The Ship Lucile and Bark Ceylon, left for the Coast at about the same time Saturday with cargoes of sugar. They are both fast sailers, and there will be competition to see which can get into the Golden Gate first.

SUGAR LEAVING MAUI.

KAHULUI, March 9.—The Centennial left for San Francisco on Saturday with 1,737 tons of sugar. Owing to the confinement in quarantine of Bob English, the local pilot, J. A. W. Zumwalt took the vessel out.

March 5, sugar was shipped from Hamakua, Paia and Spreckelsville to Kihel to be placed on board the steamer Cleveland. This opportunity comes in good time for all the warehouses were full to overflowing with sugar and it was a serious question as to places of storage.

Novelties in Neckwear

Are among the timely things of the new year. Never in the history of neckwear has there been so many varieties made of the very choicest silks. Pattern designs are characteristics of these new makes. String Ties, Puffs, Scarfs, Four-in-Hands, English Squares and many other of the latest patterns are to be found in our stock. A fine article of neckwear has become a necessity for him who would be well dressed. No part of his dress is more conspicuous, and when the best can be bought for what inferior goods cost, no one should pass by the bargains we are now offering.

The New Year Begets New Things

For the boys. Have you ever stopped to think what a difference there is in the makes of boy's clothing? Many suits are bought because the price is low. It is often the price that governs the purchaser, and not the quality or the substantial makes. This theory seems to be based on the idea that any kind of a suit is good enough for a boy, as he will soon wear it out. That is not good economy, for if you would pay a little more, and consider quality and make, you would have a suit for the boy that would always look well and outwear two suits of the inferior grades. To buy the best is money in pocket; to buy the poorest is money wasted. We make a specialty to keep the best at popular prices.

FROM SIXTH ARTILLERY
HOW THE BOYS OF BATTERY N
FARED.

Manila Churches Are Like Fortresses.
Coffins and Guns—A Colored Soldier
Sentenced to be Shot.

Herbert E. Bennett of Battery N, 6th Artillery, which was stationed here for some months, and went to Manila on the transport Hancock, has written the following letter to a comrade:

CUARTEL DE ESPANA, Manila,
Feb. 2, 1906.—We arrived in Manila Bay, Wednesday night, December 20, and the next morning the city of Manila lay before us. We were twenty days and six hours en route, and with the exception of a few showers and a couple of days of bad weather, the voyage was as pleasant as anyone could wish. Although when we left Honolulu we did not expect to spend Christmas day on land, we were very well satisfied to be landed December 22. The weather has been exceedingly fine since we arrived.
The heat is noticeable only when one is exposed to the sun. The nights are cool and very damp, and this does not seem to agree with us as most of the boys have taken severe colds.

Monitions are everywhere than in Honolulu, and the abhorrent itch, which I am told makes everyone a call has made its appearance among us. It has also been discovered that "beno," the native brew, the sale of which has lately been prohibited not only makes the drinker drunk, but also makes him crazy.

At present we are quartered in the Cuartel de Espana, together with batteries B, C and E, forming the second battalion of the 6th Artillery. We are guarding the gates of the walled city
and have a separate wall enclosing them;
inside the walled city. The walled city, known as Manila proper, is about a mile in circumference. It is surrounded by a wall built 250 years ago and which took fifty years to build. On the outside of the wall is a large dyke which can be flooded.

If all pertaining to churches were taken out of the walled city there would be less than half of it remaining. There are six churches and convents and other buildings pertaining to them. By calling them churches it is doubtful whether it gives you an idea of what they are really like. Each church covers a whole block and is walled in to itself, giving the appearance of a fortification. The convents are built in the same way. On Sundays and on days of the other duties the week there is seemingly an unreasonable amount of bell ringing from these churches. The churches have not always been used for the sole purpose for which they were erected. Arms have been hidden in them and conveyed to the insurgents in the form of a funeral.
The coffin was filled with arms and ammunition. It was followed by a procession of Filipinos "boo-hooing" in most approved style, keeping up all the appearance of a funeral.

We do not know when we may be sent to the firing line. A detachment of Battery E has been out on the firing line for three weeks in charge of a dynamite gun, and are expected back in a day or so, when another detachment will be sent out in their stead.
Part of the 14th and 20th Infantry are doing duty inside the walled city, all being under strict orders as an outbreak is expected any time.

The colored soldier of the 48th Infantry who killed another colored soldier in a quarrel growing out of a crap game
just before the regiment left Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and who was brought along on the transport which carried us,
has been sentenced to be shot.

Pat Disser was discharged January 19,
and Rippling for favor, without honor.
They both left for the States on the Hancock, January 23. Corporal Dodson was honorably discharged by favor without travel pay February 1. Rench has been reduced to sergeant, and Fer-neau is now First Sergeant, and Monck-ton Quartermaster's Sergeant.

A Filipino band has been organized in the Cuartel by the leader of the 6th Artillery band, Carl Mindt. Permission to take them to the States has been applied for, but has not been granted
yet.

REPORTED EVERYBODY WELL.
A story is being told that a citizen came to the Sanitary Committee's headquarters to inquire why the sub-inspector of his apana had not been at his house or those of any of his neighbors for several days. An examination of the files showed that reports had been coming in regularly from that apana and it was suggested that the citizen must be mistaken. The day the sub-inspector appeared at the citizen's house, and in answer to inquiries why he had not been around,
replied that he had been sick, confined to his house, but that didn't make any difference, as he had been reporting everybody else well, regularly every day.

MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1900.

The people who were dismissed from quarantine in Kahului were more fortunate than many of those who were in quarantine here, and who are still looking for work. The Maui men got work on the railroad at once at $1.25 a day, which will certainly buy them the necessaries of life, and avoid their becoming a burden on the community.

The question of building a new Kahului upon a more sanitary site is being considered on the Island of Maui. It will be impossible to build upon the present site for many months, possibly a year, and as there is land in plenty in vicinity of the port, there is no reason why a fresh site should not be chosen, and rebuilding commence at once. The Board of Health will have to enforce building rules and take cognizance of the laying out of the town. There is no reason why it should not be a model town.

Another suspect case has made a number of people unhappy at the prospect of the quarantine being prolonged. That there will be sporadic cases the physicians of the Board of Health have told us, but the disease is well in hand and cannot make fresh headway as it did in the early days of January. The opening of a number of schools, the letting up on the house to house inspection, the permission to ship freight under certain precautions, all tend to show that though the board must continue vigilant, it is coming to the conclusion that in spite of the sporadic cases, the situation is infinitely better than it has yet been. There is no cause for depression, rather is their cause for congratulation that we appear to be reaching the end of an unhappy and unfortunate period.

FEMALE INSPECTORS.

In Great Britain they have lady inspectors for the factories, and very excellent work they do. They keep their eyes open to everything that goes on, and have proposed considerable legislation which is of value. Miss Deane, one of these, has been making a crusade on the jam factories, and as the Daily Graphic says, her revelations about the water in which jam pots are washed, the way in which employes are not washed, the general insanitary conditions of some factories, and its probable effect in causing rapid decay of fruit—are all of the kind to make people think twice before buying again. This is not the only place where there should be a crusade for pure food, and sanitary conditions.

But the idea of female inspectors is a good one. There have been female inspectors on some of the sub-inspectorships recently in Honolulu, and they certainly have done their work efficiently if not more efficiently than their male co-workers. They have not shirked their work, and they have been extremely conscientious. Of course, female inspectors would not do for all classes of work, but they answer far better than male inspectors for others.

However, the need for house to house inspection will soon be at an end, one hopes, but when that is done the board will have to have a force of inspectors to keep the city in proper cleanliness. These will visit the houses and inspect premises during the hours when the men are away at work and the women only are at home. For such work it would be well for the Board of Health to try the experiment of one or two female inspectors, and The Star will venture to say that their work will be done as well, if not better, than the male work, and with far less friction. It is an idea worth consideration. Conservatism dislikes to employ women, but conservatism has had to give way many and many a time.

SATAN AND IDLE HANDS.

The outbreak of crime which occurred on Saturday evening was indeed a surprise to our usually quiet city. We are generally pretty free from crimes of violence, though occasionally such occur. But for five men to have been cut in one night, one fatally to the heart, and two seriously, may well arouse surprise.

Until the cases have been tried they cannot be commented upon individually, but general deductions can be drawn. There is no doubt that at the present time there is a very bad element in the town. In the ordinary course of things this element would have returned to more congenial fields, but the quarantine has kept it here, and it is sulky and discontented. A good deal of it is composed of that class which is ever seeking for work and hoping not to get it. It hums around, and when it can't get a drink in the saloons, is quite willing to drink swipes of the vilest and most potent quality.

This element, when drunk, is always dangerous, and drink was the cause of both crimes. It is among people such as these that stabbings and shootings, and crimes of violence take place. Such men are usually armed in some way, either with a pistol, dagger, bowie knife or slingshot. The means to do ill deeds being ever present makes ill deeds done. If things continue as they do and this class must be retained here, we may expect more crimes similar to those which startled us on Saturday night and Sunday morning.

As soon as our quarantine is over it will not be difficult for the police authorities to give such of these gentry as may be known to them, warning that their room is more desirable than their company, and when they don't quit they can be pulled for vagrancy, and their lives made none too pleasant for them. But just now there are so many people involuntarily out of work that it is difficult to prove charges of vagrancy. A man may justly defend himself by saying he is quite willing to work, but there is no work for him here, and he cannot get away to places where he might find it.

HARD WORK.

The experiment of thirty paid inspectors for house to house inspection will be watched with some interest. Conversation with some of them shows that they are by no means confident of being able to make a very thorough inspection. Granted that they do not visit any buildings which can be depended upon as being perfectly sanitary and confine themselves entirely to the Asiatic population how are they going to see these people every day.

The experience of the volunteer sanitary inspectors is that the only time to catch those people is between 5 and 7:30 or 8 a. m., and after 5 p. m. At other times a visit to their houses will only result in finding a number of empty rooms, which may or may not be locked, and a wholesale kicking down of doors because the occupants are out at work will lead to considerable friction, and to charges about the disappearance of personal effects.

It will be physically impossible for the paid inspectors to see their Asiatic charges at their places of residence every day, and their inspection at the places where they work is extremely difficult and unsatisfactory. In most cases it would result in a request to the foreman or employer, "are all here?" and the reply "Yes," and the inspection will go at that. It is not that paid inspectors won't try to do their duty, but that they will find themselves unable to do the work required of them daily, though they might manage to get around every second or third day. But then they would have much idle time upon their hands during the late morning and early afternoon.

MAJOR DAVIS.

Major Davis, whose management of the New York volunteers, in a medical capacity, when that gallant regiment had its war experience in Hawaii, was open to considerable comment has given to the press an account of the health conditions here. Incidentally, he has some remarks upon the question of leprosy, which challenges some reply. He says, "Some natural health legislation must be the result, and the disease properly segregated and treated in a more complete way. New hospitals should be constructed on the Island of Molokai for these afflicted people to live, work and be treated in. At present no attempt is made at treatment or classification of cases."

Now Major Davis is by no means an expert on leprosy. It is doubtful if he is an expert upon any disease. Certainly the New York regiment did not consider him as such upon their ailments. Their complaints were loud and deep. Major Davis, if he is correctly reported, gives the impression that the disease is not properly segregated. If there is a place where segregation has been more completely carried out than here, he should point it out. Experts upon leprosy who have visited the Islands, and who have studied the disease in all parts of the world, have expressed themselves as surprised at the success of our segregating system. So complete has it been that new cases of leprosy are now of rare occurrence.

With regard to buildings and hospitals at the settlement, everything is in excellent order. There is a competent staff in charge, including a devoted band of Roman Catholic sisters, and a resident physician. There are numberless cottages; there is an ample water supply. The food is distributed on a liberal scale. Clothing and other necessities are issued. When the patients can work, they are given work and are paid for it. The Board of Health is in constant touch with the settlement; officials of the board visit frequently, and the whole board once in six months as a rule. The amusements of the unfortunates are attended to; they have a social hall, a band, games and so forth, and there has never been a call upon the charity of the people of Hawaii that has not met with a ready response from all parts, all sections of thought, all religious bodies.

The real object of Major Davis in his remarks is probably contained in the last paragraph. He there says: "A local government will take years to do in a health and sanitary way; what a proper health commission, not of the country, would accomplish in much less time." This is evidently the dark gentleman in the fence. A federal commission, the salaries adequate, dignity of the commissioners, Major Davis as head, or even with Major Davis as a committee of one, would doubtless be quite acceptable. But there are good many commissions, and this is a small piece of it. So even this account may lead to fruition.

TOYO JACKSON MURDERED

FATALLY STABBED BY WILLIAM ESTER.

Isaac Cockett Seriously Cut at Same Time—Slayer of Jackson in Oahu Prison.

Toyo Jackson, the well known baseball pitcher, mustian, telephone operator, and recently bookkeeper for Henry Bertmann, was stabbed to the heart late Saturday afternoon at the middle of the road on King, near Nuuanu street, in front of the Pacific Saloon, and died a few minutes later. Isaac Cockett, the well known football player and athlete, now employed at Counter's jewelry store, was at the same time stabbed about four inches below the heart.

William Ester, negro, a newcomer, is in Oahu prison, and is charged with the crime. Ester is rather tall, black, wears a thin crop of whiskers on the back of each cheek, has a full round negro face and low forehead, and is possessed of considerable gab and a disposition to be insolent. He left the Forty-second Infantry here about six months ago, since when he has done odd jobs. The past two weeks he had been driving a delivery wagon for Hall & Son's under contract with the Union Express Company.

During Saturday afternoon Cockett and Jackson, who were brothers-in-law, had been together and taken several drinks. About 6 o'clock they were standing outside the Pacific Saloon at Nuuanu and King, when approached by Ester, who asked Jackson to loan him a dollar. Ester then told Jackson that the barkeeper, Robert French, would let him have the money if he, Jackson, would vouch for him. "Oh, I'll tell him who you are," replied Jackson, or in words to that effect. Cockett followed the two men into the saloon and near the counter, advised Jackson not to vouch for the negro. Ester then accosted Cockett and heated words ensued. Stories as to just what was said differ, but it is a fact that there came near being a fight right there.

Ester left the saloon by the alley at the rear in company with or closely followed by Jackson, and Cockett bringing up in the rear. All the while the heated quarrel was kept up. Near the edge of the sidewalk Jackson struck Ester, and knocked him down into the street. A second later Ester was up and had rushed upon his assailant, plunging the big blade of a knife to his heart. The blow was perfectly directed, evidently intended to kill. The wound was an oblong hole, showing that the weapon was drawn straight out again without an effort at slashing.

The cutting of Cockett followed immediately. It is said that Cockett moved upon Ester as soon as he saw the latter stagger back, and himself received the blade of the already bloody knife. While withdrawing the knife from Cockett, Ester was seized by the police.

There was a large number of witnesses to the affair, and the case will be a very big one. As is usual in such incidents, stories as to details differ. Ester claimed self-defense as his reason for the cutting. A considerable crowd followed the prisoner to the station, and all evening there was talk of lynching.

Jackson and Cockett were removed at once in the patrol wagon to the Queen's Hospital. The former breathed his last on the way. Cockett was given surgical attention at once. A fever arose right away, but an hour later the injured man was permitted to see his wife and friends. Last night he was told of Jackson's death, and the fate of Ester. Today Cockett's temperature is lower, and his chances of recovery are considered good. He has never been delirious at all.

Soon after the death of Jackson, Deputy Marshal Chillingworth summoned a coroner's jury which, about 9 p. m., viewed the body at the Queen's Hospital. The jury is composed of E. A. McInerney, William Nott, Albert Hoogs, George Andrews, S. Kubey and E. T. Winant.

The inquest was to have been held at 3 o'clock this afternoon. But owing to the fact that some of the witnesses were attending the funeral at that hour, and others were engaged in the Circuit Court, a postponement was had till 7:30 o'clock this evening.

In his statement to the police Ester gave a very vague version of the trouble. He told of an altercation which took place in the saloon with some members of the Quintette Club in which he was knocked down several times. After that he remembered nothing until he was landed in the station house. He did not remember doing any cutting at all.

Henry Vierra and Toyo Jackson's wife happened to be on a King street car, which arrived at the spot just as the unfortunate young man was struck down. The woman was prostrated by the tragedy, and swooned in the street beside her dying husband. Vierra was one of Jackson's best friends. They frequently played together on stages in Chinese washhouse and other scenes in Cockett's story of the affair is substantially as given above. The saloon portion of it is corroborated by the barkeeper. In fact, the disposition of Cockett seems to be to tell the exact facts as they occurred to him. His account is substantiated by the most responsible of the witnesses.

Jackson was quite well known about town and was universally liked. He was a man of exceptionally good disposition, and seldom if ever drank to excess. Cockett is perhaps even better known, and has always borne an excellent reputation. This is the first time, so far as can be learned, that he was ever mixed in a difficulty of any sort.

The history of Ester is not known here. About the first thing he did after leaving his transport six months ago, was to get himself arrested in a street brawl, since when he has been more or less known to the police. His intimates about town do not speak well of him. Ester was brought into the District Court this morning and charged with murder in the first degree. He was brought into the courtroom with his hands manacled, the manacles were removed while he was in the dock, and before he was brought before Judge Wilcox. He was represented by Attorney Strauss, but it is understood that Charles Creighton will undertake the defense, Strauss being associated with him. The hearing was continued until March 18, awaiting the result of the coroner's inquest. Ester was afterwards taken back to the Oahu prison.

The funeral of the late Toyo Jackson will take place at the family residence in Iwalee at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

DAY DRUNKS.

Sanitary inspectors report much drunkenness in the Waikiki district yesterday. Many sailors were reeling about the streets in various stages of intoxication. The bartenders state that liquor can be obtained in most of the small stores which are numerous in the district.

started to explain to the judge that he thought it necessary for his protection. The judge held different views and promptly gave him the heavy sentence stated.

This afternoon Deputy Marshal Chillingworth will again visit the scene of Downing's murderous knife-wielding and try and find the knife with which such terrible execution was done. Downing claims to have lost it, but it is thought that he threw it away, fearing it might be used as evidence against him. "I'd like to get it, but guess I shall not see it again now," he said today. He stated that if he could be taken over the scene he could show where he threw the ten dollars he claims to have recovered when his money was being stolen.

The three natives who were wounded are all at the Queen's Hospital. The doctors do not say yet whether they can recover or not. Their wounds are packed in ice to prevent further hemorrhage.

Those arrested are Wai Hong, Ah Chong, Yung Hing, Ah Chuck, Tung Kwai, sey, Paul Kaaiabalo, Ah Ling and Ah Seng.

INDIANS AND THE CENSUS DIFFICULT LEGAL QUESTIONS ARISE.

How the Census Bureau Solves Vexed Questions of Law, Sociology, Economics and Mechanical Appliances.

Census taking is not the political picnic that many people imagine, says the Washington Star. Few appreciate the magnitude of the work. The eleventh census cost more than $1,000,000 and in the twelfth census an office force of more than 2,000 for about two years and a field force of over 50,000 for from two weeks to a month will be employed.

The Indian population, then, cannot be treated by itself and described in a separate report. It also seems illogical to class the Indians among the ordinary population of the United States.

Whether "Indians not taxed" means Indians not directly taxed, or whether it may not mean Indians not taxable, are questions that must be decided by the census office before it can form its plan for the Indian enumeration.

The last question has been a subject of debate ever since Indian censuses have been taken. In 1890 there were about 50,000 civilized Indians living among the general population of the United States.

OLIVE CROP. Sudden Appearance of a Scourge which Threatens the Industry.

The agricultural authorities of Italy are at a loss to account for the sudden appearance of what has become in a short period a scourge of a disastrous nature to certain parts of the country and one which bids fair to ruin a large number of them.

This comparatively unknown insect has invaded the fertile province of Puglia, and the terrible destruction it is causing there has induced the Italian Ministry of Agriculture to its utmost efforts toward the discovery of some means of protecting the olive trees from its ravages.

The infection appeared for the first time last year in the province of Lecce, and has since developed to a greater or less degree in all the olive-growing districts of Southern Italy.

THE PUMPKIN.

An Illinois Editor Who is Fond of That "Fruit."

We like pumpkins. The finest fruit that grows in the farmer's orchards in North Illinois is the pumpkin.

Sometimes people think that the pumpkin is a vegetable. What a mistake! That the pumpkin belongs to the fruit family, and is not a vegetable, is proved by the following:

ON TO HERAT.

The English press has been not a little disturbed over the remarks by a German military authority, Count Yorck von Wartenburg, on the Russian arrangements for invading India. He estimates the available invading force as 83,000 men, and the recent experiment of sending soldiers from Tiflis to Kushk in eight days, brings the possibility of an invasion very close. If Russia should have the disposition, Kushk is only 70 miles from Herat, the movement on which has generally been assumed to mean the beginning of a war.
