THE BARS DOWN CHINESE COME IN

Treasury Ruling Makes Breach in the Statute.

ONLY PERJURY NEEDED TO GRAIN ADMISSION

Thousands of Laborers are Flocking to the Borders and Great Influx Predicted.

San Francisco, Sept. 19.—Under a recent ruling of the Treasury Department, a breach has been made in the wall of Chinese exclusion, and hundreds of the country have already taken advantage of the opportunity to enter. That perjury is necessary to accomplish this end does not deter them in the least. The Chinese are assisted in getting into the country by white lawyers and middlemen, who has as little scruple about law-breaking as the Chinese themselves. The new loophole is a ruling to the effect that the wife or minor child of a Chinese merchant residing in this country may enter without a certificate, providing they prove to the satisfaction of the authorities that they are related to the resident merchant as alleged.

This ruling is an amplification of the decision of the United States Supreme Court, rendered some months ago, which declared that the wife and minor children of a merchant were entitled to enter without certificate. The Department held to the theory that there was no intention on the part of the Court to permit the entry of full grown men capable of becoming laborers, and thus defeating the exclusion act. So the order up to the recent ruling has been that only children of tender years were entitled to enter without certificates.

Some weeks ago Collector Stratton detained Yee Get, a young man who claimed the right to enter the country without a certificate, as the minor son of a merchant. Yee Get came on the steamer Peking. He is well able to perform manual labor. On that ground he was detained until a ruling could be obtained from the Treasury Department. Assistant Secretary Taylor referred the matter to the acting collector of the Treasury, who returned the opinion that Yee Get, being a minor and the son of a merchant, should be permitted to land. The opinion of the acting collector says:

The question whether the minor is or is not likely to become a laborer makes no figure in the case. The decision is based upon the substantial unity of husband, wife and child in the contemplation of the exclusion laws, and not upon the inability of an infant of tender years to perform manual labor. The courts having made no distinction between such infants and those who have nearly reached their majority, I should not think that the department should do so, and I therefore recommend that the appeal be sustained.

Assistant Secretary Allen accordingly directed Collector Stratton to land Yee Get. The bars are therefore down and the yellow men are already beginning to flock in, every one of them on the sworn statement that he is the son of a merchant.

The entry of a large number of Chinese without certificates will tend to demoralize the whole system of exclusion, as officials will be powerless to deport many Chinese persons who are without certificates, so long as they claim to have entered as the wives or children of merchants. Thus a way will be open for the continued residence here of many who are clandestinely entered the country from Mexico or British Columbia.

So far as known here, the Treasury Department is powerless to change this ruling, based as it is upon a decision of the United States Supreme Court. The only remedy is in a provision in the new exclusion law which it is expected Congress will pass.

Information comes from the North that hundreds, if not thousands, of young Chinese, of the class usually coming to this country—from 18 to 30 years of age—are in British Columbia and making their way across as fast as possible under the new ruling. In the question of age, unless the applicant is clearly an old man, the burden of proof is upon the inspecting officials, and they cannot solve the age problem of a Chinese. As soon as entered, the man is free to go to work as a laborer.

In the intervening months the only barrier will be the honesty and vigilance of the immigration inspectors, against whom will be combined the powerful influences of the steamship companies, the astuteness of unscrupulous lawyers, and the crookedness of the Chinese themselves.

REPLY OF WILCOX

WHAT POLICE JUDGE SAYS OF McCANDLESS

Statement Made That There are From 250 to 300 Porto Ricans in City Armed With Knives.

Judge Wilcox was seen this morning about the communication by J. A. McCandless in the Advertiser this morning with reference to a remark made by the former in the Police Court yesterday. Judge Wilcox said:

"A Porto Rican appeared before me in the Police Court on the charge of vagrancy. I made the remark that Mr. McCandless had better be sent for as he had stated to me that there were between 250 and 300 Porto Ricans in the city who were armed with knives. I said further that the Porto Rican might be one of the men he meant."

"The remark I made in the Police Court contained just exactly what Mr. McCandless did say. Moreover, when I asked that gentleman particularly if he knew of his own knowledge that there were between 250 and 300 Porto Ricans in the city offensively armed with knives, he replied in the affirmative. I notice in his very childish communication in the Advertiser this morning that he studiously avoids telling this part of the story since, perhaps, he might be laughed at by the public for being a calumny orier."

"Mr. McCandless has spoken to me several times of late about vagrancy in the city and he has stated that the District Court is not properly conducted. To his way of thinking, any man arrested on the charge of vagrancy should be thrown into jail for six months on general principles."

"I replied that this general principle business in which he and some others had been interested, was just what had got the government into trouble and I suppose this made him very angry."

"Mr. McCandless further stated that the head of the police had told him that the prosecuting officer was very much discouraged because I was in the habit of letting vagrants go. I took particular pains to ask Mr. Chillingworth if this was a fact and he replied most emphatically in the negative. Mr. McCandless has got himself into trouble for crying calamity and now seeks through communications to get the public to take his side. I said nothing in the Police Court yesterday that I will not stand by as the truth. Mr. McCandless or anyone else to the contrary notwithstanding."

"I told Mr. McCandless I could not send a man to jail unless he was found guilty and he repeated his 'general principles' statement."

The police reporter of the Bulletin knows Judge Wilcox has always given vagrants, found guilty of vagrancy, a good stiff term on the reef. In cases where it has been possible, men charged with vagrancy have been shipped out of the country which the public will undoubtedly agree is the very best way to do, since it risks the city of their presence. Vagrants sent to jail come out again at the expiration of their sentences.

The fact that the police are not discouraged by Judge Wilcox's treatment of vagrants is best shown by Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth's continued hunt after such people.

NO MERCY FOR THURSTON AND HIS CREW

FULL REPORT OF ATTORNEY GENERAL KNOX

Following is the full text of the report made to the President by Attorney General P. C. Knox on the charges against Judge A. S. Humphreys and the petition for his removal made by L. A. Thurston, A. S. Hartwell, W. A. Kinney, S. M. Ballou, Attorney General E. P. Dole, Deputy Attorney General Cathcart, High Sheriff Brown and thirty other members of the Honolulu Bar Association:

In the Matter of the Charges of the Bar Association of the Hawaiian Islands against the Honorable Abram S. Humphreys, First Judge of the Circuit Court of the First Judicial Circuit, Territory of Hawaii.

To the President: I have the honor to report that I have examined with care the charges of the Bar Association of the Hawaiian Islands against the Honorable Abram S. Humphreys, First Judge of the Circuit Court of the First Judicial Circuit, Territory of Hawaii, together with the specifications and briefs accompanying the same. I have also been aided in reaching the conclusions hereinafter referred to by a hearing at my office, which was attended by Judge Humphreys and his counsel, and E. W. Hankey, Esq., as counsel for the said Bar Association, and by briefs which have been submitted by both parties to the controversy.

Duane E. Fox, Esq., of Washington, D. C., appeared for Judge Humphreys. The Bar Association professes to be composed of all the judges and lawyers of which I will briefly consider in their order.

It is asserted that Judge Humphreys, while holding his judicial office, conspired and is engaged directly and indirectly in the publication and editing of a partisan newspaper, to wit, the Honolulu Republican.

Judge Humphreys admits that prior to his appointment as Circuit Judge he acquired a substantial interest in the Honolulu Republican. He asserts that upon his appointment he resigned his office as president of the publishing company and also as one of the board of directors thereof, and that the stockholders thereupon placed the editorial policy of the paper in the control of one E. S. Gill as editor. Judge Humphreys further asserts that since that time he has not sought to control nor have I in fact controlled the editorial policy or utterances of the paper. Since the day I have assumed the bench I have continuously endeavored to dispose of my interests in the paper, even going as far as to offer my stock at a figure which would entitle upon me the loss of many thousands of dollars, and I am still endeavoring to dispose of it.

The complainants, on the other hand, offer three affidavits which, after reciting the fact that Judge Humphreys before his appointment had acquired this interest in the Honolulu Republican, suggest certain acts in proof of the averment that since his appointment he had taken an active part in the conduct of said paper. Many of the facts alluded to in these affidavits show nothing more than a participation in the business management of the paper. It is unquestioned that he acquired his interest before his appointment as Judge, and without reference to it. There is no principle either of law or of ethics which requires him, upon his assumption of judicial duties, to neglect the business interests which he had thus previously acquired, assuming always that such attention does not conflict with the fair and full discharge of his judicial duties. It is nowhere contended that Judge Humphreys has been inattentive to his judicial duties by reason of his participation in the business management of the Honolulu Republican. The affidavit of W. H. Johnson, who was at one time the business manager of the newspaper in question, however, states as a fact that Judge Humphreys did control the editorial policy of the paper, and that its editor "took his orders from said Judge Humphreys." This is contradicted by the explicit statement of Judge Humphreys that he had not in any manner interfered with the editorial management of the paper or inspired the various editorial articles included in Exhibits 23 to 317, inclusive. These exhibits consist of editorial paragraphs and articles of news having reference to the political conditions in Hawaii. Many of them are intemperate in language and violent in spirit. They attack with great vehemence the present political government of Hawaii, but Judge Humphreys expressly discharges any responsibility for them, and there is no evidence to the contrary.

The first charge has not been satisfactorily established.

It is asserted that Judge Humphreys has taken and continues to take an active and leading part in bitter political controversies within the Territory of Hawaii and within his judicial circuit.

This is sought to be established by certain affidavits embodied in Exhibits 318 to 325, inclusive. I have examined all of these affidavits with care. They are largely hearsay in character, and are to the effect that deponents were "informed" that Judge Humphreys was acting as the adviser of the Home Rule Party, and was holding caucuses at his home. The nearest approach to positive testimony is the affidavit of one Lorrin Andrews, a former law partner of Judge Humphreys, who states in substance that on one occasion he found Judge Humphreys in the law offices of one W. A. Whiting, in company with a number of the members of the Legislature who were members of the Home Rule Independent Party. He heard Judge Humphreys advise the legislators how to vote on a certain bill then pending with reference to the apportionment of long-term Senators. On another occasion, he heard Judge Humphreys speaking of legislative matters in his office at night to members of the Legislature from the fact that legislative matters were under discussion. Judge Humphreys, on the other hand, denies that he ever held a caucus at his home, or attempted to influence pending legislation in the Territory of Hawaii, with the exception of two occasions when he used his influence to procure the passage of a new exemption law, and one which vested in him the power to appoint the holder of his own court. Neither of these were political measures, and I know of no reason why a judge, as any other citizen, should not take an active interest in the discussion of legislation which is non-political in character.

It is further sought to substantiate the second charge by Exhibit 324, being a charge to the grand jury by Judge Humphreys. In this charge, Humphreys specifically called the attention of the grand jury, as an intemperate body, to certain abuses which he believed to be then existing, and as to which he wished them to make investigation. The charge in question is a vigorous and learned exposition of the rights and duties of a grand jury, and incidentally refers to the political conditions which prevailed prior to the annexation of Hawaii by the United States. I shall not venture to express an opinion as to the propriety of these special references. They were obviously made to illustrate the changes in the administration of justice which the annexation of Hawaii by the United States and the application of the criminal procedure of the United States to the bench and the powers and privileges of his office improperly to promote his own personal and political end.

This seems to be merely a restatement of the second charge, and is supported by Exhibits 326 to 332, inclusive. Exhibit 326 is a written statement of the Clerk of the Circuit Court to the effect that some seventeen members of the Hawaiian Legislature were admitted to practice without any adequate examination. From the statement of the Clerk, it appears that Judge Humphreys did examine them as to whether they had read the civil and penal code.

The second charge has not been sustained by adequate proof.

The third charge avers that Judge Humphreys has used his position on the bench and the powers and privileges of his office improperly to promote his own personal and political end.

This seems to be merely a restatement of the second charge, and is supported by Exhibits 326 to 332, inclusive. Exhibit 326 is a written statement of the Clerk of the Circuit Court to the effect that some seventeen members of the Hawaiian Legislature were admitted to practice without any adequate examination. From the statement of the Clerk, it appears that Judge Humphreys did examine them as to whether they had read the civil and penal code.

ACCOUNT IS INCREASED

Instead of the $25,000 on the face of the policy, the Equitable Life Insurance Society has to pay the estate of the late D. E. Smith $27,544.08—that is, if the Circuit Court judgment on the verdict be not set aside on appeal. Judge Gear has ordered judgment entered for the amount of the policy, interest computed by the clerk at $1824.98 and the costs of plaintiff taxed at $719.10 by Whiting & Robinson and allowed. All this makes an aggregate as already stated, being an accretion of more than 10 per cent to the amount of contract.

HIGH SCHOOL EXERCISES.

At the High school exercises prescribed McKinley memorial exercises are in progress as the Bulletin goes to press. Mr. Lull, one of the teachers, gave the opening address, treating of the facts in the late President's life. Principal M. M. Scott took for his theme lessons from the career of the lamented head of the Nation. C. H. Elston, of the teaching staff, sang a solo. Rev. G. L. Pearson, as a minister of the denomination to which President McKinley belonged, was to have been asked to offer a prayer, but owing out of town his place was taken by a lay member of the Methodist Episcopal church.

MERCHANTS' MEMORIAL

F. J. Lowrey, chairman of the committee appointed by the Merchants' Association to draft a suitable memorial on the death of President McKinley to be sent to Washington, was seen this morning by a Bulletin reporter and, in answer to a question, stated that the committee had left the matter of a memorial in the hands of the general committee of citizens as it was understood, one memorial from Honolulu as a whole would be sent forward.

This does not accord with the action taken by the Merchants' Association yesterday for at that time, the committee was appointed for the purpose of drafting a memorial to be sent forward by that body. The remarks previous to this action all pointed toward independent action on the part of the association.

When Mr. Lowrey was confronted with this, he said he had been instructed that the committee had full power to act. He himself was not at the general meeting yesterday.

The Doric brought no passengers for this port. Several people are booked to leave in her this afternoon. She sails at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

IT IS A BEAUTY SPOT

TRAVELED MAN DESCANTS UPON PACIFIC HEIGHTS

Few Places Comparable with Honolulu's Elevated Suburb --- Mr. Desky Praised by Original Promoter.

J. W. Smith, who awaits the Monona to return to Australia, went up to Pacific Heights by Desky's electric railway the other day. As he was the original proposer of development of that place for residences, his impressions of the present conditions there are interesting. Mr. Smith said to a Bulletin reporter yesterday: "I have traveled the world. I know more about Australia than the stay-at-home Australians, more about Italy than an Italian, France than a Frenchman, Germany than a German, England than an Englishman.

"There are beauty spots that impressed me in my travels, but none more strongly than Pacific Heights. I know of very few cities in the world that spread out so beautifully at your feet as Honolulu from this superb lookout, affording a panorama of ocean, valley, urban architecture and tropical vegetation. Albany on King George's Sound in South Australia, Genoa in Italy and Montreal in Canada are somewhat in comparison for breadth of view, but few other places. "Although the development of Pacific Heights has been so extensively carried out, I am hardly astonished at it. It is only what might have been expected from the proximity to town of such an eligible site for residences upon an elevation assuring clear air and moderate temperature. I believe that lots can be bought there today at least fifty per cent cheaper than will be possible whenever the prevailing depression begins to mend itself.

PLUMBERS HAVE GONE UPON THE WARP

Just as the Board of Health adjourned yesterday, E. G. Keen, inspector of plumbing and house sewers, appeared before the members and made a statement regarding a declaration of war by the plumbers against the Board of Health.

Mr. Keen said that last week W. J. England, a master plumber, asked for a permit to place a soil pipe of "standard" piping in a two-story house for which the sanitary plumbing regulations prescribe "extra heavy" piping.

When the permits had been refused, Mr. England said he would go ahead, anyway, and put in "standard" piping, as the plumbers had determined to test in the courts the right of the Board of Health to dictate the kind of piping in house plumbing.

After receiving this declaration of war, the inspector consulted Mr. Mott-Smith, a member of the Board, on whose advice he warned Mr. England that if he violated the regulations in the matter he would be arrested.

The members on hearing the statement expressed but one opinion and that was that Mr. Keen should enforce the regulations.

It was taken for granted that the attitude of the plumbers, as stated by Mr. England, was assumed out of resentment for the action of the Board in declining to adopt the proposal of the Master Plumbers' Association that all plumbers undertaking sanitary work should have to pass an examination and then furnish a bond on all contracts. It was no secret that this legislation requested of the Board had been designed to keep Asiatics out of the sanitary plumbing business.

The steamer Doric had trouble in getting her lines to the wharf last evening. The riggers who usually take the lines were driven off the wharf and being sulky refused to assist in the docking of the steamer. After a short wait however the men were got to take hold and with the assistance of the Fearless the big mail steamer was safely secured.

FIRST CABINET MEETING

Washington, September 17.—President Roosevelt, at 3 o'clock today, convened his first Cabinet meeting held in Washington. At this meeting the President asked the members of Mr. McKinley's Cabinet to retain their respective portfolios throughout his term, and announced that his administration would follow the policy outlined by President McKinley in his Buffalo speech.

After the obsequies over the late President, the Cabinet, at President Roosevelt's request, assembled at the residence of Commander Cowley, where the President is staying until after the funeral, principally for the purpose of informing their new chief of the state of affairs in their respective departments. The President desired to learn if there were any matters of moment requiring his attention before his departure tonight for Canton. He was assured that there was nothing of pressing importance.

The President then addressed his advisers collectively, as he had previously done individually, requesting them all to retain their respective positions in his Cabinet. Mr. Roosevelt expressed the hope and expectation that every member would serve throughout his term, he said, he tendered the appointments as if he had just been elected to the Presidency and was forming an original Cabinet. The President said, however, that there was one difference between the present tender and that of an original offer, namely, that under the present circumstances they were not at liberty to decline.

Upon being asked by a member if resignations should be formally presented in the usual manner, the President answered that his action at this meeting had precluded the necessity of presenting resignations. The discussion turned upon the policy of the Administration and Roosevelt announced that he regarded the speech of the late President at the Buffalo Pan-American Exposition, made previous to the tragic shooting, as outlining the policies to be followed by the Administration.

It cannot be learned at this time whether or not all the members would be willing to serve the full term. The Cabinet members, with the exception of Secretaries Hay and Long, will accompany the remains of the dead President to Canton and participate in the funeral ceremonies on Thursday.

Secretaries Hay and Long remained in Washington at the President's request, Roosevelt thinking that some members of the Cabinet should continue in Washington.

PLAYS THE INSANE DODGE

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 17.—Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of President McKinley, was arraigned before Judge Edward K. Emery, in the County Court at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the indictment for murder in the first degree. Keeping up his insanity pretense to plead or even utter a word or sound, and Loran L. Lewis, ex-Supreme Court Justice, entered a plea of not guilty. The prisoner will be tried in the Supreme Court next Monday morning.

As a result of the urging of President Adolph L. Moot of the Erie County Bar Association, Judge Lewis, one of the attorneys assigned as counsel by Judge Emery yesterday, called at the Erie county jail at 2 o'clock this afternoon to see the prisoner. Czolgosz refused to talk to Judge Lewis and refused to answer questions as to whether or not he wanted any counsel. Judge Lewis said that, nevertheless, he would appear for the prisoner upon arraignment, even if he decided not to accept the assignment of the Court.

Absolutely no demonstration having been made against the prisoner yesterday, the authorities decided that the strong guard was unnecessary today. Czolgosz was taken from the jail from the tunnel under Delaware avenue to the City Hall by Detective Solomon and Geary, being handcuffed to the latter. In passing from the basement of the City Hall to the courtroom on the second floor, Czolgosz was compelled to pass close to the black and white bunting with which the pillars, ceilings, windows and stairways of the City Hall were draped when the body of the President was lying in state on Sunday, and which will not be removed until after the funeral on Thursday.

The prisoner entered the courtroom just as the city clock was striking 3 o'clock, and as many of the curious spectators as could surge into the courtroom behind him. A murmur ran through the audience, but the gavel of the Judge and the staff of the clerk soon restored order. As soon as Czolgosz was before the bar and the handcuffs were removed, District Attorney Penny began the formal arraignment. He read the principal charges of the indictment in a voice of severity, and asked: "How do you plead, guilty or not guilty?"

Not a sound was uttered by the prisoner. He stood mute before the bar of justice. His curly hair was disheveled, and although his linen was white and clean, his disordered clothes and the growth of his beard gave him an unkempt appearance. Spectators in the courtroom commented on the fact that if he were shaved, which he has not been since the day of the shooting, he would be a fairly good looking young man. Although his demeanor was still one of stubbornness, he gave a little more evidence of concern than upon his first presence in court. When questions were being asked of him rapidly he moistened his lips with his tongue and seemed to endeavor to maintain the appearance of stolid indifference. However, aside from the slight evidences of indifference, Czolgosz's appearance was that of a man shamming insanity.

When the prisoner refused to plead the District Attorney asked him if he understood what had been read and, received no answer, told him that he had been indicted for murder in the first degree and that he could answer "yes" or "no." For an instant Czolgosz glanced at Mr. Penny and it was thought that he intended to speak, but he did not.

Judge Lewis then addressed the Court at length, saying that he had called upon the defendant but had been unable to ascertain any wish on the defendant's part as to the employment of counsel. He said that his associate, Judge Titus, was in Milwaukee, but that he had not appeared in formally to enter a plea of not guilty on behalf of the defendant. He asked permission to reserve the right to withdraw the plea and enter a special plea or interpose a demurrer, if, after consulting with Judge Titus they decided not to ask the Court to assign other counsel. The Judge expressed regret that his name had been mentioned in connection with this trial, as he had been out of practice for some considerable time and had very strong objection to appearing, although that was a reason which would apply to every lawyer.

District Attorney Penny gave notice that he would move to have the indictment transferred to the Supreme Court for trial, and would also give notice of the trial for next Monday morning. "I know of no reason why the defendant should not be ready next Monday," replied Judge Lewis. At his request, however, the orders will not be entered until Judge Titus returns, which will probably be in a day or two.

Judge Lewis said also that he might also like an order of the Court for stenographers to examine the prisoner, as the District Attorney had informed him that eminent alienists had examined the prisoner on behalf of the people. This gave rise to the belief that a special plea of insanity may be entered by the counsel for the defense.

"Remove the prisoner," said Judge Emery, and Czolgosz was taken back to jail by the underground route.

PARKER RANCH ALONE

WILL SUPPLY CATTLE TO MOLOKAI SETTLEMENT

Light Order of Business at Board of Health Session—Several Petitions Turned Down.

Dr. Sloggett, president, Dr. C. B. Cooper, Dr. W. M. Moore, Wm. Auld and E. A. Mott-Smith constituted the meeting of the Board of Health yesterday afternoon. Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, executive officer, C. B. Reynolds, superintendent of Molokai settlement, and C. Charlock, secretary, were in attendance.

The Parker Ranch by A. W. Carter, secretary, presented the sole bid for beef cattle. It was to deliver 90 head more or less a month as required at Kawaihae, the cattle to weigh not less than 300 pounds a head and the price to be seven cents a pound. The contract was awarded to the bidder.

A. R. Cunha, attorney for one Ng Fawn, offered to supply taro to the settlement. The offer was referred to Mr. Reynolds. A letter from D. Kapawai with a similar tender was also referred to the superintendent.

Father Mathias wanted a permit to make a pastoral visit to Molokai Island.

D. M. Fitzsimmons petitioned to be allowed to go to Kalaniana'ohale and live with his wife, a sick woman. She was all he had to live for. The petition was on motion refused.

Refusal was also the answer to a request by S. Gamble, Kalia, to have Mrs. Katko sent to Kalaniana'ohale, where her husband was detained. He said he could not afford to keep the woman any longer. It was suggested that the case was one for the Associated Charities.

Mrs. Milika wanted to go to Molokai with her husband, who joined in the request. Refused.

EUROPE ON ROOSEVELT

London, Sept. 17.—Further familiarity with the idea of Roosevelt as President is having its natural result in dissipating doubts entertained as to the effect of his succession upon the foreign policy of the United States. At any rate, it is becoming generally conceded in Great Britain that the United States has obtained a President of great distinction of character. The exposition of his policy on Sunday is the subject of general comment.

The Daily Graphic, which points out that the President of the United States occupies a more powerful position than any sovereign in Christendom, with the possible exceptions of the German Emperor and the Czar of Russia, sums up his policy as "that of a sane imperialist devoted to the advancement and glory of his country without wronging others."

The Morning Post, in an editorial, says: "He is a personification of the younger generation of Americans, who are looking forward rather than dreaming of the past. He is a man who seems made to be a leader of his countrymen in the new time which began with the war with Spain. He will be a President of great initiative, devoted to the national rather than to the party ideal."

This journal says that "no nation ever came to maturity without attempting to assert itself as one, if not the first, of the governing powers of the world." In conclusion the Morning Post recommends Great Britain to "try to appreciate the American ideals instead of lecturing Americans on their diplomatic methods."

The Daily Mail says: "The United States has a great man at its head. We may expect with confidence that Mr. Roosevelt will be a moderating and not an exasperating influence."

GERMANY AND ROOSEVELT

Berlin, Sept. 15.—The German press devotes much attention to President Roosevelt's declaration of policy, expressing great satisfaction with his adoption of the utterances of the late President McKinley as to reciprocity.

"We hope," says the Lokai Anzeiger, "that he will succeed in placing the economic relations of the United States and Europe upon a secure basis and develop the same."

Roosevelt's remarks with reference to promoting transportation facilities with South America are widely commented upon. "They deserve the greatest attention," says the National Zeitung, since the commercial interests of the United States in South America are opposed to those of Germany, which has found an important and valuable market there."

The Vossische Zeitung concludes a long editorial as follows: "It is in the President Roosevelt favors an extension of the economic power of the United States in all directions and of their national power on the American continent."

The National Zeitung summarizes the President's character as follows: "He is an interesting and many-sided President, full of activity and life, whose hearty, warm blooded and an enthusiastic optimist."

The weekly edition of the Evening Bulletin gives a complete summary of the news of the day.

AT REST.

Loving hands have laid the earthly remains of our late President in their last resting place. The body is dead; the inspiration of William McKinley's life lives and will endure throughout the history of our Nation.

It now remains for the loyal citizens of the Nation, particularly of this Territory to mark well the lessons that life taught and press forward to the duties of the hour and of the future with that same unflinching trust in the wisdom of God and the same steadfast confidence in the magnificent mission of our Nation that characterized the private and public career of the leader they mourn.

NO MERCY FOR THURSTON AND HIS CREW.

Exhibit 22, averts, in substance, that these native Hawaiians who had been admitted to practice were ignorant of the English language, and otherwise unqualified for admission to the bar. It is further suggested that some of the residents permanently outside of the circuit. It is further suggested that the Hawaiian legislators to practice by Judge Humphreys was an inconsistency on his part, as by the rules of the Court all proceedings must be conducted in the English language, and Judge Humphreys had expressed an opinion that no one should be admitted to practice in the Circuit Court who resided permanently outside of its jurisdiction.

The matter of these admissions to the bar is purely a question for the discretion of the Judge. Administering law in a court where the English language is spoken, but in which many of the litigants only speak the native tongue, presents, necessarily, great difficulties. Moreover, the conditions which prevail in Hawaii necessarily require local courts throughout the islands. There are doubtless many small communities at inaccessible places which must have some method of obtaining legal advice in the Hawaiian tongue and of adjusting their differences. Judge Humphreys believed that to secure this end it was necessary to admit Hawaiians to membership in the bar, and in his judgment the members of the court, who enjoyed a position of trust and responsibility, and who had direct official relations with the native population, and presumably enjoyed their confidence, were obviously proper recipients of this special favor. I have no reason to question the wisdom of the action which Judge Humphreys reached, and in any event would regard it as a matter entirely within his discretion.

The third charge is further sought to be established by Exhibits 320 and 321, which show, in substance, that the editor of the Honolulu Republican was indicted on February 15, 1901, for an assault with a weapon dangerous to life. On February 19 a plea in abatement was argued before Judge Humphreys. It appears from the affidavit of Larrin Andrews (Exhibit 320) that Judge Humphreys, who was then presiding at the court, expressed his disinclination to hear any portion of the case, and that the counsel for the prosecutor thereupon stated "that the matters involved in the plea of abatement were merely matters of law, that they did not affect the facts in the case, and that it was very important an early decision should be rendered in this case, and requested that the Judge for these reasons should hear the matter at once. The Judge thereupon stated that he would do so, and on or about the 24th day of February, 1901, an argument was had in the matter, at the conclusion of which the court stated, that he would reserve decision and would decide the case as early as possible." It appears that about March 20, 1901, the prosecutor upon whom the assault was charged had disappeared from Hawaii, and from these facts the complainants against Judge Humphreys gravely aver that "the decision of Judge Humphreys on the plea in abatement was 'unduly and improperly delayed' with a view 'favoring' the defendant and unduly 'favoring' the prosecution." It is extraordinary that members of the bar could prefer so grave a charge upon so insufficient grounds. Such charge seems to betray a reckless desire to degrade Judge Humphreys, and reflects little credit upon those who have given their endorsement to it. The complainants' own proof shows that, although no legal grounds existed to disqualify Judge Humphreys from considering and deciding the case, yet because the defendant was editor of the Honolulu Republican and Judge Humphreys had an interest in the business corporation which owned this newspaper, he expressed his willingness and his disinclination to hear the case, and only heard it at the direct suggestion and request of the attorney for the prosecutor. The prosecutor left Hawaii "about March 20, 1901," and decision had therefore been reserved by Judge Humphreys less than a month. The complainant wholly fails to show upon what grounds the plea in abatement was based, but whether the delay in the decision was reasonable or unreasonable, the suggestion that it was due to a desire to favor the defendant is purely a matter of innuendo, utterly without any justification in fact, and reckless and intemperate in spirit.

The fourth charge avers that Judge Humphreys "has been harsh, arbitrary, tyrannical, and vindictive toward members of the bar and others appearing before his court and has abused his powers over them." In support of this charge some eight instances are given, to which the first relates to the action of Judge Humphreys in sentencing Mr. Hitting, a member of his bar, to imprisonment for ten days for contempt of court. It appears from the record that Mr. Hitting, in criticizing the action of Judge Humphreys with reference to a pending matter, stated that "it was peculiar and unusual." Judge Humphreys regarded it as an intentional insult to the court, and imposed the sentence in question. It is impracticable for me to review his decision in this respect, for an insult can be only in matters and circumstances quite as much as in words. It is obvious that the expression "peculiar and unusual" could be used with an intonation and in a manner as to suggest injudicial conduct on the part of the presiding Judge. It does not appear that Mr. Hitting, in any way to review the imposition of the sentence as an abuse of judicial discretion, and this specification may be regarded as unsubstantiated by adequate testimony.

The second instance is the fining of a juror for lack of punctuality, and it seems to have been plainly justified under the circumstances.

The third instance relates to a criticism which Judge Humphreys made upon the manner in which his bailiff performed his duties, and the imposition of a fine for contempt. It is apparent that the Judge acted within his discretion.

The fourth and fifth instances are those of jurors who refused to concur in a verdict. Judge Humphreys was of opinion that there was no excuse for their failure to agree, and after charging the jury, he refused the two dissenting jurors from further service, and denied them their fees as jurors. Whether the testimony in this case in which the jury sat justified the belief of Judge Humphreys that the two jurors were not dissenting in good faith is a matter which it is not possible for me to determine, as the testimony in the case has not been submitted to me. It is fair to assume that the Judge acted in good faith in the matter. Subsequently he reached the conclusion that he was without power to deny them the payment of their fees as jurors, and he entertained and sustained a motion vacating the forfeiture of their fees.

The sixth instance refers to a criticism uttered by Judge Humphreys from the bench of the Attorney General of Hawaii, who was then arguing a case before the court. In the course of an elaborate and important argument, the Attorney General made reference to the respective powers of the Executive and Judicial Departments of the Government, which Judge Humphreys regarded as an effort to coerce him in the discharge of his duties. It is not important to determine whether either the suggestions of the Attorney General in his argument on the one hand or the comments of the Circuit Judge on the other were justified. An examination of the printed record would suggest that both were equally unnecessary, feeling in the discussion of a purely legal question. I can find, however, no just grounds for the removal of a faithful Judge in the comments of the Court. He sought to defend the rights of the judiciary from what he regarded probably mistaken criticisms, and in so doing, and having this feeling it is not unnatural that he expressed himself with some warmth. It is obvious, however, that Judges cannot be removed simply because they are sometimes betrayed into unnecessary expressions. There is nothing to suggest any corrupt or improper motive in the matter.

The seventh instance refers to the imposition of a fine of $100 by Judge Humphreys upon a member of the bar who declined to divulge to the grand jury the name of a client. Whether the attorney was justified in refusing to disclose the name of a client, after having testified as to what the client said, may be a debatable question. The Executive Department is under no obligations to review the judicial decisions of Judges, and it is quite clear that Judges cannot be removed because of mistakes of law. Judge Humphreys having concluded that the attorney was compelled, under his oath, to divulge the name of his client, and the witness having, notwithstanding such opinion of the court, declined to do so, Judge Humphreys could only impose some punishment upon the recalcitrant witness, and the amount of such punishment was in his discretion.

The eighth instance of "arbitrary and tyrannical conduct" is the one upon which the complainants lay the most stress. It refers to the imposition by Judge Humphreys of a punishment of thirty days in jail upon three members of his court. It appears that the three members in question were attorneys in a case pending in the Circuit Court, and were of opinion that by reason of a personal animus, Judge Humphreys was disqualified from sitting as the trial judge. In support of a motion to transfer the case to another judge, they submitted an affidavit which contained insulting language, which was wholly unnecessary, and plainly in contempt of court. The court felt obliged to vindicate its dignity by the imposition of the sentence in question, but the sentence was never carried into effect, as the Governor of Hawaii pardoned the three members on the bar on the same day. The records do not show that the Judge was animated by improper motives, or that the imposition of this sentence was an intentional abuse of the discretion imposed in him.

The fifth charge is that Judge Humphreys has performed the duties of his office as to taking the same disrespectfully into public view and under public suspicion.

This charge is sought to be established by proofs that Judge Humphreys, in the first place, appointed an unfit person as bailiff in his court. This charge is sought to be established by proofs that Judge Humphreys, in the first place, appointed an unfit person as bailiff in his court. This charge is sought to be established by proofs that Judge Humphreys, in the first place, appointed an unfit person as bailiff in his court.

There is not a scintilla of testimony to show that Judge Humphreys had intended to do with the selection of the grand jury. There is no law that requires a grand jury to be divided between members of the different political parties, and to hold inquiry into the political affiliations of its members. That the charges are based so entirely upon vague suspicion and unfair innuendo as to merit rebuke. Members of the bar, as officers of the court, should be loyal to the court. Where there is a fair reason for believing the Judge is acting improperly, it is the duty of the bar to declare it openly; but a member of the bar is faithless to his high calling when he assails a Judge and impeaches his integrity upon no facts, even remotely justifying the attack, but upon vague suspicion and unfair innuendo. That these and many of the charges of his court have not observed that loyalty to the bench which should be both the duty and the pleasure of a lawyer to observe, and the heavy responsibility of administering justice with dignity under such conditions at once becomes apparent.

I have thus reviewed all of the charges made against Judge Humphreys and all of the specifications offered in support thereof. In my judgment, they wholly fail to establish any just cause for his removal. In the most unfavorable construction they might show a mistake of judgment, or at times undue feeling under trying circumstances, but it is not material that the integrity of the Judge is never directly impeached. The attorney who represented the Hawaiian Bar Association in these proceedings expressed his personal confidence in Judge Humphreys' judicial rectitude, and while presenting the complaint of the Bar Association in good faith and in accordance with his instructions, yet he personally disclaimed any responsibility for or co-operation in some of the charges. It is possible that many of the attorneys who signed the petition did not concur in all of the charges that have been made against the Circuit Judge. Indeed, it is probable that they would, as I have shown that some of them are based upon such insufficient premises as to fairly justify the comment that they are reckless in spirit.

In administering justice in our new possessions, the task will not be an easy one; and where Judges selected by you discharge their duties with courage and integrity and with reasonable ability, they should be sustained, even though they may in attempting to solve the difficult problems which present themselves at times, some consideration must be had for the exceptional difficulty of their position. Having fully considered the complaints against Judge Humphreys and his answer thereto, I am entirely satisfied that not only the Judge has done nothing which would justify his removal, but that he has met his heavy responsibilities with great courage and unquestioned integrity. I, therefore, recommend that the petition for his removal be denied.

Respectfully,
(Signed) P. C. KNOX.

ARIZONA BEET SUGAR

Phoenix, A. T., Sept. 16.—Phoenix will probably have a $1,000,000 beet sugar plant in less than a year, to be constructed by the Eastern Sugar Co. of New York and Chicago. An agent of that corporation, Marshall E. Sampson of Chicago, is here with a view of securing signatures to a contract binding business men and farmers of this section to support the enterprise, and if he is successful the construction of the plant will be begun at once. It will be completed early in June in time to reduce the next crop of beets. Sampson asks that the people here give a bonus of 2000 acres of land, or its equivalent in cash. He declares that the company represented by him makes the financial interest of the people in the enterprise, thus insuring their hearty co-operation and the success of the sugar beet plant. He believes that the company might accept a tender of 1500 acres of beet land, but it will require an agreement on the part of the farmers to plant for this season 5000 acres of beets.

THAT BARGE RACE.

The action of the Judges of Regatta Day at the meeting yesterday has caused surprise in many quarters. The Judges have forced the two clubs to race by declaring the senior barge event no race and calling on them to be at the scratch at a certain time a week from tomorrow, if a new crew not present on time will be decided forever thereafter, and if there is one crew present, the race will be awarded to that crew. The public want to see the race rowed over again in order that the supremacy of one crew or the other may be definitely settled. The Judges have absolute power in the matter and there are many Myrtles who, rather than see the race go by default, would like to see it rowed over again.

Several newsboys selling San Francisco papers on the streets were arrested this morning for being absent from school. At the police station, they were given a good sound lecture by the captain in charge and told that, on Monday next, a vigorous campaign against boys who sell papers during school hours, would begin. They were then allowed to go.

NATION'S LEADER BORNE TENDERLY TO HIS LAST REST

Washington, Sept. 17.—All that is mortal of William McKinley is speeding toward its last earthly resting place at his home in Canton, after the Nation has officially and with state ceremony paid its tribute of respect and love to the memory of its dead Chief Magistrate. This was almost the last act in the tragedy which has caused the civilized world to mourn. Beneath the great white dome of the Capitol funeral services of state were held today over the remains of the dead President. It was eminently fitting that the services should be conducted in that beautiful rotunda, hallowed by the memory of the last services for two other victims of an assassin's bullet.

As befitted the occasion and the character of the man whose remains were lying cold and rigid in the narrow embrace of the metallic casket, the services were simple. They were conducted in accordance with the rites of the Methodist church, of which President McKinley was a lifelong member. Consisting only of two hymns, a song, a prayer, an address and a benediction, they were beautiful and solemnly impressive. Gathered around the bier were representatives of every phase of American life, including the President and the only surviving ex-President of the United States, together with the representatives of almost every nation of the earth. Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Spain and all the republics to the southward of the United States mingled their tears with those of the American people.

Despite the fact that no attempt had been made to decorate the interior of the rotunda beyond the arrangements made about the catafalque, the assemblage presented a memorable sight. The somber black of the attire of the hundreds of civilians present was splashed brilliantly with the gold of the representatives of the Army and Navy and the court costumes of the diplomatic corps.

As the sweet notes of Mr. McKinley's favorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," floated through the great rotunda the assemblage rose. Bared heads were bowed and many eyes streamed with tears. At the conclusion of the hymn, as Rev. Dr. Naylor, presiding elder of the Washington circuit, rose to offer the prayer a solemn hush fell upon the people. When, in conclusion, he repeated the Lord's Prayer, the great audience joined with him.

Scarcely had the word "amen" been uttered when the liquid tone of that sweetly pleading song, "Sometimes We'll Understand," went straight to the heart of every auditor. The solo was sung by Mrs. Thomas C. Noyes of this city, and the refrain was echoed and re-echoed by the double quartet choir.

The venerable Bishop Edwin G. Andrews, the oldest Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, then took his position at the head of the bier. A gentle breeze through the rotunda stirred the delicate blooms which lay upon the coffin, and the "peace that passeth understanding" seemed to rest upon the venerable man's countenance as he began his eulogy of the life and works of William McKinley. His words were simple, but his whole heart was in every one of them. His tribute to the Christian fortitude of the dead President was impressive. Upon the conclusion of the sermon the audience, as if by prearrangement, joined the choir in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee." All present seemed to be imbued with a sentiment of hallowed resignation as the divine blessing was asked by Rev. W. H. Chapman upon living and dead.

Mrs. McKinley did not attend the services at the Capitol. It was deemed wise by those nearest and dearest to her that she should not undergo the ordeal. She remained at the White House, comforted by every attention that loving thoughtfulness could suggest. Arrangements for the movement of the funeral cortege from the White House to the Capitol were completed last night, after the remains of the President had been deposited in the East room of the mansion. Yesterday was a perfect autumn day, but this morning dawned gray and dreary. The sky was overcast with low, flying clouds. Nature seemed to be in mourning for the Nation's dead. As the hours passed dashes of rain fell at intervals, but despite the discomfort tens of thousands of sorrowing people appeared early upon the streets. Both sides of Pennsylvania avenue from the White House to the Capitol were massed with an impenetrable crowd of people wishing in this way to pay final tribute of love and respect to the dead. As the funeral cortege, escorted by troops representing every department of the Nation's martial service and by representatives of religious and civic organizations, passed down the broad thoroughfare to the solemn notes of the dead marches wailed by the bands, the sorrowing people bared their heads despite the rain, and the many tear-stained faces bespoke their grief more eloquently than words.

It was a solemn throng. With aching hearts all remembered that only a few months ago the dead President, then in the fullness of life and triumph had passed along that same thoroughfare to be inaugurated a second time as President. The flags that had fluttered greetings to him in March were furled and craped bedecked in September. The cheers of spring became the sobs of autumn. As with solemn tread the procession moved down the avenue the people recognized as one of the mourners their former President, Grover Cleveland, who had come to pay his tribute to his successor. They recognized, too, their new President, upon whom the responsibilities of Chief Executive had been thrust so unexpectedly. With silent salute they greeted him, and with them he mingled his tears in sorrow for the dead.

Among the hundreds of other distinguished persons who were in attendance upon the funeral services were Governor Gregory of Rhode Island, Governor Yates of Illinois, Governor Hill of Maine, Governor Crane of Massachusetts, Governor Aycock of North Carolina, Governor White of West Virginia, Governor Stickney of Vermont and Governor Voorhees of New Jersey. Colonel Stone represented the Governor of California. The diplomatic corps was represented in part as follows: Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Minister; Mr. Takahira, Japanese Minister; Senor Calvo, Costa Rican Minister; Mr. Aspiror, the Mexican Ambassador; Cheikh Bey, the Turkish Minister; Mr. Leger, Haytian Minister; Gerard Lowther, charge d'Affaires of the British Embassy, whom King Edward has specially commissioned to participate in the services as his personal representative; Captain Louis Bailey of the Royal Navy, who represented the British Embassy; M. de Margerie, Charge d'Affaires of the French Embassy, who was designated by President Loubet to act as his personal representative at the obsequies of the President; Senor Pulido, Venezuelan Charge d'Affaires; Mr. Brun, Danish Minister; Santo Thyro, Portuguese Minister; Duke de Arco, Spanish Minister, and Mr. Garp, Swedish Minister.

Among others present were Chief Justice Fuller and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court Brewer, White, Gray and Brown; Senators Hanna and Foraker of Ohio, Allison and Dooliver of Iowa, Clapp and Nelson of Minnesota, Cullom and Mason of Illinois, Platt and Depew of New York, Mallory of Florida, Tillman of South Carolina, Gallinger of New Hampshire, Platt of Connecticut, Fairbanks of Indiana, Frye of Maine, Spooner of Wisconsin, McCumber of North Dakota and Daniel of Virginia; many Representatives, including Long of Kansas, Henderson of Iowa and Richardson of Tennessee; all the members of the Cabinet, Assistant Secretary of the War Sanger, and many other prominent department officials; Admiral Dewey, Rear Admirals Schley, Melville, Ramsay, Evans and Crowninshield; General John R. Brooke, commander of the Department of the East; General Fitzhugh Lee and many other distinguished officers of the Army and Navy; former Senator Gorman of Maryland, George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the late President; former Secretary of War Alger, former Attorney General Briggs, J. Pierpont Morgan of New York and John Kasson.

At the conclusion of the funeral services in the rotunda the casket lid was removed in order that the immediate friends of the dead President might be afforded the comfort of a last glance at his features, and that the people might pass the bier for the same purpose. At 12:30 the crowds began to pass through the rotunda, and during the six hours in which the body was lying in state it is estimated that 55,000 people viewed the remains.

Just at 1 o'clock a frightful calamity was narrowly averted at the east front of the Capitol. For hours the vast throng of people had been massed in front of the Capitol awaiting an opportunity to enter the rotunda. When the doors were opened tens of thousands of people rushed almost frantically to the main staircase. The police and military guards were swept aside, and almost in a twinkling there was a tremendous crush at the foot of the great staircase. The immense throng swept backward and forward like the surging of a mighty sea. Women and children, a few of the latter babes in arms, were caught in the crowd and many were badly hurt. Strong men held children and even women high above the heads of the surging crowd to protect them from bodily harm.

Despite the efforts of the police and military and cooler heads in the throng, approximately a hundred people were injured. Some of the more seriously hurt were carried into the rotunda and into various adjoining apartments of the Capitol where fresh air treatment was given them. Many were hurried to the hospitals in ambulances, but the majority were taken subsequently to their homes. After the crush had abated upon the staircase, on the plaza immediately in front of it were found tattered pieces of men's and women's wearing apparel of all kinds, crushed hats, gloves, and even satchels, watches, pocket books, keys and knives were picked up.

When the casket containing the remains of the dead President was finally closed forever from the view of the Washington people, the cavalry escort was again formed and conveyed it to the special train, which is now carrying the body to Canton.

The magnificent display of floral offerings, numbering no less than 125 pieces and making the most remarkable floral tribute ever seen here, were taken to the station from the Capitol in carriages and wagons, and there placed aboard a special car which had been provided for them. Three trains, comprising in all twenty passenger coaches, were necessary to accommodate all those who accepted invitations to make the journey to Canton.

LAST TRIBUTES OF FELLOW TOWNSMEN Canton, O., Sept. 19.—The mortal remains of President McKinley are at rest. For six days and through hundreds of miles a sorrowing nation has followed his body. The first looks have been taken, the last farewells have been said. The last salute to a dead President has echoed above his head. His body lies for the moment in the little cemetery of Canton, guarded by soldiers of the flag he loved so well, until it shall be placed beside the mortal remains of those who passed out before him. There the people who loved and honored him will raise a monument to his name and make his grave a shrine.

But his highest monument must ever remain in the hearts of his countrymen. A mourning people raises its head from the dust and goes forward, encouraged and guided by the life as lived. There is one heart that knows no surcease of sorrow. His widow lies prostrate. Tributes of city, State and Nation, increase burned to his memory by the millions who mourn, but accentuate her plight. He was much, he was a hero, and he is gone. Because of broken health she was denied the widow's last and most sacred privilege of following her dear one to the grave.

In the little house whither the American people were wont to throng, bearing garlands of admiration and confidence and heaping honors upon him, she sits alone, and fights with her grief. Ten times on thousand have come and gone this day in sympathetic expression between her and them. Tomorrow they will resume their accustomed duties and the world will go on, its load lightened by new interests. The President was; another President is. But the husband who has gone is not renewed.

The dead President went to his grave attended by all the tributes that love and honor could bestow. At Buffalo and Washington and through hundreds of miles of mountains and valleys between the people of his country had been given their opportunity to participate in his last march. This day in Canton was reserved for his family and friends. But it could not be so. The people of this whole city and State and of the Nation, were his friends and they would not be denied.

No more impressive cortege ever escorted King or Emperor to the last home than that one which followed William McKinley's body to the tomb. No great historic father of a people was ever surrounded by more evidences of devotion.

The flag of his country was his pall. The Nation was chief mourner. Men who have won the highest prizes life can give in varied walks were glad to walk in his funeral train. And with them walked the men and women who daily bread and earn neither more nor morning to thank God for having given them William McKinley. The new President was near the head of the funeral line and with him the representatives of the highest departments of the Government. The Army and Navy, representing the Nation's strength, walked beside the bier. Governors of a dozen States took their places as citizens in the funeral parade. Ministers of all denominations laid aside their credal differences to sit beside the catafalque and unite in prayer for the repose of one whose religion was truth and love for his fellows.

From ocean to ocean came men and women bringing the choicest flowers of luxury and the common ornaments of cottage gardens to decorate his long home. From every corner of the globe gifts were sent to the Nation and thousands of tens of thousands came from shop and farm and factory to look and pray and even fight for a last look at his face and then to stand in patient silence while his body was carried by them.

And all was in honor of William McKinley, the man, without whose virtues William McKinley, the President, would have been impossible. And when the last notes of the dead march died away, and the curtain was drawn on the earthly career of William McKinley, the bugle sang "Taps" in good-by to the soldier who had ridden the good fight.

The final scenes at the First Methodist Church, where the funeral service was held, and at the beautiful Westlawn Cemetery, where the body was consigned to a vault, were simple and impressive. The service at the church consisted of a brief oration, prayers by the ministers of three denominations and singing by a quartet. The body was taken to the Westlawn Cemetery and placed in a recessed vault, pending the time when it will be finally laid to rest beside the dead children who were buried years ago. The funeral procession was very imposing, and included not only the representatives of the Army and Navy and the United States Marine Corps, but military strength of the State of Ohio and hundreds of civic, fraternal and other organizations. It was two miles long.

The people lined the streets in dense masses and every window along the route framed sad faces, while houses and fences were crowded with mourners. The people waited from before noon till nearly night to pay their last token of respect to the dead. It was a fitting farewell to a man who spent his life in the people's service.

doors, was shrouded in the same somber fabric; graceful black streamers, festooned along the arches of the nave, formed a black canopy about the casket, from this, directly above the low, flag-covered catafalque on which the casket was to rest, hung a beautiful silk flag, its red and white folds tied midway with a band of crape.

But it was the floral display at the front of the church which filled the whole edifice with glory. The center of all was a great wreath of American beauty roses, framing a black-bordered portrait of President McKinley. From it, extending outward and upward, was a perfect wealth of gorgeous blossoms. The effect was as if a great rushing wave of color had broken into flowers at the foot of the bier. Just extended up even to the organ pipes, against which lay four wreaths, three broken as if to represent the quarters of the moon. It was exquisite. Purple and green were the dominant shades—orchids, violets, palms and evergreens. Against the somber background were many handsome pieces. Against the walls on either side were floral signs and upon the pulpit rested an urn in white carnations, broset at the base to represent the water flowing from it. At either side of this urn was the cross of the Knights Templar and the cross of the Knights of Pythias, while to the east was the square and compass of Masonry. Almost directly above the support for the coffin a sunburst of lights glittered like stars in a black sky. The light from within came dimly through the stained-glass windows. Under the folds of the stately banners of the Knights of the flowers blowing all about the strains of Beethoven's grand funeral march pulsing from the organ, the body bearers gently lowered the coffin to its support.

The members of the Loyal Legion, Governor Nash, Governor McMillin of Tennessee, and Governor Longino of Mississippi, each with his full uniform, had already entered the church from the west entrance and filled the most westerly section of pews. The members of the Senate and House of Representatives had preceded the coffin through the door the side of the chancel through which it entered. They were ushered in, as at all state ceremonials, by the sergeant at arms of each body. Senators Allison of Iowa and Bate of Tennessee headed the Senatorial representatives, of whom there were about forty, and Speaker Henderson and Representative Dalzell the members of the House, of whom more than half must have been present.

The Congressional party filled up the entire west section of pews, and the rear half of the two central sections. The local clergymen occupied the seats below the organ usually occupied by the choir. All had risen as the coffin was borne in. The Generals and Admirals of the Army and Navy who comprised the guard of honor, in their resplendent uniforms, occupied the first pew on either side of the center aisle.

President Roosevelt and the Cabinet came slowly after the casket. All were in black and wore black gloves. The President alone wore an overcoat. He took his place immediately behind Lieutenant General Miles, next to the center aisle. So close was he to the casket that he could almost have leaned over and touched it. Secretary Cortelyou, Justice McKenna of the Supreme Court, John G. Milburn and John N. Scaticher of Buffalo and several others took seats immediately in the rear of the Cabinet. Then followed the mourning relatives, who occupied the pews on the left of the center aisle. Mr. and Mrs. Abner McKinley led the way, followed by the other immediate relatives, Senator and Mrs. Fairbanks, Controller and Mrs. Dawes, Colonel and Mrs. Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland and a few other close and personal relatives. The fourth pew from the front, that at ways occupied by President McKinley, was draped in black, and remained vacant.

After these had been seated the door leading into the Sunday school was opened and the seats arranged below, as well as those in the balcony, were soon filled with the representatives of various organizations and the fellow townsmen of the late President. conspicuous among these were the survivors of the Twenty-third Ohio, President McKinley's old regiment, who brought into the church the tattered battle flags the regiment had carried through the Civil War.

It was after 9 o'clock when the quartet arose and lifted up voices with the touching words of "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." When the sound of the last line had died away Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in which President and Mrs. McKinley were married thirty years ago, offered a fervent prayer. Every knee in the church bent in solemn reverence as the invocation went up.

Dr. John A. Wall, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, then read from the Bible the Nineteenth Psalm, and Rev. E. P. Herrbeck verses 41-55 of the twenty-fifth chapter of First Corinthians. The quartet then sang Cardinal Newman's grand hymn, the beautiful words floating through the air: "Lead, thou kindly light, amid the encircling gloom; Lead thee to me; On the night is dark and I am far from thee; Lead thou me on. Lead thou me on. Dr. C. E. Manchester then delivered an address on the life of the late President and the lessons taught by his noble character and death.

Bishop I. W. Joyce of Minneapolis followed with a brief prayer and the service was concluded with the singing of the hymn which President McKinley repeated on his deathbed, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The entire congregation arose and joined in the last stanza. Father Voltman of Chicago, chaplain of the Twenty-third Regiment, pronounced the benediction. The choir of the organ again arose. The casket was taken up and borne to the church. The relatives and those in official life went out in the order they had entered.

It was after 3 o'clock when the silent and anxious throng outside the church saw the solemn pageant reappear through the church doors. First came the guard of military and naval honor, the Generals and Admirals forming in double line heading from the entrance to the waiting hearse. Again the flag-draped casket with its wealth of flowers appeared and was led and borne to the hearse. The President and members of the Cabinet followed arm-in-arm and stepped into the waiting carriages. The relatives and separate line of troopers broke from their battalion front, and wheeling into platoons, took up the march to the grave. In the long line of carriages were United States Senators and members of every section of the country, justices of the United States

THEIR SILENT TRIBUTE BUSINESS CENTERS STOPPED TO MOURN

While Their Beloved President Was Carried to the Grave-- Five Minutes of Complete Quiet.

New York, Sept. 19.—All business, except work of necessity, was suspended in this city today in respect to the memory of President McKinley, and the day of mourning was observed by persons of all religions. In all churches, and in the synagogues, special services were held and public meetings were held at various places, at which addresses were made eulogistic of the life and public services of the dead President. In marked contrast to the ordinary holiday here, all sporting events scheduled for today were either abandoned or postponed. The public golf links in the parks were closed.

In addition to the closing of stores, banks and other places of business, all street car and railroad traffic stopped for a period of five minutes at the time the funeral services were to begin at Canton. At the time set for the removal of the late President's remains to the cemetery, the Commercial Cable Company's cables and land lines in America, England, Ireland, Scotland, France and the Azores, telegrams were silent for five minutes. The lines of the Postal Telegraph Company observed the same ceremony, and the leased-wire system of the Associated Press also suspended. The Western Union Telegraph Company observed holiday hours throughout its entire system and all signaling on the international cables and lines of the Western Union Telegraph Company's central office was suspended, every instrument being silenced for five minutes.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—The noises of a great city were hushed for five minutes today, while mourning thousands paid their tribute to the memory of William McKinley. The silence was broken only by bells tolling of the fifty-eight illustrious years of the dead President's life, or voices raised in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," or "Lead, Kindly Light."

The demonstration took place during the afternoon and was timed to be in unison with the last rites at Canton. The parade came to a respectful standstill at 2:20 o'clock. Street car traffic suddenly ceased and pedestrians halted on the sidewalks. The funeral procession started at 2 p. m. In it was the carriage in which the President two years ago rode through the streets of Chicago, bowing and smiling to the applauding people. The same bay horses which drew him then drew the vehicle today, empty save for the flowers which rested in it. Over it was flung a flag, under which the late President had marched in times of triumph in Washington, in Canton and in Chicago. The procession, in which there were from 20,000 to 25,000 men, was led by General Joseph Stockton, who was marshal of the memorial parade following Garfield's death.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The city gave evidence in most impressive manner that its heart was with Canton in the solemn hour of President McKinley's funeral. At exactly 2:30 o'clock (1:30 in Canton), the city ceased from labor, practically from locomotion, for five minutes. There was no official proclamation requiring such observance of the funeral hour, nor had there been any general agreement for such observance. But when the hour came, as if by common instinct, men, women and children, white and black, came to a sudden halt in whatsoever they were engaged in, or stood as still as statues wherever they chanced to be.

Street car traffic was suspended, and the cars with their passengers engaged in a silent service, which caused spectators to look on as if it were the hour of being newly born. Telegraph instruments, typewriters, elevators, indeed, all the appurtenances of business throughout the capital, were for the time noiseless and the great city was as quiet as a midnight.

Supreme Court, the ranking heads of the Army and Navy, Governors of States and Mayors of cities and the dead President's fellow-townsmen.

MCKINLEY'S DOCTORS ISSUE A STATEMENT Buffalo, Sept. 17.—The following statement was given out tonight by the physicians who attended President McKinley during his last illness: "The undersigned surgeons and physicians, who were in attendance on the late President McKinley, have had their attention called to certain sensational statements recently published, indicating dissensions and recrimination among them. "We desire to say to the press and public, once for all, that every such publication and all alleged interviews with any of us containing criticism of one another, or of any of our associates, are false. "We say again that there was never a serious disagreement among the professional attendants as to any of the symptoms or as to the treatment of the case, or as to the bulletins which were issued. A very unusual harmony of opinion and action prevailed all through the case. "The unfortunate result could not have been foreseen beyond the unfavorable symptoms declared themselves late on the sixth day, and could not have been prevented by any human agency. "Pending the completion and publication of the official reports of the post-mortem examiners and attending staff we shall refuse to make any further statements for publication, and alleged interviews with any of us may be known to be fictitious. "MATTHEW D. MANN, "HELMER M. MYNTER, "EUGENE WASHIN, "CHARLES G. STOCKTON."

NOTICE TO TEACHERS. The Department of Education has sent out the following circulars to the teachers of the Territory: "Considerable confusion has been caused, and this Department has been subjected to no little annoyance by the practice of some teachers admitting pupils to their schools who had not been properly released from the schools they formerly attended. "The provisions of the law on this subject are very plain and explicit. They are found on pages 444 and 445 of the Penal Laws, published in 1897, and also in the school law, Sections 33, 42 and 43, with which all teachers should be familiar. It is expected, therefore, that the following will be carefully read and faithfully followed by all concerned."

The circular then quotes the sections of the law relating to truancy, the requirements that a complete register of pupils shall be kept by each teacher, and to admitting pupils to a school without a certificate of release from the last school attended. The penal section of the law is as follows: "The teacher of any such school who shall violate any of the provisions of this or of the foregoing section shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not exceeding $10 for each offense.

PACIFIC UNION OIL CO.

Located in the Famous Coalinga Oil Fields of California. Proven oil lands, completely surrounded by as rich oil-producing wells as there are in the State, yielding from 50 to 250 barrels per day.

Contract prices for oil at the Coalinga wells, 70 cents per barrel. With twenty-five producing wells of 100 barrels each per day, you can make your own calculation as to profits.

The oil industry of California is in infancy yet many fortunes have been made by judicious and lucky investments in oil stock. Many more will be made in the near future.

The average advance on original sales of oil stock in twenty leading companies in California has been from $1 to $108 per share.

Oil lands have advanced from $1.25 to $1,000 and $2,000 per acre. When the Pacific Union Oil Company has a number of producing wells on its property, its stock will have the same show for even a greater advance, as some oil stock has advanced from $1 to $1,500 per share.

The Pacific Union Oil Company has no salaried officers, and is controlled by well-known gentlemen of integrity who will see that the money derived from the sale of stock will be legitimately applied to the development of its property.

THE NEW PRESIDENT BEGINS HIS WORK

Washington, Sept. 26.—After a suspension of three days as a mark of respect to the dead President the business of the Government at Washington resumed at 9 a. m. today.

When the new Chief Executive reached the White House he walked briskly to the big door which swung wide open to admit him.

Secretary Long informed the President as to the condition of affairs in his office and was asked as to the work of the Schley court of inquiry.

At 11 o'clock all the members of the Cabinet had arrived at the White House and soon were seated around the familiar table.

Nearly all the members of the present Cabinet are quite sure to remain during Mr. Roosevelt's term, but it is very probable that Secretary Long will retire within the next few months.

Members subsequently expressed themselves as having full confidence in Mr. Roosevelt's ability to give the country a strong and conservative administration.

Those Professors: First College Professor—What are you going to do next to get your name in the papers?

Second College Professor—I was thinking of declaring that the dictionary is too wordy to be considered good literature.

AGAINST MOB RULE. Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 26.—Speaking in the McKinley memorial exercises here, ex-Vice President Stevenson said:

"It avails little to hurl denunciations against the head of this assassin. Within a few days at most he will, under the forms of law, suffer the dread penalty for his crime. It is but cheap courage at best whether from the street or from the pulpit for any man to declare that had he been present he gladly would have been the avenger.

Such teaching is a menace to the well-being of society. It may be that the temptation is often great to take the law into our own hands. But let it not be forgotten that by so doing we weaken the bonds of society. Mob rule is destructive of all government."

Defendant was arrested by Sam Macy, his being the first man the back inspector has landed at the police station in years.

TRANSPORT DATES. San Francisco, Sept. 18.—General Log of the Army Quartermaster's office announced yesterday the following probable sailing of transports: Hancock, October 9; Thomas, October 16; Kilpatrick, November 1st; Meade, November 16th. If an early settlement of the strike permits repairs on the Sherman and Logan being completed before the last two dates mentioned, they can be substituted in place of the Kilpatrick and Meade.

PAUL IAENBRG BUMPS. San Francisco, Sept. 18.—Advices were received by the Merchants' Exchange that the German bark Paul Ienbrg, from Portland for Queens-town, had a narrow escape from destruction. The vessel went ashore at the entrance to the harbor at Queenstown during a gale. Assistance was sent, and the bark was finally floated and taken inside the harbor.

FAMOUS REDFERN CORSETS.

But if there was any one thing that I was more glad to see than all the rest it was a sign of the famous Redfern Corsets—the first shipment to the Hawaiian Islands. I wore one once and ever since I have looked back to that time of comfort with infinite longing.

Why, even the first time you put it on it's as easy as the proverbial old shoe. It yields to every motion of the body and never breaks at the hips. And yet it is always as stylish as were the gowns of the man whose name it bears. I am told that it will sell at three dollars, which is exactly what you pay in San Francisco.

Many other things I saw in my trip through this well-kept store—Long Cloths, India Linens and Victoria Lawns, sheer and fine; delicate Swisses, Wash Gifflons and Organdies, exquisite Altoners, Tuckings, and Embroideries, Arabian and Valenciennes Laces, rich Silks and Ribbons; but of these perhaps I will tell you more in another letter. ART DE LA MODE

The Latest Fancies from the Fashion Centres.

Preparations for the Holidays

WITH A VIEW to finding out what preparations our merchants are making for the holidays, and of seeing what new things are arriving from the world of fashion, I visited the store of Whitney & Marsh the other day. I was greeted very pleasantly by the courteous head of the firm, who has but lately returned from the Mainland, and who chatted very interestingly about his trip.

When I asked him to show me some of the new and pretty things he had bought, he said that he had bought a great many. "Why, there are so many that I scarcely know where to begin; but the special item we are showing this week is these: KENBINGTON ART DRAWINGS.

There they were—a table piled full of them, in a wondrous variety of colors, double and single face, embracing Grecian Heraldic, Egyptian and Arabesque designs. There were also Art Denims in pretty, plain shades, and bright-colored. Silkoines, and beautiful Cretonnes. If it ever happens that any one asks me to help him in furnishing a house, I shall at least have some ideas for making curtains and portieres, and couch covers.

LADIES' BELTS AND BUCKLES. Just to the right of the Draperies, I saw, hung over the counter about a hundred of the newest belts with some of the prettiest buckles I have ever seen. This is a new double buckle which allows both ends of the belt to drop, giving the fashionable, long-waisted effect to the wearer. This buckle is readily removable, and when the belt is worn out the buckle may be kept and attached to a new belt.

COMB AND HAIR ORNAMENTS. In these I saw the most recent combs, and many are the new ideas that the makers have put forth in Pompadour, Side and Back Combs, Fourteen, Straight and Curved Hair Ornaments. The imitations of shells are very clever and of course don't cost anything like the genuine article.

LEATHER GOODS. The store's assortment of Purses, Chatelaines, Shopping Bags and Cases is excellent, and the prices lower than I have ever seen them. I know that that department will have a rush of business as Holiday time approaches.

WASH GOODS. But the Wash Goods section! How I could rave over the pretty things I saw there! You have the prettiest Wash Goods here I ever saw, and I have traveled a good bit of the world. I am told that there is a great demand now for Chambrays and Linen Gifflons and Silk Gifflons, and Madras Tissues and Pinafores Zephyrs. The plain colors—ox-blood and light blue chiefly—are the most popular, but there is also a steady demand for stripes and for stripes with small figures worked in between.

Unquestionably the most popular tie nowadays both for men and women is the new Four-in-Hand known as the "Derby." This tie goes well with the high band-turn-over collar, its narrow width allowing it to be tied in a four-in-hand knot even where the outside edges of the turndown collar are not too far apart. Nevertheless the popularity of the Derby and Button-fly ties does not seem to wane, and there is also a fair share of Clubs, Tecks and Windsor worn. I noticed a number of ties in the Regatta colors—Myrtle and Healan—which I was told were to be sold at a low price. This low price will be appreciated, as one doesn't always feel like paying 75c or a dollar for a tie which is worth little more than one day in a year.

AMERICAN LINENS. Many of us have lived all our lives without ever having seen a scrap of linen of American manufacture. I saw some in Whitney & Marsh's basement salesroom, and it was beautiful. You couldn't tell it from English Linen, and if you could then I am, in the language of an esteemed contemporary of mine, a fringed doylee serving as a mat for a bottle of Worcester-shire Sauce. There are doilies of American linen and Table Cloths, too, and Napkins, and several kinds of towels. I shall be interested to know how these goods are received here.

FAMOUS REDFERN CORSETS. But if there was any one thing that I was more glad to see than all the rest it was a sign of the famous Redfern Corsets—the first shipment to the Hawaiian Islands. I wore one once and ever since I have looked back to that time of comfort with infinite longing. Why, even the first time you put it on it's as easy as the proverbial old shoe.
