PUBLIC OPINION MUST PRECEDE.

In a free country, where the power of government is in the hands of the people, public opinion must always precede legislation, if the legislation is to be anything more than a dead letter. To legislate ahead of public sentiment, that is, to enact laws which are not in accordance with the general wish or are not supported by the popular will, is folly, because no such laws can ever be effectually enforced. If the public knows what it wants, sooner or later the legislation will follow; but the best laws, among a free people, are waste paper if they are not approved and appreciated. Thus, in order to effect real improvement in the sanitary and social condition of the people, the people themselves must see its necessity and desire its accomplishment; or, in other words, public sentiment must run in that channel. Otherwise laws and regulations aiming at that object, however wise and good, cannot accomplish much. A community or a nation of free people cannot be made to benefit to any considerable extent by a measure which is really for its good, against its will or without its intelligent co-operation. It is hard to get laws effectually put in force where they interfere with the profits or convenience of individuals, although they may be in the interest of the general welfare, unless they are supported by opinion.

Two propositions which directly touch the public welfare to a greater or less degree have been and are being more or less debated in this community—the prohibition of opium and the prohibition of intoxicants. These two propositions should be calmly considered in the light of the foregoing reasoning. In this way only can a reasonable conclusion be arrived at as to which is the sensible course to pursue—to prohibit entirely or to legalize the importation and regulate the sale and use. Let us look for a moment at these propositions. Does public opinion favor the first—prohibition of opium? So far as the voting power of the country is concerned, it undoubtedly does. Those opposed to prohibition are, we believe, a very small minority. Indeed, the Act of 1886 which legalized the importation of the drug was passed in defiance of public opinion, and was one among the many contributing causes of the revolution. Public sentiment is ripe for the re-enactment of prohibition. But how about the prohibition of intoxicants? This is a widely different question from the other. Opium prohibition affects a class only, but the prohibition of wines, spirits and malt liquors affects every class of the community, and we very much doubt if the people are prepared to back up the measure. We firmly believe that it would be well for the nation and the country if all descriptions of intoxicants were totally unknown, but we do not believe that the nation is yet ready and willing to forego their use and banish them from the land. Public opinion is not favorable to prohibitory legislation; public sentiment is against it. Before such a measure can be enacted and made effective the people generally must be interested and their co-operation enlisted.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Allow me on the eve of my departure for San Francisco to protest against Mr. Cecil Brown's Military Bill, which when I had heard read in the Legislature thought it to be a piece of gross ingratitude to the Rifles that probably saved many of us from death as we had sworn to have good Government at any cost.

THE GORDIAN KNOT.

IMMIGRATION VERSUS LAND.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Well may you say, in the last issue of your valuable paper, that of all the questions which call for public study, that of immigration is for this country the most serious and urgent, that is to say, not the importation of simple laborers, but the immigration which will bring us settlers and permanent population.

As I already wrote several years ago, the strongest fact in the political economy of this land, which appeared to all disinterested and well balanced minds as the odious nightmare of a demented spendthrift, was that since so many years that immigrants had been brought to these shores, it had always been in view of labor, not of population. And it is certainly now a subject of the deepest regret, to any lover of the country, that so much money should have been expended, nay, squandered time after time to bring laborers with so little results on the population.

But what seems a mysterious and suicidal policy to outsiders, is easily accounted for when one reflects that up to the present time, the immigration question has exclusively been inspired for and by the planters. Now it is an undeniable fact that unfortunately too many planters have, in the past, been guided only by a hand-to-mouth policy, by a narrow view of labor for their immediate wants, not for their future ones, and their excuse is that they avowedly came to these Islands to make money as quickly as possible with the intention of leaving as soon again. Therefore the future of the country and of its population was the least of their cares.

Gradually, however, the planters have learned by experience, that it was not so easy to make money and rush away; they gradually admitted for themselves the idea of a permanent stay; and now a majority of them are getting so identified with the country, that they have found out that the future of the nation is intimately connected with the future of the plantations.

The first move in the right direction was to ask that the immigrant laborers brought here should come only with a family, which, it was thought would induce the immigrants to settle here.

But this otherwise rational policy was deficient in its basis. It was overlooked that it was indispensable to offer the immigrants proper inducements to make them stay permanently.

The result of the mistake has now been seen with the Portuguese, a most desirable element, so many of which, as soon as their contracts are ended, leave the country with the families which have cost Government and planters so much to bring here, and they leave only because they are unable to become settlers.

The question therefore now lies before the present Legislature nearly at the same point as it did in 1876. The planters want laborers, but the country at large, the whole of us who constitute the people, we want more population, more small farmers, more producers and consumers.

It is furthermore felt that the ruinous policy of throwing away immense sums for bringing here men and women who will leave us as soon as free to do it, cannot be continued any longer, even if some planters were willing to waste away their money in that way.

No one will contradict me therefore, when I say the question to be resolved by the present Parliament, and the most vital one of all those submitted to the wisdom of our political men, is the following:

"How to bring here population who will furnish the required laborers, and yet prove to be bonafide settlers in the midst of our fast decreasing population?"

This can be obtained by the Government and only by them. If the planters want exclusively labor, they must send for it themselves, without Government interference, whilst the Administration must devote all its efforts towards population.

We, the people, we want population, not transient human tools, and the new Government, issued from the people, must attend immediately to this, remembering that, as no man brought here will stay, unless some solid advantages are given to him—the question of what these inducements can be must be settled at once.

Land is the only positively attractive one, and the Government, if they honestly want to solve our population problem, must prepare to give a small homestead lot to every man who promises to settle here with his family, as it is done in every country in the world where communities want to attract immigration.

If the Government do not yet feel prepared to undertake free immigration with land grants, and if they think they still want the co-operation of the planters, whilst the planters need the Government help, then, and only then, the only practical way of solving the question, so that the money spent may surely result in securing new population, the only way, I say, is to continue the recruiting of immigrant laborers, with small families, on the 3 or 4 year contract systems, but with the absolute condition that, at the end of the contract time, each immigrant will be entitled to a certain amount of land, either entirely free, or on exceedingly liberal terms, the land to be allotted to each as soon as he lands, so that he may have the sure intimation of his future property to help him through his contract.

Of course we do not want for our future population, any more Asiatics, even of the best kind, and as Portuguese, out of all the white people hereto tried here, are those who seem to thrive the best and constitute the most desirable adjunction, I advise the continuation of this immigration, which will be found easy and abundant, as soon as land inducements are officially offered, and which can be procured at about two thirds, or even less, of the previous cost, if proper steps are taken for this.

But for this people—or any other who may be found—to answer to our population requirements, let it be remembered, that lands must absolutely be found and if the government are unable to do all, the planters, owners of large tracts would do wisely for themselves as well as for the country, to help in the land question. Should they however fail to do this, I believe that if necessary, energetic, radical measures ought to be taken by the Government to obtain and unlock the required lands. A. MARQUES.

THE AUDIT ACT.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—You appear to approve the bill introduced by the Premier to repeal the Audit Act. I differ from you there. The Act is a good one; the only defect has been that it has not been enforced. If it had been enforced the scandalous waste of public money in past years could not have taken place. Is it wise, therefore, to remove a statutory check upon the Administration? I do not, of course, mean the present Cabinet pointedly in this remark; I refer to the Government as a continuing body without reference to its personnel. If the public expenditure is to be kept within proper bounds and legal limitations a pre-audit is absolutely necessary; and the Audit department should be wholly removed from political influences. I submit that the Legislature should hesitate before repealing a law providing checks upon public expenditure which the experience of all constitutional countries proves to be necessary. There certainly should be an audit or control department, and its functions should be scrupulously discharged in the public interest.

The telegram from Merv reporting that the Amir was seriously ill is not believed here. According to the latest news from Kabul he was suffering from nothing more serious than toothache. Stories of his severity continue to circulate. Thus the "Pioneer" newspaper gives an account of the execution of Taimur Shah, the ring-leader of the recent Herat mutiny. Taimur was taken to a public place, and there, after his beard had been plucked out, was stoned to death by the chief officers of the army. Parwana Chan, as Kotwal of the city, casting the first stone. It is stated that Taimur, who was a man of exceptionally powerful build, did not die at once, though stones were piled upon him in a large heap. Two days later the sentry on duty saw a movement among the stones, and stooping, he heard Taimur say: "O! creature of God, come kill me, that I may be released from this torment." This being reported to the Amir, he ordered Taimur to be killed outright. Another version is that Taimur died before the last stone was cast, but that his nephew was found alive the second day after the stoning. The report that the Amir's troops were massacring women and children in the Ghilzai country has, however, been contradicted, and it is stated that the heads sent to Candahar after the late action, which were described as those of women, proved to be the heads of young Nasiri men, who wear their hair very long.—[Calcutta Letter.

Early Saturday evening the residence of Mr. A. Morgan, Palama, was burglarized, while the family was out for an hour. The rooms were pretty generally ransacked. A RUNAWAY AND ACCIDENT.

Mr. Jim Mace, who drives a hack for the Pantheon Stables, met with an accident on Saturday evening last. He was getting into his hack on the stand, when the horse started and ran up Fort street. He held on to him until nearly opposite the shooting gallery when he fell to the ground, badly bruising himself, but breaking no bones. The horse was stopped on Emma street with the carriage badly damaged.

THREE RUNAWAYS.

One of Mr. Lesser's express carriages got adrift yesterday morning, and was wrecked at the foot of Nuuanu street. Deputy Marshal Fahia caught Mr. Staple's runaway horse and brake on King street last night.

A Chinese carriage attached to a runaway horse tried to go through a fence in front of the Police Court, this morning, with damaging results to the harness and carriage.

ARRESTED FOR LIBEL.

Mr. J. F. Testa, editor of the native newspaper "Ka Makaanana," was arrested for libel on a warrant sworn out by Lieut. Col. V. V. Ashford. The libel consists in printing a speech purported to have been delivered at the armory of the Honolulu Rifles on Friday night. Mr. Antonio Rosa became his bondsman in the sum of $500, and he was released. The case came before the Police Court this morning, and Mr. Testa was remanded to the 10th instant.

EQUAL TO THE OCCASION.

A gentleman on entering the Palace the other day, to pay a visit to His Majesty, was met by the inevitable Sam Makai. Sam, with the agility of a dancing master, came forward with outstretched hand to greet the visitor. The latter supposing Sam to be the valet charged him with the care of his hat. "You have made an awkward blunder," said one of the household to the visitor, "that person (meaning Sam) is the King's cousin." The visitor immediately went up to Sam, who was standing like a statue of indignation, and taking his hand said that "Hawaiians are the politest people on earth; the King takes my hat one day and his cousin another." Sam was thoroughly satisfied with the compliment.

The Hawaiian Legislature.

FOURTH DAY.

MONDAY, NOV. 7th.

MORNING SESSION.

The Legislature opened at 10 a. m. President S. G. Wilder in the Chair. The minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. H. P. Baldwin presented petition from the Hawaiian Evangelical Association to repeal the Opium Law and to repeal the Liquor Law.

On motion of Mr. C. Brown, amended by Mr. Smith, the bills were laid on the table to be taken up when other bills covering these subjects should be discussed. They were referred to a Select Committee appointed for that purpose.

Mr. Nawahine presented petitions, 1st, that His Majesty the King appoint all the important Officers of the Government; 2nd, that the heir apparent be allowed to appoint the officers on the different Islands; 3rd, that the affair of June 30th be investigated by all the powers of the world. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Deacon presented a petition from Hilo that a hospital for Lepers be established on Hawaii. Referred to Sanitary Committee.

Mr. Castle presented a petition from the Y. M. C. A. on opium and liquor. Referred to Select Committee.

Mr. Paehaole presented a petition that all useless government offices be abolished, and salaries of all government officers be reduced. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Helekuhni presented a petition from Makawao, that all useless government offices be abolished, that all salaries be reduced, that the government be conducted on an economical basis and that the independence of the country be preserved. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Helekuhni presented a petition to amend articles 3, 31, 34, 41, 59 of the Constitution.

Also a petition prohibiting Portuguese and Norwegians from voting. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Nakaleka presented a petition from Molokai, that the law authorizing sale of opium be continued. Referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. Kamai presented a petition that the introduction of spirituous liquors into this Kingdom be prohibited. Referred to Judiciary Committee.

The committee appointed to draft a reply to His Majesty's speech reported that they had performed the duties for which they had been appointed. The speech is as follows:

Your Majesty, Sir—We the Nobles and Representatives of the Kingdom have listened with pleasure to the sentiments which fell from your Majesty's lips, in the speech from the throne on the opening of the Legislature, and we beg to assure your Majesty that the Opium bill, the Act to organize the military forces of the Kingdom, the law relating to Notaries Public and to corporations, and other matters to which your Majesty calls our attention, shall receive our careful consideration and action.

The circumstances connected with the negotiation of the loan in London shall be thoroughly investigated, and our decision shall be such as shall in the premises appear right and equitable and in strict conformity with the provision of the statute. It shall also be our duty in compliance with suggestions from the throne, to make such revisions and amendments in the law regulating the Police department, and also in the Appropriation Bill of 1886, as shall secure a more responsible Administration and a suitable regard for the national revenue.

Your Majesty may rest assured that the matter of an economical administration of the public service shall always be kept in mind in our deliberations, and that our conclusions shall be such as an unselfish patriotism may dictate.

We desire to congratulate your Majesty upon the successful issue of the negotiations of your Majesty's Government with the United States of America, which have resulted in the definite renewal of the treaty of reciprocity for a period of seven years, and we take pleasure in expressing on this occasion our approval of the granting to the United States Government the exclusive privilege of entering Pearl river harbor, and establishing there a coaling and repairing station, it being a necessary condition for the securing of this valuable concession, while guaranteeing to the country a renewal of commercial prosperity.

We feel great satisfaction in the assurance that it is without prejudice to Hawaiian jurisdiction, and we agree with your Majesty that this event will ever be regarded as one of the most important of those which have signalized your Majesty's reign.

On motion, the speech was adopted and ordered engrossed.

Mr. C. Brown read report of Judiciary Committee on petition from Evangelical Association of Kauai, in regard to the sale of opium and liquor outside of Honolulu. They recommended that the bill be laid on the table to come up when other bills relating to the same subject are considered; but on motion the bill was referred to special committee.

Mr. Castle read report of select committee on new rules for the House. On motion the report was laid on the table until the rules were printed.

Mr. Smith moved that petitions referring to the reduction of salaries be referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Kalaukaos gave notice that he would introduce bills to repeal Chaps. 17, 45, 26, 16, Session Laws of 1882, and Chap. 51, Session Laws of 1886.

Minister Ashford read a bill to provide for and regulate the internal police of the Kingdom. On motion the rules were suspended and the bill ordered printed.

Minister Ashford read a bill to abolish the office of Governor.

Mr. C. Brown moved that the bill be rejected.

A warm debate ensued in which Minister Ashford said that the rejection of this measure meant opposition to Ministerial measures, and might result in something more serious than the rejection of measures from other sources.

Motion lost and bill passed to second reading.

Mr. Kinney read a bill to regulate the practice of medicine by Chinese physicians. Passed to second reading.

Minister Green stated that a report on finance and the loan fund matter would be presented to the House as soon as the books were made up.

Minister Thurston read a bill to regulate the naturalization of foreigners. Passed to second reading.

On motion of Mr. C. Brown the House proceeded to the order of the day, which was first, the second reading of a bill relating to corporations. This bill gives the Minister of the Interior the sole right to grant charters of incorporation.

On motion the bill was referred to Judiciary Committee.

Second reading of the bill to abolish the Board of Genealogy, which was passed to engrossment, to be read a third time on Wednesday.

Second reading of a bill to repeal the law granting a permanent settlement on T. W. Everett.

Minister Brown stated that Mr. Everett has not drawn any pension, as he has not resigned his office, and as he has not resigned his office, he has been paid nothing.

On motion the bill passed to engrossment with an amendment, that the last section be stricken out, which is, that this law shall take effect on Dec. 31, 1887, to be read a third time on Wednesday.

Second reading of a bill to repeal the law granting a permanent settlement on W. C. Parke.

RECLINING HORSES.

Yesterday I made the acquaintance of a horse who prefers to take his dinner in a reclining position, after the fashion of the ancient Romans. He is a truck horse that I saw on Federal street, and as he was munching his oats in a noebag, suddenly lay down in the shafts, and continued his meal in that situation. Two men came along who were for kicking him up, but I suggested that he should be allowed to finish his oats in peace. Finding him an intelligent and tractable beast, I talked with him for a few minutes in correct Houyhuhum, and when the last one had been secured, he gathered up his feet and deftly arose. I am informed that when horses lie down in harness, the reason almost always is that it pains them, in legs or feet, to stand. But I once knew a nag who was so incorrigibly lazy, though perfectly sound, that he would lie down in the shafts, much to their injury, whenever he could. The trick was so human that his owner an odd stick, could never make up his mind to part with the sagacious beast.

HOW PILLS ARE MADE.

The Custom of taking medicine in the form of pills dates far back in history. The object is to enable us to swallow easily in a condensed form disagreeable and nauseous, but very useful, drugs. To what vast dimensions pill-taking has grown may be imagined when we say that in England alone about 2,000,000,000 (two thousand million) pills are consumed every year. In early days pills were made slowly by hand, as the demand was comparatively small. To-day they are produced with infinitely greater rapidity by machines especially contrived for the purpose, and with greater accuracy, too, in the proportions of the various ingredients employed.

No form of medication can be better than a pill, provided only it is intelligently prepared. But right here occurs the difficulty. Easy as it may seem to make a pill, or a million of them, there are really very few pills that can be honestly commended for popular use. Most of them either undershoot or overshoot the mark. As every body takes pills of some kind, it may be well to mention what a good, safe and reliable pill should be. Now, when one feels dull and sleepy, and has more or less pain in the head, sides, and back, he may be sure his bowels are constipated, and his liver sluggish. To remedy this unhappy state of things there is nothing like a good cathartic pill. It will act like a charm by stimulating the liver into doing its duty, and ridding the digestive organs of the accumulated poisonous matter.

But the good pill does not gripe and pain us, neither does it make us sick and miserable for a few hours or a whole day. It acts on the entire glandular system at the same time, else the after-effects of the pill will be worse than the disease itself. The gripping caused by most pills is the result of irritating drugs which they contain. Such pills are harmful, and should never be used. They sometimes even produce hemorrhoids. Without having any particular desire to praise one pill above another, we may, nevertheless, name Mother Seigel's Pills, manufactured by the well-known house of A. J. White, Limited, 35, Farington Road, London, and now sold by all chemists and medicine vendors, as the only one we know of that actually possesses every desirable quality. They remove the pressure upon the brain, correct the liver, and cause the bowels to act with ease and regularity. They never gripe or produce the slightest sickness of the stomach, or any other unpleasant feeling or symptom. Neither do they induce further constipation, as nearly all other pills do. As a further and crowning merit, Mother Seigel's Pills are covered with a tasteless and harmless coating, which causes them to resemble pearls, thus rendering them as pleasant to the palate as they are effective in curing disease. If you have a severe cold and are threatened with a fever, with pains in the head, back, and limbs, one or two doses will break up the cold and prevent the fever. A coated tongue, with a brackish taste in the mouth is caused by foul matter in the stomach. A dose of Seigel's Pills will effect a speedy cure. Often-times partially decayed food in the stomach and bowels produces sickness, nausea, &c. Cleanse the bowels with a dose of these pills, and good health will follow.

Unlike many kinds of pills, they do not make you feel worse before you are better. They are, without doubt, the best family physic ever discovered. They remove all obstructions to the natural functions in either sex without any unpleasant effects.

A REMARKABLE CASE.

Under the above heading the Doncaster Reporter of July 6th, 1887, publishes the following in its editorial columns—

Our readers may recall the circumstance of a young clerk, named Arthur Richold, falling insensible on the Watley Lane in this town some time ago, and being picked up, as he continued perfectly helpless, and taken in a cab by two gentlemen to the office of F. W. Fisher, Esq; the solicitor who employed him. On restoring him to consciousness it was ascertained that he was afflicted with what seemed to be an incurable disease. When he was able to speak he said he had been to his dinner and was on his way back to his work, when suddenly his head was in a whirl and he fell in the street like a man who is knocked down. On coming to his senses in the solicitor's office he thought what this might mean, and feared he was going to have a fit of illness, which we all know is a very dreadful thing for a poor man with a family to care for.

With this in his mind he at once sought the best medical advice, telling the doctors how he had been attacked. They questioned him, and found that his present malady was exhaustion of the nervous system resulting from general debility, indigestion, and dyspepsia of a chronic nature. This in turn had been caused by confinement to his desk and grief at the loss of dear friends by death. The coming on of this strange disease, as described by Mr. Richold, must be of interest both to sick and well. He had noticed for several years previously, in fact, that his eyes and face began to have a yellow look; there was a sticky and unpleasant slime on the gums and teeth in the morning; the tongue coated; and the bowels so bound and costive that it induced that most painful and troublesome ailment—the piles. He says there was some pain in the sides and back and a sense of fullness on the right side, as though the liver were enlarging, which proved to be the terrible fact. The secretions from the kidneys would be scanty and high-colored, with a kind of gritty or sandy deposit after standing.

These things had troubled Mr. Richold a long time, and after his fall in the street he clearly perceived that the fit of giddiness was nothing more than a sign of the steadily and deadly advance of the complaint, which began in digestion and dyspepsia. His story of how he went from one physician to another in search of a cure that his wife and little ones might not come to want is very pathetic and touching. Finally he became too ill to keep his situation and had to give it up. This was a sad calamity. He was appalled to think how he should be able to live. But God raised up friends who helped to keep the wolf from the door. He then went to the seaside at Walton-on-the-Naze, but neither the change, nor the physicians who treated him there, did any good. All being without avail he visited London, with a sort of vague hope that some advantage might happen to him in the metropolis. This was in October, 1885.

How wonderful, indeed, are the ways of Providence, which dashes down our highest hopes and then helps us when we least expect it. While in London he stated his condition to a friend, who strongly advised him to try a medicine which he called Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, saying it was genuine and honest, and often cured when everything else had failed. He bought a bottle of a chemist in Piccadilly, and began using it according to the directions. He did this without faith or hope, and the public, may therefore judge of his surprise and pleasure when after taking a few doses he felt great relief. He could eat better; his food distressed him less; the symptoms we have named abated; the dark spots which had floated before his eyes like smuts of soot, gradually disappeared, and his strength increased. Before this time his knees would knock together whenever he tried to walk. So encouraged was he now that he kept on using Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup until it ended in completely curing him.

In speaking of his wonderful recovery Mr. Richold says it made him think of poor Robinson Crusoe, and his deliverance from captivity on his island in the sea; and added, "But for Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup the grass would now be growing over my grave."

Our readers can rest assured of the strict truth of all the statements in this most remarkable case, as Mr. Richold (now residing at Swiss Cottage, Walton-on-the-Naze) belongs to one of the oldest and most respected families in the beautiful village of Long Melford, Suffolk, and his personal character is attested by so high an authority as the Rev. C. J. Martyn, rector of that parish, besides other excellent names. We have deemed the case of such importance to the public as to justify us in giving this short account of it in our columns.

A PAUPER'S DYING REQUEST.

An amusing and yet pathetic incident in what the poet Gray called "the short and simple annals of the poor," is told by Mr. John J. R.
Micklejohn, one of the Inspectors of the Poor, at Sherwick, Shetland Islands. He says that some time ago an old woman, named Barbara Smith, came under the notice of the Board. She was extremely ill, and it did not look likely that she would long need care of any kind. She did not reside on the main land, but on a small island a few miles distant, and there being no parochial institutions in that place, Barbara necessarily occupied the position of a pauper living out. The trouble from which she suffered dated back many years. In better and more prosperous days she had in some way laid the foundation for Chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and out of this had sprung other complaints as age and bodily infirmities crept space upon her.

Barbara was not ignorant, albeit she had fallen into poverty. In earlier life she somehow obtained the advantage of a fair education, and this, added to native shrewdness, enabled her to use good judgment in respect to her own situation and state of health. Although she had long suffered from asthma and a bronchial affection, Barbara was wise enough to see that these ailments arose from the disordered stomach and digestion, and that if the main trouble could be cured the others would soon leave her. It is probable that her disease began as others do, with the usual symptoms:
headaches, bad breath, the rising of sour fluids in the throat, oppression and faintness at the pit of the stomach, loss of sleep, coated tongue, dull eyes, bad taste in the mouth, &c., and finally became chronic and hopeless through her not being able to find any remedy. The Inspector states that she had been under medical treatment for years, but to no effect. In this strait she one day made the following touching appeal to the Inspector: "I have been swallowing medicines for months.
They do me no good. I am going on from worse to worse. I can endure it no longer. I feel that in a week or two I shall be dead. There is one last request I would make of you: give me a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup; it is my only hope. If it proves a failure and does me no good I will die in peace, and make no more expense to the parish."

It seems she had got hold of one of Mother Seigel's Almanacs and read of the great cures wrought by the Syrup in cases like hers.

The Board pitied the poor lone woman and granted her petition, believing, however, the Syrup would prove as useless as the other medicines she had already taken. What was their astonishment to find, in the course of a few days, that she had not only been able to get out of bed,
but to move about outside the house,
and had taken journeys to a considerable distance, and was actually enjoying better health than since she was first taken ill. The asthma and bronchitis, which were no more than symptoms of her true disease (indigestion and dyspepsia), rapidly abated, and it now seems that Barbara will soon be as hale and hearty as the Inspector himself, and be one of the hosts of living witnesses to the power of Mother Seigel's Syrup to save the thousands who were just ready to perish.

Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup is for sale by all chemists and medicine vendors, and by the proprietors, A. J. White, Limited, 35 Far-
