What the Wrestlers, Boxers and Base Ball Artists Are Doing.

Summing up the world's series just closed, the champion Athletics outplayed the Giants at every angle of the game. They out-hit them, out-fielded them, out-guessed them, out-pitched and out-stayed them. The Mackmen made good on their acknowledged asset—hitting. The Giants failed in their strong point—speed. That tells the story of how the Athletics won four of the six games played. An honest comparison of the two teams yields the palm to the Athletics in every department of the game. Perhaps two positions, second-base and catcher, were a toss-up, but in the other departments the Athletic players proved in a class by themselves.

Standing head and shoulders over the stars of past world's series, Frank Baker is today acknowledged the greatest sensation of the diamond in years. His hitting in the game was simply marvelous. Twice he was individually responsible in winning games for the Mackmen with home-run clouts and, during the other four days, his heavy bingling was ever prominent. Baker scored seven runs and made nine hits, including two home runs and two doubles, and his record thus speak for itself. Added to the fact that Baker was playing in the face of being made a target for his opponents' spikes, his playing was the nerviest ever witnessed in a world's series.

Taking into consideration that a loser always looks 100 per cent, comparatively, inferior to a winner, the Giants proved a dismal disappointment to their supporters. Their much-talked about offensive strength so-termed "aggressiveness," was a lacking quality and their heralded base-running prowess did not materialize. Only four times in the six games did they advance a base by stealing and the Athletics evened up this score with four pilfers themselves. And in hitting and pitching the Giants also fell by the wayside badly.

Rube Marquard, the famed south-paw, crumbled something woefully when called on in the pinch. He participated in three games, and except for a couple of innings in the second game Marquard failed to show anything like championship form. The great Christy Mathewson was also a failure after getting off to a flying start. He pitched great ball in the first game, but in the other two contests he could not hold the Athletics. Twice he was given substantial leads, and when a twirler of Mathewson's caliber cannot hold a team after getting out in front, his work does not count for much. McGraw's second-string pitchers, with the possible exception of Crandall, did not come through with the expected victory.

The Mackmen, on the other hand, showed brilliantly in the pitching department. Chief Bender pitched three magnificent games, winning two of them, and Plank and Coombs made good with a sparkling victory apiece. The feat of Bender in pitching and winning two games within three days easily makes him the pitching star of the series.

On the basis of individual comparison taken from a consensus of opinions of experts at the games, Meyers and Doyle are the only two men to compare favorably with the Mackmen. Doyle played a consistent, heady game for the Giants

Story Of Disaster

French Sailors Fight Heroically' But In Vain.

Never before in a time of peace has a nation's navy suffered such a great loss of life and a squadron been so greatly damaged as has France in the total destruction of the first-class battle-ship Liberte, carrying to their death over 200 French jackies, in the harbor of Toulon, on the morning of September 25th. Now the great mass of twisted metal, raising itself like a gray spectre from the blue waters of the harbor, is all that is left of the great sea warrior, and there in the twisted wreckage lie over 200 bodies of the dead sailors of the great republic.

Fighting the flames that threatened the powder magazines for the better part of the night in the hope of finally warding it off from the high explosives, the valiant sailors were compelled to give up the battle. The bugle had just sounded "Every man for himself" when the gray battle-ship was torn and twisted asunder, and the quiet of the still morning air was broken by the roar and rumble of a series of explosions that could be heard for thirty miles. Fragments from the ill fated ship were hurled broadcast and a captain of a training ship two miles away was killed by a fragment of a hurling shell. The shore for miles around was strewn with wreckage and nothing was left of the gray battle-ship but a tangled mass of twisted scrap iron covering the dead bodies of over 200 of the jackies that had stood by the ship to the last.

The Liberte was one of the best of the sea warriors of France. An eighteen-knot vessel, costing £1,425,000, the Liberte was launched in April, 1905. Her armament consisted of four 12-inch guns, ten 7.6-inch guns, thirteen 9-pounders and four torpedo tubes, two above water and two submerged. She was the sister ship to the Democratie, the Justice and the Verite.

This appalling disaster was but the first of a series of accidents in the French navy that followed close on the heels of each other. The Republique and the Democratie, both of the same squadron as the Liberte, were badly damaged shortly afterward by internal explosions, three sailors being killed on the former ship and two on the latter.

It was rumored for a time after this appalling series of naval accidents that it was the work of some enemy of the republic, but nothing has since been made public to substantiate the theory. Undoubtedly the series of explosions was by far the worst in the amount of damage done and the number of lives lost that has ever occurred in the time of peace to any navy of the modern world.

The Orpheum Theatre.

Eddie Fernandez is endeavoring to give Wailuku good shows. This was demonstrated last week in the high class work of Early and Fitch, and also in the regular moving pictures he puts on. Mr. Fernandez has secured, Odell and Hart, a dancing team, who are reputed to present a great comedy act. Also Miss May Taylor a comedienne. These acts will be put on for a few nights next week, beginning Tuesday. Also the usual high class moving pictures. Popular prices will rule.

Court Valley Island.

The first dance held under the auspices of Court Valley Island, Order of Foresters, last Saturday evening, was a huge success. The order has only recently installed the officers of the lodge here on Maui, and the progress they have made in a few months, has been very flattering to those who were instrumental in getting the local lodge started. The Foresters is a purely fraternal order, and no doubt a lodge here such as they have organized will be a great benefit to the community.

The dance was held in the town hall, and was well attended. The music was the best heard on Maui, and reflected credit on the musical talent of Messrs. Machado and Kaia, who have joined forces in an effort to give Maui an up-to-date orchestra. Refreshments were served during the evening, and everyone present enjoyed themselves to the limit.

The officers of the local lodge are: O. J. Whitehead, Chief Ranger; A. J. Fernandez, Sub-Chief Ranger; M. T. Maura, Treasurer; J. E. Garcia, Recording Secretary; H. C. Mossman, Financial Secretary; M. G. Paschoal, Senior Woodward; George Rhoades, Junior Woodward; J. Coelho, Junior Beadle. J. M. Machado is the District Deputy Chief Ranger.

Arbor Day in Wailuku.

Arbor Day, Friday, November 10th, was observed in the Wailuku Public School with appropriate exercises in the various rooms.

No planting was done, as the school grounds are well laid out with some 150 palms, shade and ornamental trees and shrubs.

Pretty borders in colored crayon, picturing trees, were observed in the primary rooms. Attractive board decorations, suitable to the day, were seen in the principal's room. Here also were on exhibition some very creditable specimens of the pupils drawings of various trees, leaves and landscape in pencil, crayon and water colors. Clever little invitations, in the form of booklets, with covers designed by the pupils were sent out.

Talks were given on the following historic trees: Charter Oak, Hartford, Conn.; Penn's Treaty Tree, Philadelphia; Washington Elm, Cambridge; Liberty Tree, Boston; Carey Tree, Ohio.

The Woman's Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd held a sale this evening, at the Kindergarten rooms. Many good things, including suitable Xmas gifts will be on view.

Exciting Baseball

The Games Last Sunday Both Well Contested.

Judging by the big noise coming from the row of automobiles and from the grand stand last Sunday, some people in Wailuku get excited. The baseball being played on Maui now will compare favorably with that put up in Honolulu, and as the season progresses, the different teams will tighten up and runs will become harder to get.

The first game Sunday between Paia and Kahului, began with both teams very confident of winning, as both had strengthened. The strengthening of Paia was illegal, however, and they were obliged to let their new man warm the bench. The sluggers from Kahului got busy soon after the game started, and they hammered the ball all over the lot. Towards the end of the game Paia woke up and gave Kahului a fight, but it was too late, and the breakwater boys got away on the long end of the score.

The second game between the Stars and the Wailukus was the big noise. When these two teams face one another, it seems as though the spectators become charged as with electricity. Many of them became so excited last Sunday, that they entirely forgot themselves. The game was a good one, and it was demonstrated early that the score was going to be small, as the players were up on their toes, and taking chances which required many close decisions from the umpire. The Stars made the same fatal mistake that the Kahuluis did in the previous game against Wailuku. They waited too long, looking to the wildness of Meyer to give them a free pass to first, and while he did pass quite a number, still he continually had the batters in a hole, and succeeded in striking out 13 Stars. The game was won for Wailuku in the third inning, when by good clean consecutive hitting they knocked out four runs. After that Bal tightened up, and only one more run was scored.

Next Sunday the scene will be transferred to Kahului where the Stars meet the Paia's for the last game in the series, and the Wailukus meet the Kahuluis. The Star-Pa-a game will be played first, and these teams should make an effort to start their game on time, as last Sunday the last inning of the last game was played in darkness.

The Death of Ely

The Man Who Made the Most Daring Flight Meets End.

From an aviation field in Macon, Ga., where lay the crushed body of an aviator who had fallen to his death, came sad news that recalled to thousands the memory of a lithe, boyish looking figure clad in corduroy and leggings, wearing an automobile hat and goggles, of a youth acclaimed at Selfridge aviation field last winter because he was the hero of one of the greatest feats of modern times. Eugene B. Ely had flown that day to the cruiser Pennsylvania, landed on its deck and demonstrated the possibilities of a biplane as an air courier for naval vessels.

The world astounding flight of Ely took place just nine months before the day of his death. As he arrived aboard the cruiser he was greeted by a beautiful young girl, his wife, whose praise meant more to him than the money and medals he received for risking his life.

"This never would have happened if Mabel had been with him," declared Mrs. H. C. Hall, mother of Ely's widow, at her home in Corte Madera last night.

"She always inspected his machine before every flight. He called her his guardian angel, and she wouldn't permit him to ascend when there appeared to be danger."

Ely's guardian angel was absent recently for the first time since her husband began flying. She received word of the tragedy while in New York and telephoned home this message:

"Gene is dead. Am going to Davenport, La., at once. Remains there."

Davenport was the home of Ely when a boy. He left there sixteen years ago, equipped to make his living as a mechanic. He worked at odd jobs indifferently, he took up automobiling with slight success; then the era of aviation dawned and Ely taught himself the flying art.

But Ely knew that the fate of all who fly is death.

"The game will get me some day," was his occasional prophecy to the little wife who kept him under her care. Then to reassure her he would say:

"I never fly, except where I know it to be safe. You know, dear heart, from inside me must come the necessary assurance that I am fit. I can't translate it into words, but when it's voice says 'Don't fly!' then Eugene Ely does not fly!"

The Monthly Ministers' School was held at Spreckelsville, on last Thursday morning. The session was one of the best for many months, and nearly all present took active part in the proceedings. Rev. Mr. Dodge read the second lecture in a course upon "The Holy Spirit" assigning topics for Biblical research for next time. Rev. H. P. Judd gave a drill in New Testament work, while those who attended passed in work for Rev. C. G. Burnham's class in Sermon Outlines.

For the Children

Boy Scouts Enjoying a Melon Feast in Camp.

© 1911, by American Press Association

Reports to national headquarters show that thousands of the Boy Scouts of America now are in camp in various parts of the country. The encampments vary from a troop of twenty-four to a thousand boys. The leaders of the Boy Scouts of America appreciate the danger of large encampments and for that reason announced some months ago that they would have no national encampment. They pointed out that it is much wiser for the boys to get their first experience in camping in small groups. They also have sent out bulletins to the scout masters of the extreme necessity of using all sanitary precautions in camping and warning the scout masters not thoroughly versed in methods of having camps sanitary against taking the boys into camps of more than two or three days. The illustration shows a couple of New York boy scouts enjoying a feast of watermelon beside their tent.

Magnetic Currents.

Procure a gold ring, the more massive the better, and attach it to a silk thread about a dozen inches long. Fasten the other end of the thread around the nail joint of the forefinger of the right hand. Rest your elbow on the table to steady your hand and hold the thread in such a position as to allow the ring to hang about half an inch above the surface of the table. Hold your finger out straight and throw back your thumb as far as possible. So long as there is nothing on the table the ring will remain stationary.

Place some silver coin immediately below it, when the ring will begin to oscillate back and forth, to and from you. If you bring your thumb in contact with your forefinger the oscillations will become transverse to their former swing. This may also be effected by allowing some one to take hold of your disengaged hand. These effects are produced by the animal magnetic currents given forth by the hands of the experimenters.

Old Proverbs.

It is difficult to tame the proud.
The end of a feast is better than the beginning of a quarrel.
A cat may look at a king.
Without treasure, without friends.
Wine is sweet, to pay for it is bitter.
Character is better than wealth.
No man is wise at all times.
Not every flatterer is a friend.
Sleep is the image of death.
Enough is a feast.

Nursery Rhymes.

"Three Blind Mice" is in a music book of 1609, and must have been familiar to the early English settlers of our country.

"Old Mother Hubbard" and "Goosey, Goosey, Gander," date back to the sixteenth century.

TENNIS COSTUME.

Up to Date Girl Wears Trouserine Skirt.

There is no suggestion of beauty or grace certainly to be connected with the trouserine tennis skirt, but it is practical and makes for expert play, therefore the girl who goes in for a serious game often sacrifices appearances to comfort.

The material used is a lightweight black and white checked cloth, and the trousers effect is entirely hidden when away from the tennis court by straps that hold the concealing front panel in place.

The shirt waist is of striped flannel, with collar and cuffs of black moire silk.

of pale gold satin patterned in a floral design worked out in black and orange colorings.

Every woman's purse will not allow her to purchase such a sartorial luxury, but it is a stunning negligee for the fortunate possessor of a well filled purse.

Sleeve of the Moment.

There can be no question that simplicity will not be the distinguishing feature of the sleeve of the fall. A few weeks ago nearly all bodices and blouses were made with the Asiatic sleeve—i. e., cut in one piece with that garment and minus seams. In the new modes the sleeves are put in separately with just a little fullness, and nearly all sleeves have a bit of black velvet trimming applied in the bandings, pipings, panelings or buttons. Perhaps the smartest and newest sleeve is the Breton, which will be much exploited. It reaches below the elbow, is straight and wide and is often made of different material from the bodice. In evening gowns this feature is effectively carried out in beaded and jetted nets, embroidered tissues and in laces of all kinds.

With decollete bodices sleeves are worn small, so small that sometimes they seem quite absent.

Dr. Shaw's Influence on Norway.

Although the Rev. Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, American suffragist, could not get permission from the authorities in Christiania to give lectures in churches, it develops the Norwegians are planning to give greater opportunities to women who must earn their own livelihood. A bill has been introduced providing liberally for women. The measure says they shall have access on the same conditions as men to offices of the state with a few exceptions.

Points for Mothers

Nervous Young Girls.

One is rather shocked in this day of athletics and fresh air to know how prevalent neurasthenia is among young girls. One is constantly hearing of nervous breakdowns while girls are still too young to know the meaning of nerves. This condition has been laid at the door of the school life by eminent authorities.

It seems that the practically continuous time table of the school life of the present day is responsible for the development of nerves. Girls over-trained in athletics and in the gymnasium develop a restless incapacity to interest and occupy themselves satisfactorily when they return to their homes.

To this grinding and pushing is also due the fact that valuable knowledge of character is so ill assimilated that it fails to make life a comprehensible and interesting whole. The failure is a serious defect in any system of education.

It is equally injurious, on the other hand, to fill a girl's life with such a continuous round of games and lessons that the knowledge absorbed from both has no time to be digested. The modern girl undoubtedly needs more leisure.

The art of assimilation is what will make a girl into the competent, self-reliant woman who will be able to enjoy applying what she has learned to any circumstance she may find herself in, one who will be able to regard all forms of athletics in their proper proportion and not become morbid if she is withdrawn from their influence.

One cannot quarrel with games as a means of exercise if they are not carried to the extreme, but that seems to a great extent to be just the tendency of the schoolgirl's training.

Consequently educators are beginning to see the advantage of giving girls proper exercise by means of practical work. There is a satisfaction in that cannot find a counterpart in games.

The Hay Pillow.

"I wish mothers would, first of all, throw away those feather pillows and wool mattresses which their children sleep on and substitute bolsters and beds of hay. It would cost only about 10 cents, and think of the wonderful relief," remarked a well known physician. "The profuse perspiration of a child at night would be done away with. Children should not be roasted night after night as they are. The hay is cool and sweet smelling, and the child couldn't do anything but sleep comfortably."

"The mothers could get long tufting needles and tuft the hay so it wouldn't form in mounds or slide to one end completely. It would be a good thing if grownups also tried it. Once having experimented with it they never would pass through another hot wave without it. It is hygienic, cooling, aromatic. It is an easy matter to establish hay beds and pillows in the home.

"On hot nights a child should be wrapped in a wet sheet, with cold compresses on his head. It would save him great discomfort."

Care of the Baby's Feet.

Too much care cannot be given the baby's feet. The little child's foot is naturally pretty, but it is so soft and pliant that it is easily molded, and an ill fitting, badly made shoe will only too quickly deform it and twist it out of shape. The shoes, regardless of whether they are buttoned or laced, must not be too tightly fastened or the circulation of the blood will be impeded. It is a good plan in summer to allow the baby to go barefoot as much of the time as possible about the home. This allows the foot to grow naturally.

Children's Names.

Some parents seem unable to resist the temptation to make a joke with the Christian names of their children. A certain register testifies to the existence of a Mineral Waters, a Frosty Winter and an Alfred Days Weeks. There is something to be said in favor of naming children in the order of their arrival—Primus, Secundus, etc.—but it is unfortunate for a well known Canadian named Cumber that it should have fallen to his lot to be Quintus, for his name is always appearing in the papers as Q. Cumber.

Encouraging His Appetite.

"When I have any difficulty in getting my boy of three and a half years to eat his food at the table we start a little game," said a clever mother recently. "We name each bite for a member of the family or for a little playmate or some place he has been, and it is surprising what an amount he will eat and enjoy."

Nursery Suggestion.

For children's rooms and night nurseries pale pink and white is a delightful combination, and while striving to have everything as dainty as possible one must avoid unnecessary fluffiness, remembering that all draperies, etc., will be paying frequent visits to the laundry.

Suggestion to Mothers.

If your child's permanent teeth come through irregularly and overlapping they should be straightened. It is better to remove a tooth if overcrowded, as this condition produces decay.

Schools and the Teachers.

It is unfortunate when a public servant lays himself open to merited criticism, and it is doubly unfortunate when that servant is connected with our educational system.

The present Superintendent of Education is no doubt an estimable man in his line, but that he lacks initiative and executive ability has been demonstrated time and again since he had been in office.

If Mr. Pope thinks he can put aside criticism by a wave of the hand, or a general statement that his critics are incompetent, he errs, and shows still more clearly his false position.

There are many things in the educational department which have always looked strange to us, but we have withheld comment, and passed them on the theory that perfection in any line of endeavor is hard to attain.

We have always opposed the present method of appointing supervising principals, and do not believe they have been appointed solely with the object in view of recognizing ability. We have here on Maui four supervising principals, two of whom do not hold certificates qualifying them to their positions, according to the rules laid down by the Board of Education. We know nothing of the qualifications of these gentlemen other than that they have not the grade of certificate called for by the board. We quote the rule of the board:

"Supervising principals shall be appointed by the department at its discretion, but each appointee must be the holder of a Grammar Grade Certificate or its equivalent."

Woman Suffrage.

(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.)

LET us call the roll of the states which give the ballot to women on the same conditions as to men: Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Washington, California. This is the order in which these states made the new departure. Wyoming had equal suffrage from the beginning of its territorial days, back in 1869. Utah, too, had it for a while during the Mormon regime in the territorial era, but in the conflict with polygamy Congress took the ballot away from the women. From 1896 until 1910 the four states first mentioned were the only ones in which women had the same privileges as men at the ballot box. In the latter year Washington joined this list. And now California writes its name on the equal suffrage roll.

The suffragists have just made the largest single contest in all their career. California is much more than twice as populous as the biggest of the other states which gives the ballot to women. And the State next on the roll, Washington, was won less than a year ago. The suffragists have now more than an eighth of all the states. Most of these states are small in number of inhabitants. Combined, however, they comprise nearly one-seventeenth of the population of the country. In 1910 woman suffrage was voted upon in Oregon, South Dakota, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Arizona and Washington, but it was rejected in all those communities except Washington. Another attempt to gain this privilege will be voted upon by all those communities in the next election.

In about two-thirds of the states, most of them being in the West, women are permitted to vote on school matters. The movement for enfranchisement for them is proceeding vigorously in several European countries. Women can vote for all officials in Great Britain except for Members of Parliament. They have a limited suffrage in France, as well as in many of the provinces of the Dominion of Canada. Norway allows them a vote for Parliamentary members. In the Isle of Man, Australia, New Zealand, Iceland and Finland they have full suffrage, as in the six American states here mentioned. The agitation for equal suffrage for women began in the United States just sixty years ago, but the slavery issue, the Civil War and reconstruction pushed it into the background for many years. In the United States, as well as abroad, however, it has won some notable triumphs in recent times.

The March of the "P. A. C."

(Written by Alan M. Rattray.)

What a crowd gathered round—'twas a welcome renowned,
There was all Kahului to see,
If old Maui's boys—were to be the big noise,
When they tackled the famed P. A. C.
And Gee! what a gait—the laddies were great,
They were there with the tricks to a "T,"
And so we got the punch—first win of the bunch
Bad luck for the P. A. C.
But alas! at Wailuku—a different tale,
For the game lads from over the sea,
Soon showed they were keen—and a crack-a-jack team,
Who were out for the honors to be,
They got them you bet—and some more even yet,
While their backers went crazy with glee,
We were glad that they won—every son-of-a-gun,
For you're sports—every one, P. A. C!
And then at Lahaina—they're still on the job,
It turned out a regular spree,
All the local fans say—their team couldn't stay,
With the rush of the P. A. C;
They played with a heart—with a will from the start,
Great Snakes! It was dandy to see,
And hundreds exclaim—at the close of the game,
"Gee Whiz! You're the 'goods'—P. A. C!

Paia News.

The many friends of E. R. Bevins are sorry to learn that he has resigned his position as bookkeeper of the Paia Store, and will make his home in Honolulu. Mr. Bevins left for the City by the last Claudine, and his family will follow later.

The genial Jack Hall arrived on the last Mauna Loa Tuesday and assumed his duties as bookkeeper of the Paia Store.

Internal Revenue Inspectors Messrs. Berndt and Heilbron are making a tour of the Makawao District.

Hamakuapoko and Paia were treated to refreshing showers during the last few days.

The Hon. A. F. Tavares is building a beach residence at Kuau.

Mr. J. H. Bonnell has resigned his position as Camp Boss of the Kahaka division of the M. A. Co.

The enterprising Jno. F. Morte of Paia has erected a nice cottage on the lot adjoining the Iao Stable Branch. Mr. Morte is quite an inventor, having just completed an improved feed mixing machine which will be of great value to the public and will be placed on the market as soon as his patent rights arrive from Washington.

The Church bazaar which took place at the Paia sugar room last Saturday night was a great success financially and otherwise, and those in charge are entitled to great credit. About $700 was realized.

M. V. Medeiros a fireman on the M. A. Co.'s trains has just returned with his family from a vacation on the Coast.

Antone Fernandez Jr. of Paia is converting his old stables into a moving picture show house.

M. V. Carreira of the Paia Wholesale house will soon leave for the Coast on a three months vacation.

The engagement of Manuel Benavides Jr. of Hamakuapoko to Miss Minnie Silva, is announced.

PAIA STORE

Hana News.

The schooner Muriel arrived from Honoipua Friday noon, with a cargo of general merchandise for the plantation and the stores of the village. She will take on a cargo of sugar, leaving on Saturday, the 18th inst, for San Francisco. This finishes the Kaeleku Sugar Co's sugar crop of 1911. 4850 tons more or less.

Mr. Jorgensen, the man who built the Koolau ditch and its numerous trails, is once more in the District of Hana, possibly contemplating a scheme of building a ditch from Hana to Kaupo, and supplying water to that extreme part of Maui to further small farming and the fluming of chord wood from the mountains to the beach, where it will be taken by steamers to Honolulu and way ports.

Mrs. John Chalmers and family will return by Claudine this Saturday. They have been on an extended sight-seeing trip through Europe and the States, and will be glad to get back home again.

Mr. Geo. Mackenzie, the engineer of Hana, leaves for Honolulu with his family by today's Claudine.

Mrs. James Donald, wife of the manager of the Hana Store; will leave on the 28th for her home in Scotland.

The Belt Road Commission composed of Frank Harvey, W. E. Bal, Pia Cockett and W. F. Pogue are at Keanae. Supervisors Drummond and Chas Lake are also with the party. They are making the rounds of the various districts looking into the various improvements needed for the coming year for the December 1911 budget.

Dr. Wilcox and a Mr. Goodale have been spending the past few days out at Nahiku, looking over the various groves of rubber producing trees, and they are highly enthusiastic over the outcome of this new industry. Tapping has been going on for some time during the past few months, and a lot of the boys on the plantation have become quite expert with the collecting of the latex. Quite a number of the lads have collected as high as 5 lbs. of dry rubber before school time in the morning, this goes to show that it is one of the coming industries of the Islands, and the stockholders, it is to be hoped, will soon have the pleasure of enjoying an occasional dividend.

The Latest in Marriages.

Last week a Filipino, who was supposed to be married, got into some trouble with his comrades and started to clean out the camp. He was arrested and put in jail for six months by Judge Kakani of the Hana District Court. A couple of days passed, and a Korean called on the supposed wife of the Filipino and after making a few passes through an interpreter, he and the lady went to see the Judge, secured a marriage license, and the Judge gave them his blessing. From last accounts they were very happy making love through the sign language, for neither of them can understand one another in any other language.

Clothing and Furnishings.

The McNerny Company, of Honolulu, has long enjoyed the reputation of carrying nothing but high class goods; and of being a strictly safe place to send mail orders. This reputation has built up for them a clientele second to none in this territory, and adv. in this issue cannot fail to attract our readers. They carry everything for men, and in ordering goods of them you may feel sure of getting the best the market affords.

Trespass Notice.

Hunting or otherwise, trespassing upon any of the properties of the Wailuku Sugar Company is strictly forbidden.

Hunting permits may be obtained at the Plantation office.

By order of H. B. PENHALLOW,
Manager of the Wailuku Sugar Co.

Locals

"Obak" Kelley,—you can tell him by his smile,—is in town.

Mr. J. R. Bergstrom, of the Honolulu Music Company, is on a tour of the island.

Mr. F. F. Baldwin with a party of friends leave for a tour of Hawaii next week.

Mr. J. J. Walsh, of the Kahului Store, was a passenger to Honolulu on the Claudine last Tuesday.

Be sure to read the "ad" of the McNerny Co., you will find something there to interest you.

Don't fail to get over to the Paia Store Monday. The great display of Christmas goods begins on that day.

Mrs. J. W. Kershner was a passenger on the Mauna Kea Tuesday. She returned to Honolulu today.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Kaahumanu church will start a debating society in the near future.

Mrs. D. H. Case and Miss Althea arrived home on the Mauna Kea after an extended stay in Honolulu.

The Puunene Athletic Club are planning to hold their annual water carnival, Saturday evening, December 9th.

W. F. Crockett will speak Sunday, at C. E. meeting of the Kaahumanu church. This will be his second talk on Missions.

D. C. Lindsay arrived home this morning from an extended trip to Scotland. During his stay he toured America and Europe.

Mr. H. M. Wells, who has been confined to his home for a couple weeks, was about Monday, though not in his usually robust health.

A new baseball player arrived in Wailuku last Wednesday morning. Mrs. W. F. Chillingworth gave birth to a son, and Bill intends to sign him for next season.

The new crossings which have been put in across the plantation tracts all along the road between Wailuku and Paia, make driving at moderate speed safe and comfortable.

Thanksgiving Service will be held at the Makawao Church, on Sunday, November 26th, in accordance with the usual practice of the church in having that service the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

The sloppy job being done on the streets which are being oiled, might well be improved upon. Many clothes have been ruined unnecessarily, had a little care been taken in the work, and a great amount of cursing thereby avoided.

The Wailuku Bowling Tournament at the Gynasium will start next week Wednesday, the 22nd, and will run for a week. Each man is entitled to ten games. The purpose of this tournament is to pick out the best five men for the Wailuku team.

Arrivals Maui Hotel: Wm. T. Night, T. H. Kelly, D. L. Austin, B. F. Heilbron, Mrs. J. Kershner, J. Hall, C. Day, Honolulu; J. Jurgensell, L. S. Conness, Hawaii; Capt. V. Richler, Vienna; Rev. C. G. Burnham, Lahaina; J. R. Bergstrom, Honolulu.

Christmas Opening at Paia.

The Paia Store will resume this year their annual Christmas sale, which was interrupted last year on account of the fire in September. This year they are opening up more than ever before, and their new store with its modern equipment, will be amply qualified to set off to advantage this immense stock of specially selected goods. The Paia Store's Christmas sale has always been an event, and this year they promise to outdo themselves. Strangers visiting this store have always marvelled at the unusual display and up-to-date-ness of everything. Be sure to attend the Christmas sale.

Dr. Birch at the Maui.

We are pleased to inform our readers that Dr. R. B. M. Birch, the foot specialist, of Honolulu, who was with us a few months ago, will be in town, Nov. 18th to 24th, and will have apartments at the Maui Hotel, where he will be pleased to see all of his friends and patients, and will treat the feet of those having any foot trouble, corns, bunions, ingrown nails, etc. He will also bring a line of samples from the Manufacturers' Shoe Co., of Honolulu (where his home office is now located), and will be pleased to take orders for same; one of the strong features of this line will be gymnasium, baseball, and a general sporting footwear of the latest patterns.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE SECOND JUDICIAL CIRCUIT, TERRITORY OF HAWAII

At Chambers—In Probate.

In the Matter of the Estate of EDWARD H. ROGERS, Deceased, late of Lahaina, Maui.

Executrix's Petition to Sell Real Estate.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE ON EXECUTRIX'S APPLICATION TO SELL REAL ESTATE

On reading and filing the petition of Ellen Rogers, as executrix of the Estate of Edward H. Rogers, Deceased, late of Lahaina, praying for an order of sale of certain real property belonging to said estate, to wit:

(1) That certain piece, parcel and lot of land situate and being in Kuluu, District of Wailuku, Island and County of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, being a portion of Apana 1 of Royal Patent number 2162, Land Commission Award 2420, to Kaai, containing an area of 59-100 of an acre, being the same property conveyed to Edward H. Rogers by deed of partition had between Zelle K. Rogers, Waldemar Rogers, Elizabeth Summerfield, and said Edward H. Rogers, of date October 7, 1904; and

(2) That certain piece and parcel of land situate at Lahaina, County of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, being that portion of Ahupuaa of Makila, containing an area of one acre, more or less, and conveyed by A. N. Hayselden to Edward H. Rogers, by deed dated October 6, 1909; said last mentioned piece of land being further described by metes and bounds as follows:

Beginning at the sea by the north-west corner of this lot and running along a stone wall by Kamohi to Naea, thence along Naea by a fence to Kahawai of Makila of Pahoa, thence along Kahawai to the sea, thence by the sea boundary to the point of commencement;

And alleging that it is necessary to sell said real property with a view to and for the purpose of liquidating outstanding claims and obligations against said estate:

IT IS THEREFORE HEREBY ORDERED that the heirs and next of kin of Edward H. Rogers, Deceased, and that all persons interested in said estate appear before this Court on Monday, the 20th day of November, 1911, at 10 A. M., at the Court Room of this Court, in Wailuku, County of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, then and there to show cause why an order and license should not be granted for the sale of such real estate for the purposes named.

And it is Further Ordered that notice of this order be published in the MAUI NEWS, a newspaper of general circulation on the Island of Maui, for a period of once a week for each of three successive weeks.

(Sd.) S. B. KINGSBURY, Judge of the Circuit Court, Second Judicial Circuit, Territory of Hawaii.

Attest: (Seal) EDMUND H. HART, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Second Circuit.

BOWSER IS WARM

He Devises Plan to Make His Home Like North Pole.

WANTED TO SURPRISE WIFE.

He Buys Five Electric Fans, Begins Putting Up Shelves and Has Electrician Come to Attach Wires—Mrs. Bowser Finds Weak Point.

By M. QUAD. [Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press.]

MR. BOWSER said it was a hot night, and he used a very expressive word before the hot. Mrs. Bowser agreed that it was a hot night, but didn't preface it.

The family cat lay on the rug and panted, and she knew it was a hot night, but couldn't say so.

After Mr. Bowser had remarked that it was a hot night about 'seven times he suddenly slapped his leg and exclaimed:

"Great Scott, but what a fool I am!" Mrs. Bowser didn't corroborate his exclamation. It would have brought on a row at once. She looked a question at him, and he answered with:

"I can make this house cool and comfortable as you please, and the wonder is that I have not thought of it before. I'll go right at it the first thing tomorrow."

"This is only a hot wave and will soon be gone," she said. "It may go and it may last all summer. There's no telling about the weather. Anyhow, I don't propose to take any chances."

"What is it you propose? I hope you won't go to tearing the house to pieces."

"Nothing will be torn to pieces. As to what I propose, you just wait a bit. Tomorrow evening you'll want a wrap on to sit here."

May Lose the Cook.

"Cook told me yesterday that if you tried any more experiments she should leave at once."

"Let her leave and be hanged to her! I don't propose to roast on the cook's account. However, there is no experiment about it. Why didn't I think of it before—why didn't I? Let's see. Two for this room, one for the hall and two for our bedroom—five in all. No more melting. No more losing pounds and pounds of vitality. The neighbors will want to come in and sit every evening. Every fly and skelter that makes his way in will be frozen as stiff as Dr. Cook was at the north pole."

"You are not going to distribute a ton of ice through the rooms, are you?" asked Mrs. Bowser as he sat and chuckled.

"Guess again."

"But why don't you tell me?" "Surprise, my dear. You'll have to wait, and it will be worth waiting for. By George, but won't we take comfort the rest of the summer! You'll need your furs on half the time. Won't have to use ice water at all. You can hang up a beefsteak in this room at noon and have it frozen hard for dinner."

Dreams of Cool and Hot Waves.

Mrs. Bowser could only wait. Her dreams that night were full of hot waves, cold waves, melted pitch, frozen meats, icicles and boiling oil. Twice during the night Mr. Bowser got up to slip downstairs, and she heard him muttering to himself:

"By John, but we'll have to have the woolen blanket on tomorrow night! Mrs. Bowser will be astonished when she sees the windows covered with frost!"

He was up an hour ahead of his usual time, and as soon as he could bolt his breakfast he was off to a carpenter shop. On the way he stopped into his family drug store to say to the druggist:

"I may ask you to come down to the house this evening and see me beat the hot wave."

"All right, Bowser. Got a trick up your sleeve?"

"You bet!"

"Well, don't play the fool as you generally do."

"Sir, I don't like such remarks from you or any one else!"

"Sorry, but I can't help it."

Offers to Freeze Butcher.

"And I shan't ask you to the house this evening. No, sir, I shall do nothing of the kind."

"Poor Mrs. Bowser!" sighed the druggist as he went behind the counter to put up 10 cents worth of ammonia for a small boy with a sore eye. Mr. Bowser was somewhat cast down, for he really had a good scheme on hand, one of the best he had thought out in a year, but as he reached the butcher shop he couldn't resist the temptation to step in and say to the butcher:

"You have a big icebox here. How long does it take you to freeze meat?" "Why, I could freeze it overnight with ice enough. Are you going into the cold storage business?"

"Drop in this evening and bring your fur coat with you," said Mr. Bowser to the man of meat as he winked at him and poked him in the ribs. Two hours later he returned home carrying five carpenter made shelves, and he at once began nailing one of them against the wall.

"Is knocking the walls to pieces the way to make a cold house?" asked Mrs. Bowser, with a good deal of irony in her voice.

Tells Wife to Withdraw.

"Madam, will you kindly withdraw for a time?" she was asked in return.

"When the surprise is ready you will be led up to it, and if you don't say it's the best thing I have ever done I'll eat my hat."

"But what do you want of those horrid looking old shelves on the walls?" she persisted.

"Withdraw, madam, withdraw. The surprise will be all right."

"I don't believe it. None of your surprises ever are. The paper says this morning that this hot wave is receding before the advance of a cold wave from Manitoba, and I wish you would give up your scheme."

Mr. Bowser waved her down the hall and up the stairs, and ten minutes later a wagon drove up and a man brought in five electric fans. Not more than ten minutes after that an electrician came to attach the fans to the wires. By this time Mr. Bowser had two of the shelves up. The electrician began peering and hunting about and after a time said:

"Hang my cats, I can't find where the wire comes in!"

"What wire?" innocently asked Mr. Bowser.

"Why, the wire from the street. Where is it?"

"I dunno."

"But you must have seen it brought in."

"I don't think I did. No, I know I didn't. You ought to know your business."

Why Fans Do Not Work.

Mrs. Bowser had been listening from the head of the stairs, and now she came down and asked:

"Is it electric fans you are putting up, Mr. Bowser?"

"Yes, dear. That is the great surprise."

"And the man can't find what they call the feed wire?"

"No."

"Well, it would be another great surprise on me if he could. There is none!"

"Woman, what do you mean?"

"There are no electric wires laid in the street. You ought to know that. If you had said your surprise was electric fans I should have asked you last night how they were going to be worked. How much are you out of pocket?"

The electrician grinned and walked out.

Mr. Bowser put on his hat and coat and left the house.

The family cat sat on the stairs and smiled.

At 10 o'clock that night the telephone rang, and when Mrs. Bowser hobbled in it a voice said:

"My names is Jones. I am a farmer, living six miles from the city."

"Yes?"

"Mr. Bowser is here and will stay all night. He is not quite right in his head. Talks about surprises and fans and wires, but we've given him catnip tea and expect him to be all right in the morning."

And Mrs. Bowser sat down and cried and laughed.

MENS GLOVES

If you ride a horse you need gloves. Also if you are the owner of a machine you cannot run one with a degree of comfort with bare hands. Our stock of gloves is complete. We have the auto glove that fit snug at the wrist and shut out dust.

MENS HATS

Our stock of mens hats reflects all that is good in the Stetson output. For the cattleman or ranchman we are stocked with the best broad brim style in all shades and made of the finest grade of wool. The beauty of our Stetsons is their lightness in weight and their excellent wearing quality. No other hat on sale equals a genuine Stetson because as good a hat is not made outside the Stetson factory.

MENS SHIRTS

We prefer the Manhattan shirts for obvious reasons one of which is the beautiful materials, the superior weaves of cloth that wears well. We prefer them because the skirt is so much longer than the average ready to wear shirt that a Manhattan is comfortable where the other makes, most of them, are annoying. The Cluett is a good shirt but there are features about a Manhattan not found in any other.

We have these for negligee as well as dress. In the latter there is the plaited bosom for the dinner coat or the full dress.

UNDERWEAR

Like every other department in the store that in which is displayed the underwear is full to the brim with high grade and cheaper goods for men and boys. There is no brand we do not sell and as low as anyone in the territory.

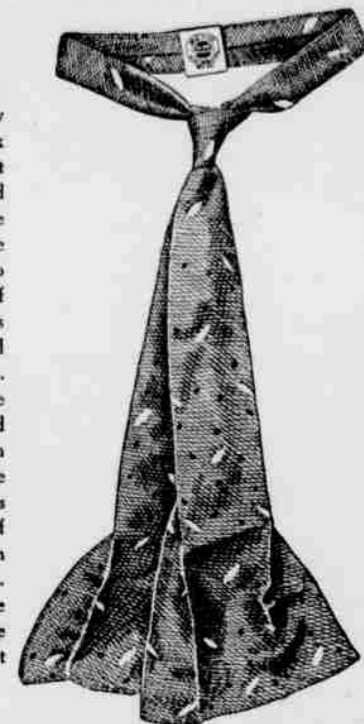

MENS STRAWS

Baltimore is headquarters for the finest grade of straw braids for hats for men and boys. Even lauhala from Hawaii is sent to Baltimore to be sewn into hats that bring high prices in the cities on the mainland. We have the genuine Baltimore braids in the straws we sell. Also we have the high standard Panama hats, woven in the Canal Zone and sewn and finished by Christy in London.

NECKWEAR

We have recently bought in New York a line of the most beautiful cravats and string ties we have ever had from the Keiser factory. Also we secured a line of the Wilson Brothers goods that will appeal to the average man. In both there is a wide range of styles and shades, from the rich shades in solids to the patterned materials adapted to the wear of less conservative men and young men. Every taste can be satisfied here. We have the very latest and the very best.

YOUR HOUSE COAT

No man who cares how his coat looks when it is on will loll around the house in one after meals. If he has an eye to economy he will wear a house coat because it will stand the wear of lounging and will not wrinkle. We have a large assortment in beautiful shades and neatly trimmed. They are inexpensive and an absolute necessity. You will want one for Christmas.

A WORD ABOUT YOUR CLOTHING

If you've never worn a suit of Stein Bloch clothing you have never known exactly what clothes-comfort is. At least you have never seen it except in the man who wears Stein Bloch. We carry a large stock of these goods and can fit fat men or thin ones and whether they be short or tall. If we do not strike the exact fit the first time we have a staff of cutting and sewing tailors who make suits to order and they know how to alter. We want you to get a Stein Bloch because we know then we have a new customer. These clothes are made of all wool, not a particle of cotton anywhere about them and the patterns in many cases are exclusive to this firm of manufacturers. You will find the styles just the same they are wearing on Broadway or Bond Street, for the British tailor copies now days from the Stein Bloch model, and a third of the best dressed men over there who wear ready to wear clothing have taken to Stein Bloch because it has class, individuality and fit. No suit of clothes made in England ever fitted as well as an American made suit. It's history and the British tailor has never been able to deny it with truth.

STEIN-BLOCH SMART CLOTHES

We have business suits for the business man and society clothes for the men who dance or dine and who wish to be correctly dressed for any occasion. The prices in any instance are low enough to be inviting to the careful man who would dress as well as the next fellow and better than many at less cost. We have all shades and all weights of materials. In our clothing department we can fit you with an overcoat that will be good for show and as good for wear.

BATH ROBES

There should be a bath robe in every home just as there should be a bath. If, as it sometimes happens, the bath must be taken in a tub outside the greater the necessity for the robe. It becomes at once a most useful wrap in the walk from the bath to the bed-room and is a mighty comfortable wrap to have over your shoulders when you are resting after the exertion. We have very pretty patterns on robes fifty-four inches long which we sell at four fifty. The material is excellent.

PAJAMAS

The day, or night, for the nightie for men is out distanced by the desire people have for garments which permit their being seen without bringing blush to cheek. The Chinese are responsible for the innovation. Englishmen in Hongkong knew a good thing and adopted it. The brandy and soda chap out in India was not long behind his brother in China and as facilities for crossing the continent grew and men traveled the most comfortable of mens garments came through to the U. S. and they are there to stay.

BUTTONS AND PINS

While not a jewelry store in the sense that we carry diamonds we have a line of pins for men that compares well with the stock in many of the jewelry stores. The swellest sort of button for shirts are here as well as stick pins.

RAINCOATS

Those we have are useful in dry as well as wet weather and they are not over-weighted. The materials are, in every instance, water-proof. They are cut full with plenty of length. Just the garment to wear on a night trip from home. Some are London made.

HANDKERCHIEFS

Genuine Irish linen, many in pure white and some with the fashionable narrow border. We have ties to match the handkerchiefs and socks to match both. The prices are very low for these goods.

INTERWOVEN HOSE

It has been very clearly demonstrated all over the United States that the interwoven hose is so nearly perfect that there is not a kick coming and not a hole in the socks. We are sole agents for this make of mens hosiery. We have a number of shades beside black and white and sell them for thirty-five cents a pair. Three pairs for a dollar.

COPYRIGHT INTERWOVEN STOCKING CO.

CAPS

The celebrated Heidcap is the invention of Frank Heid and is worn by young men and old who like something better than usual. We have many beautiful patterns.

A GOOD TIME TO ORDER

Now while it is fresh in your mind is the time to send your order to us for your Christmas gifts. Residents of Maui, known to us, you may order with the privilege of exchanging by return steamer, remitting when you are satisfied. We have no old goods to ship you, only the freshest in style and the best in quality sold in the largest stores on the mainland. In the event of an exchange being necessary you will have time to make the change and still have the article before Christmas.

SUSPENDERS

There is nothing more acceptable to a man for a gift than a pair of suspenders or a belt. We have wide range to select from at prices from three quarters to three dollars.

Lahaina Lines

Lahaina does not intend to be outdone by the metropolis, and is also demanding the attention of the health authorities. Both the County health inspector and Dr. Shepherd, of Honolulu, have been here this week assisting Dr. Burt to check the spreading of a sickness which closely resembles scarlet fever and dyptheria. The infected spots are so thoroughly guarded that no new cases have developed in other localities, and those already treated are improving.

Within a short time the usual commotion which attends the grinding season will commence. Everything is in readiness both in the fields, and at the mill. A good size crop is expected.

It will be of interest to those who know him to learn, that Mr. J. E. Kennedy, late of the Pioneer mill, and now chief engineer at Hakalau, Hawaii, is "doing things!" And others of the same profession in the rainy district will have to paddle their webbed-feet a bit lively, if they do not intend to be left behind.

While representing an illuminated meandering "Kaupakalua" advertisement, one of our local citizens declared that it is all "Pau!" with the Republican party. He said while the Governor was busy fighting Kuhllo, and the rest of the Republicans are cutting bananas, Link McCandless, the Home Rulers, and the Democrats are "confusing." And after the next general election, the local Republicans can join their brothers on the mainland and "hang on Chicago."

The Wrong Dope

Assemblyman Brennan, author of New York's Brennan cold-storage law, said the other day:

"A recent examination of the cold-storage plants in New York City showed that in twelve storage houses alone there were stored 7,300,000 pounds of poultry and meat, 4,500,000 pounds of fish, 2,000,000 pounds of cheese, 6,000,000 pounds of butter and 500,000 cases of eggs.

"This food should be labeled as what it is. It shouldn't be sold to the public as fresh food at the price of fresh food. For it isn't fresh food, and, though it looks alright, its taste is all wrong—except to such people as are blessed with the palate of Jim Jimison.

"Jim Jimison," Mr. Brennan explained, "was a hard drinker up Ithaca way. One evening Jim stopped at the tavern for a dram, tossed it off, and departed calmly; but after he was gone the tavern-keeper discovered that, in place of applejack, he had given Jim a drink out of the sulphuric acid bottle that was kept to clean the verdigris off the brass taps.

"The tavern-keeper couldn't sleep that night, but the next morning, to his unspeakable relief, Jim dropped in for another dram before breakfast, apparently none the worse for his dose of poison.

"Jim," said the tavern-keeper, "what did you think of that applejack I sold you last night?"

"Oh, it was a fine stuff," said Jim, "good, warmen' stuff. It had one fault. Every time I coughed it set my whiskers afire."

In the Wrong House.

A Chicago man who started one day last week to attend a wedding, went astray and got into a house where a funeral was being held. He was a little late, and was conducted through a rather dark hall into a back parlor, where he found a vacant chair. Unfortunately it was impossible to see from where he sat just what was going on in the front room, where the preacher and the corpse were located. He was able, however, to hear distinctly. The preacher was in the middle of his discourse.

"It is true," he was saying, "that this is a most solemn occasion, but let us try to look upon the more hopeful side. It may all be for the best. Who among us can tell? Let us remember that behind the darkest cloud the sun still shines. It is our duty to try to believe that our friend has entered into a happier state. It is true that he will mingle with us no more; we shall not again be cheered by his bright smile; all that once seemed so dear to him he has to resign; he has met the common fate, but it is not for us to decide that this is to be the end of all for him."

Unable to restrain himself any longer, the man who had wandered into the wrong house leaned over toward one of the former friends of the deceased and said:

"Say, if I were the bride's father I'd lick that fellow."

throughout the series. Eddie Collins, his rival, fell down in fielding in the first three games, strange as it might sound, but put up such a sensational defensive play during the last three contests that his wobbly work earlier in the series was easily blotted out.

Meyer behind the log has lived up to his previous record. The California Indian proved a sterling backstop, and no criticism could be made of his playing. Thomas labored as he was expected to work, and Lapp proved a stellar figure behind the bat.

At first base Merkle did not show the brilliant form credited to him all season. He was playing in a crippled condition, being troubled with "charley horse," and this probably accounted for his failure to star. Harry Davis, the veteran, got by in admirable fashion, but it was freely admitted that McInnes would have added more strength to

At shortstop Jack Barry so far over-shadowed Fletcher that it leaves no argument of comparison. He is reported as the poorest shortstop ever to have taken part in a world's series. He was woefully weak in handling balls to his right and he also yielded easily to pressure. He is nothing but a youngster and his showing was no discredit to him. Barry, however, starred both at bat and in the field, and made Fletcher look cheap.
The make-up of the Australian team which will defend the world's tennis title against the American challengers is as follows, according to advices from Melbourne: Norman Brookes, A. W. Dunlop and Rod Heath.

Brookes will be the captain of the team and will have full charge of the defense. He will play with Dunlop in the doubles, while he and Heath will defend the singles. The Australian tennis fans figure that Brooks will win both singles, and with Dunlop, will come out ahead in the doubles. Three wins out of five will keep the cup in Australia.
