CONGRESSIONAL RALLY TONIGHT AT AALA

Military Organizations March To Nuuanu Cemetery

EXERCISES AT NUUANU CEMETERY

Preceded by the young and vigorous marching men who represent the fighting power of the United States, the veterans of Honolulu at 1:50 o'clock this afternoon took their places in the procession that started for Nuuanu cemetery to decorate the graves of departed soldiers of the War of the Rebellion. They rode in a tallho, drawn by eight white horses, and in one of two smaller conveyances.

The parade, as is usual on such occasions, was a little late in forming. It was under the command of Frank Andrade, the Marshal of the day. First came a squad of mounted police, clearing the street for the long line following. A squad of United States troops under the command of a sergeant followed the police, and next came a squad of marines.

The Territorial troops were under the command of Colonel Sam Johnson. There is something in the atmosphere—something that is neither sorrow nor joy, a certain peculiar solemnity, that shows unmistakably that the people of Honolulu, like all other people of the United States, feel that this occasion is one on which they can all meet on a common ground.

who with his staff, Captain-Adjutant Cummins, and Lieutenants Smithers and Dougherty, were at the head of the National Guard. Next came the band and four companies of the Guard. The first battalion, under command of Major Riley, consisted of company E, Lieut. Kukalia, and Company B, Lieut. Cook. The second battalion, commanded by Major Rose, consisted of Company F, Capt. Neely, and Company G, Lieut. Kokuaike. The signal corps, commanded by Lieut. Angus, and the hospital corps, led by Sergeant Barry, brought up the rear of the guard.

After the National Guard followed the boys of Kamehameha School, about 130 in number, under command of Mr. Hatchett. And then came the veterans of George W. De Long Post No. 45, and the carriages of citizens.

Along the streets through which the procession passed on its way to the cemetery were hundreds of people lining the sidewalks, and large numbers of them joined in the march to the grounds where the exercises of the afternoon are being held.

The bearing of the men of the National Guard was soldierly in every point. They realized that they were for the first time under the command of their new colonel, and they marched accordingly—heads out, eyes to the front, feet keeping perfect time.

Even a stranger who had lost track of the passage of time and did not know the day of the month or the time of year, if he were to drop into Honolulu today, could not fail to see at once that this is the day the Nation sets aside for honoring its dead. It is not merely the flags half-masted on Government buildings, stores, private residences and ships lying in the harbor that speak of Decoration Day. There is something in the atmosphere—something that is neither sorrow nor joy, a certain peculiar solemnity, that shows unmistakably that the people of Honolulu, like all other people of the United States, feel that this occasion is one on which they can all meet on a common ground.

FOURTH INNING
Brums got a finger hurt and Lewis is catching. En Sue took a difficult foul from Sheldon's bat. Bushnell dropped Lemon's fly in left field. As the game progresses the Kams seem to lose heart on account of Reuter's absence. Vannatta put a long fly to the left field fence. Lemon, Jones and Vannatta on bases. Lemon crossed the plate on a tossed ball by Lewis. Jones scored on En Sue's poor throw to home. Vannatta made a run on another passed ball by Lewis. Gleason dropped Evers' throw and Kaanol reached first and stole second. Miller scored on Bushnell's throw in of Kuhina's long fly.

FIFTH INNING
En Sue threw to Evers and reached first. Sheldon dropped Lemon's grounder. Evers' grounder and Evers reaches first. En Sue goes to third. En Sue is put out at the plate while trying to score on an overthrow to first. Jim Williams' hit to right scores Evers and Bushnell. Lewis flies out to right. Aylett hit by pitcher, forcing Williams to first. Three men on bases. Gleason sends one through short and Williams scores. Gleason out at second.

SIXTH INNING
Lota walked and went to second on a passed ball. This was all that the Kams did in this inning.

SEVENTH INNING
Sheldon hits safe over second. Lemon on out to Evers. Jones strikes out. Vannatta hit safe between short and third. Sheldon goes to second. Miller strikes out.

EIGHTH INNING
Aylett missed Reuter's fly and went to second on Kuhina's hit to left. Kuhina caught between first and second and Reuter tied the score on Gleason's throw to the catcher. Bushnell and Gleason put off a double. Bushnell's one-hand stop in this inning was a feature.

NINTH INNING
Sheldon came home on a passed ball by Lewis. Vannatta out, pitcher to first.

CONGRESSMEN STAY HERE UNTIL TOMORROW

The Congressional party will not sail before tomorrow at 11 o'clock. The decision to postpone the sailing date of the transport Sherman, in which the Congressmen are to return, until tomorrow, was reached by Quartermaster Captain Humphrey this forenoon in order to put an end to the uncertainty which the non-arrival of the vessel would otherwise leave the matter in.

SHERMAN WILL NOT TAKE CONGRESSIONAL PARTY

LAUKEA'S STATEMENT WITHOUT GROUNDS

Milverton Says There is A Fund To Pay Hack Hire

If Sheriff Laukea were better acquainted with the details of the work of his office, he would not be constantly making statements which turn out to be incorrect and without foundation. In the opinion of the members of the Attorney General's office, the Sheriff's latest complaint against the Department of the Attorney General is that it is trying to make him pay for hack hire, etc., for the subpoenaing of witnesses to appear before the Grand Jury. He claims that he has no fund out of which such expenses can be paid.

In this statement, as in some others that he has made, he is wrong, says Deputy Attorney General Fred Milverton. The Sheriff has a fund of $150 a month, good until July 1, to pay just such expenses. The Board of Supervisors, at the suggestion of County Attorney Cathcart, appropriated this sum for the purpose of paying hack hire and other expenses incurred by the Attorney General's Department in the summoning of witnesses, etc.

POLICE BAFFLED BY ONE LITTLE GIRL

What the Honolulu police force tried hard for over four days to do and confessed that they couldn't, was accomplished yesterday morning in just an hour and a half, by a single member of the High Sheriff's Department.

BRINCKERHOFF MAY START WORK SOON

Could Use The Kalihl Station For The Present

A brief discussion of the report of President Pinkham, and the reading of the neglected minutes of several previous meetings constituted the proceedings of the Board of Health, at its meeting yesterday afternoon. President Pinkham is making an effort to induce the Federal Government to begin at once their work of sending a cure for leprosy, without waiting until the leprosarium on Molokai is completed. It has been three years since the project was first started, and the construction of the leprosarium is not yet started. In order that as little further time as possible may be lost, President Pinkham proposes that the work be begun in the Kalihl station. This plan is outlined in the report he made yesterday to the Board. In addition to receiving and approving this report, the Board appointed C. H. Tracy permanently chief sanitary officer and inspector of cemeteries. The report of the President is as follows: To the Members of the Board of Health.

I herewith present for your criticism or approval, plans for the improvement of the Kalihl Receiving Station, the appropriation of $9,000.00 by the Legislature being sufficient to cover the cost.

As proposed, they consist of the following details:

One examination room,
One dressing room,
Two rooms for nurses,
One laboratory room,
One drug room,
One disinfecting and bath room,
One operating and treatment room,
One bath room for medicated baths,
Twelve single bed rooms for patients.

One lounge and dining room,
One store room,
One screened, mosquito-proof lanai—3x14 ft.
Sundry kitchen improvements, etc.
It is three years since the United States Leprosarium was suggested, and two years since the appropriation was granted by Congress. Owing to technicalities, bids in excess of the amount appropriated, etc., no start has been made, and there are no immediate prospects of the work being undertaken, or should work be begun that the plant will be available for two years.

I have taken the liberty to inquire of Dr. Brinckerhoff if the Department would accept a proposition to temporarily occupy the improvements above suggested and proceed at once with the work until the station in Molokai is established.

The buildings at Kalihl can be completed on or before October 1st. If the plan is approved of by all concerned the United States scientists and practitioners can begin their work at once.

I apprehend the only difficulty will be the interpretation of the Auditor of the United States may declare as to whether the appropriation for maintenance of the Molokai station can be used temporarily for a similar object carried on at the Kalihl Receiving Station. The matter has been submitted to the Surgeon-General at Washington. There are in addition newly built and repaired accommodations at Kalihl for twenty-four patients.

We have now regularly employed a special nurse for the oversight of the unfortunate leper girls and children while detained at Kalihl, a fact that is exceedingly gratifying to me.

The closing of the public wash houses, at Kalihl, forces a serious problem upon the Board of Health whose consent is necessary to the establishment of substitute laundries.

In few countries are more frequent changes of wash clothing required than here, and laundry bills to persons of moderate means are formidable.

The Chinese in their way have been able to meet this necessity at prices for laundrying within reach of moderate incomes.

The government wash houses were some too sanitary and embraced the regularly unhygienic feature of human habitations practically in the same room laundry operations were carried on.

I have stated to various applicants desiring the legal approval of the Board, that I did not think the Board would permit human habitation in the same room or directly connecting room with those in which washing is carried on.

I also have advised the Chinese to form an association, or at least a very limited number of associations, these associations to build their wash houses under the specification and plans the Board would outline in detail, which plans while simple and comparatively inexpensive, would insure laundrying being carried on under positive sanitary and hygienic conditions.

I have stated the Board would not approve of numerous scattered laundries, and that such projects would be more expensive than associated facilities.

I consider this a serious matter for the Board cannot watch an unlimited number of wash houses.

Public health in this territory requires increasing vigilance and private

LINCOLN'S GETTYSBURG SPEECH

Four score and seven years ago our Fathers brought forth on this Continent a new Nation, conceived in Liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great Civil War, testing whether that Nation, or any Nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure.

We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come together to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that Nation might live.

It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate—we cannot consecrate—we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men who struggled here have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or to detract.

The world will little note nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here.

It is for us, the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced.

It is rather, for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion;

That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. That this Nation under God, shall have a new birth of Freedom. And that Government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the Earth.

Hawaii's tribute to the memory of the men who saved our nation is the sincere expression of a people appreciative of the great victories won for the Nation and for humanity in that greatest of modern struggles for equal rights within the law, free speech, free thought and the supremacy of honest manhood and womanhood.

The writer of the article on the German school in Lidge apparently forgot that ours is a government of laws rather than expedients. It was and is the duty of the educational department to determine the status of every private school under the law, and carry out that law. This is the very simple situation and need not be the subject of acrimonious debate.

SMALL FARM AND THE CONVERTS.

When the Congressmen are gone, Honolulu may be fighting over the absorbing question of who reopened the small-farm controversy and set it going after a period of peaceful hibernation.

The latest addition to the material written on the subject is the publication of an array of data which merely illuminates and strengthens the assertion of fact made by this paper that in the reformation of conditions in Hawaii the President has been met more than half-way by the controlling authority of the large properties.

By interesting and not inartistic invention, the element which was so suddenly converted to the small-farm propaganda for political purposes, strives to slide into the fold of the large industrial institutions whose managers have honestly endeavored and are still at work to reach the goal of Americanization by a practical route.

The chasm between the sycophantic element boosting the small farm for political ends and the legitimate endeavor of the men of wealth and great responsibility, seconded by earnest, honest men without so much of this world's goods as wide as that which separates fraud from truthfulness and artlessness from craft.

The very resolution of the trustees of the Hawaiian Planters' Association, outlining its well-known favorite can community by increasing the number of small proprietors employing a subject race of laborers is in the estimation of a great number of our citizens some part bucombe and the rest misguided effort.

We may better homestead the Asiatic and trust to the influence of American institutions, which have moulded into good citizenship every other form of human clay, than to multiply the number of landed proprietors employing a subject race.

The effort to change conditions must begin with the large industry, because the main industry of any section sets the pace for the little fellow. Congress has something to do in this connection which Hawaii cannot do because Hawaii is subject to the limitations of Federal law.

THIS MAN SAYS THAT FARMERS CAN BE HAD

The following is the text of a letter addressed by one Honolulu citizen to another and presented to the Bulletin for publication. The only comment this paper has to make is to remark upon so long "hidden under a bushel." This paper has not the slightest doubt that the gentleman can get all the assistance he needs to land in Hawaii such settlers as are referred to. But he must be able to deliver the goods.

Dear Sir:—For a long time I have been deeply interested in all that has been said through the papers about white immigrants for Hawaii for plantation work and settlers for government homestead land.

What I have to say here I confine to facts that I know and can prove. I have made no personal efforts other than what was prompted by natural curiosity, in gaining the information.

In central Pennsylvania in the heart of civilization, in one of the most prolific localities of patriotism in the United States can be procured for Hawaii for the asking one thousand farmers and their families for permanent settlement or for plantation laborers. These people (I am one of them) are born to the soil and are a hard working class of men.

It has been said to me that the heat here is too terrible for such people to stand. Bosh.—I have worked in the grain fields and in the quarry day after day when not a breath of air seemed to stir; when the thermometer was registering 109 degrees in the shade and we were continually exposed to a sun violent enough to give sunstroke were we not accustomed to its rays. Hawaii has never known such heat and humidity.

It has also been said that the cane in the fields, where the men are working, shuts off the air and the sharp edges of the cane leaf, etc., makes it too disagreeable for an American to stand. I have been in these torturous cane fields but I have a stronger memory of cutting corn that grew 10 feet tall back in Pennsylvania when the leaves were dead and edges sharp as a knife and to keep our face and hands from bleeding we kept them bandaged. At the same time it was hotter than I have ever known it here.

Some of these people have made savings and many could be brought here that would be able to make cash purchases at once.

If 1000 of these people were brought here the day of their arrival would increase our assets 1000 patriotic citizens.

If you would give this matter to the attention of the proper authorities that would give people instruments I could

OBSERVATORY BADLY NEEDED AT VOLCANO

Prof. Friedlaender Urges That Such Be Erected

The establishment of a permanent observatory at the Volcano, from which the volcanic phenomena occurring at Kilauea and Mauna Loa could be constantly observed, is strongly advocated by Professor Immanuel Friedlaender, an Italian scientist who has made a special study of volcanoes, and who has just returned from a visit to the Volcano.

"It seems to me that it would be a point of pride with the wealthy men of Hawaii to establish a permanent observatory at the Volcano," said Professor Friedlaender this morning. "Such an institution would be of immense value to science, and would afford an opportunity to study volcanic phenomena which is now not being taken advantage of. There are many different types of volcanoes, and those of Mauna Loa and Kilauea are of the most interesting type. They are engulfing or pit volcanoes, of which there are very few that are in action. The work of the pre-historic volcanoes and the deposits made by them was produced by volcanoes of this type, and this is about the only place in the world where such can be watched with comparative ease.

"It would be very useful to have a permanent observatory there, so that outbreaks could be studied while they occur, and so that dependence would not have to be placed on the work of traveling scientists like myself. I have made some observations, but I feel that I could not make a thorough study of the activity here unless I lived here, and I do not care to live here.

"Such an institution should be fitted with seismological instruments, a library and chemical and mineralogical laboratories, so that the volcanic gases could be analyzed at times of activity. Of course, one can analyze the lava even when it is several years old, but the gases, which are one of the most important things, have to be analyzed at the moment they issue. The observatory ought to be fitted with instruments which could be used by visiting scientists, so that they would be able to make their observations with their assistance. That such assistance would be valuable is shown by the fact that when I was here in 1893 I saw flames but had no spectroscopy by which to analyze them. This time I took a spectroscopy along, and there were no flames to be seen.

"Poor Italy has had such an observatory at Vesuvius for about a hundred years; as a matter of fact, it was founded by the kingdom of Naples, and I think that the United States, and more particularly Hawaii, might show a similar interest in assisting science in such an important matter by establishing a laboratory here. The rich men here owe a great debt to science by the aid of which they have been able to make their plantations produce far larger yields than they could have done without it, that they might find this a fitting way to repay this debt."

They are intelligent and patriotic and are not fanatics on religion. They are of the people that have placed and held Pennsylvania in her present position in the union through all her troubles with capital and foreign cheap labor.

LIHUE'S GERMAN SCHOOL PROBLEM

Mother Tongue Necessary For Welfare Of Race

The following, evidently written by some one intimately acquainted with the school, sets forth the status of Lihue's so-called German school. The point before the educational board was, whether this school in its course of study complied with the law.

The Board of Education discussed an application, made under the new law, by Rev. H. Isenberg for recognition of the German school at Lihue, last week. The members after some discussion decided to defer action until they would know what they were talking about, and that was about the only sensible thing that was uttered in this connection.

It is hard for a layman, and probably also for the majority of the members of the Board of Education to understand for what purpose the law in question was introduced and passed. Some claim that it was aimed at the Japanese schools, and intended to cripple the influence they have on the growing Japanese population. If so was the intention, it will fall utterly to do anything but convince the public of the complete ignorance of the Japanese character on the part of the legislators. The few of the children that were not attending both Japanese and English schools prior to the enactment of the law will now be compelled to do so and thereby be better able to compete for the few well paid positions that are yet left for the original settlers.

But no such reasoning can apply to the German school. The children attending this institution may not speak with such a pure(?) accent as those graduating from our public schools, but they are certainly able to do it in quite as grammatical a manner. They are being instructed by teachers who have been fully trained for their calling and have the solid foundation of the German universities back of their knowledge, who have, besides an excellent theoretical acquaintance with English, the familiarity with its use that comes from many years mingling with English speaking people; who have assimilated American ideas and American aims to such a degree that they have renounced their nationality and become American citizens. So much for what may be expected as a result of the training received in this school.

To appreciate the reason for its existence one will have to look at its origin and history a little. In the early eighties some eight hundred Germans were induced to come here to Kaula to work on the plantations and help to build up a Caucasian population. One of the promises given them was that they should have the advantages of German schools and German churches, of course with instruction in English as one of the principal studies. The reason for their insisting upon this condition can easily be understood. A great many of the men and women who constituted the colony had never had any instruction in English, and were, moreover, beyond the age when a new language is easily acquired. They would in most instances after a while learn to use English sufficiently well to be able to transact every day business, but to master the intricacies of English spelling was in most instances not attempted by the older ones. These very ones were the heads of families whose children were within the school age. If they were to be taught in English they would after a while be able to use that language fairly fluently and then absorb some of the lessons. German would not be taught, and they would therefore not have any medium of communication with their own parents, when apart from them.

By far the most weighty reason for the wish to have the children taught in German was, however, that instruction and explanations given them in the mother tongue, to which they had been accustomed since infancy, could be understood, while it would take years before the children would master the new tongue well enough to derive and benefit from lessons given them in some of their studies. The language of their homes would in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred remain German, owing to the difficulty of the older people of breaking from the line of thoughts and expressions to which they have been accustomed from the cradle. The children would therefore for several years have at their command a great many more means of expressing and understanding thoughts in German than in English.

The results reached by the school in fitting the growing generation as useful, intelligent members of an Anglo-Saxon society can be studied all over the Territory. One may find former pupils in positions of trust on all the

JAPANESE JEALOUS OF NEW LABORERS

Chillingworth Says They Feel Their Own Power

"It is the importation of Spaniards and Portuguese by the planters which has started the dissatisfaction on the part of the Japanese with the existing conditions," said Senator Chillingworth this morning when asked what he knew about the report that the Japanese are planning to organize a labor union for the purpose of protecting what they consider their rights. "The newcomers are being paid at the rate of $22.50 a month and the Japanese get only $18. Furthermore, the Spaniards are given far better and more sanitary houses and accommodations than are furnished the Japanese, and it is this that has started them on this movement. They know perfectly that they will be called upon to do the heavy work on the plantations, as for instance the stripping, which you will see the new immigrants will not touch, and that the plantations would be unable to run without them.

"All I know about the matter is that Japanese have come to me asking me, as an attorney, to furnish them with a concise statement of terms which have been offered to the Spaniards and the Portuguese. They have been coming to me for some time past from all the other islands. I do not know what they intend to do with it when they get it, and as far as the talk about a labor union is concerned I know nothing about it."

MRS. TEMPLE'S TELEGRAM BY HON. HIGH SCHOOL

Comedy was first acted on a stage at Athens, B. C. 562, the first regular comedy performed in England was in 1531. Comedy will be produced at the Hawaiian Opera House, Saturday, June 1 at 8 p. m. by the High School Seniors. "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," a society comedy, has been under rehearsal for the past month and everything points to a finished performance. A dress rehearsal takes place Friday night, to smooth off the rough spots, if any, so the play may be well presented. There is nothing like encouragement, and the High School amateurs are deserving of it. They have worked hard to satisfy their friends and their object being a worthy one, a large house should give them greeting. If you have not procured your tickets do so. Reserved seats are to be had at Wall, Nichols Co.

islands and housewives who are taking as good care of the home and children of their American or English born husbands as any other women.

There are more than 100,000 children in the United States who are now being taught in schools where the language used is another than English, though the teaching of the latter forms the most important part of the curriculum. Why then try to inaugurate a policy similar to the one used by the Russians in Finland and the German speaking Baltic provinces, the results of which one is able to read every day.

It has for years been the professed policy of those in power to further the population of the Territory by making it attractive for settlers of the Caucasian race to live here. The school in question and similar ones would and are certainly helping to keep in the islands many who in case of the last link connecting them with the country of their childhood were broken, would move to the mainland.

The school does not cost the Territory a cent, the $2500 a year which are paid in salaries to the teachers being contributed by the plantation and a private individual, but it gives Hawaii a return of numerous well educated citizens without any investment. It would seem to be but sensible to adhere to an American policy of liberty which would accomplish such results rather than to try the Russian way of restriction and consequent dissatisfaction.

PIECE AT ORPHEUM CAPTURES CROWD

The Ellefords will repeat "For Her Children's Sake" tonight at the Orpheum. The production was well received last night, calling forth many notes of applause from a most appreciative audience. EVANGELICAL WORK DONE THIS FORENOON

In spite of the holiday in commemoration of Memorial Day, the Evangelical Association kept up its work in Kawaiahao church this morning. The grounds of the church and the cemetery were thronged with people with flowers for their dead. The old and the young were in their best attire and the decorations of the graves were extraordinarily pretty.

There will be no program for this afternoon as far as the evangelical work is concerned.

Following was the program this morning:

CHINESE FAMINE REPORTS

Shanghai, China, April 19. — The following are extracts from the reports, just received, of foreigners in four famine centers:

Yaowan—The famine is growing worse. Children in great numbers are dying.
Suchien—Almost out of supplies. Need large amounts immediately to continue the relief commenced.
Sing-Kiang Pu—Many dying. Must decrease relief work unless larger shipments of supplies are received.
Lukawietse—The whole country is in the deepest distress. Refugees who went south, hoping to find relief, are returning empty handed. There are processions of people with wheelbarrows, transporting their tables, beds, and effects to market to be sold for almost nothing. Hundreds of women and children are seen in the fields scratching out roots and weeds blades of grass. Hundreds of trees have been stripped of their bark from the roots to the tips of the highest branches for use as fuel. The majority of the population are living on wild roots, etc. etc., which is causing disease.

Bradley had grown tall and broad during his term of cruising. He had learned self reliance, and his voice had a masterful ring. When he went back to Orham nowadays the old maids took special delight in having him escort them to church, and Miss Tomp's eyes during the sermon were often fixed upon him than upon the minister. The money that he sent the sisters amounted to something now, and he had an account in the savings bank.

"Now, as he stood by the rail, with his hands in his pockets, he heard a step on the wharf behind him and turned to see Captain Titcomb jump from the straggles, catch the shroud and swing aboard. The captain's usually good natured face had a scowl on it, and he was plainly not happy. Bradley touched his cap. "How are things going up at the office?" he asked.

"Plumb to the devil," he the short reply. Then, glancing up at the young man's face and looking hurriedly away again, he added: "Come aft. I want to talk to you."

Seated in the dingy cabin, the captain took a cigar from his pocket, bit off the end with a jerk and smoked in great puffs. Bradley waited for him to speak. The skipper's ill humor and obvious discontent had come upon him the afternoon of the day the Thomas Doane reached port and had grown steadily worse. Each morning Captain Titcomb had spent at the office of Williams Bros., and when he returned to the schooner he had done little but smoke, scowl and pace the deck. The second mate was worried, but he asked no questions.

"Brad," said the captain, looking at the shabby carpet on the cabin floor. "We're goin' to have a new mate."

Bradley was surprised. "Is Mr. Bailey going to leave?" he asked. "The old first mate had been as much a part of the Thomas Doane as her mainmast."

"They've given him the Arrow, the new schooner. He's goin' to run her."

"Why, why, Cap'n Ez, I thought she was promised to you."

"I thought so, too, but I missed my reckonin', it seems. Williams—he ain't but the man his brother was—he wants me to wait till the other one, the four master, is off the ways. Then I can have her if I want her."

"But she won't be ready for six months, though I guess from what I hear she'll be worth waiting for. Who'll have the old Doane then?"

"Brad, we're goin' to have a new mate."

"You be thankful you ain't got any. And here!" the tone was almost savage. "You take my advice and obey orders, and don't ask questions."

He went on deck immediately and, after a moment, Bradley followed him. The rebuff was so unexpected and so undeserved, the circumstances considered, that it hurt the young man keenly. His pride was touched, and he made up his mind that Captain Titcomb should have no further cause for complaint so far as interference by his second officer was concerned. As for the captain, he kept to himself and said little to any one during the afternoon.

The new first mate came on board that evening. He was a thick set, heavy man, who talked a great deal, swore profusely and laughed loudly at his own jokes. He seemed to know his business and, as the captain would have said, "caught hold" at once.

They sailed the next morning, and by the time the tug left them, Bradley fancied that he noticed a difference in the state of affairs aboard the schooner. The usual rigid discipline seemed to be lacking. There was no rebellion or sign of mutiny, but merely a general shiftlessness that Mr. Burke did not seem to notice. Strange to say, Captain Titcomb did not notice it either, or, if he did, said nothing. Bradley did not interfere. He had not forgotten the advice to "obey orders and ask no questions."

There was a good wind and a smooth sea, and the captain drove the Thomas Doane for all she was worth. By the afternoon of the following day they were in Vineyard sound. Bradley's suspicions had by this time come to be almost certainties. For two or three sailors to show signs of drunkenness on the first morning out of port was nothing strange, but to have those symptoms more pronounced the evening of the second day was proof that there were bottles in the fo'c'stles. But Captain Titcomb, usually the first to scent the presence of these abominations and to punish their owners, now, apparently, was unaware of their presence. And the first mate, too, either did not see or did not care.

Bradley was standing by the fo'c'stles just at dusk that evening when a sailor jumped violently into him in passing. The second mate spoke sharply to the offender, and the answer he received was impudent and surly.

"Here you," exclaimed Bradley, seizing the man by the shoulder and whirl him violently around, "do you know who you're talking to? Speak to me again like that, and I'll break you in two."

The man—he was a new hand—mumbled a reply to the effect that he "didn't mean to say nothin'."

"Well, don't say it again. Stand up. You're drunk. Now, where did you get your liquor?"

"Ain't got none, sir."

"You're a liar. Stand up or you'll lie down for a good while. Anybody with a sense could smell rum if you passed a mile to windward. Where did you get it?"

CUT THE JAPANESE AND CHINESE OUT

No Saloon Licenses For Orientals, Say The Liquor Men

No saloon licenses for Orientals, was the sentiment expressed by the liquor men at the meeting of the License Commission, at which they were invited to be present yesterday afternoon to express their ideas as to the way the saloon business should be regulated.

The Oriental ought to be driven out of the business, they said. Senator McCarthy stated that the way most of them conduct their business is disgraceful. "The whole trade is disgraced through them and they have dragged the business down so that some of us are almost ashamed to be connected with it."

"My idea in drawing up the liquor bill so as to give the Board of License Commissioners such absolute power as to provide a means by which we could keep the Orientals from getting licenses without their being specifically mentioned."

This statement, made by Senator McCarthy, confirms what have been the suspicions of the Japanese and Chinese since the new liquor bill was first introduced into the Legislature, and the flat-footed avowal of opposition to Oriental saloon-keeping is liable to have the result of stirring up the Orientals even more than the more quiet efforts to drive them out of the business.

William Lishman, president of Macfarlane & Co., was equally emphatic in the assertion of his belief that the Orientals ought to be driven out of the liquor business. "It is the Japanese who are ruining our business," he said. "That is the result of my experience in Honolulu. They will not conduct their business properly, and there is no trickery in which they cannot teach the white man. The liquor business should be in the hands of responsible white men, but now it is being Orientalized, the same as the whole Territory is being Orientalized."

These sentiments concerning the Orientals in the saloon business, which were concurred in by all the saloon keepers present, were somewhat of a digression from the real object of the meeting. The Commission had called a number of the more prominent liquor men to meet with it in order that they might give their ideas as to what rules and regulations should be prescribed by the Board for the conducting of the business. But the liquor men had few suggestions to make along that line. In fact, they were, almost as a whole, opposed to any hard and fast rules.

Their idea, as expressed by several of their number, was that no rules should be made which should apply to everybody. They thought that each case should be handled separately and regulations made for each separate saloon when the license had been granted.

The Board asked the opinion of the liquor men as to whether back entrances should be proscribed. The answer was an emphatic negative. Some of the men said that in some instances it would be well to order back entrances closed, but it would not be fair to make any such rule to apply to everybody. McCarthy was of the opinion that this was a matter which should be regulated in individual instances according to the recommendations of the inspector.

The policy of the Board regarding the boundaries of saloon limits also came in for general condemnation on the part of the liquor men present. Lishman told the Board flatly that while they had the power according to law to make such boundaries, they had no moral right. If a man outside the boundaries set by the Board is conducting a decent saloon, there is no reason why he should be refused a license, and the Board has no right to refuse to grant him one.

Pearce went so far as to condemn the action of the Board in refusing to grant licenses for saloons near the fish market. While, it is true, he said, that some of the saloons in that district have been run in a disgraceful manner, there are some saloons there that are well conducted, and there is no reason why their proprietors should not be allowed to continue in the business.

Pearce told the Commissioners that if they had been playing the same longer they would know that they couldn't prevent men from

GRAND RECEPTION BY THE DELEGATE

Happy Closing Event Of Congressional Visitation

The magnificent reception given by the Prince and Princess Kaiulani at their beautiful Waikiki home last evening was a fitting close for the pleasant stay of the Congressional party.

Not since the "old days" has there been such a large and good-natured assembly of the cosmopolitan citizenship of this city. The Congressmen and their wives met "the people" in fact. The presence of the Queen and large delegations of Hawaiians was a particularly happy feature.

Spacious as the home of the Delegate is, it was not large enough to accommodate the multitude of friends bidden to the reception. Large tents were therefore brought into use for the comfort of the guests and the receiving party was stationed under the spacious lanai of the grass hut, a typical structure of the ancient period. The grounds were beautifully lighted and the Hawaiian band and a quiet club alternated in furnishing instrumental and vocal music.

The guests were first greeted by the Delegate and his wife. On their right was the Queen seated. Aside from her own commanding presence, the only evidence of royal form was a feather cape who stood behind Her Majesty. To the right of the Queen was Acting Governor Atkinson and then followed the members of the Congressional delegation with their wives.

After the guests had passed along the receiving line they were conducted through the home of the Delegate, the spacious rooms of which are comfortably filled with furnishings and relics of the Royal family of Hawaii. Magnificent furniture and priceless mementos of the official and home life of kings and queens of Hawaii furnished a wealth of intensely interesting detail intimately associated with the romance of Hawaii.

The reception was in every respect a reception to all the people. A more representative assembly has never been known in Honolulu during recent history. Prominent among the Hawaiian guests were the members of Hawaiian societies—the Order of Kamehameha, the Liholihos, Kaulikeouli and the Hui Oiwis, which include many women as well as men in their membership.

Light refreshments were served and after the guests had departed the Congressional party was entertained at a special dinner given by the Prince and Princess Kaiulani.

PRESIDENT JUMPS ON JACK LONDON

That President Roosevelt does not think much of the writings of Jack London is made manifest by an interview with the chief executive as published in an eastern magazine. The President is of the opinion that some of the stories by the writer are very much overdrawn and are completely out of accord with happenings in the animal world as far as his observations go and he gives the impression that he has gone some. He makes "Jack" fore and aft for the publication of incidents that, because he has never seen them, brands them as improbable.

Roosevelt says that London is a "nature faker," and London says that the President is talking from an insufficient knowledge of his subject. That there are many happenings in nature that seem natural enough to the observer but when put into cold type they savor of the marvelous and look improbable.

When Mr. London's attention was called to the article he said: "A nature faker! Gee, is that what I am? Well, I must admit that I haven't hunted swives the way the President has, but I'd like to match a bulldog against a wolf and bet with him on the fight. I think the President would lose, all right. And then," he added, reading hurriedly through the last of the quotation, "I've seen some mighty small tom cats lick some mighty big dogs, too."

SUPREME COURT

RELUCTANTLY AFFIRMS DECREE

Although the Supreme Court, in the matter of Thomas W. Lindsay vs. John Schiefel and Eben P. Low, finds itself compelled to affirm the decree of the lower court, it states that it does so reluctantly.

Lindsay sued Schiefel for specific performance of an alleged contract to convey for $2000 certain lots at Waikooe, Hamakua. Low was made a codefendant as a subsequent grantee with notice. The bill was dismissed on the ground that the minds of the parties did not meet upon the question whether Lindsay was to pay also the expenses of certain wireless messages and of the deed. Lindsay appealed, but again loses, but without prejudice to further action at law. Chief Justice Frear, who writes the opinion, says:

We feel obliged to hold, which we do reluctantly in view of all the circumstances, that the decree appealed from must be affirmed on the ground that the trial judge was justified in finding that there was a failure to establish a meeting of the minds upon the matter of the expense of the deed. It was incumbent on the plaintiff to make out a satisfactory case in this respect in order to entitle him to the remedy by specific performance, and while the findings of fact of a trial judge in an equity case are not conclusive upon this court they are entitled to some weight.

In view of all the circumstances, not all of which are set forth in the opinion, while we feel obliged to affirm the decree dismissing the bill, this will not be done without the modification that the dismissal shall be without prejudice to the plaintiff's right to bring an action at law for breach of contract, and accordingly the case is remanded to the circuit judge with instructions to make such modification.

A. F. Judd (C. S. Smith and Judd-Mort-Smith & Hemenway on the brief), for plaintiff; J. A. Magoon (Magoon & Lightfoot on the brief), for defendant Lindsay.

JAPANESE CANNOT SAYS MCCARTHY, KIBOSH HIS LICENSE

Senator McCarthy this morning indignantly denied that there was anything in the story that there was danger that his saloon license would not be renewed because the Japanese property owners, who live or have their places of business in the radius of 250 feet of his place, would refuse the consent which it is required by the new law that the majority of such property holders must sign before a license can be granted.

"The consent of the property owners which accompanies my petition for a license has already been filed," said McCarthy this morning. "It is signed by the majority of the property owners, and among them are many Japanese. Under the law they could not at this time withdraw their signatures even if they wanted to do so. It is my belief that the article regarding the matter, which appeared in the Advertiser this morning, was inspired by some of the liquor dealers who are unfriendly disposed towards me."

"McCarthy is all right; he has no objection to his conducting a liquor saloon over there," said the Orientals on Hotel street this morning.

"Certainly we need neat and clean saloons like McCarthy's, but such saloons as those along River, Maunakea and Kekaulike streets are a disgrace to the community. If they can do any better some authority should intervene and stop the way they are handling their business."

A handicap tennis tournament in men's singles will begin on the courts of the Beretania Tennis Club next Monday afternoon. The prize to be fought for is the Alfred C. Wall Cup, recently presented to the club by its president. The conditions which govern the cup play are that the cup must be won three times, not necessarily in succession, by a member of the club; that the entrance fee shall be twenty-five cents for each player, and that the cup shall be played for every two months until it is finally won.

Major R. C. Van Vliet is scratch man. He gives the Class 1 men 1/2; the Class 2 men, 1; the Class 3 men, 1 1/2 and 2. The drawings for the first round resulted as follows: A. J. Lowrey (2) v. J. Macaulay (3); W. Warren (1) v. R. B. Rietow (1); R. B. Booth (2) v. L. J. Warren (2); J. Catton (3) v. M. R. Jamieson (2); M. A. Wells (1) v. R. G. E. Foster (2); Dr. Wilkenson (1) v. C. H. Olson (1); T. Richards (2) v. H. Cooper (1); C. H. Atherton (2) v. C. Rowell (2); D. Scudder (2) v. W. A. Wall (2); B. L. Marx (1) v. J. Hannah (1); S. Peck (2) v. A. C. Wall (2); C. G. Beckus (1) v. T. C. Davies (2); P. Harwood (2) v. R. C. Van Vliet (scr.); S. Sheldon (2) v. G. F. Davies (2); Capt. Combe (2) v. C. R. Frazier (3); D. W. Anderson (1) v. E. H. Wodehouse (1). The first eight of these matches will be played next Monday afternoon, beginning at 4:15 o'clock. The second eight matches will be played Tuesday afternoon. The time of each match will appear in tomorrow's paper. All persons interested in the game are invited to attend.

ROBB WINS

The weekly challenge cup of the Hawaiian Gun Club was won by J. A. Robb yesterday at the traps. Robb scored 19 out of 30 birds. J. W. Harvey and D. L. Austin tied for second place, each scoring 17 out of 27 birds.

BOWLING RESULTS

In the handicap tourney being played on the Hotel Baths alleys, Paul Schmidt yesterday defeated Geo. Ashley and E. A. Ross. This puts Schmidt in the semi-finals.

FORECLOSURE DECREE AFFIRMED BY JUSTICE

The Supreme Court has handed down a written opinion in the matter of the appeal by the defendant in the case of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., vs. J. M. Monarrat et al. The appeal was from a decree of mortgage foreclosure, and the decree was affirmed orally from the bench last Friday, May 24. The syllabus says:

Mortgage—foreclosure—pleading. A bill to foreclose a mortgage of all the right, title and interest of the mortgagor in a certain piece of land alleging the execution and delivery of the mortgage and describing the interest of the mortgagor as set forth in the mortgage, which was "all his right, title and interest in and to the certain premises situate on Union street and Adams Lane in said Honolulu, being portions of L. C. A. 1086 to Mary Dowsett and of L. C. A. 801 to A. Adams and more particularly described as follows," setting forth the metes and bounds, and also attaching a copy of the mortgage, is sufficient on demurrer to show the title of plaintiff and of its mortgagor, and it is not necessary to allege the amount or equity of the interest mortgaged.

Id.—cross bill. In such a suit a defendant holding an inferior mortgage of the right, title and interest of plaintiff's mortgagor cannot by cross bill have a mortgage from some one else of an undivided one-sixth interest in the same land foreclosed first or at least at the same time, the relief sought by the cross bill having nothing to do with the interest sought to be foreclosed in the original bill.

H. E. Cooper for plaintiff.
D. L. Withington for defendant.
