THURSDAY, DEC. 2, 1886.

TITLES, THEIR USE AND ABUSE.

In all countries where a monarchical form of government prevails, are always to be found numbers of titled persons. That is, men who, either from patrician birth derive hereditary titles, or men who have distinguished themselves by doing some signal service for their country, either in war, science, geographical research, saving life, invention, or introducing something that supersedes anything else, thus adding to the progress of commerce or the knowledge of mankind, and are rewarded for their services by a State title.

Great Britain, a monarchy on a large scale, has both these classes of titles in profusion, the hereditary article and the one conferred during the life time of its possessor. The Hawaiian Islands, a monarchy on a small scale, its population scarcely equaling that of an ordinary market town in Great Britain, has its titles, too. Here none of them are hereditary, except those of the Royal family. The others are all creations of the time. But our creative powers make up for the deficiency in the line of hereditary titles. They are even equal to the task of making Royal Princes. So that there is really no lack of titled persons in the country. In fact, it is said that the Hawaiian Kingdom contains more men bearing titles, in proportion to the number of its inhabitants, than any other country on the face of the globe. Our nobles, who are simply legislative dignitaries, are limited by law to twenty, or there is no telling how long the list might have become etc.

The kingdom is prolific in orders and decorations; but these do not seem to carry with them any distinctive title. How many there are altogether the writer cannot tell, and how many persons have been initiated into membership and honored by the badge it would be hard for anyone not in the charmed circle to ascertain. As just intimated, the decorations do not seem to distinguish their wearers as Lord, Lady, or Sir, So and So; but if you go to a fashionable evening gathering you may gather an idea of the wonderful abundance of these glittering ornaments. A breast or a neck without one is quite singular. Our titles run mainly in the line of military rank. The Generals, Colonels, Majors and Captains make a prodigious company. When introduced by a friend to Colonel A, Major B, or Captain Cook, you are naturally expected at your next meeting to give him his full title, as on the occasion of introduction. Call him Colonel, and it is all right, even if you cannot call to mind his surname at the time. Our Majors, for the most part, are of a modest, reticent nature, being apparently afraid of being asked to what regiment they belong, and when they had their last engagement. Captains are the most numerous, and are as plentiful as mosquitoes. One hears them addressed as Captain, and not to show a lack of respect, falls into line, and says Captain, too. But with the stranger a difficulty sometimes arises as to whether Captain So and So is a military or sea-faring gentleman. Although a practiced eye can generally tell that the Captain has never had a military training, whilst his own tongue reveals the fact that he is not a sailor.

But the titles which are the most troublesome are those given to Government officials through the newspapers, the DAILY BULLETIN included along with the others. During the past two or three weeks a grand opportunity has been afforded of learning Who's Who. The King, we all know and honor as our ruler. But why always refer to him as His Majesty the King? Surely one or the other is sufficient. By way of comparison reference is made to the Queen of the greatest monarchy on earth. In addressing her by letter or on State occasions, Her Majesty gets her full title; but in writing about her in the newspapers, she is simply styled the "Queen," or "Her Majesty," without the combination of the two, and the addition of Empress of India, etc., etc.

Coming to the respective Governors of the islands and the Ministers of the Crown, we find them with "Excellency" prefixed to their names. Nobody objects to this, probably, but the unfortunate newspaper reporters and compositors, who have a strong aversion to writing and setting up, "His Excellency W. M. Gibson, Minister of Foreign Affairs and Premier, etc., etc., then arose, and looking around in a benignant and omniscient manner, said, a-hem, etc., etc." It is a useless waste of time and money. A gentleman known a short time back as "Curtis," is now "His Excellency Curtis P. Iaukea, Governor of the Island of Oahu, His Majesty the King's Chamberlain, and Colonel on His Majesty the King's Staff, etc." A dozen or two others might be mentioned, including the gallant Equestrians-in-Waiting to His Majesty the King, but the foregoing are sufficient as examples.

Now contrast the Honolulu papers with the London papers. The London Times and other influential London papers refer to the Premier and First Lord of the Treasury, as plain Mr. Gladstone. That is, he was thus spoken of while holding those positions. So of all others, it is Lord Hartington, Mr. Bright, and so on. The office held by each member of the Executive is not repeated on every occasion that his name is mentioned. People of worth and distinction are too well known and too highly respected to require a string of titles always dragging after their family name.

The expensiveness of printing "His Excellency" about 5,000 times a year is no small matter to the printer. On State occasions, it is all right; but not day after day, and twenty or thirty times in one column. The Advertiser set the example, three or four years ago, and it has proved contagious. Would that we could wipe out the malady, and thereby save our readers from being afflicted with the perusal of what they already know, and our typos from ejaculating strong adjectives because of everlastingly stumbling over "His Excellency."

Let it be distinctly understood that these remarks are not directed at individuals, but intended as a running commentary on the un-called for repetition and too frequent use of honorable titles. This, by the way, reminds us that we have a Major on the DAILY BULLETIN staff, but he moves about incognito, having discovered that there were already too many gentlemen wearing that title in the Hawaiian Islands.

ELECTRIC LIGHTS FOR MARINE PURPOSES. Our remarks made yesterday in these columns on the use of electric lights for marine purposes have been disparaged by the P. C. Advertiser, this journal having stated this morning that "it (the electric light) has been in use at the South Head Lighthouse, Sydney, for several years past." What we stated is a fact, and the result of a lengthened experience in the most densely navigated (if we may be allowed the term) part of the world. It may suit at Sydney Heads where the coast is, so to speak, iron bound and steep-to, to use a nautical term, but it is undesirable for a coast line that shoals out for several miles. For instance, it would not suit for a light on Barber's Point, where a spit extends seaward a considerable distance. The approach to Sydney and the approach to London are widely different. We merely threw out a "suggestion" to the Hawaiian Government which they might do well to consider before moving in the matter of marine illumination. The writer has entered both Sydney harbor, and the Straits of Dover. If his memory serves him rightly, it is rarely or never, that a sea-going vessel enters Sydney Bay during the hours of darkness. The South Head light is a grand idea for master mariners in the offing, but it does not lead them through the narrow channel to the bay. By all means let electricity be introduced on the Honolulu lighthouse if it will improve the navigation, but be careful that it does not cause many a shipwreck as it has done off Dungeness. Fortunately, the white foam of a coral and reef-bound coast like that of Oahu, is always visible at a reasonable distance, but the entrance of the channel is none too wide to warrant a deep sea-going vessel entering by night. We maintain that the trade of the port does not warrant vessels being piloted in during dark nights, and to attempt such a measure by the aid of an electric light on our present lighthouse would be sheer madness. True, our ocean steamers frequently go out of port after night-fall, but the buoys are invariably lit up for the occasion. We advocate, for the benefit of mariners, a first-class paraffin light as used almost universally throughout the world for marine purposes. There are works extant that fully expound this subject, though we regret to say our library does not contain one. Far be it from our intention to "cast discredit on the electric light for marine purposes," but circumstances alter cases. Had it been a success at Dungeness, it would be in use at the present day, but proving otherwise, it was discarded and an oil lamp erected in its stead.

These reports are impartial and entirely free from any partisan bias. The book is on sale at Mr. Soper's (formerly Oat & Co.'s), Merchant street, Mr. T. G. THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

MEETING OF THE COMPANIES.

Last evening Engine Co. No. 1 met at their hall, King street, the foreman, Mr. Robert More, presiding, and Mr. H. Barber, secretary. The foreman, from the committee on decorations, in connection with the jubilee celebration, reported that out of the $50 granted by the general celebration committee for the purposes of the Fire Department, there was a balance of $10 on hand. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the committee for the highly efficient manner in which they had performed their duties as well as for their judicious application of the money. The matter of rendering assistance to John Pease, a sick member of the company and a sufferer of loss by fire, was taken up, but the foreman stated that he had brought the matter to the attention of the Chief Engineer. The application of a candidate for membership was rejected. The representatives of the company to the Board of Representatives of the Department were instructed to vote for the division of the Inter-island Steam Navigation Company's donation of $500, as recommended by the Chief Engineer at last meeting.

Mechanic Engine Co. No. 2 met in their hall at the Bell Tower, Mr. James T. Morgan, foreman, presiding and Mr. Henry Smith, secretary. Twenty-one members were present. The following resolutions, on motion of Mr. Henry Smith, seconded by Mr. C. J. McCarthy, passed unanimously:
WHEREAS, it has pleased Almighty God to remove by death the late William B. Wright, one of the organizers of Mechanic Engine Company No. 2, and the first member to sign the roster of said company; and

WHEREAS, it is but fitting that we should at least respect the memory of him who so faithfully served the Honolulu Fire Department in various capacities and the interests of this company in particular:
Therefore he it resolved, That by the demise of the deceased this company has lost an exemplary fireman, the Government a faithful employee, and his widow a kind and devoted husband;

Resolved, That this company condole with the family of the deceased in their bereavement and pray that the All-wise would have them in His keeping;
Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the company, and a copy thereof be forwarded to the widow of the deceased.

The company's representatives were instructed to vote in favor of the division of the I. I. S. N. Co.'s donation.

Protection Hook and Ladder Company met also at the Bell Tower, in their Hall, Mr. George Norton, foreman, presiding, and Mr. G. Rose, secretary. Twelve members were present. A vote of thanks was passed to the committee on decorations, their report being received and adopted. Six new members were elected. The representatives were instructed to vote in favor of the Chief Engineer's proposal to divide the I. I. S. N. Co.'s donation among the companies.

PROBATE DIVISION.

THURSDAY, Dec. 2d.
In the estate of J. M. Daigle before the Chief Justice, yesterday, the Court filed its decision modifying the Master's finding of the worth of the widow's dower, by making the expectation of her life 40 years instead of 30. Amount allowed is $475.05, which is $38.30 more than the previous computation by the Master.

BANKRUPTCY OF J. LYONS.
Before Judge Preston. J. Lyons, auctioneer, appeared before His Honor and prayed that he be adjudged a bankrupt. The Court adjudged him bankrupt and appointed Thursday, January 13th, 1887, the day for proof for claims and election of assignees. The heaviest creditors are in San Francisco, the largest creditor in Honolulu being G. Houghtaling, whose claim amounts to $1,000. The bankrupt's assets are $5,380.02, liabilities $16,637.34. Value of goods on consignments $5,940.10; total assets, $11,320.12. The Marshal was ordered to take possession of the bankrupt's property and to dispose of the perishable goods by removing them to the auction rooms of E. P. Adams & Co. R. F. Bickerton for settlor.

THE HULA.
EDITOR BULLETIN.—An article in last Tuesday's Gazette in regard to the Historical Tableau, in the Music Hall on last Saturday night, criticizes very severely, the last scene, where Kamehameha the first is represented as having conquered Maui, and takes to wife the daughter of a Chiefess of high rank. It says that "during the evening a number of extra hula dancers were introduced onto the stage, and a first class hula dance was given to the audience, with all the ancient motions thrown in, to the intense disgust of many, and the delight of a few who are willing to worship at the shrine of anything, that has a tendency to demoralize or degrade."
It must require a very vivid imagination, to see, in the marching of about 20 girls, up and down the stage, the vulgar posturing of an ancient hula. And in defense of the few who were not disgusted the writer would say, that the representation put on the stage on Saturday night, was as much like an ancient hula as a polka or waltz is like the dance in the Black Crook or the can-can, and one who had never seen a hula could no more imagine what it was like, from that representation, than he could what the can-can is like from witnessing a quadrille. Although I do not believe in encouraging ancient heathen practices of any kind, yet when they are brought up as on Saturday night last to represent an epoch of the country's history, and that an eventful one, they should be criticized, if at all, at least truthfully, and not cast reflections on the audience for witnessing what was in reality a very, very tame imitation of the "King's hula girls."

BRAIN ACTION IN CHILDREN.

In The Archives de Pediatrics Dr. Warner remarks that in every attempt to control brain action in children, or to aid its action, two factors are needed—nutrition, and forces acting upon the brain directing that nutrition; a less coordinated, steady uniform kind of action may be desired—that is, the child may be healthy, but stupid, fat and very slow, strong, but inert—in which case town-life and more stimulating food may be needed. As to articles of diet, Dr. Warner says that meat, broth and beef tea appear to produce a stimulating effect upon the nerve-system of children, increasing the quantity and brain-stimulating quality of the blood; it may be specially useful in some cases of dull-brained children. But farinaceous foods, in contrast to meat, offer the choice of dietary of great importance, being less stimulating, more quieting, less suitable to excite brain evolution, more adapted for cases of nervous excitability, especially if combined with fats—in such cases hydrocarbonaceous rather than nitrogenous diets being needed. Dr. Warner further states that arsenic, administered to children with their food, has often appeared to him to be a great aid to nerve growth.—[Chicago Tribune.]

Let me have a mild CIGAR

THE ABOVE REQUEST IS HEARD daily in cigar stores, saloons and other places where cigars are sold, for it is an undisputed fact that most smokers prefer a mild cigar and that those who have for a long time smoked strong cigars, (principally imported Manila), will, after having thoroughly injured the stomach and impaired the nervous system, surely want a mild cigar, if they could find the right kind.

How many thousands of smokers who suffer from loss of appetite, headache, nervous irritability, asthma, etc., and who have tried all possible remedies without success, might be cured if they knew that their sufferings were caused by the intemperate use of strong cigars, and that they should only smoke mild and properly prepared ones.

It is a fact that all mild cigars agree well with smokers, for in most cases there is a lack of care in the selection of the tobacco, and often the necessary experience for it is wanting, yet there is one brand which suits the most fastidious smoker, and that is

ENGELBRECHT'S

"Sampler" Health Cigar

Which is made from mild, aromatic and particularly selected and prepared tobacco, and combines all the qualities which may be expected from a health cigar. It causes no bad effect of any kind, is agreeable to the taste, burns evenly to the end and possesses a fine aroma. No smoker should fail to give Engelbrecht's "Sampler" Cigar

A fair trial, and benefit himself at the same time.

Great Excitement in Wales about a Marvellous Cure.
Living Six Years Without Going to Bed.

Mr. Editor:—While spending a few days at the pleasant seaside town of Aberystwyth, Cardiganshire, Wales, I heard related what seemed to me either a fabulous story or a marvellous cure. The story was that a poor sufferer who had not been able to lie down in bed for six long years, given up to the doctors, had been cured by some Patent Medicine. It was related with the more implicit confidence from the circumstance, as was said, that the Vicar of Llanyrtyd was familiar with the facts, and could vouch for the truth of the report.
Having a little curiosity to know how such stories grow in travelling, I took the liberty while at the village of Llanyrtyd to call upon the Vicar, the Rev. T. Evans, and to inquire about this wonderful cure. Though a total stranger to him, both he and his wife most graciously entertained me in a half hour's conversation, principally touching the case of Mr. Pugh, in which they seemed to take a deep and sympathetic interest, having been familiar with his sufferings, and now rejoiced in what seemed to them a most remarkable cure. The Vicar remarked that he presumed his name had been connected with the report from his having mentioned the case to Mr. John Thomas, a chemist of Llano. He said Mr. Pugh was formerly a resident of their parish, but now living in the parish of Llanidolau.
He strongly vouched Mr. Wm. Pugh's character as a respectable farmer and worthy of credit. I left the venerable Vicar with a livelier sense of the happy relation of a pastor and people, feeling that he was one who truly sympathized with all who are afflicted in mind, body, or estate.
On my return to Aberystwyth, I was impressed with a desire to see Mr. Pugh, whose reputation stood so high. His farm is called Panoem-Mawr, signifying "above the dingle," situated near the summit of a smooth round hill, overlooking a beautiful vale, in which is situated the lovely ivy-mantled Church of Llanidolau. I found Mr. Pugh, apparently about 40 years old, of medium height, rather slight, with a pleasant and intelligent face. I told him I had heard of his great affliction and of his remarkable and almost miraculous relief, and that I had come to learn from his own lips, what there was of truth in the reports.
Mr. Pugh remarked that his neighbors had taken a kindly and sympathetic interest in his case for many years, but of late their interest had been greatly awakened by a happy change in his condition. What you report as having heard abroad, said he, is substantially true, with one exception. I never understood that my case was ever given up as hopeless by any Physician. I have been treated by several doctors hereabouts as good as any in Wales, but unfortunately no prescription of theirs ever brought the desired relief.
Fifteen years ago, he said, I first became conscious of a sour and deranged stomach and loss of appetite, which the doctors told me was Dyspepsia. What food I could hold in my stomach seemed to do me no good and was often thrown up with painful retchings. This was followed after a time with a hoarseness and a raw soreness of the throat which the doctors called bronchitis, and I was treated for that, but with little success. Then came shortness of breath and a sense of suffocation, especially at night, with clammy sweat, and I would have to get out of bed and sometimes open a door or window in winter weather to fill my lungs with the cold air.
About six years ago I became so bad that I could not sleep in bed, but had to take my unquiet rest and dreamy sleep sitting in an armchair. My affliction seemed to be working downward into my bowels as well as upward, which the doctors said was dysentery, and I was treated with various medicines which grew more frequent, my abdomen would expand and collapse and at times it would seem that I should suffocate. All this time I was reduced in strength so that I could perform no hard labor and my spirits were consequently much depressed.
This medicine they administered to me according to the directions, when to their surprise and delight no less than my own, the spasm ceased. I became at ease, and my stomach was calmed. My bowels were moved as by a gentle cathartic, and I felt a sense of quiet comfort all through such as I had not before realized in many years. I could walk around the house and breathe comfortably in a few hours after I had taken the medicine. I have continued to take the medicine daily now for something over two months, and I can lie down and sleep sweetly at nights and have not since had a recurrence of those terrible spasms and sweatings. I have been so long broken down and reduced in my whole system that I have not tried to perform any very hard outdoor labor, deeming it best to be prudent lest by over-exertion I may do myself injury before my strength is fully restored. I feel that my stomach and bowels have been and are being thoroughly renovated and renewed by the medicine. In fact I feel like a new man.
Early in this last spring I had a still more severe spasmodic attack, and my family and neighbors became alarmed, believing that certainly I would not survive, when a neighbor, who had some knowledge, or had heard of the medicine, sent to Aberystwyth by the driver of the Omnibus Post, seven miles distant, and fetched a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup.
I have been much congratulated by my neighbors, especially by the good Vicar of Llanyrtyd, who with his sympathetic wife have come three miles to shed tears of joy on my recovery.
I bade Mr. Pugh good-bye, happy that even one at least among thousands had found a remedy for an aggravating disease.
Believing this remarkable case of Dyspeptic Asthma should be known to the public, I beg to submit the above facts as they are related to me.

TRUE USEFULNESS.
WHY MORBID DESIRES FOR PERPETUAL ADORATION ARE NOT GRATIFIED.
It takes a very generous person indeed to be faithful to self-arranged plan of generosity. It is often true that people hate their proteges when those they have helped have grown beyond the need of their aid. The reason of this is not always black ingratitude on the part of the recipient of favor; it is just as often due to the restless vanity and insatiate selfishness of the one who had set up for a patron saint, and who, failing to find a constant prostration of spirit in the aided one, turns upon this one with cursing instead of blessing. People who have influence, people in power, often press their favorite forward to positions of trust, only to find themselves afterward left out in the cold by those whom their kindness has brought out. It has become almost proverbial that women always hate any woman for whom they have ever done any thing. This is no truer of women than of men; it is far too true of both. But it is true of neither man nor woman who, by nature or by persistent cultivation, has become possessed of a large generosity of soul, a readiness to do all that is possible for a struggling friend, because it is possible to do it, and not from any petty motives of self-glorification in doing or in giving. The truest unselfishness is that which does not consider duty in the relations of life as an abstract good. Duty is a fine watch word, but it implies privilege. Too many people make it a miserable slavery by bringing no freedom, no pleasure into its performance. There is no such thing as duty in gratitude. A grateful heart offers its own reward without any forcing. But a giver who demands incense-burning is certain not to get it. A morbid desire for perpetual adoration can not, in the nature of things, be gratified.—[Boston Record.]

A WESTERN ROMANCE.
"There goes a young man who has a romance," remarked a well-known citizen of St. Paul to a reporter, as he looked through the window, as a young man of perhaps twenty-five passed up First avenue, a remarkably handsome lady hanging upon his arm. "Tell you about it? Certainly; only I won't give you the names of the parties, for if I did you would print it and nearly every one in the city would recognize in the couple two well-known Minneapolis people."
"Some years ago the young man worked in one of the big mills and was looked upon as a good man in his position. One day a party of ladies visited the mill, among them the lady you saw with him. While looking at the different things around the mill this young lady dropped from her finger into a lot of wheat which was being stored, a valuable diamond ring which had been presented to her by her mother, who had died some years before.
"Of course the young lady was nearly heart broken and refused to be comforted by her friends. This young man, who was standing near by when she dropped the ring, saw the whole thing and made up his mind to recover the ring. That evening as soon as his work was done, he went to the bin in which the wheat had been stored, and there, accompanied by a friend, sifted all the wheat and placed it in bags. It was nearly morning when he found the ring. The wheat was then emptied back into the bin and the young man went home. When he went to work again he went to the head miller and succeeded in being released for the day. His next move was to dress himself in his best suit and return the ring to the owner.
"To her he related how he recovered it, and by his pleasing manners so captivated her that she invited him to call. This he did, and the friendship thus begun soon ripened into something stronger. The young lady's father took a great liking to the young man and gave his consent to a marriage arranged between him and his daughter. When the marriage took place the young man left the mill and was started in business by his wife's father. He is now worth about $100,000 and can lay his good fortune to recovering the lost ring."—[St. Paul Globe.]

A LOOK AHEAD.
Mr. Chauncey M. Depew thinks that if the Republican National Convention was to be held at Mr. Blaine would be nominated. Mr. Depew also thinks that Mr. Cleveland will be nominated by the Democrats. Mr. J. F. Andrews, the late Democratic candidate for Governor Massachusetts, is also of the opinion that Mr. Cleveland will be nominated. Between Mr. Blaine and Mr. Cleveland, Mr. Andrews thinks Massachusetts would vote for Cleveland. Mr. Depew and Mr. Andrews are in a position to take a long look ahead, and there is certainly ground for their conclusions. But there is an influence at work which neither of them has apparently taken into consideration. That influence is the Labor vote, as the Labor party vote cannot be di-rooted to one of the old parties. A Labor organization in New York would render Mr. Cleveland's nomination very hazardous. He has done nothing to attach that large portion of the Democratic party to his administration. He has gained strength among well-to-do mugwumps, among employers of labor, and moneyed interests generally, but not among the people. If Mr. Blaine becomes a candidate he will let the mugwumps go. In their places he will take in mudsill Democrats, men who care more for principles than for a name.—[Call, Nov. 22.]
