The Latest In Sports

What the Wrestlers, Boxers and Base Ball Artists Are Doing.

Jack Johnson took occasion to remark recently that no matter how clever a man might be according to the old English standard of boxing, he would prove a mark for the natural fighter of the present day. In all probabilities British authorities on the sport of the ring would not subscribe to Jack's views, but at that some powerful arguments can be advanced to support Johnson's statements. For instance, take the late unpleasantness between Bill Lang and Sam Langford over in London. Although Lang had had not been pitted against many of the British heavies, it was practically admitted and understood that he carried too many guns for the big fellows over yonder. If such had not been the understanding McIntosh would have selected an English fighter to oppose Langford. The promoter wanted the best man available and his choice fell on Lang. So much for England. In Australia Lang's standing was beyond question. He defeated all the rivals of his early career and he worked forward to matches with Bill Squires and Bob Fitzsimmons. He defeated these two and, before starting on his journey around the world, he made a close thing of it with Tommy Burns.

Two of the greatest pitchers in the American League met at Ponce de Leon Park in Atlanta, Ga., during the spring training trip. They are Russell Ford, the sensational spitball twirler of the New York Americans, and Walter Johnson, the Jouett Meekin for speed of the Washington team.

Ford and Johnson are close friends, and during the practice of the Nationals one morning Ford strolled out in a uniform to work out a bit before the game in the afternoon between the Yankees and the Otto Jordan's Atlanta Club of the Southern League.

Johnson was well warmed up by the time the New Yorker arrived at the grounds, and he was fairly burning the atmosphere with a fast ball that had a peculiar break to it.

"Where do you get all that speed from, Walter?" Ford asked the tall Washington boxman.

"Gee, I don't know," answered Johnson.

About ten minutes later Ford began cutting loose with his spitter, which is the freakiest of all freak deliveries.

"And how in the dickens do you make that ball break that way, Russ?" asked Johnson.

"I couldn't tell you if you paid me a million dollars," replied Ford.

And there you are. The art of baseball pitching cannot be taught; it must be natural. Of course, a pitcher can be taught when to pitch an inside or an outside or a high or low ball. He can be shown how to change his pace, mixing in a dope ball with his fast ones. But in a matter of curves he finds it hard work to instruct another man so that he can deliver the same heave.

Lajoie must go out for some new marks this year. Records already held by Larry are as follows: In 1908 he accepted 988 chances at second base, the greatest number of chances ever handled by a major league second-sacker in one season. In 1904 Larry cracked out fifty two-base hits, a high-water mark for doubles in the majors. In 1903 Larry made forty-three three-base

Kaiser and King

These Royal Monarchs Reported to Have Fallen Out.

An extraordinary scene, capable of only one interpretation, occurred at the Victoria station London, recently on the occasion of the departure of the Kaiser.

The King passed through the royal reception room to the platform talking heatedly with the Kaiser, emphasizing his argument by repeatedly smiting his palms severely, and so engrossed was the King in his argument that he was apparently unaware that he was within the public view. Suddenly, with an expressive gesture, the Kaiser turned away from the King and began talking to Lord Lonsdale. King George thereupon deliberately turned his back upon the Kaiser and commenced talking to the Duke of Connaught, without taking notice while the Kaiser bade farewell to the other members of the royal party.

Without further word with King George, the Kaiser and Kaiserin entered the parlor car, while the King disdainfully continued his conversation with the Duke of Connaught. King George seemed suddenly to think better of his position and went on board the car, bowed gravely and only once to the Kaiser and Kaiserin, without shaking hands. He then turned his back upon the Emperor and resumed his conversation with the Duke of Connaught and did not once look around before the train steamed out.

The waiting royalties on the platform were obviously aware of the tense significance of the occasion and stood around in gloomy silence. The effect of this sinister incident was not lost on the privileged spectators within the royal enclosure as the King, with a gloomy face, returned to Buckingham Palace.

hits, the greatest number of triples ever made by any major league batter in one season. To top this off, in 1905 Larry had a fielding average of .991, the best ever made by a major leaguer at the second sack.

Jim Delahanty says sliding doesn't count a whole lot in base stealing, and Del has tagged enough runners at second base to know. "Take Cobb," says Jim. "It isn't the way he slides that makes Ty a good base runner. They all slide about the same way. Cobb is good because he has good judgment in getting started and is fast. He is no harder to tag at second than many other players. A good slider who hasn't speed or judgment in starting isn't much of a base stealer. The good ones beat the ball to second base. Delahanty doesn't agree with Eddie Collins that the second baseman should straddle the bag. "The second baseman must play where the ball is," said Del. "The runner can't be tagged until the baseman has the ball, and the baseman can't straddle the bag unless the catcher makes a perfect throw, and that isn't very often. A play at second base cannot be planned, because the player taking the ball never knows where it is coming."

Ty Cobb announced last season that he was going to whip Hal Chase, but he didn't go through with it. During a New York series at League park one of the Yankees said Cobb was given a hit every time he got on first base in Detroit. Ty blamed Hal and said he would "get him" when the Tigers went to New York. Cobb asked Chase if he had made the statement. Fred Mitchell, the husky Yankee catcher, heard Ty's query and said he had done the talking. Ty looked Mitchell over and said: "I just wanted to tell you I thought it wasn't quite the square thing of you to say that."

Honolulu Newsletter

Racy Paragraphs From the Capitol On Current Topics.

(By Oscar Brenton.)

I sometimes wonder if the job is too big for Pope. That Hilo affair was given publicity in the press mainly because he did not show stamina enough to settle it without help. Then came the Kawiki affair in which the policy of Mr. Edmunds was departed from by the very persons who are looked to by parents to give the added touch to morality. Now the commissioners of education are on the lid and have been since Saturday. This time Honolulu is taking a whirl in the spot light but the case has none of the ill-smelling, nauseating features of those from the big island. The situation is peculiar. Principal Cox, it was recently said in the department, had been sent to Kalihi-waena because it was thought by Gibson and Pope that he could do less harm there than elsewhere. What that meant I do not know but I take it he is not considered much on discipline and as the school in that respect was at low ebb he could not force the tide.

Pope evidently did not reckon on the supernumeraries in the school. He overlooked the fact that of the dozen teachers employed there some are above mediocre; that they know discipline even if they meet it stalking in the dark. Nine of the bunch balked at being under a principal who was not a disciplinarian. They asked for transfers. Though they have a personal regard for the man who was superior to them in official life they protested to the department of which Mr. Pope is head. Then came the request, and an urgent one it was, that the protesting teachers write expert opinions of the school. A demurrer was at once entered because they did not want to go on record but they were perfectly willing to talk the matter over with Mr. Pope and tell him their troubles. Mind you socially every one of the teachers has a high regard for Cox. I believe they must have had a hunch that Pope was not to be depended upon hence the demurrer which was overruled. The letters were thereupon written and with in twenty-four hours the Star published the gist of one and on the writer of that particular letter falls the blame for the kick-up which Mr. Pope forced upon them. As to the publicity, the Superintendent denies all knowledge and assures the teachers that he did not give the correspondence to the newspapers. Pope can take the tip from me that he will serve the department better if he will expend some of the money appropriated for incidentals and buy a desk key.

Just as I told you last week, Hilo is in the opium swing and, according to Mr. Breckons, up to the neck. The disclosures recently made confirm the opinion that the authorities at Hilo are not as watchful as their oath of office commands them to be. It would appear that the matter has been done on a sort of wholesale basis and when any one was caught all that was necessary to get out of the hole was to pungle to the officers who happened to get wise. Of course the affair was tipped off to Breckons; the cases discovered are usually the outcome of some fellow on the coast squealing either to get a reward or make good with the officials though I cannot for the life of me see what "Sirs—The Mexican people, who generously have covered me with honors, who proclaimed me as their leader during a war, who patriotically assisted me in work undertaken to develop industry and the commerce of the republic, establish its credit, gain for it the respect of the world and obtain for it an honorable position in the concert of nations; that same people, sirs, have revolted in armed military bands, stating that my presence in the exercise of supreme executive power is the cause of this insurrection.

Phenomenon Says Diaz

Mexico's Former President Pleads For Mexico in Resignation.

President Diaz's letter of resignation follows:

"I do not know of any fact immediately credited to me, that could have caused this social phenomenon; but, permitting, though not admitting, that I may be unwittingly culpable, such a possibility makes me the least able to reason out and decide my own culpability. Therefore, respecting, as I have always respected, the will of the people, and in accordance with article 82 of the federal constitution, I come before the supreme representatives of the nation in order to resign, unreservedly, the office of constitutional president of the republic with which the national vote honored me, which I do with all the more reason since, in order to continue in office it would be necessary to shed Mexican blood, endangering the credit of the country, dissipating its wealth, exhausting its resources and exposing its policy to international complications.

"I hope, gentlemen, that when the passions, which are inherent to all revolutions, have been calmed, a more conscientious and just study will bring out in the national mind a correct judgment which, when I die, I may carry engraved on my soul as a just estimate of the life which I have devoted and will devote to my countrymen. With all respect.

Maui Racing Association.

The Maui Racing Association held a meeting at the Wailuku town hall, Tuesday evening. It was decided to add another race to the program. A three-quarter mile running race, free-for-all, was put on the program, and a purse of $250 provided.

There is considerable doubt in the minds of many both here and in Honolulu as to whether an excursion boat will run for the races. The Racing Association are determined to have a boat from Honolulu on that date even if they are obliged to charter it themselves, and from the present outlook this may become necessary.

A pacer was landed last week at Hilo from the Enterprise, and we understand he will be in Kahului on the Fourth.

The Children's Day services at the Makawao Union Church was one long to be remembered. The subject was "Songs of Flowers." The mass of cut flowers and Easter lilies were of great beauty. Two cages of canaries were hung near the flowers, and the birds sang during the whole of the service. Many of the members of the Sunday School took part by recitations. The Maunaloa Seminary girls had an exercise called "Decision Day of the Flowers," which was unusually attractive. Rev. Mr. Turner's subject was "A Cheerful Spirit." Elizabeth Laura Turner was christened.

Why Not Have a Poultry Show.

POULTRY shows are becoming more popular every year, and every town and hamlet on the mainland have their poultry shows, in which they take great pride. The attendance at the poultry show each year in Honolulu attests the interest taken by the average citizen. If something more were wanting, however, to prove that American thought runs largely to the poultry yard and hen house, it can be found in the advertisements that appear in many newspapers with reference to incubators, brooders, fancy nest eggs, and general poultry yard supplies.

There is a saying to the effect that at some period in the life of every man he gets the notion in his head that he could make a living by keeping a chicken yard. It is well known, however, that only a few of those who get the notion ever go quite far enough to put it to a test. One cannot walk through the aisles of a chicken show without being impressed by the fact that chicken farming is a business rather than a pastime. Those city and townspeople who "go in for poultry" from time to time take it up, as a rule, by way of diversion. If they go into it seriously, they do so without any intention of giving it more than a small part of their time. It is to most of them merely a side line. Yet with the prevailing prices for poultry-yard products, it might well be made an exclusive calling. Where it is taken up and followed as a principal matter of business it is successful. It could not well be otherwise.

But regarded even as a diversion or pastime for city and townspeople, it is not to be discouraged. In the production of food and foodstuffs every little helps. There are always some beginners who stay, and it is evident that the percentage of people who remain in the poultry-raising business as a business is rapidly increasing.

Whether the majority of men and women go in for poultry or not, there is hardly a question as to the universal popularity of the chicken show. Deep down in the hearts of all men and women, or nearly all, is a desire to have a place where they might raise chickens of their own. And when it comes to eggs, it is no exaggeration to say that all humanity stands on a common plane. Everybody wants them newly laid.

Wailuku and the other districts have many fancy chicks. Why not get together and have a poultry show. Such an exhibit would be not only entertaining, but an education.

The sanitary commission appointed for the cleaning up of Honolulu, is running the Board of Health a close race dodging real work. The only man who works on either board is the press agent, and he works overtime. The question now is: How long will a long-suffering public stand for being flimflammed.

The League of Long Ago.

(By William F. Kirk.)

THEY'VE got me sitting on the bench—I knew it had to come—Kid Casey subbed for me at third the day I broke my thumb; My thumb got better fast enough, but when I wanted back, "The Kid is stinging them a mile," says good old Captain Mack. "The Kid is running bases like a Murray or a Cobb, The Kid does this, the Kid does that, the Kid is on the job." And so I'm sitting on the bench, my spirits sort o' low, And playing memory ball games in the League of Long Ago.

I'm pulling for Kid Casey, and I hope he makes a mint, I help him every way I can, from cussword down to hint; He knows that I am for him, too—'twas only yesterday He says to me, "Old Leaguer, you've got ten more years to play," But I know that he knows better, and I know just what I'm worth—A man can't last forever in the swiftest game on earth, And so I'm sitting on the bench, my spirits sort o' low, And playing memory ball games in the League of Long Ago.

I played with Old Buck Ewing, just before Buck blew the game; I played with Jimmy Ryan in the days of Anson's fame. Then I was just a fresh young kid, and they were getting old, But not one slur they gave me when I broke into the fold. That's why I like Kid Casey, and I'll plug like sin for him, I told Mack only yesterday my eyes were getting dim, And so I'm sitting on the bench, my spirits sort o' low, And playing memory ball games in the League of Long Ago.

Banquet at Nahiku.

The employees of the Nahiku Rubber Co. gave a banquet in honor of Mr. Daniel Sylvester resigning manager of above company, who leaves on the 13th of this month for the coast, and who will make his home in the East.

At the entrance to the building where the banquet was given a large archway made of the tea leaf plant adorned on the outside with white flowers forming the word welcome, on the inside the words aloha. As we passed through this archway into the building the Japanese, Hawaiians and Chinese all stood beside a long table adorned with a collection of dishes and saluted almost with reverence. Then the Japanese arose and each with his Japanese cup of wine, gave three cheers after their salutation.

It should be mentioned that previous to this the party sat down at a separate table. Mr. Sylvester returned the toast, but the Japanese living up to their custom each wished for a separate toast, so Mr. Sylvester had to run the gauntlet by drinking to each Japanese separately. It seemed quite an ordeal as there was about twenty Japanese. Then began a meal comprising about twenty courses.

The liquors comprised, a German wine called Grather and beer. After the banquet the Japanese gave a little grand opera after their own custom. The Hawaiians played and sang on taropatches and ukuleles and danced the Hula dance, some with a great deal of skill. Leis were of course given to the Sylvesters and they even hoisted him in the air with hurrahs. Besides giving this dinner in honor of Mr. Sylvester's departure, they also gave Mrs. Sylvester a blanket with the Royal Hawaiian coat of arms and a Hawaiian flag in each corner. The Catholic church gave a beautiful meerscham pipe adorned with gold trimmings with Mr. Sylvester's name name inscribed, the date, and Catholic church printed on it, in appreciation for his services as an architect.

Board of Supervisors.

The Board of Supervisors held their regular monthly meeting this week, and the despatch of regular routine business took up their attention on Thursday. Water pipes were authorized for Kaunakakai, and the District Overseer was authorized to go ahead with the work. The Board authorized the signing of contracts for laying pipes to Auwahi by the Raymond Ranch. The Board is determined that proper sanitary protection is afforded where fish is exposed for sale, and has notified the inspectors that they must enforce the law.

In the matter of the proposed building ordinance, when that matter came up Thursday, there developed such a determined and well taken objection by several citizens that the Board did not feel like passing the ordinance, and it was laid on the table till the next monthly meeting.

Lahaina Lines.

The wedding of Louis Henning and Sarah Cockett was a most delightful occasion last Saturday evening. It took place at the residence of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henning. The rooms were beautifully decorated, and the ceremony took place under a marriage bell. Christopher Cockett was the best man, and Christabel Cockett was the bridesmaid. The Rev. J. Knox Bodel and his assistant were the officiating clergymen. Music was furnished by a volunteer orchestra. A bountiful supper was furnished for the numerous guests on the lawn, under the electric lights.

Count Von Zedwitz and other musical talent gave a fine concert for the benefit of the Shakespere Class at the Settlement House on June 1. There was a large attendance, and the music was much enjoyed.

The graduation exercises of Lahainaluna Seminary took place on Thursday. Full particulars will be given next week.

To Wives and Sweethearts.

Peter C. Sharp of Detroit and his two wives, Ann Catherine and Louisa, settled in the Sharp cottage today, and told of their plans to live together as a happy family. Ann Catherine, the first Mrs. Sharp, returned to her husband yesterday after 40 years of separation, during which each had searched the country for the other. Sharp and Mrs. Sharp lost each other in the confusion following the Chicago fire in 1871. Through the pension rolls of the war department she found him and came to Detroit from her home in Oakland, Cal. Nine years ago Sharp gave up the search and married again.

"If I thought my coming would displace Louisa I would go back to my nursing the sick in Oakland," said Ann Catherine, as the three sat together in the garden today. "She has been a good wife and married my husband in good faith."

Louisa is 50 years old. Sharp is 82 and Ann Catherine 72.

"You will bring me no sorrow, my dear," Louisa said tearfully. "There is room in this house and garden for us both. I understand it all."

Dope on the Mexican.

The American-Hawaiian S. S. Mexican which was at Kahului this week, was held for a few hours, while the local officers were searching for opium. It seems that the suspicious of some wise one was aroused while the ship was at Kauai. A wireless was sent to Stackable at Honolulu that the Mexican had dope aboard. Word came from the Honolulu officials not to allow the Mexican to sail until the stuff was found. The officers made a search which was unsuccessful, and the Captain thereupon took matters in his own hands and sailed without clearing, for Hilo. Further action by the customs authorities is now awaited with interest.

benefit could come to a man in San Francisco by being solid with officials of the federal government located in Honolulu. Hilo newspapers tell us of the intention of the officials of the government to tear the steamer Enterprise into bits in the attempt to locate opium. What I would like to know is: Who will put the steamer back to its original condition if the opium is not found? To tear a steamer to pieces means a great deal of inconvenience to the owners. It means delay, perhaps, to the passengers and annoyance to the men who want to come ashore and cannot. But with it all it cannot be said that it is a greater hardship than it is to the business men who are forced to come here and give testimony before the commissioner. George Cool, of the Hilo Tribune, a witness in the Hilo case, told me this morning that he knew absolutely nothing about the present case further than he happened at one time to have been in a hack with Barker of the Wilhelmina, the man who took dope ashore, and was stopped by Hawaiian officers to whom he paid the money which he borrowed from another witness for the purpose. And the man who advanced the money for the bribe says he had absolutely no knowledge of the purpose for which it was to be used as he gave the money to a friend who in turn handed it to Barker. Now there are two men who were obliged by mere force of circumstances to leave their business and travel two hundred miles in order that they might tell what they could have told before the United States Commissioner in Hilo and lost no time in the telling.

Following the style set by the Germans, or French, and followed by our friends in New York, Honolulu has a police dog that will police according to expectations. The other day a Hawaiian in running suit and shoes was suspected of sneak thieving and in a little while a mounted police officer was put on his trail. He caught the man but before he could get him to the patrol box the fellow made off. Once more he was captured in the college grounds at Punahou and again he walked away. Then the police dog was brought into action. He put it all over the policeman because he did not let the fellow get away from him. Also he did not get a glimpse of him and the marathon-dressed Hawaiian is supposed to be somewhere in the hills but if the police department will hunt closer in town they will probably find him.

Since the above was written my hunch has been verified. The hunt ended in the territorial prison where John Lua is serving ten years for burglary working with the striped gang up in Makiki. At least that was his occupation up to last evening. The little police dog has been vindicated and in a handkerchief wrapped around the fellows body was found twenty five hundred dollars worth of diamonds the property of Mrs. Grossman. In spite of reports to the contrary this is a case of history repeating itself. Nearly twenty years ago the city was startled with daily reports of burglaries and the only clue was the print of a barefoot. The late Frank Hoogs, reporter for the Advertiser, christened the mysterious burglar "Barefooted Bill" and that name has stuck to the fellow ever since. After twenty odd burglaries the man was caught by special officer Louis Toussant as he came out of a yard at the rear of Ehlers store on Ford street. He was tried and duly sentenced. Later, a month or so, more burglaries occurred and finally William's cell was searched and quantities of loot, recently taken from stores, was discovered. He had, in some mysterious way, made a get-away during the night robbed a store or two and gone back to his cell without discovery. Lua's plan was to wear a marathon runners garb and shoes under his prison suit and as he was considered a good man he was allowed to wander away and work independently of the other prisoners and guard. But he was not supposed to work private houses as he did. This is a peculiar case and one which will engage the attention of criminologists and humanitarians for awhile. It would appear to be rubbing it in on a fellow, the way this man has treated Sheriff Henry.

"Hilo High" is to have another teacher. Principal, to be exact, and he is not to go into the school without a full knowledge of what has taken place. This was the decision arrived at yesterday by the Board of Commissioners. And Cox is to remain at Kalihiwaena, Auwe.

Magoon kicks because the Advertiser refers to his sons as undesirable for leasing property to Japanese so they might put up a tenement in the residential portion of the city. If the elder Magoon is satisfied with the reputation he has built for himself he should not kick at any reference to his sons. The law of heredity still stands on the statutes. It is too bad for the boys.

I am a little disappointed in the admission of Governor Frear that he would be pleased to have a two year bite out of the gubernatorial plum. It occurs to me that there was no reason for an admission that he would be willing to get out at the end of two years though the politicians would be glad to have him not go in for even that short short period. No one knows any more about the governor's case than they do about the location of the federal building or when it will be built. Naturally those who are in the know feel certain that Frear's administration has not pleased Taft. They have a feeling, too, that Taft will not recommit him for the reason that Frear opposed Taft in the Philippine bill. It seems to me that it would have been more dignified in the governor to have stood it out with the mere request, at the end of his term, backed by his friends personal efforts, that he be reappointed. This is one of the things that could not be accomplished through the delegate for the reason that for personal reasons the delegate will not support Frear for another term. Mind you I say "personal reasons." And just why a servant of the people has to take any such stand I am at a loss to know. Kuhio must be taught that he cannot defy the voters. He must be made to understand that he is in congress because he serves the interests better than one with brighter intellect and keener perception.

Indians on Warpath.

Fired with revenge, a large band of Shoshone Indian bucks, heavily armed and with an extra supply of horses, has gone on the warpath near Little Rock canyon, 150 miles from Reno, and word is expected that they have taken their first toll in blood for the extermination, last February, of Red Mike and his eight marauders by the state police.

The mutilated bodies of four Reno stockmen—Cambron, Erramouse, Laxague and Indiano—together with the carcasses of their horses, were found by a herder near Kelly's creek in January. The state police took up the trail and after a 500 mile journey through deep snow came upon the murderous band. In the fight that followed eight Indians and one policeman were killed. A young squaw and two children were captured and are now held in the Indian school, Carson City.

The news of another uprising against the stockmen in the northern part of this (Washoe) county and on the border of California was brought to Reno this afternoon by J. G. Turner, a mining man. The Indians went from the Duck valley Indian reservation in northern Elk county and couriers have been sent out in all directions to warn the white settlers and deputy constables of the incursion of the savages.

The Indians are camped in tepees in Soldiers' meadows, near the scene of the battle last February, and have donned war paint and begun war dances.
