THE "LOYAL" ADVERTISER.

A more glaring, sweeping, and untruthful libel never appeared in a public print than that found in the following extract from the Weekly Advertiser:—"The question is not—does the King seek political influence? but, rather—does he use his influence to strengthen the Hawaiian party? If so why? The answer to that question is the key to the whole political situation. It is because the whites set themselves against him, speak evil of him, try to coerce him, talk freely of the ease with which he could be "set aside" if they chose to exert their power. It is because so many white men despise the brown man, and do not even take pains to let their contempt be hid."

The free and disrespectful use which has been made for the Sovereign's name by newspapers and in general talk cannot be justified; but truth demands it to be said that this is the result, not the cause, of the "King's seeking political influence." If the writer of the above-quoted paragraph is not aware of this fact he is badly read in the last ten years' history of this country. Among those who were foremost in securing the King's election are men who are also foremost in disapproving of his seeking to influence "electors and elected." They hold that a Sovereign should keep himself unspotted from politics. But to say that these "white men despise the brown man," because they object, on principle, to their Ruler's participation in active politics, is base calumny. Is this the carrying out of the policy of "conciliation" we saw announced two or three weeks ago?

CORRESPONDENCE.

LEPROSY IN THE SCHOOLS.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Exactly what Mr. Parker in his letter, which appeared in your Saturday's issue, means to convey does not appear to be very definite. By its general tenor, however, when narrowly scanned, I should presume that the "late physician to the Queen of Madagascar" intends that the weight of his authority should be added to that of Dr. Fitch, in so far as that gentleman's advocacy of the non-segregation and lenient treatment of infection spreaders, is concerned. Dr. Parker thinks that there exists an unnecessary alarm, here, as well as in America, in regard to the contagion of the disease. If he interprets this alarm as unnecessary, according to Fitchian or Gibsonian rules of political expediency, it may be a reason, though a very bad one, why lepers should not be dealt with in subserviently to ideas of public protection, and in accordance at least with the general foreign sentiment as existent "here and in America." Mr. Parker, however, should not fail to consider the fact, that from one single case of leprosy imported here not more than forty years ago, the disease has spread to thousands, and that now, not less than five per cent. of the aboriginal population are afflicted with the disease, and that twelve thousand afflicted persons, according to the statistics of the Kalawao settlement, have already gone to "that bourne from whence no traveler returns." Neither should he forget that it has already started its ravages among foreigners. Pardon me; but the necessity for plain talk in a matter like this compels me to say that Mr. Parker is either very ignorant of facts, or lamentably absurd, when he says: "It seems to be thought the height of justice to apply to a disease a principle which, if applied to crime, would at once cause a great outcry." If a reasonable suspicion of crime attaches to any person, the authorities, whoever they might be, would be rightly esteemed derelict in their duty, should they fail to bring that person before a competent tribunal to weigh the case and decide according to the evidence. Has more than this been asked by any one here in the matter of leper suspects? Were we guided in our opinions by the utterances of Mr. Fitch, whom this Government has seen fit to continue in, so important an office as that of general medical supervisor of lepers, we have a right to suspect nearly every native, and many foreigners, as having the disease. Of the natives, he says in his Report to the Legislature of 1882,—"practically all have the disease"—that is, syphilis, and that it and leprosy, are the same.

What sign of unnecessary fear, or what semblance of panic has been exhibited here by foreigners, beyond the fact that a few have quietly left the country whom rumor credits as having done so to avoid the possibility of contagion to themselves and their families. Is it unnecessary fear; is it panic, when teachers in a quiet and unostentatious manner, ask (not demand) that scholars should be examined? And so with parents who have it on the most irrefragable authority that leprosy does exist in nearly all, if not in all, the Public Schools to which they send their children. Can they be accused of panic because they ask for a medical examination, and the removal of dangerous scholars—a thing which, if the Board of Education did half its duty, would have long since been attended to without even a request from either teachers or parents. Mr. Parker knows, or should know, that his crime simile is the very opposite of what he alleges,—that it would be far more fair to put it thus:—"That many lepers, long since recognized as such, are allowed their liberty today. The injustice is, not to the leper; but to the healthy community. What, I ask, would be thought of the Executive if it should stubbornly refuse to separate criminals that had been regularly tried and adjudged guilty before a competent tribunal? Such treatment is exactly what lepers are receiving here.

Mr. Gibson's own words, in the Nuhou of 1883, were: "Leave not a leper loose in the land." Had he acted up to them, the writer of this, as will as others in the community, could have forgiven him many of his other faults. ONE CONCERNED.

QUEEN VICTORIA, NO POLITICIAN.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—An article in one of your contemporaries—the Weekly Advertiser—in reply to something that had previously appeared in the Gazette, contains, in my opinion, a great deal of truth; but it is not all truth. I would now refer particularly to one statement: of Queen Victoria it is said, "she and every other monarch of England have been among the most active politicians in their country." I don't believe this; that is, I don't believe it to be true. I don't think any one who is acquainted with the workings of political matters in England believes it. Some English monarchs "have been among the most active politicians in their country," and their political activity made them unpopular among their people. But Queen Victoria is not one of those monarchs. In no part of her long reign has she been an active politician; but from the very beginning of her sovereignty has carefully avoided mixing in politics. To this fact is largely due—very largely—the loyalty and devotion of her subjects, unparalleled in the history of the British Empire. Queen Victoria "reigns but not rules." It is not denied that she has always taken a deep interest in the politics of her empire, but in no sense has she ever been an active politician.

Dick, drunkenness, forfeited a $6 bail.
Kianiani, same offence, fined $5, costs $1.
Tick, same offence, forfeited $6.
Akina and Ah Hong, assault and battery, each forfeited a $6 bail.
Chas. Molteno and Malika, disturbing the quiet of the night, remanded to 20th Inst.
Awa and Ah Sam, affray, fined $7 and $5 respectively. Costs $1.30 each.

Ah Chow, Leong Tong and Sam Chuck Sin were charged with burglary at the store and dwelling house, of Mr. L. Ahlo on Nuuanu Street, with felonious intent. Mr. J. M. Davidson appeared for Ah Chow and Mr. John Russell for Leong Long. Eight witnesses for the prosecution were examined.

Mr. J. M. Davidson moved that Ah Chow be discharged on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence to show that he had been connected with the house-breaking, that there was no evidence to prove that the articles in his possession were of any specific value, and that there had been no identification of the goods in question by the parties concerned.

Mr. J. Russell moved for the discharge of Leong Tong on the same grounds, except the second.

The motions were overruled and defendants committed to trial at the next term of the Supreme Court. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each.

Sam Chuck Sin, charged with having opium in his possession, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a month's imprisonment at hard labor and to pay a fine of $50.

Lahaina, a horse thief, was found guilty and sentenced to eighteen months hard labor.

The Anna is discharging rapidly. The Likelike and the Bishop are expected to-morrow.

The Iolani has already received 3677 bags of sugar. She will probably sail next week.

A sea-wall will be built between the P. M. S. S. wharf and the King's boat house. It will consist of mounded stone so formed that each stone will interlock the other, forming a solid structure.

Wilder's new wharf is progressing rapidly, piles have been driven beyond the middle of the wharf. It will be completed by the first of April. It will have water pipes running along one side, across the center and further extremity so that 3 vessels can take water at the same time.

Four large stones weighing each about 1 ton, and composed of pebbles and cement have been moulded for the foundation of the sea-wall on the Esplanade. As soon as they are thoroughly dry they will be laid.

THE buggy and express harness to be sold on Saturday at the room of Mr. E. P. Adams will be ready for inspection to-day. This is a good chance for those who need harness.

THE public has been greatly amused at Dr. Parker's statement that he had "a case" in Madagascar. The Doctor is to be complimented in stating frankly that "the man died." Some wicked ones ask if that was the reason the Doctor "left the country?"

IN some parts of New South Wales it was so cool at Christmas that a fire was a necessity. A week later the country was parched by the intense heat, and the usual disastrous bush fires occurred, in many instances doing great damage and almost destroying country townships.

ONE medical gentleman, at least, who was asked to examine the pupils in the schools, in conjunction with Dr. Fitch and Dr. Parker, has declined. He thinks, as do many others, that the board should be composed of medical men who are not, in any manner, connected officially with the Government.

THE foreign Representatives in Honolulu have, in consequence of their attention being called to a supposed increase in leprosy and a lack of proper segregation, conferred with His Excellency the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the subject. The Minister, being also President of the Board of Health and President of the Board of Education, was able to supply all information on the subject without the assistance of individual members of the boards. The explanations given by Mr. Gibson appeared to the foreign Representatives to be satisfactory.

AT a meeting of the Privy Council held yesterday charters were granted to the Honolulu Ice Works Co., the Kawalua Stock Co. and the Woodlawn Dairy Co. The Ice Works Company is a combination of the two old companies of Messrs. Foster and Wilder with a capital of $75,000 in $100 shares. The capital of the Kawalua Stock Co. is $100,000 Messrs. Paty, Patten and Dickson being chiefly interested. The Woodlawn Dairy Co. has been formed by Mr. Dillingham with a capital of $42,500, and embraces all interest in the Woodlawn milk ranch.

THE W. H. Reed is to start to-day on her sounding expedition on behalf of the Cable Company. A cabin, twelve by ten feet, has been built on deck for the use of Captain Jackson and Mr. J. B. Freeth, the explorers. It is well lighted and ventilated and has plenty of space between bunks, for the scientists to work at their charts and do their calculations. The machine for sounding has been securely fixed on deck, in front of the new cabin. The Reed is not expected to return for at least a month, and it is probable that she will commence operations in the channel between Hawaii and Maui.

SUGAR TAX REDUCTION.

Colonel Morrison, chairman of the committee on ways and means, has called a meeting of the committee. Colonel Morrison said that the meeting would be informal, and that it was not his intention to transact any business until after the recess. He thinks it would be proper to reduce the tax on sugar and will favor it. Representative Kellogg of Louisiana, when asked what effect a reduction of the tax on sugar would have in Louisiana, said that if accomplished it would simply cost the democratic party eight electoral votes at the next presidential election. It is alleged that Mr. Kellogg has upward of $75,000 invested in the sugar-refining business in Louisiana. A prominent treasury officer said that heretofore when tax on sugar has been reduced, it has not benefited the consumer in any way, as almost immediately the sugar refiners in the Hawaiian islands and other sugar-growing countries raise their prices. —Harford Telegraph.

The Annexation of Samoa by New Zealand.

It appears that the Annexation Act of this colony (says a New Zealand Journal) has been fully discussed by the Parliament and chiefs of Samoa, and that they have unanimously agreed to take steps towards obtaining annexation to New Zealand. The Samoans have been particularly taken by the large sums voted in New Zealand Parliament for education, for Native schools and land courts, and being a very intelligent people, fully comprehending the amounts and purport of the expenditure in various departments of the public service. The communication forwarded from Samoa to the Premier and Parliament of New Zealand says:—"The members of the present Samoan Government and other chiefs of influence, not in the Government, have asked me to make the following proposition to you:—Will your Government pay the expenses of the visit of a deputation of Samoan chiefs to New Zealand, while there, and the return back to Samoa; the deputation to consist of ten members and an interpreter extra? They are willing, and await this answer, to appoint a deputation to visit you, consult you, and, if clear and good to their mind, enter into a temporary arrangement for annexation till further news is obtained from the Home Government; a deputation also from your Government to come back with them, and further the scheme to fix it in all points." In a memorandum accompanying it is said:—"They are willing to go the full length of anything so that they can get a check on the Germans from taking land never sold to them, and a check on the consuls from bullying them so often. They do not want to be a Crown colony, but they desire to be joined to a representative one," and the statement goes so far as saying that should the Home Government decline to sanction action in the matter they are prepared voluntarily to take action themselves, and "declare themselves part and parcel of New Zealand. There has never been a better opportunity of transferring this group to the British than now. If not, France will be here next year, as well as at the New Hebrides. The last war vessel (French) from Tahiti that was here told the people that next year they will come and visit them and do them some good. The French priests do not want France here, on account of the ill-feeling between the Republic and the priests. Every Catholic chief, Protestant chief, and wild chief of influence is for joining New Zealand—hoping, wishing, and praying for it, so as to get settled in mind and in Government."—N. Z. Herald.

A Severe Gale.

London, January 27.—The wind blew a hurricane all last night and much damage was done in this city. Many persons were injured. The glass roof of the Westminster Aquarium was demolished during the performance. A panic ensued and several persons were hurt. A printing office in Haymarket was unroofed and a boy killed. Many vessels were wrecked and a large number of lives lost. Telegraphic communication with the Continent and also the Atlantic cables were interrupted for several hours. The storm also raged in Paris. Railway and telegraph communication was broken in all directions and the wires were prostrated. Much damage was done in the suburbs and many persons were injured in the streets. An immense number of lamps and windows were wrecked, trees were uprooted and chimneys demolished.

The railway station at Elmswell was hurled across the track. Seven bodies were washed ashore at Hythe. The steamer Vivian at Plymouth reports tremendous seas. A bark was towed into Dover with her masts literally torn out of her deck.

During the performance at the Port St. Martin Theater, in Paris, a panic was caused by the sudden extinguishing of the gas-lights. Cries were raised of "Tum on the gas!" The slamming of doors by the wind and the roar of the tempest drowned the voices of the actors. Sara Bernhardt's foot was wounded by a fragment of a broken window.

Many boats were swamped. The iron chapel at Newcastle went down, and the falling roof killed a woman and two children. At Leeds the roof of a dwelling collapsed, killing one and injuring four of the occupants. The small train between Durham and Darlington was twice stopped by the gale. Shops on the Isle of Wight were closed early. A lady was knocked down by the wind and had a leg broken. At Newry, Ireland, many houses were unroofed, the police barracks were made untenable and the police compelled to take refuge in the Court-house. The bark Nokomes, Captain Murphy, from Londonderry for Baltimore, anchored in Lough Foyle, parted her cables and was driven to sea. It is feared the vessel and crew have been lost. Reports from all parts of the kingdom agree that the gale was unprecedented in severity.—S. F. Chronicle.

The Court of Madagascar.

The English Court is so famous for its rigorous observance of all the etiquette of mourning, that British subjects may congratulate themselves on the superiority of their lot to that of the natives of Madagascar. In that anything but favoured isle, the people were forbidden for two months, after the death of the late Queen, to wear hats, carry umbrellas, or paint their hair—to say nothing of an interdict on the trades of building and weaving. And even these rules appear to have been a relaxation of ancient Malagasy customs. Of course, a people whom Nature herself has dressed in a "customary suit of solemn black" are more put to it to express the outward visible signs of woe than the fair-skinned children of the North, who get quite efficient effect out of a bit of crape or a cloth hat-band. Just imagine the consternation of society if on the death of a German grand-duke, male Britons were expected to abjure the regulation "chimney pot" and the national umbrella, while their mothers, wives, and sisters had to give up "tong exercise" and let down their back hair.—Life.

A Cruel Custom.

Next to the cruel check-rein, blinders are one of the most useless and ugly appendages of the horse-gear. They are not only useless, but injurious to the eye-sight. The London Lancet, which is acknowledged to be the leading medical journal of the world, condemns the use of blinders in the strongest terms. The argument used in favor of blinders, that horses are afraid of passing carriages, is weak and unfounded. A horse is not half as likely to be frightened if he is allowed to see all that is going on, as he is when half-blinded. If allowed to see everything, he becomes familiar with all objects. If half-blinded, every stirring leaf and paper excites a nervous horse, for the reason that he gets no clear view of the object, and therefore magnifies all half-discerned objects into spookes. Besides, the most beautiful feature of the horse is the eye, and if not hid from our gaze would denote sickness, pain or pleasure. Many a time would a driver spare the whip on seeing the animal's imploring eye. The ugly, disagreeable and useless blinders should be condemned by every intelligent horseman. Men never use them on saddle horses—why should they be used on carriage horses? Where one saddle horse is frightened a hundred carriage horses run away, showing conclusively that the blinder is a nuisance.

The Story of Chinese Gordon.

By A. Egmont Hake. Among modern soldiers Major-General Gordon holds a position quite unique, and the story of life as narrated in this enthralling volume excels all the fictions of all the romancers. For "Chinese Gordon," as it is the fashion to call him, has led an ideal life. A soldier in all the highest qualities that make a soldier, he cannot, however, be called a man of the world. He is no warrior of the clubs, no darling of the club windows of St. James's Street and Pall Mall. To him Conscience and Duty seem to have been the twin watch-words. He never misinterpreted the dictates of the former, and he never shirked the performance of the latter. His services in commanding the ever-victorious army against the Chinese rebels is one of the most stimulating chapters of modern history, and is narrated in this volume with patient fidelity and with graphic force. There may be in the world those who would laugh at the notion of a general who led his soldiers to victory armed only with a thin cane. But these are the same persons who would see no levity in the fact that the same man is at present in Jerusalem, where "he works at his self-imposed task, the reconstructive survey—half mystical, half scientific—of the Holy Sepulchre." To us the story seems one of rare significance, and we can congratulate Mr. Hake on the admirable disposal which he has made of the facts in his possession.—Life.

"This isn't a menagerie," sharply observed an irascible woman to a man who was trying to force his way through the crowd at the door of a concert-room. "No, I suppose not," returned the man, "or they wouldn't leave any of the animals here to block up the entrance."
