backs into a corner and whines that he is an American at heart and is not in sympathy with Germany in the war. One cannot get away from the fact, however, that Koehnen has been a resident of these Islands for nine years and during that long period has remained a German, not accepting the citizenship which was freely offered him by our laws; and, no matter how good a man he may otherwise be, the Americanism which he now professes (under business stress) has not rung true in the past.

Mr. Krauss brings the cheering news that the Parker Ranch, on Hawaii, besides going extensively into corn, will begin the cultivation of wheat. On the higher plains included in that estate there are lands which are suitable for wheat, and if climatic conditions are to be relied on, the experiment should prove quite successful. The matter is of the great importance to the Islands, for if the effort to grow wheat on a large scale is successful our principal food problem will be settled for all time. Manager Alfred W. Carter deserves much credit for the patriotism and enterprise he is showing in trying to solve our food question in a large way.

We might as well familiarize ourselves with the new word "Boloism," a product of the war which we are advised will come into general use soon, not only in the United States but throughout the world. The man Bolo, while posing as a loyal Frenchman, really acted in Paris, New York and elsewhere as a most dangerous, German agent. The term "Boloist" will probably soon be applied to the man who c be loyal, but secretly acts the part of a traitor; and "Boloism" to his species of treachery. We have just been treated at Honolulu to some incidents of near "Boloism."

Cutting Down Travel

Coming from E. D. Tenney, president of Castle & Cooke, agents for the Matson Navigation Company, the proposal for temporarily stopping the work of the Hawaiian Promotion Committee will get what it has deserved for some time, the serious consideration of the community. It goes without saying that this step means a heavy loss to this and the other communities of the Islands, but it is a question in the minds of a good many of us, whether it should not have been taken some months ago. Voluntarily undertaken by the people of Hawaii themselves such a move would come with far more grace and carry more convincing evidence of our willingness to make any necessary sacrifice than could be the case were the government to issue a mandate that would cut off our tourist traffic without consulting our wishes in the matter.

We have been fortunate in these Blessed Isles—more fortunate than we perhaps have deserved. The war has held off from us for a long time, while all the rest of the world has been suffering. We alone of Americans have been able to go alone the quiet tenor of our ways without much consideration of the fact that the destiny of the human race is being battled for on a score of bloody fields.

The sacrifices that we are called upon to make are merely those of the pocket, and pitifully small when compared with those of the vast bulk of our fellow countrymen and the rest of mankind. Let us therefore make them cheerfully. If, as Mr. Tenney says, the government wants us to cut down passenger traffic to Hawaii during the period of the war, let us get to work at once. Divert the money now paid to the promotion committee into a channel where it will tell for us and our allies against the German.

New Schedule For "Less" Days On Maui

The following schedule, which has been sent out by the Hawaii Division of the U. S. Food Administration, is endorsed by the Maui Woman's Food Conservation Commission and is published at the request of that body:

- Maintain Rigidly The Following Schedule
- Monday—Wheatless and one meatless meal.
 - Tuesday—Meatless and porkless and one wheatless meal.
 - Wednesday—Wheatless and one meatless meal.
 - Thursday—One wheatless and one meatless meal.
 - Friday—One Wheatless and one meatless meal.
 - Saturday—Porkless and one wheatless and one meatless meal.
 - Sunday—One wheatless and one meatless meal.

Save The Wheat
Use corn, oatmeal, rye, barley or banana bread if you buy bread.
Buy only war bread—the victory loaf.

Use other cereals than wheat if you bake at home.
On wheatless days and in meatless meals of other days use no crackers, pasta, macaroni or other cereals containing wheat. Use no wheat flour in any form except a small amount that may be needed for thickening soups or gravies, or for a binder in cornbread or other cereal bread. The use of rye or barley flour as a binder for quick breads is urged.

Save The Meat
On meatless and porkless days and in meatless meals of other days use no red meat, beef, pork, mutton, veal, lamb. No preserved meat—beef, bacon, ham, lard. Use no hash, sausage, hamburger steak, sweet bread, tripe, liver, brains, kidney, pig's feet, pig's head, or meat soups. Use instead—game, poultry, fish, eggs sea food, or Japanese bean cake.

Save The Milk
Do not waste a drop milk. The world is desperately hard up for milk and butter. Sour milk is good for cooking or for making cottage cheese.

Save The Fats
Make every day a fat saving day. Fry less, bake, broil, or stew food instead. Save meat drippings. Use butter on the table, it is vital for children.

Save The Sugar
Use sugarless sweet drinks. Candy containing sugar should not be used in war time. Give the children syrups, honey, molasses and preserves. Limit your use of sugar to three pounds per person per month. Substitute honey. Much raisins, if you crave sweets.

Use Local Supplies

UNION SUNDAY SCHOOL

Following was the annual report of the Wailuku Union Sunday School:
The Wailuku Union Sunday School has had a good year, though not so good as it would have been if whooping-cough had not so seriously interfered. The average attendance has been 28, which is proportionately better than last year, considering the disadvantages the school has been under. For example—

Eighteen pupils have left the Sunday School, 4 going away to school, 9 having moved away, and 5, four of whom were teachers, leaving for other reasons. To fill these places 8 new pupils have been received, still leaving the Sunday School roll with 44 instead of last year's 54. Under the circumstances the Sunday School has done very well indeed to maintain such a good attendance, and average offering.

The total offerings for the year have been $67.72 including the birthday offering of $4.86. This sum has been devoted to the running expenses of the Sunday School but it is hoped this year to work out a budget including various benevolences.

Regarding the activities of the Sunday School, outside of the regular Sunday sessions several clubs have been formed. The first of these is the Rain or Shine Club. This has been formed to remedy the idea on the part of some of the Sunday School that there is no session on rainy Sundays. According to the ruling of this club, all above the Primary class agree, in so far as their parents are willing to take off their shoes and stockings, and wearing old clothes, to come to Sunday School just as if it were as regular a thing as day school. Those who brave the rain drops are to be rewarded with a picnic as near the date of the rainy day as possible. It is hoped by this and other means, to get the children and parents to look on the Sunday School as a regular appointment to be remembered as regularly as Sunday comes around.

Wailuku Union Sunday School Red Cross was formed in the Fall but had to be abandoned on account of the prevalence of whooping-cough. It is hoped that as soon as that is fairly over, the work may be resumed, the knitters meeting with Mrs. Vellesen and those who clip with Miss Judd at the church.

The Bright Monday Club meets on Friday afternoons at the church after school, the object being to encourage all boys and girls of the Sunday School to come in and get their home work for Monday done and out of hand before Sunday. A slight survey of the Sunday School revealed this need, and it is hoped that by this measure, parents, school teachers, children, and Sunday School may be mutually helped. The co-operation of parents and school teachers is urged in this particular.

The usual special days have been celebrated during the year. These were Easter, Children's Day, the Annual Picnic, Thanksgiving and Christmas. All of these occasions were happy ones for those participating.

A great deal of credit and thanks is due from all of us to the corps of teachers who have faithfully served the Sunday School during the past year. Few Sunday Schools are so well equipped with teachers. Three trained teachers, two of whom are experienced kindergartners, the Pastor of the church, and the Superintendent form the teaching force, and it can not help being true that if you will let us have your children regularly, every Sunday just as regularly as you can possibly manage, they are bound to learn much that you want them to know, and have not had time to teach them yourselves.

Two things, we of the Sunday School beg of you all this year, and they are that you bear the Sunday School as a burden on your minds and hearts so sincerely that no matter what the sacrifices of time, pleasure or recreation to yourselves, you will always see to it that your children are not denied this birthright of knowledge of their Heavenly Father unless you are prepared to make it up to them, in some quiet story hour at home during the week. This is a responsibility that it is easy to overlook but it is fraught with joy or sorrow to us later on, that we can not measure.

This leads to our second wish, and that is a hope that in the new year parents will bear it in mind to help the Sunday School at all times or at special times in the week by reading them stories connected with the lesson sheet, or more important still watching out that the prayer life of the children does not slip into formality or even disuse, through lack of guidance and loving direction.

In these two things your co-operation is needed more than you can guess. Do these things; then send the little ones, and the big ones to the Sunday School and we as teachers pledge ourselves to teach and lead them to the best of our ability that by January of another year your own children may more than repay you for your pains.

REPORT OF THE MINISTER

Following was the report of Rev. Mr. Dodge, minister of the Wailuku Union Church:
"Except the Lord Build the House They Labor in Vain that Build it". Pa. 127:1.
In approaching this annual meeting these words of the Psalmist have been ringing in my ears. I could not help looking back to August 1905, and I have asked myself over and over again this: "Has the Lord built this house?" I look back and remember the gathering that first Sunday night of November 1905, holding the first service in the opening of a church that had been closed for many years, and the repeated remarks of some, "That church won't stay open six months". I have seen how it has stayed open over twelve years and I have felt the steady deepening of the life of the people. I have come to this conclusion, that the Lord did build here his spiritual temple.

The entering into this new house of worship six years ago this month was a joyous time for all of us. It was an anxious time for me as the minister, for the new duties and the greater responsibility of leading the church were heavier than ever upon me. The services were well attended. I have for the last three years kept a close record of attendance. The audiences for the year just past have been as good in the average as any year since we entered the new church, except for a brief period we had very large numbers present. The faithfulness of so many in regularly attending the church service has been a source of great encouragement and the constant words of good cheer spoken to me so often have greatly helped. I am bold enough to say that I have the sincerest conviction that in the past year particularly, the Lord's hand in building our spiritual house has been greatly in evidence. There has been a deepening on the part of many of their experience with God. The prayer life in some of our homes has become a real part of attempt to reach God. The children in many homes have been read to from the Bible, and I think their mothers, and in some cases their fathers, have been careful in developing the prayer life of their children.

I have been much pleased to note that the attendance at the communion services is much larger than in any year previous and more children have been brought to the consecration, or baptism services than in any previous year.

It is a matter of deep gratitude that the debt on the church building has been absolutely cleared off. These amounts were promised at the time of the Fiftieth Anniversary, but the collections were not completed in 1917. This handicap has now been removed. Also the income of the church in regular offerings has been larger than ever and more members have taken sets of offering envelopes. By far the larger proportion of the income this year has come through systematic giving.

The special seasons of the church life were a very great joy, particularly the co-operation connected with the community Christmas Tree.

The faithful and beautiful spirit that prompted the organization, on the part of the young people, of the choir has been greatly appreciated by the minister and all those who unite in worship here. The study of the Bible by a little group before church, the special prayer service on Good Friday, the co-operation and spirit of unity so apparent in the meetings of the standing committee and the good responses for the financial support of missions have all shown a deepening of the heart life of our church.

The preaching of Rev. Messrs. Charles F. Dole, Wm. H. Fry, J. H. Williams, W. B. Coale, Frank T. Scudder and Henry P. Judd, and of Colonel Dubbin, the singing of the Molokai Choir, brought much help and inspiration to us all.

The year before us should quicken and deepen the spirit of our church. In many ways it will be the most trying year of our work together because of the world upheaval. The world is facing itself as never before since Christ came. Let us do our share by allowing the Master Builder of the Universe build our individual lives and our church life with the full indwelling of His spirit.

Mr. Pleasant's Sermon

The Rev. Ellis E. Pleasant of Kahului preached a splendid sermon at the Makawao Union Church last Sunday. His theme was non-resistance in the sense that Jesus used it in the sermon on the mount.

Mr. Pleasant said in part that Jesus brought to the world a new conception of life and duty when he said "Love your enemies." The old idea of his best was to return evil for evil, but Jesus urged that retaliation for a wrong only added further wrong and never accomplished any good. Retaliation is the result of anger, antagonism, anything but a friendly spirit.

On the other hand Jesus combatted wrong and evil in the world all thru his life. He never retaliated when an injury was done him personally, but when perpetrated upon others. Consequently the Christian is permitted and the obligation laid upon him to combat and overcome wrong in the spirit of justice, of service, of humanity. But he must not sink to the level of retaliation which would put himself on the low standard of the one who committed the first wrong. Today the United States is combating wrong in high places, but is doing it in the name of humanity, not asking any personal advantage for herself.

SUNDAY LABOR, AND AMUSEMENTS

With the words: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath" as his text, Rev. J. Charles Villiers referred, in his sermon, last Sunday morning, to the recent order by President Wilson that there shall be no Sunday labor, throughout the military and naval services of the United States, except of the strictest necessity. Reasons for this Presidential action were not given, or were not reported. But similar action taken by the British government, a few months ago, with reference to munitions workers, and indeed, to all labor under government control, was taken for the reason that it was a necessity. A six days working week, it had been found, had a great advantage over a seven days working week. Better results were achieved by it, industrially, as well as socially.

This is no new discovery, but an economic fact which was established by proof, years ago. The redemption of Sunday from exacting toil is for the common good, an economic advantage, as well as a social boon. One of our modern difficulties, however, is the proper use of Sunday. This difficulty would be less than it is if all of us were willing to put first things first, remembering there are things which, though lawful, that are not expedient, and do not edify. We may boast ourselves that we are "free Americans," and are living in the dispensation of "Christian liberty." But our freedom and liberty are no excuse for license. We are no more free from obedience to the principle of the fourth commandment, than we are free from the principle of any other of the ten commandments. The true law of Sunday is not that of external authority, but one that belongs to the eternal order, the issue of which law is that when it is kept it results in the moral and social good of men, and when it is not kept, in moral and social ill to them. There is more of truth than fiction in the old-fashioned lines:

"A Sabbath well spent
Brings a week of content,
And strength for the toils of tomorrow,
But a Sabbath profaned,
What e'er may be gained,
Is a certain forerunner of sorrow."

The fault of our day with reference to Sunday is not that of the Scribes of old, nor that of the Puritans of more recent times. It lies in an opposite extreme from both. We have not only used, but we have abused our liberty, (1) by largely commercializing the day, and (2) by making it much more a day of sports and amusements than of true rest, re-creation, and worship. So great is this case that if the present trend keeps up Sunday will soon be emptied of all spiritual meaning and religious content. Works of necessity do not, as our Lord teaches, disharmonize with Sunday. But to say that all toil and labor which now intrude into Sunday are works of necessity is to speak with a great latitude of imagination, as would be, readily seen, were all profit making, and dividend earning eliminated from the day. Again, there is, of course, a place for re-creation, for physical and mental refreshment on Sunday. But sports and amusements, commercially conducted, are not necessary thereto.

To make men worship God does not come within the province of the law, but to preserve Sunday from commercial selfishness does. To enforce public worship by civic penalties is to rob public worship of its religious values. But to invoke the law against profit making and dividend earning on Sunday is, on purely humanitarian grounds, the duty of the state. Sunday observance, entirely apart from all religious grounds is in the interest of the moral, mental, and physical welfare of the community, and there is economic evidence, in great abundance, that it is in the interest of the efficiency of labor, and the prosperity of industry.

As a religious institution Sunday is God's one great provision for man's spiritual regeneration, the day set apart by God for man to readjust himself to the eternal order, and to take fresh grip upon the things that are true, and honest, and just, and pure, and lovely, and of good report.
