The Future of Chinese Trade

"China is no longer to be regarded as a curiosity," was a remark recently made by Prince Chen, the special ambassador representing the Emperor of China at the Coronation ceremony. Like many other foreigners in the home country, he fell a ready victim to the wary journalist and in a brief interview gave his views on the future of Chinese trade. Having regard to the fact, that he is in the immediate circle of the Imperial Court, the second cousin to the Emperor, and the son of Prince Ching, of the Chinese Foreign Office considerable weight and importance is attached to his remarks, and this coupled with the fact that at the present time great interest is being centered on China by reason of the revision of the tariff his news upon the future trade of the country call for more than a passing remark. "China is no longer to be regarded as a curiosity,"—a sentiment not unfrequently expressed, and having a tendency to bring more prominently before the notice of the world the great and all important fact that the unknown Empire of China, still lying dormant as it has laid for thousands of years, is possessed of an embryo capable of development into a power that could dominate the markets of the world. Admitting that the hitherto unfathomable traits of Chinese character are slowly broadening out and that the light of Western influence is gradually shining on the Empire, one must consider the direction in which the Occident will benefit the Orient, and must of necessity take into account the advantages that should accrue to the West from her intercourse with the East. The problem undoubtedly lies in the direction of commercial development, and from the little that is known regarding the possibilities of the expansion of trade it is acknowledged that England should continue to take the lead in the opening up of the Chinese Empire. In the words of Prince Chen, "England should be the principal factor in the future development of China," at all events so far as commercial expansion is concerned. The relations of Great Britain and China appear to be most friendly, and as the influence of the West is evidently being welcomed by the East there is no reason why England should not strive by special effort to secure the Chinese trade, of which at present she already commands by far the greater part. Other nations are creeping in with slow and certain step, and unless the pushfulness of Britain is exhibited to a greater extent the country may stand every chance of losing much of that trade she already commands, and, with it, her prestige in the East. His Imperial Highness opines that influences are distinctly favourable to British enterprise as its goods commend themselves, and by honest and fair dealing the British merchant has secured a deservedly high reputation. With the opening up of railways, and better facilities for coast and internal transport the resources of the Empire could be developed to great advantage and, according to His Imperial Highness, the trade of the country would become four hundred times greater than at the present time. The First Local Mint.

One of the institutions here which has the special attention of tourists as well as the local people is the Mint, which is established on Nuuanu street, opposite Queen Emma Hall. It is interesting to enter the large main working room where general manager McDonough and his corps of assistants are at work. The cool and large lanai is a proper resting place and the vaults, where the "bars" to be minted and beer are kept present a very tasty spectacle. The Mint is open from 5:30 a. m. to 11:30 p. m. and during those hours the work never ceases. Visitors after looking over the place will find first class refreshments and the purest of liquors.

SPREAD THE GOSPEL.

We noticed that the Hilo Tribune has assisted some of its Honolulu contemporaries in spreading broadcast a speech supposed to have been made by Prince Cupid at the recent Territorial Republican Convention. The following is the purported speech:

"I am a Republican from top to bottom. It only needs your cordial support to make the Republican party victorious. I preach unity to my people and I am now a Republican and I will try to prove to my people that we can do some good at Washington. When I left the Home Rulers I had a following and I believe we will have their support because they are my followers now. I have studied the question out, and decided to become a Republican and as I said before a Republican from top to bottom."

Being ourselves present at the convention, we utterly failed to hear the above purported speech other than the declaration that he was "a Republican from top to bottom," which he thrice repeated. The rest was an unintelligible muttering which we failed to understand as well as others there present. But the reporters made the rest out for him.

Another speech of few words was also made by the princely candidate which has not been noted by our contemporaries, and which should also be sown broadcast. It was a later one and made at the same place and during the same time. He strutted forward with a stoop and a swag and said: "Do you doubt me? Ask me."

Just so! He was not asked further, for they did not doubt his Republicanism, but they should have. They gulped him whole "from top to bottom."

Please bear in mind, he's a man of few words. You'll find out!

And they did, that is, at the Young Men's Republican banner raising rally of last night. Instead of being a man of few words, and declaring that he was not a speech maker, he drew forth from one of his pockets and read an already prepared speech. We just like to know the author of it. This speech was given out in this morning's Advertiser.

But they say that when he spoke in his native tongue, he found expression to extoll both the national parties, giving to both the credit for the franchise and not solely to the Republicans as claimed by those of them here. It is said that it was a stunner and a damper and the Morning Glory coolly put it to one side and says nothing of it.

Still, it must be remembered, the leading candidate is a man of few words and don't let it be forgotten either. He may soon become one of many before this campaign is over.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

The "bad Home Rule omen" of the Bulletin is similar to omens it had at the previous campaign, which did not bear out its prognostications. Had the Home Rulers thought of those "omen" yarns, Republican Hawaiians could have never held any office.

And now it is being hinted that ex-Senator Thurston is to get Haywood's job. Didn't we say so the day he arrived here, that he was after it, in spite of the Advertiser's attempted whitewash denial that he is a prominent Washington attorney with an income from his profession of $100,000 a year. And this also in spite of Judge Estee's uncalled for denial from the bench that he came here solely for health and rest. It may finally turn out that The Independent was better posted than those who attempted to deny our soft accusation.

Just fancy, it took one Mr. Pinkham to propose an unheard of proposition to abridge the people's power by increasing that of our executive, giving him a power unknown to the American constitution, and further, it is a most un-American way of gaining and increasing one man power. We would just like to find out those who put him up to make such an absurd proposition. Yes, those who hid themselves behind him while he has to stand the brunt of abuse and contempt and he shield them. Of course, we can only guess who they are—our merchants, may be, or we are entirely mistaken.

And so A. G. M. Robertson has declined the Republican nomination as a candidate for Representative in the Fourth District in favor of W. W. Harris, "who," he says, "by every sound principle of practical politics, is entitled, at the very least, to the nomination as a candidate for the House of Representatives." His declination is yet to be accepted and they will have to. We wonder whether W. W. Harris will accept it after being below and out of the list of the choicest of them all, and he was beaten by unknown Republicans until the last moment at the eleventh hour. Poor boy; we pity him. But it is understood that the mercantile bodies would like him to stand.

W. W. Harris, spiling at the Republican nominating convention last Monday evening, said that the party ought to work hard and elect men to the next Legislature to repair the damage done the country by the last Legislature. Is that so? But why the last Legislature? Say, young man, don't you think that annexation has got something to do with it, or rather, with our present hard times? Why is the last Legislature solely responsible for our condition of today? Better own up to the truth and shame the Devil.

We understand that Republican Senatorial candidate Isenberg said at the convention that nominated him last Monday evening that if weight was needed, he felt that he was quite capable of holding his end down. For certain, he has all the weight, even against the other two composing the trio. Yes, he surely has all the weight and more too, weight in avoirdupois and matter, weight in mind (perhaps) and weight in esteem, influence and duds. It's all weight and nothing else, and we fear that he'll snap the triangle to smithereens. Hold on, Fatty Paul, your Dutch-American missionary weight may go dead against your Irish-American and Chinese-Hawaiian-American compatriots. Now, go ahead!

Yesterday's Home Rule says that "contemporaneous with the coming of a part of the Commission from the United States Senate, one John M. Thurston appeared in Honolulu and has since devoted himself assiduously in an endeavor to intimidate the Hawaiian voter by insinuating into him the fear that to express preference for a candidate for Delegate to Congress upon either the Democratic or the Independent Home Rule tickets, at the coming election—or, as he more concisely puts it, any candidate other than the nominee of the Republican party, will bring down the wrath of the administration, at Washington, and succeeding disaster to this community." Sure kela! The Independent is of the same way of thinking

A gentleman of the missionary persuasion was asked the other day in a point blank manner what he thought of Line McCandless as a Senatorial candidate. This was before he received the nomination. And the answer given was similar to the following: "Well, Line is a pretty good sort of a fellow, but did you ever know any of the McCandless boys to work for anything without their reaping nothing? Whenever you find any of them working hard for anything, as Line is doing, for he is really a hard working and a saving fellow, he is not doing it for nothing, but for what there is to be made in it. That is their record." This is a corker out of the mouth of a supposed Republican, and it was a surprise to us that it should come straight from the shoulder. We take it from such an answer that he is not trying for the public interest alone, but for something else that he expects to get or to make. Is it so? We shall have to know about it, providing he is elected.

Republican Central Organized.

The Republican Central Committee completed its organization Wednesday night by the selection of the following officers: Senator C L Crabbe, chairman; Col J H Fisher, vice-chairman; A L C Atkinson, secretary; J D Avery, assistant secretary, and Geo R Carter, treasurer. It was decided to hold forth a ratification meeting at the Orpheum tomorrow evening.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Prince Cupid is to be Pitted for Being a Weaking.

ED THE INDEPENDENT:

Prince Cupid by throwing himself into the arms of the Republican party, a party that robbed him of his country, has proved himself to be a mighty small hill of potatoes with only a mighty few in the hill. His miserable and childish act will cause Hawaiians and every right thinking person in this Archipelago, to despise him and at the same time to pity him, as a weaking with about as much force of character as a ten year school boy. Only this and nothing more.

Banner Raising Rally.

Many people gathered at the banner raising rally by the Young Men's Republican Club last evening, opposite the club's rooms on Fort street. It is estimated that there were about 300 people on hand, mostly whites and a mighty few of the browns.

Briefly addressing the crowd, Chairman Andrews introduced Editor Walter G. Smith as the first speaker. He puffed Republicanism and damned Democracy, and he lauded those of the party he is training with as against damned the Home Rulers.

Mr. Smith was followed by S. K. Nawas, a young psalm singer and carpenter who was born on one of the Micronesian Islands. Of course, he is sufficiently endowed with an oratory in our lingo, but his talk fell on shallow ground. He was mainly cheered by the haless unimindful of not understanding him, only to follow suit in the wake of others.

Prince Cupid was the next speaker under the banner that had been raised early. He apologized for not being competent to make an extemporaneous English speech, and he took an already prepared manuscript speech which he read. After reading, he addressed the crowd in the native language. Both speeches were the opposite of one another, so it is reported by those who heard him.

The concluding speakers were Robert W. Spangle, Jonah Kumalae in both languages, William Olepau, a British Columbian born part Indian, and Robt. Rycroft. Lorrin Andrews made a few final remarks and closed the meeting amid yells.

The White Man in China.

In the industrial development of China within the next decade many opportunities for speculation, if not spoliation, are likely to be offered, says Cassier's Magazine, and the treaty ports will be thronged by a crowd of characters that are not likely to do China any good, to increase the Chinaman's respect for foreigners in general, or to reflect credit upon the countries whence they come. Such people belong to that doubtful class of foreigners that even now are so often found hanging on the skirts of rich Chinamen. Extra territoriality is the stock in-trade of this individual; he investigates the treaties and finds he may do this and that; he may open mines, he may go up country, potter about and terrorize the small officials. The Government is bound to give him a passport, and with that and with his Consul's protection he is afraid of no man. If he is punished for a drunken brawl, he will complain to his Consul; his word is always accepted, for he is a noble white man! If the opening up of China is to be heralded by such characters, it is not only a misfortune for the Chinese, but also is certain to be a source of endless trouble for honest and decent foreigners who may come later. It is but natural for the Chinese to judge foreigners by their representatives.

Home Rule Newspaper.

Yesterday's issue of Mrs. R. W. Wilcox's newspaper, the Home Rule, has a strong comment and scoring upon ex-Senator Thurston's "great speech" at the Orpheum. The whole of the title page has a three-column display headings, copiously quoting the ex-Senator's now too well known Orpheum speech. It terms the "great speech" as "the greatest slander upon the United States Congress." This is its first great number during this present campaign. It is quite noticeable that a master hand and mind is at its helm. That "great" effort of the Nebraskan who is fishing for Haywood's job is further called as "a most remarkable and audacious effort to intimidate the Hawaiian voter."

THE INDEPENDENT 50 cents per month.

A Shocking Story.

The Sin Wau Pao's Pingsiang correspondent reports: On the border between Pingsiang and Lifu, in Hunan, where a railway line is being constructed, there are almost daily reports that some young children have been lost or the dead bodies of some young children have been found in some solitary places with their hearts scooped out. Just now two men reported to have been guilty of this shocking atrocity have been arrested by the local officials. The two criminals are named Hung Hsin-chen and Kwan Lu, respectively and the latter is a monk. When they were brought before the local officers for trial they gave out that they belonged to a party of more than eighty men who came over from Sz-chuen and Kweichow in order to gouge the hearts of young children for medical purposes. On the arms of the two prisoners in question were branded the Chinese characters (Hung Fu-Tang). They will be decapitated shortly by order of the Governor of Hunan.

Plan to Admit Chinese.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1—It is the opinion at the War Department that Governor Taft's remarks at the Board of Trade banquet at Manila yesterday respecting the employment of labor on plantations will form the basis of a suggestion to Congress, at the next session, that the act extending the Chinese exclusion laws to the Philippines be amended. It is contemplated to remove the iron clad restriction which now exists, and clothe the Philippine Commission with power to regulate the entrance of Chinese labor. The proposed regulations, it is said, will look to a wisely regulated system of admission of Chinese as plantation laborers under sufficient bonds in each case, under proper systems of identification, and a condition that they shall leave the Philippines after a certain specified period.

Both Are Guilty.

In the District Court yesterday morning W. R. Sims was found guilty of profanity by Judge Wilcox and fined $10 and costs, in a case brought against him by J. Bergen, a Rapid Transit conductor. And in the case of Sims against Bergen, charged with assault and battery, the conductor was also fined $10 and costs.

Senators to Hilo.

The Senatorial Commission has made arrangements with the Wilder's Steamship Company for a trip to Hawaii. The Senators will leave this city on Wednesday, September 17, for Hilo. They will stay in that city until the following Saturday, when they will return to Honolulu in the Claudine.

A Hawaiian boy who had enlisted on board the U. S. training ship Mohican, finally deserting, was given away by friends and caught down at Kalihii Camp yesterday forenoon. He is being held in the Police Station, as his case is under the jurisdiction of the federal authorities.
