HAWAIIANS FOR THE NAVY

Probability that Mohican Will Be Made
Local Training Ship.

Philadelphia and Yorktown Will Both Receive Drafts from Her to Be Replaced by Apprentices.

There is a possibility that the Mohican will end her days in the Hawaiian Islands. When the Philadelphia arrives to hoist the flag she will be followed by the Yorktown. These two ships will be in need of men, which will be taken from the Mohican.

The Mohican will be left here as a training ship, and boys from the islands will have the opportunity of taking a course in seamanship and fitting themselves for the service. The Hawaiians are famous as sailors the world over, and with their natural ability cultivated under careful guidance will make useful additions to the navy, which from now on will continue to increase in power and usefulness.

The glory of the navy in the present war is bound to make it the more popular branch of the United States service.

ON THE LAND OF PAHOA

New Tract About to Be Opened Up
For Sale.

Visit of Press Representatives—Something
About the Spot of Beauty—Ocean Below,
Valleys in Rear.

The certainty of the immediate growth of the city of Honolulu has caused thinking people to purchase lots not in the city but in the suburbs, away from the heat and dust of the business portion, in the track of the winds that cool and scenery that pleases the eye and rests the mind after the struggles of the day are over. Homes in the city are well enough and, although crowded, are most convenient; but what are they when compared with a large lot in the suburbs with the electric cars running to the door?

The latest of these suburb tracts to be opened up is Pahoia, that land running from the Kapahulu road that leads from Beretania extension to Kapiolani park, out to Waialae and comprising in all some 400 acres with soil of the same kind as that of the fertile land of Ewa, where the sugar crop each year tells of the nature of the earth. This Pahoia tract was purchased by Gear, Lansing & Co. but a short time ago from Paul R. Isenberg, who had it originally from Dr. Tronseeau.

In order that the people of Honolulu might be given an idea of what splendid opportunities in the way of building lots will soon be available, a party of press representatives and others interested were taken to the place Sunday. Included in this were: Fred Harrison, who has already purchased quite a large portion of the land; Wm. M. Minton, interested in real estate and who may locate here; Chas. Weatherwax, who took some beautiful views of sea, valley and field; and A. Gartenberg and Messrs. Gear and Lansing who conducted the party.

The party first mounted Telegraph hill, the highest point on the land. From there could be seen the ocean stretching away to either side of Diamond head and relieved of that unpleasant glare, which is one of the features that detract from Waikiki as a residence place. With one sweep of the eye could be seen Koko Head and Waialae with Molokai in the distance. Here, all vessels from the Coast can be seen as they approach Honolulu. Following around from these points one has a full view of Diamond Head, Kapiolani Park and the whole of Waikiki sleeping in a mass of green foliage. Then comes the city and harbor with all the shipping, Palama, Kalihii, Moanalua, Pearl Lochs, Ewa and the Waianae mountains, while mauka are the valleys and mountains with beautiful Palolo most prominent. Over the whole land the trade winds blow and little showers fall. What more could be asked for?

On parts of the lower levels of the land one can see everything enumerated, Waialae excepted. Following are some of the points that should be dwelt upon by the readers of the BULLETIN: That the electric cars will run to within a short distance of the land and that, in all probability, an extension will be built to the land proper should buildings spring up. That Pahoia has a natural reservoir in its very midst that could be easily filled when properly paved. That the Harrison brothers own quarries on the land just adjoining, making the transportation of rock for building purposes within the reach of all.

That the land when divided up will contain lots of 50x100 as well

MASCOTS OF THE MOHICAN

The Simian Pet Ignominiously Drummed
Over the Side.

Cat and Dog Are All Right—Training Ship to Have a Band—Suggestion for Practise.

The mascots on the Mohican are one less. Weyler, the pet of the ship, has been banished because of the trouble and anxiety he caused. He was a pet monkey brought by the men from Central America. He had a great fondness for small things, and he and the cook were mortal enemies. Weyler looked upon the galley as his own dominion and that's why cook and he did not love each other.

A complaint was made and he was court martialled and ordered dishonorably discharged from the service. At midnight with muffled drums he was marched from the fore-castle to the side of the ship and there consigned to the tender mercies of a bumboatman.

Charley and Mulligan are the only pets left now. The former is a cat that has been with the ship for eleven years and is deaf as a post, having unfortunately been under one of the great guns when it was fired. Mulligan is a spry mongrel dog, the special friend and constant companion ashore of the gunner's mate, who on the ship is known as "Danger."

If they can't enter into active hostilities at present the officers and men are going to have some excitement other than that occasioned by the searchlights of island steamers. The powers that be have decreed that the Mohican shall have a band. The instruments are expected on the next steamer and then the fun will begin. It has not yet been decided whether or not it would be a good idea to take the ship to Lahaina for band practise.

STEAM LAUNDRY.

Will Shortly Open and Do Quick and Good Work.

Within a month Honolulu will be enjoying the benefits of a new steam laundry. The machinery is all here and the site at Iwilei is now being prepared for the building.

The machinery is of the latest and the laundry will have ample capacity for doing the washing of the entire white population of the town. Wagons will have regular routes and call for clothes and deliver them.

It will take about three days to do the washing which now takes a week. The work will be better done and with less wear and tear on the clothes. Taking all the advantages of the new system into consideration, it will soon become popular, and people will have their clothes done in much better style than in the old washing by hand process.

OPENING OF SECOND WEEK

Colonel Parker Expresses His Pleasure at Studying With Teachers.

Compliments the Teaching of English in Hawaiian Schools—Lectures on Writing
—Mrs. Parker on Vowels.

The second week of the Summer School opened this morning. After the illustrations in kindergarten work, the day's work began with the singing of Old Hundred and the Lord's Prayer.

In opening his talk, Colonel Parker said that he had enjoyed the past week's work very much, on account of the responsiveness of the school.

He had taken great pleasure in studying with the other teachers. The results attained by the teachers in the public schools here, in teaching English, were wonderful. The same difficulties to be overcome here, are confronting the teachers of the large cities of the United States, only they are nearer of solution here in the islands, where people are brought so much nearer to nature, the greatest of teachers.

The question of common education is new to the world. The development of the possibilities of every child is the aim of the new education. In the last ten years, more books have been written on education than in all the previous years of the century. Nothing is settled. For years certain things have been done in certain ways—not always the best. The question of education is broad as the universe and deep as the ocean. I sometimes think that the best definition of education is, the development of the attitude of the soul toward truth.

Find what the children need and try to supply that need. I hope this matter of industrial education will obtain here. I came here to study the islands and I want to carry back a great many things. I want to carry back to the Chicago Institute an exhibit of the minerals, flora, and industrial implements of the islands.

The lesson today was on the mechanics of writing. The question is, what is writing?

A child can learn to read without taking a bit of time. Writing can be made a means of studying everything of life. The mechanics of writing must be studied. Nineteen-tenths of all writing are curves and straight lines. In speaking, there are thirty different sounds to learn. The writing is very simple. The evolution of strength, physical and mental, is diffused through the body by means of ganglions and gradually works to the extremities. A child is ready to write when he is ready to read.

To begin with copies, and have the child write over and over again, is a bad thing. After the child has learned to read have him try to write the word. Get movement first and rapidity of action—let form come afterward. Give a child no exercises before you give him paper to write upon.

Is the Mango a Disease-Causing Fruit?

From THE HAWAIIAN of Saturday.

As mangoes are so plentiful on the Hawaiian Islands, and are eaten in great quantities, by the children especially, the following rather disquieting article, from the Tropical Agriculturist of Colombo, Ceylon, will be read with interest here:

"That most cultured of Anglo-Indian statesmen, Sir M. E. Grant-Duff, has been giving a lecture before the Society of Arts on the 'Recreations of an Indian Official,' and very interesting he made it; but we only refer to it to-day to quote the ex-Governor's high praise of the mango in the following sentence:

There were the Anacardiaceae, to which belongs the omnipresent mango, as to which we may say, with more truth, what Bishop Berkeley is reported to have said about the strawberry, that he had no doubt that the Almighty could have made a better fruit, but that he had certainly not done so.

"This we put in contrast with information given by Sir George Bird-wood in a communication to the same journal as supplementary to the lecture in which he gives the native meaning of the names of fruit, trees, etc., and among the rest:

"Amba.—(Magnifera indica) 'disease-causing'; the mango, so called by Anglo-Indians, because first known to them by its Tamil name, manka, meaning 'man fruit.' The fruit is apt to act injuriously on the kidneys, and cows fed with its leaves for the production of the exquisite mango yellow dye of India, obtained from their urine, die in a few months. This is quite new to us—and, we fancy, to most of our readers—that the mango is apt to act injuriously on the kidneys (we suppose only when eaten in excess, as is the case with the Bengal natives, who live on the mangoes at one season of the year) or that the leaves were so fatally injurious to cattle."

A contributor to the magazine quoted from gives further information on this practically new subject:

"You mentioned, in your reference to Sir Grand Duff's lecture before the Society of Arts, the deleterious effects of mango leaves on cattle; but what perhaps is stranger is that animals are fed on this peculiar diet with a specific object, being made use of as so many machines. The following facts gathered from the Kew Bulletin No. 39 should prove of interest to some of your readers. Indian fellow or porree is described in ordinary books of reference as a coloring matter highly esteemed by artists, but its origin was little known till comparatively lately.

"In 1883 the Kew authorities made inquiries as to its preparation at the request of Sir Joseph Hooker, with the result that a report on the subject was forwarded by the Indian Government. Piuri (as it is also spelled) is some times got from mineral sources, but it is inferior stuff. The real article is prepared chiefly in Monghyr from the urine of cows kept on a diet of mango leaves and water, which increases the bile pigments, and imparts to the urine a brilliant yellow color. Cows thus fed are believed to die within two years, though the cattle-keepers will not admit this is so, and will show cows from which they say that the dye has been got for four years.

"The cows, it is admitted, have a very unhealthy appearance, and to prevent the animals breaking down altogether an allowance of ordinary fodder has at times to be resorted to, though it reduces the amount of piuri obtainable. Owing to the injurious effects on the cows, the manufacture is confined to a small number of people who are looked down on by their fellows. The cows are made to pass urine three or four times a day by a process of massage of the urinary organs, and indeed the animals after a time cannot urinate unless this is done. The urine is collected in earthen pots, which in the evening are placed over the fire. The heat causes the yellow dye to precipitate. It is then strained, the sediment made into a ball and dried. The merchants who export the stuff give the manufacturer on the spot Rs per pound (mineral piuri only fetches 4d per pound). The cost of mango leaves also, no doubt, restricts the manufacture, the produce of a moderate-sized tree, say 30 feet high, fetching Rs. An average cow produces about three quarts of urine per diem which yields about two ounces of piuri."

Notwithstanding the impression given in the above two quotations, that mangoes act injuriously upon the kidneys, it is contended by people who are qualified to speak on the subject that they are beneficial, if eaten properly—not too green, not too ripe, and the skin, which contains considerable turpentine, discarded. The leaves of pine, if used exclusively as fodder, probably would soon kill animals—as mango leaves do, and yet the seeds, or nuts, of pine trees are a safe article of food for human beings. Green mangoes stewed are so much like green apple sauce that it is almost impossible to discover any different tang; ripe mangoes, boiled with their skins removed, are a good substitute in taste for baked apples. Dried or evaporated mangoes are a fine confection to be eaten out of the hand, or stewed make a delicious sauce.

Has any reader of THE HAWAIIAN any information to give on this subject, for the benefit of the public?

Hon. C. B. Bush, president of the Gilmer County (W. Va.) Court, says that he has had three cases of flux in his family, during the past summer, which he cured in less than a week with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Mr. Bush also states, that in some instances there were twenty hemorrhages a day.—Glenville, W. Va. Pathfinder. This remedy has been used in nine epidemics of flux and one of cholera, with perfect success. It can always be depended upon for bowel complaint, even in its most severe forms. In Kawaiahao.

A most flattering congregation greeted Rev. D. P. Birnie in Kawaiahao church Sunday evening on the occasion of his last sermon to the Hawaiians. The church was crowded, the majority of those present being young people, it being understood that the pastor of Central Union church would speak particularly to them.

Among other things, Mr. Birnie spoke of his great aloha for the Hawaiian people. He counseled them to lead the christian life and expressed sincere hope for their future welfare.

Rev. H. H. Parker of Kawaiahao occupied the pulpit at Central Union.

T. P. SEVERIN DEAD.

A Kamaaina Passes Away Suddenly in Queen's Hospital This Afternoon.

T. P. Severin, a man who came out from California for the first time, sixteen years ago and then in December of 1885 to settle here permanently, died at the Queen's hospital at about 1 o'clock this afternoon. He had been ill for a long time and grew so much worse yesterday that it was decided to place him in the hospital.

The deceased was thirty-six years of age and was a photographer by trade. Upon first coming to the country he worked for J. J. Williams, then he went into the Sun Pearl Gallery and later was associated with the Bolters in photographic work. He went to Hilo for awhile and still later he was a custom house inspector. Finally deceased went into a Nuuanu street photograph gallery with J. McCandless and then ran the place by himself. He was owner and manager of this at the time of his death.

Deceased was a member of Lodge Le Progres A. F. & A. M., and Harmony Lodge, I. O. O. F. His brother came here on a sailing vessel two weeks ago. This is the only relative in the country.

The funeral arrangements had not been made as the BULLETIN goes to press, but it is certain that the services will be in the hall of one of the lodges to which deceased belonged.

COWARDLY ASSAULT.

Sailor Robert Brown of the C. D. Bryant Stabs Two Natives.

Robert Brown, a sailor from the C. D. Bryant, made himself more than obnoxious in a house in Kakaako just at the bend of the narrow street that leads to the boat houses, Sunday morning between 5 and 6 o'clock. He went there slightly under the influence of liquor and, walking in the front door of the house, made an attempt to assault Mrs. Kawi, a native woman who was lying sick in bed. Kawi, the husband, made a jump for Brown, who drew a knife and slashed the native in the right arm and in two places on the head.

Just then, Mrs. Kanehiwa, Kawi's mother, hearing the disturbance, ran into the room and grappled with the intruder, whom she held with an iron grip, even after he had stabbed her in the arm to make her release her hold.

Mrs. Kanehiwa's cries brought several natives to the house. These very soon had Brown so that it was impossible to get away. A cut was registered between his eyes. This was done with someone's shoe.

Lieut. Warren and others went to the place and transferred Brown to the police station.

OPENING OF SECOND WEEK.

Then don't give him copies. There are gymnastics of writing which are better.

Mrs. Parker followed the Colonel. She first asked for the definition of a vowel.

A vowel is a sound produced when the organs of speech are in a definite fixed position, non-obstructive, and syllabic. A consonant is different only in the organs of speech being obstructive.

Mrs. Parker spoke of the use of pictures to illustrate lessons on different subjects. In the Chicago schools, they use pictures very generally. They are very valuable in explaining to a child things that he cannot see in his own environment. In fourteen years Mrs. Parker has collected and classified over 30,000 pictures which are used in the Normal School in Chicago.

Newspaper clippings are treated in the same way. The lady said that two or three good text books could be made of the material found in one year, in a good news paper.

Swipes Joint to Be "Settled."

For a long time past a certain house standing in the water at Lelele has been the headquarters for swipes drinkers. Captain Parker has declared his intention to put a quietus on the place on account of things that happened on Sunday while he was driving home with his family.

Five native sailors came stumbling out of the house and took to the street, insulting passersby and showing fight at every step. Their last act was an attempt at stopping Captain Parker's vehicle. The captain jumped out and soon had four of the number under arrest.

CYCLOMERE PARK SPORTS
Tug-of-War With Amusing Features
Pulled in Short Time.

King and Ludloff Make Even Results Between Them—Jones Wins Both the Professional Races.

The combined attraction of bicycle races and a tug-of-war at Cyclomere Saturday night failed to bring out more than a fair attendance. The racing was of the best and the finishes very exciting and close.

The tug-of-war was a good one made very comical by one of the members of the Iwilei team who was continually dropping the rope to put resin on his hands, and at one stage of the game got so excited that he left his place and ran to the middle of the rope to see how far his side was ahead. After a stubborn pull of ten minutes and ten seconds the Auaiolimu team caved in and were pulled over the line.

Mike O'Iribby gave an exceedingly clever exhibition of trick and fancy riding, and was compelled to respond to a hearty encore.

King and Ludloff each took a race and second place in the amateur races, King winning the handicap and Ludloff the two thirds. The time in the mile handicap was 2:43 and the two thirds scratch 1:32.

Jones won both professional races by inches, just beating Sylvester in the two thirds handicap in 1:51. Manoa thinking it was a mile race did not "hit it up" on the second lap and so was placed third. In the one mile scratch Jones and Manoa came tearing down the home stretch on the sprint with handlebars locked, but at the tape Jones gave a little extra kick which put him over the line a winner by six inches. Marlock, the Southern California rider, did not appear.

Stevenson's Works.
In the gradually increasing library of the Scottish Thistle Club is a complete set of the "Thistle" edition of Robert Louis Stevenson's works. It comprises 21 volumes handsomely bound. The emblem of the thistle adorns each volume. It was adopted by the late Mr. Stevenson after his election as an honorary chieftain of the Honolulu Scottish Thistle Club and he wore the club's thistle badge on his person to the hour of his death, it adorning his body when laid to rest on the heights of Valima. The "Thistle" set now in the club's library was the first that ever came this side of the Rocky Mountains, having been ordered by the club as soon as the edition was heralded.

"Our customers say you manufacture three of the best remedies on earth," said the mercantile firm of Haas, Harris, Brim & McLain, of Dawson, Ga., in a recent letter to the Chamberlain Medicine Co. A bottle of this liniment in the house, will save a great deal of suffering. Buy it at Benson, Smith Co., drug store. *

TRIALS OF THE PARTING.
Harder for Veteran Father to Say Good-by Than It Was to Go to the Front.

A well known state official was standing in the governor's party at South Framingham the other afternoon, while the farewells were being said to the boys of the Second regiment, who were on the cars about to start for Tampa. As he glanced about he saw four old soldiers of the war of the rebellion, all of whom were veterans of the old Thirty-sixth Massachusetts regiment.

"The Thirty-sixth," he said, in speaking of the meeting afterward, "was recruited from the counties in Western Massachusetts from which the second regiment now comes. It had the same kind of men in it, and it happens that many of the boys in the Second are sons of the men who went to the front with the old Thirty-sixth. You see, it was a good deal as if the two regiments had been all one family, though one was a generation behind the other. Now, take these four veterans I mentioned. One was a captain in the old Thirty-sixth and he has a son who is a captain in the Second, and the young fellow, as he stood on the platform, was the living image of his father as he went away thirty-six years ago. Another of this group of four bade goodby to his son as a private in one of the Worcester companies, and with the old soldier was the mother of the boy, who was herself sister of a man who had marched away years ago as a comrade to her husband. The wife's brother died in a rebel prison, starved to death at Andersonville.

"All but one of these four veterans were wounded, and it was a touching sight to see the two empty sleeves in the group, one man having lost a right arm, another a left arm, while the third was badly wounded at Spotsylvania. And it was a hard sight for them to see the youngsters going away. That's one of the strange experiences the veterans are having nowadays. You may not believe it but it takes a good deal more nerve to stand on a railroad platform and bid your son goodby as he goes away with his company than it did to go away yourself years ago; and more than one old soldier, who went away to the front in the old days as gay and glad as you please, breaks down now when he sees his boy leaving for the front."—Boston Transcript.

The other day a young woman was rambling along a country road. She was dressed smartly, she thought, and when she met a bare-legged urchin carrying a bird's nest with eggs in it, she did not hesitate to stop him.

"You are a wicked boy," she said. "How could you rob that nest? No doubt the mother is grieving for the loss of her eggs."

"Oh, she don't care," replied the urchin, edging away; "she's up in your hat."

"Young Brown added 'e' to his name after he inherited his uncle's big fortune."

"That's quite right. Rich people are entitled to more ease than poor people."

Postmaster in Active Duty at Age of 104.

New York Times: The government clerks in the postoffice department in Ottawa are much interested in a document that passed through the department official a few days ago. The document is the property of the imperial government, and contains a report which is perfectly reliable. The report gives the history of a man who is 104 years old, and has been in the employ of the English postal service for the last seventy-six years. The man's name is Robert Taylor. He was born in Scarva, North of Ireland, in the reign of George III. He was 51 years old when the battle of Waterloo was fought. He was 5 years old when Napoleon was born, and he can clearly remember the revolt of the American colonies in 1776. The report further says that the old gentleman still possesses all his faculties and discharges all the duties of postmaster in his native village of Scarva. Mr. Taylor is said to have lived the life of a bachelor until he had passed the age of 100 years, and in 1872 he married a lady whom he had known for over fifty years.

For more than fifty years has PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER stood the test against all remedies prepared to eradicate pain, and today stands at the head of the list among the medicines that are so essential to keep at hand in the home.

It is not a new fangle remedy nor do the proprietors lay claim to any wonderful revelation of the ingredients that enter into the manufacture of this ever popular remedy.

It is perfectly harmless, you need have no fear of becoming habitually inclined to its use.

For Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, Colds, and all painful affections, a few doses will certainly give relief. You cannot afford to be without a bottle in the house.

Your forefathers used it and found it beneficial.

Why experiment with some remedy that is new and its effect on the system unknown?

It has many rivals but no equal.

Why Not Grow Vanilla In Hawaii, Too?

Although there are many small patches of vanilla growing on the island, we never knew until quite recently that vanilla had ever flowered and fruited here. Vanilla is very popular here as a curiosity and an ornamental plant. Isolated vines can be seen in many shambas, both in Zanzibar and Pemba, trailing up coconut and mango trees. To Jack Savey of Dumbwi, Northwera Valley, belongs the credit of first having demonstrated that vanilla not only grows in Zanzibar, but flowers and bears fruit in due season. Jack Savey, or Abdullah Ibrahim, as he is more correctly known among the natives, is an old ship's Krooman. He was attached to H. S. Thetis, and was paid off when the London was first commissioned. He therefore carries us back to what to most of us is prehistoric times. In early life he spent fifteen years in Seychelles, and learnt, among other things, to fertilize the flowers of vanilla and to prepare the fruit. So when in his old age he settled down to enjoy the repose of country life in Zanzibar he planted some vines in his shamba. To-day the vines tower above him in huge tangled clusters, threatening to overwhelm his house. Jack neither trained nor tended his charges, but quietly bided his time till the flowers should come, when he deftly put in the fertilizing point. How many crops of fruit he has had is not clear, though it is more than one. Some of the pods we saw at the beginning of December were seven inches long, and had four or five months' growth before them. There is every promise, therefore, of good quality beans as far as size goes.

We have before pointed out that not until a plant has produced fruit can it be said that it has found a congenial home. There is always the after question whether the quality and quantity of fruit is sufficient for market purposes. The fruiting vanilla in the wera valley has, as if by an accident, cleared up one hitherto doubtful point about this product. Plantations may be put down with the reasonable certainty that they will in due course come to flower and fruit. If the industry were seriously taken up here we see no reason why Zanzibar should not in time become a large exporting country, and run in harness with Reunion and Sevchelles. — The Shamba.

COMMERCIAL VALUE OF MANILLA. At the meeting of the New York College of Pharmacy held on January 18th, five papers were read on vanilla. Professor Rusby treated of the cultivation, etc., of vanilla. He said that there are thirty-three species of vanilla now recognized. The process of curing vanilla pods and preparing them for packing was described as he had seen it done in South America. Vanilla packers, he mentioned, are subjected to poisoning, resulting from handling the beans, the symptoms being much like those resulting from poison ivy, due, he thought, to penetration of the skin of the hand by oxalate of calcium crystals. Dr. S. E. Jelliffe treated of the microscopy of the subject, and said unscrupulous dealers often used benzoic acid to make a false appearance of vanillin on the beans. The microscope revealed the fraud readily, benzoic-acid crystals being flattened and rhomboidal, vanillin acicular, and standing out at right angles from the surface of the fruit. Professor V. Coblenz treated of the chemistry of vanillin, and said it was frequently adulterated with acetanilid. Mr. A. Henning's paper was on the commercial varieties of vanilla. He said that that from the Seychelles Islands, an inferior kind, was the sort chiefly used in England. The Mexican vanilla, grown at Papantla, had the most exquisite odor, and was the kind used in the United States. The pharmacy of vanilla was considered by Mr. O. Kalish, who recommended an extract made from a formula containing 8 ounces of vanilla in a gallon of finished product. He said that vanillin could never displace vanilla as a flavoring extract, as it lacks the delicate flavor of the natural bean.—Chemist and Druggist.

A man in Virginia rode forty miles, to Fairfax Station, for the express purpose of getting Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and took home with him a dozen bottles of the medicine. The druggist who relates the incident, adds: "Your remedy seems to be a general favorite wherever known." Its effects are indeed wonderful in all lung and throat troubles. Procure a bottle at Benson, Smith & Co., drug store.*

"There Are Other Pebbles."

But do not for a moment think that the Anchor Saloon is just like them. Liquid refreshments, to be refreshing, require a certain dash of skill and experience in the mixing. Carlyle and Andrews make a great success in this department and stand ready to satisfy patrons in the matter of Seattle beer on draught, as well as all the best brands of whisky, viz: John Dewar's Scotch, O. P. S., etc., and from a full line of other liquors and wines cannot fail to fill even the most exacting and varied demand.

Almost Blind

Scrofula Affects the Eyes—Little Boy Treated by an Oculist Without Relief—But Now He is Well.

"When my little boy was three months old his eyes became very sore and he was almost blind. I took him to an oculist who treated him for six months, and left him as bad as he was at the beginning. Finally Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I began giving it to him. In less than three weeks he was able to go into the sun without covering his eyes, and today his eyes are perfectly well, and his ears and nose, which were badly affected, are also well. Hood's Sarsaparilla has certainly done wonders for my boy." Mrs. JAMES H. PAINTER, Amador, California. Remember

FOR THE FLAG RAISING

Annexation Club Special Committee and Cabinet Confer.

What is to Be Done When the Philadelphia Comes—Salute to Hawaiian and American Flags—Fireworks and Ball.

The special committee of the Annexation club, appointed at a meeting last Saturday, held two conferences with the Cabinet this forenoon for the purpose of talking over the proposed celebration of the raising over Hawaii nei of the American flag. A general plan was outlined but no decision arrived at.

It is safe to say that there will be a parade in the morning, escorting to the Executive building what troops that may come on the U. S. S. Philadelphia.

The flag raising will take place at 12 noon on the day after the arrival of the Philadelphia. Literary exercises in connection with this will be held. A salute of 21 guns for the Hawaiian flag and another of the same number for the American, will be fired.

Several interesting speeches will be made. President Dole and Minister Sewall will be among the speakers. Should L. A. Thurston arrive he will be asked to make a speech.

In the evening there will be a grand display of fireworks from the grounds of the Executive building. The Executive building is to be brilliantly illuminated. The principal business houses will be asked to keep their shutters open and to decorate windows with flags, lanterns, etc. The Government will give a grand ball in the Executive building in the evening.

J. B. Atherton will be Master of Ceremonies, and Col. J. H. Fisher Grand Marshal.

It has been suggested that Dr. McGrew pull the string that hoists Old Glory over Hawaiian soil.

The following organizations have expressed their desire to take part in the parade: Honolulu Fire Department, Sharpshooters Co., G. A. R. and all the military companies. The Citizens' Guard will very probably attend the exercises in a body, but will not march in the procession.

Was Heavy Loss.

Thos. Hollinger had but $500 insurance on the building when he lost his stables and four horses by fire. His net loss was about $7000. He is satisfied that, could he have got the door open in time, the beautiful mare Margaret H. would have saved herself in answer to his call. She had been trained by him to follow his voice like a dog. Mr. Hollinger has never yet discovered any clue to the origin of the fire.
