One Thing Which Never Tires Woman.

No sane woman ever tires of going to a wedding. Whatever her own matrimonial experience may have been, the spectacle of another's venture seems to inspire her. She is quite sure that nothing but happiness will result from an experiment grown so familiar that it no longer seems daring. She will not grant for an instant that it is ever a pity to spoil a good bachelor. She ignores altogether the possibility that the groom will prove a bad husband.

She is confident that every sweet maid of her acquaintance is good enough for the best man on earth, and sure to make him happy. And so she beams her benediction on the passing bride. She rejoices with her when the ceremony is safely over. For accidents will happen to brides as well as other mortals, and any hitch in the proceedings brings dismay to every feminine on-looker.

Some of these mishaps are not without a touch of the ludicrous. One bride, for instance, not long ago, lost the heel of one of her satin slippers as she entered the church, and was literally put in a rather unfortunate hobble.

Another in her agitation quite forgot to remove the indiarubber goloshes that were to protect her white satin slippers, and sailed up the broad aisle quite unconscious of the odd effect of her feet as they stole in and out beneath her petticoat.

But your modern Beatrice sees nothing in such things to laugh at. Her sympathies are with the heroine of the occasion, and she draws a breath of relief when the irrevocable vows are finally spoken, and smiles upon Benedict, who has dutifully accompanied her and is thinking his own thoughts.—Til Bits.

A Brilliant Retort.

After-dinner speaking is an art, and, like many other arts, its excellence has much to do with the mood of the artist. Some of the best of our after-dinner speakers sometimes fail, but it is not often that failure results in the enrichment of the world's store of epigram, as it did in the case of Lord Erskine many years ago. When Lord Erskine was made a member of that highly honorable body, the Fishmonger's Company of London, he made an after-dinner speech on the occasion of his first appearance among them as a member. Upon his return he said to a friend:

"I spoke ill to-day, and stammered and hesitated in the opening."

"You certainly floundered," was the reply, "but I thought you did so in compliment to the fish-mongers"—(Harper's Bazar)

A Reminder.

"That rooster reminds me of a man I knew once."

"In what way?"

"He has such a tame crow."

PROGRESS.

The Life of the Land is Established in Righteousness.

HONOLULU, NOV. 14, 1893.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

The office-seekers have it seems made a joint move against the government and are pestering the Ministers and high officials with resolutions and memorials. Something which calls itself the American League, and something called the citizens reserve besides the stale old Annexation Club, are determined "to turn the rascals out." The patriotism of these "citizens" is really touching. It moves us to tears, to see the readiness with which these nature's noblemen show their willingness to serve this, their adopted country—for a salary. Nothing is too small for these patriots. Policemen's billets or clerkships or the musket are all alike to them as long as an opportunity is given them to serve Hawaii and—draw a salary. We do hope that the ministers may be moved by such persistency and such unselfishness and give way to the plaintive howls of the Star man on behalf of the hungry flock. We trust that the ministers will not turn a cold shoulder to all these worthy "busted" shop-keepers and working men out of a job, and not tell them that they are perfectly able to run their own departments and attend to their own business without any suggestions resolutions, advices, memorials, yes, threats of the interesting organizations which, by the way, all have sworn allegiance to the P. G. It would be cruel and it would be wrong. That the civil service would go to Hades if the mob of incompetent and inefficient patriots who clamor for boodle were given the offices they demand, goes without saying. But what is that to them? Most of them have only been a few months in the country, and they certainly don't care a snap what becomes of the government or the civil service of the country, as long as they are rewarded for their heroic deed in attaching their names to the annexation club's roll, by getting their paws into the public treasury. By all means open the doors for all these strangers and give them all the offices, from the registrar of public accounts down to the messenger, demand no bonds of them, (because they couldn't procure them), but turn the whole crowd loose among the millions in the treasury. In a very short time the minister of finance would not need worry any longer over the surplus or reserve fund or the interest on the debts, or any other thing of any importance—because there would be nothing to worry over except the horror vacui which would seize the whole government.

But joking apart, is it not about time for all these boodle-seeking organizations, never mind under what name they are known to take a tumble to themselves and understand that a ministry which has the confidence of the revolutionary party cannot be dictated to by small factions of illiterate, disgruntled sore-heads. The present government counts among its members a number of wellmeaning, although according to our ideas, mislead men. They have undoubtedly the welfare of Hawaii and the Hawaiians at heart and have never intended to run the government for the benefit of any one or two factions or nationalities. But the constant importunity of the irresponsible element which—mark it well—neither instigated nor carried out the revolution, but joined the for the time being winning party when everything looked serene must be a source of deep annoyance to them. The leading lights in the annexation club, who now demand this and demand that were not very numerous on the 17th of January. Where were Hatch, McStocker, Walter Jones, Pratt, King and others of the present leaders on the 17th? Perhaps some of the men who were around and shouldered a gun will arise and tell us. But the serious question in all this clamor for boodle, is that one of these days the ministers will get tired and resign—and where would we then be? Do the men who do the howling now believe that from their midst a man could be taken who could fill the place of Sam Damon as minister of finance? A man who would have the sufficient confidence of the creditors of the government to stave off an immediate demand for a settlement and who could prevent a run on the Postal Savings Bank. If they have such a man, trot him out and let us have a look at him—Mr. Damon has advocated and followed out a very moderate and conservative course since he took office. We do not believe that he is very pleased at being minister of finance. What he considers a matter of duty has undoubtedly been the impulse which has made him drag the chariot of the revolutionary government to a certain extent out of the financial mud, but we doubt if he, any more than Mr. Dole or Mr. King, will be dictated to by any Tom, Dick or Harry, be it their own clerks or any stray loafers out of a job down town. Before they carry things too far a little reflection will be advisable on the part of the annexation club, the citizens, reserve, the American League and the rest of the boodle-seeking "patriots."

An American citizen writes to us in regard to the so-called American League, which lately has been organized as a secret society. There is something remarkable, we will admit, in the presentation of an address to an American Minister by an anonymous committee of something which calls itself an American League. The best joke, though, is when the committee of one hustled back to the Legation to tell the Minister that the League had forgotten the most important point in the address, which was that they were dead against royalty and the committee (of one) desired to correct the terrible omission. Where is the end going to be of this perfect farce? By the way, is the League aware that there can be no secret organization here according to our law, except with permission of the Minister of Interior and after the by-laws and officers of such organization have been registered in the Interior office? We should suggest to our correspondent to make a call at the Interior office and as certain who the anonymous officers of the League are who pack addresses to the American Minister in the name of the American citizens in Hawaii-nei.

A Pitched Battle.

One of our most popular business men, whose modesty keeps space with his hospitality, has lately removed his office from—street to—street. At high noon to-day his new office was invaded by a number of his friends, who had been invited, on the quiet, to "come around and see me in my new quarters." When the unsuspecting ones were drawn up in formal array, the host unmasked a battery of formidable weapons, from the depths of a capacious hamper, and, before the visitors could rally from their first surprise, deploy into line of battle, or otherwise manoeuvre for their defense, a rattling fire was opened from a dozen champagne bottles of heavy calibre supported by an effective discharge of ham-sandwiches and other equally fatal missiles. When the engagement became general, the host fell back upon his reserves, and brought up a supply of most "taking" salad, which was discharged at point blank range, full in the "faces" of the attacking force. The carnage was awful, but the colored troops fought nobly, and the main battery mentioned in the opening of this item was captured by dint of sheer bravery and perseverance, the guns spiked, and the corks borne off in triumph as mementoes of the fray—after the battle, the victory was celebrated in speech and song. "They sang of love, and not of fame, for some of them were beery; each heart recalled a different name, but all sang "Kate O'Leary."

An Opinion on Christianity.

In his dairy of the 15th of March, 1890, Minister Hsueh, quoted by the North China Daily News, expresses this opinion about Christianity:—

Those in the West who follow the Christian religion aim at cultivating virtue and loving men, not very different from Confucianists. But as to the books which the Church circulates, such as the Old and New Testaments, their allegories and stories of the gods are not equal to such Chinese novels as the Canonisation of the Gods and Record of Travel to the West. Every three-foot child knows that these stories are not true. When occasionally meeting men of learning of the West they seem to know this well, but are unwilling to say it out plainly. I have met some who say that in a century or two more science will be daily advanced and will put off all Christian books.

As to Confucianism, all with one voice without exception approve of it. Although foreigners are also fond of complimenting, still by carefully watching the tone the compliment seems in all sincerity of hearts. For the way of our sages is neither local, nor changeable, and penetrates deep into men's mind. To compare the sayings of Jesus Christ with Confucianism is it not like taking a piece of glass and comparing it with a diamond? Even foreigners are not ignorant that in China formerly the doctrines of Yah and Meh, of Buddah and of Laotze, made a noise for a while and then after a time died out again. Confucianism is like the sun and moon in the heavens, although from of old they are still brighter than ever. China had no intercourse with Europe, Asia, and the other continents. Now that there is intercourse all their religions spread from one to the other. Thus we know that Christianity will decline and Confucianism will spread to the West.

The Newest Commandment.

Once upon a time there were only ten commandments. Punishment followed their disregard. As time passed, other commandments were invented. Latter-day culture has called into existence a privileged class of individuals, who demand concessions inconsistent with law. By reason of wealth, position and supposed refinement, this class seek excuse from the rigid observance of any law that incommodes or restrains its comfort. Through this influence there has crept into existence another commandment, which, by reason of its "excusativeness," has become supreme over all the others. Society will neither condemn, nor punish, the privileged class, unless the charge is proven. It is not sufficient that the charge is made. This is the "fin de siècle" refinement. It permits the sin, but prohibits its discovery.—(The Club.)

The Secret of It.

Blimmer.—Salt-water bathing strengthens a man wonderfully. Doctor Knowit.—Shucks! What does him the good is the exercise he gets while wriggling out of his damp bathing-suit.

Pictures Taken by Sky-Rockets.

An exceedingly interesting English invention consists of a camera combined with a parachute, especially designed for obtaining photographs of fortifications and of the camp of the enemy, although pictures may also be taken for general surveying purposes. The parachute is snugly folded in a thin case at the end of a time fuse. The explosion sets free the parachute, which is protected from injury by means of a casing of asbestos. The parachute has a number of thin umbrella ribs, and these are forced outward and kept in that position by means of a strong spiral spring. From the parachute a camera is suspended, and a string held by the operator is attached by a universal joint to the bottom of the device, for the purpose of pulling the parachute back. The camera is fitted with an instantaneous shutter, operated by clockwork, so as to give several exposures at intervals. At the back of the box is an arrangement by which the plates may be manipulated the same as clockwork. A swing motion can be given the camera to obtain pictures over a wide area.—(Chicago Time.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions or the utterances of our correspondents.]

EDITOR HOLOMUA:

In looking over the Advertiser this morning, I see that a committee of the so-called American League called upon Minister Willis, but no names are given of said committee. Now there must be something wrong when they are afraid to give the names of the gentlemen who represented the American League. If they were true citizens of that great country they would not be afraid to allow reporters at their meetings or the names of the members to come before the public. More especially at this time knowing, as they do, how they have dragged the name of our country into the gutter by their so-called patriotism. But as the famous Dr. Johnson says, "Patriotism is only another name for a traitor." AMERICAN CITIZEN.

P.S.—I understand that at a meeting of the said league one of the gentlemen present stated that if any of the American citizens had lost the brogue they would please retire from the hall.

LOCAL NEWS.

The Alameda is due to-morrow evening.

The Kinan left this afternoon at 2 p. m. for Maui and Hawaii.

Mr. J. F. Colburn has disposed of his hay and grain business to the California Feed Company.

There is prospects of a big ball being given shortly by one of our most prominent citizens.

It is rumored, that a further instalment of arms was lodged in the station House last evening.

To-morrow Mr. T. W. Everett will sell at auction in Wailuku a number of yearlings belonging to and raised by Mr. W. H. Cornwell from his fine stock.

The Hawaiian National Band, will give a grand concert at the Hotel on Thursday evening—that day being the anniversary of the birth of the late lamented King Kalakaua.

The Miowera is anchored in the naval row next to the Philadelphia. The divers brought down by Captain Metcalfe are busy ascertaining the damages done to the vessel.

The Circuit Court is moving on slowly. Acquittals seem to be the order of the day which is quite natural considering the trifling nature of the cases presented.

Hon. A. S. Willis the United States' Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary called on board of the U. S. F. S. Philadelphia this forenoon and received the usual salute upon leaving.

The new smokestack for the Electric Light Works was raised to-day under the supervision of Mr. J. Cowan. The smokestack is by far the highest here, but the work was accomplished in a most satisfactory manner by Jos. Kela.

The generals, colonels, surgeons etc. etc. who are entitled to wear gold-lace and red stripes under the provisions of the P. G.'s military bill held a council-of-war last night. The U. S. forces have better look out for squalls!

The "citizens reserve" which is the name of a motley crowd of all nationalities, and all calibres armed by the P. G. is expecting to be called out by the marshal for services at any moment. What these "services" are to consist of none of them seems to know though, but perhaps they are to seize the Adams and the Philadelphia, and turn these warships into a Hawaiian navy.

A Point on Sleeping.

Never sleep with the bed against the wall, for health as well as convenience. It is unhealthy to sleep next to a wall because of possible dampness, and also, more serious still, because the breath exhaled is thrown back into the face and breathed again. Headache has often been permanently cured by pushing the bed to the middle of the room.—(Abeille Medicale.)

Mixed Drinks.

It is not necessary to use eggs for the purpose of procuring a most refreshing and nutritious drink. The following summer drink is excellent. Billy Cunningham will tell you that it gives him nearly as much pleasure mixing it as it does shooting pheasants and ducks on—well on the road to Waiialua. We will call it the Anchor Punch.

"Dissolve in a large thin glass a bar spoonful of sugar in water. Add one-third of port wine, one-third of sherry wine, one third of claret wine and a dash of Santa Cruz rum. Mix very well. Fill the glass with shaved ice, place a slice of orange or pineapple on the top and imbibe." If you thereafter don't feel like a better man, ready to renounce all work both in and out of the government service, your case is hopeless.

ZOLA ON JOURNALISM.

Power of The English Press Due to Anonymity.

Emile Zola, the French novelist, who recently visited London, delivered an address at a meeting of the Institute of Journalists, held at the Mansion House, the official residence of the Lord Mayor of London.

The subject of his address was "Anonymity in Journalism." He said, among other things, that the British press owed its power and unquestionable authority to anonymity. Politically the British newspaper existed only to satisfy the opinion of its own party. It has been thus made by a public which has not been broken into fragments by a revolution. It was different in France, where the fever of individuality carried away everything. The French, were always seeking to establish a Messiah, and indulged in ecstasies of devotion to the new god of the moment.

Speaking of the claim made in some quarters that the signing of articles in newspapers insured their success, M. Zola said that he was well aware of the evils of a system that had destroyed the authority of the press, completed the descent to a mere personal brawl. The spectacle presented was something heartrending. It must, he declared, convey a frightful impression abroad.

This distinguished Frenchman then went on to admit that in politics the journal which stands for a set of principles without individuality is far superior to the personal journal whose articles are signed and represent only one man's opinion. "It is in this way that anonymity inspires respect," says Zola. "It is not such or such editor that is taken into account; it is the collective opinion of the paper that counts."—(S. F. Bulletin.)

The Latest in Baloons.

A large baloon, intended to make headway against air currents of 28 miles an hour, is being made in France. It will be similar in form to the La France of 1884-85, but larger—230 feet in length and 43 feet in its greatest diameter. It will weigh 66 pounds per horse power, and will be propelled by a screw in front with a rudder behind.

MORTGAGEE'S NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE.

In accordance with the provisions of a certain mortgage, made by C ALAPAI to Issabella A Achi, dated October 5, 1893... recorded in Liber 145, page 248; notice is hereby given that the Mortgagee intends to foreclose the same for conditions broken, to wit: non-payment of principal.

Notice is likewise given that after the expiration of three weeks from the date of this notice, the property conveyed by said mortgage will be advertised for sale at public auction, at the auction rooms of Jas. F Morgan, in Honolulu, on MONDAY, the 20th day of November, 1893, at 12 noon of said day.

Further particulars can be had of Wm. C Achi, Attorney at Law.
Dated Honolulu, October 25, 1893.
ISSABELLA A. ACHI,
Mortgagee.

The premises covered by said mortgage, consist of:
All those premises situated at Kapalama, Honolulu, Oahu, and more particular described in a partition deed between W C Achi and said C Alapai, recorded in Liber 125 page 1; containing an area of 1-10 of an acre; and being a part of those premises known as Apana I described in Royal Patent, number 687, granted to Kelipueaini.
