GLOVE CONTRACT OF MR LITTAUER.

(Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT, by Charles A. Edwards.)

WASHINGTON, July 18:

The Littauer glove contract is still agitating the War Department and official Washington. On account of the peculiar relationship existing between President Roosevelt and Congressman Littauer, the question is on the tip of every man's tongue, "What will Roosevelt do about this latest scandal that gets close to him?" At a Harvard College dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York on the 23d of February, 1900, Roosevelt declared with pride and emotion that his closest personal friend and political adviser was Mr Lucius N Littauer, member of Congress from New York. To quote his exact language: "I want to tell you that it is a Congressman who is my most intimate personal friend, and who is my closest political adviser." "Who is he?" came from all sides. "Lucius Littauer," said Roosevelt. The laws of the United States forbid a member of Congress to take any Government contract. The New York Sun, a republican newspaper, friendly to Mr Roosevelt, of course, reveals the fact that Mr Littauer, during the Spanish-American war, manufactured some five hundred thousand dollars' worth of gloves and other supplies bought by the United States Government. A man named Lyon got the contract from the Government, and Littauer made the gloves for Lyon. In a letter to Lyon, Littauer asks whether he (Littauer) shall go and see the responsible War Department official, General Ludington, "in regard to other glove contracts?" And Littauer's brother acted as bondsman for Lyon in the procuring of contracts.

What will Mr Roosevelt do under the circumstances? Will he instruct the Attorney General to investigate the matter? He cannot doubt that his indorsement of Mr Littauer would have great weight with the War Department. Mr Littauer may not have known, in spite of his offer to see a certain official, that Lyon really got the contracts on the strength of representing Mr Roosevelt's intimate friend.

But what will Mr Roosevelt do? He has not hesitated to give us his views of official purity. He has said, "Words are good when backed up by deeds, and only so." Will his words be backed by deeds in this case? Or is there a difference between an ordinary individual and the Harvard graduate who happens to be the President's "closest political friend and adviser."

The people would perhaps like to ask Mr Roosevelt this question: What can be expected of the Post Office people if the intimate political friend and most trusted adviser of the President makes a profit of some ninety thousand dollars on Government contracts, when the law says that no member of Congress shall profit by such a contract, directly or indirectly?

Mr Roosevelt has said that he proposes to have everything about him "as clean as a hound's tooth." Isn't it about time for him to buy a carload of tooth brushes?

There is another phase of this glove contract matter that has never been exploited in the press of the country. The people know nothing about it and it contains a whole lot of meat for meditation upon the ways that "are dark and the tricks that are vain, as practiced by the astute and unscrupulous Secretary

AN OPEN TOWN.

Do you know what I see twenty years ahead? It's this! A Monte Carlo on the beach which will draw the fast set from every quarter of the globe. A Sunday wider open than any San Francisco ever saw, with gilded gin places, road houses and shady beer gardens to decorate it; lotteries which are opposed only by laws that no one will enforce; Sunday picnics led by bands and horse races with gambling on the side and perhaps a Sunday prize fight for luck; a church or two where sensational preachers add zest to the program of the day but don't interfere with the things that are Caesar's—I mean Nero's. Is it an overdrawn picture? Well, anyhow, things are tending that way all the time—and there is no robust, practical, fearless and tireless Christianity strong enough to head it off.—Sunday Advertiser.

Our "pipe-dream" does not extend so far. In the way of saloons the latitude has been extended quite far enough for the financial interests of the owners and the best health of the community. As for gambling attractions we have enough and to spare already. Only the Advertiser and its friends have suggested such adjuncts. The people at large do not want them, even at the expense of tourist travel.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

And so the Home Rulers captured the Republican Central Committee last Saturday night, so says the Advertiser. If that is surely the case, then all that we can exclaim is—Hip, hip, hooray!

According to this morning's Advertiser there will be a severe earthquake shock felt in California about 11 o'clock tonight. Persons having friends there should cable over and let them know about it.

The meeting of the Republican Central Committee Saturday night may or may not have been a Home

Rule affair. That is no fry of ours. It seems to us, however, that it was a meeting in which independence rather predominated in place of the "close corporation" tactics of the Advertiser, and we hardly see how the people can have much of a kick coming.

The Advertiser claims to have worked single handed, or nearly so, for small farmers. We cheerfully grant all the honor and distinction that our contemporary may be able to discover in the matter. The question that arises, however, is who is going to take the beratings of the "farmers" when they discover that they have been fooled and are broke? It is to be hoped that the morning paper will be as valiant then as now.

A Circuit Judge in one of the country districts thinks of resigning his office on account of the small pay. Judgeships in the rural parts of Hawaii are not what they are cracked up to be. There is fully as much expense as in the city, and practically none of the numerous advantages that a life in the city affords. It seems to us that there are excellent reasons for affording better pay to country than city judges.

It is all right for Company F to go to Hilo and do all the posing it wishes to, but who is to foot the bill? If the Government, then we say "stop thief!" The Government has no right to expend one dime of the people's money on such an enterprise. Another thing: Are the salaries of the men going to Hilo to be kept up in their absence? Most of them work for the government, under Captain Sam Johnson, and we would like to have a little understanding as to their status before they sail.

In the last issue of Side Lights, the Hilo monthly for publishers and advertisers, is an interesting article on Iao Valley or the Yosemite of Hawaii, from the pen of James N. K. Keola. The article is well written and is a beautiful pen picture of that loveliest of valleys, full of historic interest, legendary lore and one of the grandest scenic sights to be seen in these Islands. But the use of Hawaiian words and names are so befuddled, through bad proof-reading, that even a native Hawaiian can not make out what is intended to be conveyed, as for instance, "Ua loheia ke lee kapu e ke ipo i Moealoa," which should no doubt have been "Ua loheia ko leo kapu e ko ipo i Moealoa," and translated conveys the meaning used by the writer—"Your sacred voice has been heard by your lover at Lover's-dream." Side Lights should be more careful with the use of Hawaiian quotations.

Depew's Address.

On July 4, Chauncey M. Depew delivered the following address to a Glorious Fourth audience in London:

Mr. Chauncey Depew said that five years ago there was no Cabinet in Europe save Great Britain that took reckoning for a moment of what was the internal policy or the external policy of the United States. But in five months from that time, when the United States had become the possessors of Spain's possessions in the Western Hemisphere, and with the Philippines stood at the gate of the Orient, there was no Cabinet which did not want to know what was the policy of the United States. (Cheers.) They 3,000 miles away in the west, but they were planted there to give their friendship and their approval to those who stood with them for that broad view of the necessities of modern, highly civilized countries, which was that, among three quarters of the population of the world who could take their surplus manufactures there should be open ports and the open door, and the United States and Great Britain alone stood for that policy. (Cheers.) Becoming a world power had had a peculiar effect on that lady Miss Columbia. (Laughter.) She was 127 years old, but she was the youngest and most fascinating creature that there was "on this footstool." Nobody cared for her among the Powers five years ago, but now they were all courting her, and it had set her up a little. (Laughter.) It was started by an English Minister stating, in the House of Commons, that, when all Europe seemed likely to unite against them in their Spanish trouble, Great Britain alone said, "No, no union against America, and if union, then Great Britain stands beside the United States." He could tell them that that made Columbia's heart jump. (Laughter and cheer.) Russia said, "We cannot stand this," and so they said through their Ambassador "Did we not send a fleet over during your civil war?" Miss Columbia picked a flower from her bouquet and said "Yes." (Laughter.) And then France said "Did we not help you with our Rochambeaus and our Lafayette and all that," and Miss Columbia talked with France. (Laughter.) And Germany said, "We cannot stand this," and so that modern, up-to-date and most enlightened of rulers the Kaiser sent over that fascinating sailor, and Miss Columbia had the time of her life. (Laughter.) But when they were all gone she bid me bring to John Bull this message, "I cannot marry you, John, but I will be a sister to you." (Loud laughter and cheers.) Having spoken in appreciative terms of the sympathetic messages sent by Queen Victoria to the widow of President Lincoln and of President Garfield, and of that which more recently went from "her wise, tactful, and thoughtful son" to the widow of President McKinley, Mr. Depew said, in conclusion, that that day the President of the United States had touched a button which had sent a message that had circled the globe. That message, one of triumph, had alighted first in England; it had then gone across the Continent to the English possessions in Asia, Hongkong, on to Manila, to San Francisco, and to New York, and back to the President at Oyster Bay. It had gone round the world, this touch of the President; it had been greeted everywhere in its march, in every clime, by the flag of Great Britain. And that message thus going round the world was typical of the mission round and in the world of the English-speaking people for civilization, for humanity, and for peace. (Cheers.)

The Chairman afterwards proposed "Our Kindred Societies and Our Guests," which was responded to by the ARCHDEAN of LONDON and the HON. JAMES BECK [ex-Assistant Attorney-General of the United States.]

Ancient Hawaii at the Opera House.

The exhibition by the Hawaiian Panorama Company Saturday night at the Hawaiian Opera House was very poorly patronized. It was a good upstairs audience but very poor downstairs. The hulas were better executed this time than formerly exhibited at the Orpheum by the same crowd, but under a different name and management.

But of the tableaux shown, the first one exhibited was too dark in the green garments worn by those who were in it and did not show a realistic display of Hawaiian wearing apparel of the times it was supposed to depict and represent. The last one, that of Goddess Pele and her sisters and cousins in her volcanic home in the Crater of Kilauea was simply grand and realistic, which can be improved upon and was well worth the price. This latter must be seen to be appreciated.

The modernized musical part of the entertainment was as usual in all such entertainments, but we think that there might have been more soul inspiring music to conform to the class of entertainment.

Glove Contract of Mr Littauer.

of War, Mr Root. He is at present making a lot of fuss about investigating this glove contract, but he is doing the cuttle-fish act. He is spewing out a lot of stuff that darkens the waters, and no one can see his work. Instead of placing the investigation of this glove contract in the hands of the regular army inspector in charge, and who is thoroughly familiar with it in every detail, he sends for a new man, a Mr Garlington, who knows nothing about the true inwardness of it, and gives him his instructions as to how he is to carry on the investigation and what he is to investigate. He circumscribes and limits his discretion in the matter. He tells him to investigate everything except one, and that one contains the milk in the coconut. That is the manner in which the contract is drawn. It is drawn in such a manner as to call for a certain and specific kind of glove, and that kind of glove is made only by the Littauer Brothers, glove manufacturers of New York. Thus, no matter who got the contract from the War Department he would have to go to the Littauer Brothers to have the gloves made and they would reap the profits. Will President Roosevelt please have that phase of the contract investigated? If he does, his "close political and personal friend and adviser" is in danger of wearing stripes. It is up to the President. Let's give him a chance.
