

REBELS LAUGH AT ACTS OF MEDIATORS

Carranza Wonders How Peace Commissioners Can Force Any Program on Army Which He Says Already Controls Two-Thirds of Mexico.

Huerta Willing to Hold Elections

Disputes However That Government Agents Have Supervision in Constitutional Territory While Rebels May Supervise in His Biliwicks.

EL PASO, Texas, June 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—General Carranza, directing head of the Constitutionalists yesterday authorized a statement to the American Press in which he says that the alleged agreement of the South American mediators in regard to the agrarian problem makes all the Constitutionalists laugh. He says the mediators have never settled the problem in their own countries.

Carranza declares that the commander-in-chief of the Constitutionalists should be the provisional president of Mexico pending the holding of an election and the restoration of peace, which he says will be within a few months if he is let alone.

Carranza wonders how the peace commissioners imagine they can force any other program on an army which is already in possession of two-thirds of Mexico and which he says will soon hold all of the country.

He declares that any concessions to Huerta are impossible and is astonished that the Constitutionalists, although they are conquerors in the present revolution, are ignored in the peace proceedings at Niagara Falls.

HUERTA NOW WILLING TO ALLOW ELECTIONS

CITY OF MEXICO, June 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—It is reported that President Huerta is in favor of an election for president, vice president, senators, deputies and governors to be held on July fifth as decreed by congress. It is said Huerta desires that the elections shall be free and legal; that the Constitutionalists have the right to exercise supervision over the portions of the republic now controlled by the federalists and that the government agents have the same right to supervise the returns in the Constitutional territory.

Grand Jury Convenes Today; McCarn Case Is Up for Hearing

Attorney McBride Returns From Hilo But Talk of Settlement Is Hushed.

The territorial grand jury will convene at two o'clock this afternoon, according to instructions issued yesterday by Foreman Joseph A. Gilman. It is expected that the charge of assault with a deadly weapon, against United States District Attorney Jeff McCarn will be the principal business to be taken up for investigation.

Attorney Claudius H. McBride, the principal witness in the case, was an arrival yesterday morning by the steamer Matsonia from Hilo. He has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury. It was rumored yesterday that negotiations were in progress again, whereby the McCarn-McBride case would be called off entirely, but in view of the fact that an information has been filed with Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson of the supreme court, which is said to aim at the disbarment of Attorney McBride, it is thought that peace overtures will now fail.

URGE GETTING MORE HARBOR FACILITIES

Well-Informed Honolulu Point Out Why Effort Should Be Made to Secure Appropriation For Kalia Project in Preparation for Panama Canal Opening.

"I believe that Honolulu should make a strong effort to get that federal appropriation for the Kalia harbor project," said P. C. Jones yesterday. "Now that the Panama Canal is about ready for commercial use we must get in a position to take care of our share of it. It is better to be prepared than sorry afterwards."

Mr. Jones harked back to the old whaling days of the "30's" when there were often two hundred or more whalers in port at one time. "They were packed in so close that one could walk from one end of the harbor to the other from stepping from ship to ship. The big steamers nowadays carry as much freight as thirty or forty of these little ships could carry. The biggest of them were seldom over 300 tons."

He said that if the United States government would send the best and most expert men they have in the service down here to Honolulu to make a study of the situation and the outlook we might be able to get a better deal.

"Looking at it from a purely business standpoint, I believe that the interest on this investment would very quickly come back to us," he said.

James Washfield of the board of harbor commissioners, believes that there are many angles from which to consider the question of harbor extension.

"No one can say what trade will come to Honolulu, or how many ships will make their port of call after the opening of the Panama Canal," he declared.

There will undoubtedly be an enormous development of trade between the Atlantic States and the west coast of the three Americas—North, Central and South. Hawaii is not in line with any of this. All that we will get so far as probabilities go will be an occasional through steamer on its way from New York or Europe direct to Oriental ports.

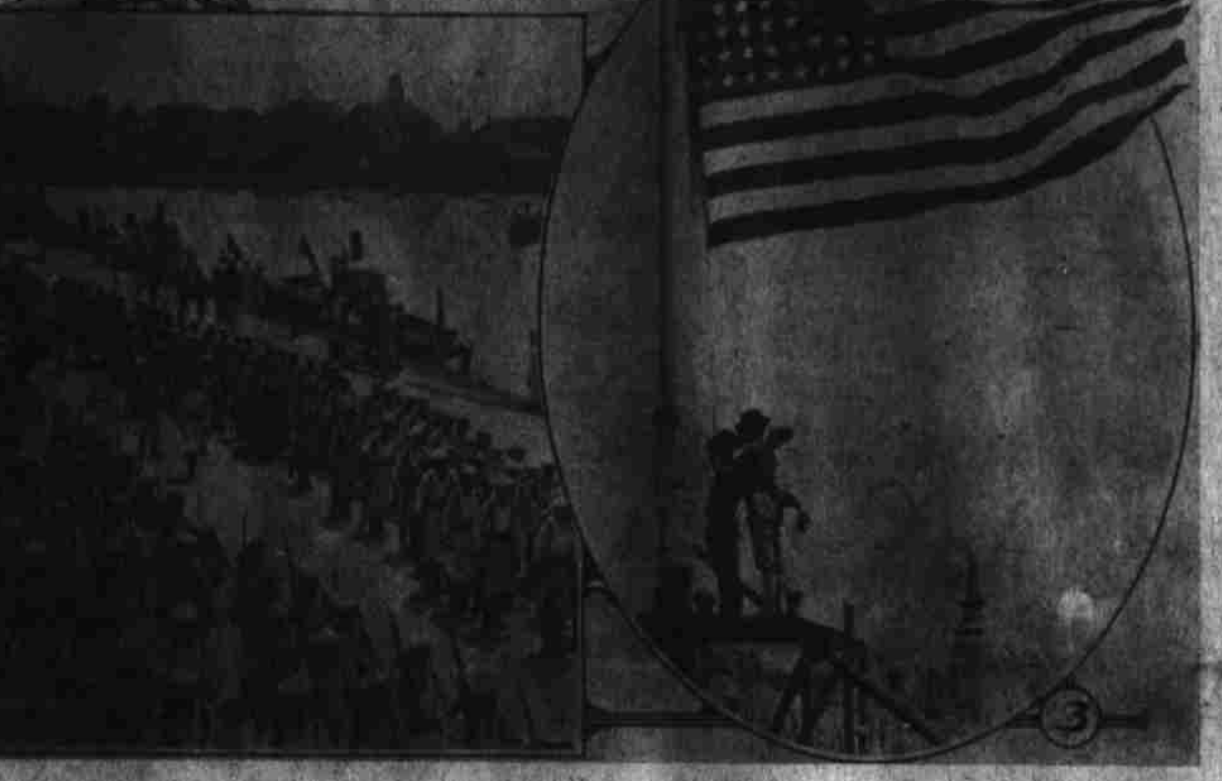

Mr. Washfield stated that when he was in New York last year he consulted the agents of ten or twelve steamship companies as to the probability of their diverting Oriental cargoes west through the Panama Canal instead of continuing to use the Eastern or Suez route. He was informed that where vessels left the home port with full cargoes many ships would undoubtedly use the new canal. Vessels leaving the Atlantic with only partial cargoes would, on the other hand, continue to sail via Suez, as partial cargoes can be picked up at many ports en route.

"After ships get into the Pacific there will be the two routes to choose from," he continued. "The great circle route, up the Coast by way of San Francisco, is 400 miles shorter than the southern route via Honolulu. San Francisco has cheaper fuel to offer, especially to oil burners. Honolulu might have an advantage in serving coal-burners with their fuel supply on account of Hawaii being 2000 miles nearer Newcastle, Australia, from which port a large share of the island coal cargoes are now obtained. Even this advantage might be lost if westbound tramp steamers seeking grain cargoes to Europe load Focushaba and Alabama coal cargoes west in lieu of ballast."

"The California oil fields are rapidly passing into the hands of European shipowners and capitalists. This is a good indication that the big ocean transportation companies intend to provide their own fuel supply instead of buying fuel from outside concerns. The great steamship combinations of Europe and Asia have been laying their plans a long time back to take full advantage of the opening of the new gateway to the Pacific. The Oriental trade is controlled by the English, German, French and Japanese. If any of these big companies decide to send their ships via Honolulu they will undoubtedly do so, but what they are doing at San Francisco and other Coast ports, that is, buy or lease lands and establish their own coaling plants and fuel tanks."

"Much Depends on China. The development of direct trans-Pacific trade will undoubtedly depend during the next five or six years on whether there is civil war in China. If the civil war that is now brewing breaks forth, it will postpone any extensive or immediate increase in the number of Oriental cargoes for five or six years at least, or as long as the strife continues. Japan is a great market, but China is a greater one."

"VESSELS REACH PORT. A wireless message received last night by the Guide said the T. K. K. liner Nippon Maru, which left Honolulu May 20, arrived yesterday at Yokohama. Another message reported the arrival of the steamer Strathaird at Puget Sound. It sailed from Honolulu May 22."

FIRST BRIGADE IS OFFICIALLY SPLIT

Orders Received Detaching Second Infantry and Making Edwards Commander.

Orders received yesterday from the war department at Washington by Major General William H. Carter, commander of the Hawaiian department, provide officially that after July 1 the First Hawaiian Brigade will be composed of the First and Twenty-fifth Infantry and that Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards, with his staff move to Schofield Barracks for their headquarters and that General Edwards be commander of the post as well as of the First Brigade.

The order provides further that the Second Infantry, stationed at Fort Shafter, be detached from the First Brigade and remain attached. The regiment will remain under the command of Col. Francis H. French, who will report direct to General Carter.

To assist him in the duties of brigade commander and post commander, General Edwards is assigned an "executive officer," a new term in army parlance though it is used in the navy. This officer is to be selected by General Edwards and will take charge of the routine work of both brigade and post, leaving the commander to deal only with the larger questions. General Edwards stated last night that he thus far made no decision as to whom he will name as his executive officer or whom he will name as brigade adjutant during the absence of the mainland of Major Julius A. Penn. In the meantime, Lieut. Cary I. Crockett, aide de camp, is acting adjutant.

When General Edwards moves to Schofield he will be accompanied by both his aides, Lieutenants Crockett and Goetz. No arrangements have as yet been made for quarters for General Edwards at Schofield, but it is believed he will occupy the quarters now occupied by Colonel French, who has been post commander. General Edwards expects his wife and daughter to arrive next week.

The detachment of the Second Infantry from the First Brigade is not received with general favor by Army officials in Honolulu, according to report. They point out that it is their belief that it will be years before other infantry regiments will be sent here to fill the three two-regiment brigades provided for this garrison, and that in the meantime the First Brigade must get along without a reserve. Just how the Second Infantry will figure in future maneuvers and Army movements on Oahu is not known.

FRENCH CABINET WILL QUIT OFFICE IN BODY

PARIS, France, June 1.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Premier Doumergues and his entire cabinet have decided to resign immediately. It is understood that a meeting will be held tomorrow, at which time there will be drafted an explanation of the reason for the falling of such drastic action. It is generally conceded that the inability of Doumergues to maintain a majority in the house of deputies is the chief factor in the decision.

TAFT OIL ORDER IS HELD INVALID

Supreme Court Rules That President Has No Authority to Withdraw Lands.

LOS ANGELES, June 2.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The conservation order of President Taft, issued in September, 1909, withdrawing from entry nearly three million acres of oil lands in California, was declared invalid in a decision rendered yesterday by the United States Supreme Court, upholding the decision of Justice Douglas of the California supreme court. The lower court held that the President has no power to withdraw lands from entry.

In an interview last night E. D. Tenney, who is largely interested in the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company, said that this decision very materially strengthened the position of the oil companies.

"From the standpoint of Honolulu investors this is very good news. We had in a measure anticipated it, but this decision puts us on a very sure footing," he said.

More than $1,250,000 of Hawaiian capital is invested in this one concern, and local holdings in other California oil companies are large.

Mt. Lassen is located in the Sierra Nevada range, between the counties of Plumas and Shasta and is 10,437 feet high.

SUGAR STOCKS BECOME ACTIVE

Interest Renewed Because of Favorable Reports From the Mainland.

Dividends payable yesterday were: Haku, 50; Pala, 50; Keolu, 50; Pioneer, 10; and, Waikea, 100.

Private cable advices received yesterday by the Henry Waterhouse Trust Company from Mr. St. Goar of San Francisco, predicting that the Wilson administration would recede from its position relative to free trade on sugar were given wide publicity among brokers. This and other advices showing a renewal of interest in Hawaiian sugar stocks by Coast investors led to further local activity. There was activity all along the line. Trading was heavier than it has been for almost a year.

The feature of the market was a sale of ten shares C. Brewer & Co. at $212.50, a drop from $375, at last sale about a year ago.

The old line dividend-paying stocks were in good demand, mostly showing slight gains over previous quotations. The market closed weaker. Hawaiian Commercial jumped to $27.25 in sympathy with cable advices showing sales at $27.50 in San Francisco.

350 ADDED TO SAVED LIST; RESCUED BY STORSTAD

Captain and Officers of Collier Which Rammed Empress of Ireland Deny Statements Made by Captain Kendall—Did Not Back Away from Liner, They Declare.

MONTREAL, June 1.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The Norwegian collier Storstad which rammed and sank the Canadian-Pacific liner Empress of Ireland off Father Point last Thursday night, causing heavy loss of life, arrived here yesterday and was immediately attached on a writ issued to the Canadian-Pacific company on their claim against the Storstad owners for $2,000,000 damages for the loss of the Empress. The writ is returnable in the Quebec admiralty court.

ANDERSON DENIES KENDALL Captain Anderson and other officers of the Storstad, in statements made immediately after their arrival here, denied the statements made by Captain Kendall of the Empress at the corner's inquest at Rimouski. Captain Anderson said that the Storstad did not back away from the Empress but that she steamed ahead in an effort to keep the bow of his ship in the hole made in the side of the liner. However, he declares, the Empress headed away, causing the Storstad to fall off.

DOOMED SHIP HIDDEN. The Empress was completely hidden in the fog, says Captain Anderson. He added that the Storstad whistled repeatedly. After the crash he said he heard the cries of victims in the water, ordered all his boats lowered and picked up 350 persons from the water, all of whom were brought here. He declares that he and the crew of the collier gave every attention to the victims of the ill-fated Empress and asks the public to withhold judgment until an impartial tribunal can hear the evidence.

VAGANDES ARE BY ROSE

New Sheriff, However, Defers Appointment of Captain to Succeed Nielson.

(From Monday Advertiser.) There are one or two details to be worked out before I decide whom to appoint as captain of police to succeed Captain Nielson," said Sheriff Charles H. Rose, yesterday, to The Advertiser. "I expect to make the announcement in two or three days. Until I do so Sergeant Daniel Kamahu will be in charge of the watch which has been headed by Captain Nielson."

Most prominent among the candidates who are said to be in line to succeed Captain Nielson, are Sergeants Fred H. Iaukea and Daniel Kamahu. Iaukea has not been very long in the employ of the police department, but it is claimed that he is one of the most efficient officers on the force. It is believed in many quarters that Iaukea will head the candidacy.

Sixes twelve o'clock last night Charles H. Rose has been sheriff of the city and county of Honolulu, succeeding Sheriff William H. Jarrett, who has since the same time become high sheriff of the Territory in place of William Henry, resigned. The changes which go into effect today in High Sheriff Jarrett's department were announced on Saturday in The Advertiser.

Coincident with the going into office of Sheriff Charles H. Rose, a number of changes are being made today in the police department. These changes are as follows: Julius W. Asch becomes deputy sheriff under Sheriff Rose, being promoted from the position of chief clerk of the police department.

J. K. Kanupuu, who has been clerk in the office of the deputy sheriff, succeeds Asch as chief clerk. J. S. Kalakala has been appointed by Sheriff Rose to take the place of Kanupuu as clerk in the office of the deputy sheriff.

With the acceptance of these changes and the appointment which will be made by Sheriff Rose, the police force remains the same, the three watches being commanded as follows: Captains of Police Charles H. Baker and Duke K. Kahanamoku; Sergeants of Police Fred H. Iaukea, Pohaku K. Ohlenial and Daniel Kamahu, the last mentioned acting as captain until Sheriff Rose appoints a successor to Police Captain Nels Nielson, who resigned to become deputy warden under High Sheriff Jarrett.

Handsome Silver Set Given to Former Chief as Memento of Pleasant Relations.

A handsome set of silver knives, forks and spoons was presented yesterday morning to William P. Jarrett, then sheriff of Honolulu. The presentation took Jarrett, who today became high sheriff of the Territory, by surprise and in responding to the presentation speech made by Julius W. Asch, Jarrett was so touched that he was at a loss for words. The presentation was made in the name of the police force of Honolulu. Asch stated that the man who had been in service under Sheriff Jarrett wished him to possess a reminder of the time when he was their chief.

"I am receiving this set of knives, forks and spoons," said Asch, "as a memento of the force believe that they have hit upon a memento which will constantly remind you of the pleasant relations which have at all times existed between the sheriff and those under him." Jarrett's reply was brief and he was at a loss for words with which to express his appreciation of the consideration shown him by the members of the department.

"A little bird whispered to me recently that such an event as this might occur," said Jarrett, "and so that I might not be caught napping I prepared a nice speech. I had it put in memory, but it's gone and for the life of me I can't remember a word of it now."

"In one sense I am sorry I am leaving you, but I am glad to see that Charles H. Rose has been chosen to succeed me. Between Rose and the officers of this department you all have made it possible to make my administration of the police department the success it has been."

"I thank you for this mark of appreciation and I assure you that I will use the knives and forks, not to speak of the spoons, which you have presented me, in preference to my fingers at all times. Aloha."

Charles H. Rose, who becomes sheriff in succession to W. P. Jarrett, also made a short address in which he told the members of the force that the success of the sheriff and deputy sheriff in the administration of the business of the department depends to a very large extent on the loyalty and efficiency of the men.

There was a general muster of the members of the police department yesterday morning at ten o'clock at the central police station, among those present being W. S. Edlidge, Jessie F. Makaiwai and Charles H. Brown, members of the police and fire civil service commission; Mayor Joseph J. Fern and members of the board of supervisors, and all the members of the police department, from the sheriff down.

MEDIANS DECIDE TO IGNORE CLAIMS OF CARRANZA

Washington Report Says That President Wilson Has Sent Instructions to American Representatives at Niagara Falls Conference How to Proceed.

(From Monday Advertiser.) The South American mediators yesterday virtually resolved to go ahead with their plans for the perfecting of a two-party agreement between the United States and the Huerta government, temporarily ignoring the question of the Constitutionalists' demand for representation at the mediation conferences. The only thing to disturb such a course is the intimation that the United States would withhold its approval of the plans proposed for the establishment of a new provisional government in Mexico unless disposition is promptly made of the question of Constitutional participation.

BLANKET ROLL HAS DISADVANTAGES

But the blanket roll had its disadvantages. Its weight, together with that of the canteen and haversack, came largely on the soldier's chest, on account of the crossed straps which met over his shoulder. This form of carrying the full equipment proved to be very exhausting in the late campaigns in the tropics, and in Cuba and the Philippines it was found that some better equipment was desirable.

But the blanket roll had its disadvantages. Its weight, together with that of the canteen and haversack, came largely on the soldier's chest, on account of the crossed straps which met over his shoulder. This form of carrying the full equipment proved to be very exhausting in the late campaigns in the tropics, and in Cuba and the Philippines it was found that some better equipment was desirable.

PLANNING TO SHIP FRESH PINEAPPLES

(From Monday Advertiser.) Stanley Livingston, president of the Hailu Farmers' Association, returned Wednesday evening from Honolulu, where he had been investigating the feasibility of fresh pineapple shipments to the mainland, says the Maui News. He is convinced that this project has great possibilities for the Hailu farmers, and believes that it will be given a thorough tryout by the Maui growers during the coming season.

"We can make a contract with a very reliable firm on the Coast," said Mr. Livingston, "at $50 per ton for the fruit, $ 5.00 per wharf Kahului. The cost of packing and delivery to the wharf is figured by Oahu shippers at from $25 to $28 per ton. As quickly as possible I expect to call a meeting of our members and lay all data I have before them, and it seems more than probable that we shall be able to get together in a cooperative way to go into this business."

FIRST NAMED CANDIDATE IN FIELD

Senator Charles Rice Authorized Announcement of His Candidacy for Republican Nomination as Delegate to Congress—His Action Should Clear the Political Air.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Senator Charles A. Rice of Kauai has authorized The Advertiser to announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for Delegate to Congress. He is in the field to stay until the results of the primaries are known, and expects to secure the majority endorsement of his candidacy from the Republicans, which will be tantamount to election in November.

Senator Rice will be in Honolulu within a few days to establish his political headquarters, announce his position and begin a systematic campaign for the nomination, a campaign that will take in every section of the Territory. This is the first definite announcement of a candidacy for the highest position in the gift of the territorial electorate, in either of the main parties, and will probably be the signal for the active commencement of the primary campaign. Following Senator Rice's announcement may now be expected definite announcements from others of his party, either that they propose to contest with him for the Republican nomination or will support him in his candidacy.

WILDER CLOSE HIS POSITION

Feeling in Washington Is That Federal District Attorney Has Proven Temperamentally Unfit For His Job—Wilder Busy Urging Immediate Removal of Man From Tennessee.

By Ernest G. Walker. (Mail Special to The Advertiser.) WASHINGTON, May 15.—The department of justice is awaiting more details from Hawaii regarding District Attorney McCann. Judge Wilder has been at the department to urge McCann's removal but did not make much headway. Statements regarding the district attorney's assault upon a citizen were called into question and the department received a report regarding it. Considerable surprise was expressed that a United States district attorney should be carrying a revolver.

It is thought likely here that sooner or later Wilder will have to relinquish his place. His usefulness as an official of the department of justice is probably gone, even though it is claimed here that people in the Islands, not altogether friendly to law and order, are fighting him. Through this it is considered the department will probably take the view that McCann has been far from tactful. Judge Wilder has been making the most of McCann's lack of tact, especially in discriminating against native Hawaiians and in his inability to get a conviction before Honolulu juries.

Wilder Leaves a Void. Although Vice-Chairman Barron has raised a question, claiming to have had the nominations for many federal offices in the Territory well arranged, there have been no evidences yet that any department has been hastening to carry out the vice chairman's recommendations. If that is to be, it will come later. Attorney General McReynolds is very slow at getting around to nominations and the Hawaiian judicial vacancies are not particularly unusual with him.

Convicted Hawaii Official in Teacher of Sunday School and Class in Scriptures.

VOLCANO HOUSE, Hawaii, May 29.—Rufus A. Lyman, former Hawaii county official, now serving a minimum sentence of three years for careless handling of public funds, is one of the more contented of the sixty or more convicts now engaged in keeping up the Volcano roads, according to friends who visited the convict today. Lyman, fat, his face wreathed in smiles, and to use his own words, enjoying better health than he has for years, is not attempting to shy his keepers, to shirk his share of the prison tasks. In addition he has become the spiritual adviser of the sixty or more unfortunates who with him are paying the penalty of violating the law of man. Each Sunday and whenever opportunity offers he preaches to them, and to those who have become converts he teaches lessons of the Scriptures.

GUESTS ENTERTAINED BY BRIDAL COUPLE

VOLCANO HOUSE, Hawaii, May 29.—Mrs. H. G. Dillingham, two children and governess have been at the Volcano House for the past month. They are occupying a large cottage directly in front of the Volcano House and affording an excellent view of the volcano. The health of Mrs. Dillingham as well as the two children has been much improved as a result of their outing at this delightful home. H. G. Dillingham arrived here from Honolulu today to spend the week end with his family.

M. F. Prosser, well known Honolulu attorney, arrived at the Volcano House today, to rest and get away for a few days from cares and worries of the law. Judge Prosser never overlooks an opportunity while in Hilo to pass a day or two at this place. He probably will return home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Way of Fresno, California, are the only bridal couple here, tonight, so far as is known. There are many older married couples, however, and they are doing everything possible to make life "bearable" for Mr. Way and his charming young bride. Mr. Way blames The Advertiser for telling the news of the marriage of himself and wife. "It wasn't for that Honolulu Advertiser," he said today, "these folks would have accepted us just as if we had been married for years. As it is, they are treating us like two children. Oh, yes, we are enjoying it."

DELEGATES HEAR OF MISSION WORK

Christian educational activities of the Episcopal Churches of Hawaii, including Sunday school work, were discussed yesterday at the twelfth annual convocation of the diocese of Honolulu, which convened shortly after three o'clock in Davies Memorial Hall. No morning session was held, and the afternoon meeting was short, although interesting.

All the addresses were extemporaneous, the subjects being as follows: "The Purpose of the Church Sunday School," Rev. Leopold Kroll; "The Bible in the Sunday School," Rev. J. K. Bodel; "Difficulties as to Teachers," Rev. J. C. Villiers; "Difficulties as to Indifference of Parents," Rev. Canon William Ault.

Consider Amendments. On convening last night the convocation went into committee of the whole for the consideration of amendments to the diocesan statutes. Bishop Westwick appointed Arthur G. Smith as chairman of the meeting. The committee on legislation, which had charge of the amendments which were considered, was composed of Robinson B. Anderson, Alex. Lindsay Jr. and the Rev. Leopold Kroll.

Mr. Anderson presented the report, which was discussed section by section. The committee asked leave to sit again, and this being granted the convocation adjourned until seven-thirty o'clock to-night.

After the celebration of Holy Communion in the cathedral at ten o'clock this morning, delegates to the convocation will adjourn to the parish house, where they will organize and proceed with business.

At communion the celebrant will be the bishop, while the Rev. D. D. Wallace will act as epistoler and the Rev. F. N. Cullen as gospeler. The preacher will be the Rev. J. Charles Villiers.

Subjects for Discussion. Three subjects have been allotted for consideration at the morning session of the convocation, after which luncheon will be served at St. Andrew's priory at one o'clock by the Woman's Auxiliary of Honolulu. The subjects are as follows: First—President's Address. Second—Appointment of Officers. Third—Report of Diocesan Officers. Delegates and friends will reassemble in Memorial Hall at quarter past two o'clock, when the following subjects will be taken up: First—Report of Junior Auxiliaries. Second—Lahaina Work Among Women and Girls, Miss Roberta Caldwell. Third—Kapaeha, Present and Future, Miss Margaret Miller. Fourth—A Year's Experiences, Miss Mabel Schaeffer and Mrs. D. P. Bibe. Fifth—Synopsis of the work of Guilds prepared under the supervision of the Bishop.

The session will conclude with five-minute talks, for which subjects have been assigned as follows: St. Luke's Mission—Mrs. O. S. Whang. St. Mary's—Miss Hilda Van Dierlin. St. Elizabeth's—Miss E. Mills. Epiphany—Mrs. Will King. On Hawaii—H. Miyazawa.

214 TEACHERS NAMED BY BOARD

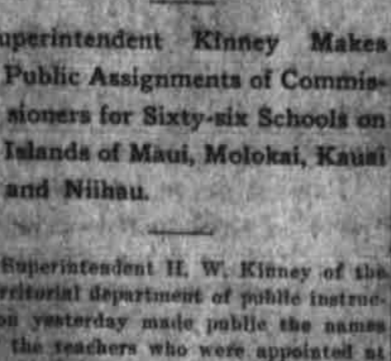

Superintendent Kinney Makes Public Assignments of Commissioners for Sixty-six Schools on Islands of Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Niihau.

Superintendent H. W. Kinney of the territorial department of public instruction yesterday made public the names of the teachers who were appointed at the recent meeting of the school commissioners for the islands of Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Niihau. The Oahu list was published in The Advertiser last week. The Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Niihau appointments are printed below for the first time. The Hawaii appointments, which will close the list, will probably be made public tomorrow. All these appointments are for the new school year beginning in September.

One hundred and twenty-four teachers have been appointed for the forty-seven Maui and Molokai schools, there remaining three more to be appointed. These appointed consist of forty men, thirty-three married women and fifty-one single women. For the nineteen schools on Kauai and Niihau, ninety teachers have been appointed, of whom there are eleven men, twenty-one married women and fifty-eight single women. Seven teachers remain to be appointed. Thus the list published below for the combined sixty-six schools on Maui, Molokai, Kauai and Niihau show 214 teachers already appointed and ten to be named later. Of these 214 teachers fifty-one are men, fifty-four married women and 109 single women, the single teachers numbering four more than the men and married women teachers.

URGENT GETTING MORE HARBOR FACILITIES

(Continued from Page One) "How large this direct transpacific freight traffic will grow to be, no one knows. One thing is certain, if Honolulu has not the facilities for handling it, we will never get additional business. "There is no proof that if we go ahead, put in new wharves and enlarge the harbor, that we will get more trade or that vessels will make use of the facilities we have to offer. "The United States government asks us for proofs. We cannot supply them. But in this, as with everything else, it is the larger vision that will count. "The only proof that we have to offer that our harbor facilities will be too meager to properly care for the share of the commerce of the world that is coming this way is based on the doctrine of probabilities, the history of the general development of the world's commerce, and the experience of others. "Should Develop Facilities. "Absolute proof is not within the bounds of possibility. It is quite essential that Hawaii should go ahead and develop all the harbor facilities it can as a prerequisite to asking the United States government to expand large sums in extending the area of the harbor. Fulfillment of the Kalihii harbor plans means the doubling of the area available for handling ships. "There is this to be said on the side of Honolulu's contention that this will become an important port of call on the direct-Panama-Orient route—weather conditions are favorable to Honolulu, one, constantly beset with storms and fogs. The wear and tear on vessels that have to battle their way through the stormy waters along the California, Oregon and Washington coasts is enormous, and would far offset any advantage gained by the four hundred miles saved in distance traveled. "If Hawaii issues bonds to carry out further harbor improvements, it would be a sound business proposition, provided there is readjustment of wharfage charges. Every other port in the world collects tolls from both consignee and consignee. In that regard Honolulu is now a 'free port,' and I know of no other. "I have looked into this very thoroughly, and find that in every other port such tolls are paid on freight, just as tonnage or wharfage tax is paid by the owners of the vessels. "If we amend our schedule or tariff, it becomes a business proposition to issue bonds and build wharves with borrowed money. Fifty-year bonds would pay interest and provide a sinking fund if a proper schedule of charges were levied. "A partial satisfaction of an execution issued out of the supreme court was recorded yesterday in the damage case of Sam Nawale against the von Hamm-Yocco Company. Some time ago the supreme court decided the suit in favor of the company, the costs being taxed against the plaintiff in the sum of $59.30. Twenty dollars of this amount has been paid, according to the execution which was returned yesterday as partially satisfied. The balance will probably be paid by the bondman in the appeal.

LECTURE ON CIVIC ART AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

The lecture on Civic Art to be given under the auspices of the College Club on Thursday evening at the Public Library, has been prepared by a committee of experts of national reputation in city planning and outdoor art. The pictures illustrating this lecture have been selected by the same committee. The College Club has secured the lecture and the pictures from the American Federation of Arts of Washington, D. C., with the hope that they may be helpful in inspiring this community to make Honolulu a 'City Beautiful.' Mrs. Schmitzler of Onu College will read the lecture. The public is invited.

POLICE CHIEFS TO GATHER IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, California, May 25.—Oakland will be the best policed city in the world during one week in 1913, for the National Convention of American Police Chiefs has practically consented to meet here as the city's guests. The convention is a large one and an important one, inasmuch as the members talk over and decide upon many important matters which vitally concern the safety of the communities in which they serve the people in suppressing crime. This convention will be the first one of the police heads to meet in the West, and Chief of Police Walter J. Petersen, who will attend this year's meeting at Grand Rapids, Michigan, will go East armed with facts about the beauties of Oakland in particular and California in general in an effort to assure the convention coming to this State.

SENATOR RICE'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

The authorized announcement in The Advertiser this morning of the candidacy of Charley Rice of Kauai for the Republican nomination for the position of Delegate to Congress should, clear the political air and bring down to something definite the positions to be taken by others of the party leaders. Following Senator Rice's announcement, should be others and the members of the rank and file will soon know just where they stand.

Political conditions in Hawaii are complex at this particular time, to say the least, and the confusion exists in the Democratic ranks quite as much as it does within the limits of the Republican party. For one thing, the direct primary is something new for the candidates to face as well as for the voters to handle and the fact that early announcements of candidacy must be publicly made has not yet been wholly grasped by the party leaders. There remains the strong traces of the past, when nominations were matters to be whispered over prior to conventions and made the bases for many secret deals and political trades. That each candidate from now on must stand on his own feet and make a straightforward fight for the nomination he seeks has hardly been accepted as a political fact.

Senator Rice's announcement, therefore, comes at a most opportune time to clarify the situation, and, whether he wins or loses in the primary campaign, he has earned the thanks of the party for making the first definite move and setting an excellent example.

HENRY AND JARRETT.

High Sheriff Henry steps down this morning from an official position he has held with high credit for the past many years, returning to private life with the satisfaction of knowing that he has proven faithful to his trust and with every reason to know that this faithful-ness has been appreciated by the public. William Jarrett, his successor, has a difficult task to face. Not only has he to make good, but he has to make a record that will stand comparison with that of Mr. Henry. The new warden has selected some good men as his assistants. He has also, in the opinion of this paper, placed in positions of responsibility some men who will be put to it to stand the test. They are his selections, however, and for them he has assumed the responsibility. We wish High Sheriff Jarrett every success.

POLITICAL CONSPIRACY HATCHING.

The businessmen and taxpayers of Honolulu should take fair warning that a political conspiracy is on foot whereby two hundred thousand dollars of the public's money is to be diverted into a campaign fund for the benefit of Mayor Fern and his worthless allies in the city government. Further than this, if the schemers are able to nerve themselves up to an even greater bit of political chicanery, the Honolulu water works department is to be transformed into a Fern machine, with efficiency disregarded and consideration given to nothing but a return to the public feed trough of Fern, Pacheco, Hardesty, Wolters and Markham.

The proposal has been debated in caucus to discharge the present head of the road department and subordinate the few lunas who have been making good heretofore and to turn over the road work to the supervisors direct, leaving the department without an engineer and with none in charge of any branch with any knowledge whatever of road building. The payrolls are to be filled with the names of Hawaiian voters and the two hundred thousand dollars available between now and election day are to be distributed in the shape of wages as far as they will go for votes.

In the same way the water works and sewers department to be created after June 15 will be used, the department to be made a resting place for political workers.

This scheme has been worked out in all its details and is now ready to be sprung, the only delay being in the fact that Supervisor Markham, needed by the Fern forces to make his majority, has heretofore held out against the political rifting of the city treasury. Now, according to well authenticated report, Markham has consented to throw in his lot with the political hucksters and the money of the public will soon be pouring out in a golden stream to be worse than wasted. Money that intelligently used would furnish many miles of good roads is to be expended in such a way that all we will have to show for it will be Fern in his official auto, for another two years and the same set of incompetents as a majority of the governing board.

When the aldermen of Chicago proposed to milk the city treasury in a similar way, the voters of that city appeared upon the streets each with a little rope noose in his buttonhole. Honolulu voters need probably give a less strenuous hint, but some step should be taken without delay either to bring Markham back to a sense of official decency or to make it plain to Fern and his crowd that this city will tolerate nothing of the kind that is being now openly boasted of as his plans.

Whatever denial may be made to the scheme reported, the business men of Honolulu should take careful note of what may take place in and around the city hall during the next few weeks. The crowd now in power will stand the most careful watching.

VERY PRUDENT.

The executive board of the United Mine Workers of America showed excellent discretion in deciding that a general strike to assist the Colorado miners would be unwise at this time. The reason the members give for their decision is plausible. They maintain that it will be better for miners outside the affected district to keep at work so that they will be in a position to send benefit money to those who are earning nothing, says the Detroit Free Press.

But there are other reasons why they may not care to extend the trouble. One is that the public is by no means satisfied with the extreme methods used by the Colorado strikers. There is a strong odor of anarchy and unreasonableness about what they are doing. It is going rather far to create an insurrection merely because mine-owners after allowing all other demands refuse to recognize a union.

Then, too, there is the uncertain condition of the nation's relationships with Mexico which must have been taken into consideration. A general walkout of miners with the turmoil sure to accompany such a movement would find little or no popular sympathy if the nation were to be plunged into war. The action would be sure to meet with deep disapproval as a thing unpatriotic if not actually traitorous. It would savor distinctly of the I. W. W.

Every resident of the Territory interested in the matter of home markets—and that means every resident—should read the market report and the accompanying articles published in this issue. The development of the local market for local products means more than the lowering of the high cost of living and more than the few dollars to be saved by the consumers. It means the advancement of the Americanization of Hawaii; the progress of the whole community; the placing of these Islands on a self-supporting basis.

THE KALIHI HARBOR.

The Advertiser publishes today an official notice from the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, stating that while the members approve of the general project of the opening of Kalihi harbor, they are not convinced that, at the present time, the improvement is necessary for the reason that:

"(a) It does not appear that the harbor of Honolulu is at present crowded or congested, or that the wharfage space now utilized or available for development is insufficient to accommodate present and immediately prospective commerce.

"(b) It is not believed that the improvement would result in benefits to the general public, commensurate with the expense involved."

With a spirit of fairness which will be appreciated here, the board states, however, that it is willing to be convinced, and will receive arguments and statements bearing upon the subject, at any time within the next sixty days, and will grant a special hearing, if one be desired.

While the preliminary opinion expressed by the board is adverse to action being taken now, that need not discourage any one. It is simply a signal to the citizens of Honolulu to wake up and "get on the job."

By way of precedent, the preliminary report on the Hilo Breakwater was adverse; but a vigorous presentation of the facts involved, secured a reversal of the decision and the project was adopted.

The new chamber of commerce will be just in time to win its spurs by demonstrating to Washington, as its first undertaking, that a harbor containing more than ninety-seven acres (and that is the total area of Honolulu harbor) is necessary to accommodate the transpacific commerce that will pour through the Panama Canal within a few months.

It will take several years to make the proposed improvement, and it is not the part of wisdom to wait until the harbor is overcrowded and ships being turned away, before beginning to prepare for a commerce which is surely coming.

Sound the charge. The chamber of commerce to the rescue!

ANOTHER REVOLUTION IN CHINA.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen, according to stories told by some of his Honolulu adherents, is planning another revolution in China on the ground that President Yuan Shih-kai has become a dictator and that the Republic has ceased to be. Doctor Sun has agents in Europe negotiating for support, one of them being Ma Soo, who was some time ago editor of a revolutionary newspaper in China. Practically all reports coming from China agree that President Yuan Shih-kai is running things with a high hand. The provisional constitution has been abolished and the President has taken supreme control. A new parliament is to be formed, but it is to have limited powers. The President is to have control of national finances and in times of crisis can issue decrees independently of parliament.

A formidable revolutionary movement known as the White Wolf is under way. Behind it are said to be economic causes rather than political. Nevertheless, the White Wolf is calling for the resignation of the President, and the world should not be astonished to read any day of an uprising as momentous as that which led to the downfall of the Manchu dynasty.

Shortly after he obtained office President Yuan Shih-kai began tightening the reins on the radicals. He is naturally a conservative, and lately he is reported to be returning to office many that were connected with the old Manchu dynasty.

Ma Soo, the exiled radical editor, now in England as the agent of Doctor Sun, rises to ask a very pointed question. He desires to know why President Wilson refused to recognize Huerta, but recognized Dr. Yuan Shih-kai as head of the Chinese republic. Ma Soo asserts that Yuan is infinitely worse than Huerta, and declares that Yuan was behind the execution of two generals who were put to death without a trial. They were invited to Peking. The war minister entertained them at dinner. After the coffee and liqueurs were served, Ma Soo says, the generals were entrapped and shot, all of which he submits is as bad as, or worse than, anything of which Huerta is accused.

Ma Soo maintains that the five-power loan is being employed by the president-dictator in his schemes of oppression and he expresses himself as glad that the United States did not participate in that loan.

"Doctor Sun is very determined," says Ma Soo. "He does not want to see his life work destroyed by the man he helped into the presidency. We are now watching for a favorable opportunity to launch another revolution. It may come in a little over a year, maybe in less than a year."

All of this coincides with the reports emanating from the local admirers of Doctor Sun, who complain bitterly of the reaction of the President and of the return to power of persons connected with the Manchu dynasty.

The world was marveling a few months ago at the transition of China from an Empire to a Republic with small loss of life. The world is now being told that China is a Republic in name rather than in fact and that another revolution is under way.

TIME TO HUSTLE.

"It is the large vision that will count." We must look at the future development of transpacific commerce in its broader aspects before we can present to congress proofs of the necessity for more harbor room for shipping.

The citizens of this city must have abounding faith in the future of Honolulu and must needs back up that faith by making solid, far-seeing investments.

If the citizens of Hawaii believe in the future of Hawaii that is half the problem solved. But faith without works leads nowhere.

The plans adopted by the Territorial Harbor Commission call for large expenditure by the Territory in the construction of coal wharves and additional docks on land which the Territory owns.

If this program is backed up by the business interests of Honolulu and its execution is definitely assured, this community can then go to Washington and ask that the United States government second our efforts and help put the larger program for a bigger harbor into effect.

There must be concrete expression of faith in the only way that faith can be made visible and tangible—by works.

There remain sixty days grace in which to consider the problem. It is up to the citizens of this city to say that they believe that the future has bigger things in store. All things come to him who hustles while he waits. What does Honolulu gain by waiting? Why not hustle, for a change?

ALOHA TO POSTMASTER PRATT.

The Honolulu public bids farewell this morning to Postmaster Pratt, and, without any disparagement to his successor, it may truthfully be said that the farewell is said with regret. While there have been criticisms of the management of the local postoffice from time to time, much of the criticism has been found unjust when inquiry into the facts was made, while, during the incumbency of Mr. Pratt, there has been found very, very much to praise. Handling the mail of a community made up of so many races as Honolulu is no easy task, and Postmaster Young will find this to be very much the case. In bidding farewell to Mr. Pratt we can only hope that his successor will prove as courteous, as obliging and as efficient. If he does Honolulu will be satisfied with Postmaster Young.

ESTIMATING CHARACTER.

"Gitchu, Manito, the mighty; Mitche, Manito, the bad; In the breast of every Indian, Is the best of every good man, There's a tiny heap of Gitchu And a mighty mound of Mitche— There's the good and there's the bad."

Thus Cy Warman, whose poetic genius is just being discovered now that he is dead—fate of so many among Art's elect—put into new form an idea as old, perhaps, as thought itself.

"There's the good and there's the bad"; the optimist looks for and sees the "gitchu," the pessimist seeks and finds the "mitche." The "man in the street" makes up his mind that good and bad are about evenly balanced in what Browning called "this best of all possible worlds." Some men are much worse than they appear to be, while most men are much better than they seem. As it is with men, so it is, too, with nations. The evil is ever the more obvious even to the friendly observer of another race or nation. The good eludes him, because when it is most good it is like the modest violet, "bashful and afraid of garish glare."

To the Persian of old the men of Athens were barbarians. To the Greek and to the Roman, the Frank and the German were beings formed in an inferior mold, essentially different, essentially lower in the plane of possibilities—potentiality. Where are the glories of the cities of Cyrus? Dead ashes—memories! What of the greatness of ancient Athens and of ancient Rome? Broken columns, ruined temples—dust and memory lingering alongside the more modern monuments of cosmopolitan influence and cosmopolitan growth. The dome of Peter came neither from the brain nor the heart of the Caesars. Time's relentless changes have battered down old walls of prejudice and civilization's tide still sweeps onward, revising man's judgment of other men.

We are, now, for the first time since Time itself leapt from the womb of Eternity, coming together, again, in true cosmopolitan communion—the children of the fjord and the fjord, the children of the park and the peak, the children of the sun and sand. We are rubbing shoulder to shoulder and "getting under the skin." And Truth is teaching us that none of us has a monopoly of "gitchu" or of "mitche." The eternal conflict is common to all.

A few days ago six gold watches were deposited at the Chinese Legation in Washington, to be forwarded by Minister K. F. Shah to Peking. These watches—appropriate presents—are the gift of grateful Americans to brave Chinese who risked life and limb to save American men and women from danger. The future recipients are a Chinese teacher and Chinese soldiers varying in rank from sergeant to corps commander. The government of China has already extolled their conduct and rewarded them. But their greatest reward will be the influence of their bravery and self-sacrifice in bringing about a new estimate of Chinese character. No Knight of the Grail could do or dare more than did these, in part, obscure Chinese friends of those once—but happily, no longer—known as the "foreign devils."

How fast the world is moving! How near we are getting to knowledge of our real selves! Appearances are no longer important. The unfamiliar character of the cover no longer hinders us from knowing and admiring the beauty of the book. We read the mandates of Yuan or the speeches of Minister Shah and we see that what is "gitchu" in Honolulu is good, too, in Peking, China, and what is "mitche" in Cohoes, New York, is deemed just as bad in Canton of Cathay. Essentially, we are all pretty much the same—Americans and Chinese, Bret Harte's surface verdict notwithstanding. For

"There's the good and there's the bad."

THE PASSING HOUR.

The Vera Cruz newspapers have been describing the very latest dance, which they call "The Wilson Mexican Policy Dance." It is said to be one step forward, three steps backwards, hesitate and side-step.

The action of the leader of the recently organized billboard hui in withdrawing his application for a license shows the force of public opinion in the matter and also evidences his desire not to run counter to that opinion. He is to be congratulated in having got his eyes open so soon.

Distinctly creditable to directors, conductor and performers was the Choral Society concert given in the Opera House last night. Honolulu should feel a proper pride in the fact that there are local musicians able to present a program of such exceptional merit in so finished a manner.

King George of Great Britain is forty-nine years old tomorrow, but his birthday party does not come off until the twenty-second. He will thus celebrate together his birthday and the anniversary of his crowning three years ago. In these days of suffragette militancy it is not wise to have too many celebrations in a string.

OFF FOR AFRICA AFTER PARASITES

Entomologists Depart Today in Quest of Insect Which Will Destroy Local Pest.

David T. Followay, entomologist of the Hawaii experiment station, and J. E. Bridwell, assistant entomologist of the board of agriculture and forestry, will leave on the Mataneia tomorrow, en route for South Africa. They are to continue the search commenced by Doctor Silyestrin in West Africa for parasites of the Mediterranean fruit fly, the most pestiferous and the pink boll worm of cotton.

The Mediterranean fruit fly is a native of Southwestern Africa, but is neither abundant nor especially destructive in that part of the world. To the entomological mind this fact of its comparative scarcity indicates that the fly has natural enemies that keep its numbers down and prevent its becoming a pest. The fly only received its cognomen "Mediterranean" when it wandered abroad without the company of its parasites and worked havoc in the orchards and vineyards of Sicily, Italy and the South of France. The Mediterranean fruit fly traveled extensively from Europe and is well established in the West Indies. Just how it got to Hawaii is unknown, but it has not a wide swath since it obtained a foothold here. The United States government has put a ban on the shipment of many Hawaiian fruits and vegetables to the mainland just because of this fruit pest.

Doctor Silyestrin imported a few parasites to Hawaii and they are on the job, but they are not of the variety to really control the fruit fly or keep it fully in check. Followay and Bridwell are going to get the balance of the fifty-seven varieties of parasites or know the reason why.

The work which is in the interest of Hawaii's small farmers and fruit growers directly and of the California orchardists indirectly, is being conducted by the federal and territorial governments jointly. Doctor Followay has been in Hawaii six years. He is a specialist on scale insects and their parasites. He has only recently returned from Manila, where he was called to undertake special investigations for the Philippine government. Mr. Bridwell is perhaps less widely known, as he has been in Honolulu about a year, but he has already made an enviable reputation for himself in his chosen field of entomology. These two specialists will undoubtedly secure parasites and beneficial insects in Africa whose value will amount into the tens and hundreds of thousands of dollars to Hawaiian fruit producers.

BOYS KNOCKED FROM CAR; BADLY INJURED

Sam Baker, Sam Fuller, T. W. Cooper and John Silva, the first two students at Kaneohe College, were painfully injured yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock by being crushed from the running board of a Rapid Transit car in King street near Maukaunua by the rear hub of a heavily loaded truck standing in front of the store of Ah Loong.

Baker was the worst injured, receiving deep gashes above each knee, as well as a fracture of the left leg at the thigh. Cooper was cut above both knees. Fuller was likewise gashed above the knees, while Silva suffered a deep cut above the knee of the left leg as well as a badly wrenched ankle.

The boys were returning from Alexander Field where they had been to witness the ball game between the Kaneohe College professors and the Oahu College teachers, being Kalihi bound.

As the car passed Smith street, a heavily loaded truck drove up to the curb and the motorman evidently miscalculated the distance between the hub of the truck and the car, for it is claimed by eye witnesses that he did not slacken his speed until the front end of the running board had passed the rear of the truck. Several men and boys standing on the running board moved to the inside of the car, excepting J. W. Cooper, Baker, Fuller and Silva, who did not notice the truck, were struck by the hub of the rear wheel and hurled to the ground.

Passerby quickly ran to the aid of the injured boys and Officer S. E. Kallimoku had them taken to the Queen's Hospital, where they received medical aid.

The Territorial Market

By Lucien A. Thurston.

The establishment of the Territorial Market, under the supervision of the Federal Agricultural Experiment Station, marks a turning point in the history of Hawaii, for the following reasons:

- 1. It makes possible the supplying of the home market with home produce, at a reasonable profit to the producer.
2. It makes possible to the consumer, the obtaining of food supplies at a reasonable price.

3. It makes possible the engaging in diversified agriculture by a large number of independent owners of small areas of land.

Heretofore, without the market as a medium of sale and information, it has been practically impossible to secure these three most desirable results.

There have been many reasons for this.

In the first place, the farmers of Hawaii are of many nationalities; speaking no common language; having little in common socially. The result has been that co-operation was practically impossible; and there has been none.

In the second place, the islands are so cut up by gulches, and separated by channels, that in but few places are producers able to transport to market or sell their produce themselves. They are compelled to pay, for all these transportation charges, and sell through an agent.

There are no commission merchants, making a specialty of selling produce at the best obtainable price, charging a commission thereon, and remitting the full proceeds, less the commission, to the producer.

As a rule, the agent has been himself a retailer, and has himself fixed the price which the producer receives, while he has retained the full retail price, of which price the producer was not informed. The producer's business was so small, and his means of defense so inadequate, that he was obliged to submit, and take what he could get, which was so little that it did not pay; with the result that after a few trials he quit producing, or trying to market what little stuff he did raise. He was practically frozen out of the market for want of some responsible person to handle his produce solely in his interest.

In the third place, there was no reliable information available as to the state of the market—the requirements, prices, under or over supply. The consequence was that it was usually a feast or a famine—a glut or nothing.

In the fourth place there was the greatest ignorance of methods of packing, and no knowledge at all of grading. It was impossible to buy regular packing cases—none were here for sale.

Again fresh and reliable seed was difficult to get and high in price.

TERRITORIAL MARKET A GOD SEND.

The market has been a God send to the industrious small producers. They now get guaranteed seeds, and up-to-date packages at cost. They get weekly information as to ruling prices; what is in demand and what not, and advice as to what he had better plant for the future—all free of charge.

Their produce is promptly sold at the best obtainable prices. There is no middle man's profit to be deducted—they get the whole proceeds.

Already a new spirit of hope is discernible among the class which has heretofore been distinguished chiefly by its hopelessness.

The term "small farms" has become a joke in Hawaii. It is usually accompanied by a sneer, a wink or a contemptuous smile.

Last week a "small farmer" met me on the sidewalk on Merchant street. He had on a smile of the kind that "won't come off."

"How are you getting along?" I said.

"Fine," he replied, "splendidly, why look here, I have just come from the Territorial Market, and look at the account sales they have given me for the last three months!" and he showed them to me.

They amounted to him for $135 to $150 odd dollars a month for peaches alone.

"Why," said he, "it's the greatest thing in the Territory. It's putting me on my feet."

And that is just what it is doing—putting the independent small land owner on his feet, so that he can make his own living without hawking to anyone, or asking anybody's consent; and that kind of a man is badly needed in Hawaii.

It has put a new spirit of hope in the sky, and if the enterprise continues to be carried on in the same progressive and helpful manner, the possibilities for the future are immense.

Play Grounds and Tuberculosis

You can cure all the cases of tuberculosis that you please, and you will never get any where, unless you make prevention the keynote of your campaign. Tuberculosis camps and homes are all right, as far as they go; but public play grounds are worth far more in helping to eradicate the disease than are the camps and homes.

J. A. RATH.

Last year the City of Chicago spent $3,000,000 on its public play grounds.

Now Chicago is the typical city of the United States, so far as getting value received for a dollar spent, is concerned.

What value did Chicago receive for its $3,000,000?

It received value in two ways:

First, it kept the children out of mischief;

Second, it taught them how to get along with their neighbors, by giving them an opportunity to play games, which they would otherwise have been unable to do.

Third, it kept them fresh, open air, making them strong and healthy, thereby enabling them to ward off disease.

In Honolulu, we need play grounds for all of these reasons, as well as others; but with the present serious state of the tuberculosis question, and the cry of "hard times," and the tendency to look upon a public play ground as a fad or a luxury, which can be given up in the interest of economy, the above statement by Mr. Rath sounds a note that cannot be ignored.

Hawaii is spending several hundred thousand dollars a year on the segregation and treatment of leprosy. Why?

Because it is believed that such expenditures will protect the public health, and eventually eradicate the disease.

Consumption is killing more people in Hawaii than is leprosy. It is the deadliest disease on the death records and yet a mere pittance is being spent to prevent or cure it.

Now comes an expert—a man who is devoting his life to the consideration of this and kindred subjects, and says that a play ground is worth more than a hospital, in the fight against consumption.

Under these circumstances it is false economy—in fact it is no economy at all—it is rank folly, to save money by letting the play grounds go.

The Honolulu street play ground, a block west of Nuuanu, is hanging by a string. It belongs to private owners, who are permitting its free use by the play ground's committee of the Free Kindergarten League; but it is valuable land, liable to be taken at any time for business purposes. The owners are willing to sell it for play ground purposes, at a very reasonable price.

It is in a thickly populated portion of the town, where it is pre-eminently needed for every reason that a park and play ground is desirable anywhere.

The "Tuberculosis Map" of Honolulu shows that it is in the heart of the worst infected district.

Every effort should be made to acquire this piece of land and set it apart as a permanent park and play ground.

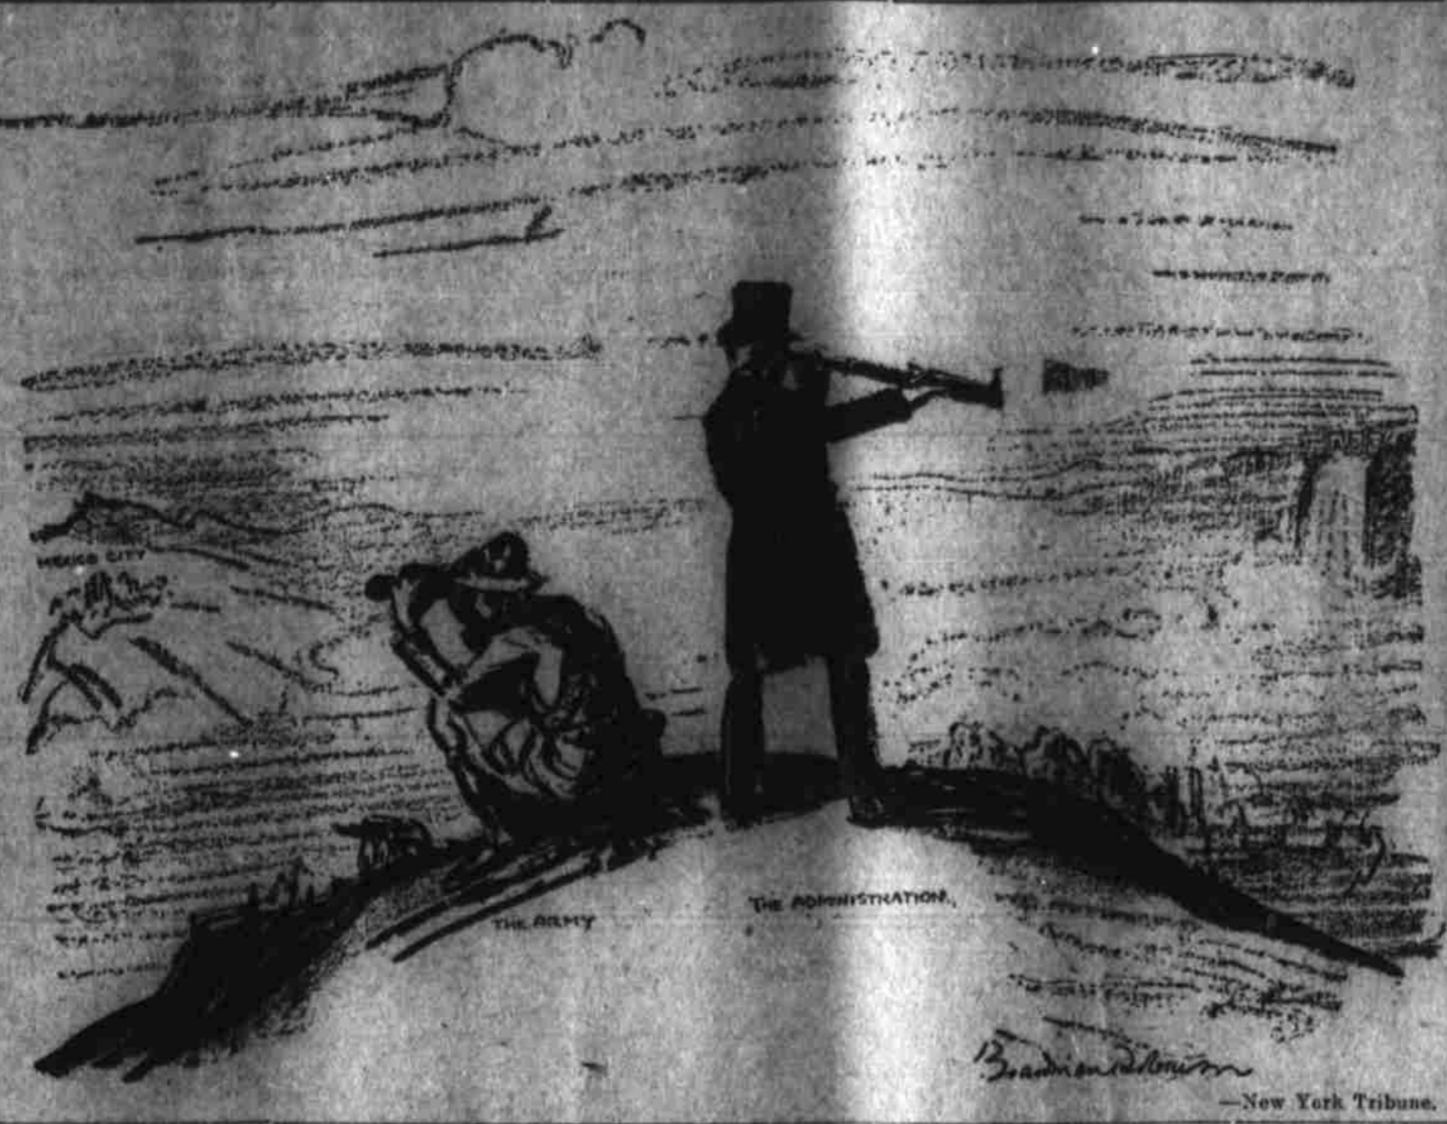

Such an investment will not only be one making for character and good citizenship; but it will save actual dollars and cents, by helping to stamp out Honolulu's deadly enemy—tuberculosis.

A Great Physician's Testimony

Personally I would be glad to see nation-wide and world-wide Prohibition. While I am not a teetotaler, I am a Prohibitionist. I am firmly convinced that the evils produced by alcohol so far out weigh any of its supposed advantages as to lead logically to but one conclusion, namely, the absolute Prohibition of the use of alcohol for any but industrial purposes.—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

J. S. MARTIN.—The Chinese pongee is all woven in hand-loom. The silk used in the short lengths, fluff and broken lengths from cocoons that have been cut, broken or otherwise injured so that it cannot be reeled into skeins. The threads are not twisted, and in weaving, the wool is beaten in. Just as our grandmothers used to do when they made rug carpet. The finest and closest weaves wear better than the heavy, coarse ones. Pongee silk is bought by the ounce, not by the yard. One peculiarity of this cloth is that garments made of it keep stretching all the time. The longer a suit is worn the bigger it gets.

THEIR POINT OF VIEW

THE ARMY THE ADMINISTRATION. —New York Tribune.

The Problem of the Unemployed.

From what I have been able to learn a fairly large proportion of the "unemployed" in Honolulu are what would be called "tramps" on the mainland, the chief reason why they have no honest work to do being that they carefully duck when accident confronts them with a job. I have gone out of my way twice recently to look up work for people who told me their hard luck stories, and on each of the two occasions the needy ones promptly disappeared when the day came around for them to get busy earning their own bread and butter.

And others have had like experiences, discouraging to those who are grieved at published reports of privation and suffering in these God blessed islands.

My friend Judge Stanley is one of the recent victims of misplaced sympathy and in future it will not fare well with any mendicant who taps upon the judicial oak and commences to unfold a tale of woe. The judge has listened to enough and hesitates not the least in saying so.

A day or two ago, it appears, a Korean descended upon the Stanley household and poured forth a series of laments, the high spots in which were to the effect that he was a hard-working man tramping the weary streets in search of occupation whereby he might earn a dollar and save his two children from starvation. He expatiated upon the children and the emaciation that had come to them ever since the tariff was reduced on sugar. The judge, with the memory of former experiences in mind, coupled with the fact that he really required no one to do any work, hesitated—and was lost. Thinking of those starving babies he told the Korean he guessed he could put him to work.

The information appeared to stagger the mendicant, but he trotted around to the back of the house for his orders. The judge called his yard boy, told him to get a saw and instruct the Korean how to trim up a few trees. Then he went back into the house for his breakfast. He had hardly had time to chip an egg before his yard boy was ushered in, who, pointing out the window to the Korean beating it down the walk, explained that he was sorry to say that the gentleman from the Hermit Kingdom had discovered that he had a sore arm and could use a saw under no circumstances. He had therefore left in haste to rejoin his starving babies.

And that is the kind of thing a good many are meeting with," says the judge. "There may be some deserving ones amongst the unemployed, but a good many of them are lazy loafers, trying to get a cheap living at the expense of the lender's heart."

The funny papers are filled with tramp stories of seekers for work balking at the woodpile, but after this Judge Stanley will find nothing to laugh at in that style of joke.

The Lahui's Platform.

"Did you see the Michelin Twos in the Floral Parade?" a friend of mine asked me recently.

"Yes, I saw them," I answered, remembering very well that double monotony puffed up one minute with wind and punctured the next minute down to wobbling flatness.

"Well," my friend remarked, "you ought to drop into the Lahui headquarters and see the two leaders of the party. They run the Michelines a close second for size and are even better in the wobbly-wobbly line."

I had a chance to look over the Lahui platform last week and it is a gem of purest ray serene. It demands among other things that the next government to be immediately dissolve the Immigration board, all the civil service boards, the board of agriculture and forestry and the license commission. These changes are provided for in the first two paragraphs of the platform pledge now being presented to prospective candidates.

Following this are a few other little demands, such that the mayor to be elected take steps to secure for and run for the public the street railroad system, the telephone system, the wireless plants, the electric lighting system and all the dairies.

Not satisfied with these revolutionary changes to be brought about by the wave of the hand, the Lahuis request the next mayor and board of supervisors to so amend the Organic Act as to make it impossible to name a Governor except from among those whose grandfathers and fathers have been lifelong residents of Hawaii and to prevent the war department from sending anyone to command the Hawaiian Department whose name does not appear upon the territorial voters' list."

"Where did you get all this?" my friend says he asked Kabaenilio, who proudly responded:

"That about the street railroad and things I got out of the Appeal to Reason, but that about the Governor and the big man in the army I got out of my own head."

You may think this is all a joke, but ask any candidate whom the Lahuis have approached and see if it is not about the whole truth.

A Cry to Arms.

Honolulu is to have a second billboard company, which is to start in doing business next week. This means, of course, that the Outdoor Circle will have to get busy again on its anti-billboard campaign, as a result of which the number of boards was considerably reduced about a year ago and those left to do business were spruced up and the main objectionable features eliminated. Giving the devil his due, my friend Charley Brazier did about everything he could to meet the popular demand except go out of business, but from what can be learned of the new company coming into the field there will be little considered except the almighty dollar and Honolulu will be plastered with anything that will bring in a nickel.

I trust that the energetic ladies who helped the City Beautiful so much in their last campaign will raise a cry to arms and get busier than they have ever been before in their lives. The present appears to be a real crisis. Better kill this snake before it gets more than its head out of the hole.

His Honor Unafraid.

"I shook hands with thirty-nine voters today," said Mayor Joseph J. Fern yesterday, as he puffed vigorously at a long black weed which a visiting malihini had palmed off on him. "Talk about politics, I think it's all right. I don't hear anything much bad against me, though there are some fellows think they will get my 'goat' soon. But I don't think so. As soon as I get my road gang working I have a cinch."

I asked His Honor what he thought of the rumored candidacy of Wallace H. Farrington. The mayor smiled and gave the glad hand to a passing voter. He also passed over to him one of those cigars "from the 'mat campaign,'" which Supervisor E. H. E. Welter had artfully got rid of shortly before.

"I don't think I be afraid of Farrington," said the mayor sentimentally. "You see, in politics there be one fine game to play. I don't think Farrington know the cards yet. He is young and may be learn bimeby, but now all he talk over is what he call efficiency. That no good for catch votes."

"How can Farrington be elect?" I inquired. "There's some things he must learn first. I no see him shake hands with anybody the way I do. What he know about a huan, anyhow?"

"Nother thing he way off. He no can drive automobile. You see I beat him all around. You see him smoke a seegar? I don't know. Suppose he run to a hula, you think he know anything about the Hawaiian movements? No sirree, he don't know nothing at all. No, sir."

"Now, suppose he run for mayor and we go talk on the stump, you think he can say like me: 'Na lede ame na koonimama, aloha kakou? No, sir. And what you think of a candidate who no can say that?' They make fun of him and no vote for him, too."

"I no think a man who belong to the Ad Club and paint himself up red with fenny clothes and walk around all 'hookano' with a wood sword going to make a hit with our Hawaiians on election day. No, sir."

"Leave it to Joe. He will be elect the next mayor of this city. Get me! as the hoolo say."

"Now, talk serious. If my boy drive my machine and the county pay for him, he's my son just the same. Suppose I smoke cigar, county no pay, I pay. What you think of a mayor who no smoke seegar? That what I want to know."

Small Talks

EDWARD FOGARTY.—I am not a candidate for office, thank you.

WILLIAM F. YOUNG.—I expect to make the Honolulu postoffice one of the best in the United States.

ED TOWSE.—There is no truth in the story that Kaimuki will set up its own chamber of commerce. This is not likely until it gets its own city charter and elects its first mayor.

A. M. NOWELL.—I planted six trees yesterday besides taking in the Memorial Day parade. What a magnificent showing Uncle Sam's soldiers make. They are a splendid body of men.

MAJOR DANKBERG.—Put me on the promotion committee and I show you how to keep Honolulu wet, without violating the laws, without running a blue-print and without using a water-bomb.

E. D. TENNEY.—I have been wondering that Mister Carranza, Mister Villa and Mister Zapotista did not about it after Mister Bryan and Mister Huerta get their grape-juice armistice settled.

T. M. CHURCH.—That attorney general is a pretty busy Injun. It is hard for the harbor commissioners to get opinions out of him but I guess he has all he can attend to and we will have to be patient.

MAYOR JOSEPH J. FERN.—I have looked up many stickies in this funny frontage tax business and the more stickies I look up the more stickies show up. This stickies study is certainly some funny kind.

EMILIO CARAMBA.—Those Spanish war veterans had one big time at their headquarters yesterday after the parade. From the noise they made I thought a new revolution had broken out in my peaceful Mexico.

WILLIAM P. JARRETT.—This is my last day as an elective officer in Honolulu. I retire to the security of a four-year appointive job, satisfied that Charlie Rose will make as good a sheriff as he has been a deputy sheriff.

THE SALUTING OFFICER.—I will retire from the force on June 15 and then I will go back to my beloved Berlin where even the

SOME REMARKS ON HIGH PRIVILEGE JONES

"Did I tell you about our new laundry?" asked High Privilege Jones. "No! Well, I'll put you next, right now. You see, it ain't been running long, because it took so long to build. Then they had a guy from Washington over here to put in the machinery. Well, he used to spend his time playin' poker over at the club. The tentente tells me he was a boob at that. He got pretty good pay, an' they used to let him win just often enough to come back an' drop the wad every month. You see, they need the dough, these tentente do, to pay their commissary bill, an' their club bill for supplies whatever that is. That's why they liked to see this fall guy slick around so well that they'd take retreat for each other when the game was goin'."

"What's that got to do with the laundry? Oh, nothin', except that while the boob was tryin' to fill up, or catch an ace or something, the Japs over on the job put the laundry machinery in wrong an' when they started it up for a tryout it was all geared up to run backwards. Then they got heavy an' fired the Washington guy an' had somebody else finish the job. That's why it took so long to build the laundry."

"Well, now she's built, an' if you don't believe it's runnin', take a pipe over at that smokestack. You'd think the engineers was runnin' a dressmaking or forced draught the way she's smokin', wouldn't you? But he ain't. He's just keepin' up steam so's to have the plant under control at all times an' keep the fans workin' inside. When there's too much steam, they let some off through the safety valve. Now, they don't use it, not much anyway."

"We got an order about a month ago for everybody to patronize the laundry. It's a real government laundry, sanitary an' hygienic. Also, it's infrequent. Here we've been a month or more, under orders, that's under restraint you might say, all because that laundry be so infrequent an' so sanitary. You know they keep us down to one locker of clothes apiece, because there ain't room in the quarters for any more, an' that means we got to have laundry every week. You simply got to have clean khaki for inspection every week, to say nothin' of these reviews an' things comin' off every little while. Not only that, but you can't look like you're goin' to town unless you got on starched khaki."

"Now, this laundry's been around a couple or three times this month an' done a little work, an' along they come an' charge us for a full month. If you sign the payroll you're stuck, because you owe it to the government an' it goes on the rolls. You see, they need the revenue to keep the safety valve workin'. What's the reason they can't get around regular an' do the work. Well, I'll tell you, I've got it figured out this way. There's about forty or sixty guys workin' in the laundry, all sizes, colors an' varieties. I don't know exactly if they savvy the laundry business or not, but they got a Hawaiian, an' a Chinese an' a Filipino baseball team, an' an All-Laundry glee club, a Hawaiian ukulele quartet, a Filipino string band, an' a symphony orchestra. If you don't believe it, go over to the machine gun platoon any evening when they're givin' a musical. Put down the laundry's got, ain't it?"

"I heard that they're goin' to send back to the Coast an' bring over forty landmines. You see, they figure that would be a good thing for everybody, but I'm bettin' that when that bunch comes over an' gets settled down here, they'll have a Wahine Kapu Club of their own."

Kaiser has sense enough to return the salute of a common policeman who knows his business.

WILLIAM G. HALL.—Business is good in Honolulu. People here do not know what hard times are in comparison with the stagnation on the mainland. There are more men at work in our machine shops than there were a year ago.

D. L. CONKLING.—Speaking of hard times reminds me that the Territory has not gone into bankruptcy and I don't think it will during the present administration. There is a good captain aboard and his pilot is not to be scoffed at, either.

A. J. C. ATKINSON.—The taxpayers of the City and County of Honolulu are awaiting with considerable interest the publication of Sheriff Rose's new appointments. The interest lies in whether he is going to build up an efficient police force or a political machine.

JAMES WAKEFIELD.—The sooner we get Kulo Bay dredged to its full depth the sooner the Territory can get revenue from the commerce that is coming this way. In another two or three weeks we will be ready to take care of the biggest steamers in the Pacific.

JUDGE J. M. MONSARRAT.—The law is a queer proposition. It can tie a man up for life and again it can set him free, but you will find that in most cases where a man has once been under sentence he is always anxious to get back to the old life. It's funny, all right.

WILLIAM HENRY.—I bought a horse the other day for fifteen dollars, only to find out later that he had two legs broken. Then along came the officer for the prevention of cruelty to animals and the horse was shot to death. This cost me twelve dollars more. Times are really hard, you know!

JOHN W. CALDWELL.—I dropped into the Empire Theater the other night to see a set of pictures that had been advertised by the press agents as humorous. In every picture three or four people were killed. I think the press agents should join the Ad Club if they want to learn how to be humorous.

JOHN DETOR.—When George Lycurgus returns soon to Honolulu the Greeks in Hawaii will have a consul, for the first time in history, I believe. After the consul gets here the next thing on the program will be the visit of a Greek battleship. Local Greeks are already preparing for the coming events.

POSTMASTER J. G. PRATT.—The mail carriers and postal clerks appreciate what The Advertiser said in their behalf the other day. One man could have delivered and collected all the carrier mail that went through the office Thursday, but Uncle Sam says every carrier must go over every foot of his route every day, letters or no letters.

DR. E. D. KILBOURNE.—The control of beri-beri depends solely on diet. A man who eats so much rice that he hasn't any room for anything else and so lives on rice for months at a time is very liable to become a fit subject for beri-beri. The Army doctors have practically eliminated this disease among the Philippine Constabulary.

JOHN EFFINGER.—The turning over of the Honolulu water works to some politician to run will be the signal for conscientious Democrats that the day of the straight ticket is gone. No man having the interests of the city at heart could think of endorsing or voting for men who would sacrifice so much as would be done by playing politics with the water supply.

BYRON O. CLARK.—The country districts in California are prosperous but in the cities business is very quiet. I have been getting twenty acres of land ready to plant walnuts next winter, and am growing corn on my hands. I have replaced my waist line several inches and all of ten pounds and I feel better than when I left here. California has a good climate.

G. H. EBERHARD.—Put thirty different brands of goods in a window and then have any number of men walk past and at a glance call what they saw—nine out of ten men see only their own brands. Color of labels has a good deal to do with selling goods. We have rebel sales on some classes of canned goods by simply changing the color of the label. Men eat with their eyes.

J. C. COHEN.—Any man who needs the salary is not big enough to be Mayor of Honolulu, because if a man cannot earn as big a salary for some private firm or corporation he cannot commence to start in trying to run a million-dollar proposition like the City and County of Honolulu. That's too big a proposition for any clerk or laborer to handle.

HENRY HUGHES.—For unmitigated nerve, these county road laborers on the other side of the island that are employed in repairing that famous stretch of road have about reached the limit. They have loose dirt on the road and with a slight shove it becomes a sticky mass. They then calmly wait for an automobile to get mired and hold you up for five dollars to get you out. If you want to borrow a spade, county spade at that, they charge you fifty cents. In the mean time their pay is going merrily on with the county.

CLIFFORD KIMBALL.—To hear the talk you would think that the beer saloon at Lelehu was never visited by the license inspector or by the military authorities. Fennell frequently visits the place and he has never found any of the things the writers to the papers tell of, while the officers at Schofield and the guard would certainly now if there was fighting at the place or men lying around drunk. The ones who have written about the saloon show by their words that they do not know anything about it, and making such sweeping charges without any knowledge of the facts is unfair. I know that there are a good many in Honolulu who would like to see the so-called Volcano House closed, and they are not all anti-saloon folks, either.

LOSS OF LIVES BLAMED ON MASTER OF COLLIER

Claim Made That Had He Kept His Ship Jammed Into Embress of Ireland That Probably All On Board Ill-Fated Liner Would Have Been Saved.

RIMOUSKI, Quebec, May 31.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Testifying yesterday at the coroner's inquest over the remains of the victims of the sinking of the Empress of Ireland following a collision with the collier Stordast, Captain Kendall of the Empress of Ireland stated that he saw the collier Stordast when she was two miles distant, and that at about the time of collision he stopped and rang full speed astern.

Captain Kendall stated that the Empress blew three short blasts and that the collier answered with one long blast, whereupon the Empress blew two short blasts and the Stordast again replied but two minutes later.

BOATS WERE CLOSE.

At the time of the whistling the Stordast appeared to be about two-lengths distant, testified Captain Kendall, at which time he shouted through a megaphone to the collier to back water and at the same time ordered the Empress to go full ahead.

Following the collision Captain Kendall says he shouted five times to the skipper of the Stordast to keep full speed ahead. He received no answer but was positive that the skipper of the collier could hear him.

The captain testified that there were plenty of boats on the Empress to take off two thousand persons.

BLUNDER COST LIVES.

James Rankin of Vancouver, a passenger, and noted as a marine engineer, said that if the collier had kept her bow in the hole made in the Empress that probably all on board would have been saved.

Chief Engineer Sampson was too ill to appear but his testimony was taken at his bedside. He said there was no explosion. After the taking of his evidence the inquest was adjourned for one week.

The steamer Lady Grey yesterday took 175 bodies to Quebec. The revised list yesterday gave the number of dead as 964 and 403 saved.

QUEBEC, Canada, May 30.—

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)—Laurence Irving, son of Sir Henry Irving, the great English Shakespearean actor, who was numbered among the victims of the sinking of the Canadian-Pacific Railway Company's liner Empress of Ireland, is reported to have gone to his death with his wife enfolded in his arms. According to members of the crew and passengers, rescued from the unfortunate vessel, Mr. and Mrs. Irving realized that they were about to leave this world and kissed each other a fond farewell, clasped one another to the breast and went down into a watery grave.

Latest estimates of the dead place the number at 964. The saved number 403, of passengers 201, and of crew 202.

Among the dead bodies recovered from the wreck are a large percentage of women and children. It is stated that the fact that they stopped to dress, after the impact with the collier Stordast, cost many of the women their lives.

The Stordast reached this port today, with a 14-foot hole showing in the bow, bearing mute testimony to the fearful blow that must have been struck the Empress of Ireland.

Roosevelt Declares Policies of Wilson Have Proved Failures

Insists Handling of Trust and Tariff Questions Is Un- satisfactory.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, before sailing yesterday for Madrid, Spain, to attend the wedding of his son Kermit, issued a statement charging the Wilson administration with failure to handle satisfactorily the trust and tariff questions. He declared that the cost of living is increased, that tariff reduction has failed as a solution of the problem, that business over the entire country is in jeopardy, and that small business men and working men are suffering from the effects of the administration's policies.

NAVY SHIPS SEARCH FOR MISSING VESSEL

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Captain William S. Sims, commander of the Atlantic torpedo fleet, has been instructed by the navy department to make a thorough search for the missing steamer P. J. Luckenbach. A message discovered in the vicinity of Charleston, S. C., a few days ago was believed to be from the Luckenbach, which vessel was owned and operated by a company from Philadelphia and was in service between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(Special Service by Federal Wireless)—President Woodrow Wilson today attended the memorial exercises in Arlington cemetery, the resting place of many of the illustrious dead of the United States.

Simple yet impressive decoration day services were held over the graves of those who gave their lives that the behest of President Lincoln for a united nation might be known.

The President was greatly moved by the services.

YONKERS, New York, May 31.—Robert McClure, brother of Samuel S. McClure, the publisher, was killed here yesterday by the discharge of a shotgun. Members of the family declare the killing of Mr. McClure was an accident. The coroner has reserved an announcement.

O'BRIEN DIES OF BULLET WOUND

Operation Reveals That Lead Pellet Struck Spinal Column at Base of Skull.

(From Sunday Advertiser.)
John H. O'Brien, who was shot on the night of May 11 by Marion Hawkins, died at the Queen's Hospital yesterday afternoon shortly before three o'clock. Funeral services will be held at Williams' undertaking parlors at three o'clock this afternoon under the auspices of Myrtle Lodge No. 2, K. of P.

The immediate cause of O'Brien's death was meningitis, according to the information given out at the Queen's Hospital.

On May 19 O'Brien left the hospital to testify at the coroner's inquest, and was apparently on the road to recovery. He suffered a relapse Friday and returned to the hospital where an operation was performed yesterday morning.

The operation revealed that the bullet fired by Hawkins entered the right jaw and struck the spinal column at the base of the skull. The bullet then deflected and lodged in the flesh of the cheek. The injury to the spinal column was the cause of meningitis setting in, it is stated, and caused O'Brien's death. The bullet was found yesterday in the right cheek about an inch below the skin. Dr. James R. Judd was in attendance upon O'Brien while he was in the hospital.

The remains of the young man will be cremated.

VICTORIA, British Columbia, May 30.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—The Empress of Russia arrived here today from Yokohama, having negotiated the voyage in eight days and eighteen hours.

This is a new record for this voyage, and a most satisfactory trip is reported.

PEACE DEPENDS ON RECOGNITION OF CARRANZA

Washington Pessimistic Regarding Negotiations Unless Rebels Are Allowed Representation in Mediation Conferences—Await Word From Wilson and Huerta.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—According to advices received here from Niagara Falls, a prolongation of negotiations by the mediators with representatives of the different interests is indicated. The view is held in this city that peace in Mexico will not be permanent unless the Constitutionalists are represented in the mediation conferences. It is understood here that the Huerta delegates have declined to abide by any action the mediators might take in regard to recognizing Carranzistas in the conference.

AWAIT REPLIES FROM WILSON AND HUERTA

NIAGARA FALLS, Ontario, May 31.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—A crisis has been reached in the mediation proceedings inasmuch as the question of admitting Constitutionalists representatives to the conference before an agreement is signed is likely to impede the decision of the United States on the plans already outlined. The mediators are awaiting the replies of Huerta and the United States to the tentative plans evolved for the establishment of a provisional government for Mexico.

Representative Urquidí of the Mexican Constitutionalists forces and Frederick Lehmann, one of the United States representatives to the mediation conference, were closeted today for a considerable length of time, discussing the attitude of the mediators toward the Constitutionalists party.

The mediators are discussing the character of the answer they intend to make to General Carranza, relative to his request that he be represented at the mediation.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, May 30.—On account of the absence of a large portion of this garrison in Honolulu participating in the Memorial Day services there were no exercises at the post. GOVERNMENT OFFERS TO BE OWN BOSS

Any Departmental Head Who Objects May Write Out and Sign His Resignation.

(From Sunday Advertiser.)
Governor Pinkham intends to be the boss of his administration and intends to be consulted by all the heads of the various departments before they obligate the government in any way. Any departmental head who does not like this way of doing business may write out his resignation and carry it to the gubernatorial chamber, where it will be promptly accepted.

This definite announcement of policy was made yesterday by the Governor and was given out by him for general application.

The first to receive an intimation of this stand of Governor Pinkham was Superintendent of Public Works Caldwell, to whom the Governor, on Tuesday morning last, outlined his policy, with a suggestion that if Mr. Caldwell wanted to write out his resignation on the spot he would find pen and paper handy and a chief ready to counterpoint the document with the one word "Accepted." The announcement came so suddenly that the superintendent did not have time to have his breath back before the Governor calmed down a bit and intimated that the resignation suggested need not be penned.

Colburn Reports It.

The little clash between Caldwell and his chief came over the permission the former is said to have granted to the Libby, McNeil & Libby people to run a pipeline over property claimed by the Kapiolani Estate, and publicly was given to it by John F. Colburn. According to Colburn, he had trekked with Caldwell before the Governor interposed in with it. The superintendent, says Colburn, has entered into a ten-year contract on behalf of the Territory with Libby, McNeil & Libby granting the right of way for a water pipeline over a tract of land owned by the Kapiolani Estate, and leading to the Kapiolani Hotel, also owned by the Estate. Colburn says that the estate was not even asked for permission to lay this line and his first knowledge of the undertaking was when he found a force of sixty laborers engaged in digging the trench on the Kapiolani property. He endeavored then to reach a settlement, he says, and falling in this called a meeting of the directors of the Estate and decided to secure an injunction. This was done through C. W. Ashford before Judge Robinson. The hearing came before Robinson on Tuesday last week. After a continuance Judge Robinson ordered the injunction dissolved and set the question for hearing on its merits before him on June 12 next. In the meantime the pipeline continued and the work is probably finished by this time.

Four Page Letter.

Colburn says he wrote Caldwell a letter, four pages in length, protesting at his (Caldwell's) action and objecting as well to his testimony before the injunction hearing. Colburn says Caldwell made misstatements of fact, and that he intends to prove it. After waiting some days for a reply from Caldwell and receiving none, Colburn called on the Governor on Tuesday morning. It was then that Colburn says the scene occurred.

A Warm Interview.

The Governor at once became excited, pounding his big desk and saying that he would investigate at once, as such things, if true, would not be condoned by him. He especially denounced the procedure of members of his force entering into contracts without first consulting him, upon whom he felt full responsibility will eventually fall.

The Governor, reports Colburn, rang for Caldwell, and learning that the latter was attending a meeting of the harbor commission, sent a special messenger ordering him to appear without delay. Caldwell responded. In the face of Colburn's charges he stated that he had not answered his letter because he wanted to consult with the attorney general.

"Consult with the attorney general," the Governor is reported to have said. "I want you to understand, Caldwell, that it is to me you are personally responsible, and that it is to me you shall report in these matters. I do not want a man who does business in this way in my employ, and I am prepared right now to accept your resignation. Other things also were said, but they were not recorded."

Respectfully Referred.

When the superintendent of public works was asked about this reported stormy scene, in which he, the Governor and Colburn were the principals, he respectfully referred the quest over to Governor Pinkham.

The Governor admitted that there had been a very fair foundation for the report given out by Mr. Colburn. He had, as a matter of fact, suggested to Caldwell that something in the nature of a resignation might be in order, but he changed his mind about this before the interview closed and told the superintendent of public works to "forget it," or words to that effect.

But hereafter, says the Governor, when any head of a department undertakes to bind the government in any important matter without first consulting him there will be nothing misrepresentable about the request for resignation, and this applies to everyone in the government service.

TRIBUTE PAID TO MEMORY OF DEAD

Impressive Military and Civic Parade is Followed by Services at Nuuuanu Cemetery Under Auspices of Civil War Veter- erans.

(From Sunday Advertiser.)
Yesterday, in observance of Memorial Day, the citizens of the nation met to honor the remembrance of those who risked life, back in the dark days of civil strife, that the flag might wave forever over a united country.

Fifty-one years ago Abraham Lincoln dedicated the following memorial on the battlefield of Gettysburg to the soldiers who fought that the nation might live.

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

"We cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow—this ground.

"The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here have consecrated it, far above our powers to add or detract.

"The world can never forget what they did here.

"It is for us the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have so nobly advanced.

"It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—and that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, shall not perish from the earth."

Rank Growing Thinner.

"The thin blue ranks" of the Grand Army of the Republic are growing thinner each year. One by one these heroes of half a century ago are mustered out, but "the world can never forget what they did."

Bringing flowers and tears upon the last resting places of our heroes, "we highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain," for that "new birth of freedom" and for the everlasting perpetuation of this government.

The little corporal's guard of veterans who wended their way to the Nuuuanu burial grounds through the sunlight of yesterday morning have but a little further to go, but "the world can never forget what they did."

To them and to their comrades who have gone before, the American people will forever render that homage which men give to those who place patriotism and devotion to the flag above all other civic virtues.

And the flowers and tears with which it strewn the sod above them are the tribute for the blood that they shed.

No man who loves this free land can watch a Memorial Day procession without a quivering of the throat—a catch in the breath—when the flag goes by. The martial swinging columns of bearded boys in brown remind that the million volunteers who fought fifty years ago were young men then. So it is the young men of today will be the boys of tomorrow who shall answer the call to arms when the honor and unity of the nation is in jeopardy.

Edwards Leads Parade.

The Second United States Infantry under command of Col. F. H. French marched at the head of the Memorial Day parade, which was led by Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards and staff: Lieut. Cary I. Crockett, Second Infantry; Lieut. R. C. F. Goetz, First Field Artillery; Lieut. James D. Dougherty, U. S. G. H., special aid; Henry J. Burns, department adjutant U. S. W. V.

Next in line was Lieut. Col. W. E. Ellis, battalion of Coast Artillery. The Kamehameha cadets under their commander, Lieut. A. J. Booth, Second Infantry preceded the twenty-two grizzled G. A. R. veterans, members of George W. DeLong Post No. 45, who formed the guard of honor for Governor Pinkham and his aides, Col. J. W. Jones and Major C. B. Cooper.

official stand where Governor Pinkham, Admiral C. R. T. Moore and General Edwards, with their aides, were seated.

After a song, "The Holy City," by Madame Alapai, Post Commander E. A. Strout of the G. A. R., read the ritual. Decker Entero led in prayer, and Miss Mabel Wilcox read Abraham Lincoln's epic Gettysburg Address.

The oration of the day was delivered by Judge Thomas B. Stewart.

Judge Stewart, in his address, declared that looking back fifty years the Civil War appeared to most men as an error of judgment. He said:

"The epitaphs of traitor and 'rebel' are not applicable to either side and should not truthfully say that they both loyally contended for home and friends, as they respectively understood their rights. I do not know how you feel, my comrades, but I, for one, believe that the Southern soldier should be viewed in the light of a sincere patriot. I pray that you today do not forget the confederate soldier's grave.

"The sons of confederates today form a large part of our regular army and I would have them feel that there is nothing in the record of their soldier fathers' lives that they need feel ashamed of."

At the close of Stewart's oration Adjutant J. T. Copeland called the roll of the dead, after which Fred Turill, officer of the day, led in the impressive ceremonial of the decoration of the graves of the departed comrades. Taps were sounded and three volleys fired by a platoon of the National Guard.

Thus, after the rendition of the National Anthem by Mrs. Bessie Abbott Howard, the chaplain pronounced the benediction.

MANY SEEK POSITION VACATED BY KEALOHA

News was received yesterday from Hilo that the Hawaii board of supervisors will take up for consideration at its meeting on Wednesday of this week the resignation of Supervisor John A. Kealoa, who is now in Oahu Prison, to serve a two years' sentence for the embezzlement of county funds. That the board will accept the resignation seems certain. After the acceptance Governor Pinkham will be notified, so that he may appoint a successor to Kealoa. Governor Pinkham stated yesterday that he had received a number of applications from persons residing in North and South Hilo, who would serve Hawaii county as Kealoa's successor.

In order to visit her husband, who was ninety miles away, Mrs. Albert Baker, of Eugene, Ore., recently rode on horseback 180 miles in four days, part of the time riding through a drenching rain. On the way she had to cross the Coast Range mountain, over heavy, muddy roads, and rarely found houses closer than five miles apart.

AUTO KILLED ON WILE ROAD

Car Driven By Unlicensed C four Mangled a Pedestrian Speeds On, Leaving Bl Victim to Die Where He Police Arrest Chauffeur ing Investigation.

(From Sunday Advertiser.)
Automobile No. 11009, fitted with tires from the Twenty-fifth Infantry and driven by an unlicensed chauffeur, ran down and killed an aged Chinese on the Twiwei road shortly before a 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The aged remains of the man was in the road while the driver, D. H. Hunt, sped toward Honolulu in a vain attempt to evade arrest.

According to Police Officer A. H. Jenson, the machine was being towed toward town on the Twiwei road, and was about the time of the collision to the right and passed the back Chinese, who was killed, was on the right side of the road in the same direction. The car struck the man and mangled him badly, but the driver never even slowed down.

Investigation at the morgue showed that the victim had died almost instantly. The patrol wagon was sent and as it was coming down King's automobile 11009 was seen speeding toward town. It was halted and driver arrested.

Investigation made later by Motor Officer Perry showed that the driver, Chenong, had no driver's license. The police were unable to learn, at night, the identity of the Chinese who was killed.

The occupants of the automobile at the time of the accident were Chenong, Joseph Parker, George Buckner and Hugh Covington of a visual company of the Twenty-fifth Infantry.

A full investigation of the affair be made by the police department.

ACTION BROUGHT AGAINST M'BRIDE

Charges Filed with Supreme Court Relating to Profes- sional Conduct.

(From Sunday Advertiser.)
Charges against Attorney C. H. Brice have been filed with Chief Justice Antonia Perry, of the territorial supreme court, having reference to Brice's professional conduct and to be based, to a large extent, on recent McCarr-McBride embroglio.

Chief Justice Robertson yesterday stated that the charges against Brice could not be made public at the time, as they had not been regulated in the office of the clerk of court. The charges have, however, been referred to Attorney General Ingham M. Stainback for investigation. It is expected that the investigation will be taken up at an early date by the attorney general's department.

While nothing definite was given yesterday by Chief Justice Robertson to the real nature of the charges against McBride, it was stated, through other sources, that the Freeman yesterday affidavit, which figured in a conspiracy case tried recently but the federal court here, is a feature of the impeachment proceedings or petition for the disbarment of McBride, was also stated yesterday that Attorney Antonia Perry, formerly an associate justice of the supreme court, represented McBride in the investigation of the charges which have been filed against the Hilo attorney.

TRUTH TRIUMPHS

Honolulu Citizens Testify for the Public Benefit.

A truthful statement of a Honolulu citizen, given in his own words, should convince the most skeptical about the merits of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. If you suffer from backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, urinary disorders, any form of kidney pills, use a test kidney medicine.

A Honolulu citizen tells of Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. "Could you demand more convincing proof of merit?"

B. T. White, Pearl City, Oahu, Honolulu, Hawaii, says: "I am ninety-two years of age, and I suffered from backache and kidney disease for eight years. I have given Doan's Backache Kidney Pills a fair trial, and have been greatly benefited that I cheerfully recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of 50 cents by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

STEAMER SINKS IN FOURTEEN MINUTES; PASSENGERS TRAPPED IN STATEROOMS AND GO DOWN

Survivors Declare That Captain Kendall Pleaded With Master of Storstad To Keep Vessels Wedged and Allow Gaping Hole In Liner's Side to Remain Plugged--Crew Does Not Have Time to Lower All Life Boats.

RIMOUSKI, Quebec, May 30.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—Latest estimates place 954 as the number of lives lost in the sinking of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland Thursday night following a collision with the Norwegian collier Storstad in the St. Lawrence river off Father Point.

The bodies of three hundred dead, victims of the sea tragedy, are laid out in grim rows in the dock sheds here. Four hundred and thirty-three persons were saved and of this number 396 have proceeded to Quebec, while the other 37 remain here.

The townspeople furnished clothes and shelter for the survivors as quickly as possible but despite their quick action twenty-two of the passengers on the ill-fated ship who were able to reach land succumbed to injuries and exposure following the wreck.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE DUE TO QUICK SINKING. The heavy loss of life among the passengers is explained by the fact that the Empress of Ireland sank fourteen minutes after the Storstad crashed into her amidships and plowing her way almost to the liner's screws.

Most of the passengers were asleep in their staterooms and the quickness with which the liner went to the bottom in ninety feet of water gave the members of the crew little chance for rescue work. Hundreds of the passengers never reached the decks. Many who waited to dress were drowned. The hurry in which the surviving passengers left the ship is attested by the fact that all were in their bed clothes or with just such slight wraps as they hurriedly threw about themselves.

MOST MEMBERS OF CREW WERE ON DUTY. That so many of the crew survive is due to the fact that this point is a pilot and mail station for the liner and a stop was made here which occasioned a large number of the crew to be on duty at that time and who had not gone to bed when the collision occurred.

It is reported that Captain Kendall of the Empress of Ireland begged the master of the Storstad to keep his propellers going so that the ships might remain wedged and the great hole in the side of the Empress of Ireland remain plugged but the collier dropped back from the doomed liner.

Captain Kendall was on the bridge of his ship as the vessel went down, but was saved from the wreckage, being found clinging to some floating rigging. He immediately took charge and directed the work of saving others.

TIME TOO SHORT TO LOWER ALL THE BOATS. According to the survivors every effort was made to lower the life boats, of which there were sufficient to take off all the passengers, but the time allotted the crew was sufficient only for the lowering of a few before the liner made her plunge to the river bottom. Besides Captain Kendall the first and second engineer and the surgeon of the ship are among those saved.

Survivors report that explosion of the boilers caused by the sudden inrush of water bulged out the sides of the ship and hurled many of the passengers and crew from the decks into the sea. It was from these explosions that many received their injuries, some of which later resulted fatally.

SMALL BOATS GO TO THE RESCUE. The first boats to go to the rescue of the survivors were the pilot boat Eureka and the mail tender Evelyn, both from this port. The former took 339 persons from life boats and the latter 307.

Of the 140 Salvation Army representatives who were aboard the sunken steamer it is believed that only twenty were rescued. Among the known dead are Sir Henry Storkar and Laurence Irving, son of the late Henry Irving.

According to the authorities an investigation of the collision will be started promptly. The Storstad is proceeding to Quebec with a badly damaged bow and stern and the story of her officers will be heard today when the collier arrives at that port.

Officers of the Empress of Ireland who survived declare that the liner was at a dead stop because of the heavy fog and was whistling a warning to other vessels of her position.

396 SURVIVORS OF SUNKEN LINER ARRIVE BY TRAIN AT QUEBEC. QUEBEC, Canada, May 30.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—A train bearing 396 survivors of the Empress of Ireland tragedy arrived here last night. Of this number twenty-nine had been first-class passengers, twenty-nine second class, 101 third class and 237 members of the crew. The survivors stated that 37 others remained at Rimouski which revises the figures of lost to 964.

Captain Bartlett crossed the ice to North Cape, Siberia, and proceeded overland to Whaler Bay. From there he was taken to St. Michael by the whaler Herman.

MEDIATORS WILL RECEIVE REBELS

Decide That Carranza Is Entitled to Representation in Conferences.

NIAGARA FALLS, Canada, May 30.—(Associated Press by Federal Wireless)—A Constitutional agent, yesterday delivered to the mediators a message signed by the Constitutional Minister of the Interior, Zertan, but written under the instruction of General Carranza, stating that Carranza had never refused to consider mediation and that he was still awaiting a reply to his request for further information concerning the scope of the mediation proceedings. The message stated further that Carranza is willing to send a representative to discuss the international differences between the United States and Mexico.

Following considerable discussion, the mediators decided to receive any representative which Carranza might send. There was much debate on the part of the mediators before Urquidí was granted permission to appear before the board, and it is understood that the American members are not in favor of the mediation proceedings.

LARGE CROWD WITNESS NAMING OF NEW BOATS

Impressive ceremonies featured the launching of the six-oared barge and the pair-oared barge at the Myrtle Boat House yesterday morning. It is generally accepted that no launching ceremony is ever complete, or even in good form, without the presence of the fair sex. In this respect the Myrtle Boat Club was exceptionally fortunate at the launching of their new six-oared racing barge and pair-oared boat yesterday morning in having present an unusual number of charming ladies, all loyal supporters of the red and white. A good crowd, estimated at between two and three hundred, gathered at the Myrtle headquarters to witness the ceremonies which marked this important event in Myrtle history.

At precisely half-past ten o'clock, Captain Crozier having had the barge brought to the water's edge, President Ferdinand Schneck in a few well-chosen words congratulated Charles A. Brown's loyalty to the club, extending over a period of many years, and called upon Mrs. Brown to name the boat which Mrs. Brown's generosity had, in a great measure, brought into being. The main stunts having been disposed of, the "James L. Torbert" was then put into commission with the following crew: Brian Birtler, No. 1; Campbell Crozier, No. 2; P. G. Johnson, No. 3; W. A. Ross, No. 4; A. B. Carter, No. 5; W. A. Anderson, stroke; Captain Crozier, coxswain. The "Gertrude L." and the "Torbert" went down to Bay No. 4, accompanied by a "scrub" crew in the old "Alice M." and raced in to Bay No. 10 "on the high," with the gratifying result that the "Gertrude L." without any adjustments whatever, finished an easy first, demonstrating her qualities, both as to seaworthiness and speed, beyond doubt. The men who handled her expressed themselves as delighted with her performance, and Captain Crozier stated that with a few adjustments, which are, of course, to be expected in the case of any new boat, she will be undoubtedly the fastest "six" on the harbor.

Amongst those present at the clubhouse were Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Brown, Mrs. Frank Bechtel, Miss Nell Conant, Hon. A. G. M. Robinson, W. C. Park, L. A. Thurston, C. T. Littlejohn, Senior, G. E. Schaefer, T. V. King, Lewis King, Professor Perrett and J. S. Bailey. As soon as the barge was clear of the clubhouse, the pair-oared boat was brought down on to the run-way, President Schneck stated that, as was well known, Colonel Sam Johnson had been unanimously selected the patron of naming this boat, as a small mark of the club's appreciation of his loyalty and support, and that while it was regrettable that Colonel and Mrs. Johnson were unable to be present, they had an able representative in Miss Nell Conant. Miss Conant thereupon received from the president a bouquet and the club pennant, and on behalf of Colonel and Mrs. Johnson, christened the pair-oared "Pearl O." Cheers being again in order, Colonel and Mrs. Johnson and Miss Conant were accorded three of the best, which the boys did full justice to.

PUNISH DUPLS EXHIBIT SKILL ON CANAL

Children Give Splendid Program of Exercises for Benefit of Parents. French Expert Estimates That 1,858,963 Net Tons Will Pass Through Waterway.

After a thorough study of the canal traffic question as it relates to the world's ocean commerce, two French commissions have compiled estimates of the probable tonnage that will pass through the waterway during the first year after its opening. According to M. Deavry, one of the trade experts who prepared data for the commission, the traffic will amount in the aggregate to 1,858,963 net tons, made up as follows: Vessels to or from— Tons French ports 94,408 Other European ports 1,108,442 Ports of the eastern part of the United States 655,118 Total 1,858,963 Shows Saving Via Canal.

In a comparison of the cost of operating ships by way of the Cape of Good Hope and the canal one of the commissions presented an example, as follows: We will take as an example a freight boat engaged exclusively in the transportation of merchandise and will assume it to be 4950 tons net register, driven by an engine of 2500 horsepower and navigating about 194 knots per hour, which would give it an average speed of 250 miles per day. The daily expenses at sea of this typical vessel may be estimated at about 3000 francs ($675). If this vessel adopts the Panama route in going from New York to Sydney, instead of the Cape of Good Hope route (actually the most frequented by freighters), the voyage will take fourteen days less, which economy of time represents an approximate saving of 42,900 francs ($9590), from which it is proposed to deduct 20,000 francs ($4500) as tolls for passing through the Panama Canal. (The committee's estimate of tolls, however, appear to be based on a rate of $1 per net ton instead of $1.20.) On the return voyage, according to a like calculation, the economy of the Panama route, when preferred to that of Magellan, would be two days, which would amount to 10,000 francs ($2250). Moreover, the vessel would enjoy the advantage of being able to accomplish a larger number of voyages per annum. This rapid calculation shows that all the commerce of Eastern United States and Canada with Australia will pass through the Panama Canal.

ASK FOR THE BIRD MARK FERTILIZERS ROTATION

One step in maintaining the fertility of the land is rotation of crops. Fertilizers play an important part in rotation in connection with cover or leguminous crops. You can grow your own manure as cheap as you can buy it, and improve the mechanical condition of your soil in the bargain. It takes fertilizer to do it properly and proper rotation is an advantageous as well as profitable to the grower.

Keios Bobble Ball Too and Francisco Barney Joy Has Easy Time Winning His Game.

(From Sunday Advertiser.) ST. LOUIS 14, KEIOS 3. Keio was handed a lovely package at Woffill Field yesterday afternoon, the St. Louis aggregation decimating the players fourteen times while the best the Japs could do was to do a little decorating on three occasions. St. Louis drew the right to bat last and the Keios took top of the war clubs with a determination to annihilate the King. Barney, though, had something on the ball, for Miyako flew out to right and Koshimoto and Takahama fanned. For the Saints, Zerbo went out on a long fly to center. Aylett swung wildly as a third strike and the ball sailed to center for a single in hand. "Buck" Hughes, next to the bat, fanned once to far rightfield, which Togashi failed to get under, and he fanned. Aylett got the ball back to the infield, Aylett was over the plate and "Buck" was at third. Barney hit to Miyako and he nailed "Buck" at the plate. Williams walked, but Peterson fouled out and the inning was over.

In their half, Keio gathered two and the St. Louis men long and long. Sogusa gathered a hit and moved to second on a neat sacrifice by Mori. Togashi fanned and then Barney cut in with a wild pitch, with Sassa at the bat, Sogusa going to third. Sassa was then safe on Aylett's poor toss to first, Sogusa scoring. Hirai popped up one behind second which Peterson just did get his hands on, but missed. Sassa scored. Hirai got as far as third when Peterson threw wildly to the plate, but Ahe fanned.

With the close of the second round the Saints had the game under lock and key. Schuman opened with a single and Janssen followed. Johnson then took the bat, and when Sogusa made a wild pitch the men on base had a need. A two-bagger to left from Johnson's bat cleared both runners. He tried at second while Zerbo and Aylett went out. Hughes singled, sending Johnson to third, and when Hirai failed to back Togashi's pop Johnson scored, Buck going to third. Joy took a walk, and when Williams singled Buck scored and Joy went around to third base. He kept right on to the plate, though, when Hirai failed to block a throw from the outfield. Peterson ended the inning with a pop-up to second base, and then the man at the gong gave it five claps.

A couple of errors, with a base on balls, gave the Saints one in the fourth, and a hit-a-sacrifice, an error and an out gave them another in the sixth. Seventh Is Lucky. Peterson led off in the seventh with a single to left, and Janssen did likewise after Schuman had popped out to Miyako. Johnson then poked a double to left, scoring Peterson, with Janssen going to third. Zerbo's single scored Janssen and Johnson, he going to third on a wild pitch. Miyako's best of Aylett's poke put Zerbo over the plate. Hughes then got one through an error of Peterson, and white Togashi, was throwing Barney out at first on his hit to right, Aylett and Buck scored. Williams ended the agony for the Keios by striking out.

In the ninth Keio got one more run. Sogusa was safe on an error by Janssen, went to second on a wild pitch, stole third, and then came home on Togashi's fly to left after Mori had walked. Sassa next up, popped out to Schuman, while Hirai fanned, and the game was over. Home Run by Asahi's Rightfielder Is Responsible for Four Runs in First Inning.

(From Monday Advertiser.) Asahi 6, Keios 1. Keio took another beating at Woffill Field yesterday, the Asahi turning the trick by a score of 6 to 1. It was simply a case of the little brown men of Oku outplaying and outbating the little brown men from far off Japan. Yet let it be said, Kimishima's crew is a mighty crippled one and pitchers are as scarce with him as are men's teeth. Opening the last half of the first inning on the mound for the invaders was a youth named Okano and that one-inning put him in the also-ran class, in fact in this round Abe's lurch clobbered the game as far as the final result was concerned. Okano started well but two errors put Araki at second, Koshimoto bobbed a hit and then Sassa dropped a throw trying to catch Araki looking at first. Nishi next up, received a pass and the poor handling of Kuriaki's hit which Okano threw late to third trying to head off Araki, filled the bases for Yamashiro, next to the bat took one healthy swing as the first ball pitched and the bat he gave the pellet carried it out to the leftfield fence. Araki, Nishi and Kuriaki crossed the plate in safety and in the race between the ball and Yamashiro to see which would reach the rubber first, Yamashiro won by a hair. It was a beautiful home run drive and gave the Asahi a lovely lead then and there. Maryama followed Yamashiro with a hit, but S. Uyeno popped out to short, Kuriaki popped out to right and Mamiya popped out to Okano and the inning was over.

Two More In Fifth. Abe's crew gathered again in the fifth inning. Nishi first up was passed to first by Hirai who had relieved Okano. Kuriaki poked a double to left and then Maryama scored his team mates with a sharp single to centerfield. In the seventh, with two out and Yamashiro at second, after his hit and another by S. Uyeno, went to sleep and Skortapot Mori staged the old hidden ball trick, catching Yamashiro a force out from the bag. Yamashiro took it for granted that Miyako had tossed the ball Uyeno hit to center to the pitcher. Instead he tossed it to Mori and when Yamashiro stepped away from the bag the latter took the ball from under his arm and touched the runner.

Keios Weak With Strike. As a pitcher, Moriama was all to the good yesterday and the best the Keios could get was a double in the opening round by Abe and a single in the ninth by Mori. A pass to Takahama in the fourth and errors by Komeya and Araki allowed the Keios left fielder and then catcher, to cross the plate, catching Yamashiro a force out from the bag. Mori and Abe of the Keios and by T. Uyeno and Araki despite his three errors, helped to pass away an otherwise dull ball game.

 SCHOFIELD BARTRACKS, May 31.—A peculiar accident occurred in yesterday's fifteen-inning drawn baseball contest between the Fourth Cavalry and the Twenty-fifth Infantry, when Kirby, who was pitching for the troopers broke his arm while delivering the ball. He did not come in contact with anything, simply snapped the arm off above the elbow. He was taken to the post hospital to have the broken bone set. Another odd accident occurred a few days ago in the game between the First Field Artillery and the Keio University team in Honolulu, when Miller, the Artillery short stop, seeped up a ground ball and in throwing to base struck his elbow against his knee in making an underhand peg, breaking the elbow.
