TALK ABOUT FUMIGATION

BOARD OF HEALTH WRESTLES WITH MATTER. Danger of Disease Has Increased and Precaution is Deemed Advisable. Report From Waimea.

The question of continuing the fumigation of mail to protect the city from small-pox was again discussed by the Board of Health yesterday afternoon. Dr. Sloggett did not see why the practice should be continued. If small-pox were coming to the city it would reach here through other channels quicker than through letters. Passengers and baggage were more dangerous.

DAMAGE TO THE MAUI.

The steamer Maui which struck a rock near Molokai light house Monday night went on the marine railway yesterday. A board of survey are to examine her damages and found that at least two new plates would have to be used in repairing her. It will be three weeks before she can be gotten into commission.

PUNKAHs AND FANS.

JUSTICE WITH RAPIDITY. WILCOX KEPT THINGS MOVING YESTERDAY. All Sorts and Conditions of People are Given Their Just Dues In The District Court. Judge Wilcox handed out justice to the offenders of the law with lightning like rapidity yesterday. In a little less than two hours time he had passed upon the guilt or innocence of some fifteen or sixteen people, and had left Clerk Benjamin Zablan alone in his glory. Kiki, who kicked George Bombay so severely, that the unfortunate African boy since died from his injuries was bound over to appear before the next session of the Circuit Court. A Wolf, a local moonshiner, who is under arrest, had his case postponed until tomorrow, at his own request. Wolf claims that he is not guilty of having shot and killed a pig without the permit of the government, and will make a determined fight to establish his innocence. The accused man is under $200 bonds. Officer W. McCormick appeared as the prosecuting witness against John Gomez. According to the policeman on Sunday last, at the hour of 2:30 in the morning, John drove heedlessly through the quiet streets of Kakaako. He ran into the officers' horse one of the front wheels striking the animal's leg. Gomez denied that he was intoxicated, and accused the officer of blocking the road. Judge Wilcox evidently sympathized with the prisoner who had had a fair companion in his buggy and after telling him when out riding in the future with maidens with love light in their eyes, to either have them turn down the wick or wear goggles, sent Gomez on his way. A Chinese drayman, named Ah Yan, who was accused of having left a vehicle on King Street, near the Palama junction unattended, and attached to a draught animal, was discharged, as he proved conclusively to the court that his dray was broken at the time, and it was impossible to move it. Adachi, Okimoto and Sato, three disreputable characters, who were arrested for doing business minus a license. As they had since their arrest observed the formality laid down by the law in the matter, their cases were nolle prosequed. Kinura, Tashuna, Shiwata, Ito, Mori and a woman named Mio, were fined $5 and costs for indulging in the delights of Seven Come Eleven. Tashuna and Shiwata, having failed to appear their bail was declared forfeited. The solon of Honolulu having nothing else on his docket, thereupon adjourned court for the day.

THE DEATHS OF INFANTS. DR. RUSSEL ON THE HEAVY MORTALITY. The Duty of the Board of Health to Investigate—Disease Carries Off Hawaiian Babies. EDITOR STAR: In your editorial of yesterday you have touched one of the many problems of public health on these islands, which require immediate attention; the question why native children give such a large percentage of deaths in comparison with other nationalities. You advise the legislature to appoint a commission to investigate. I do not think there is any need of such commission. We have a permanent body called Board of Health, whose duty is to study this and other similar problems. Unfortunately its present organization and standing is not such as to justify the people to make any sacrifices to expect from them any studies or solutions of any health problems. Business men who are in the majority on that board cannot be expected to solve scientific problems. A sprinkling of physicians of whom none is a specialist in public health branch of medicine are too busy otherwise to give such questions proper attention. In general too much business and politics engross the attention of these boards to have any time and leisure for public health. I do not mean the present board or any particular person, who all may be excellent men, but the system. I do not think anybody could do any better under such fallacious system. During the last session I introduced a public health act reorganizing this branch of public service on the lines of the public health act of New Zealand, and in accordance with modern ideas on the subject. Unfortunately it is the most ungrateful task to advise men who have nothing to learn. Another reason for the uselessness of a legislative commission is that the problem of the enormous mortality of the native children, which is the principal cause of gradual and systematic decrease of native population is solved long ago, not by any of our numerous Boards of Health, of course. The cause of this mortality is the hereditary specific infection of the native population; disease that first was introduced by the sailors of Captain Cook, and ever afterwards renewed and spread to enormous proportions by the whalers and sailors; Parents whose blood is infected with this specific poison are unable to propagate. They bear still born children or such that die in early infancy. In other countries with similar conditions the proper remedy is found in the establishment of travelling camp hospitals. Such hospitals move from one village to another staying 2 or 3 months in every place, terms necessary for a substantial treatment of all who are infected in that locality. The reason is that this disease, especially with ignorant class of people, cannot be cured out of doors. Patient must be taken into the hospital, where a systematic treatment is given under the care of a physician and nurse. Yours truly, DR. N. RUSSEL.

A VERY REMARKABLE REMEDY. It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Company, general agents, Hawaiian Islands.

THE TEA-POT CRACKS.

The storm in the tea-pot is liable to burst the container and the liquid may run over and scald some fingers. This is a feature of storms in tea-pots which has happened here on several occasions. But Madame Tume, the wife of Old Mortality, the gentleman with the hour glass, comes along and sweeps up the mess, and after a space it would be difficult for any one, not well acquainted with the floor to find the spot where the upset took place.

There is no doubt that a very strong feeling exists between two sections of the community at the present time. It is unfortunate that it should exist, and upon those who have forced the issue will doubtless come the recoil. The boomerang is apt to be a very unfortunate weapon in the hands of an unskillful man.

It may be well at this moment to pause and consider how the question at issue came about. Charges of bribery in the Legislature have been made freely about the streets. Attention had been called to them on the floor of the House by Senator Russel and had been freely commented on both orally and in the press. Representative Emmeluth stated in a letter published in The Star that he thought he had located $3,000 of the bribes. Whether Representative Emmeluth really had done so has not yet been officially stated. The report of the grand jury may make the matter clear, when it is made.

Upon these charges of bribery the executive, in the person of the Attorney-General, apparently went to work, and gathered certain information. A grand jury was called by the First Circuit Court to investigate these same charges. The Attorney-General refused to give the evidence he had discovered to the grand jury, contending that the communications were privileged, and that to give his evidence at the present time might practically spoil his case. This in a nutshell seems to be the bone of contention. No one charges the Attorney-General or any one else who has refused to give testimony with giving bribes. But there is a clash of authority as to whether such testimony which is going to be used by one set of men, in one way, must be given to another set of men who may use it on similar lines on another.

Legal aspects of a case are totally different from moral guilt. In a clash of authority such as is now before us neither side need be looked upon as either immoral or criminal. An honest difference of opinion as to jurisdiction may bring a man within the pale of the law, and he may be perfectly willing and ready to encounter its pains and its penalties without in the least degree losing the respect of his fellow citizens. Indeed their respect for him may be increased, because he is taking upon himself the citizen's duty of, in his own person, suffering for his rights, and thereby securing upon a firm basis the rights of others.

If the clash had to come, it is just as well that it should come now. We are a new Territory, but an old community. It may be that it is a case of putting new wine into old bottles. The effect is somewhat disastrous both to the wine and to the bottles according to the New Testament. But the "bottles," were wine skins and could be sewn up, and used again for a less heady and fermenting fluid, while the new wine must have been irretrievably lost.

In a new Territory, with considerable change of method in executive and judicial and legislative procedure there is bound to be friction. The history of every growing state in the Union shows that this must inevitably be so. There is the initial time of unrest, and when that is over there comes the time of rest and progress. But we are peculiarly situated. We have not to struggle for prosperity, because prosperity is at our doors. Growing Territories have to devote much time to the mere struggle for existence. With that prosperity right in our midst we have yet to struggle and work out our own political salvation, which in other Territories is worked out during the process of material evolution.

It is unfortunate that the present clash has taken politics into the judiciary. But it is what we may expect under the change of system. For years the judiciary of the monarchy, whatever the monarchial fallings may have been, was as utterly exempt from politics as any judiciary in an ideal Utopia. But if the question of politics in the judiciary has to be argued out, and even suffered for, it may just as well come first as last. It is a very interesting question to us. It matters very little to other people, who will hardly give our "storm" a thought but it is a very vital matter both to our liberties and our personal comfort which is now being argued and worked out.

DUTY DONE.

Even in this age, and in such an apparently prosaic life as that of a police officer, there can come a touch of chivalry which must go home to the hearts of all of us and make us think better of our own race than we are apt to do. Humanity after all is not half so bad as the pessimist is apt to think that it is. There is a devotion to duty which in ordinary circumstances we can hardly give human nature credit for.

These thoughts occur when we consider the untimely death of Police Officer Wulbur. He was only twenty-nine years of age. He was active, bright, intelligent, and could look forward to a long and honorable career. A hack came tearing down the street. At the speed it was going he might have looked on and said let the next man try it, what is the use of my risking my life? But he did nothing of the kind. He sprang forward, hunc on to the horse, was dashed against a telephone post, and, as it has proved, was fatally injured. The runaway was stopped, however, and the chance of collision against other carriages on the street was prevented. Most probably other lives were saved by young Wulbur's sacrifice.

It is proper to note an act of this kind. Men are constantly called upon to act quickly and to call up their resources of bravery, and they very seldom fail when so called upon. Bravery is by no means so rare as many people think. Nor is bravery confined to the fighting man. It is found in the ordinary citizen and in the police officer as readily as it is found in the soldier or the man of war's man.

There is probably more courage required to do one's duty at the risk of one's life in a busy street where people are going about their ordinary business, buying and selling and gossiping, than it does to take the same risk with cheering comrades around one. Thus one cannot but regard the deed of officer Wulbur as an heroic one, though it only consisted in stopping a runaway hack. Upon his tomb may be inscribed "Duty done, at the expense of a young life." No better epitaph can be put on the grave of the greatest of men.

The lurid story which appeared in one of the Buffalo papers about a tribe of Hawaiians who live at Diamond Head, and swim out to the ocean steamers to pilot them into the harbor, is the kind of thing that the Midway fakir gets up to make his Hawaiian village go. And there are people who will believe this rubbish.

The rise in the price of meat will come hardly upon the housekeeper of moderate means. Honolulu was always an expensive place, but it is more so than ever now. The cost of living has increased quite twenty-five per cent during the last few years. To those who are wealthy this does not matter, but to those who earn salaries of moderate size it is a very serious thing indeed.

The return of Murphy to the Islands will give that gentleman an opportunity to reply against some of the aspersions thrown upon him by Mrs. Gouger and others. From observation Murphy's work here seems to have been singularly successful, and those whom he led to take up his principles appear to have, with but few exceptions remained firm in the new path they have taken up.

The establishment of a special fir-between Samoa and these Islands has been talked of by Mr. Kunst, who bought Nalima, the residence of Robert Louis Stevenson when he was in Samoa. One hardly sees how such a project will pay, but Mr. Kunst is a shrewd man of business who accumulated a colossal fortune by trade in Siberia, and he probably knows what he is about. Anyway he can well afford to make mercantile experiments.

Rapid Transit seems to be coming within sight at last. A considerable amount of track is laid, the cars have arrived, and the power will soon be in order. Once it starts Pain's cars will be at a considerable discount. If the Rapid Transit people give quick transport, keep their cars clean, and insist on civility among the employes the Hawaiian tramways company will not have very much to do, and the London dividends will fall off.

There has always been a great belief here in the efficacy of petitions. The average American statesman knows that petitions are of little or no value. The only thing that is of value is the vote at the polls. A petition can be signed by all sorts of irresponsible parties. Children can be asked to sign, and as we know, do sign. Whole strings of names can be and are written in by the same hand. The petition against Governor Dole is likely to be treated in somewhat the same fashion as the celebrated anti-annexation petition of some years ago, was treated by Congress.

The position in China seems as muddled and ruined as ever. The indemnity demanded is considered by all who have any cognizance of Chinese finance to be quite out of the power of China to pay. How she will meet even a modified indemnity is problematical. The finances are pretty well mortgaged already for many indemnities of the past. Of course there is always the alternative of yielding territory in place of coin. But this would rouse as great a difficulty as ever. Once it came to a partition of territory, the jealousy of each individual power would be aroused, and there would likely enough be a serious outbreak among themselves. Different nations uniting in a struggle together rarely continue long united. This was the story of the Crusades, when the strongest incentive known to mankind, similar religious belief and fervor, urged the nations to stick together, but in spite of all national jealousies became paramount, overtopped religious fervor and the Crusades utterly collapsed.

"LOO LOO LOU LOOT" THURSTON OUT ON BAIL

EVERYBODY LOOTED SAYS SIR CLAUDE MACDONALD.

The British Representative Acknowledges Having a Piece of Loot Himself and Says He Will Keep It.

Writing from Tokyo on January 12, Mr. Stafford Ransome records in the Daily Express a conversation with Sir Claude Macdonald, in which his Excellency is reported to have said: "It is not a normal population housed in the British Legation at Peking is between seventy and eighty people, but during the siege we had 900 to take care of and feed. The greater part of these were missionaries and their converts. Their behavior was excellent; in fact, we derived much material benefit from their presence. The American missionaries, in particular, developed a wonderful capacity for organization. The missionaries of course all spoke Chinese, and had a great power over their people, and among them were a number of teachers, whose services were invaluable. Among their converts were men of all sorts of trades, with the result that not only were people fed with regularity and system, but satisfactory sanitary arrangements were made, and the routine of life was so perfected that we could even get our clothes mended. I know nothing as to the accuracy of that telegram to the effect that Sir Ernest Sartou had stated that the Christians must not look for compensation, as they had identified themselves by foot; but in any case looting has been general. As far as the British army is concerned our men have done their fair share. Had we been alone we could have controlled our men, but our Tommies are not angels, and it was too much to expect of them that they should keep their hands off when there were the Russians, the Germans, and the French helping themselves. The British, however, organized their looting at an early stage and did not seem to be brought in and sold systematically by the looting committee. The behavior of the Japanese was excellent, but when they take a virtuous tone by maintaining that of all the powers they were alone in stopping their soldiers looting at an early date, we must remember that when they first entered Peking they made a bee-line for the Treasury, and took everything they could lay their hands on. I much deprecate the ultra-sensational accounts as to looting which have gone out and I cannot help smiling at the fact that one of the gentlemen of your fraternity who was waxing indignant on the subject had in his pocket at the very time of his accusations a jade tablet, valued at $400, which I am among the looters, said Sir Claude smiling, and here is my loot, showing me a small recessed utensil in stone, not unlike a letter weight, with some Chinese characters engraved on it. This is King Yi's ink pot. When I found myself in that gentleman's house and reflected on the amount of trouble he had given me, I could not resist carrying away a little memento of that ingenious statesman, and what more suitable souvenir than this ink pot, which, doubtless, he had used so frequently in the course of our never-ending negotiations. Is it only worth a shilling or two and is my only piece of loot, but I value it. As to the behavior of the missionaries after the looting, if all looting is wrong, as in theory it is, then they have been to blame; but there are times when the laws of nature assert themselves over the laws of civilization, and this was a case in point. You must remember that at these men had just endured a long siege, that they had been bereft of everything that they possessed, and that they had hundreds of men similarly destitute, who were dependent on them. What was their position? Had they come to me and said, 'Give us money and food,' I could only have replied in the negative, or, at all events to the effect that I could not feed their converts; and so they took the law into their own hands. It has been a case of poetic or poetic justice. But, granted that this sort of justice was admissible, I do not admit that the missionaries have abused it. I have not heard of a single instance of missionaries looting for any other purpose than that of getting back what they had lost, and of feeding themselves and their converts who were dependent on them. You may certainly say from me that in my opinion, if looting under any circumstances is permissible, the looting by the missionaries, as I saw it, was at all events, undeserving of the existing accusations that have been made against it; and that of the conduct of the missionaries during the siege I can only speak in the highest terms. They were courageous, patient, and self-sacrificing. I can only say that their capacity for organizing and their power over their converts which was then displayed came as a revelation to me. In fact, had they not been with us our hardships would have been materially increased. BARBOZA CONFESSES. Yesterday afternoon, Antonio Barboza, a small boy who told Judge Wilcox this morning that he did not know where he secured that he did not know which he became intoxicated, admitted to Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth that he procured the wine that made him drunk at one of the small stores in the Portuguese district. The store-keeper will be arrested for selling liquor to a minor. When found by the officers yesterday afternoon the boy was disturbing the public peace by using vile and abusive language. CHINESE REFORMER SPEAKS. Yesterday, the Bow Wong Wui Tong of Honolulu, entertained the Chinese reformer Hsi Shih Chin, who is traveling to the mainland in the interest of Chinese liberty. The gentleman spoke to a large and enthusiastic audience at the rooms of the entertaining club. His remarks were listened to with the closest attention. After the conclusion of the address, Hsi Shih Chin was taken about the city and shown its beauties. Accompanying the distinguished reformer, is S. Y. Hsieh, a young Chinese student from the University of Tien Tsun who goes to California to enter Stanford University. A large delegation of resident Chinese were at the steamer at midnight to bid the two tourists aloha. WHERE IT DIDN'T OCCUR. The following communication was published this morning. EDITOR ADVERTISER: I wish to make a statement in reference to an article published in your paper of the 21st of the wife-beating affair, alleged to have occurred on the night of the 20th. Many people supposed it to have occurred in the corner of Punchbowl and Beretania streets. I wish it made clear to the public that it did not occur there, but in an adjoining cottage. Trusting you will publish this, I am respectfully yours. MRS. JAMES E. THOMPSON, Corner Beretania and Punchbowl Sts.

THURSTON OUT ON BAIL

WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS IS ALLOWED.

Matter will be Thrashed Out in the Supreme Court Monday Morning. Thurston's Contentions.

L. A. Thurston yesterday afternoon secured from Chief Justice Frear a writ of habeas corpus on his case returnable next Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the Supreme Court. Bail was fixed at $500 and was promptly supplied. Thurston was taken in charge by High Sheriff Brown shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was at the time consulting with his attorneys, Judge Hartwell and W. A. Kinney, in the office of Associate Justice Gerry. When the High Sheriff served the mittimus, he was answered that a writ of habeas corpus would be asked for at once. The papers were already drawn and the High Sheriff waited until the order of the Chief Justice could be procured. A bond for $500 was made out, signed and the prisoner released. In his petition for habeas corpus, Thurston reviewed the argument brought out in Circuit court, tending to establish the sacredness of the confidential relations existing between counsel and client and that he could not be compelled to divulge any information. He further attacked the jury, affirming that "the said body, claiming to be a grand jury, is not in fact a lawful grand jury and is wholly without power jurisdiction and authority to propound such questions," etc. His reasons for this contention is that the jury was drawn by a court bailiff, who is neither a sheriff nor deputy sheriff, upon orders of a Circuit Judge. Commencing at 7:30 o'clock tonight the Government Band will give a concert at the Hawaiian Hotel. Following is the program: PART I. Overture—"Peter Scholl." Weber. Chorus—"Tannhauser." Wagner. Grand Selection—"Il Trovatore." Verdi. Songs: (a) "Ka Ua Noe o Koloa." Miss I. Kellia. (b) "Kaala." Mrs. N. Alapai. (c) "Makika ka Makani o Kohala." Mrs. N. Alapai. PART II. Cornet Solo—"Eleanor." Weigand. Charles Kreuter. Waltz—"Sorma." Grossmal. Masurka—"Autumn." Passaro. Medley—"Sweet Old Songs." Dalbey. "Star Spangled Banner."

SENATE GETS A MESSAGE

ACTING GOVERNOR ON PROPOSED NEW LOAN. Says That Under Law of 1896 The Sum of $799,000 May be Borrowed—To Judiciary Committee.

Acting Governor Cooper yesterday afternoon submitted to the Senate a message in which he stated that it was within the power of the Legislature to incorporate in the appropriation bill a provision for a loan of $799,000 to reimburse the current receipts account.

Senator Achi wanted to refer the matter to the Judiciary committee. The principal reason for this was that the whole question rested with the bankers. Bankers were a clamorous set. Cecil Brown and H. P. Baldwin were on the committee and if after investigation, they said the scheme was all right, the money could be secured on the bonds.

SCHOOL MATTERS AGAIN.

The Senate Devotes Afternoon to the Subject. School matters again occupied the attention of the Senate again yesterday afternoon. In the morning the committee spent more than an hour at the office of the Department of Education.

Both sides of the committee agreed that the Superintendent should be paid $3,962.50 for back salary between June 14, 1900 and April 1, 1901. On motion when the reports were being considered the item passed as indicated. The entire committee also agreed to a total appropriation of $600,000 for support of schools.
