Maui Electric Stockholders For Larger Capital

Increase Voted At Meeting Is 50 Percent At This Time; Market Street Site For Office Favored

Increase in the capital stock of the Maui Electric Company was unanimously voted by the nearly 80 percent of the stockholders represented at the meeting in the Baldwin Bank at Kahului yesterday morning. Twenty-five thousand dollars of shares will be offered to the stockholders at this time and the remaining $25,000 authorized may be issued at such subsequent time as the necessity for still further betterments and extensions appears. The authorization of the shareholders is for a doubling of the present capital stock and the issuance of half thereof for the making of immediate extensions and betterments and the building of an office and store for the company.

Terms Offers

New stock of the Maui Electric Company will be offered to the stockholders of record on September 15, at par, 50 percent to be paid October 1, 25 percent on November 15 and the remaining 25 percent payment on January 1. Stock not taken by the stockholders may be disposed of to others than share holders. The par value of the stock is $20 a share.

From the date of the formation of the Maui Electric Company for the purpose of taking over the property that was formerly owned by the Maui Electric Company it has been recognized that in time more funds than were then invested would be required.

Purposes of Issue

At Monday's meeting a tentative statement of proposed expenditures was presented as follows:

Wailuku District
Conductors in place	$2,200.00
Poles and Cross Arms in place	2,400.00
Incidentals	400.00
Substation Equipment	500.00
	$5,500.00

Paia District

Conductors in place	$1,700.00
Poles and Cross Arms in place	1,500.00
Meters and Transformers in place	800.00
Incidentals	400.00
	$4,400.00

$ 9,900.00

To the above amount, we must add the following:

New Building	$7,500.00
Furniture, Fixtures and other necessary equipment	2,500.00
Stock for show-rooms	5,000.00
	$15,000.00

Estimated cost for repairs to Wed-dick Property should lease be cancelled

1,000.00

TOTAL $25,900.00

The improvements indicated in the foregoing statement include those that have been previously outlined by this paper in news articles telling of the proposed change in the location of the transmission line to Wailuku and the new distribution system for this town both of which have been recommended by J. H. Foss and J. C. Blair, manager of the company.

Building Site Undecided

Several proposed sites for the store and office building of the company were presented. They included leasing the Weddick property now occupied by the company on which the lease is soon to expire; a long term lease of a portion of the Aluli property between Wailuku Hardware Store and the store of the Maui Drug Company on Market Street, a lot in the Kalua property mauka of the premises of the Royal Hawaiian Sales Company garage on Main street and the vacant property next mauka of the Bank of Maui and post office building. The stockholders authorized the directors to make a lease of the Aluli property in case one can be secured for a sufficiently long term to warrant the erection of a concrete building on leasehold land, otherwise to act in their discretion for the purchase of one of the properties that can be purchased outright. The sentiment of the stockholders was overwhelmingly for the Market street location if it could have been purchased and still in favor of it if a long term lease can be had at the figures proposed.

A statement presented to the stockholders at the meeting showed a balance in its working capital in favor of the company of $1313.58. Manager Blair expressed the opinion that the company will be able to pay 8 percent per annum dividends on a capitalization of $75,000 when the improvements have been carried out.

Kalua Property To Be Divided and Put On Realty Market

Desirable land for business purposes and other land that will be available for residential purposes is expected soon to be placed on the market as result of agreements that have been reached between Judge J. W. Kalua and the Wailuku Union and the Wailuku Hawaiian Church. The property is the Kalua home on Main street mauka of Market street which was left to Judge Kalua for life and after his death was to go to the two churches Wailuku Union Church and the Wailuku Hawaiian Church. Judge Kalua for its estate in remainder after having voted previously against such acceptance. The Hawaiian church had previously voted to accept the offer for its estate in remainder.

News of the agreement having been reached developed at the meeting of the stockholders of the Maui Electric Company yesterday when C. D. Lufkin said a lot 30 by 100 feet in the premises could be had by the company as a site for its proposed new building. It is learned that the papers have been prepared and are waiting approval of counsel before being signed by the proper officers of the two churches, Judge Kalua having financed his arrangements for the purchase of the two estates in remainder so as to be able to give clear title to purchasers. From another source it was learned that it may be thought advisable to have a special meeting of the congregation of the Wailuku Union Church called to confirm the action taken at the annual meeting after the sending out and posting of notices.

The Kalua premises extends from the county property on which is the house at the corner of Main and Market streets down to the Royal Hawaiian Garage property. There could readily be laid out five or six business lots on Main street with entrance running to the inside property which will be available for use for residential uses and may be connected up with other streets as well.

Kamehameha Singers Please In Concerts

In the face of a strong counter attraction in the concert of Madame Miura, the Kamehameha Serenaders sang to a fairly large audience at the Territorial Building, Saturday night and the attendance was further increased after the concert by some of those who attended the Miura concert and afterward dropped in for the dance.

As always the Serenaders rendered a delightful program and it was even better than in the past on Maui because of the addition of Miss Amy Awa, the Hawaiian prima donna. Miss Awa has a splendid voice and in solo and duet she pleases her hearers greatly. Jack Heleluhi's baritone numbers were a real treat also and Kid Abe's saxophone performance sustained his island wide reputation. Last night the Serenaders pleased an audience at Haiku and tonight they will be at the Armory in Lahaina.

Skirt Takes Fire; Girl Badly Burned

Laudes Pedro, employed as maid in the family of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Puck was seriously burned yesterday morning and lies suffering in Malulu hospital though reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

The injured girl, who is 16 or 17 years of age, was working in the yard back of the Puck home and had a fire with a kettle over it. She turned from the fire and stooped to pick up some object, thrusting the bottom of her skirt toward or into the fire. Her clothing became ignited and blazed up quickly. The frightened girl called Mrs. Puck who put down her baby and ran out when she heard the cry of fire. Mrs. Puck seized a blanket and threw the maid upon it, wrapping her up in its folds and thus extinguishing the burning clothing after which she applied oil to the burns until medical aid was brought and the girl taken to the hospital.

The injuries to Miss Pedro are chiefly on one thigh, hip and back and the left side of the body.

COMMERCE FIGURES TOLD

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20—The department of commerce, in a statement issued, declares the reduction by more than $90,000,000 in the United States favorable trade balance of July, 1922 compared with a previous date last year will help the international exchange situation. Exports during last month were in dollars $305,000,000 compared to $234,000,000 during June and $325,000,000 in July last year. Imports were valued at $251,000,000 during last month and $178,000,000 the year previous.

Smuggling Of Aliens Into U. S. From Cuba Must Cease, Davis

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Secretary Davis declared the labor department recently has made an intensive investigation into the smuggling situation in Cuba and that it was "generally accepted that virtually the entire Chinese population in Cuba, except the businessmen, have the one thought uppermost of gaining entrance to the United States. Between twenty five and thirty thousand Chinese in Cuba are for the greater part unemployed and have little prospects of employment," he said. Davis called the attention of Secretary Hughes to the large numbers of Chinese from the Pacific Coast that are in transit to Cuba and declared if the movement to Cuba could be checked, the smuggling situation would be relieved.

The state department made representations to the Cuban government looking forward the prevention of the smuggling of the Chinese and Europeans from the island to the United States. It was declared that 40,000 aliens from Europe were in Cuba awaiting an opportunity to enter the United States surreptitiously. Davis added the government must halt the smuggling in of the aliens, many of whom he declared were Bolsheviks and added that if an effective remedy is not applied through cooperation with the foreign governments, he would ask congress to enact a compulsory registration law to apply to all aliens in the United States. Davis believed there are 100,000 aliens in the United States that have no right to be here.

Chang Makes Fierce Attack On British

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
PEKING, Aug. 21—Newspapers here publish the proceedings at a meeting to which Chang-soolin summoned the British and American residents of Mea chang and Mudd-en. Chang charged the Britishers with discriminating against him, alleging that British air bombers had attacked his forces during his engagement with Wu Peifu. He declared that unless their actions were not changed that they would be boycotted. Chang did not make an attack on the Americans. It is understood the British ministry is investigating into the affair preparatory to protesting. British circles are much wrought over Chang's threats.

Liberty House Sale Tremendous Success

Ladies from all parts of Maui were shopping in Wailuku yesterday. They drove down from Kula and from Haiku or across from Lahaina and came in from closer points, all attracted by the announcement of the first Monday Special Sale of the Liberty House ever to be held on Maui. They found the salesroom off the lanal of the Grand Hotel literally filled with beautiful and attractive dresses and gowns priced extremely low, found everything just as had been advertised.

Mrs. Drake and Miss Molloy, her assistant at the sale, had a busy time of it yesterday. From opening hour in the morning until dusk fell patrons kept coming in and departing with boxes and bundles, wearing smiles of satisfaction at the success of their shopping expedition.

This morning Mrs. Drake said: "The first day of our sale was quite all that we expected. However, we came prepared for a three day sale and brought a stock of goods sufficient to meet the demands of the Maui buying public. Sold out? Gracious no. We have still a large enough assortment in the various lines advertised to meet the demands of today and tomorrow. Not all of the best has been picked out."

"Not the smallest source of satisfaction has been the expressions of appreciation from Maui ladies on our bringing a bargain sale of new goods to them."

IRISH FUNDS TIED UP

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
NEW YORK, Aug. 21—Supreme Court Justice Burr today signed a temporary injunction restraining the banks in the United States containing funds collected for the pro-Irish Republican cause from releasing them to Devalera. Attorneys representing Collins and other free state officers who signed the application announced that approximately $2,300,000 were tied up.

Senate Asked To Investigate U. S. Coal Industry

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 21—Chairman Winslow of the house commerce committee, after visiting the White House introduced in congress a bill to put in effect President Harding's recommendation of a government investigation into the coal industry.

MINERS AGREE

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
BELLINGHAM, Montana, Aug. 21—Coal operators and miners have signed an agreement restoring the former wage and working conditions, to be effective one year. At Cheyenne an agreement was made reestablishing the check off system.

Reports from Saginaw, by the Associated Press, say operations were resumed in the Michigan mines after a shut down of nearly five months.

Railroad Executives Are More Confident

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
NEW YORK, Aug. 22—Railroad executives held a secret session today preparatory to the Wednesday conference.

Loree stated after the meeting that the Atlantic Coast lines, normally employing 161,339, gained 2.5 percent in employes last week and now have 715 percent of the normal.

Loree added he is still solidly opposed to granting the seniority demands of the strikers.

Unanimous Consent Bonus Bill Sought

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Senate Republican leaders are negotiating for the securing of unanimous consent for a final vote on the Soldiers' Bonus Bill with no great prospect of success.

The general belief here is that the measure will pass finally by a substantial majority and then be sent to conference for settlement of the differences between the senate and the house. It is thought it will be handled by the same committees as will handle the tariff disputes.

Bevins Hearing Is Closing Today

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
HONOLULU, Aug. 21—County Attorney E. R. Bevins of Maui resumed the stand this morning in the disbarment proceedings against him instituted by the attorney general. Later he was cross examined by Deputy Attorney General Lightfoot but no new facts were brought out.

Closing arguments will be presented to counsel tomorrow morning and will close the hearings.

Fifty Thousand Are Needlessly Blind; Committee Reports

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
NEW YORK, Aug. 11—(Associated Press Mail)—Fifty thousand Americans are blind who need never have lost their sight, asserts the National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness, in an appeal to normal schools, teachers' colleges and universities, asking their cooperation in spreading the doctrine of sight conservation in their health and education courses.

There are 17 topics, all relating to the conservation of vision, which should be included in any course on general health education, the committee points out. This course, with study periods and practice classes, should have a recognized place in the curriculum of schools, and students who qualify should be accorded adequate credits, it is held.

In the proposed course of 17 topics are included: The structure of the eye and its methods of functioning; common diseases of the eye of children and detection of obvious signs of communicable diseases; examinations by teachers to determine children's visual acuity; teaching of the necessity for refraction by competent eye-sight specialists in cases of defective vision; and the necessity for glasses that "fit"; cooperation of teachers with school doctors and nurses; adequate school room lighting and seating arrangements and interior decorations to obviate eye hazards and strains; and consideration of type sizes and styles for text books which are best adapted to youthful eyes.

John Guild's Accounts Found Short At Least Half Million, Report

Trusted Official Of Alexander & Baldwin Collapses When Truth Finally Transpires; Transactions Said To Cover Long Period

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
HONOLULU, Aug. 22—Irregularities extending over a considerable period of years and which are estimated to be in excess of $500,000 and may reach $750,000 have been discovered in the accounts of John Guild, secretary and cashier of Alexander & Baldwin, Ltd. Honolulu was stunned when the news became public yesterday and seemed unable to realize that one of its most prominent and highly respected business men and citizens had been false to the trusts imposed in him.

Charles R. Hemenway, treasurer and assistant manager of Alexander & Baldwin yesterday morning made the following statement:

"The directors of Alexander & Baldwin have authorized me to state that serious irregularities have been found in John Guild's accounts, which are now under investigation and that Mr. Guild is at home in a very critical condition of health."

It was learned that Guild was at his home in Manoa, said to be in a critical condition having been unconscious for two days and that his recovery was not expected.

John Waterhouse, vice-president and manager of Alexander & Baldwin will arrive in Honolulu tomorrow, summoned a week ago by cable when the Guild shortages were revealed as a result of an audit following the discovery of apparent minor discrepancies when confronted with which Guild collapsed. Such audit revealed large shortages.

Guild immediately resigned his positions with the firm and it is announced that he will be succeeded by J. Platt Cooke, son of the late J. P. Cooke.

Mr. Guild is reported prostrated and seriously ill with an affliction of the heart. He has resigned as secretary and cashier of Alexander & Baldwin and has been succeeded by J. Platt Cooke, a son of the late president of the firm.

Peccations Cover Years
Full details of the shortage have not yet been ascertained, but the alleged peccations cover a period of years, perhaps 10 or more. Mr. Guild has been connected with Alexander & Baldwin in a responsible position for more than 20 years. In 1915 he was appointed secretary, and prior to that had been cashier for many years. He has always been in charge of the accounting and finances of the company and in this position had complete accounts and enjoyed the full confidence of the directors.

The money was appropriated, it is understood, through falsification of statements and accounts, and the manipulations were covered up most cleverly, according to a director of the firm.

Collapses When Questioned
The shortage was brought to light last week when Mr. Hemenway approached Mr. Guild for information concerning certain financial matters. When the subject was approached he practically collapsed and immediately went to his home in Manoa. Later, under the stress of questioning, Mr. Guild fell a victim of hysteria, and although supplying certain data regarding financial matters of the company, he has, according to report, been unable to make any coherent, consistent explanation of the huge shortage.

Assigns Property to Firm
Mr. Guild, while not reputed to be wealthy, was known to be comfortably fixed financially. He owned a large summer beach home at Kaalawai, beyond Diamond Head, and also a home in Manoa.

It is understood that he has turned over his property and all other assets to Alexander & Baldwin. It was announced this morning that an audit of Guild's accounts as treasurer of the Episcopal Church is in progress.

Maui Public Startled
When the news of the Guild shortages reached Maui News yesterday afternoon and was told to some of those, to whom it was of most interest it spread rapidly and yesterday afternoon and last night had become the chief topic of conversation. It was then learned that H. A. Baldwin and F. P. Baldwin, both directors in the company, had gone to Honolulu Saturday night after receipt of wireless messages, presumably in relation to that business.

John Guild was respected here as in Honolulu and all the other islands and the shock to the public of Maui was like that in Honolulu.

Long Good Record
Guild is a native of Scotland, born in Edinburgh in May 1869. He came to Hawaii from the West Indies in 1897 and for a short time was employed on Makawell plantation after which he joined Alexander & Baldwin, then a co-partnership, not having been incorporated until 1900. He rose in the company to cashier and later became a director and its secretary. Its financial affairs have generally been in his charge.

Russian Death Rate High Reports Show

(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
GENEVA, Aug. 12—(Associated Press Mail)—Reports to the Health Section of the League of Nations show that in the Kharkov district of Russia early this year people were dying at the rate of 40,000 a month, or a mortality of 600 in every 1,000. Between March 1 and 29, 125,000 persons died of hunger.

Of the 3,125,277 inhabitants of the Tartar Republic, 2,500,000 had died of starvation by March. From January 1 to March 15 there were 322,390 cases of infectious disease.

In the Ukraine cholera was spreading and the death rate was 60 percent. There was a grave lack of medical supplies, and hospital accommodation had decreased by 80 percent.

Up to May 2 the number of cases of typhus in Soviet Russia, the Caucasus and Central Asia was 513,319, compared to 325,665, during the corresponding period last year. There were 467,078 cases of relapsing fever.

Japanese Diva Delights Hearers

Madame Miura In Splendid Voice Charms Audience With Sweet Singing and Dainty Manners

Seldom indeed has a Maui audience been so well pleased as was that in the Kahului Theater, Saturday night that listened in wrapt attention to the "World's Greatest Butterfly", Mme. Tamaki Miura, Japanese prima donna. It was an audience that practically filled the theater and one that in numbers and cordiality warranted the chances of financial loss the promoters took in bringing the Nipponese diva to Maui.

Madame Miura opened the program with Leoncavallo's "Canzone Degh Angeli" which she sang in Italian. It was a selection which from its classical nature appealed most especially to the hearers who were versed in the higher technique of music and showed at the outset the natural ability and the training and cultivation of the singer. She responded to the encore with a selection of similar nature. At the outset with her gracious manner and her personal charm, she won her audience and the program was nicely balanced, intermingling lighter numbers with the heavier.

Especially with the number "Comin' thru the Rye," the popular old Scotch ballad, and the encore thereof, "Mother Machree," she won her hearers and again when, in well chosen but somewhat broken English she told of the meaning of the Japanese songs she was about to sing she made the audience still more friendly. The little singer used Italian, French, English, German, Japanese and Hawaiian in the course of the concert, the last named in her closing number, "Aloha Oe."

Madame Miura has a lovely voice, that clearly reflects the study and cultivation bestowed upon it. She took the high notes sweetly and easily and there was true expression in her every rendition. There was a slightly noticeable "Nazle" quality of the voice common to the Japanese which is unavoidable owing to the different physiological formation of the nose and its passage in the Japanese, but it did not detract materially from the pleasure her singing gave to the Caucasians in the audience and was compensated for by her charm of manner and daintiness.

The every number that Madame Miura sang was received with prolonged applause and in the intermission that followed the first part she was fairly overwhelmed with floral offerings far more than the little Japanese lady could carry.

On Saturday night "Madame Butterfly" was at her best and one of the audience who had heard her in concert four times previously said she was better at Kahului than he had heard her before.

After the concert Madame Miura expressed the pleasure that her reception on Maui had given her and said she had never sung to an audience that seemed more appreciative or was more stimulating to one putting forth her best efforts.

Last night she delighted a large West Maui audience at the Pioneer Theater in Lahaina.

Father Breaks the News

"That young man of yours," said father as daughter came down to breakfast, "should be in a museum for living curiosities."

"Why, father!" exclaimed the young lady in tones of indignation, "what do you mean?"

"I noticed when I passed through the hall late last night," answered the parent, "that he had two heads upon his shoulders."—The Soldier-Worker (Butte).

Gentle Hint

"Physical culture, father is perfectly lovely!" exclaimed an enthusiastic young miss just home from college. "Look! To develop the arms I grasp this rod in both hands and move it slowly from right to left."

"Well, well," replied dad admiringly, "what won't science discover next? Why, if that rod had strag on the other end, you'd be sweeping."—American Legion Weekly.

Field Marshal Haig in Whiskey Business

LONDON, July 26 — (Associated Press Mail) — Field Marshal Earl Haig has been elected a director of the Distillers' Company at the annual meeting held in Edinburgh. The chief product of the company is whiskey. There are some people who think it rather detracts from the Field Marshal's dignity and reputation to be interested in a business of that sort, but their disapproval is hardly as vocal as it would be in America. The Haigs have long been financially interested in Whiskey.

Earl Haig is usually credited with being thorough in all that he does, and he intends to be thorough in the whiskey business. When he was asked to join the Board of Directors he consented, it was stated, on the understanding that he would be no mere figure-head, but would take his full share of the work as well as of the responsibility attached to the office.

He is likely to have plenty to do. The Distiller's Company is planning to increase greatly its whiskey output both in Ireland as well as Scotland. It has acquired half the shares of the United States Distilleries of Belfast and expects soon to acquire the entire concern.

Coal Mine Strikes Give Light To Mules

HAZLETON, Pa. Aug. 10—(Associated Press Mail)—The coal mine mule, which ordinarily spends years of his life in the darkness of mine tunnels far under ground, retains his eyesight even though he does not use his eyes. So veterinarians in the anthracite region have determined following examination of many of the mules which have been brought to the surface since the mines closed down last spring. With this announcement the veterinarians exploded a theory held by many for years—that because he did not have any use for his eyes, the mule lost his sight.

The coal mine mule usually begins life like any common farm mule. Once he becomes a mine worker, however, things change. He is sent far underground into the dark workings of the hard coal mines and there he stays, often for the remainder of his life. Being a hardy animal he sometimes remains in the mines for 20 years without seeing daylight.

When the mules were hoisted to the surface and turned loose upon the companies' properties some of them blinked a bit at the sunlight. When the veterinarians looked them over they found their eyes were there and as good as ever.

AHEAD OF THE TIMES

In presenting to the next legislature, as it announces it will do a bill designed to prevent the propagation of the unfit the Honolulu branch of the American Birth Control League cannot look forward to passage of such a measure, possibly not even to any debate upon it for it is not unlikely that such an advanced proposal may be stifled in committee. It will be, however, taking a step toward the ultimate serious consideration of a subject which is of very deep importance to the social organization.

The proposal as it is told in the Honolulu newspapers goes to an extreme when it includes the sterilization of lepers at a time when progress in arresting leprosy is so marked and when evidence goes to show that the disease is communicable but by no means proved to be inheritable or that even a tendency to it is passed down to children. If lepers are to be so treated, why not consumptives? It may well be asked. Also, with the insane, there are many cases where a victim recovers and there are types which are certainly not transmissible to offspring though there may be other types where a taint or a tendency toward a taint may be the legacy of innocent children.

There is a growing number of thinking people who favor the prevention of parenthood for the habitually criminal. There is a number not so large but also growing who would prevent the propagation of their kind by the mentally weak, the imbecile and even the morons. Still others would include epileptics. Thus it is seen that even those who favor regulation of the sort proposed are by no means agreed upon where the proposal should end, how far it should proceed and just what classes should be included in it. There are others who would legislate to prevent marriage of the mentally weak and persons who suffer from certain physical ailments but who are not ready to go to the extremes proposed to prevent parenthood.

It is unfortunate that the expression "birth control" should be used in connection with the movement that has been started in Honolulu for that phrase has generally been given a different meaning from the one attaching to the legislation that is to be offered. Birth control as usually understood has the bitter opposition of some of the churches, most outspokenly the Roman Catholic and the Episcopal, and of many individuals. It might be possible to win over to modifications of the Honolulu suggestions considerable numbers of those who are today its opponents were some other namer given to it.

Production of feeble minded and criminally inclined children is a crime against the poor, helpless little ones and against society as well. In one Honolulu school there were found in the lower grade seven feeble minded children that should have been in an institution for their sort, 23 in the second grade incapable of further advancement and 14 in the third grade whose mental limitations have been reached. In those three grades of that one school are 44 children probably destined to be burdens on the community as they grow up and prospective parents of children of their mental kind in the future. The institution for the feeble minded is not nearly adequate to house all that should be in it. The girls' industrial school, of whose inmates fully 75 percent are retarded, will ask for $350,000 for its maintenance from the next legislature. It may well be asked where will it end?

Those who propose presenting the legislation for consideration will be adversely criticised by many, openly condemned by some, but they are honest in their purpose and intent and are altruistic and unselfish. They may not be the makers of legislation but they are makers of thought, awakeners of society which in due season will have to act in its own protection. It may try other means first but if those means fail then it will have to turn to some such proposals as are being put forward by the Honolulu branch of the league.

TRANSPORTATION TO MAUI

In an article in the Hilo Tribune of last Tuesday it was said that there is a rumor going around that the new Inter-Island steamer Haleakala will not touch at Lahaina (or presumably Mala) or that it may make such a stop on only one of its three times a week trips. The article said the rumor had not been confirmed and that it would be up to the management of the company to arrange the schedules.

No news has reached Maui to indicate that there is any truth in the rumors reported from Hilo. At the opening of Mala wharf no definite promises were made but most of those who were there and heard some of the company's directors speak in advocacy of roads up Haleakala for tourists carried away the idea that Inter-Island steamship service would be increased for Maui, not taken away.

Under those circumstances it is not too early to take requisite steps to find out what are the intentions of the management of the company and to exert every possible influence that may exist to have the Haleakala call regularly at a West Maui port on each and every trip between Honolulu and Hilo. In a few months the Haleakala will be on her run and it should be easier to have West Maui included in that run at the start than to get such inclusion later on.

MEETING A CRISIS

President Harding has done as he said he would, presented the industrial situation particularly as connected with the fuel industry and railroading to congress and the nation. In so doing he has made some definite proposals which if carried out to ultimate conclusions in the national industries will be far reaching. He has voiced a general appreciation of the situation when he said the present conditions are intolerable and it is not to be contemplated that they be permitted to continue.

From the outset it was evident that the Esch-Cummings Act would not suffice to meet the difficulties that would arise in connection with transportation. It was a commission of arbitration and award which had no right to enforce the awards that it made or at least no adequate means of so doing. President Harding asks congress to find ways of compelling obedience to the rulings of the board

THE OPTIMISTIC PESSIMIST

When ball players row the umpire all through the game the attendance may be called an audience rather than spectators.

It certainly does get on one's nerves to have those who fill a motion picture show called an audience. It insinuates that those who attend the show go to hear the kiddies applaud, not to look at the displays upon the screen.

It begins to look as if the world war was fought so that the nations might devote their attention to industrial warfare instead of the international variety.

It cannot be doubted that girls are becoming physically stronger for they now throw young men over much more frequently than formerly.

The man who says he has been driven to drink will generally be found merely to have been given a lift on the journey along the road over which he had headed.

Apparent grouching in some men is only their way of seeking to express their sense of the great importance they attribute to themselves.

Usually it is the ignorant and inexperienced young man who is first to deny the correctness of the assertion of another and last to apologize for his rudeness.

Persons who pose as being habitually bored by others usually are the worst bores themselves. He who is interested in life and in others is best able to interest those others.

One's moral shoulders may readily become uneven through trying habitually to shift burdens upon the shoulders of others.

The most remarkable thing about the modern code of business ethics is its elasticity, it stretches to make room for self interest and contracts and snaps back when the competitor tries to slip in.

Life moves an amendment to the name of the U. S. Shipping Board so that it may be known as the American Bar Association.

Difficulties in transmitting intelligence are not so great as is having the intelligence to transmit.

In Hilo an honest lad was found through an ad for a lost pocket book. Incidentally the pocket book was also found.

It is perfectly proper according to modern rules to use a hammer on the reputation of another but to use it on the skull means to face penitentiary sentence.

It is now proposed to have ball players form a union and join the A. F. L. which ought to help the pitchers by increasing the number of strikers.

that arbitrates so that the decisions it renders may be put into effect.

As to the fuel situation he asks congress to provide a medium which can supply the needs of the public when the mine owners and their employes fall out. He would also have a commission similar to the Rail Labor Board to investigate wages and working conditions with a view to preventing a repetition of the present grave situation.

The two industries stand out as most closely connected with utilities but as a matter of fact almost every industry is a factor in utilities or at least is closely tied up to the needs of the public. Where will come the end of commissions to investigate working conditions, wages and prices, and what is to be the outcome? Coal is needed to keep the home warm and to light it. Clothing is needed to keep the body warm when outside of the home, shoes to protect the feet, food to replenish the waste of bodily tissue that attends every effort, every movement, every breath.

The public is long suffering and seems destined to be longer suffering. It is willing to see the investor get a dividend on his investment and wants to see the laborer get a fair wage and good treatment but it also wants to get fair treatment for itself.

The Harding proposal appears to be expedient to meet the conditions in two of the industries but is fraught with possibilities for the future which may entail danger and may bring great changes in the customs that have prevailed in the business and the industry of the nation and of the world.

It has been decided that Hawaii shall spend $50,000 for advertising and the raising of the publicity fund is to be started forthwith. The Islands have been getting tremendous returns on the small amounts spent for printers ink and paper in the past and the dividends on the coming investment will be most gratifying if in any way commensurate with the results secured in the past. Maui should awake and do something in the way of advertising for herself in Honolulu if she wants a proportionate part of the increased travel that will be brought to Honolulu and the Island of Hawaii.

A big Island man, a plantation worker, objects to paying a bill because of the item "divers goods" and he says he was never a diver and so had no use for the item charged.

Madame Miura pleased her Kahului audience greatly. The Japanese community is to be congratulated on its enterprise. The house was an excellent one and Maui does not have to explain, as Honolulu seems trying to do, that its population is not sufficiently large to fill a theater at such a high class attraction.

FALSE ECONOMY

Not one of the thousands of employers who came to grief as a result of the dishonesty of employees during the past year suspected a dishonest streak when the men were hired. If it had been suspected they would not have been hired and there would be no necessity for this ad.

Unless your employes are bonded and bonded all the time, you are in constant danger of a loss which may be large enough to cripple you financially. Would it not be the better part of economy to spend a few dollars a year for bonding your employes than run the everlasting, nerve-racking risk of losing hundreds, perhaps thousands?

World's Future None Too Bright Is View Of Rider Haggard

GENEVA, July 17 — (Associated Press Mail)—A great subterranean river, with an outflow of 67,000 gallons of water a minute, has been discovered in the Mont Blanc region. Known as Eaux Belles, this river has thrown out many underground tributaries which have formed small lakes and wells of extremely pure and cold water in the southeast districts of France and in some of the southern cantons of Switzerland.

The origin of the river is the ancient lower glaciers of Mont Blanc which it has been proved flow from the bottom as well as the top, the latter supplying indirectly the Rhone and the Rhine.

The waters of Eaux Belles at a depth of 25 to 50 yards beneath the mountains have carved out wonderful and beautiful caverns, grottoes and couloirs full of stalactites and stalagmites.

Warships Sacrificed To Improve Gunnery Of British Sailors

LONDON, July 26 — Associated Press Mail)—Having found no buyers for the great group of battleships which the Washington conference decreed should be scrapped, Great Britain is using the monsters as targets for the gunners of the Royal Navy and the bombers of the Royal Air Force. Like the United States and France, this country has a dozen or more specially fine cruisers and one-time dreadnoughts which must be relegated to the ignominious junk pile.

Thunderer, Monarch, Conqueror, Colossus, Lion, Ajax, Centurion, King George V., Princess Royal, Erin and Orion, monsters of 20,000 or more tons, once the pride of the Seven Seas, are all doomed. Costing more than 15,000,000 originally, junk dealers have offered the government only 20,000 apiece for them.

The navy is now engaged in a series of target tests on the famous battleships Agamemnon and Superb, which, like their sister ships, are to find their graves in the ocean at the hands of the gunners and jack tars that once manned them. The admiralty is trying by these tests to determine how a direct hit can be prevented from passing from the turret down the ammunition tube.

In the battle of Jutland, invincible, indefatigable and Queen Mary blew up because of a flash passing from the ammunition tube to the magazines below. So Superb is now in the English Channel and is being shelled at punishing ranges to see whether or not the flash of explosion passes down to the powder and shell magazines under given conditions. Agamemnon, too, may soon need a successor. She is a moving target, more difficult to hit than Superb, which is stationary. She is propelled by oil. The supply of oil is turned on, her engines are started, and the engineers flee from her before she gathers too much headway. Her speed as well as her steering apparatus are controlled by wireless in another ship.

The most exciting part of these tests is that played by the sloop Snaptadragon. She is responsible for taking accurate motion pictures of what happens to the target as the result of the shots. At times she runs the risk of being hit by the monster armorpiercing projectiles as well as being rammed by the 20,000-ton Agamemnon.

ANSWERS TO FRIDAY'S QUERIES

Commodore John Barry was the first commanding officer of the American Navy, his commission, signed by Washington, being designated as No. 1.

"Bonfire" takes its name from "bone-fire," or literally piles of bones—a term applied to a funeral pyre.

The abbreviation "K. G." after a person's name means "Knight of the Garter."

A metal is said to be amalgam when it is mixed with some other metal, usually mercury.

Mount Vernon was built by Lawrence Washington, elder brother of George Washington, who named the estate in honor of Admiral Vernon, under whom he had served in the British Navy.

The Daily Fun Hour

SLOGANEERING

Our word "slogan" is derived from the Gaelic "Sluagh-ghairm," signifying an army cry. The Scotch Highlanders and the Irish rallied their fighting forces for centuries with these rousing army calls, each clan having its own slogan, such as "Faugh-a-ballagh! (Forward!); "O'Donal Abu!" (O'Donnell Forever!); etc. Nowadays the term slogan is applied largely to advertising, but for a game of Sloganeering players may use battle cries, famous war phrases, town boasts or advertising mottoes.

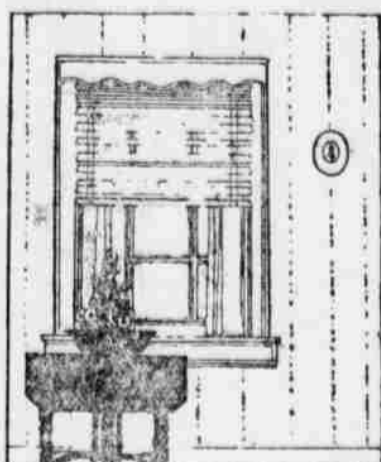

The leader passes around pencils and slips of paper, and announces that the player who can recollect and write down the largest number of slogans within a given time will be declared winner of the first game and leader of the next. Here is a specimen list of miscellaneous slogans for practice:

"Don't give up the ship," "I came, I saw, I conquered," "We have met the enemy and they are ours," "Up the Republic," "Liberty or Death!" "Blue Bonnets over the Border," "They shall not pass!" "By this sign we conquer," "The old Guard dies, but never surrenders," "United we stand; divided we fall," "Hail Columbia," "Lafayette, we are here," etc. Among familiar advertising slogans may be listed: "Eventually—why not now?" "It floats!" "A skin you love to touch," "Save the surface, and you save all," "Ask Dad; he knows," "It pays to advertise," "The Makings of a Nation," "His Master's Voice," "Ask the man who owns one."

THE HOME IN GOOD TASTE

Joint Author of "Practical Book of Interior Decoration," Etc.

No. 5—Window Shades

Roller-window shades or blinds are not meant to be pulled halfway down to show the outside world that the house is equipped with them. Used in this way they are simply objects of useless display. They have a useful purpose and should be used for that purpose, for which they were intended. That purpose is distinctly utilitarian and not decorative.

They are meant to be pulled down at night when the lights inside are lighted, to keep the outside world from looking in, or pulled down during the day when the glare of the sun is too strong. When a window is equipped with curtains and hangings there is usually little need to pull down the shade. When there are no hangings it may be necessary to pull the blinds part-way down. Most houses would be better for more daylight than is generally let into them.

It is a mistake from a decorative point of view to think that a shade should be kept half-way down—where so many people keep it. Roll it up out of sight, ready for use, however, when it is really needed. White or cream-colored shades are commonly preferable to those of darker color.

The Venetian blind has a genuine decorative value and its slats are conveniently adjustable at any angle. It is much more expensive than the roller shade, but it lasts from generation to generation.

DREAMLAND ADVENTURES

The Little Old Gray Man's Secret
By DADDY
Copyright 1921, by Public Ledger Co.

In this week's story, Blue Jay causes the birds a lot of trouble and grows fat from his trickery, but in the end he gets what he deserves.

CHAPTER I

The Little Old Gray Man

JACK and Janet were roaming happily in the great woods. Spring had come. The snow had gone except for a patch here and there in shady hollows; the air was soft and sweet.

The home-coming birds scurried about joyfully. Some were looking for places to build their nests; others were tarrying but a short while before going farther north.

"I hope the birds build their nests near our bungalows," cried Jack.

"So do I," added Janet. "It would be lovely to have them awaken us with their joyful morning songs and put us to sleep at night with their twilight lullabies."

"I hope the birds build their nests near our bungalows," cried Jack

"Perhaps they will build there if we ask them to," suggested Jack, and he shouted to the flitting birds.

But the birds were too busy with their scurrying and their visiting. They paid no attention to the children.

"Come birds! Come birds and be our neighbors," cried Janet. Still the birds paid no attention. But some one else did. That some one else was a little old gray man, driving a little old gray horse hitched to a little old gray wagon.

"When?" cried the little old gray man to his little old gray horse.

"What are you children doing?"

"We are asking the birds to build their nests near our home," answered Jack.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! That is a fine idea," laughed the little old gray man. "But you are not asking the birds in the right way."

"Please, sir, will you tell us the right way?" asked Janet.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! To be sure I will," answered the little old gray man. "But first I have an errand to do. Can you tell me where to find a fair lassie named Janet and a brave laddie named Jack?"

That question surprised Jack and Janet. Who could this little old man be who was asking where he could find them?

"I am Jack and this is Janet," said Jack after a moment.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! And you want to know the right way to ask the birds to live around your bungalows," cried the little old gray man, his eyes twinkling. "Well I have the right way here in my wagon," and he pointed to a large bundle wrapped in canvas. "Hop in, and you will quickly learn the secret of the way to ask birds to live near your homes. Ho! Ho! Ho!"

The little old gray man made room for them on the seat of the wagon, but Jack and Janet held back. They had been taught not accept rides from strangers.

"Please, sir, who are you?" asked Jack.

"Ho! Ho! Ho! If I told you that you would guess the secret," laughed the little old gray man. Then he drew a paper from his pocket. "Read this and then you will not be afraid to ride with me."

He handed Jack the paper, and Jack spelled out this message: "Dear Jack and Janet—We are sending the little old gray man with a springtime surprise for you. He is a kind little old gray man so be nice to him." The note was signed by Jack's father and Janet's father. The eyes of the little old gray man twinkled.

"Now will you ride with me?" Yes, now Jack and Janet would ride with him. They joyfully climbed over the wheel to the seat beside the little old gray man. They were eager to find what the springtime surprise was. The little old gray man clucked to the little old gray horse and the old gray wagon rattled down the forest lane.

(In Friday's chapter Jack and Janet learn what the surprise is. Can you guess what it is? And what is the secret of the way to ask the birds to build their nests near human houses?)

Scouting is built upon the theory that within every boy is a spark of ambition, which under proper environment and stimulation can be caused to burst into a flame of choicest citizenship. No boy enters a scout troop, who does not long for the day when he will reach the high position of an Eagle Scout.
The average boy, no matter how ambitious he may be when entering the troop, may have his ambitions smothered by inattention and lack of supervision. If he is merely admitted to the troop and assigned to a patrol only to be forgotten by the leader, his fate will be the fate of hundreds of boys—Scouting failed.
"In our troop meeting," Oh, men! hear this member of a troop committee saying. "In our Troop Meetings we," "In our Troop Meetings we," etc. "This is the stuff. When a troop committee man can get to the point where he can say, "In our Troop Meetings," the whole problem of scouting will be solved. What the Maui council of Boy Scouts of America is just this spirit. We now have a few Troop Committees to have sons in the troops and they are taking a personal interest in the doings of their troops. Keep this up and we will have the finest body of real scouts in the country.

Little Red School Houses Denounced In Modern Methods

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(Associated Press Mail)—Add to the list of idols smashed to smithereens by the efficiency of modern science that quaint institution of American rural life—the "little red schoolhouse"—now denounced by educational experts of Columbia University as "a danger to national progress."
Experiments conducted for the past year in a tiny school in Warren County, N. J., have proved to Dr. Fannie Dunn, of Teachers' College, Columbia, that the problems attending the evils of the "cult of the little red schoolhouse," as Dr. Dunn calls it, can be solved by the same methods that have brought progress in teaching the young of the cities "how to shoot."
Forty-four pupils attended the typical schoolhouse in Warren County, which was seven miles from a trunk line railroad, two miles from a post-office, and out in the open country. A single teacher was forced to instruct eight grades. There are still 200,000 similar schools in the United States, just 160,000 too many, Columbia educators say. They hope to cut the number to 40,000. Changes that seem appallingly revolutionary to Americans who remember the rigid, plaster cast demeanor that was exacted of every country schoolboy who was forced to attend the little red schoolhouse of years ago, are recommended for those one-teacher institutions that will remain. Unrestricted movement about the room, the installation of pupil helpers for the teacher, a more "clubby" spirit among the youngsters and the application of the "automat" idea in teaching the children to gain a large part of the education themselves from the school library, are part of the new plan evolved from the Warren County tests.
Despite Whittier's legend of the famous schoolboy of the "I'll red building," whose "feet of tan" betokened splendid health, Professor Thomas W. Wood of the Eye Sight Conservation Council of America, who is interested in the experiments, says that 87 percent of the pupils in rural schools in New York state have health defects, as opposed to 72 percent of unhealthy city children. In the whole United States, Dr. Wood says, 15,000,000 of the 24,000,000 school children have bodily defects.
So depressing are the faults of country schools, the experts say, that much of the congestion of the cities results from the inability of the schools to make country life attractive. Efforts are now being made through meetings at Columbia of such educators as Miss Charl C. Williams, recent president of the National Education Association; Mrs. Katherine Cook, of the Federal Bureau of Education, and Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of Massachusetts Agricultural College, to bring about the changes in rural education that will end the plaint of the modern schoolboy:
"I'm getting Oh so sick. Of reading" and arithmetic— That's why, we gave the teacher the sack.
And, we're never gonna come back. If she doesn't like it she can sit on a tack.
We've got the schoolhouse blues."

Porto Ricans Flock By Thousands To Home Of Miracle Healer

SAN JUAN, P. R., Aug. 12—(Associated Press Mail)—Extra policemen have been detailed for duty at San Lorenzo to help handle the crowds drawn there from Wednesday night to late Friday each week by the stories of apparent cures by Julia Vazquez, the "healer of San Lorenzo."
Hundreds, if not thousands, of automobiles carrying the sick, lame and curious have been visiting San Lorenzo and no great have been the traffic jams that there have been complaints to the police that the San Lorenzo road was impassable. On Thursday last there was a line of motors two miles long on each side of the roadway waiting for people who are rapidly wearing into a broad trail the cow path that lead up the steep hills to the spring from which the supposedly healing waters come.

Thousands go by motor to the "healer" and more thousands on foot. From Caguas and other nearby towns there has sprung up a regular motor service to and from the place of "miracles." People go by truck loads, they go in carriages, carts and some are carried. Stories of "miracles" are spread with wonderful rapidity through the crowd each day, and there are reports of people coming from Santo Domingo or the Virgin Islands to get the waters blessed by the "healer." Some make a fiesta of it; others are almost reverential.
The healing spring is about a mile from the town where the "healer" lives. Near the spring a palm-covered pavilion sheltering 400 to 500 people has been erected. There Thursday and Friday the healer sits in a chair on a raised platform and receives the sick. Waters from the spring lack healing qualities until she has blessed or magnetized them. After being blessed the water is carried away in bottles, buckets, oil cans, anything. And each person the "healer" sees is told to bathe, rub the afflicted portion of the body with the water, or drink so much of it at certain times.
Frequently the "healer" is aroused from her trances with great difficulty. Her father and a brother assist her. Her "power" is supposed to have been passed on to her, while the spring waters for many years have been reputed to have healing qualities. It was about two months ago that the "healer" first attracted attention. Since then her fame has spread throughout the island.
An "Appelo."
The following bit of "English as she is wrote" is said to be copied from a placard posted above an altar box in the cathedral of Milan, Italy: "Appelo to Charitable. The Brothers (so-called of Mercy) ask some slender Arms for their Hospital. They harbour all kinds of diseases and have no respect for religion."—The Christian Advocate (New York).

ARMCO IRON FLUMES
STAY ON THE JOB
IRON fluming is subject to more punishment than any other iron product used out of doors. Destructive elements of earth, air and water attack it inside and out; and, if it is portable, it gets rough handling. Armco Ingot Iron flumes successfully resist these attacks and give long and satisfactory service. This is because Armco Ingot iron is 99.84 per cent pure. Commercially pure iron presents no weak spot where rust may gain a foothold. And its dense, tough body resists rough usage.

Old Lady Of Thread Needle Street Will Have New Quarters

LONDON, Aug. 12 — (Associated Press Mail)—The long projected rebuilding of the Bank of England will start almost immediately the Daily Express understands. A meeting of the directors is to be held soon to make the necessary financial arrangements.

It is understood that the plans to be adopted are those of Herbert Baker, the architect who collaborated with Sir Edwin Lutyens for the new capitol at Delhi. Mr. Baker was also the designer of the South African government's administrative buildings at Pretoria, and of the cathedrals at Capetown, Pretoria and Salisbury (Rhodesia), and the Cecil Rhodes memorial on Table Mountain.

The staff of the Bank of England is now double what it was shortly before the war, largely owing to the vast growth of the National Debt, and the existing accommodations are utterly inadequate. Sections of the staff have been working for a long time at various places in the vicinity of the bank.

A special committee of the directors including Cecil Lubbock, has been considering alternative schemes for the rebuilding. The idea of razing the whole of the existing one-story building to the ground was, it is understood abandoned, partly because of the difficulties of obtaining accommodation for the staff during the reconstruction. The present proposal is to retain the outer wall, which abuts on Threadneedle-street, St. Bartholomews Lane, Lothbury and Princess-street. This wall, which entirely surrounds the site of between three and four acres, was directed from the designs of Sir John Seames about 130 years ago, shortly after the Gordon riots, when the bank clerks, sword and pistol in hand, defended the bank against a furious mob.

The wall is in the classic Grecian style, and in some places is 40 feet high. Security demanded that it have no windows and the architect achieved the difficult task of making the wall look ornamental by masking it with Corinthian columns and blank windows. The new building will rise within the wall to a height of 70 or 80 feet above it, and will thus be nearly 120 feet in height.

Portugal's Financial Outlook Is Cause Of Political Unrest

LISBON, July 18 — (Associated Press Mail)—A rate of exchange alarmingly low and prices of foodstuffs exorbitantly high have conspired to make the cost of living in Portugal a serious problem. And profiteering as an additional factor cannot be overlooked.

Several highly placed state functionaries have been arrested and jailed, charged with conspiracy and the holding of secret meetings, which is an indication of an underlying political unrest. It is felt in some quarters that a military movement is in preparation, to act in case of a fresh outbreak of the turbulent elements which brought about the political assassinations of last October.

The press is clamoring against the economic condition of the country, and Seculo vehemently exhorts the government to put an end to the speculation to which it chiefly attributes the increasing fall in exchange. The Minister of Finance is trying to raise an internal loan and has had conferences with several of the most prominent Portuguese bankers to this end. His efforts have not so far been successful.

One of the factors said to contribute to the situation is that, although exportation amounts to several million pounds, all this money is deposited in foreign banks instead of being paid out in the country. At the same time gambling in exchange is being carried on in a barefaced manner. In London banks alone there is said to be over 25,000,000 Portuguese pounds which would greatly improve the rate of exchange if left here. The constant arrest of officers and civilians and the fact of the troops having to keep within barracks to be ready at a moment's notice adds to the general unrest.

Epoca directs attention to the statement of the British Premier, Lloyd George calling upon the nations which owe England money to pay interest charges in October. This debt amounts to over £5,000,000 and the papers asks if the interest is to be paid when due.

High Exchange Forces
Return To Bartering

LONDON, Aug. 12 — (Associated Press Mail)—Barter, or the exchange of goods, as against the transfer of actual cash has figured in recent international loans, according to the Geneva correspondent of the Observer. In this way the difficulties of exchange have been overcome.

Rumania wanted a loan of 45,000,000 gold francs from Switzerland. The Swiss said it was impossible unless they knew how the money was to be spent. Rumania replied: "We need to replenish railroad rolling stock, particularly engines."

"Fine," said the Swiss bankers, "we have these for sale. Take them, and pay for them in cereals and petroleum both of which you produce and we need." Thus were the arrangements concluded.

Similar borrowing and paying by barter also has taken place with Czechoslovakia. Here, again Czechoslovakia is receiving Swiss manufactured goods and is to pay for them with truckloads of sugar. Therefore the question of exchange and the comparative values of the Czechoslovakian krone and the Swiss franc does not arise.

ANNIVERSARY OBSERVED
In celebration of the second anniversary of their wedding Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Chatterton entertained at their Puaene home on Saturday evening with a buffet supper followed by an evening at bridge.

For the occasion the house was charmingly decorated and the delicious supper was most daintily served. The guests of the evening were Messrs and Mesdames H. A. Hansen, D. S. Wadsworth, E. F. Deimert, J. R. Paris and A. S. Taylor, Mrs. Smith and Messrs. Walter A. Engle and J. H. Trask.

Mrs. Hansen was awarded first ladies' prize at bridge and first men's went to Mr. Hansen, while the two consolation prizes went to Mrs. Wadsworth and Mr. Wadsworth.

YOUNGER SET DANCES
David and Richard Penhallow were hosts at the Penhallow home on Saturday night to a large number of their friends, the entertainment taking the form of a somewhat informal dance. For the party the lanai and grounds were elaborately lighted with Japanese lanterns and a general Japanese effect carried out through all the decorations. Music was furnished by the Mary Hoffman orchestra and in the course of the evening punch, ice cream and cake were served.

FOR MADAME MIURA
Mrs. Harry A. Baldwin was hostess at a largely attended reception for Madame Tamaki Miura, the Japanese prima donna, at the Grand Hotel on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. For the reception the large lobby of the hotel had been set with palms, ferns, potted plants, gladioli and other red flowers and was transformed into a bower of greenery and color.

In line with Mrs. Baldwin greeting and introducing the guests to the noted singer were Mrs. H. B. Penhallow and Mrs. Russell Bridgford and Mr. Harry Decker and beside Mme. Miura was her accompanist, Maestra Franchetti.

A charming feature of the affair was the rendition at the piano of a number of selections by little Miss Yamamoto who played delightfully.

New Service To Maui
Women Is Offered
Representing in the Islands the Barclay Customs Corset Company of New York and New Jersey, Mrs. E. S. Thompson is making her first visit to Maui and is making her headquarters at the store of Mrs. Louise C. Jones next to the Wailuku depot on Main street.

Particular women are more than ever particular as to the style and fit of the corset which means much in the style and fit of their gowns, and to their grace and carriage. There has been on Maui no one to measure and take orders for that article of women's wear and such is the service that Mrs. Thompson brings here. She represents one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States and will make her headquarters at Honolulu.

INSURGENTS ROUTED
(ASSOCIATED PRESS)
DUBLIN, Aug. 20—An official bulletin states that nationalists are advancing against the insurgents from both north and south in the county of Cork. The towns of Macroom and Wescork have fallen to the nationalists. Kildorrey was captured after fierce fighting. There has been heavy firing all night throughout Dublin where the insurgents are attacking the nationalists with machine guns and sniping.
