PROGRESS.

HONOLULU, FEB. 14, 1894.

ASIATICS IN ARMS.

They Follow the Caucasian Lead.

One of the gravest issues of the day is now staring the provisional government in the face. To-night a mass-meeting of all Chinese residents will be held at the Chinese Theatre, where a protest will be entered against the proposed new restriction law against the Asiatics. The language used will be so emphatical that the government will have good reason to pause and think before leaping into a situation so full of complications that the result may be of dire disaster to the country. We are not pro-Chinese by any means, but we are endeavoring to be just, and we do not consider that the act which it is proposed to pass has even the slightest flavor of justice. We are strongly opposed to the introduction of any more Chinese into the country, but we believe that those who are here as law-abiding citizens and contribute their share of the taxes to the government should be treated with justice and fairness. It is unnecessary to enumerate the reasons why Chinese should not be encouraged to come to these Islands. The main and most potent reason is that it is contrary to the rules of good government in any state to exceed the number of males over females in any marked degree. The Chinese increase the male population of the country only and thereby cause a serious disproportion between the sexes which are contrary to all social and moral ethics. From a politico-economical view they only contribute their taxes to the state, while they send all their surplus cash out of country, a proceeding which the natural by is detrimental to the national capital. They are further on a distinct migratory population and they never become permanently domesticated or affiliate themselves with the customs and people of the country. For these reasons we decidedly object to a further importation of Chinese; but in regard to those now in the country, we object to any laws or measures which place them beyond the rights and privileges of other nationalities. They pay, as we have said above a large proportion of the taxes and they are large importers and dealers. They are therefore certainly entitled to be treated with at least decency and some show of fairness. It may have been a mistake ever to have introduced Chinese into the country, but it is no use crying over spilt milk. They are here and must be treated like human beings and with that equality and fairness which is the boast of all true Americans. The special objection which the Chinese raise against the proposed law is in regard to the license demanded for all who desire to enter into mechanical occupation. Also the clause which makes it optional with the Minister of Interior to grant licenses to storekeepers and which prevents a re-issuing of a license to a man who once had become a bankrupt. The registration act is also a cause of great opposition. But mark well that the Chinese do not oppose these laws on the merits alone, but especially because they are made exclusively for them and all other nationalities are exempted. Why should a white man be permitted to get a new license after his bankruptcy when a Chinese storekeeper is refused it? Why should a sneid-mechanic be allowed to pursue his business to the injury of a skilled mechanic without a license simply because he hails from Finland or America or Greenland, while a Chinese mechanic is barred to ply his trade except by procuring a license? Why should a Chinaman be made to register as an accommodation for the government which desires to check vagrancy, while hundreds of white loafers and toughs are infesting the street-corners and political organizations with impunity? It is these questions which will be asked to-night at the Chinese theatre and we can predict that the answer will be such that it will make the Provisional Government tremble in their boots. Trample on the worm too long and at last he turns and stings.

THE JAPANESE.

A Mass-meeting Probable

There is a move must among the intelligent Japanese residents to call a mass-meeting and discuss what steps it will be proper for the Japanese colony to take for the purpose of obtaining representation in the P. G. government of Hawaii. The immediate cause for this step which may have some very serious results for the government is the idiotic piece of school-boy work in allowing a certain political organization to hold a sham election and to dictate to the government who shall sit in the council and who shall not.—The Japanese are eminently a quiet and tractable people. They have heretofore left it for their own government to obtain the rights to which Japanese citizens in Hawaii are entitled and the matter has on account of the revolution here so far been kept in abeyance when the intelligent and prominent leaders among the Japanese here now see that all that is necessary to obtain representation is to form themselves into a political organization and from the rostrum of such a league make sufficient noise to be heard in the government building and thereby intimidating our present rulers the situation assumes a different aspect. There are absolutely no reasons for them to wait for the Japanese government to help them. They can do that themselves and by passing a number of resolutions and presenting them to the councils in a peremptory manner they can gain their point.—The Japanese have not the same causes of grievance as have the Chinese but it is well understood that the two nations propose to work together and join issues. What the end will be, nobody can foresee just now, but it looks as if the government will have its hand full before long.

The Advertiser correspondent who criticized the army a few days ago has been relieved, we understand from further connection with that great military body. The gag-laws of the P. G. are evidently not confined to the press or to the royalists.

The Annexation Club is issuing certificates of membership in a most promiscuous manner both to members and to non-members. Anything for a vote.

The usual kicker was prominent in the volcano party which returned this morning. Manager Lee and Purser Beckley whistled in a duet "wait till the clouds roll by Pele" and then they smiled.

WOULDN'T it be well now from Smith of the Star to give the public the history of Smith of the League before he gets into the Councils? There was a time when the reform organs used an unlimited amount of pet names when writing about Mr. D. B. Smith, chief-electrician to His Majesty Kalakaua and a knight of the Crown of Hawaii.

Rats implies that two government officials at South Kona, Hawaii, are about to have a duel. The marshal has gone forward to act in a blessed manner, as pacificator. It is not expected that either men will be injured although news of the result is waited for in suspense.

COMING HOME.

Some Literary Chickens Return.

We publish a few letters from Hawaiian residents—male and female—which have appeared in the New York Sun, and which give a pretty good idea of the spread-eagle tone used by the persons who furnish the correspondence bureau of the Sun with material. It is worthy of notice that President Dole's wife is among the correspondents to the journal in question, and that she evidently believes that the United States are an adjunct of her kule-ana. Hence the expression my United States. Little "Elwood" who is labelled as being 10 years old and an annexationist would undoubtedly be much improved if his fundamental part was brought somewhat closer into connection with one of his father's shingles. A Chinese slipper might serve the purpose though. The third letter from another old gossip tells the world some news in regard to a wholesale bribery of Cleveland, Blount and the Queen. The writer's "old man" evidently doesn't concur in his wife's opinion; if he wasn't so henpecked he would undoubtedly have prevented his better (?) half from making more of a fool of herself than nature absolutely intended to do.

Honolulu, Dec. 8, 1893.
"My dear Friend: We have received your letter of Nov. 17 and my husband and I thank you heartily for your expressions of sympathy. This is indeed a time when we need all the friends to stand by us. Mr. Cleveland's policy with regard to restoring the ex-Queen came upon us like a thunderbolt. It seemed to me almost incredible that it could be so. But the Provisional Government is brave and strong and united, and it means to resist attacks from whatever source they come. I am proud of it even while I tremble.
"But I do not—no, I cannot—believe that the President of my United States will ever instigate so disgraceful a deed as to send his navy to fight Americans who are defending themselves in the holy cause of liberty! We feel now that the great American people are with us, and next to God our trust is in them. The way they have risen up in righteous wrath is a fine thing to behold, and if Congress takes this thing in hand, as I believe it must do now, we think we shall be all right. * * * With renewed thanks for your sweet sympathy, and with sincere 'aloha,' ANNA C. DOLE."

Honolulu, Nov. 26, 1893.
"The Queen (?) is not yet restored!!! You will get papers which tell of the mass meeting held last night. The Government does not mean to back down at the request of the United States Minister, and as yet he has not made such request. I fancy he does not know just how to present the subject—he is surprised to find an intelligent community here; everything is different from his expectations; so he told us when we called on him. The officers of the Provisional Government, he said, would compare well with men in the United States in like position, and he doesn't know what to make of them. He did not attempt to carry out his orders; he wrote home for further instructions, and that give us a chance to hear from abroad what he was expected to do. The Champion, H. B. M. S., is in port, and we see by the San Francisco papers that Wodehouse has promised, the Queen, British protection when she is restored. I am glad Capt. Witse did not live long enough to be censured by this Administration. The one joy we have in all this is the outcry of the American people. A queer thing happened a few weeks ago. A rumor was whispered that the Sugar Trust had bribed Cleveland to veto annexation. Now it is town talk. It is said that one million dollars is to be given to Cleveland for refusing annexation and one million for restoring the Queen.
"At first my husband said he did not believe it. If the Sugar Trust, who were to give this bribe, had really done so, they would not tell of it; but now he believes there is something in it—the sly way which Cleveland has pursued all through, and which is more plainly manifest every day, Blount's neglect of every one, as far as he dared, who was known to be an annexationist, his willingness to receive their witness, then this final act, having, as he supposed, already accomplished the restoration, and refusing annexation without submitting the thing to Congress at all. I think you will admit that we have reason to feel that there is truth in the story, still it seems hard, and it is very humiliating to feel that the Chief Magistrate of our own dear, dear country could stoop to anything so degrading as this, though the bribe is such a big one. Of course you will not use any names when repeating this news. The story is now talk in Honolulu, but these names are not generally used, and the more I think of it the more ready I am to believe it, because it explains so much that puzzled us in Mr. Blount's course. He was to get his share as my special "commissioner."

HONOLULU, DEC. 16, 1893.
"MY DEAR FRIEND: Papa and I wish you could be here now, it is so exciting. Everybody is talking about Cleveland and politics, and I have just been telling papa that I want him to buy me a gun and fight him. It takes bigger men than me to fight, but I guess they can do it. If Cleveland is like his pictures he must be pretty short-winded, and would be knocked out first round. I'd like to pelt him with a few coconuts. Wouldn't it be fine if I could play David to Goliath Blount? I think our big burning volcano, Kilauea, was intended for offering just such sacrifices (?) to Pele as Cleve, Gres, and Paramount, with Liliuokalani thrown in for flavoring. I guess Pele would think them the biggest and most acceptable pigs that she ever struck.
"When I was down at Wing Wo Chan's store yesterday I asked one of the clerks to which party did he belong, and he squeezed up his eyes and said: 'I belong to Melicany party. Melicans got plenty money. I like President Dole, with his pig-tailed whiskers. I no fightee for Dam Blount and Kanaka Queen.' I told him that I would swing on his pigtail if he did so. So you see how we feel down here on the Hawaiian problem. In the afternoon I went down to Brewer's wharf, where I waited for a steam launch to go to the Philadelphia (Capt. Barker is a dandy Jim and invites me over often), and while waiting on the wharf I thought I would pump the native boatmen, and first they said they were all royalists, but before I boarded the launch they one and all said that they would to have Kaulani Queen, and then let her ask for annexation; but they want the missionary Americans doing it for them. So you see, how encouraged we ought to feel.

"The Afong wedding was fine, and Marie Afong gave me lots of cake and ice cream, and it gave me colic, but I am better today.
"I still wear the American flag over my heart. I love you still.
ELLWOOD."

BREAKERS AHEAD.

MISSIONARIES IN THE SMOKE.

The royalists need at present do nothing except lie quietly back and amuse themselves by taking in the circus which is being performed between the League the club and the government. The poor missionaries are not in it. They have sown the wind and they are reaping the whirlwind. The American league is constituted and composed of goodness know who has swamped the conservative annexation club totally and has forced upon the government, a man who certainly has no affinities with the missionary element. The league which represents a radical crowd of more or less strangers led by a few demagogues and professional ward-politicians is dominant and the moneyed interests with their representatives have met a snow storm. The respectable god-fearing church-going reform party has had to sit still at a meeting listening to such sentiments as the following from the lips of a stranger, one W. G. Smith: "I hope it will be impressed on all our friends who dissent from us, that in this era, the radical movement must, and shall and will have it ways." The ideal government of the reform party we have always been told was the Wilcox, Brown cabinet. The ideals of the radical party which "shall" "must" and will have its way are evidently Smith the shoeman, Smith the writer, Murray the—well what is he? The reform party is dead and we have no tears to shed over the corpse but for the good of this country we think that something should be done to check a move which will lead us some day to the abyss of anarchy and riot. Who are the members of the American League who presume to dictate to the country? We are told that there are about 500 members of that organization and we are also informed that more than 200 of them have not resided in this country for one year. Is it to such that the control of the government is to be given? Where are the Germans, the British and the Portuguese citizens? Are they going to sit tamely by and see a mob grab the reins of the government and run the country to ruin at the bidding of a man like Tim Murray and his supporters? We hardly believe it possible and we hardly believe in spite of Mr. Frank Hatch's assurances that there is only harmony, love and fraternal feelings among the men who support the P. G. Mr. Samuel Damon in his unfortunate but inborn desire for popularity has opened the dams and let loose the flood of mob rule. He will find that it is much easier to let it loose than ever to stem it again, and if not checked now it will carry him and his interests with it to the deep and bottomless sea. The American League appears now in its true colors. The members are all members of the Annexation Club, but dissatisfied with the brotherhood of the other nationalities represented there they have isolated themselves and by their actions deprived the other members of the annexation club of all voice in the government. If it was that we deeply feel the danger which threatens the welfare of the community and of the country, we should only rejoice to see the men who concocted and helped in the late revolution, hoisted by their own petards and politically shelved by a lot of foreign adventurers and filibusters. Of course the councils will lack the moral courage to refuse a seat to Mr. D. B. Smith, and select in his place a man who, can, as far as the real annexationists are concerned, can be called representative and satisfactory. That Mr. D. B. Smith is neither is the opinion of every man who knows his record in this country and who doesn't consider an endorsement of the League a criterion of ability, respectability or honesty.

THEY RETURN.

The Nightingales Visit Pele.

The Misses Albu and manager Plunkett returned from Hawaii this morning after a visit to Hilo and to the Volcano.

The party enjoyed their trip very much, although the weather was most miserable. The rain in Hilo seems to be as copious as in Honolulu. The volcano was very active, and presented a highly interesting spectacle. Mr. Plunkett speaks in the highest terms of the treatment which they received from the hands of the genial manager of the Volcano House, Mr. Peter Lee. There were sixteen tourists staying at the hotel, and the accommodations were found excellent. On Saturday night the famous singers gave a concert in Hilo. Mr. Wilson made the latest time on record from the volcano to Hilo to enable the ladies to be on time for the concert. He covered the distance in 5 hours and 40 minutes. The concert took place in the Court House which kindly had been placed at the disposition of the singers by Sheriff Williams, and the house was fully packed. The audience highly appreciated the concert which was, as could be expected, a great success.

The Misses Albu are loud in their praises of the hospitality and courtesies extended to them by the Hilo residents. The gifted vocalists will leave for California by the Australia, and will not give any more concerts in Honolulu.

LOCAL NEWS.

Rain, mud, wrath.

There is no Hawaiian news.

There is no news of importance from abroad.

And still no sign of the overdue Oceanic.

The nominees on the secret League ticket at the election on Monday evening were; L. C. Ables, J. L. Carter, J. C. Clancy, C. H. Luther, J. S. Martin, F. W. McChesney, F. A. Smith, and D. B. Smith. All but Smith (D. B.) and Luther withdrew before the votes were cast and D. B. Smith was elected as the nominee of the Club in the Advisory Council.

WELL PLAYED.

P. G.'s Friends Fall Out.

In response to the call for a mass-meeting of followers of the secret League and the Annexation clubs at the Drill shed and for the stated purpose of ratifying the nomination of David Bowers Smith as a proper and acceptable person for position among the wise-acres of the nation who are now in the Advisory Council, there came together last evening an incongruous assemblage of people composed mainly of Portuguese with a sprinkling of members of the Caucasian race, the total number being withing three-hundred and fifty souls.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. F. M. Hatch, who is understood to have the nomination as minister of foreign affairs in the Executive Council, and who by virtue of his position as vice-president of the Annexation club assumed control of the proceedings. Mr. Hatch stated the purpose for which the meeting was called. He was followed by a member of the Annexation club who, placed the name of F. W. McChesney before the mixed assemblage for nomination. The nomination was seconded but before vote was taken thereon the following resolution was read:

Whereas,—The American League has named Mr. D. B. Smith for this place, therefore be it Resolved,—That this mass meeting hereby endorses Mr. D. B. Smith for the Advisory Council, and shall through its Secretary and President so inform the Executive and Advisory Councils.

The resolution was now voted on and it was seen that the Annexation club members had taken a tumble and held their heads and hands down. There was no mercy shown by the victors for after Smith's name being placed in nomination Jos. B. Atherton moved that there be no more and it carried. Mr. Smith being called on jumped on the table, took a paper from his pocket and read therefrom to the effect that, in the words of some one or another annexation was sure, and he appreciated the honor of about being a member of the Council.

Mr. James Nott, Jr., who was formerly in the plumbing and tinsmithing business but had met with such business reverses that he is now a gentleman of leisure, ascended the table, and read: Whereas,—In making changes the mass of the supporters of the Provisional Government have had no voice; therefore be it Resolved,—That this mass meeting of annexationists and supporters of the Provisional Government hereby petitions the Councils to enact a law increasing the membership of the Advisory Council from fourteen to twenty-four.

The signal was given and heartily yells approved the document. The chair seemed non-plussed; good annexationists looked at one another and the light seemed to dawn upon them that they were very much immersed in the political consomme as far as any attempt at nominations went. Vote was had on Mr. McChesney's nomination and a few staunch Annexation Club members held up their hands thus misleading a few Portuguese who followed suit. The opposition to the nomination being called the League members nearly all held up both hands and another of the Mac's was doomed to political death.

The chairman, Mr. F. M. Hatch, with a true sense of order ruled that the resolution could not be considered by this meeting as it had been called for a special purpose only. There was where Mr. Hatch was thrown in with his confederates of the annexation club and before he was aware of it he was also in the soup, another Smith, not Richmond but W. G. appealing from his decision and won, the combination present deciding against the chair. The resolution passed and soon after, with the exception of a little disturbance caused by a brick rolling along the iron roof, the meeting quietly dispersed the secret League members exciting in their capture of the club.

FOREIGN.

Two Days Later.

By the arrival of the Irmgard in port this afternoon dates of January 31st and February 1st have been received, the latest news is as follows:

Advices of Jan. 31 from state that the U. S. Detroit had fired into Admiral Mello's ship Da Gamma. Mello offered to surrender but Admiral Binham would not accept him.

On the next day Mello fired into a German launch. He was told that he would be blown out of water if done again.

Vote on the tariff bill is set for February 1st.

Bad Weather.

But little damage was done in and about Honolulu by the late heavy rains the main reason for less destruction occurring, than formerly, is the improved grading of the streets and the making of gutters which carry the surplus water to seaward. Along the edges of the Nuuanu stream the quickly rising waters, of the usually shallow and lazily flowing river, encompassed, without warning many domestic animals and fowl, whose habitat was land, and bore them downward with other flotsam, to the waters of the harbor, where they were quickly captured by the many wreckers on such business bent. Last night the wind added force to the pelting rain and the not very vivid lightning with muffled growl of distant thunder gave added interest and effect to the war of the elements. This morning the wind shifted from the south to the north-west and heavy rain showers fell while an overcast sky offered strong indications of continued bad weather. At noon the wind had gone back into the south again with weather indications of a coming Kona.

The Bulletin states that the Custom House is the rendezvous of the executive committee of the Annexation Club.

Mr. E. R. Hendry, the manager of the Hawaiian Hardware Co. has gone to Hilo and other points on Hawaii on a business trip.

Company B took advantage of the absence of Captain Hugh Gunn to displace that popular officer and elect Judge Robertson, captain of the company. It will be rather a surprise to Gunn when he returns from Maui to find that he has "gone off" the official list.
