THAT'S ALL.

BY M. QUAD.

One night, when his stomach had rebelled at the coarse fare of the poorhouse table, and he had been cursed and sneered at and told that it was too good for him, he sat by the open window and looked out into the darkness. His wounds pained and his heart ached, but not for long. The rat! tat! tat! of the drum suddenly came to his ears, and through the gloom of night he caught sight of a waving flag and marching men. It was a company marching away to the war. New life came to his blood—new strength to his limbs. He looked more closely, and he saw that he himself marched in the ranks and waved his cap in response to the cheers of the populace.

The vision changed. There was the rattle of musketry and the boom of cannon, and a battle was on. He saw regiment after regiment advance, halt, oblique to right or left. Batteries galloped here and there, bodies of cavalry thundered along with banners and guidons hidden in the smoke. His own regiment moved forward to the edge of the woods, and directly there was a blaze of fire all along its front. It was advancing again, the men were cheering, when darkness suddenly came to him. He had been wounded. In his vision he saw the hospital to which he was borne, heard the groans of the wounded, caught the whispered words of a surgeon: "Very seriously wounded, but I hope we may save him."

The vision changed, and the roar and crash of Antietam came to his ears. He was a corporal then. When the smoke cleared away he looked down at his sleeve and it bore the stripes of a sergeant. There was silence for a time, broken only by the wind rustling among the apple trees and whirling away the dead and dying leaves. Then came a crash and din as if the earth was breaking up. It was the guns on Falmouth Heights bombarding Fredericksburg. When their roar died away he crossed the historic river—he pushed up the narrow streets—he faced the deadly stone wall at the foot of Marye's Hill. Night came to him again. Another bullet had plowed its way into his flesh.

Again the roar and din of battle came to him. It was the terrific crash at Gettysburg. His sleeve now bore the insignia of an orderly sergeant, and as he looked up and down the lines of his company he was amazed to see how few men were left him, and how bronzed and old their faces looked. The earth shook as if earthquakes were battling Death laughed at the prospect of such a harvest, men were no longer men, but demons. The crash died away, and there came the vengeful crackle of musketry. Right into the flame of fire advanced the sergeant, waving his cap to cheer his men, but it was not for long. Darkness came for the third time, and it was long hours before daylight came again and he knew that he was a cripple for life and had fought his last battle.

There was a vision of crutches—of home—of sympathetic words, but it was crowded out of sight by a clearer one in which the word "Poverty!" seemed to extend from east to west. If he drank—if he was weak-minded—if the troubles of life bore him down, the world should remember that he had been a soldier.

The vision of a poor old cripple was clear to his eyes when his ears caught the sounds of a muffled drum and the tramp of men. From out of the darkness came six men bearing a pall, and they were followed by soldiers with bowed heads and reversed muskets. Who was the dead soldier on the pall? Something forced him to lift the flag and look upon the face of the dead. He started back in horror. He saw his own corpse!

"Heigho!" called a gruff voice as the sun of morning shone upon the poor-house again. "but here's a go! This crippled old soldier has died at his post! Tell the men to get him to the dead room and dig a grave as soon as possible." "And the headstone?" "Oh, yes; JOHN DOE. Died at the County House Sept. 10, 1885. "That's enough—that's all!" —Detroit Free Press.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT.

There is ample time before the February Elections come off for the voters to do a little sober thinking on the situation. To think a little and to act much may be the best method in times of emergency, and for persons of high intellectual calibre, much thinking is not necessary; but for citizens of the ordinary quality, a long process of thought is required to yield a vigorous crop of action. After three months' wear of their cogitation caps, the voters of Hawaii ought to be able to show something respectable in the form of a legislature next April. Some better material than civil service officials can doubtless be found to deliberate on the ways and means by which the problems of immigration, labor and finance are to be solved. It is of the first importance to a satisfactory settlement of these questions that the "assembled wisdom" of the Kingdom consist of a body of independent men. The utter incongruity of the same men occupying the double position of legislators and employees in the civil service should be apparent to any mind, however obtuse. The civil service is separate and distinct from the legislative body in every civil constitution worthy of the name. That it is otherwise in this Kingdom is, in itself, sufficient to account for public affairs being in a muddle. And reform in legislation may be set down as indefinitely postponed while the legislative bodies are constituted as they are at present. How a radical change is possible to be effected may be an open question, but the indispensable necessity for such a change is patent to every man interested in the success of civilization. An act of the legislature, supposing such a thing possible, under present circumstances might or might not be an effectual remedy for the trouble complained of. The act might pass through all the stages of parliamentary incubation, and come forth a dead chicken. The independence of Parliament Act can be passed in electoral districts, by electors quietly excluding all office holders from their lists of nominees. One evil will thus be effectually abolished, and with a House of Nobles and Representatives free from the leading strings which no office holder can break away from, measures of popular reform would follow as a natural sequence. What is now impossible might then be practicable. The responsibility of crown ministers to the representatives of the nation would be the next step in the upward move ment towards a complete constitutional system. While an irresponsible ministry controls a servile parliament, government can be little better than an out and out tyranny.

NEWS AND NOTES.

J. Beayer Webb, designer of the Genesta and Galatea, has challenged the New York Yacht Club for a race next year, with the latter boat, for the America Cup. The proposal is for the best three out of five races to win, and Lieut. Henn, owner of the Galatea, suggests that at least two races be sailed outside of Newport, R. I. Webb is more confident of the Galatea than of the Genesta, and the former has beaten the latter several times in English waters.

The French and Hovas had an indecisive fight at Passantova Bay, Madagascar, Sept. 26th, the French losing twenty-one killed and wounded, and the Hovas 200. Port Natamandry has been blockaded by the French fleet, and Admiral Miot has gone to Majunga.

Cardinal Manning's articles on how Catholics ought to vote in the coming election have appeared in the Dublin Review. The Cardinal defends Parliament and the constitution even though oppressing Catholicism. He praises the liberalism which is devoted to the care of the poor, the change of land laws and the enforcement of local option. He strongly denounces secular education and urges Catholics to place the religious question foremost and to support only those candidates who are in favor of placing voluntary schools as the vital question in Christian education and of appointing a Royal Commission to examine the education question.

A Constantinople despatch of Oct. 10th says: Sir Henry Drummond Wolff's mission has been crowned with success. His understanding with the Porte on Egyptian affairs is complete and an imperial trade will shortly be issued sanctioning the arrangement, the principal points of which are: Turkey appoints six commissioners—two for finance, two for military organization and two for general administration; England, on her side, appoints a similar number. When the labors of these men have been completed and Egyptian affairs have been placed on a satisfactory footing, the British occupation will cease.

One of the most poverty-stricken mashes in the West End applied to a well-known gallant Colonel for the hand of his daughter. "In the first place I have sent in my application to a member of Parliament, friend of my father's, for a position in one of the departments." "Have you any other resources?" asked the prospective father-in-law. "Oh, yes, I'm seriously thinking about giving up smoking." "Pa," exclaimed the young lady, "that's enough for us to begin with, isn't it?"

The Berlin National Zeitung says Germany will join the bimetallic conference when England consents to do likewise. The Oregon Legislature is called for special session on November 9th, to consider "matters of vital importance to the people of Oregon." At a banquet in Victoria, British Columbia, Oct. 10th, Lord Lansdowne spoke forcibly on the subject of the imperial federation, which comprehends the admission of the colonies to a representation in London and their government directly from London. It is likely to be an important question at the elections next summer. His Excellency intimated also that Esquimaux would be fortified and be made the great British arsenal of the Pacific.

THIS Company, while thanking the public for its generous support, are still able to furnish first-class teams. The steady advancement of this Company since its organization, two years ago, has convinced us that persons who drive their own teams not only make steady competent drivers, but, as a rule, are not likely to charge more than legal rates. Any passenger overcharged by any of our drivers will, on application to our office, have the overcharge promptly returned. The object of the United Carriage Company is to supply the public with good teams at legitimate rates of fare, and hope by so doing to merit, in the future, the same liberal patronage that we have received in the past. some had gone to the other islands in search of work without success.

THERE will be no performance of the Circus to-night or to-morrow, but two performances on Saturday.

On that evening King Kalakaua will attend the show. A successful performance to a fair tent was given last night.

PASSENGERS destined for the American overland journey all seem to favor the Great Burlington Route, for which Mr. J. E. Wiseman is agent. The general agent on the Coast, Mr. Thos. D. McKay, is about as well-known here as in his own country.

MR. WISEMAN has advices of the coming of the "Merry-Makers" from Fiji by the November boat.
Wash Norton is manager, and Madame Rita and John Radeliff, who have a favorable record in both operatic and comic performances, are in the troupe.

A CITIZEN has complained to our reporter that the scavengers from the prison, employed in cleaning the streets, are doing their work very slovenly. They merely scrape off the loose dirt, and do not scoop out the drains nor clear the sidewalks of cumbering vegetation.
The same gentleman considers that nothing short of a thorough quarterly street-cleaning will be satisfactory.

MR. MORGAN introduced a poll parrot to his audience in Messrs.
E. P. Adams & Co.'s salesroom this morning, with the testimony that it was highly educated and free from all the vices of civilization. The auctioneer, however, could not vouch for the accomplished and exemplary bird's politics, which was a fatal mistake in view of the approaching elections, and no satisfactory bid was given.

At the adjourned meeting of the Honolulu Boating Association last evening it was voted to have but one turning point in the races of the 16th. The motion was carried by six votes to five, and as dissatisfaction was evident the motion may be reconsidered at the next meeting.
There was considerable discussion about rules and the racing courses.
The meeting adjourned at 11 o'clock until next Monday night.

APPEARANCES indicate that the Honolulu Yacht and Boat Club will fail to bring a six-oared crew to the front on November 16th. One of the members says there are six men now in practice, who, if they joined hands, would give a good account of the Club even if they did not win.
Some impatience for the appearing of the programme is being manifested in boating circles. Only three weeks remain till the regatta, which is little enough time for the particulars to be known.

A GENTLEMAN, handed in, this morning, a solution of the "Problem for the Curious" which appeared in yesterday's reprint selections. The division of the liquor is effected by six separate changes commencing with the eight gallon keg full, and the three and five empty, and standing in the order of 8 (full) 5 (empty) 3 (empty). After each change, the number of gallons in the kegs, arranged in this manner, will be respectively: 3, 5, 0; 3, 2, 3; 6, 2, 0; 6, 0, 2; 1, 5, 2; 1, 4, 3.

The first regular meeting of the Bethel Social Union, under the amended constitution, was held last evening, Mr. Henderson, President, in the chair. At a previous meeting held on the 20th inst., it was resolved to amend the clause of the constitution relating to membership, by constituting all members of the congregation members of the Social Union. The revised constitution and by-laws will be printed and distributed among the members. It was resolved to hold the next social at 7.30 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, November 17th, in the Sunday school room.

LAST night's performance of the opera company consisted of sacred music. The audience was very small, but the singers heroically went through their numbers, acquitting themselves on the whole with credit. To-night the concert opens with the sextette from Donizetti's "Lucia," and the second part will be the entire third act of Gounod's grand opera "Faust." Mr. Robert Love, manager of the Royal Australian Circus, has generously tendered his assistance in the benefit to be given Mr. Charles Throver to-morrow evening. He is a practiced musician, tenor being his forte in vocalism.

His Excellency George W. Merrill, U. S. Minister Resident, has investigated the case of Minnie Delaney, detained in the Station House, and satisfied himself that the Deputy Marshal was only performing his duty. The girl will be sent to her home in Nevada by Saturday's steamer. The accusation against her is petty larceny, but it is supposed she purposely made herself liable to the charge in order to escape from the employment of the man Ludzowicke, who was fined $200 the other day for selling liquor without a license. This base fellow, who has a sort of variety shop on Queen street, engaged the girl, she says, for house service, but discovered that her employer was actuated by vile motives.

THE OLDEST SAILOR.

The two oldest naval beneficiaries in the country walked together across the lawn at the Naval Asylum on Gray's Ferry road, Philadelphia, blithe and quite joyous and lively under the influence of the September sun's rays. One, a white haired man, with a rugged face, bronzed gray eyes; the other, a sleek-coated horse, black as a raven, who ambled beside his companion. The first was Nathaniel Sarvis, aged 99 last June, a sailor of the war of 1812, who fought with Perry in 1813 on Lake Erie; the second, "Billy," a horse who has been at the Naval Asylum for twenty-five years, is 36 years old and has been a pensioner for fourteen years.

"I was born on the 15th day of June, 1786," said Sarvis, straightening his bowed form, shifting his quid and closing his weather eye, "and Boston was the place of my nativity. I haven't been there in fifty years. I was born in Hanover street. I used to play on the Common when a boy. They pastured the Governor's cow there then. My great grandsire came over on the Mayflower and my father was a sailor during the revolutionary war on the frigate Alliance. He was a sailmaker by trade, and made the first suit of canvas for the old war ship Constitution. I worked with him for a while, but when the war broke out I listed on the Constitution.
I had served an apprenticeship as blacksmith and entered the service as an armorer. In the fall of 1812 I was transferred to the lakes and reported for duty aboard the frigate Niagara, which was commanded by Capt. Elliott. I afterwards served on the Ohio, under Dobbins, and then Gen. Pike, under Chauncey. I was with Chauncey on Lake Champlain.

"I did not take part in the great naval battle on Lake Erie, being ashore at that time superintending the transportation of ammunition to the fleet. We knew that a great battle had taken place and I started in a boat with two men for Put-in-Bay. Before we reached that port we met Capt. Dobbins, of the Ohio, in his gig.

"'Boys,' said he, standing up on the stern thwarts, 'there's been a big battle and the fleet's captured.'
'Our fleet?' we cried in dismay.
'No!' he thundered; 'the enemy's, and you must give three cheers for the Stars and Stripes.'

"We gave the cheers with a will and continued on our course. In about an hour we met the fleet and I saw Commodore Perry and his little brother, who was a midship-man, as they pulled away from the flagship in the Commodore's barge.
Perry was a fine man and the humblest sailor I liked him. He was very pleasant mannered, of middle height, wore a full black beard and his eyes were as an eagle's. As we passed by him we unshipped our oars and, standing up, cheered him. He rose and, bowing, lifted his cocked hat.
When peace was declared I entered the coasting trade and followed the seas for years. I'm here now, and being the oldest beneficiary they treat me like a baby and give me everything I want."

THE EVILS OF TOBACCO.

Sarvis, in his prime, was a man of splendid physique, five feet eleven inches tall and weighing 180 pounds.
He is still able to walk about and visits the city occasionally. For seventy-five years he has smoked and chewed excessively and has never been sick a day. He never touched liquor until about six months ago, when the surgeon ordered him to drink a bottle of beer daily. He has been growing feeble and within the last month the beer has been changed to milk punch, of which his ration is a pint.
He cast his first vote for President Madison in 1809 and has voted the straight Democratic ticket ever since.—Philadelphia Times.

—Further cases of small-pox have lated at the quarantine station.

It is said that the girls in the because they know so much about men. We fear these young ladies make a mistake when they judge all men by the kind they usually meet in Washington.—New York Graph-

A curiosity in the way of funeral notices is one lately printed in the Brooklyn papers. It is published in the columns of notices of deaths, and is in the usual form in every respect, except that it ends with the suggestive sentence: "He has bequeathed to his young widow 25,000."—Troy Press.

"And, dearest Augustus, when we are married you will give me all the pin money I want, won't you, darling?" "Yes, duckie, you shall buy all pins you can use." "Oh, deary, that's so nice of you. There's a beautiful diamond pin down at the jeweler's that I've wanted for ever so long."—Troy Times.

"I have here," said a sad-eyed man with a roll of manuscript under his arm, "a little poem—" "Sorry I can't use it," interrupted the editor; "but—" "On 'Autumn Leaves,'" continued the sad eyed, without noticing the interruption.
"O! beg your pardon," said the editor; "can use it with pleasure.
I was afraid it was a poem on Jumbo."—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

The wretched work passed off in the most pretentious papers is enough to afflict the nerves of the eye permanently, while the poorest ought to be prohibited by law. Illustration runs mad in every shape. Let us have better pictures or none at all.

HIS HONOR AND BIJAH.

"Moses Taylor, I can't have it—no, I can't and won't!" These words were addressed by his Honor to a tall and weary-looking colored man of an uncertain age, who promptly inquired: "Judge, was dat ear remark impressed to me?" "Of course I mean you!" "An' what has I bin doin'?" "Last night at 10 o'clock you were lively drunk, and you waltzed your way up one street and down another, singing at the top of voice: "In Chicago there lives, as I've often been told, Such a sweet cull'd gal as you seldom did see; An' she sighs fur to marry some barber so bold. An' dat same bold barber am sartingly me."

"Never! I'll die first!" Bijah advanced and clasped his arms about her and lugged her off, and amidst her shrieks and screams and vows of vengeance cut ad-journed.—Detroit Free Press.

STATEMENT.

THE undersigned, a Committee of Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, appointed to formulate the views of the Board on the advantages offered by the Society to the public, report:— 1st—The Society issues all the approved forms of assurance, including Ordinary Life, Endowment and Tontine policies. It is immaterial to the Directors which form of policy is taken by intending assurers. 2d—The Life and Endowment forms of policy provide for annual cash dividends and a surrender value; are indisputable after three years and payable immediately after proof of death. 3d—The premiums on a Tontine policy are the same as on the Ordinary Life, but, while the latter is only payable in the event of death, the holder of the Tontine policy has the right to draw the whole of the reserve and the accumulated profits in cash at the end of a stated period; thus, during his own lifetime, after his producing years are past, he can, without any larger premium than on an ordinary policy, secure these greater advantages. 4th—Experience shows that the return paid in cash on maturing Tontine policies approximates to or exceeds the amount of premiums paid by policyholders, so that the average cost of the assurance will be only about the interest on the premiums. 5th—Tontine policies, like others, are paid in full in the event of death at any time during the term of the policy, and are incontestable after three years, and payable immediately after due proof of death. 6th—Experience shows that the mortality is lower among Tontine policyholders, as the better lives seek this kind of assurance, which is a considerable source of profit. 7th—Tontine policies will be made non-forfeitable under the laws of the State, if so desired at the time the assurance is effected. 8th—The Tontine system is fair and just; its accounts are accurately kept, separate from all other business; the funds judiciously invested and improved, and the accumulated profits faithfully guarded and properly apportioned. 9th—The Society has since its organization transacted a large amount of new business than any other company, while its new business for the first half of the present year is $1,750,000 larger than that of the first half of 1884. It has Assets of $60,000,000; over $14,000,000 of Surplus, and its ratio of Surplus to Liability is greater than that of any other company. CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW, JOHN A. STEWART, EUGENE KELLY, WILLIAM A. WHEELLOCK, CHARLES G. LANDON, JOHN SLOANE, HENRY B. HYDE, Committee of the Board of Directors of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. ALEX. J.
