

HO! FOR THE FIRE CLAIMS

The fire claims expenses bill went through the House on final passage this morning, and was immediately sent to Governor Dole. By tonight the Treasury Department at Washington will have received notice that the Hawaiian legislature has acted and a treasury agent will at once start from Washington, bringing a million dollars cash and bonds for the balance needed to pay claims. The bill passed without further debate. There were seven votes against it, by Kaniho, Kealawaa, Kou, Oili, Paele, Pulaa and Purdy.

SENATE MADE MALT LICENSES EASIER

WILL ALLOW SALOONS TO BE LOCATED WITHIN 150 FEET OF A CHURCH OR SCHOOL.—FISHERY BILL RECEIVES CONSIDERABLE OPPOSITION AT THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

Something happened in the Senate this morning. It was a sort of surprise and the members of the upper house are now laughing at Senators Dickey and Baldwin.

When the Senate convened there was scarcely a quorum present. Among the first measures to be considered was the malt liquor license bill on its third reading. Neither Senator Baldwin nor Senator Dickey, the stalwarts of the anti-liquor element, were present. Senator Achi offered an amendment reducing the limits within which the saloons could be conducted. The bill originally prohibited any of these licenses being issued to places within a radius of 450 feet of any church or school. Senator Achi's amendment cut the limit down to 150 feet. The bill with the amendment passed.

The consideration of the bill to protect the food fishes of these waters caused considerable discussion. It was up on its third reading. Senator Kalanokalani opposed the bill. He claimed that it would interfere with the Hawaiians catching food. Senator Kaohi declared that the bill would also prevent Hawaiians from getting small fish which were used for bait. Senator Isenberg defended the bill. Consideration was finally postponed for one week.

The bills relating to the notice by publication and governing the jurisdiction of district magistrates passed. Senator Achi gave notice of intention to introduce bills amending the laws relating to adoption and garnishment.

The bill to provide for the appointment of a fish commissioner was continued for one week, as it will be considered with the other bill relating to the preservation of fish.

The Senate took up the consideration of the special appropriation for the last six months of this year. It is thought best to make the appropriation for this period as the county bill will probably be passed at this session of the legislature and go into effect at the first of the year. The appropriation measure was up for second reading. The bill was not finished this morning and the Senate took an adjournment until tomorrow at 10 a. m.

LEPERS WANT DR. GOTO

Representative Nakalika this morning introduced in the House the following petition from the Leper Settlement:

"We the undersigned unfortunate lepers residing at the Leper Settlement of Kalaupapa and Kalawao, Island of Molokai, and also voters of the First Precinct, Third District, respectfully petition your Honorable Body to ask Dr. Goto who resided here some years ago to be the permanent doctor of Kalaupapa and Kalawao.

"We think it is better to pay him than doctors residing here at present. Therefore we ask to insert in the appropriation bill a sum sufficient for the same."

JAPS FOR ALASKA.

Fifty Japanese laborers departed on the S. S. Alameda for the Coast. They went to the Mainland to go to Alaska to work in the canneries. The crowd went under special contract with the Alaskan Commercial Company. An agent of that organization has been in these islands for some time past trying to secure Jap-

EXTRADITION FOR TAYLOR

WRAY TAYLOR HAS BEEN LOCATED AND AUTHORITIES CABLED TO HOLD HIM PENDING THE ARRIVAL OF EXTRADITION PAPERS WHICH WENT UP BY ALAMEDA BY ALEXANDER LINDSAY.

Former Agricultural Commissioner Wray Taylor is probably under arrest by this time in some part of the world, while on the steamship Alameda today, Attorney Alexander Lindsay is on his way to Washington as a representative of the Attorney General of Hawaii, to secure extradition papers for Taylor. Taylor was located some days since and it was decided that he should be brought back under arrest. A cable message was sent instructing the authorities where the former commissioner is, to hold him until the arrival of papers on which he can be brought here.

The exact charge against Taylor is not known, but it is understood to be in connection with the Chinese fund, of which he had charge and from which Treasurer Wright made his embezzlement. It is stated that on the first examination of the accounts of Taylor, a shortage of about $1,000 was indicated, in many small amounts, and since then other examinations have been made.

Taylor is not in the United States, but his exact whereabouts are known. If orders which have been cabled from here have been carried out, he is now under arrest and will be held until the papers which Lindsay has gone after are secured. Lindsay will go straight to Washington and get the papers. Secretary Carter has the unlucky Chinese fund in charge now, and a thorough examination of the accounts will be made.

When seen regarding the extradition papers, Attorney Andrews refused to make any statement, or to affirm or deny that Lindsay had gone after such papers. It is known, however, that the papers have gone forward, as well as the cable order for the arrest of Taylor.

CROCKETT REFINERY CLOSED

CALIFORNIA-HAWAIIAN SUGAR REFINERY IN WHICH MANY HAWAIIAN PLANTATIONS ARE INTERESTED HAS SHUT DOWN INDEFINITELY—UNPROFITABLE OPERATION THE CAUSE.

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—The California-Hawaiian Sugar Refinery at Crockett near Suisun, has been closed down. Officials say it has been closed for an indefinite time, and give as a reason that its operation has proved unprofitable.

There is a rumor that it has been purchased by the Havemeyer Sugar Trust. This rumor is emphatically denied by R. P. Rithet of Welch & Company.

Nearly all the Hawaiian plantations represented by Castle & Cooke, C. Brewer & Company and Alexander & Baldwin, as well as some others own stock in this refinery.

MYSTERY MORE INVOLVED

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 11.—Pennell, who was named as co-respondent in the divorce proceedings brought by Edwin L. Burdick against his wife, was killed in an automobile accident today.

Burdick is a prominent business man in Buffalo who was found murdered in his own house on the morning of February 28. He was last seen alive the night before about 10:30 o'clock when he bade the other members of his family good night and retired to his room. There is the greatest mystery about the murder, both as to the murderer and the motive for the murder. Proceedings for divorce were begun only a short time before Burdick was murdered.

CANAL VOTE ON TUESDAY

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—The Senate has decided that a final vote on the Panama Canal treaty shall be taken next Tuesday. Senator Morgan of Alabama continues his objections and obstruction.

CASTRO INCREASES DUTIES

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

CARACAS, March 11.—Castro has increased the duties on imports thirty per cent as a means of raising revenue to meet the demands of the powers and the expenses of the military operations against the rebels.

ANOTHER WIRELESS COMPANY

TORONTO, Canada, March 11.—The Deforest Wireless Telegraph Company has been incorporated.

CABBY WINS

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

Judge Gear this morning sustained another demurrer in the John H. estate case, dismissing the suit brought by George H. Brown and others against Cabby Brown. The plaintiffs sought to reopen the probating of the will of John H. and to declare his property in trust. Judge Gear sustained a former demurrer and allowed the filing of an amended bill, to which a demurrer was sustained this morning.

PRESIDENT OF URUGUAY.

BIRDS AT SEA.

An old skipper says he has seen birds when far out at sea hovering around and under a storm cloud, clattering like ducks on a hot day at a pond, and drinking in the drops of rain as they fell. They will smell a rain squall a hundred miles distant, or even farther off, and scud for it with almost inconceivable swiftness.

SPECTACULAR FIRE ATTRACTS HUNDREDS

THE FORT STREET HOUSE DESTROYED THIS MORNING WHILE THOUSANDS WATCHED THE BATTLE BETWEEN THE FLAMES AND THE FIRE DEPARTMENT—MANY LOSE THEIR ALL.

The Fort Street House, a landmark at the Waikiki-makai corner of Fort and Vineyard street, was destroyed by fire this morning, and nearly fifty people were rendered homeless, and losers of clothing and other personal effects.

It was one of the most spectacular fires that has occurred for a long time. The alarm was sounded just before 8 o'clock, at the very time when a large proportion of the down-town work-a-day people are on their way to work. School children of all ages from the Kindergartners to the High School and Oahu College pupils were also just starting to school. The spectacle of a fire with lines of hose playing on it; the firemen directing their streams now here now there as the flames spring up or die down, drenched by the water; the engines at the nearest hydrants, puffing and rattling away; the well groomed horses pawing and chafing at their bits; was too much for anyone with a spark of the adventure loving in their make-up to withstand. As a consequence, the progress of the fire was watched by several thousand

WHERE WOMEN ARE SO NUMEROUS THEY ARE LONESOME

ONE OF THEM MAKES A MESSENGER OF CHANCE TO TELL OF THE LONELINESS OF A PLACE WHERE A MAN IS A CURIOSITY—A SIGH FOR FREEDOM AND A CALL FOR HELP.

The following which tells its own story was found in a bundle of ruled note head paper lately received in Honolulu from the paper mill. Not only does it tell its own story, but it tells it well. It was found by a married man, who is in consequence out of the game, and so, to use a figure of speech, is passed up for a jackpot, giving more players a chance:

"Talk about your three little 'Indians' standing in a row, I can assure the finder of this epistle there are more than three swell blondes pining all alone in this city of 'heavenly rest.'

"The bible tells us God made Man first and Woman after. Well the men were all made and disposed of before He thought of making this place. Therefore dear reader this paper comes from a city where dwells woman, lovely woman, and none but woman.

"The woman in the Transvaal received showers of praise because during war time they managed the farms. Why, in this city women manage the farm at all times. A man is such a curiosity here it would be considered a crime to allow him to work; he is indeed 'as the lilies of the field.'

"I hear this car-load of paper is booked for the 'Wild and Woolley West,' where woman is said to be as scarce as potato bugs in snow time. Therefore I hope if this note falls into the hands of one of the Lords of creation it will meet with a speedy reply. Address Ethel Aleon, 228 Dwight St., Holyoke, Mass."

AORANGI WILL BE LATE. T. H. Davies & Company, agents of the Canadian-Australian line, received cable advices stating that the S. S. Aorangi left Vancouver last Sunday, a full day late, for the south. This means that the vessel will not reach this port until Sunday. She is due on Saturday, so will be a day late. The strike of Canadian Pacific employees caused the delay in her departure.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is intended especially for coughs, colds, whooping cough and influenza. It has become famous for its cures of these diseases over a large part of the civilized world. The most flattering testimonials have been received giving accounts of the good work of the aggravating and persistent coughs it has cured; of severe colds that have yielded promptly to its soothing effects, and of the dangerous attacks of croup it has cured, often saving the life of the child. The extensive use of it for whooping cough has shown that it robs that disease of all dangerous results. It is especially prized by mothers because it contains nothing injurious, and there is not the least danger in giving it, even to babies. It always cures and cures quickly. All Dealers sell it. # Important Reasons

Why Herring-Hall-Marvin Safe Co.'s Safes and Locks are the Best?

The concrete filling makes these safes absolutely Fire-Proof and positively Damp-Proof. The solid angle corners add greatly to their security in time of fire, and form the only solid corners made. The patent Bolt Work is superior to any in use and does not require the constant oiling, cleaning, and repairs that is acknowledged in other makes of safes. That although 600,000 of one safe are now in use and many thousands have been tested by some of the most disastrous conflagrations in the United States, THERE IS NOT A SINGLE INSTANCE ON RECORD WHEREIN ONE OF THEM EVER FAILED TO PRESERVE ITS CONTENTS PERFECTLY. They make safes for county treasurers, county recorders, county clerks, jewelers, Hotels, residences, churches and corporations. We have a large assortment of safes on hand and will be pleased to show same.

NIGEL JACKSON IS NOT GUILTY

The jury in the Nigel Jackson case yesterday evening brought in a verdict of not guilty of arson. The prosecution closed at 5 o'clock and an evening session was held to conclude the case. Oscar Kreuter, who lived with Jackson, testified to the latter's return home on the night of the fire. The defendant took the stand and testified to having left the Friel home at about 11:35 p. m., or nearly two hours before the blaze. He said he was on good terms with his wife, in spite of her divorce proceedings.

HELD THE SCENERY.

The Janet Waldorf Company had difficulty getting their scenery released by the Customs authorities yesterday. The question as to whether it was of foreign manufacture or American make was raised. The manager said it was American. Unfortunately the burden of proof is on the shoulders of the importer and as he could not produce positive proof, he had to put up a bond of $1,000 before the scenery was released.

AMERICANS BUY A VOLCANO.

MEXICO CITY (Mexico), Feb. 28.—General Gasher Ochoa, who owns the Popocatepetl volcano, including the immense sulphur deposits in its crater, is reported to have sold that property to an American syndicate, in which the Standard Oil interests are largely represented. The purchase price is said to be $5,000,000. The purchasers propose to build a cogwheel railway up the mountain and to operate the sulphur deposits on an extensive scale.

CYCLONE IN AUSTRIA.

BRISBANE, March 10.—In a cyclone at Townsville, many were killed and injured. The hospital collapsed and six persons were killed. Many buildings were destroyed and hundreds of people are homeless. Townsville is a thriving place and an important seaport of North Queensland. It contains wooden buildings only and for this reason a cyclone would do great damage there. The town has one long main business street, lined on each side by one and two story structures. It has a large wool trade and considerable sugar is shipped from that point from the North Queensland cane fields.

NYM CRINKLE DEAD.

NEW YORK, March 10.—"Nym Crinkle," the well-known journalist and author is dead. "Nym Crinkle" won fame as a dramatic critic and author and served on various New York newspapers. His name was Andrew Carpenter Wheeler. He was born in New York in 1835. Among the best known of his works was: "The Twins," a comedy; "The Chronicles of Milwaukee"; "The Primrose Path of Dalliance"; and "Easter in a Hospital Bed." He lived for many years in New York hotels and was accounted a musical critic of great ability.

MAINE'S CHRISTMAS TREES.

The beginning of the Christmas-tree industry was in 1892, writes the Bangor correspondent to the New York Tribune, when a party of hunters who had been in a steam yacht to Newfoundland to shoot caribou called at Sargentville, on Penobscot bay, to visit some abandoned copper mines a short distance inland. The leaves had fallen from the deciduous trees, causing the dark evergreens to stand out in bold relief against a neutral background of brown and grays. The owner of the yacht was struck by the beauty of the scene, and also with a practical idea. He hired men and horses and had cut about 600 of the firs, which he carried on the deck of his yacht to Boston, where they were offered for sale.

The demand exceeded the yachtman's greatest expectations, for the whole lot was snapped up in short order. So profitable was the first venture that in the next Christmas season fully 50,000 firs were sent from the shores of Penobscot bay to Boston, where they were all sold at good prices, and in the following year the trade was extended to New York, where the firs were as eagerly taken. In 1896 the shipments of trees from Maine to the large cities had increased to about 750,000, and in 1899 over 1,500,000 were sold.

In some sections, where the fir is especially prolific, the cutting and preparing of Christmas trees is made the occasion of festive gatherings, corresponding to the huskings of fall time, whole families going into the woods and taking their dinners along. A man cuts the trees close to the roots and a boy or a strong girl cuts with a sharp hatchet the few dead limbs from the base. Women and boys tie the trees into bundles of a dozen, and then the harvest is piled into hay racks and carried to the nearest railroad station. The smaller children gather the trailing creepers of the ground pine, pluck branches of glossy wintergreen and gather the red fruit of the wild raisin shrub, all of which are packed in boxes and sent to the cities for the making of wreaths and garlands for the decoration of church and home.

The evergreen harvests are generally bought by men who make a business of supplying the Christmas markets of the cities, though many farmers and others send their crops direct to market. For trees five to six feet in height the buyers in Maine pay 5 cents each, and for trees six to ten feet in height the price paid is from 10 to 15 cents. The 5-cent tree often brings $1 or more. The total revenue to Maine people last year from the Christmas greens crop amounted to $150,000.

TUESDAY, MARCH 10, 1903.

A LESSON.

A lesson may be learned from the Jackson case, which it may be well to take to heart. In the horror caused by the dreadful catastrophe which caused three persons to lose their lives the community sought for some one who should be blamed. Jackson, whose relations with his wife had been strained to breaking point fell under suspicion, and in the few hours after the fire, there was probably no one who did not consider Jackson guilty.

This shows to what erroneous conclusions hasty generalization may lead, to what terribly fatal results a community or a portion of a community may be hurried. For after a full trial and the clear presentation of the case against him by an able lawyer, Jackson was declared by a jury as not guilty. He did not get off upon a technicality, but was cleared by the evidence produced by the lawyers for the defense. There was no doubt upon the point. It was not a question of giving the prisoner the benefit of the doubt. It was a case of clearly not guilty.

There are always those in a community who spring to hasty conclusions, and who would if possible find some one to bear the blame of a crime committed at once. This community has fortunately up to this time, consisted of men who would not allow justice to be forestalled and its place taken by the blind injustice of a prejudiced and a prejudging crowd.

Other communities have suffered from hasty action and other communities have repented bitterly the moral effect of such hasty action, but repentance can never atone for hasty action of this kind. The wrong is done and never can be undone. As long as courts are pure, as long as we have clear headed and impartial jurymen, everything of a criminal character may be left without fear of mistake to the proper machinery of justice.

Another feature of Jackson's case is also worth considering. There are religious workers in our jail, who labor successfully with prisoners both before and after sentence. Jackson was brought by these workers to a sense of his position. He went into prison, shunned and friendless. He left the dock with these helping hands stretched out to save him and try to lead him into more worthy paths. All honor to people who show their religion in so practical a way and carry out the precept of visiting the sick and those downcast in spirit. They will undoubtedly hear some day the words "I was sick and in prison and you ministered unto me," and will receive the promised reward.

Young Macomber may indeed be regarded as fortunate if he has come into an estate valued at half a million of dollars. Wealth, however, does not always bring happiness, though it helps a long way towards it.

The law delays in California are likely to cost this country pretty dear. It has put an end to Pearl harbor improvements for a good year and perhaps longer. This is good for us, however, as it will teach us the value of patience.

The lantana bugs are making their way here and will in a season or two begin to make serious inroads into the plant which has caused so much trouble to the graziers and cattlemen. Hundred of thousands of dollars have been spent to keep down the pest, only to find that the work has all to be done over again. The insect enemies of the lantana have set in to do their work effectually, and once it is completed it will be done for good and all.

Isn't it about time that party platforms, legislative resolutions, and other more or less formal, public utterances directed to congress abandoned the puerile proposal that congress allow us to retain a certain proportion of the customs receipts of the territory. Such proposal has been made a number of times. Congress has appropriated money for us for several different purposes. But never once has the proposal to allow us to retain a portion of the customs receipts been suggested in congress. Congress don't do things that way. It is belittling to suggest it. It is as if the United States couldn't afford to pay the money outright from the treasury, but the financial burden would be eased by retaining customs receipts. Congress does things in just the opposite way. It wants no loopholes to tempt administrative officers. It wants every cent due the United States to go first into the treasury and be accounted for as receipts there, and then it will see to it that any money it wants paid out for any purpose is properly appropriated and goes out of the treasury under proper conditions of audit and account. As an instance of the scrupulousness with which congress insists that all money due the United States shall go into the treasury, and all money due from the United States shall go out of the treasury without anybody being allowed to "retain" money coming into their hands, even if the United States owes them money, is shown in the recent act of congress giving a rebate on the duty on coal. Congress might have allowed importers to "retain" the duty. But it didn't. It still requires them to pay it, and then the United States in turn pays them an amount equal to that which they have paid in.

For us then, to keep on proposing that congress shall allow us to "retain" part of the customs receipts, is simply to show our ignorance, both of the methods and temper of congress, and is bound to react to our disadvantage. Let us have done with such proposals.

Aguinaldo yet retains his superb nerve. He wants to borrow $20,000,000 from the United States.—Denver Post.

At least Aguinaldo has suggested an answer to the question "what to do with the surplus in the treasury."—Des Moines Register and Leader.

Perhaps the most substantial paragraph in Aguinaldo's plea for a loan of $100,000,000 is the one in which he fears he will be locked upon as a dreamer.—Washington Post.

Aguinaldo may be semi-barbaric and all that sort of thing, but he is a regular J. P. Morgan when it comes to getting up a financial scheme.—Columbia (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun.

Aguinaldo reappears in time to ask this country to loan him and his fellows $30,000,000. Modesty never was a distinguishing trait in his make-up.—Birmingham (Ala.) Age-Herald.

Aguinaldo, in his appeal to Congress for assistance for the Philippines, says he knows how little he is qualified to solve the financial enigma perplexing the islands. And yet, if we remember rightly, Aguinaldo achieved a certain reputation as a financier in his dealings with Spain.—Leavenworth (Kan.) Times.

A NEW SHORTHAND CHARACTER.

The invention of the method of writing by signs, called shorthand, has served the grand and useful purpose for which it was intended. The stamper made by business men to crowd the greatest amount of work into the smallest space of time, thereby realizing greater attainments, has given birth to time-saving devices of many kinds, but not the least of these is the shorthand alphabet. There are many different systems but even those which were supposed to have been perfect a few years ago are being improved and characters are changed to include more in their meaning. The letter D has been adopted recently by many stenographers to signify anything perfect. It has been found that the letter D stands for Douglas—the inventor of the Douglas Patent Closet, guaranteed against leakage and the annoyance of running water. Bath, the plumber, installs the Douglas.

THE LAST OF KAMEHAMEHAS

PRINCE ALBERT KUNUIAKEA DIED YESTERDAY OF CONSUMPTION—ROYAL FUNERAL.

Prince Albert Kukailimoku Kunuiakea died yesterday afternoon at the residence on the Beach Road where the Princess Ninito of Tahiti, otherwise known as Mrs. John K. Sumner died about four years and a half ago. He had been falling from consumption for many months. He had been near death for a number of days.

The body was removed to his late residence Pala in the afternoon and will lie in state from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m. each afternoon until Sunday, when they will be given a royal Hawaiian funeral. Prince Albert will be buried with the other Kamehamehas in the Mausoleum grounds, Nuuanu valley.

Prince Albert leaves a widow but no children. He was born on June 18, 1851, at Kualahelani, now the site of Central Union Church. He was named after the two ancient gods of Hawaii of that name and was brought up from infancy in the old loani palace by Kamehameha III and his consort Queen Kalama. After the death of Kamehameha III he resided in "Kinanu Hale" with the Dowager Queen Kalama and later on removed with her majesty to "Hiamolipo," a residence that had been built for them across the street from the palace.

Prince Albert first attended school at Dr. Gulick's. Then he was sent to the Roman Catholic College at Ahulimanu and studied under the Rev. Father Walsh. A few years later he was sent by the Queen Dowager Kalama to Europe in care of William Pfluger, but after arriving at San Francisco the Prince became discontented and homesick and insisted upon returning here. It was the wish of Kamehameha III that the Prince should receive a European education in the hope that he would some day succeed to the throne. But Kalakaua's election changed all things for him and prevented him from holding the scepter. He was without a doubt the heir presumptive to the throne of Hawaii.

Prince Albert's mother was the chiefess Jane Lahlali Kaeo (nee Young) the daughter of the high chiefess Kaonani and John Young, the latter one of Kamehameha I's white advisers. Through his father, Kamehameha III Prince Albert Kukailimoku Kunuiakea was the grandson of Kamehameha I and his consort Queen Keopuolani and through his mother, the chiefess Jane Lahlali Kaeo (nee Young), Prince Albert's great-grandfather was Prince Kalaninuiamalo Kopekopa Kamehameha I.

During the regime of the Provisional Government Prince Albert Kunuiakea had a seat in the House of Representatives of Hawaii.

Claudine or W. G. Hall, at least once a week. It was offered by Kaniho, who declared that many of the foreign steamer travelers were not tax-payers whereas nearly all the island travelers were.

Aylett spoke in favor of the resolution and Kealawa favored it with an amendment. He thought the band should start from the House and play all the way to the steamer, so that all might hear it. Knudsen said there wasn't room for the band on the island wharves and proposed referring the bill to the police committee.

Speaker Beckley said that he had cast the deciding vote two years ago for the band appropriation, under a promise that the band should go once a year to Molokai. It had not gone yet, but since the beginning of the new session Kappelmeister Berger had been making anxious inquiries as to the best time to go.

IN THE HOUSE

The House morning session came to an end shortly after 12 o'clock noon today, with the third reading of the bill providing for the establishment of an agricultural college. The bill was read in English only and the Hawaiian reading was left for the afternoon session. There are a number of members who have amendments to propose and there is likely to be a good deal of discussion before final passage.

Chairman W. W. Harris reported favorably the emergency appropriations bill, with amendments as follows: "To add $13,000 for improving Wataiaie road, $7000 for Lusitana road, $992 for the September term of the Kauai Circuit Court, $1200 for incidentals in the Attorney General's department and to deduct $25,000 for expenses of fire claims, a separate act being before the house for the latter.

Vida introduced a resolution providing for a committee to investigate the value of Kahihi camp and report. The chair appointed Vida, Kupihea and Gandall.

Vida also introduced his bill relating to Sunday laws. Eleven bills which have passed the Senate were received from that body and all were passed at once on first reading.

Chillingworth called attention to the need of conference committees and the Speaker said that joint rules had not yet been adopted and that the matter could be brought up with rules. A resolution was adopted asking the Speaker to appoint House conferees.

Nakalika introduced an act to amend section 132 of the penal laws relating to larceny.

Andrade introduced acts relating to garnishment and an act to prevent the adulteration of food and drugs and both passed first reading.

Kupihea introduced an act to suppress vice, an act to establish a bacteriological laboratory at Kahihi and provide for the office of leprologist, an act to provide for control of the sewer system and an act to prevent gambling, also an act relating to licensing of buildings.

Kupihea introduced a resolution calling upon the Health committee to supply within five days a complete statement of all expenses, salaries and officers of the Board of Health for the past two years. It went through with enthusiasm.

Kaniho offered a resolution to set aside $15,000 for the ex-Queen. Kealawa gave notice of an act to amend the law regarding Olaa reservation titles.

PUBLICATION BY SUMMONS.

In the case of Kate Hottendorf vs. Henry Hottendorf, Judge De Bolt this morning made an order authorizing the service of divorce summons by publication, the libelee being absent from the Territory and his whereabouts unknown.

DENGUE STOPS CASE.

Dengue fever and other ailments have made such attacks on the litigants in the case of Frank Godfrey, trustee, vs. Helen Rowland, that a motion was filed this morning to postpone the case for the term. E. B. McClanahan was called to the coast by the sudden illness of his wife, the defendant is so ill with dengue fever that she cannot appear, and Mrs. E. M. Nakuina, one of the principal witnesses, is laid up with the same trouble, according to an affidavit filed this morning.

Interference.

Financial Article No. 5

DO

We interfere with other financial institutions is the question often asked. We do not, as the system of banking by us is strictly installment banking which the banks and private money lenders do not care about doing. Our money is placed on people's homes and business places repayable part interest and part principal each month until the loan is fully paid off. We offer special inducements to the small investor in this financial institution, and centralize small monthly payments from a large number of people who probably have never saved to amount to anything before. The large sums that we receive are from capitalists who are tired of making flat loans and worrying with the bother and trouble of selling out the security which would come back to them and are satisfied that to have their money managed by experienced financiers who guarantee them against loss is much better than investing their own money. No money deposited with us can be withdrawn within one year, but that reason our proposition applies to people who have made up their minds to deposit for a certain number of years if possible, and who would not on account of small interest rates offered on call money, deposit with any regularity through other sources. The above sentence is not intended to convey the meaning that interest on deposits for call money should be large. In fact, the banks are paying today a very liberal rate for money subject to call, and it would be hazardous for them to pay larger rates. The question for today to answer is: are you a former article, if Why do you pay larger rates of dividends than other financial institutions do?

First—You are a stockholder in this institution just the same as if you were a stockholder in any other financial institution, and consequently get your full proportion of profits, according to the stock carried.

Second—We loan money on installments, thereby getting the use of the money one-half over again.

Third—A premium is placed upon persistency by exacting from the withdrawing member sufficient for his portion of expenses and also a certain portion of his profits.

Fourth—We compound and handle money monthly.

Fifth—In case of stringent times the profits from withdrawals are added to the ones who stay and pay.

Sixth—In case of good times the expanding of business produces a larger field for loans, which enables us to put out paid up stock through our directors and other large financiers, and guarantee a rate of six per cent. The difference between the six per cent and the dividend has never given the company (less small pro rata expenses) is turned into the installment stock.

Wouldn't you like to have your money operated by the side of and operated by the men below, who are the directors and managers of the Phoenix Savings, Building and Loan Association?

CONSERVATISM

IF

It shows conservatism is a bank to pay low rates of interest, with the Phoenix is such a safe institution and pays such high dividends? This seems to be the "sticking" point with a great many prospective building and loan investors, but we do not blame them, as they have never had the explaining to them, or have never given it as much thought as they have their other ordinary affairs.

Banks have a great deal of their money subject to call, and have to, for this reason, make short term loans, with their money or interest all due one time. You can get your money deposits out whenever you want. On the contrary, the Phoenix makes nothing but long term installment loans, not repayable under a year, and they can run as long as ten; consequently, these loans, being repayable in monthly payments of principal and interest, they receive sufficient each month to pay all withdrawing members and make what good loans come to them. The certificate of investment stock being distributed among a large number of people and all due at different times, put it in a property position while, if all the money was due at one and the same time, it would be less feasible.

As to the profit feature, these same monthly installments give the Phoenix an opportunity of handling its money half over again. In other words, if the Phoenix had loans at 8 per cent, the handling of the money over again will produce a profit of 4 per cent additional to pay stockholders, and would not have worked a hardship upon the borrower, who is getting rid of his debt in easy monthly installments, the same as rent. On the contrary, the flat loans made by banks and individuals receive their interest on money semi-annually or annually, and are not in a position to replace it on loans if they receive monthly installments as we do.

Another safety feature is the premium placed upon persistency. In other words, the man that withdraws pays his proportion of the expenses and a stated portion of his profits if he withdraws before his contract terminates.

FACED DEATH IN OVERLOADED SHIP

GRAPHIC STORY BY WELL KNOWN HONOLULU
MAN OF EXPERIENCE IN OVERLOADED SHIP
BOUND FROM SYDNEY TO SHANGHAI SHOWING
DANGERS ARISING FROM SUCH ABUSE.

The overloading of vessels in the American marine has long been an issue with seafaring men. Instances of the loss of ves- sels together with the lives of all on board are so numerous that a list of such wrecks would scarcely be credited by the average person not acquainted with shipping matters.

The recent action of the Sailors Union in asking for some relief from the danger has caused much comment. There are living in Honolulu many men who have had experience aboard overloaded vessels and barely escaped going down to death in the sea with the vessel.

One of the best known seafaring men in this port has contrib- uted the following graphic story of just such an experience on a overloaded vessel.

"It is now just a little over thirty years ago that our ship lay proudly in Sydney harbor riding quietly to her starboard anchor, after making one of the smartest passages on record, 64 days from the Clyde, with a general cargo, and it seemed to me the ship knew it just as well as any of us on board.

"Now don't start smiling, for a ship has life, that is, when not overloaded, like anything else, but if you put more cargo into her hold than she can carry then she is dead. In fact she becomes similar to a half-tide rock, over which the waves dash with their full force, and as you know, there is no motion to a half-tide rock, you can imagine the result upon an overloaded ship laboring in a heavy sea.

"Well, after discharging our cargo of general merchandise, we took in a cargo of coal for Shanghai, China, and they loaded us down to the very scuppers, in fact our proud ship looked for all the world like a sand barge, square rigged. In addition to our overload of coal the captain ordered the main yard sent down and put it up forward for a fore-yard, the fore-yard being sent up as a cross-jack-yard, topsail-yards changed accordingly, three cloths of canvass being added to the square sails, as the result of the change of spars. So with hatches battened down, spare spars lashed upon deck and everything moveable secured, we hove up anchor and started upon our passage to Shanghai.

"The following day found our good, but sadly overloaded ship, just about one hundred miles due east of Sydney Heads, with a clear sky, smooth sea, and fair barometer, wind south. Our cap- tain being anxious to make a little better offing, still steered to the eastward. In the meantime the watch on deck engaged rigging out studding sail booms, fore and main, and getting the gear ready for the same. Suddenly what little wind we had left us in a dead calm. Towards night the clouds took on a sickly greenish hue. Our poor overloaded ship lay and rolled lazily to the swell which commenced to make up from the eastward. A child could tell that some trouble was brewing. Even the cat ran along the dead half scared to death. The ironwork aloft, creaked and groaned, rolling tackles were put on the lower topsail yards, and all hands seemed to realize that we were about to have a hard fight for our lives with the elements. It was just about this time that the captain realized the great mistake he had made; first by changing her spars, next in overloading the ship, and he com- menced to feel, as we all did, that we were going to have trouble and lots of it too.

"Well, the barometer started to fall, and the easterly swell in- creased. We shortened sail in good time, and marl latched our sails to the yards, and we were ready for anything but not so our overloaded ship. The gale soon came upon us with increas- ing force, with our poor ship laboring heavily and trying hard to hold her own to windward. Oh! what a struggle, each hour brings us closer to a lee shore, and what a coast to be cast upon. However, all hands being called aft, our captain spoke to the men in much the following strain:

"Men, I wish to tell you that this ship is not more than sixty miles east of Sydney Heads, and if this gale continues we will certainly drift upon a lee shore, and you all know what that means. I suppose now there is just one thing to do, let us start in to lighten the ship as much as possible. First of all lay aloft and let those studding sail booms go, just draw your knives across the heel lashings and the rull of the ship will do the rest." which order was instantly carried out.

"The next order was to throw coal overboard which the sailors positively refused to do, telling the captain he should not have overloaded his ship, and if the ship went ashore, well and good. What coal they could throw overboard would make no difference. Why not run back to Sydney, and there lighten the ship, it being a fair wind which the captain would not do. Why should he? Why condemn himself by returning to Sydney. It would show his owners and the world at large that his judgment was not the best; better let her go down in mid-ocean with all hands; anything, but put back to Sydney.

"So nearer and nearer our good ship drifted towards the dreaded land, and at midnight of the second day we sighted the light upon the south head leading into Sydney Harbor, four points upon our starboard bow, and even then too late to weath- er the point. However, we drifted until within five miles of shore when it fell a dead calm, not a breath of wind, but still a heavy sea running. By 2 a. m. the wind came suddenly off the land, so you imagine our joy. We squared the yards and set all possible sail, and eventually arrived at Shanghai after a long and tedious passage of eighty days in an overloaded ship."
AN OLD SAILOR.

EDWARD AND ALEXANDER.

LONDON, March 10.—The fortieth anniversary of the mar- riage of King Edward and Queen Alexandra was celebrated today with general enthusiasm.

No event in the life of King Edward, not excepting that of be- ing born heir to the crown of England, has brought him so much real happiness and so much fortune as his marriage, in 1863, to the Princess Alexandra, the beautiful and charming daughter of the King and Queen of Denmark. A truer or more noble woman has never graced a throne than Queen Alexandra; a better wife and mother no royal home has ever known. The first time that the Prince of Wales met the Danish princess was in the cathedral at Worms, in 1861. Later they were both guests of the Crown Prince of Prussia, and their attachment for each other was made apparent. Just before the prince became of age his betrothal was announced publicly, though the secret had been known to the inner circle of his relatives for about a month. The royal pair had an engagement of about six months, during which many pre- parations for the wedding occupied the interest of both England and Denmark. The Danes were enthusiastic over the marriage of their princess; and the "people's dowry," as it was called, amounted to 100,000 kroner. After the arrival of the bride in England there were various public receptions in London, and the princess was hailed everywhere with true British cordiality. The wedding ceremony took place in St. George Chapel, Wind- sor, on March 10th, 1863, with all th pomp and gorgeous cere- monial befitting the occasion. From that day to this the popu- larity of Alexandra has been sure and steadfast. The sweetness and nobility of her character have endeared her to all the people and insured her a place of commanding influence in her present position as Queen of England.

DRAMA

Janet Waldorf may well be pleased with the reception given her efforts at the Opera House last night. Though the audience was not as large as might be expected for a first night, there was good attendance, and Miss Waldorf's acting as Nell Gwynne, as well as that of Norval McGregor as King Charles II aroused great applause.

Paul Kester's "Sweet Nell of Old Drury" the play presented, is billed as "the most romantic and humorous high class comedy-drama of modern times," and its four acts of interesting incident woven around the old story of the orange girl whom King Charles' favor raised to high station go far to warrant the description.

As Nell Gwynne, Miss Waldorf was highly successful. Her acting as the orange girl in the first scene, and later as the successful actress of Drury, deserved even more appreciation than the audience showed, and in all scenes she was ably assisted by Norval McGregor. He showed the character of the English monarch with true dramatic skill. The honors of the production belong to these two, though there are others in the company whose recognized abilities will be seen to better advantage in plays to be given during the season. The production on the whole was a creditable one, and a greater success than ever may be predicted for Miss Waldorf when she returns to the Mainland after her four years' tour of foreign lands.

Tomorrow evening "The Lady of Ostend," a farce comedy, will be produced. It is a lively mirth-provoker, and should attract a large audience.

SPECTACULAR FIRE ATTRACTS HUNDREDS

people of all races, ages and callings. Hundreds of school children found that the nearest way to their desks was by way of the fire. Scores of sedate business men were not less interested than the school children. Clerks, orientals, women and children, all headed for the fire and watched its course.

The Fort Street House was a two-story frame building with a corrugated iron roof, and a veranda running around three sides of the building on each story. It is owned by Mrs. Annie J. Burgess, and was occupied as a rooming house under lease to J. R. Hall. The building contained twenty rooms let out to lodgers, besides kitchen, dining and living rooms for the proprietor and his family. It is said that every room was occupied, the house being more completely filled with roomers than it has been for some time before.

The fire originated on the second floor from a leak in an oil stove. The three front rooms on the second floor were occupied as living apartments by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Stone. Mr. Stone is now at the coast and Mrs. Stone is engaged in business on Bethel street. She had gone to her business and a Mrs. Brown who came in every day to take care of the apartments had come in to make up the rooms. For some purpose she lighted one of the burners of an oil stove. The other burner she says was slightly leaking, and the blaze caught the dripping oil and in a breath spread to the reservoir of oil, and to everything inflammable in the room. Mrs. Brown, frightened by the quick spread of the blaze, hastily ran out of the apartment, though even with all her haste she received painful burns in the hands, and the blaze cut her off from exit by the front way and compelled her to get down stairs by a side stairway.

The alarm of fire was quickly given, but the flames quickly spread and in an incredibly short time they had gone entirely through the house, driving out those who had not already left for their daily duties, while the blast of the alarm whistle quickly recalled to the scene those who had. So quick were the flames with their work, that scarcely anything in the way of personal effects were saved by any one from the building. The people in the cottages adjoining on the makai side and in the rear, hastily began moving their effects out fearing the flames would burn them out as well, which they would have done but for the prompt and well directed efforts of the Fire Department.

Chief Thurston very speedily had two lines of hose run from the engine stationed at a hydrant at the head of Kukui street, and the flames were confined entirely to the building where they started, and practically to the upper story, though the whole house is gutted and what the flames have spared the water has ruined.

The loss will be severely felt by a great many people. A considerable number of those who lived in the building have lost everything they possess. Scarcely any of them have a change of clothing left. Very little insurance was carried by any of the lodgers. J. B. Hall, the proprietor, carried no insurance on his property, and his loss is a good many hundred dollars. It is understood that there was insurance on the building.

The Fort street House has been a rooming house for a great many years and has always been prosperous and of good character both as to those who carried on the business and the lodgers.

THE TERM WORK IS FINISHED

THE FIRST CIRCUIT COURT CRIMINAL CALENDAR UP TO DATE FOR FIRST TIME IN YEARS.

The extended February term of the First Circuit court will end this week, with the criminal calendar all cleared up, for the first time in years. There are several cases remaining on the calendar now, but by the end of the week all that are ready to be tried will have been disposed of, and the court will close its term with the "congested calendar," as far as criminal matters are concerned, a thing of the past.

Among the cases left on the calendar is that of H. Chilton charged with child-stealing. Former Deputy Attorney General J. W. Cathcart appears for the defense and Lorrin Andrews will prosecute. The case has been set for tomorrow morning, and will probably be tried tomorrow. Several cases against B. H. Wright will not be tried, an appeal to the Supreme Court being pending in the case in which he was found guilty.

Judge De Bolt has been holding court continuously during the term from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and trials have followed one another in rapid succession. As a result the calendar for next term will consist of new cases, excepting the Wright cases and the old transition period cases, which are still on the calendar and are awaiting a decision of the O'Neil Mankichi case, which is supposed to have been argued at Washington on March 2.

In civil cases, Judge Robinson has been working steadily, with the result that many cases have been disposed of. The civil calendar however, is so far behind that all three Judges sitting at once would need a long time to catch up.

WANTS HIS BOY ON SUNDAYS

THE SMITH DIVORCE PROVIDES A DOMESTIC PUZZLE WHICH IS REFERRED TO JUDGE DE BOLT.

The petition of Willard M. Smith to be allowed to call at the house of his divorced wife, Harriet M. Smith, and see his four-year-old son on Sundays, was heard by Judge De Bolt this morning. Mrs. Smith in her answer declared that she was afraid to allow her former husband to take the little boy out on Sundays as formerly, because she thought he would kidnap the youngster and take him from the jurisdiction of the court.

Fitch and Highton appeared for Mrs. Smith, who was in court with the child and Thomas I. Dillon and H. W. Robinson for Smith. After hearing the evidence Judge De Bolt decided that there was no reason to suppose that Smith intended to kidnap the boy, and he ordered the decree modified.

"There was no objection to the father taking the boy out on Sunday afternoons until recently," said the Judge. "The evidence shows that Mrs. Smith is working and wants to have her boy with her on Sundays. The divorce was granted to Mrs. Smith on the ground of extreme cruelty and the father is placed in an awkward light by reason of his having made no defense and practically admitted the charges made. No man with proper feeling for his child, it seems to me, would be cruel to the mother. Still it must be remembered that he is a father and naturally has a desire to see and be with his son."

Judge De Bolt ordered the divorce decree amended so that the father may have the right to see his boy two Sundays in every month, from one to four p. m. and to take the boy out if he so desires, and may also see the youngster two days every week, from 5 to 8 p. m. Both father and mother are employed all day and the hours were fixed to suit both.

KOHALA ROAD

H. B. Gehr, president of the Kohala Hilo Railroad Co. was seen at his hotel by a Star reporter this morning and, in reply to a question relating to his company's plans said: "We have had a proposition from representatives of the firm of Wilson, Lyon & Company railroad contractors of San Francisco for the construction of a part of the road which came up for discussion at a meeting held last night by those interested with me. As certain other matters remain unsettled, as yet, it was not considered advisable to enter into a contract for construction at present."

ANOTHER BIG SHIPYARD. NEW YORK, March 2.—Involving the expenditure of nearly $2,000,000 and the conversion of the Morse Shipyards and adjoining property in the Brooklyn, into one of the largest shipyards in the world, a movement is now on foot, mainly financed, it is understood by the Morgan interests.

T. L. Arnold of Brooklyn, who owns and adjoining the yard of the Morse Iron Works, has approached Morse with an offer for the purchase of his yard. Morse said to-night that Arnold admitted that he represented large interests and that the conversion of the yard and adjoining property into a huge shipyard for transatlantic craft was contemplated.

A HEROINE OF THE SEA. One of the five women immigrant inspectors at the port of New York is Mrs. Annie E. Wilson. The suggestion has been made that one trip down the bay to board a big liner would cure most of the applicants of any desire for the place. But the sea, however boisterous, will not frighten Mrs. Wilson. She was born at sea, the daughter of a sailor, and married at 16 a sailor. She has been wrecked, has escaped from a burning vessel, and once saved her husband's ship. When she was only 17 her husband's command, the Sharon, met a fearful gale off Newfoundland. Her husband was seriously injured, as were the other officers capable of taking command. The captain's wife in this crisis took charge of the ship, and inspiring in the crew something of her own spirit, after three weeks brought the dismantled and battered ship into St. Thomas, Danish West Indies. For this the British government gave her a gold medal, and the merchant of Liverpool a silver service. The latter was presented at a banquet, and Mrs. Wilson was called upon to speak. She

The Sumner case attorneys had their last exchange of complaints yesterday, when the final briefs in the case were filed in the Supreme court, by Magoon & Lightfoot and Humphreys & Watson. George A. Davis filed a brief some time ago, setting forth his legal argument, and now the court has the whole case.

In the Humphreys brief it is suggested that the services of mind reader Tyndall hang upon the tenuous basis of the meaning of some of Davis' arguments. The brief declares that Davis contradicted himself, and waxes sarcastic about him in the following language:

"Indeed Mr. Davis' argument was inconsistent throughout. In his melodious periods we have the refrain, 'the deep and thrilling timbre of the horn, the fiddle's wild complaint. He smites the harp and wakes the palpitating pipe; he sings as Sappho sang, upon the great white rock of Mitylene, yes! like Parthenope herself. As Eurydice followed Orpheus so we hang upon the tuneful words of Mr. Davis during the course of the otherwise long, technical and uninteresting argument of this case, yet as we were, while not unappreciative of the music with which he ravished our savage ears, unable to follow him with certitude through the course of his assertive, sinuous, inconsistent and contradictory observations, we resignedly abdicate the opportunity now accorded us of answering him and remit the task of ascertaining what Mr. Davis is talking about, on any given proposition, at any given time, to the cultured and intelligent people of our little insular community with his wonderful power of mental telepathy."

Mrs. Maria Davis is charged with having blackmailed Sumner, the brief saying: "It is conceded that Maria Davis had no manner of interest in this property and yet she wished according to her son Wally, to have this old man adjudged insane because 'she did not care about selling it.' In the light of the acceptance of the sum of $15,000 to consent to Sumner's sanity, $5,000 of which was paid to Magoon and Davis, a clearer case of confessed blackmail, to which her attorneys were parties, cannot be imagined."

In the brief of Magoon & Lightfoot there is a long discussion of the evidence and incidentally it is contended that Sumner was helpless when the distribution of his property was made, being without independent advice, as the attorneys he thought were acting for him have been found to be the attorneys for his opponents. The brief says: "This case exhibits the most appalling instance of insincerity that can be found on record. In one breath we have the Ellises contending, through their attorneys, that this deal will be irrevocable. In the next breath we find them withdrawing from this irrevocable trust the sum of $35,000 for their own benefit and consenting to the withdrawal from it of $25,000 more."

MOANA WAS HERE ON TIME

ARRIVED THIS MORNING FROM THE SOUTH AFTER A VERY PLEASANT TRIP.

The S. S. Moana arrived this morning from the South after a very pleasant trip. She left Sydney February 23, Brisbane February 29 and Suva March 3. She has a good sized list of passengers.

Among the passengers arriving at this port were G. Kunst. He passed through here some months ago en route to Germany. In his party are Miss P. T. Walker of Honolulu, Miss Bartley of Samoa, Miss J. Neumann and R. Engel, his private secretary.

Among the through passengers is P. A. Young of the Union S. S. Company. He is going to Dunbarton to fit out a new steampship for his company. The new vessel will be 5,000 tons and is a fine vessel in every respect, a sistership to her having been recently put into commission.

Dr. G. B. Clark was formerly a member of the British Parliament. He is making a tour of the world and is now returning from visiting in Australia.

Miss F. Carey is the daughter of Captain Carey, the master of the vessel. She is going home from a visit in Sydney to a married sister.

Dr. R. G. Corney is the health officer of Suva.

The Moana sailed at 2 p. m. today for Victoria and Vancouver.

Many dollars are turned away annually by The Star in rejecting offensive and improper advertisements offered for insertion in its columns.

This is a cogent reason why The Star's advertising columns are so generally used and so widely read.

Brandler Matthews received tickets for the first night, of course, says the New York Times. Did ever an author bring out a play in New York without sending tickets to Prof. Matthews? Contrary to his custom, Mr. Matthews made use of his passes on this occasion. He was down town; he wanted to see the play; the house was sold; so why not? The next day his opinion was eagerly called for by one of the classes at Columbia. "Well, gentlemen," said the literary freethinker, "the play was in four acts, and I was there as the guest of the author. After the first act the audience sat silent and I applauded. After the second act I sat quiet while the audience hissed." The professor took a long-drawn and prominent pull at his cigaret, then held it at arm's length and flicked off the ashes. "And the third act?" "Well, gentlemen," and there was a gleam of satisfaction in the professor's eye, "after the third act I went out and bought standing room and came back and hissed, too."
