OPENING OF THE RED CROSS SHOP

The Red Cross Shop opening last Saturday was one grand success, and fully justified the efforts put forth by the hard working committee.

When the doors were opened to admit the large assemblage of prospective buyers, the place had all the appearance of a well-stocked store. There were hats, shoes, shirts, neckties, in fact almost any kind of wearing apparel that one could wish for, pictures, paintings, hardware, trinkets of all kinds, all neatly displayed. The doors had not been opened long before the big supply began to be noticeably smaller. Women from the camps could be seen coming out with their arms piled high with all kinds of wearing apparel.

One Portuguese woman came out staggering under her great load and was asked how much she paid for it. She replied, with a satisfied smile, that the whole outfit cost her $1.15.

The buyers got a lot of useful articles at extremely reasonable prices, and the shop netted $237.25, out of about five hundred sales.

The Red Cross Shop workers value the enthusiastic help given in Lihue and Koloa, and desire to thank the ladies for the second donation of gifts that many have already sent in.

The shop desires to hold a Christmas sale if possible and sends out an appeal for old toys and children's books, etc. An appeal is also sent out to the gentlemen of the community to send in their old clothing, socks, shoes, cravats, etc. They will all find a ready sale.

A Cordial Invitation

The teachers of Kauai most cordially invite their friends all over the Island to attend the annual teachers' convention at the Tip Top, Lihue, Nov. 29th at 9:30. They are confident that it will be an interesting and enjoyable occasion and they want to have their friends enjoy it with them, and indeed all who in any way are interested in schools and school work.

The following message was received last Thursday by Mrs. C. A. Rice, chairman of the Eastern section of the Kauai branch of the Red Cross: The war council of the American Red Cross orders all chapters to cease immediately production of surgical dressings. Continue all other activities. Impress on workers the need of CARRYING ON in other lines. Distress and readjustment in all countries demand the continued support of the Red Cross.

BEATRICE CASTLE.

- As a campaign to raise funds for the fatherless children of France is soon to be waged, I hope the people of Kauai will come forward generously in its behalf.
- A good many demands have been made on all during these trying times, but with such a glorious conclusion to the war we must not forget the duty we owe to the heroes who gave their lives in the cause; and surely there can be no more fitting way in which to express our appreciation than in assisting to care for their children.
- Hoping this appeal will be met.
- (Mrs) Louise V. Baldwin.

UNITED WAR WORK DRIVE

Owing to some unavoidable delays in outer districts the time has been extended until Wednesday night. The latest figures available give $293,000 as the present receipts, which is, of course, away over the quota for Hawaii. But it is confidently expected that this will be swelled to $325,000, so that we may run over by 50 per cent. The complete returns are not available for Kauai, but it is assured that we will make our Island quota. Lihue is said to have done especially well.

NATIVE FARMING COLONY ON KAUAI

According to reports S. Kellinof of Kapa'a, is endeavoring to establish a colony of Hawaiians who will locate on the government lands soon to be opened on the upper Waialua river. Kellinof is now in Honolulu working up the project. The Star-Bulletin of yesterday has the following to say regarding the enterprise:

"In line with the suggestion of Delegate J. K. Kahanianole, voiced in Kawaihāo church yesterday morning, that the Hawaiians return to the soil and take a more active part in the development of the chief industry, S. Kellinof is already working here on a plan to establish a colony of Hawaiians at or near Kealia, Kauai, with a view to eventually making small cane growers out of them. He reported this morning that his efforts had been quite successful so far and that he would leave Thursday afternoon for home quite well satisfied with the outlook.

"The Mokee Sugar Co. has agreed to employ the Hawaiians cutting cane at $2 a day, plus certain advantages," said Kellinof. "I plan to start them at that work. Shortly there will be a tract of land near the upper reaches of the Waialua river opened up for homesteading and it is our idea to establish the Hawaiians upon it to raise their own cane, which they will sell to the plantation as other settlers in the same neighborhood are now doing.

"Before coming over here I enlisted about twenty-five Hawaiians at Waimea to go in on the proposition, and in Honolulu I have secured forty more. It is my intention to raise the latter number to sixty, which will assure the success of the plan all the way through, as I feel certain of all the volunteers we can make room for once it is under way."

Colonels:

Kenneth Kerwin, Elleen Carter, Percy Lydgate, Henry Andermann, William Andermann, Ralph Andermann, Ernest Wedemeyer.

Majors:

Alice Broadbent, James Hogg, Waldemar Hustace, Nina Kaulukou, Nani Montgomery. Total to date, 4,884.76.

Kalaheo School has forty boys who have signed up as "Victory Boys," fifteen of them at $5.00 and the balance at $2.50. This money they will earn, and they are already about it, in novel and original ways.

The Kalaheo School has a gramophone but it is very short of records. Will not some friend of the school contribute to their need? Any that you may have grown tired of will be most welcome. The children are very fond of music.

By untiring effort the following have secured officers' commissions in the Thrift Stamp campaign at the Elele School: Takeji Betsui, Major; Taurino Murao, Captain; Shizujō Kurokawa, Corporal; Milo Melancon, Sergeant.

There was a case of typhoid recently at Kalaheo School, in the teachers' cottage, which naturally alarmed them, so they are all taking a serum treatment. Some of them are inclined to wonder which is the worst, the disease or the preventive treatment.

The school survey is actually coming--thank the Lord! Now we will know where we stand. Two educational experts are to come from Washington to arrive not later than February. The private schools are to be included in the survey.

The total enrollment for the public schools this year is about 4590, as against 4560 at the close of last year; a gain of 30. Nine of the schools have an eighth grade aggregating 115 as against 75 last year. Thirteen schools have a seventh grade aggregating 260 as against 175 last year.

The Blank Scrap Books for the soldiers have arrived and the schools are frantically at work on them, and more than ever are scaring around for material to put in them. Send them your old magazines with illustrations.

- Do you know that thousands upon thousands of the little child ren of France have lost their fathers and are in danger of starving to death, if the people of America do not come to their aid?
- Ten cents feeds a child for a whole day; $36.50 feeds one for a whole year. Don't you want to save a child for a year or a day or a week? Never was money placed so to a better investment than to save a future generation of our wonderful allies, France.

THE CELEBRATION OF VICTORY DAY

Tuesday, Nov. 12, may fairly be called Victory Day and as such was appropriately observed by the various committees all over the island it being contended that this would enable a larger proportion to participate than if the celebration was localized at one central point.

Parade at Waimea

At Waimea there was a big parade in the evening in which the Salvation Army band led the way followed by a large float suitably decorated and filled with overflowing school children; this was followed by a Red Cross procession in which the members of that organization made an impressive and artistic showing in their dainty costumes. A Japanese lantern procession brought up the rear and contributed very much to the picturesque quality of the affair. After parading the main streets they drew up at the court house park for patriotic addresses, fireworks, etc.

Koloa Celebrates

At Koloa there was a public meeting on the common with singing by the school children, athletic and other games, with suitable prizes followed by short addresses in several languages.

In the evening there was a very taking moving picture program in the Kauai Railway warehouse near the site of the old mill. This was crowded to overflowing with many standing outside. This was a free treat by the courtesy of the Koloa Plantation.

Hanapepe Leads the Way

At Hanapepe and Elele there was a lantern parade in the evening starting from Hanapepe village and making the round to Elele, Port Allen, etc. A big lantern truck led the way followed by a brilliant array of individual lanterns, upwards of 200.

Manifold Interests at Lihue

At Lihue the mass meeting in the afternoon was on the whole the most successful thing of the kind yet experienced. An hour in advance of the time the seats were all taken and when the exercises began the place was crowded, there being more people standing than sitting. It is estimated that there were over 3000 people.

The singing by the school children of popular patriotic songs was crisp, facile and vigorous, showing good training and excellent leadership. Mrs. W. H. Grote, Jr., handled the same with much skill and ability.

The brief address by Judge Dickey was sane, sensible and suggestive. The address of the day by Rev. A. W. Palmer was clear-cut, vigorous, temperate and eloquent, and received much well merited applause at frequent intervals. Mr. H. D. Wishard presided, as usual, very happily.

A very effective feature of the meeting was the advent of the Red Cross in a body in uniform. There were somewhat over 150 of them of various nationalities and races and they made a very impressive sight.

At Lihue there was a big lantern parade in the evening mostly confined to the public park. Several trucks were decorated and illuminated for the occasion, one of them representing a Japanese battleship. A host of lanterns followed.

The noise committee which had been parading an effigy of the Kaiser hung from the tail of a truck during the afternoon, brought him to an inglorious end in the evening by setting him afire with the aid of gasoline, and then blowing him to pieces at the mouth of a cannon, amid cheers of rejoicing and derision.

KILAUEA MUCH IN IT

The celebration at Kilauea was in many ways the most remarkable on the Island. Beginning Monday evening there was a big moving picture show in the hall, followed by a band and the public burning of the Kaiser. On Tuesday there was a big floral parade headed by several floats, one

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

Monday afternoon Manji Oye and John Ing, the one an employe of the Kauai Garage and the other of the Nawiliwili Garage, were victims of a very serious gunshot accident which will lay them up for weeks.

They were out hunting at Niunaula. In passing the gun to Ing who was in a tree, Oye did so in such a way that the trigger struck a branch, the gun went off, and the charge went through his arm which was extended over his head, blowing the arm fairly to pieces, and then entered the breast of his comrade, some of the shot landing in his lungs. One of the Chinese fishermen near, hearing the report came to their rescue and conveyed them in a cart to the jail from whence they were brought in an automobile to the doctor who gave them immediate attention and who is hopeful in regard to their recovery.

- Dear People of Kauai:
- After the glorious news we are enjoying I hope you will gladly respond to our appeal to you during the coming campaign (following the present War Work drive) of France; and seize this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of their gallant fathers who have earned our respectful homage by the sacrifice of their lives in behalf of the world's honor.
- Respectfully yours, Julia M. Senni.

DANCE AND SHOW POSTPONED

The show and dance that was to be given at Waimea Hall for the benefit of the Kauai National Guard, has been postponed one week. This was found necessary in order to have Mr. Henry Vierra on the program. Vierra is a clever amateur comedian of Honolulu, and his act will add considerably to the gaiety of the occasion. The new date set for the entertainment is Saturday evening, Dec. 7th.

K. Roendahl, manager of the McBryde Sugar Company's store at Elele, left for Honolulu last Saturday evening to enjoy a hard earned vacation.

Senator Chas. A. Rice spent the latter part of last week with a hunting party on Lanai, along with his brother, Senator Harold Rice of Maui, and several other prominent men of Maui and Honolulu.

Walter and Alexander McBryde returned to Kauai last Tuesday morning after an absence of several months. The McBryde brothers have been on the mainland where they visited their mother and also attended a family reunion.

- LEST WE FORGET
- Adopt a fatherless child of France lest you forget the glorious soldiers who held the line, and waited, oh! so patiently, for America to come and make possible we now celebrate.
- M. W. Crawford.

In particular, representing a battleship, was very realistic. These floats were followed by a long string of automobiles very effectively decorated in flags and a wealth of natural flowers. This procession paraded the streets of Kilauea, and then went over to Hanalei and waked the patriotic echoes of that quiet community.

In the evening there was a lantern parade in which over 500 colored lanterns participated. After making the rounds the crowd returned to the hall where there was patriotic speeches and most enthusiastic demonstrations of rejoicing and patriotism, such as were displayed no where else on the island perhaps. There were over a thousand people there, and the great hall, which seats 500, was crowded almost to suffocation. After the demonstration was over the white people adjourned to the home of the manager and closed the days exercises with a dance.

IS THIS THE TIME?

The meeting held in Lihue recently by the Japanese in response to the call of the Wahiwa Young Men's Association was attended by about fifty of the leading Japanese of the island, men of intelligence, good sense and standing. The meeting was called to consider the fitness and wisdom of instituting a campaign for higher wages, especially on the plantations. As the result of a very general and very temperate discussion, the general consensus of opinion was that this was hardly the time to make such a demand, and any such move will scarcely meet with any very general or enthusiastic cooperation.

E. W. Kopke of Kealia, went to town on Saturday.

Mrs. H. D. Sloggett of Hanalei, Kauai, is making a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Wilcox on Grove Farm.

F. J. Zeller, for many years section lina on McBryde Plantation, has severed his connection with that institution and will make his residence in Honolulu in the future.

Rev. J. P. Erdman has been on Kauai a few days in the interest of the Hawaiian Board. He returns to Honolulu prematurely to make preparations for taking the duties of a military chaplaincy on the mainland.

The Haena School, at Wainiha is at length in operation under the charge of Mr. P. Bauchnight recently arrived from the coast for that purpose. His wife will arrive later.

Mrs. Th. Brandt of Waimea, left by the Kinohiua on Saturday to report at Y. M. C. A. headquarters on the coast for war work service wherever and in whatever capacity she may be needed. She has been expecting for some time to be called to France, but she is ready to go anywhere. She is uncommonly well equipped for such service and will undoubtedly give excellent satisfaction. She will be greatly missed in Waimea where she has been an untiring as well as capable worker.

As a sort of final victory celebration the people of Waimea got together last Saturday evening on a general night and entertainment. Mrs. Lucy Wright was the leading spirit of the affair, while Gay & Robinson contributed a beef from their ranch. After the luncheon the guests attended a show which was playing in Waimea Hall, and later on in the evening, the floor was cleared for dancing. The Kekaha Quartet furnished the music for the dance. The celebration continued till the wee small hours.

SANITARY EXPERT VISITS KAUAI

Dr. James T. Wayson of Honolulu, territorial sanitary expert, arrived on Kauai last Friday and has been looking into the typhoid situation and the sanitary conditions of Kauai in general.

The doctor expresses himself as highly gratified with what he has seen and with the exception of one or two minor matters, thinks Kauai ranks very high from a sanitarian's viewpoint.

In particular he commends the excellent work of Frank B. Cook, sanitary inspector for Kauai, saying that "in general too many Cooks spoil the broth, but in this instance, if Honolulu only had more Cooks, that city would be fortunate indeed."

Kauai's cleanliness the doctor ascribes to the meticulous care with which Mr. Cook attends to his duties. The doctor is to take the matter of perfect sanitation up with the various plantation managers and other powers that be, so that with closer cooperation, Kauai may reach such perfection as to be deemed the most sanitary island in the group.

The doctor has the following to say regarding the typhoid situation in and around Lihue:

"The sanitary condition in Lihue and surrounding district is in extremely good shape. The proven cases of typhoid fever are not of sufficient number to cause any fear of an epidemic.

Every community has a residual number of typhoid and evidently the few cases so far under observation are of this class as we cannot trace the source of infection to any one common source such as the milk or water supply or food, unless the latter limited to one or two peddlers who have not been thoroughly examined by your sanitary inspector, Mr. Cook, who will take up these with our laboratory in Honolulu.

You have a most invaluable man in your Sanitary Inspector Cook, and as a community, should back him to the limit as that is the only way you can keep your community as clean as I now find it."

- France has undergone untold hardships during the past four years. Large portions of her fairest lands have been desolated, hundreds of thousands of her people have lost their lives and property. Countless thousands of her children are now fatherless and without means of support. Having been subjected to long continued hardships and privations they are undernourished and ill. Homes, health, education, and some means of happiness must be provided them. America owes France a tremendous debt of gratitude, and surely there can be no more fitting way in which to express our appreciation than in assisting in the care of her children.
- It is the aim of the committee to provide for 250,000 additional French children during the coming year, and Hawaii must do her share. Here on Kauai a series of entertainments are planned, and individual subscriptions are to be solicited. I am certain that Kauai as a whole will respond fully and joyously.
- Mrs. E. N. Young, Chairman Kauai Sub-Committee.

FRENCH ORPHANS ADOPTED

J. M. Lydgate made a tour of the schools from Koloa to Elele on Monday and addressed them in regard to the Fatherless Children of France campaign, emphasizing the great need, and the obligation resting on us to respond to the same. He suggested that each school should adopt one of these children, which would mean only ten cents apiece from each pupil annually. The different schools received the proposition with enthusiasm and took immediate measures to carry it into effect.

THE LAST DRAFT WILL NOT BE CALLED

W. H. Rice, Jr., chairman of the local draft board, received the following wireless this morning, and regards the same with much satisfaction: "Immediately discontinue classification and examinations of all persons registered pursuant to President's proclamation of October 7th, namely those who registered on October 26th or thereafter in this Territory."

- Show your joy and thankfulness over peace by doing all you can for the French war orphans.

A PRESSING OBLIGATION

Now that the war is over, and happily over, our responsibilities have not ceased by any means. The obligations incurred in the winning the war will have to be met from now on for a long time, and ought to be met willingly. If things had gone the other way and we had been vanquished instead of the victors, we would have been snowed under by the obligations that would have been imposed on us, and we and our children's children for decades would have been ground down to meet them.

We have secured a magnificent prize which we can enjoy ourselves and pass down to our children for them to enjoy even more; surely we ought to be ready to meet the obligations involved therein cheerfully and promptly.

And one of these, one of the very first and most important, is our obligation to France. She gave the flower of her manhood to stem the torrent of invasion while we were thinking about it for a couple of years or more, and then getting ready for a couple more. In consequence there are hundreds of thousands of orphaned children in France, dependent partially or wholly on charity for care and support. Our children are saved from this fate because of what their fathers did. Our children live in comfortable and happy homes, while theirs face want and neglect. Surely it devolves on us to help them meet the cost of this great sacrifice; and it is surely up to us to see to it that these fatherless war orphans are kept from want and suffering.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Editor, Garden Island—The historic event of Monday was fittingly celebrated in Lihue yesterday (Tuesday) with the single exception of the sad omission of any prayer. Upon the occasion of every patriotic meeting which has been held of late in the Armyory we were taught to pray to God for help in our trouble; also throughout the dreadful ordeal the clergy have expressed themselves that the war would bring a new religious spirit into our lives. And yet, as soon as our prayers are answered all thought of rendering thanks to the Almighty evidently vanished. Two ministers were in attendance, and one would think that although this matter had been overlooked by the committee in their hasty arrangements, the righteous spirit of the clergy would (and should) have moved them in their duty to seek an opportunity to enable the people to publicly offer up a fervent prayer of thanks.

A sequel might be mentioned. At Kilauea a long programme of outdoor sports, etc. had been arranged, but the priest refused to take any part in the same unless the time for starting be postponed till after 9 o'clock in order that the people might not neglect their duty to God, and accordingly a service of thanks was held before the day of rejoicing started. This is truly the guiding spirit.

Lihue has always supposed to have held itself foremost in religious activities, but in this, the greatest day in the world's history, it has proved itself to be sadly found wanting. Doubtless thanks will be rendered "in the usual course" next Sunday at Church; a week's afterthought, which cannot be said to be a very responsive spirit for the great blessing He has bestowed upon all nations. Let us display more than a mere lukewarm and Sunday worship and always remember to obey the words, "But give thanks to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."—1 Cor. 15-57.

Mercenary, Kauai may always be reckoned to "go over the top," but

Thanking you in anticipation for the space.

"OXON."

AN ADOPTED ORPHAN ...

The Lihue Union Sunday School is now in its second year in the support of an adopted orphan in France, one Julien Dubour, a boumy boy of twelve years of age. The children of the Sunday School write letters to him from time to time and have sent him a number of valuable packages of things that he will appreciate and find very useful. There is some question as to whether he ever received them as he makes no mention of them in his return letters.

The following translation is the last letter received from him: "Dear Friend and Comrade—it is with pleasure that I have just received news of my friends and comrades in America. I thank you very much. You ask me what my father did before he went to war; he was a shoe maker, and when the war broke out he went against the barbarians—the people without hearts. He was killed on the 16th of June, 1915.

My dear friends I send you my picture; I hope that you will like it. You ask what religion I belong to; I am a Catholic and I belong to a class in the cathedral to get me ready for my first communion—confirmation we will do—which I am to make in June of this year.

I don't think of anything more of importance to say just now, so I will close by shaking hands cordially with you all.

Your affectionate comrade,
JULIEN DUPOUR,
Eshbourg Bonnetfort,
No. 147, Toulouse, France.

LETTER FROM FRENCH GENERAL

The following translation of a letter from Marshal Joffre will speak for itself on behalf of the fatherless children of France: "May I beg you to express our thanks to the members of the American committees for their touching souvenir on the occasion of the anniversary of the Battle of the Marne. I cannot resist the pleasure of again expressing to you the recognition of all France for the generosity with which America has come so spontaneously to the assistance of our widows and orphans. I understand the new effort which you propose to undertake now in behalf of our Society. I commend it with all my heart. It will be in truth a mighty consolation and precious encouragement for our soldiers to know that, thanks to you, even though they shall succumb in the glory of the field of battle, their wives and their children will not be abandoned. This assurance should give to them even unto the end, the necessary strength to force victory and draw closer yet the sacred bonds which already unite them to their new companions in arms. Thus shall be sealed for all time the brotherhood of the two great peoples of America and of France.

Very sincerely yours,
J. JOFFRE."

Nurses at Firing Lines

Surgical teams are sent out from the base hospitals almost up to the firing lines. In each team there is usually a nurse, two doctors and an orderly. For three weeks, at a time these nurses are on unrelieved duty in unheated shacks that are bitterly cold in winter and always exposed to enemy shells and explosives. It is said that six thousand nurses are constantly in the zone of fire.

"Being a head nurse isn't an easy job" when single units are so mixed. They lack unity. A single hospital unit may be composed of nurses from the United States, Canada, Bermuda, Scotland, England, Ireland, Sweden and France. Some are college graduates, some have been educated by experience and some have little education. When ten training schools are represented in a single unit there are ten different ways of putting a sheet on a bed.

The Y. W. C. A. has established headquarters and club rooms for the nurses in fourteen base hospitals with six additional requests in. In some places the club rooms are part of a building designed to house both the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. In other places the Nurses' Centers or "huts" are on the grounds of the base hospital or near them, often built by the Red Cross but furnished by the Y.W.C.A. and manned by the Y.W.C.A.

These headquarters are always open even welcoming nurses helping on midnight duty. Frequently whole units appear for a cup of chocolate, while waiting for a big convoy of sick and wounded. One of the nurses who had been on duty from 7:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. ran in for ten minutes of refreshment. As she drained her cup of tea she rose smiling and said, "Now I can go back and forget all about it."

Some of the hospital units are settled in hotels formerly used as fashionable watering places. The tennis courts and polo grounds are therefore put to good use for games and sports in fine weather.

There was a special evening service at the Lihue Hawaiian church on Sunday evening. Mr. Erdman delivered an address on "The Challenge of the Spirit of the Churches." The singing as always in Hawaiian churches was very good. Mr. A. G. Kaulukou presided.

CHRISTMAS PARCELS FOR THE BOYS IN EUROPE.

War Department Regulations: One man may receive only one parcel. Christmas parcel labels have been issued to men overseas. The men have mailed these labels to a near relative or friend. The person receiving a label from a soldier overseas may present same to the nearest Red Cross headquarters and receive a carton and directions for sending the parcel. These regulations have to do with American Expeditionary Force in Europe only.

American Boys Know No Fear, Says Eye-witness

Paris, (By mail)—A new story of the American fighting man's reckless disregard of danger is told by Wilbur M. Wilson, a Baptist clergyman from Colorado, who took part in the great drive from Chateau-Thierry to Fismes last July.

"With my own eyes," says Mr. Wilson, "I have seen our boys steal out to a frog-pond in No Man's Land, calmly divest themselves of their uniforms and dive into the cool waters, with German snipers not a hundred yards away in their trenches. The American boy knows no fear, and the greater the number of casualties in his regiment the greater is his resolve to make the Hun pay the price. His morale increases every time a comrade falls with German bullets in his body."

Mr. Wilson has seen much of war work of the various organizations engaged in performing it at, and behind the fighting lines, and has personally been engaged in the precarious work of driving ahead of the field kitchens to carry hot drinks and smokes to men who had had nothing to eat for two days except their iron rations.

The United States Food Administration has notified all state and county food administrators to investigate the butter situation in their respective communities. The Government has commandeered 60 percent of all butter held in cold storage throughout the country for the use of our armed forces.

This action creates an appearance of, if not an actual shortage, which has a tendency to advance prices, in fact the temptation is very strong to advance prices in violation of the rules and regulations of the Food Administration, under which all butter must be sold.

Special License Regulations No. 29 A, dated August 22, 1918, state that "Cash and Carry" stores profit shall not exceed 5 cents per pound. "Credit and Delivery" stores profit shall not exceed 6 cents per pound.

All violations of these regulations must be reported to the U. S. Food Administration. A rigid inspection of butter prices, locally, has just been completed by the county agent.

Olaf Thronas, of Papan, has prepared over four acres for the planting of corn.

There is a good deal of land for produce farming available around Anahola village, that could be cultivated by people in that section, without materially affecting the labor shortage. A few acres of this land will soon be leased out to an Anahola Japanese who has time for produce farming.

Anyone found shooting on any of the Lihue Plantation lands will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

How to Raise Taro

As a means of increasing production of wet land taro, every attempt should be made to check the taro rot which annually destroys or renders unmarketable about one-half of the crop. The high price of taro and pot at the present time is leading to the cultivation of many abandoned patches, to the planting of upland taro, and in general to an increased interest in this crop.

In 1902 the United States Experiment Station investigated methods which could be used to reclaim taro patches where rot was prevalent and the results obtained by liming should induce growers who are having difficulty to give the method a thorough trial. There is little available information regarding the organism which causes taro rot but its scientific aspects are being studied at the station. To quote from Bulletin No. 2 of this station, now out of print:

The conditions in the experimental plot previous to the beginning of the experiment were the worst that could possibly be obtained in the locality. The crop harvested in 1901 was very badly diseased, and the hulis from this crop were used in the experiment, but with all these adverse conditions, the yield from the experimental plot has been greater than in any similar area in the Kalihii District, being at the rate of 16 tons to the acre. This is much above the average.

Most of the fields in water taro have been in this crop for many years, and many have not received fertilization for a long time, though the ancient growers were accustomed to add tree leaves, taro plant waste, etc., for this purpose. As a result of continuous cultivation, lack of fertilization, and the decomposition of the starch of the rotten taro left in the soil the latter has become acid, and the plant food unavailable to such an extent as to be unsuitable to the best development of the plants.

For badly diseased the following treatment is suggested: After the crop is pulled, drain off the water, apply ground burnt lime (agricultural lime) at the rate of 2 tons to the acre (coral sand might be substituted at the rate of 4 tons to the acre). Dig in the lime or sand and thoroughly incorporate it with the soil. Allow the patch to stand at least a month without water. Just before the hulis are planted apply a complete fertilizer at the rate of 500 lbs. to the acre. (When obtainable a fertilizer containing large amounts of available phosphoric acid and potash, and a moderate amount of nitrogen). Harrow the fertilizer into the soil. Two or three months after the hulis are planted, to force growth apply about 100 lbs. of nitrate of soda, the water first having been drained off so that the fertilizer can be worked into the soil where it will be of most use to the plants. It appears that the patches can be safely drained during the first three months. After the eighth month the water must not be drained off or rot will result. The fact that this taro is at home along the edge of running streams should be kept in mind and the water in the patch not allowed to stagnate.

The following conditions are all important in securing a good crop of taro:

1. A supply of good hulis, free from disease.
 2. A patch so laid out as to secure economical use of the irrigation water.
 3. Application of proper fertilizers at the right time (liming with ground burnt lime or coral sand once in 5 years, if under continuous cultivation to taro).
 4. Constantly running stream of water circulating to all parts of the patch.

Pathologist.

The Biggest Rainfall

Kauai is entitled to the singular distinction of having the largest recorded annual rainfall in the world—that of the summit of Waialeale. Heretofore the largest rainfall has been credited to a place called Cherrapunji, on the Khasi Hills, in the northern part of India where the mean annual rainfall for a period of years was 494 inches, while the average of five years of observation for Waialeale was 518 inches, and one year, 1914 ran over 610 inches, just how much, unfortunately, cannot be stated as the rain gauge ran over. But at any rate it will be safe to claim the distinction until someone takes it away from us.

Strange to say the conditions giving rise to this phenomenal rainfall are practically identical in both cases, viz: a moist, warm wind in off the sea, swept suddenly against steep mountain slopes, and carried upward to an elevation of 5000 or 6000 feet, and so suddenly chilled that the water is fairly wrung out of it as out of a sponge.

The Fatherless Children of France

We have known in an imperfect way of the great number of war orphans of France and some considerable effort has been made, even in Hawaii, for their welfare, but now this great charity is to be brought more impressively to our attention.

There is to be a campaign in the interest of these children which will culminate during the week of Nov. 25th to 30th.

Heretofore provision has been made in America for the care of 100,000 French war orphans; now we are called upon to provide for 250,000 more which will mean an expenditure of ten million dollars a year.

The plan is to render this aid as far as possible through the children of America, asking them, whenever they can, to adopt and become responsible for one or more orphans, either as individuals or as schools or grades in schools. This plan will have the double merit of interesting the children in their little brethren in France, as well as furnishing manifold and wide-spread sources from which funds may be drawn.

Various original plans of campaign have been suggested, some of which are already in successful operation in the community. Speakers have been appointed to canvas the schools of the Island to interest them in the enterprise, care being taken to comply with the Territorial law which forbids the collection of money on the school grounds.

There is to be a grand bazaar Friday evening, November 29th, which will furnish original and delightful entertainment at 10 cents a number. A series of chain lunches or dinners on the basis of six guests is recommended; each guest all along the line being required to pay a dollar and go and do likewise, that is, give a similar affair and invite at least six guests.

Several of these chain affairs are now in progress throughout the Island. The cost of an adoptive orphan for a year is $36.50. It is hoped that many generous individuals will make such adoptions, and where this is beyond their means, that they will make combinations of six or less to take a child.

Measures will be taken to put the adoptive parents into immediate touch with the adopted children so they may have tangible returns for their generosity and interest.

We are in receipt of the condensed report of the Fatherless Children of France corporation which sets forth in brief outline the aims and accomplishments of this enterprise.

It endeavors to maintain the orphan children of France whose fathers have been killed in war. It has been found that the most economical as well as the most satisfactory way to support these children was to do it in their own homes as far as possible where they would have the benefit of the care and interest of their own friends and relatives, and be brought up in an atmosphere that is familiar and congenial. It was found that under ordinary circumstances a grant of $36.50 would be sufficient to support a child for a year. So this has been accepted as the adoption price of a child. This amount is transmitted to the Committee in Paris, and is by them sent to the child's mother or guardian in quarterly payments. Not one cent of the contributions goes to pay expenses of administration, that is provided for by special gift for that purpose, or by membership dues. Your $36.50 goes intact to your protegee in France.

A number of these orphans have been adopted on Kauai, and it is hoped that many more will be taken.

OLAA DEEPLY MOURNS DEATH OF MRS. ARIOLI

Mrs. Eleanor Arioli, whom death called on Saturday last (Nov. 9th), was born in Milan, Italy, in 1850. She came to Honolulu, with her husband and family 18 years ago on Christmas Day.

With the passing away of "Mother" Arioli, as her friends lovingly called her, a place has been left that cannot be filled. Her whole life has been one long thought of some kindness that might be done for others, even through the last months when she was in very poor health.

She leaves four daughters, two sons and five grand children to mourn her—Mrs. A. Menefoglio, of Kauai; Mrs. C. P. Benton, of Olaa; Charles Arioli, Peter Arioli, who is living in Honolulu temporarily, and two daughters in Rome.

Mrs. Arioli has lived in the home of G. Giacometti, of Olaa, for a number of years to be a mother to his little son, Luigi.

So lovingly has she cared for him that he has never realized the loss of his own mother.

There are many friends who will miss her and the highest tribute they can pay is to wish that when their call comes they may go feeling they that have scattered through their lives one half of the happiness and kindness that "dear Mother Arioli" has.—Hilo Tribune.

As to Pigs and Pork

There is a surprising shortage of hogs on Kauai. There are not half the number of pigs that there were in 1914. Now is the time we need them. Most of the families who used to keep a pig have given it up as an unpaying proposition. The pig pens in the camps are mostly vacant, only an occasional hog house is occupied.

We cannot attribute this hog shortage to lack of feed. There is plenty of rice bran and molasses available. The combination of these two feeding stuffs can hardly be surpassed as a hog feed. Rice bran, according to experts is, considered good as corn for making gains in pork production, and if supplemented with molasses which is less expensive than rice bran, a ration superior to corn may be had.

If we ask the former hog raiser why he gave it up, he says it does not pay, because feed is too high. Those who still keep a family pig have sufficient garbage for feeding purposes, and buy very little feed. Where the feed must be bought entirely, it is a losing proposition with the kind of hogs we have.

The Honolulu market price for hogs is between 20 and 24 cents per pound, live weight. This is double the price offered before the war. If the right kind of hogs were produced here, it would still pay to feed rice bran and molasses even though it would be necessary to purchase them.

The trouble lies not so much in the price of feed as in the kind of hogs. We need better hogs. Stock that will make the best use of feed. Good stock will make the gains necessary to pay for purchased feed, and yield a profit to the hog raiser.

We must improve our stock now. The best way to do it is to import some good boars, and place one in each community. The plantations are the community centers. If each plantation kept a good boar for service purposes, the plantation people who keep pigs, could breed a sow to a good boar. It would be but a short time and we would notice a decided improvement in the type of pigs found here. It would result in a profitable home industry on Kauai, and a useful consumption of some of our local by-products. We must also educate our people to the advantages of better hogs. We hope that our pig clubs among the children will accomplish this.

FOR THE FATHERLESS CHILDREN OF FRANCE. WONT YOU HELP?

The rain came down in torrents strong. The wind blew harsh and loud. On a lonely hill in "la belle France" For old Pierre in his poor little hut. On his knee was a child, one of a row Left in the village streets by the Hun. Who had gone like beasts prey, burnt and plundered each home in turn. And done what was worse than death. For many a boy would in years to come Not know what manhood meant. And all the girls above years of ten Were left as human wrecks. Their fathers had fought for four years or more For "la belle France", beloved. Their mothers were driven along the road. For what you need not be told. Can you see it all? Can you hear the screams? Will you help with ALL your might? For your little boy and your little girl Are both safe in their cribs tonight. Your husband had not to leave his home To fight the beast of a Hun. Your wife was left to your tender care Will you give AGAIN and AGAIN? "Give till it hurts!" So our president calls to us all across the sea. For sunny Hawaii has a name that shines far away. Even in "la belle France." Think of the fatherless little ones Tonight, when your own you kiss. And tomorrow send them all you can For the sake of that good-night kiss. Given to you by your little one. And next month do the same again. For it will take years to heal the big open wound Left by the beast of a Hun. Will you help? —Marie Hofgaard.

A New Fuel

Waste molasses is surely coming into its own. The latest development of value is that of Makaweli, where it is used as a fuel substitute for coal for the camps. It is mixed with the coarse trash dust that comes from the mill, and made into a sort of stiff pudding, moulded into suitable size and shape and then dried in a hot air chamber until it becomes a sort of coke briquette that burns very readily and makes a very excellent substitute, not only very much cheaper than coal, but much better.

SECOND HAND STEAMERS

A good deal of old sugar machinery has gone to the Philippines at very profitable prices, and more is going; and now they are, after, steamers.

How to Plant Potatoes

Seed potatoes should be selected from the best yielding hills. Small to medium sized potatoes are generally selected as they produce more plants per bushel of seed than the larger potatoes. While the continual selection of small potatoes for seed might seem a bad policy numerous tests have shown no disadvantage in using small potatoes provided care is exercised in selecting them from healthy hills. By going through the field at harvest time and selecting the best hills' great improvement can be made in the yield and quality of the crop. In making this selection for seed' hills bearing potatoes of the desired type for market as regards to size' shape and color should be selected. To select seed with a view to all of these points requires great care and close study, but the good results obtained even in a single season more than warrant it. For the best results it is necessary that this selection be followed up from year to year keeping the same ideals in view each ed separate from the general crop followed up from year to year' keeping the same ideals in view each season. The stock selected for seed must be picked up carefully and stored avoid unnecessary handling as it red separate from the general crop' suits in bruises which introduce decay. The seed should be gone over again diseased roots discarded. All seed should be treated, before bedding, for the control of the various diseases which attack the potatoes. Dip the seed for about eight minutes in a solution made by dissolving one ounce of corrosive sublimate in eight gallons of water. A barrel is most convenient receptacle for the solution' the seed may be immersed in sacks. After removal from this solution they should be rinsed in fresh water and allowed to drain for a few minutes before bedding.

Two small vessels,—one of them well known to us the James Makee—have gone and are now in operation there. They were bought by shrewd Philippine buyers for some $70,000, were repaired at a further cost of $45,000, were conveyed to the Philippines and there sold for $215,000, realizing a handsome net profit of $100,000. To anyone who has second hand material in either of these lines, sugar machinery or steamers, now is the time to sell, and the Philippines is the place.

The Michelin Universal Tread is not only thick but it is broad and flat as well:

To show this graphically we have ruled off one unit in the accompanying illustration.

Count the number of squares on the raised part of the tread. They total over 54 whole squares or more than three-fourths of the entire surface that is ruled off.

The large, flat wearing surface of the Michelin Universal means increased mileage. Once you try Michelines you will use no other. They give the utmost tire economy.

THE CELEBRATION ADDRESS AT LIHUE

Rev. A. W. Palmer, in his address at the Armory last Tuesday afternoon, spoke substantially as follows:

THIS IS A GREAT DAY

"We are here today to celebrate what will be not only the great day of our lives, and of the life of this Nation, but also the great day of history. A few months ago there came to the Allies and the cause which they represent, the dark day when by common consent they were driven to bay and were fighting desperately with their backs to the wall, and now, today, Germany has surrendered unconditionally, and we are here to celebrate the triumph of Democracy and the dawn of a new day for the world, in which liberty, and justice, and honor will be assured, as they have never been before.

ALL HONOR TO BELGIUM

And today, as we rejoice over this wonderful consummation, it is no more than fitting that we should render tribute to those agencies by which it has been brought about. First, I name Belgium, the poor defenseless little country that threw her unprotected body into the breach in front of the great ruthless, oncoming German war machine, with intent to hold back the ravaging monster until France and England could come to their common defense. Belgium, that has lost everything but honor; Belgium deserves our most reverent tribute of respect and admiration.

AND TO ENGLAND

Next I mention England—the Homeland and the colonies, all the way from India to Tasmania, round the world and back again. The men of England, and the women of England, they have paid a terrible price for this day of victory, in treasure, in sacrifice and in blood, and they have never faltered, never doubted—they knew it just had to be done, and they did it. We bow our heads in a tribute of praise to England.

A WORLD OF GRATITUDE TO FRANCE

"And then comes France—next to Belgium, the most disasterously plundered and ravaged of all the nations in the war. For her splendid tenacity and courage and devotion; for the Battle of the Marne; for the wonderful wisdom of Foch, who knew how to hang on and be patient until America could furnish him the reserves which would insure victory. We owe a world of gratitude to France.

ITALY

"And Italy, too,—undermined and corrupted and betrayed by German propaganda, reduced almost to a condition of helpless defeat, gathering herself together, and coming back at the enemy with such splendid courage, and beating them down at last, so that Austria today stands helpless and hopeless in defeat.—All honor to Italy.

THE LESSER PEOPLES

"And we must not forget the other lesser peoples who have contributed their valuable quota toward ultimate victory; Japan policing the seas and protecting the lines of commerce with her splendid navy; Portugal, whose flag has floated in the thickest of the fight beside that of England and France from the beginning; that new nation, the Czecho Slovaks, with that wonderful campaign across Russia and Siberia to join the armies of the Allies; China and Brazil and all the rest down to little Liberia, we would remember them all and do reverence to them all.

OUR OWN BOYS

"Then there are our own boys—not born to war and not trained to war, but to the arts of peace, but rising to the occasion with splendid adaptability, and spreading the fair fame of America wherever they go. You may have seen in one of the magazines the children's letters from France in which they unanimously bear testimony to the courtesy and the kindness, and the cleanness, physical and moral, of the American soldiers. And the optimistic courage of them,—great truck loads of them going into action singing, and carrying with them an infectious enthusiasm which the other troops could scarce resist. And not alone the boys of the Army, but the boys of the Navy, too; those who man the destroyers, ranging the seas in the nastiest weather that blows, protecting the cruisers and transports and commerce carriers from the ravages of the submarine. Nor can we forget at this time our great president, one of the great men of history—the man of vision—the man of high ideals—the man of sterling integrity—the man of all others who can best represent and defend the fundamental principles of American life and character. Even as Abraham Lincoln was raised up for the crisis of the Civil War, so has Woodrow Wilson been raised up for the crisis of this War, and we thank God for him.

"This is a time for joyful congratulation, and for thanksgiving as we look back, but it is also a time to look forward and realize our responsibilities for the future, and among these I would emphasize three:

STAND BY THE BOYS

1. We must stand by the boys until every last man of them is back at home and in his old job or some new one that suits him. We are now in the midst of a war work drive that calls for our best efforts in the interest and for the well-being of the boys at the front. And we may be tempted to think that the war is all over now, and that we can slack up in our efforts. Don't listen to any such temptation for a moment. This is no time to slack up—but rather an occasion like this should act as a fresh impulse. We are celebrating today what the boys have accomplished for us, by their sacrifices they have won for us this great victory. Shall we be niggardly and mean in our response to them? It is altogether likely that they will have to remain in Europe for months or even a year, and during that time they must be ministered to generously in just the same ways that they have been.

EVEN-HANDED JUSTICE

2. We must stand for an even handed Christian justice for Germany.—a justice of such fine quality that Germany shall realize that the Allies' justice is better than the Kaiser's mercy. There have been three great wars in the last half century. One of them—the Franco-Prussian—by the relentless rapacity and injustice of the victors, left France permanently embittered and alienated beyond recovery; and the present war is the fruit of that treatment. The second—the American Civil War—was fought to a bitter finish, but the vanquished, as soon as possible, were taken back into the fold, and long since we became one nation again with scarcely a memory left of the bitterness. The third was the Boer War in which the Boers were beaten to an unconditional surrender and were then given their own autonomy and reinstated in prosperity, with the result that they are today England's most loyal citizens. It is some such justice that the Allies should deal out to Germany. It should be justice, not revenge; but at the same time it should be justice and not a maudlin, effeminate mercy. It should be a justice involving the assurance of absolute reform. We cannot contemplate the loss of Germany from the family of Nations through any policy by which she shall continue to remain the outlaw she has become. As the first step in the reform of the brigand is the disarming of him, so the first step in the reform of Germany is that she be disarmed and made safe to deal with, and then that full restitution be made to Belgium, France and Poland; that a peace tribunal be set up in the Hague and that the Kaiser and Von Hindenburg, and Von Tripitz, yes and the Crown Prince, and the Austrian leaders of the same ilk, be brought to trial before this tribunal, and convicted of their crimes and punished for them. And that a permanent, stable, and responsible Democratic government be set up in Germany. And only as, in all good faith, Germany gives evidence of working toward this goal should she be allowed to follow her pursuits and work out her destiny.

THE NEW WORLD

3. We must insist upon and work for a better world. During these years of war the world has been in the darkness of a tunnel, suddenly we have emerged into the light and look out on a new world. We can never go back to the old world of what was before the war. And we ought not to, even if we could. We have learned splendid lessons of unity and humanity and self sacrifice during this war that we never can entirely forget, and that ought to stimulate and hallow all our life and all our outlook.

HAWAII SHINES BY CONTRAST

W. D. McBryde has just returned from the coast full of respect and admiration for the patriotism and loyalty of Hawaii as compared with San Francisco. "You would hardly know there was a war on up there so far as war activities and economies go. Seldom would you see a woman knitting or doing other Red Cross work, and extravagance and all kinds of self indulgence seemed to run riot." In view of the striking lack of loyalty he was not surprised that they fell down so badly on their last Liberty Loan quota and had to beg half a million from Hawaii.

Samuel Kellinof of Kapaa, is trying to arrange an agreement to cultivate the land for the parties who took up homesteads in the fourth series at Kapaa a year ago and did not cultivate their land. A year has now passed since these lands were allotted to prospective homesteaders. When these people took up the lands they agreed to put at least a part of it under cultivation the first year or forfeit their rights. In several instances nothing whatever has been done and the land lies as it was a year ago.

There are hundreds of people on Kauai who want homesteads and are willing to cultivate them. They are asking why they are not allowed to take up these lands that should have been cultivated. Let the bona fide homesteader in, and get rid of the speculators.
