NOTES OF THE WEEK.

THE STEAMER AUSTRALIA.—The steamer Australia will be due here tomorrow morning, if she sailed on schedule time—Monday, March 28th.

THE CHURCHES.—The churches of the city were beautifully decorated with flowers and evergreens, and special services adapted to the occasion were held.

MR. J. W. INGRAM.—Mr. J. W. Ingram has left our city a messenger, accompanied by his wife, the "Maggie Queen," which takes out at 10 o'clock, and carries passengers with the utmost safety. We recommend housekeepers to try it.

THE FRIEND COMES OUT.—This week more readable than ever. Among other attractions it contains a picture of the monument at Kalahele, which gives a very good idea of the obelisk. The engraving was executed by Mr. James Auld of the Gazette office.

THE LITTLE SCHOONER KAKAIA.—The little schooner Kakaia, which arrived on Monday from San Francisco, was purchased there by Messrs. Allen & Robinson for the coasting service. She has the look of a pilot boat, and reminds one of the Moa Kakaia, which formerly plied on the Kakaia route.

THE STEAMER KILAUWA.—The steamer Kilauwa resumed her trips on Monday last, taking a large passenger and freight list. Her time table for the current quarter will be found in to-day's paper. Next week she makes her regular trip to Hawaii, and the 30th instant goes to Kalahele, returning on the 23rd.

A WEDDING.—The Fort Street Church was the scene of an interesting ceremony on Monday evening, being the occasion of the marriage of Mr. J. D. Conklin and Miss Margaret A. Nott. After the ceremony the young couple proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where they received the congratulations of their numerous friends.

FINE PORTRAITS OF PRESIDENT HAYES.—Mr. Hayes may be found in Harper's Weekly for March 17th, from which paper the notice of the new President, inserted on our editorial page, was taken. Mr. W. M. Evans, the eminent New York lawyer, has been called to the presidency of the new cabinet. He is unquestionably the ablest lawyer in America, and if he succeeds in maintaining the character of American diplomacy with the greatest fidelity, his name will be very fortunate.

DUST TO DUST.—On Thursday last, at 10 A.M., the funeral of his late Highness Charles Kanaloa, took place in accordance with the programme published last week. Detachments from the household troops and from the volunteer companies of the city under the command of Major Guilek, formed a considerable part of the cortege. There were also quite a number of retainers and tenants of the deceased high chief. The funeral was a very impressive one, and was attended by a large number of the Hawaiian people.

ALMOST CALLED.—About three o'clock Monday morning some burglariously inclined individual made an attempt to open the door of the sleeping room of the American Vice Consul, Mr. Russell. Not succeeding, he made a similar attempt at the door of Dr. Kakaia's room, but by this time both gentlemen were aroused from sleep, and set out in pursuit of the disturber of their peace, but his whereabouts for the time being were not ascertained. It is believed that the burglar was a native Hawaiian, and that he was attempting to steal some of the valuables of the Vice Consul.

ANOTHER FIRE.—On Monday night last week a fire occurred at Waiola, in Koolau, on this island, in which two wooden houses, containing several hundred bags of rice, and a quantity of peanuts, were burned to the ground, with all their contents. From the fact that parts of the building were saturated with kerosene oil, the fire is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. The loss sustained by the owner, Mr. J. W. Evans, is estimated at $10,000. The cause of the fire is still a mystery, and the authorities are endeavoring to trace the incendiary.

DIUGHT IN AUSTRALIA.—While New Zealand is suffering from an excess of rain, as reported elsewhere, parts of Australia are cursed with terrible drought, so severe that nearly every sheep station in New South Wales has lost from 1,000 to 50,000 head of sheep, and the total loss is estimated at over one million sheep. A letter received from a gentleman residing in New South Wales, who is a large sheep owner, states that the drought is so severe that the sheep are dying of starvation, and that the owners are forced to sell them at a very low price. The drought is believed to be the result of a combination of causes, including a lack of rain and a high temperature.

REAL ESTATE.—The triangular lot of land, near the upper Makiki bridge and adjoining the residence of Major Woodhouse, was sold at public auction on the 1st, for $250,000, purchased by Mr. J. W. Evans. The lot is situated on the corner of the intersection of the Makiki and the Kakaia roads, and is bounded by the residence of Major Woodhouse on the north, by the residence of Mr. J. W. Evans on the south, and by the residence of Mr. J. W. Evans on the east. The lot is of a triangular shape, and is situated on the corner of the intersection of the Makiki and the Kakaia roads.

FIRE LIVE STOCK.—Mr. Charles Alexander, who returned from California on the barkentine Discovery on Monday, brought a handsome stallion of the pure Morgan breed. He is about nine years old, and has already acquired a favorable reputation in the district where he was raised. The horse is of a dark bay color, and is of a fine build. He is said to be a very good runner, and is capable of carrying a heavy load. The price paid for him was $500. Mr. Alexander also brought down twelve pure blooded bucks from the celebrated Berkeley ranch of Mr. Woolsey. These are destined for the sheep ranch on the summit of Kalahele, and are expected to be of great value to the owner.

FIRE ON THE KAKAIA PLANTATION.—On Thursday night about eight o'clock the boiling house of this plantation, was discovered to be on fire, and in a short time it was wholly consumed, with the greater part of its contents. There were about ten tons of sugar in the house, and the sugar was all lost. The cause of the fire is still a mystery, and the authorities are endeavoring to trace the incendiary. The plantation is owned by Mr. J. W. Evans, and is situated on the Kakaia road.
