THE AGAVE OF MEXICO.

Joaquin Miller Writes of the Maguay Plant—Its Universal Usefulness.

Here we have a blossom as big as a barrel, and twice or thrice as long. From this huge bulk it begins to lengthen out and stand up as if it meant to knock its top against the stars.

But it is as a flower I set out to write of the maguay or agave, often, also, mis-called the also by Americans. After this tremendous blossom has burst from the heart of the so-called "century plant," and is about to shoot up high in the heavens it is cut down by the farmer.

It is perhaps high time that the foolish tradition about this plant blossoming only every century be disposed of. In South America it blossoms about every ten years. In the valley of Mexico reliable ranchmen tell me it blossoms regularly every seven years.

Tones of the American Voice. The Americans make the English language the easy and fluent vehicle of their ideas. They do not consider a cadence or a drawl a necessary part of it.

What a Locust Army Can Do. Kirby and Spencer mention an army of locusts which ravaged the Mahatras country, extending in a column 100 miles long, and so compact that it obscured the sun like an eclipse.

How "Private Miles O'Reilly" Put It. When the negro was given a chance to do a part of the fighting for his own liberty there was mutiny in the Irish regiments.

A Course of Practical Study. Fifty members of the engineering department of Columbia college will occupy barracks next summer on Bantam lake, near Littlefield, Conn.

Men Hurt While Coupling Cars. In a late lecture at Yale Professor Arthur T. Hadley stated that no less than 15,000 persons were injured annually in the United States from the single duty of coupling cars.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1886.

THE BORROWING BUSINESS.

When Mr. Gibson announced in the Legislature that the Government had abandoned the intention of raising a special loan, we doubt not every sensible heart in and out of the Legislature rejoiced. The Opposition in the Assembly applauded, and there passed through the community a sentiment of approval. Perhaps the Ministry was not given credit for having voluntarily changed base, but there was no question as to the force of the reasons given for the new policy. By the amount to be reasonably expected from our own people, through the Savings Bank; by the realizations from the reclaimed land on the Honolulu Esplanade and from other property, and by the saving from the adoption of a common-sense scheme for increasing the city water supply, in addition to prospects of an enhanced ordinary revenue, it was calculated that the Government would have ample means to cancel all outstanding obligations and meet the expenditures of an unusually large Appropriation Act. To have the clear and unmistakable enunciation of such a policy followed, within a week or ten days, by the announcement that the Ministry never meant to have abandoned the loan bill, and that its being called up and made a special order of the day was done with the Ministerial sanction and concurrence, must have been a shock to even those who are familiar with Gibsonian administration.

One of the most crafty pretexts advanced for the sudden reversal of policy was that an effort would be made to raise the loan at home. "We desire to borrow from our own capitalists," says the Premier in effect. The Advertiser, striving to keep track of the sinuous policy of the Government, re-echoes the sentiment. Yet the loan bill is rushed through and an agent is posted off, in almost indecent haste, to overtake the representative of foreign capitalists and induce him to negotiate the loan on the London market. In view of the facts, it is hypocritical for the mouth-pieces of the Ministry to keep up the talk about borrowing at home. If the English agent takes a single bond, he will take the whole. That is well known in this community. It would be more acceptable to the capitalists represented by Mr. Armstrong if the loan bill was for five millions instead of two millions. Therefore, it is utterly absurd to discuss the possibility of a portion of the two millions of bonds being disposed of here, while a duly authorized agent of this Government is flying to make terms with the foreign agent for taking the whole.

Meantime the Government are borrowing at home, but not under the Loan Act. The news given in the HERALD of the success of the Savings Bank proves that Mr. Gibson was not over-anguine in sizing that source of revenue. From all appearances the Treasury will have the benefit of at least a million of money from our own people, deposited in the Postal Savings Bank within the current period. If the improvements now making in the Water Works, at comparatively small expense, result as well as anticipated, much money will be saved in that branch. Then there is no doubt that any sort of judicious management will bring in large realizations from Government lands. These things, together with larger taxes figured on, ought of themselves to place the national finances in a flusher condition than they have been in for years. On top of all comes the two million dollars of English gold.

SILVER.
Mr. Everts recently said in the Senate that if the European Powers should not, before the next session of Congress, redress the divergence between gold and silver, the United States would have to take decisive action for herself—not by making a larger silver dollar, but by the power of law, by which alone he held the value of money was assigned. Hawaii has fortunately kept on the right track, to be out of the range of currency troubles, by adhering to the gold standard. It may be necessary to America to maintain the silver standard, but the conditions of the question are different in this country. Our products are paid for in gold, and, having no silver mines to protect, we had better stick to the gold standard.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Coral makes the best kind of a road in dry weather, but the meanest in wet, so pasty and slippery. See the Palama road.

A native policeman says he likes the HERALD, because "it talks good." We hope he may always be able to recommend this paper to his comrades, as the best preventive of sleeping on their beats.

Anybody seeing how the city is going to be improved, through the extension of the fireproof limits into the burnt district of April last, must regret that the whole territory was not included in that measure. There was no use in postponing that consummation until after another great fire, or series of smaller fires, in the remaining part of the district.

Among the important bills yet to be legislated on are those placing a charity tax on Chinese residents; providing for two additional judges on the Supreme Court bench, and granting a charter to an electric light company. We are told that one of the competitors for the latter has abandoned the struggle. It is said, also, that the opium license bill is as good as dead.

Smokers may be pleased to know that an antidote has been discovered which will enable them to enjoy their pipes and cigars without any fear of being poisoned by nicotine. It appears that water-cress destroys the toxic principle of tobacco, preserving at the same time its aroma. It is sufficient to wet the tobacco with the juice of the water-cress, which will completely deprive the tobacco of its deleterious principles.—Medical Journal.

The Fire Department.

The Board of Representatives of the Fire Department met at the Central Station last night. There was a good attendance. Almost the only business done outside of the routine was a report of progress from the Relief Committee on the firemen made destitute by the great fire in April. The committee recommended the disbursement of $635 for relief of firemen and $315 for furnishing the China Engine Company's hall when built. It is hoped that the Board will have the final report for adoption at the next meeting. The Chinese company have several sites for their hall under consideration, but are not likely to come to a decision until after the passage of the Appropriation Bill by the Legislature.

A Midnight Sooner.

Only one cell was occupied in the Station House at eleven last night, and that by a heavyweight inebriate, who, as the youngster said, was all asleep but his nose. Half an hour later two officers came up from the water front, each escorting a young wahine. The damsels were arrested on board a schooner for disturbing the quiet of the night. In the receiving room one of them acted the stage Topsy. "Oh, golly, Ise so wicked," she looked, as she snickered and winked while the officer emptied her holoku pockets of a variety of truck. The pair were making belligerent demonstrations toward each other, so that it was deemed advisable to place them in separate cells. It was a lamentable midnight scene, one that suggested a good deal of neglected responsibilities in the community.

A Dull Evening.

Last evening was so dull in town that the HERALD reporter determined to make a statistical showing of just how dull it was. Therefore he visited most of the places of resort other than the saloons, and counted heads.

At Charles McCarthy's billiard room there were two or three teams engaged over the green tables.

In the Y. M. C. A. reading room there were eight persons, four or five of whom seemed to be sailors, and the rest young boys, one of the latter being a frowsy-headed native urchin. The office, parlor and class room were deserted, while four or five men sat conversing in the portico.

Entering the Honolulu Library and Reading Room Association building, two men were observed in the game

The arrangements for the celebration of Princess Liliuokalani's birthday were all successfully carried out. Flags were flying throughout the city and on the shipping in port, in honor of the royal natal day. Marshal Kalulokou, Deputy Marshal Dayton, and the police force of about fifty men paid their respects in the early morning—the Marshal being the chief spokesman. Their greetings were cordially reciprocated by Her Royal Highness.

During the forenoon Mr. L. Montgomery Mather was presented by Major A. Rosa, and read the following address composed by himself:— TO HER ROYAL HIGHNESS PRINCESS LILIUOKALANI. Liliuokalani much loved Princess, In sweet remembrance of thy natal day, Let all thy many friends their love express— In modesty, their thoughts to thee convey. Under this clear blue sky where thou wert born, On this fair land, thy name is heard with joy, Kindness and love awake with thee each morn: A nation knows thy heart without alloy. Long live to thee, kind Princess good and true, A perfect peace and perfect health be thine, Numbering with coming years, as they ensue, Increasing friends whose hearts shall intertwine.

L. MONTGOMERY MATHER. A copy of the address, engrossed on a white satin tablet made by Mrs. Julius H. Smith, and ornamented by Mrs. Strong, was presented to the Princess by Mr. Mather.

The First Division of the Liliuokalani Educational Society presented Her Royal Highness, their President, with a set of silver spoons and forks, Miss L. Brickwood making an appropriate presentation speech, to which the Princess gave a feeling reply.

The King and Queen arrived about noon, being received by a guard of honor. His Majesty, after the interchange of salutations, assisted by Her Majesty, invested the Princess with the cordon and decoration of the Royal Order of Kapiolani, the King wearing the same insignia on the occasion.

The Second Division of the Educational Society next appeared, with the gift of an elegant silver set, suitably inscribed, comprising pitcher, cups and bowl. Her Royal Highness graciously and cordially returned her thanks to the ladies, whose spokeswoman was Mrs. Charles W. Clark.

The Kuonoono Society (Savings Bank) presented a fine tea and coffee set, Mrs. Junius Kaa addressing Her Royal Highness in Hawaiian. Other gifts were as follows:—

- Embroidered sofa cushion, by Princess Like-like; Diamond ring, by Governor Dominis; Carriage rug, by Miss Helen Cleghorn; Silver soup ladle by the First Minister, Mr. W. M. Gibson; Set of silver salt spoons, by Mrs. F. H. Hayselden; Japanese embroidered screen, by H. M. Chamberlain, Col. C. P. Iauken; Silver card case, by Hon. F. H. Hayselden; Cut glass preserve set, by Miss Liliu Carter; Silver salad fork and spoon, by Hon. and Mrs. Samuel Parker; Sugar tongs, by Miss Edith Turton; Silver bouquet holder, by Miss L. Hart; Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Hart, parents of the last mentioned, gave a rich cake.

At the noon hour His Majesty and a distinguished company held a miniature military review in an adjacent lot, the Prince's Own being put through a variety of manœuvres, which were executed very well although the ground was soft from brisk showers of rain just before. The Royal Band played at the drill and throughout the day. There were many callers of both sexes throughout the day, and a very large company was present at the feast in the afternoon, which passed off in grand style. The Ministers, Government officials, military officers, Legislative Assembly and representative citizens were present in force, leaving the city very dull all day. A large crowd of people collected in the road opposite the residence. Unfortunately, a clandestine traffic in spirits appeared to be going on in the near vicinity, which resulted in some creditable scenes. One of the soldiers became affected and played the monkey among the crowd.

At five o'clock the Prince's Own formed and marched into town, presenting a very fine appearance in step and carriage. They were headed by the band.

Last night a ball was held at the house, at which His Majesty the King, Princess Poomaikalani, the Governor of Hawaii, and other immediate friends of the Heiress Apparent were present. Only native dances were performed, and the enjoyment of the occasion was immense.

A Dull Evening.

Last evening was so dull in town that the HERALD reporter determined to make a statistical showing of just how dull it was. Therefore he visited most of the places of resort other than the saloons, and counted heads.

At Charles McCarthy's billiard room there were two or three teams engaged over the green tables.

In the Y. M. C. A. reading room there were eight persons, four or five of whom seemed to be sailors, and the rest young boys, one of the latter being a frowsy-headed native urchin. The office, parlor and class room were deserted, while four or five men sat conversing in the portico.

Entering the Honolulu Library and Reading Room Association building, two men were observed in the game room over checkers or dominoes. There were four men in the reading room, in the midst of literature for the twenty thousand.

Being told that the Honolulu Rifles kept its armory open nightly, Sundays excepted, for recreation and social intercourse, the reporter tramped out there only to find the place in darkness.

Thence going to the Yosemite skating rink, his ears were captured on approaching by strains of dulcet music. It was the regular night for a dancing class. The dancing master was cavorting round with a male pupil, while a third occupant of the floor was going it alone practising some fantastic step. The manager complacently said that it was hardly time for the class to be all there—it was a little after eight o'clock—but it was all the same to him, as the fourteen pupils enrolled paid whether they attended or not.

The Hawaiian Hotel was next visited. Half a score of sports were engaged in the card room. Two or three were liquidating their sorrows at the bar. One young man was letting himself down easy from the baseball season, by persecuting the ivory balls on a pocket table in the billiard room, while two or three sat round, one of whom said all "he news he had was that it was very hot, only he used a different term from "very."

It was getting too melancholy, however, so the final call was made at the Fort street shooting gallery. Two grown-up lads were trying their marksmanship on the big ghost away down the vista. Mr. Higgins said it was so dull on some evenings that a cannon might be fired down Fort street without hurting anybody. Unless matters livened up, he proposed to move the target into the street.

A Japanese Barrister.

Mr. Keigoro Katsura has been admitted a member of the Hawaiian bar, licensed to practise in all of the courts of the Kingdom. He came here duly accredited from a leading law school of Japan. The Justices of the Supreme Court were surprised at his attainments in law and general scholarship. He understands English thoroughly, writing it with correctness and precision, but speaking it with some difficulty in pronunciation. Mr. Katsura has gone to Hana, Maui, to engage in a case in which some of his countrymen are interested.

TRADE POINTERS.

Advertise in the DAILY HERALD.

Popularity is a fine thing, but not so fine as the goods at the Popular Millinery House.

Mr. Fishel is too busy in clearing out goods to do more than point to where his advertisement ought to be.

C. Brewer & Co. are ahead of the Government in issuing a loan, offering greater inducements besides, with their first mortgage bonds of $500 at nine per cent.

Selling old goods cheap is no great merit, but when new goods are offered at very low prices, as they are by B. E. Ehlers & Co., people buckle on their wallets and go forth to buy.

Mr. Goldberg always carries an elaborate selection of clothes and gentlemen's furnishings, and his prices cannot be demurred at. You cannot miss his stand any more than his advertisement in the HERALD.

ON A SHEEP RANCH.

DISMAL LIFE LED BY THE WRETCHED MEXICAN HERDERS.

An Excruciating Monotony About the Business of Sheep-Raising—The Mexican Herder on Duty—Hard Work and Far from Exciting—Dogs.

This is a fine sheep country, about here, and the principal ranch on Calamity creek is said to be the largest in the state. I don't know the exact number of sheep owned by the proprietor of this ranch, but it must run up into the hundreds of thousands. Twenty years ago he was a bankrupt wool merchant, in feeble health; to-day he is a ruddy-faced, hale and hearty man of 70, whose check is good for $100,000 any day.

THE MEXICAN SHEEP-HERDER. The wants of a Mexican sheep-herder are few. His ration is a half peck of corn meal, a handful of salt and a double handful of chilies per day. With this humble commissariat he will keep up life. His idea of luxury is an occasional dram of mescal or aguardiente and plenty of corn and tobacco, out of which he manufactures that indispensable accessory to Mexican well-being, the cigar. A Mexican usually engages in sheep-herding at a tender age and once began rarely relinquishes it.

We will suppose, by way of illustration, that a practical herder has been engaged to run a flock, and in the early morning, as the first gray streaks of dawn appear in the eastern sky he sallies forth to take charge of his woolly flock, who are beginning to awake and leave their bedding-places. If he is a Mexican, he looks extremely picturesque in his bright blue jacket, with its double row of silver buttons, which, by the way, are not for use, but solely for ornament, for a Mexican never buttons his jacket, else he would hide his gaudy calico shirt. On his nother limbs are leggings of leather or buckskin, to protect his legs from the sharp thorns through which he will be forced to march.

As the sheep begin to move off he saunters slowly along behind them, keeping a sharp lookout for stragglers. Sheep do not travel fast, but they keep moving. At meridian they will begin to feed back toward the bedding-places. There the herder will eat his humble dinner of tortillas and chili, washed down by a draught of water, if he is fortunate enough to be in the vicinity of a spring or water hole. About sundown the sheep will reach their camp and begin to select beds for the night. The herder has a rude shelter near by. He builds himself a fire and cooks his tortillas. Possibly he may have killed a quail or a jack rabbit during the day. If so, he makes a savory soup. Then he smokes his cigar and walks around the flock to see that none are missing. If all is well he returns to his camp and, rolling himself in his serape, lies down. He may have a good night's sleep and he may not. A careful herder will be aroused if a single sheep moves and will immediately rise up to see what is the matter. If a bear or cougar or tiger-cat is lurking about he will hunt for the rascal and either kill him or frighten him away.

Some of the herders have dogs—dogs peculiar to the frontier, with more or less wolf blood in their veins. They are a surly and unsocial brute and far from handsome. They are susceptible, however, of a high degree of education and their sagacity in the matter of tending sheep is something marvelous. I have known dogs that would herd 2,000 sheep, unaided, and never lose an animal. The sheepmen oppose dogs. They say it makes the herders lazy and careless. They neglect their duty and depend upon the judgment and sagacity of the dog to run things.—Texas Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Beautiful Currant Jelly in France. M. Charles Girard, chemist of Paris, recently amused himself by investigation of the ingredients of a beautiful red currant jelly clairly put up for export to the United States. There was not an atom of fruit in the mass, as was demonstrated by the adding to it of methylated alcohol, which would have turned it green had it contained any fruit acid. It was found to consist of gelatine, sweetened with glycerine residue colored with pichette (a poisonous mineral extract), and flavored with no one knows what. A great many people in this country imagine no currant jelly so good as that which is imported from France.—Boston Budget.

THE DAILY HERALD.
FRIDAY, SEPT. 3, 1886.

THE BORROWING BUSINESS.

When Mr. Gibson announced in the Legislature that the Government had abandoned the intention of raising a special loan, we doubt not every sensible heart in and out of the Legislature rejoiced. The Opposition in the Assembly applauded, and there passed through the community a sentiment of approval. Perhaps the Ministry was not given credit for having voluntarily changed base, but there was no question as to the force of the reasons given for the new policy. By the amount to be reasonably expected from our own people, through the Savings Bank; by the realizations from the reclaimed land on the Honolulu Esplanade and from other property, and by the saving from the adoption of a common-sense scheme for increasing the city water supply, in addition to prospects of an enhanced ordinary revenue, it was calculated that the Government would have ample means to cancel all outstanding obligations and meet the expenditures of an unusually large Appropriation Act. To have the clear and unmistakable enunciation of such a policy followed, within a week or ten days, by the announcement that the Ministry never meant to have abandoned the loan bill, and that its being called up and made a special order of the day was done with the Ministerial sanction and concurrence, must have been a shock to even those who are familiar with Gibsonian administration.

One of the most crafty pretexts advanced for the sudden reversal of policy was that an effort would be made to raise the loan at home. "We desire to borrow from our own capitalists," says the Premier in effect. The Advertiser, striving to keep track of the sinuous policy of the Government, re-echoes the sentiment. Yet the loan bill is rushed through and an agent is posted off, in almost indecent haste, to overtake the representative of foreign capitalists and induce him to negotiate the loan on the London market. In view of the facts, it is hypocritical for the mouth-pieces of the Ministry to keep up the talk about borrowing at home. If the English agent takes a single bond, he will take the whole. That is well known in this community. It would be more acceptable to the capitalists represented by Mr. Armstrong if the loan bill was for five millions instead of two millions. Therefore, it is utterly absurd to discuss the possibility of a portion of the two millions of bonds being disposed of here, while a duly authorized agent of this Government is flying to make terms with the foreign agent for taking the whole.

Meantime the Government are borrowing at home, but not under the Loan Act. The news given in the HERALD of the success of the Savings Bank proves that Mr. Gibson was not oversanguine in sizing that source of revenue. From all appearances the Treasury will have the benefit of at least a million of money from our own people, deposited in the Postal Savings Bank within the current period. If the improvements now making in the Water Works, at comparatively small expense, result as well as anticipated, much money will be saved in that branch. Then there is no doubt that any sort of judicious management will bring in large realizations from Government lands. These things, together with larger taxes figured on, ought of themselves to place the national finances in a flusher condition than they have been in for years. On top of all comes the two million dollars of English gold.

SILVER.

Mr. Everts recently said in the Senate that if the European Powers should not, before the next session of Congress, redress the divergence between gold and silver, the United States would have to take decisive action for herself—not by making a larger silver dollar, but by the power of law, by which alone he held the value of money was assigned. Hawaii has fortunately kept on the right track, to be out of the range of currency troubles, by adhering to the gold standard. It may be necessary to America to maintain the silver standard, but the conditions of the question are different in this country. Our products are paid for in gold, and, having no silver mines to protect, we had better stick to the gold standard.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Coral makes the best kind of a road in dry weather, but the meanest in wet, so pasty and slippery. See the Palama road.

A native policeman says he likes the HERALD, because "it talks good." We hope he may always be able to recommend this paper to his comrades, as the best preventive of sleeping on their beats.

Anybody seeing how the city is going to be improved, through the extension of the fireproof limits into the burnt district of April last, must regret that the whole territory was not included in that measure. There was no use in postponing that consummation until after another great fire, or series of smaller fires, in the remaining part of the district.

Among the important bills yet to be legislated on are those placing a charity tax on Chinese residents; providing for two additional judges on the Supreme Court bench, and granting a charter to an electric light company. We are told that one of the competitors for the latter has abandoned the struggle. It is said, also, that the opium license bill is as good as dead.

Smokers may be pleased to know that an antidote has been discovered which will enable them to enjoy their pipes and cigars without any fear of being poisoned by nicotine. It appears that water-cress destroys the toxic principle of tobacco, preserving at the same time its aroma. It is sufficient to wet the tobacco with the juice of the water-cress, which will completely deprive the tobacco of its deleterious principles.—Medical Journal.

ON A SHEEP RANCH.

DISMAL LIFE LED BY THE WRETCHED MEXICAN HERDERS.

An Excruciating Monotony About the Business of Sheep-Herding—The Mexican Herder on Duty—Hard Work and Far from Exciting—Dogs.

This is a fine sheep country about here, and the principal ranch on Calamity creek is said to be the largest in the state. I don't know the exact number of sheep owned by the proprietor of this ranch, but it must run up into the hundreds of thousands. Twenty years ago he was a bankrupt wool merchant, in feeble health; to-day he is a ruddy-faced, hale and hearty man of 70, whose check is good for $100,000 any day. With an original plant of 500 ewes, his flock has steadily increased to its present proportions and they literally roam on a thousand hills. Sheep require a good deal of care and attention and every man who undertakes sheep raising is not successful at it. A man who invests in horned cattle will get rich in spite of himself. It requires a peculiar sort of business sagacity to manage sheep and make the investment a paying one. Out here they are principally Mexicans, although necessity forces a few white men to turn to the business temporarily as a means of livelihood. They never stay long at it, however. There is an excruciating monotony about sheep-herding which causes a white man to wish he had never been born after a few months' experience. Now that the railroad has been put through a great many big sheep men are importing Chinamen from California to take the place of the Mexicans, who require a great deal of watching.

THE MEXICAN SHEEP-HERDER.
The wools of a Mexican sheep-herder are few. His ration is a half peck of corn meal, a handful of salt and a double handful of chilies per day. With this humble commissariat he will keep up life. His idea of luxury is an occasional dram of mescal or aguardiente and plenty of cora husks and tobacco, out of which he manufactures that indispensable accessory to Mexican well-being, the cigaro. A Mexican usually engages in sheep-herding at a tender age and once began rarely relinquishes it. A Mexican is conservative and content with the established order of things. They have made no progress in 80 years. This fact makes them good sheep-herders. Conservatism and lack of progress are prime requisites in a sheep-herder. After a year's faithful apprenticeship at sheep-herding a Mexican boy has the trade learned and is ready to peon himself for life. He usually does. I have known a Mexican herder, after twenty-five years' faithful service, to die as many hundred dollars in debt to the man whose flock he has carefully tended for a quarter of a century. That is where sheep-herding pays.

We will suppose, by way of illustration, that a practical herder has been engaged to run a flock, and in the early morning, as the first gray streaks of dawn appear in the eastern sky he sallies forth to take charge of his woolly flock, who are just beginning to awake and leave their bedding-place. If he is a Mexican, he looks extremely picturesque in his bright blue jacket, with its double row of silver buttons, which, by the way, are not for use, but solely for ornament, for a Mexican never buttons his jacket, else he would hide his gaudy calico shirt. On his nether limbs are leggings of leather or buckskin, to protect his legs from the sharp thorns through which he will be forced to march. These are kept in place by a crimson, orange or blue sash, over which is buckled a broad belt full of cartridges. On his head is the inevitable sombrero, with its ornamentation of gold and silver lace. If he is a sensible man, his serape will be tied over one shoulder and under the opposite arm and he will carry a Winchester rifle and a sharp butcher knife.

THE HERDER WHEN ON DUTY.
As the sheep begin to move off he saunters slowly along behind them, keeping a sharp lookout for stragglers. Shoes do not travel fast, but they keep moving. At meridian they will begin to feed back toward the bedding-place. There the herder will eat his humble dinner of tortillas and chili, washed down by a draught of water, if he is fortunate enough to be in the vicinity of a spring or water hole. About sundown the sheep will reach their camp and begin to select beds for the night. The herder has a rude shelter near by. He builds himself a fire and cooks his tortillas. Possibly he may have killed a quail or a jack rabbit during the day. If so, he makes a savory soup. Then he smokes his cigaro and walks around the flock to see that none are missing. If all is well he returns to his camp and, rolling himself in his serape, lies down. He may have a good night's sleep and he may not. A careful herder will be aroused if a single sheep moves and will immediately rise up to see what is the matter. If a bear or cougar or tiger-cat is lurking about he will hunt for the varmint and either kill him or frighten him away. Above all things he must guard against a stampede, for if the stamping sheep once get started there is no stopping them. The herd would become scattered, many would be lost and the herder would be charged up with the missing sheep.

In the lambing season his duties are more arduous and he is often up all night. There he must watch for the appearance of "scab" or any of the other countless diseases to which sheep are subject, and report to the captain, who makes known the fact through the regular channel to the ranch superintendent. If it is the scab, the sheep are driven up to the ranch and run through a dip. I helped dip a lot of sheep once. It is hard work and far from exciting. In fact, everything pertaining to sheep is like the foolish animals, tame and uninteresting. The sheep are sheared once a year, usually in May. This is the sheep man's harvest and the big pile of wool which rewards him represents the profits of the business.

Some of the herders have dogs—dogs peculiar to the frontier, with more or less wolf blood in their veins. They are a surly and unsocial brute and far from handsome. They are susceptible, however, of a high degree of education and their sagacity in the matter of tending sheep is something marvelous. I have known dogs that would herd 2,000 sheep, unaided, and never lose an animal. The sheepmen oppose dogs. They say it makes the herders lazy and careless. They neglect their duty and depend upon the judgment and sagacity of the dog to run things.—Texas Cor. Philadelphia Times.

Beautiful Currant Jelly to France.
M. Charles Girard, chemist of Paris, recently amused himself by investigation of the ingredients of a beautiful red currant jelly obtained by put up for export to the United States. There was not an atom of fruit in the mass, as was demonstrated by the adding to it of methylated alcohol, which would have turned it green had it contained any fruit acid. It was found to consist of gelatine, sweetened with glycerine residue colored with pichette in poisonous mineral extract, and flavored with no one knows what. A great many people in this country imagine no currant jelly so good as that which is imported from France.—Boston Budget.

Business men are solicited to test the advantages of THE DAILY HERALD

ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.

Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.
