

WHISTLING GIRLS.

VASSAR COLLEGE STUDENTS WHO PRACTICE IN CONCERT.

What a Professor of Anatomy Has to Say—The Proper Method of Producing the Vibrations—Whistling Out of Tune.

[New York Letter.] "The best whistlers I know," said a fashionable doctor, "are young ladies. It is like the warbling of a mocking bird. They can whistle much higher notes than a man, and in a very clear and bell-like tone. I know a young lady who whistles and accompanies herself on a guitar. The effect is really very pretty, and her friends often beg her to favor them with an air. I met her down at Nantucket last summer, and it was her habit to sit on the beach in the evening and whistle plaintive negro melodies. When we went out sailing she was very welcome for the same reason. I think she whistled her way into the affections of a very desirable young man, and I hear they are engaged."

WHISTLING CONCERTS. A New York girl was quite indignant when asked why girls couldn't whistle. "Can't whistle," she said. "Why, they can whistle! All the girls I know whistle. Up at Vassar we have whistling concerts. We used to practice at night in the dormitories when the monitor was gone and the lights were out, and if you weren't very sleepy it was fun to lie in bed and hear ten girls whistling 'in the gloaming' all together. We had one girl who could whistle through her fingers like a boy, but then she was a regular tomboy. She could run, play ball, climb trees, and box better than any other girl in the college. There was another girl who could only whistle by drawing in her breath, but that was better than not whistling at all."

A professor of anatomy said: "The mouth has more muscles than any other portion of the body. The number varies from nineteen to twenty-one. The chief muscle is the orbicularis oris or sphincter muscle. The muscle is in two parts, the upper extending from the nose to the mouth. The two parts are actuated by the nerves of the mouth so that they act as one muscle. Their minor circumference circumscribes the opening of the mouth. This muscle by modifying the state of the expired air produces in it vibrations of a peculiar character, and this is whistling."

THE PROPER METHOD. "In whistling the lips are pursed up so that only a small aperture remains. The air is driven from the lungs into the mouth, where it distends the sphincter muscles of the cheeks, and these muscles contracting aid in forcing out the air through the lips. The tongue compresses the volume of air in the mouth, and so adds to the sharpness of the whistle. The benefit of the tongue is readily seen when an attempt is made to whistle sharply with an indrawn breath. Women have the same muscles of the mouth as men, and are generally as well able to use them. There is no reason at all why everybody should not whistle."

"Some try to whistle by blowing through their pointing lips, but that is not the idea at all. The mucous membrane of the lips must be drawn tense, so that it will vibrate by the current of air passing over it. These vibrations are communicated to the air column, and hence the tone, varying with the tension of the lips and air. It is exactly on the same principle that the vocal cords work. The lips adjust themselves voluntarily according to the musical ear of the whistler, as it is impossible for him to distinguish the different positions of the lips in sounding the various tones. People with no ear for music will invariably whistle very much out of tune, while people with a cultivated ear will whistle very finely. As women are, as a rule, more musical than men, they can whistle better when they set about it. However, it is greatly a matter of practice."

Courtesy in Mexico. [Cor. Boston Herald.] One trait of the Mexican character deserving of all notice is the national love for children. Mexico is the children's paradise. Children are loved and petted in public to an extent that makes an American, used to the stolid ways of his own country people, open his eyes in astonishment and pleasure. There is no affectation in the matter. A little child is the pet of the people. A baby is every one's admiration, and here you may see fathers out walking with their children for the pleasure of the children's company. In shops and all places where people meet children are petted, and a baby in a shop is seized and caressed by an army of male admirers.

The courtesy of the young lady is another feature to be noted. A group of ladies from 7 to 15 will meet, and each boy will decorously lift his hat and salutations of extreme courtesy will be exchanged, and then comes the boyish chatter, the fun and the laughter the same as anywhere. Boys have treat their elders with respect. An old man or woman is not the butt of the youth of Mexico; rather for the old people is reserved the shaded seat under the trees in the parks and the best seats in the family sala.

A Mexican girl or boy entering a room walks around among the company, shaking hands with all, and on leaving the room does the same. Urbanity is taught in the public schools as arithmetic is at home. There is no brusquerie in this population; no one is jostled on the street; the best seat in the horse-car is promptly given up to the ladies, who never fail gracefully to acknowledge the favor. I have never seen a Mexican gentleman fail to give his seat to a woman, whether she was richly or poorly dressed, and this is invariably done with courtesy.

The Morphine Habit Increasing. [Exchange.] Dr. John B. Bond, of Little Rock, says: "Morphine sulphate is used to an alarming extent throughout the Mississippi valley. None but the druggists have any proper conception of the extent of its use. In fact, some druggists are not fully informed on the subject, for the morphine-eater will often make the rounds of the available drug stores in order to conceal, as far as practicable, the quantity used. Few persons, other than the well-awake and experienced druggist, will be able to value at their real worth the ex- use, and the romance of the morphine-eater."

IN A QUANDARY.

The Advertiser of yesterday was in an alleged "quandary" as to the point of their being an "Opposition" party unless it immediately formulated and published a policy which the leaders of the present Administration, who have succeeded in almost bankrupting the Kingdom for want of a policy, might take up in the coming campaign as a basis of action.

It would be well, however, for the Government organ to cut out the following facts and paste them in its hat: That because the Advertiser asserts that the "Independent Opposition" has no policy that does not prove it so; that the only hindrance to the discussion of "public questions" is that the present Administration dares not discuss its own acts and every tax-payer outside of the Government condemns without discussion; that the voters of these Islands will appear in a new phase as soon as this no-policy Government shovels the last spadeful of earth upon a miserable race which it has doomed to speedy death through unmanly treachery without a thought for the welfare of the future; that the Opposition is not "disconcerted" simply because of the acknowledged "indifference of the Government" to do the will of the tax-payers; that a "threadbare argument" is generally an unanswered one and that "moss-grown accusations" are those which have generally been proven true; that the assertion of efficiency on the part of the "King's Government" will be believed when the tax-payers of Hawaii are capable of giving their intelligence the lie; that if the public funds have been "properly administered" the Government ought not shrink for an accounting with the people for the last three Administrations; that investigation will unearth misappropriation of funds in the following cases: In the building of roads and bridges, in the Queen's Hospital fund, in the amounts spent for official travelling on alleged official business, and in the matter of "Sanitation for Hawaiians" which has been a pet scheme that has never been carried out for the want of funds (misappropriated); that the first thing the "Opposition would favor" would be to "turn the rascals out," who came into power with money in the treasury and have squandered all and left the country on the verge of bankruptcy; that "Increase the Nation" is only the alleged policy of a Government whose acts declare "perish the natives!" that a change of Administration means the building up of a new credit and that a sound financial system means reform in the present case; that the results of the present Administration only prove the economy of its predecessors; that under the present Administration the expenditures have increased, since 1878-80, $2,361,058; that the limited resources of the present Administration are due to its own folly; that the present Administration has left no spoils of office for the Opposition to fight for—all has been stolen or squandered; that the Opposition will be forced to build up a Government "for the people" on the ruins caused by the present Administration; that the inexperience of the Opposition can never be so fatal to the country as the last three Administrations of the "King's faithless time-servers" have been.

The Government and the Advertiser may as well understand once and for all that they cannot make their fight, to retain position, upon the policy they would like to steal from the Opposition. The policy of the Opposition, when made public, will have the confidence of the tax-payers. When the time is ripe and the Opposition is in a position to enforce its policy, which the country so much needs, it will be published in black and white. Perhaps their policy will fail to be endorsed by the King and the present Administration, but what of that—if it has the endorsement of the Kingdom's tax-payers.

Foreign News.

Two Thousand Workmen Thrown Out of Employment.

New York, November 14th.—A. M.—The Sun says: About 2,000 workmen will be thrown out of employment to-night by the stoppage of work in the cigar factories of Straiton & Storms. The firm has had no trouble with its employes for more than a year, and its shop was recently organized in due form as a Union shop, but a boycott put on its cigars nearly a year and a half ago has not been taken off. "Our men must find out why they are being punished by their own friends," John Straiton said last night.

Why War Vessels are Sent to Colombia.

New York, November 16th.—The Sun has an editorial on the Isthmus trouble, in which it says: It is probable the Tennessee and Galena have gone to Aspinwall, not for the sake of unwarrantably interfering in the affairs of Colombia, but as the Galena did last winter, in order to be ready to discharge treaty obligations and protect American citizens should the occasion arise. The political condition of the republic is still unsettled. The excitement created by the recent decree imposing heavy duties on merchandise imported at Aspinwall and Panama has aroused special fears of another outbreak against the Government on the Isthmus.

American Naval Officers in Australia.

WASHINGTON, November 17th.—Commander Albert L. Barker, commanding the United States steamer Enterprise, in an official report to the Secretary of the Navy, writes very enthusiastically of the treatment accorded to himself and his officers by the authorities and people at Melbourne. "The enterprising people of this magnificent city," he says, "vie with each other in extending their hospitality to us, and the chief danger now is that we may be killed with kindness; invitations for excursions, parties, dinners, theater entertainments, and the like are showered upon us because we are Americans. * * * Free passes over all the railroads in this country have been given each officer, and when it is remembered that there are nearly 2,000 miles of railway, that all are under control of the Government, and that our passes are good for every mile of completed road and for every day of our sojourn here, the value of this mark of attention can be faintly appreciated."

The California Refinery Forced to Reduce Prices.

The California Sugar Refinery announced a reduction in the price of sugar of one and a half cents a pound from the rate which has nominally prevailed since September 15th. This marked reduction caused a great deal of surprise on the street, and there were many theories afloat as to the cause. The actual reason may have been guessed, but as there was no means of positively confirming any of those advanced, the theory which finally gained most general credence did so from its reasonableness. The belief which generally became accepted was that the California Refinery had accumulated such a stock of sugar, said to be about 30,000 barrels, since its attempted advance of September, as to be obliged to make yesterday's reduction in order to dispose of its stock. When the September increase was made several speculators had large stocks on hand, which entered as an element of competition with the other and great element, the product of the rival local refinery the American. Added to these, there was considerable Eastern sugar here. One lot of 500 barrels from New York, which had been held on speculation for several months, had been sold since the September rise, and other Eastern lots had been brought here and sold during that time.

The American Refinery met the street demand regularly with its product, supplying customers at 8 1/2 cents, while the card rate of the California Refinery was 8 3/4 cents for dry granulated. Under this unusual competition the product of the California Refinery rapidly accumulated in its warehouse and it began underselling its own card rate to relieve its position. That it did so is evidenced by the fact that retailers buying from the California, nominally at 8 3/4 cents, were in fact selling at 8 1/2 cents. This happened even in Stockton, where the retail customers of the California were enabled to pay freight and still sell 1/2 cent below the California card rate. What rebate the California was obliged to give the jobbers who handled its product in order that this anomalous condition of affairs could exist, the trade can best estimate. Although apparently obliged to resort to the novel expedient of underselling itself to meet local competition, the California continued nominally to keep up its increased rate until the American received a cargo of 4,000,000 pounds of sugar from Manila, when the reduction was announced. Only a small amount of sugar is expected from the Hawaiian islands during the next sixty days. After that time two-thirds of the Hawaiian product will come to the American Refinery under the recently made contracts, and the California Refinery will then be obliged to buy more sugar from Manila and other dutiable districts than now and for years past. The enlarged works of the American Refinery, which will give it a capacity of 400,000 pounds daily, will be completed in January, in time to handle its increased receipts from the Hawaiian islands.—S. F. Chronicle of Nov. 4th.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The attention of our readers is invited to the very liberal offer made by us, in another column, to furnish any of the articles specified therein, together with six months' subscription to the DAILY HONOLULU PRESS, at club rates, which are much less than if the publications, or articles, were ordered separately.

We desire to introduce our paper into every English-reading Family in this Kingdom, feeling assured that it will be permanently retained after its merits, as a live, wide-awake journal, are once known.

As an advertising medium the DAILY HONOLULU PRESS possesses unequalled advantages, having retained all the subscribers to the late Saturday Press in addition to a new subscription list which is daily increasing, so that the paper is not only enjoying a large circulation in this city and vicinity, but is, also, mailed by every steamer to subscribers at almost every landing on the other Islands and also to foreign countries, thus combining the advantages of both daily and weekly editions. The coming month, especially, our paper will have a much larger circulation than all the other daily papers combined, as we intend sending specimen copies to every resident on these Islands who reads English.

We, therefore, ask your co-operation in our enterprise and trust you will avail yourself of this offer. Very respectfully yours, etc., PROP'S OF DAILY HONOLULU PRESS.

SUNDAY ON BOARD.

HOW JACK MANAGES TO WASTE HIS WEEKLY HOLIDAY. A Prerogative That He Insists Upon, but Which Gives No Pleasure—A Sunday Without a Chaplain—A Sunday Lost.

Jack consents to be deprived of many comforts and advantages which the humblest working landsman has. He puts up with the most trying hardships and allows himself to be restricted in the quality and quantity of his food; he accepts without a shudder imitations of tea and coffee, but nothing will induce him to give up his holiday. If he is on an American ship he must have his Sundays and Fourth of July, and if he is on an English vessel, he must have his Sundays and his Christmas. True, his holiday may be lacking in agreeable features. It may be a dreary, withered, abstract mockery of a holiday, but Jack has it just the same.

WITHOUT A CHAPLAIN. The ship's holiday is demanded by the sailor and given by his employers for rest and recreation. Although both the skipper and Jack ought to be religious, neither is so inclined, and, generally speaking, no part of Sunday on board ship is devoted to religious exercises. On the average well-regulated man-of-war there is a chaplain who makes it his business to remind the men on every first day of the week that there are certain duties not connected with the handling of the ship which it would be well for them to turn their attention to occasionally. But the great bulk of this world's tonnage consists of merchant vessels, which are unprovided with chaplains. One occasionally reads in moral story books about some sweet-faced, tender-hearted sea captain's wife who makes it her business to render Jack's holiday agreeable, and at the same time to fill his honest brain with moral precepts and useful knowledge. The philanthropic sweet-faced captain's wife unfortunately exists only in the fertile imagination of the moral romancer. The captain's wife in reality does not care how Jack spends his Sunday, and the weekly holiday which he insists upon having is passed something after this fashion. The sleepy members of the watch on deck yawn and rub their eyes with irritable looks when they are requested by the mate in charge to "turn to."

THE SUNDAY PROPER. Although it is a holiday the decks must be washed down. The brass burnished up. This is a work of cleanliness, and is consequently cleaned as holiday rest and recreation. The men, mindful of this great truth, grumble while at the work. When washing down the quarter deck immediately above the captain's berth they drop their buckets and stamp as much as possible. When passing the forecastle doors they find some excuse for yelling like fiends. If the captain or their shipmates of the other watch who are then resting should be awakened by these noises it is of course their own fault. The cook appears to be cross when he enters the galley, and he prepares as wretched a breakfast as possible for the inmates of the forecastle, but with a view to self-protection he makes a much better meal for the captain and the other people of the cabin.

After eight bells sound the men are supposed to begin their holiday proper, although they are liable to be called on any moment to aid in the handling of the ship. The breakfast, of course, does not cheer the men. They are all cross. They wash and shave themselves, and this process seems to render them all the more cross. The leading bullies glare at each other and seem spotting for a fight, but out of natural reverence they stubbornly refrain from entertaining their shipmates with a hand-to-hand combat.

After the cleaning process has been finished, those who have spent the first morning watch on deck try to get a little sleep. The men of the other watch, mindful of the proceedings, which accompanied the washing down of the decks, become noisy and the would-be sleepers get little rest. In the meantime the cook, who has felt hurt because none of the men have praised the breakfast, proceeds to concoct a dinner compared to which the breakfast was a banquet.

IN A CHERFUL WAY. After this meal had been disposed of the ebb tide of the crew's cheerfulness sets in. Those who have put on their best clothes are even crosser than those who have on their worst habiliments. A few of those who can read take out dog-eared novels, and spell over them. Others play cards for plugs of tobacco and quarrel over the game like a group of cutthroat pirates. Those who can think of nothing else to do swear roundly at anything and everything in the hope of keeping up their spirits.

After the men have finished the supper, which consists of the remains of the breakfast and dinner, they begin, strangely enough, to grow more cheerful. Their outbursts are brisker and crisper, as a rule, than during the afternoon or morning. Some few entertain their shipmates with interesting reminiscences of their last stay on shore. A few play at cards, but they do not quarrel with the ferocity which characterized their games in the afternoon. Some of the sailors realize that the holiday has been wasted, and resolve that on the following Sunday they will make it their business to enjoy themselves.

A "Hooster Dance." (Haden-Haden Letter.) At St. George, a small place a mile or so outside of Schoonwald, we pulled up to have a look at a "hooster dance," which our obliging driver learned somehow was going on in that particular town. We were the only strangers in a group of some thirty couples, all of whom nodded to us most pleasantly, nor did our presence seem to disconcert them in the least. A glass full of water was hung from the rafters at a considerable height above the floor, and after executing a figure which I cannot describe accurately under the name of a hooster dance, the girl bent her knees, raised her open hands on them in such a way that her partner could step on them, then she did her best to lift him high enough to kick the glass. Very few succeeded; those who did were rewarded for their grace and strength with a fat young rooster, whose legs were fastened together by bits of blue and red ribbon.

Labouchere by the Sea. (London Herald.) The ordinary seaside routine is about as dull and as dreary as any punishment ever awarded to pleasure-seeking men. Dear me! I have gone through it all. The early breakfast, with the everlasting shrimp and lobster-potage butter; the regular bathing hour; the orthodox drying hour, when the dear things parade with their hair down their backs; the stuffy, indigestible luncheon; the lawn tennis afternoon; the occasional boating excursion; the chance sail, and the inevitable evening on the pier, when the heart-play the "see-saw" waltz, alternating with the "Tambouré" march.

Keeping Up with the Style. (Chicago Herald.) Good morning, Jack. Am sorry to hear that little—quite sorry, you know, to hear of that little scandal in your family. "Can you have heard of it? And you condescend to me! Thanks, awfully, my dear boy. Deuced unpleasant thing, in some ways, my boy, but we were determined to be stylish, if we had to charter a detective agency. It's English, you know."
