THE LAND THE GOVERNOR WANTS IN EXCHANGE FOR LANAI

A list of the lands that the Territorial government is desirous of obtaining in possible exchange of the Lanai lands, is at the office of Land Commissioner J. W. Pratt. The list shows that the property desired by the government is considerably in excess upon its assessed value of the value of the government lands on Lanai. Every piece of land on the list with one exception is intended for some improvement of the schools in the city of Honolulu.

The list with the assessed value including improvements, is as follows: Property belonging to Captain W. Simerson $1600, Mrs. Yowell $1250, J. A. Magoon $900 adjoining the rear of Kalulani and the Girls' Industrial schools.

Kuleanas in the Waialeale tract by the Boys' Industrial School $4,204 total $167,324.

Coney Estate on Tantalus $70,000. Hopper premises, corner King and Punchbowl streets $17,500.

Walters property on Kapiolani street in rear of Normal school $5,000.

Merten's property corner of Victoria Young and Beretania streets, $20,000. Cecil Brown's property on Young street adjoining the Merten's property $5,500.

Lands belonging to Mrs. A. M. L. Smith $4,500 and A. Spilner $4,500 adjoining Normal school.

Property belonging to Mrs. A. J. Burgess $6,000, S. K. Kalama $4,900 and Mrs. A. M. L. Smith $6,500 on Fort and Vineyard streets, adjoining the High School.

Property belonging to T. B. Lyons $1,500, S. Kamakau $6,500, Kalawaumoku $1300, Rose Silva $2,600 and Hopoi $3,570 on Punchbowl and Emma streets adjoining the Royal School.

The land in securing the Coney Tantalus property is to use as a park and forest reserve.

The Hopper premises are desired to enlarge the Punchbowl street school. The government has to vacate the little school in the rear of the Kawaiahao church and that school is to be added to the Punchbowl street school. But the present quarters on Punchbowl street are not large enough and unless the government is to secure an entirely different site the Hopper property will be needed.

The Walters, Spilner and Smith land near the Normal are desired for use in enlarging the Normal grounds.

With the Mertens and Cecil Brown property the purpose is to construct a permanent high school and convert the present high school into grammar grade school. In the latter connection the Burgess, Kalama and Smith property in the neighborhood of Fort and Vineyard streets, will be required to enlarge the present High School grounds.

By the acquisition of the lands on Punchbowl street near the Royal school the premises of that school can be enlarged and another entrance secured. The Simerson, Yowell and Magoon property in Palama is to be used in the enlargement of the two schools in that section, while the Waialeale lands are kuleanas in the boys industrial school tract and are desired.

"This list," said Land Commissioner Pratt "disposes of the claim made by McCandless in his injunction that we are not trying to secure lands for public use. Nearly all of the lands that we desired to secure in exchange for the government lands on Lanai are for use in improving the public schools.

"Of course I did not hold down prospective bidders to this list. They were at liberty to submit tenders of other lands but these are the lands that have been especially desired by the government and we have had in view in making this Lanai exchange. It was thought that we might effect an exchange with the Bishop Estate whereby we could secure the Bishop wharves on the water front but they are held at from $125,000 to $130,000. This figure is higher than the $107,000 put on the Lanai lands by the government so I do not think that the deal will be effected."

DEMOCRATS WANT A SAY

SUPERVISORS-ELECT CAUCUS—3 FOR ARCHER AND 1 FOR HUSTACE—KEALOHA WON'T VOTE.

Oahu County Supervisors-elect held a caucus last night and voted on the matter of a chairman. Three voted for Frank Archer and three for Charles Hustace. Supervisor-elect Kealoha refused to vote.

The matter of political representation on committees was not discussed last night, but the stand that Hustace takes is for a straight Republican committee on roads and bridges, while Frank Harvey and some of the others hold that the Democrats should be represented on all committees, both parties getting representation.

BLACKSMITH COAL HERE. Down in the lower hold of the bark Nuuanu, from New York yesterday, is something that will make glad the hearts of the blacksmiths—a choice lot of blacksmith coal, and the supply is enough to last a while and make the workers therewith forget the chance of famine.

NO END TO LANAI LAND LITIGATION

SENATOR McCANDLESS DECLARES HE WILL CARRY CASE TO U. S. SUPREME COURT.

There is a strong likelihood that the Lanai land deal will be hung up for a year or more, if the Circuit Court should dissolve the injunction recently secured by Senator McCandless, stopping the exchange. McCandless proposes if necessary to carry the case to the Supreme Court of the United States and has so directed his attorney.

In event of such action being taken a year or more will elapse before there will be any chance of the deal being consummated even if the Supreme Court should sustain the governor. Attorney General Peters will be ready by next week at the latest to go into the circuit court and try to have the injunction dissolved. If the motion be granted, then McCandless will have the case taken to the Supreme Court of the territory. In event of an adverse opinion there, he will then proceed with the Washington appeal. There is more than $5,000 involved in the land deal so no question of the right to carry the case to the highest tribunal could be raised. Litigation in the Supreme Court of the United States is costly and slow. It is believed that a year or so will elapse before any settlement of the case can be accomplished.

POMPELIAN TREASURE ON NUUANU

A 2,000 YEAR OLD JAR BROUGHT BY SCIENTIST NICHOLS—GOOD FOR POI BOWL.

The biggest and oldest poi bowl Hawaii ever saw, so far as history records, is lashed amidships aboard the bark Nuuanu, now in port from New York, and is the property of T. Nichols, scientist, who has been dragging a net through the Atlantic and Pacific oceans for the last four months, aboard the bark.

Not that the bowl is actually a poi bowl, although it would make a beautiful center piece at a monster luau; nor did Nichols fish up the thing from the slimy deep. It came to him out of the lava covered ruins of Pompeii and is said to be easily 2,000 years old. There were others but they were packed in the big bowl and got broken. Nichols came out once before in the Nuuanu. He is a Harvard graduate and a scientist of great enthusiasm. He has aboard, specimens of nearly everything with a back-bone that lives in the sea, except a whale. He will return east, probably overland, with much treasure robbed from the ocean and much information to give to the world of science. Probably his greatest treasure is the big Pompeii water jar, large enough for a man to hide therein.

ANTARTIC ICE COOLING EQUATOR

CAPTAIN JOSSELYN OF BARK NUUANU FINDS WATERS AT THE LINE IN THE PACIFIC LESS WARM THAN EVER BEFORE AND TELLS OF WONDERFUL ICE MOUNTAINS OFF THEIR TRACK IN THE ATLANTIC—SIGNS OF SHIPWRECK.

Captain Josselyn of the bark Nuuanu, which arrived yesterday from New York, reports most remarkable phenomena in both the Atlantic and Pacific all the more interesting to the master of the Nuuanu for the reason that he has been going to sea for 50 years and has never before had close acquaintance with icebergs. But to tell the story briefly, in the captain's own words:

"We sailed from New York, Tuesday, August 7 and had fine weather to the line in the Atlantic, 31 days. Off the coast of Brazil we encountered strong southerly winds and in latitude 42 south we experienced a series of terrific gales from the southwest which endured for two weeks.

"In latitude 48 south, longitude 55 west we, very unexpectedly, as you may imagine, fell in with a lot of huge icebergs. It was on September 15 and before daylight we observed a great white cloud to windward and a little later we saw another cloud off of the weather quarter. It was 250 miles north of where icebergs are usually seen and we had no idea at the time that we were running into a bunch of icebergs. As it grew light we sighted an island to leeward; knowing there was no land thereabouts I came to the conclusion that we were among ice. We were completely surrounded, there were 32 bergs on one side of us. All day we sailed at the rate of 7 or 8 knots but it was nearly dark before we left the army of icebergs. The bergs averaged from 200 to 1000 feet in height. They were temptingly white, like ice cream and were shaped like huge blocks of granite, and some were domed and other like big barns with pointed roofs. I never saw anything so magnificent as was the exact shape of a big arm chair, 200 feet above water.

"What made us so anxious was that we saw a quantity of Oregon pine lumber floating among the bergs and we came to the conclusion that some vessel carrying this lumber had either thrown over her deck-load or had gone ashore on one of the bergs. We kept a sharp lookout but saw no other signs of a wreck. A few whales were sporting among the ice mountains, but very few birds.

"Another peculiar thing: On the line in the Pacific I found the temperatures of the water only 70 degrees, cooler than the waters of Hawaii. In all my experience, and I've been all over the world, I never knew the water at the equator anywhere to be less than 80 degrees.

"From this and from the icebergs in the Atlantic so far north it would appear to me that there is in process a wonderful migration of ice from the antarctic ocean northward, and as it moves it is cooling the oceans right to the line.

"All this, of course, will be of great interest to scientists who are closely observing seismic and other phenomena of the past few years, tremendous earthquakes and unusual conditions generally."

The Nuuanu came to port looking like a new ship. She is as clean and tempting as the marvelous icebergs of which the master speaks.

Captain Josselyn takes note of the ocean temperatures and otherwise reports observations for the United States government and has been doing so for more years than there are people aboard his ship.

CAPT. JOSSELYN'S NOTABLE RECORD

ONLY 14 DAYS WITH BARK NUUANU "FROM 50 TO 50" AROUND THE HORN.

From latitude 50 in the Atlantic to latitude 50 in the Pacific, around the tail of South America, the bark Nuuanu on the voyage from New York just completed made a record of fourteen days. The previous trip she made it in 40 days and on the occasion preceding that, Captain Josselyn says, it took him 48 days. Fourteen days is something to boast of.

SUPERVISORS HOLD SHORT SESSION

COUNTY FATHERS DID NOT DO MUCH AT THEIR MEETING OF LAST EVENING.

The Board of Supervisors met last evening and a few bills were rushed through with much haste and the session would have been over soon had it not been that the members of the Board got into a discussion over the Police fund.

The first matter which came up for consideration was a bill from Judge Whitney for services in the suit re "Blanket Waiver". The fee was $200 and Supervisor Dwight balked at paying it. However the other members of the Board thought it should be paid and the matter went through.

Supervisor Lucas stated that he had instructed Sam Johnson to put in the storm sewer on River street as was petitioned for by the land owners in that vicinity as it was badly needed. He also stated that Short street was in a very bad way and should be fixed. In regard to the repairing of Metcalf street as had been petitioned he was opposed to fixing it beyond a point where people were residing. An appropriation of $300 will be used on this street.

County Attorney Douthitt expressed the opinion that the Board could not reduce salaries in the middle of the month. Lucas then stated that a misstatement was responsible for the error which placed the board in an awkward position. He referred to a reduction of salaries in January and not during this month.

Road Supervisor Johnson thought that $2500 would repair the damage by the recent rains. No new work is being done but the attention of the department is given to repairing.

The document authorizing the transfer of the Kuntz property at Waikiki to the Park Commission was before the Board for consideration. The Lucas resolution introduced at a special meeting was passed. The chairman of the board will sign the papers today.

THE CONTRACT FOR SETTLEMENT PAIAI

BOARD OF HEALTH HAD MEETING YESTERDAY—PRESIDENT PINKHAM REPORTS ON HILO TRIP.

The Board of Health held a meeting yesterday afternoon and awarded the contract for supplying paiai to the leper settlement, to the Kailhi Poi Factory. The bid by the factory was not the lowest, as one other made by Charles Manu an Hawaiian notary, was lower than the local factory. However it was claimed that Manu represented a hui of Chinese so his bid was turned down and the award made to the factory. The bid put in by Manu was 65 cents per 21 pounds paiai delivered at the settlement and 52 cents f. o. b. The factory bids were 72 1-2 cents and 62 1-2 cents respectively. The amount required will be 475 paials a week. There was some discussion over the award. The board later accompanied A. S. Cleghorn to inspect some property.

President Pinkham reported about his trip to Hilo. He said that there was a fine public spirit manifested by the Hilo people. A report of the rat and mosquito campaigns was also made.

The Honolulu sanitary work for November was as follows: Inspections 26,407; orders given, 1156; orders finished 1104; orders outstanding 52; pig permits issued, 17; number of pigs allowed, 637; duck permits issued, 2; number of ducks allowed 600; number of days special duty, 29 1/4; number of buildings cleaned, 91; number of stores cleaned 79; number of rooms cleaned 1044; number of outhouses cleaned, 256.

City Sanitary officer Dr. Pratt reported in part, as follows: There were 42 inspections of graves made. In the King street Catholic cemetery one coffin was buried in 18 inches of water and in the Kawaiahae cemetery one coffin was exposed.

Permits to keep swine were issued to 14 and to keep ducks 2. The proposed extension to the Pauoa church cemetery was investigated and a special report made. Five cases of sickness were investigated.

Owing to there being no supply of vaccine only five schools were examined.

Moanulua 24 certificates; 14 vaccinated; Waikiki 39 certificates; 25 vaccinated; Manoa 27 certificates; 16 vaccinated; Kailhi-waena 160 certificates; 79 vaccinated; Pauoa 47 certificates; 41 vaccinated; total 297 certificates; 175 vaccinated.

NEARLY 1000 JAPS ARRIVE

KUSUHO MARU'S BIG LOAD OF LABORERS FOR HAWAII FROM NAGASAKI, KOBE, YOKOHAMA.

The Japanese S. S. Kusuho Maru made port from Nagasaki last evening about 7 o'clock, with 983 Japanese immigrants for Hawaii and 500 tons freight, docking at the Hackfeld wharf, landing her passengers this morning. Immigrating laborers come from Kobe, Yokohama and Nagasaki.

The Kusuho was formerly the Russian hospital ship Orei, captured by the Japanese. She was here last month and will come again soon, leaving here to return to Japan for more laborers, within a few days.

A meeting of the first precinct Democratic club was held Wednesday night at the residence of Paulo Kea at Waikiki. The meeting adjourned until Wednesday December 26 at 7:30 p. m. at the same place. A meeting of the Ninth Democratic precinct club of the fourth district will be held at 7:30 on Monday night at the residence of Solomon Maheula. The question of endorsements of applicants for government positions will be considered. A meeting of the club of the Third precinct of the Fourth District for the same purpose will be held tomorrow evening at 1215 Young street, at 7:30 o'clock.

MAKE NO MISTAKE.

The alleged gambling resort at the Junction, King and Beretania streets, is as far removed from the Junction Saloon as it is possible to be and still be in the same building. Harry Juen's Junction Saloon, needless to say, has no connection or sympathy with the gaming on the third floor said to be run by a Chinese who name is familiar to police circles.

A. K. Ozawa, the labor agent of the Hawaiian Planters' Association, intends to leave for Japan with his family in March. Next fall he expects to enter Stanford for a course.

Navana Cigars

Any Man Who Smokes Will Be Happy as a King to Get a Box for Christmas.

We have had all the favorite cigars packed in special holiday boxes bearing "HOLIDAY GREETINGS." They contain 12, 25, 50 and 100 cigars. Such brands as General Arthurs, Van Dycks, Robt. Burns, La Fama Universal, etc. Those imported from Cuba are: Bock & Co., Henry Clay, Cabanas, Villar Y Villar, La Africana, Manuel Garcia, etc.

Other Presents for Smokers

Take notice that a man smokes because he enjoys it. Anything you give him in the smoking line adds so much to his pleasure. As he lapses into reveries over pipe or cigar, think how frequently the donor of a pleasing addition to his smoking room is gratefully remembered. Anything you give in the following line will touch him in the right spot.

We especially solicit trade from the ladies who are looking for suitable gifts for men. Here are a few suggestions:

Imported Egyptian Cigarettes packed in boxes of 50 and Turkish Cigarettes in boxes of 100.

Handsome Tobacco Jars bearing University Crests --Yale, Harvard and Stanford, Plain and fancy Tobacco Jars in splendid variety, Smokers' Sets of French Stag and Metal. Also Ash Trays and Cigar Jars in same materials.

Beautifully carved and plain Meerschaum Pipes, Handsome Briar Pipes, single and companions, Table Hookahs or Turkish Water Pipes, Cigar Humidors; a handsome box for keeping Cigars from drying out, in mahogany, teak, ebony, birds eye maple, etc.

The Simulating Honey Bee

The Bee will have to come down off his pedestal. He can no longer be considered the type and model of industry. He has imbibed the modern spirit of cheapening his goods by imitation and simulation. He has proven himself infected with the present day contempt for the old thorough-going methods of his ancestors and has adopted short cuts, and "Jerry" methods.

Dr. Jared Smith and Entomologist Van Dine have detected the Hawaiian honey bee adulterating his own product. They have caught him using other material than the pure nectar of flowers. Neglecting the algaroba and other blossoms which furnish material for honey as pure and delicious as that made by the far famed bees of Mount Hymettus, the Hawaiian bee has sought in the honeydew of the leafhopper, a more easily procured, and more easily worked-up material, just as his human prototype, the American manufacturer of sweets has found in glucose a cheaper substitute for sugar.

Down at the agricultural exhibit in connection with the Poultry Show there is a series of glass containers filled with Hawaiian honey, each the product of the bee from a different source. There is the algaroba honey, pure white, the standard of excellence, and commanding the highest price in the market. From that there are all gradations to a honey that is almost black, the spurious and sophisticated article, which the lazy, but ingenious bee has learned to make and palm off on the apiarist, who would fain profit by his unrequited labor.

Perhaps the Hawaiian bee has heard that the purest product of his hardest and most painstaking effort is sometimes adulterated with that which is not honey, before it reaches the tables of those who eat honey, and has concluded that he might as well get the benefit of the adulterating process himself.

This whim of the bee to seek the honeydew of the leafhopper as the source of his own finished product, is one of the most interesting and curious things in connection with the bee industry here. The leafhopper finds its food in the juice of the sugar cane. In this food there is a certain amount of sucrose. This sucrose undergoes certain changes within the leafhopper and is excreted on the leaves of the sugar cane as honeydew. The bee instead of going from flower to flower in the good old fashioned way, now seeks this honeydew on the leaves of the cane, and from it evolves in his own internal economy, this sophisticated, naturally adulterated, honey.

But both color and chemical analysis betray him. The color is dark, almost black, and the chemical analysis shows that it is deficient in sucrose and has an overabundance of ash. Still, no one can tell the difference by taste, so that the bee, doubtless, can say with as much truth as some other dealers in food products, that "it is just as good."

Hereafter, as applied to the up-to-date Hawaiian bee it should not be

"How doth the little busy bee
Improve each shining hour,
And gather honey every day
From every opening flower!"

But—

"How doth the wise and subtle bee
Improve its sweet'ning power,
And gather honey from the leaf
Instead of from the flower?"

The Immigration Law Ruling

The ruling of Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus in the South Carolina immigration case, removes all doubt, if there ever were any, as to the perfect legality of the Hawaiian law creating the Territorial Board of Immigration and providing for its operation. It is difficult to see, however, how there could be any doubt about our law, since before the Board began operations under it, the whole matter was submitted to Commissioner General of Immigration Sargent, and President Roosevelt, by Secretary Atkinson, and was by both these officials approved.

Of course, neither of these officials is, strictly speaking, the one who would rule on such matters. The Secretary of Commerce and Labor is the one to rule on the subject. But the Commissioner General of Immigration is at the head of the bureau under the department which has immediate supervision and control of matters of immigration, and is in many respects the expert upon whom the Secretary would rely. The other is the appointing power from whom the Secretary of Commerce and Labor gets his appointment. It is therefore not at all probable that when these two had considered and approved a matter that the Secretary would over-rule it, unless compelled to do so as a clear matter of law.

In the South Carolina case, as was shown in an editorial recently in The Star, some of the money used by the immigration agency of the State of South Carolina in bringing to Charleston, in that state, 500 Belgian immigrants, was not secured by state taxation, but was contributed to the state by cities and towns and other bodies.

This would seem to cover the case of our law which provides in section 8 that "The Board of Immigration shall open books and solicit subscriptions of money and other material from persons and corporations, to be used by the Board in promoting immigration to this Territory."

It seems probable that Commissioner Sargent had this in mind when he stated in interviews while here, that the immigration by the Suveric had been conducted strictly according to the Territorial law, but that the law itself would have to be considered by the department.

It looks as though the Department had ruled favorably in the matter and that the Board of Immigration and the Territory may now go ahead with confidence in the line that has been so encouragingly begun in the Suveric experiment.

Wife Desertion And Divorce

A suggestive phase of the marriage separation evil is revealed by the fact that in Chicago within a year 1,200 wives deserted by their husbands have applied for public aid. Of course this is nowhere near all the victims—or beneficiaries—of wife-desertion, as in many cases the wife is able to support herself, or very likely, is better off than she was when the husband was around. But the figures show how far from reaching the root of the difficulty will be the passage of more rigorous divorce laws.

Unquestionably, one effect of such enactments would be to increase the number of desertions—and they would by no means all be desertions on the part of the husbands. Except for the satisfaction of a certain sentiment toward the marriage relation as an indissoluble tie, there would be no gain in such a state of affairs. The real desecration of marriage is found in the mental and moral attitude of the parties which precedes desertion or divorce, rather than in the formal annulment of the bond or even in the sneaking away from responsibilities. Its cause is found in an inferior mentality, or an inferior morality, or both, and cannot be removed by laws which are intended to make divorce more difficult. Something of the same thought applies to desertion, about which the good people of Chicago are becoming considerably concerned, to the extent that they talk of a public movement to stop it. But what they propose to do, other than to hold a meeting and to pass deprecatory resolutions, is not clear.

There are always laws which, so far as their appearance goes, seem to be sufficient to cope with the evil. The trouble is that they cannot easily be enforced. When a Chicago man deserts his wife, and goes off into some other state, it is very difficult to find him, and more difficult to bring him back and force him to support her. Practically, if he goes far enough away, and takes the simplest precautions against detection, he is safe.

Then there is some talk about imposing further legal restrictions on marriage, so that not so many marriages will be made in haste, to be repented of at leisure. The experiment is a dangerous one. Countries which make lawful marriage difficult find an overplus of illicit connections. Moreover, it is in the power of no man to determine infallibly in advance which marriages will be happy and which will not. Some hasty marriages turn out well, and some deliberate ones turn out ill. The trouble is when the parties do not appreciate the real significance and sacredness of marriage, and that trouble is not to be reached by any law.

If this country, especially in its cities, is rearing large classes of persons who have no proper sense of the meaning of an obligation, who live only for the pleasure of the present moment, and who have not the stamina to stand up bravely in the face of trouble, then we are bound to have more and more divorces, so far as divorce is allowed, and more and more desertions, where divorce is impracticable or expensive. In the condition of perpetual excitement, and the craving for more excitement, in which so many of the American people live, these results are certain to follow. The saving of the nation is with those who retain their bal-is true of other things than those which have to do with marriage, desertion, or divorce.

It isn't just clear how the Territory can lose any money by Senator McCandless' injunction suit. The Territory is proposing to exchange the Lanai lands for "lands of equal value." If it makes the exchange it has not made a profit because it is getting lands of equal value. If the senator's injunction scares off prospective tenderers so that no exchange is made, the Territory will still have the Lanai lands which are still worth as much as any other land of equal value.

The transfer of the Kunst property from the County to the Park Commissioners will complete the important fact of securing a portion of the Waikiki beach in perpetuity to the public. Supervisor Lucas and the other members of the Board who were concerned in this transaction can always look back to it as one of the important and valuable acts of their term of office.

HARRY DIMOND IS MARRIED

By the China's mail were received announcements of the marriage of Miss Janet, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Watkins of San Francisco, to Henry Waterhouse Dimond. The groom was born in Honolulu and was universally known here as Harry Dimond. He left here about four years ago and has since made his home in San Francisco where he was in charge of the Abstract of Title Department of the Hibernian Bank. He is a son of the late General Dimond, brother of the late W. W. Dimond and of Edwin Dimond head of Williams, Tibbald & Co.

SEABURY TO HAVE THE MONGOLIA

THE COMMODORE OF THE PACI-FIC FLEET IS TO TAKE COM-MAND OF THE MONGOLIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 14.—
Captain W. B. Seabury, commodore of the Pacific Mail service and probably the best-known skipper on the Pacific, was appointed yesterday to succeed Captain Porter as master of the big liner Mongolia. Captain Seabury's flagship was the Korea and he expected to join her again after the two voyages for which he was given leave of absence. He was enjoying this vacation when necessity arose for somebody to command the liner that so narrowly escaped destruction at Midway.

The Mongolia being one of the company's finest ships, it was natural that R. P. Schwerin should want one of the best officers to take her and just as natural that Captain Seabury should be offered the command. Seabury has been master in the Pacific Mail service for more than thirty years. His first command was the City of Panama. Between his first and his new command there is considerable difference. The gross tonnage of the Panama is 1490.
The gross tonnage of the Mongolia is 15,639, nearly ten times as great. The City of Panama is 250 feet long. The length of the Mongolia is 600 feet.

IMPORTANT TAX LIEN CASE DECIDED

SUPREME COURT GIVES OPINION
TODAY AGAINST W. C. ACHI AND OTHERS IN TAX MATTER.

A very important opinion was handed down by the Supreme Court this morning in the matter of the enforcement of tax liens by foreclosure in equity. The case was that brought by James L. Holt tax assessor vs. W. C.
Achi, the Kapiolani Estate Ltd., the German Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco and James F. Morgan trustee. The suit was a bill in equity brought by the tax collector to enforce by foreclosure a statutory lien for delinquent taxes of $2,945.93 for the year 1902 and $1,400 for the year of 1903 on certain lands of Achi. The opinion which was written by Associate Justice H. Hartwell and concurred in by the remainder of the court, is a very able one and it will undoubtedly be much quoted in mainland litigation of similar character.

The lands in question were conveyed to Achi by the Kapiolani Estate for $300,000. He secured payment of the purchase money, by a mortgage of the property to the estate in February 1901.
Subsequently in May of the following year the estate assigned this mortgage to the German Savings and Loan Society. Achi mapped out the property sold certain lots, the taxes on which were not included in the present action and then made a trust deed of the property to Morgan. On December 1903, the plaintiff brought assumpsit against Achi for the delinquent taxes already mentioned, and obtained judgment thereupon which execution was issued January 19, 1904 and returned February 17, 1904, nulla bona. An alias execution, issued the same day, was returned February 19, nulla bona.
The defendants' demurrers sustained in the circuit court on the ground that the case was not one of equity jurisdiction and a decree was made dismissing the bill. The plaintiff appealed to the Supreme Court.

The defendants raised the following point "that the statutory method of securing payment of taxes by distress on personal property or by obtaining a judgment in an action for the taxes and taking out execution on the judgment is the only available procedure; that the tax lien, being legal and not equitable, can be enforced in no way which is not provided by statute and that in the absence of a statutory procedure for its enforcement equity cannot afford relief without legislative authority therefore; that it is not a judicial question whether the statutory procedure for the collection of taxes is effective or not that being a subject of exclusively legislative consideration and that inadequacy of a remedy, in the sense that it fails to produce the money to satisfy a claim, does not give equity jurisdiction."

A large number of authorities were cited in the appeal before the Supreme Court and after giving all careful consideration the court decides that in the absence of any statutory method of enforcing a tax lien it may be foreclosed in equity.

The decree appended from is reversed and the case is remanded to the circuit judge with leave for the defendants to plead or answer within ten days thereafter.

The attorneys were F. Andrade with M. F. Prosser, deputy attorney general on the brief, for plaintiff; A. Lewis Jr.
(Smith & Lewis) for the German Savings and Loan Society and James F.
Morgan, trustee, and C. W. Ashford for Achi and the Kapiolani Estate.

TRYING TO MAKE CORNWELL PUNGLE

AMUSING SITUATION IN ELEC-TION CONTEST CASE BEFORE
THE SUPREME COURT.

The Supreme Court this morning rendered its written opinion in the Cornwell-Kalue election contest. S. E.
Kalue, the respondent and the successful Republican candidate for supervisor, was declared duly elected in the recent Maui election.

A. Lewis, Jr., the attorney for Kalue, presented a motion to tax costs amounting to $86. E. M. Watson, for Cornwell, objected. He claimed that the statutes did not allow it. In answer to a question from the court Lewis admitted that Kalue had not put up the costs, but that that his attorneys had.
Lewis wanted to have Cornwell, the contestant, assessed the damages, but Watson declared that Cornwell had not subpoenaed any witnesses but had merely used the witnesses of Kalue to prove his case. The matter came up at 2 p. m. today for settlement and Cornwell was assessed $68.80 costs.

TOLD OF HAWAII IN HONDURAS

P. J. THOMPSON TELLS AN INTER-ESTING STORY OF A FRIEND OF
HAWAII IN HONDURAS.

Hawaii has friends the world over, according to Philip J. Thompson, who recently returned to these islands to spend the winter, having spent last winter here. Mr. Thompson has traveled extensively throughout the United States and Central America since leaving here and he says that he met many people who were anxious to hear about these islands. Mr. Thompson himself is a very earnest promotion worker, for he is fabric's entranced by the beauties of Hawaii. He may make his home here permanently for a number of years.

"There is no doubt but that Hawaii is the garden spot of the world," said Mr. Thompson, "and every one who has ever been here says the same thing. Through the East I noticed a growing sentiment among the people of wanting to know more of Hawaii.
Since I left here after last winter I was over the United States thoroughly and every where I went all I had to do to 'get the floor' was to mention that I was from Honolulu. And you may be sure that I told them the right things."

"Having business in Honduras I visited that country during the past summer and saw a good deal of the country. While sugar cane can be raised there it is not grown on a large scale, but each native has a bunch of it for his private consumption."

"One night I was sitting alone on the veranda of lanai as you would call it of a little hotel in one of their seaports when I met a genuine friend of Hawaii.
The two of us had simply met that afternoon, both being strangers in a strange land. I was waiting for a boat to take me to Jamaica when I could take the steamer to New York. The night was a beautiful one, moonlight, and one that surpassed anything I had ever seen with the exception of those we have here. The bay in front of us formed a semi-circle and we were situated on one end of it. Across the bay an occasional coconut shot skyward.
The scene was intensely tropical and one long to be remembered. The bay was almost quiet, there being just enough of a ripple to make it most beautiful as the moonlight fell upon it."

"The two of us sat there not saying much. There I was homesick for Haw-aiki and not knowing when I would get a steamer. The other fellow, by the way, his name was Chalmers, said hardly anything. Finally I passed the remark that I believed that this was the most beautiful country in the world. Chalmers did not answer for a moment and then said: 'This may be beautiful, but there is one place that beats it.' I asked him where that was and he said 'Hawaii.'"

"I did not say a word to him and he went on and described this place to me. He told me of the wonders of the Paik, of Manoa and of the other wonderful things here. He had only passed through on a steamer, but he was a lover of the country. When he had finished I told him that I had been here and then as you can imagine we started in all over again."

"There is absolutely no use in trying to tell me that there is any place on the face of the globe as fine as this garden spot in the mid-Pacific."

U. S. Uniform In Test Case

FRED BUENZEL U.S.N.

A case that may be carried to the United States Supreme Court, as a test all the way through the courts, was docketed for trial some time ago in the Superior Court in Newport, R. I. It is that of Frederick C. Buenzel, a chief yeoman in the navy, against the Newport Amusement Company, which refused to admit him in uniform to its dancing pavilion.

The suit has been brought as a test case to determine the status of United States soldiers, sailors and marines at social functions.

TO START TRIALS WITHOUT DEFENDANT

JUDGE ROBINSON HAS DENIED F. H. WHITIN'S MOTION FOR A CONTINUANCE.

J. J. Dunne and W. T. Rawlins attorneys for the plaintiffs in the two $5,000 damage suits against millionaire F. H. Whitin argued before Judge Robinson yesterday for a speedy trial of the cases. C. F. Peterson representing Whitin, argued just as hard for a continuance of four weeks. The court finally overruled the defendants' motion and set the cases for trial at 10 a. m. December 29.

Whitin's automobile driven by one Frank Tunison collided with a hack at the corner of Richard and King streets. T. S. Kay and Henry Gumpfer were riding in the hack. They have each brought a suit for $5,000 against Whitin. The latter was not riding in the machine at the time of the accident.

Peterson desires the presence of the Tunison's chauffeur as a witness but the latter is nowhere to be located. He went to the mainland some time ago. Peterson in his affidavit claimed that Tunison would testify that he, Tunison was not the authorized agent of Whitin at the time of the accident, that the automobile was on the proper side of the road and that the car was not running at a rapid rate of speed. Peterson asked leave to amend his affidavit to state relative to the testimony that the missing witness would give. Whitin is absent from the Territory at present.

LOPEZ WILL WEAR AN OREGON BOOT

CHAMPION JAIL BREAKER WAS RECAPTURED LAST NIGHT AT WAIAPAHU.

"Now that Francisco Lopez has been recaptured," said High Sheriff Henry, "I propose to put an Oregon boot on him and see that he don't break back into jail again. The man is one of the most peculiar that it has ever been my experience to meet. There are traits of his character that I can not understand. He is quiet and peaceable and a good prisoner in his general behavior, but he is affected at intervals with an apparently irresistible desire to break jail. Inasmuch as he does it just before his sentences are to expire I am inclined to think that he gets his liberty for the purpose of being punished further so that his sentence be prolonged. He has only a few months more to serve and I am going to keep him under control with an Oregon boot until his time is up.

Lopez escaped from the Oahu prison about a month ago and has been in hiding ever since. He was captured at Waipahu last night by Deputy Sheriff J. Fernandez. Lopez was armed with a revolver and a knife but he did not attempt to use either to resist arrest. Lopez had been hiding in the mountains since his escape from jail and was driven into the low lands by the recent rainstorms.

SOUTHERN EDITORS DOING GOOD WORK

WEEKLY LETTER OF SECRETARY WOOD TO THE PROMOTION COMMITTEE.

The following is the report of Secretary Wood to the Promotion Committee for this week. The committee meets at 4 o'clock this afternoon, Honolulu, Dec. 29, 1906.

Chairman and Members of the Hawaii Promotion Committee.

Dear Sirs: By every mail coming to hand we continue to hear of the continued good work being done for Hawaii by different members of the Southern California Editorial Association.

A recent clipping states that at the last session of the Covina Farmer's Club a part of the programme consisted of a descriptive talk on the Hawaiian Islands by J. W. Mathews, editor of the Covina Argus.

Miss Grace H. Tower writes under date of December 2nd:

"Tomorrow evening I am booked for a twenty minute talk on Honolulu at a ladies night dinner which a mens' club is giving in Pasadena."

Miss Tower goes on to say: "I am not very glad to be at home as the weather is atrocious and I am ashamed of Pasadena."

Mrs. Weathered writes that she is already receiving eastern orders for the Hawaiian (January) number of "Western Tours" and that she proposes sending out hundreds of this number as sample copies.

I. A. Nadeau, Executive Vice-President of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, writes under date of November 29th, enclosing copy of a circular letter sent out by him to every jobbing and wholesale house in Seattle. The letter reads as follows:

"Referring to my letter of May 5th last, in regard to trade opportunity with the Hawaiian Islands offered Seattle merchants; what was looked upon as a possible temporary market can be easily made a permanent one by the exercise of energy and enterprise on the part of this business community.

"There are 165,000 people in Hawaii entirely dependent upon outside markets for supplies of every character, except fresh meat, tropical fruits and rice. Much of their necessities, such as lumber and coal, must come from Puget Sound; and every other requirement can, in a large measure, be furnished from here if our jobbers and manufacturers are so minded.

"The American-Hawaiian steamship sailing Thursday last carried from Puget Sound 10,011 tons measurement of freight consigned to Hawaiian ports.

"The merchants of Honolulu have for many years traded almost exclusively with San Francisco; but that fateful day in April when that city was practically destroyed, compelled them to seek other markets. They came here and received fair treatment in all things, except in some instances they complain of being unable to have their orders completely filled.

"The many years of trade with San Francisco brought an intimate knowledge of brands and qualities of goods best adapted to their uses, and it, therefore, became necessary for Seattle merchants to send representatives to Honolulu with full lines of samples, etc., which, after inspection and trial, will enable their ordering from catalogues. Some of the larger San Francisco firms have had resident agent in Honolulu.

"Portland merchants are making a strong effort to secure this trade, and through the enterprise of the firm of that city, which a representative to Honolulu, large orders are being filled, which could and should have been secured here. The order of the firm above referred to amounted to over $6-committee of teachers is now securing material and will arrange the same in an attractive manner.

The last week of the Photographic Exhibit has attracted fully many visitors as during the first few days. Next Monday the committee having the matter in hand will forward some of the views to Kohala, Hawaii, for exhibition after which the photos will be displayed at Hilo, Waikuku, Lihue and finally, I hope at Los Angeles, California.

Respectfully submitted,

Secretary.

SIMS IS BACK.

William R. Sims, formerly a clerk of the Circuit Court, who was recently called hurriedly to the mainland on important private business, returned to Honolulu in the S. S. China this morning.

000, shipped by the last American-Hawaiian steamer through Seattle.

"I cannot urge too strongly upon your attention the great importance to the commercial growth of Seattle,—through which channel our future greatness must in a large measure come—of this Hawaiian trade, nor that prompt action on your part is necessary to permanently secure a trade of incalculable value.

"Representatives of Hawaiian houses have recently protested to this Chamber regarding the apparent indifference of local wholesale establishments toward their trade.

"I. A. NADEAU, Executive Vice President."

Mr. Nadeau also states that he is giving the excursion to Hawaii careful consideration and will write more fully about this matter later.

The exhibit from our public schools will be in place early next week. A

DEATH YESTERDAY OF JUNIUS KAAE

WAS PROMINENT IN POLITICAL AND SOCIAL LIFE DURING THE REIGN OF KALAKAUA.

Junius Kaae, at one time prominent in Hawaiian political and social life died yesterday afternoon at the Queen's Hospital after a long illness. He will be buried today from the Catholic Cathedral at 1:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Kawaiahao cemetery. Junius Kaae was born at Kaneha, Lahaina, Maui, September 17, 1845. He was the son of John Koohehano and Kaaikahemalani (w). He received his education in the Hawaiian and foreign schools at Lahaina, and became an expert sugar boiler for the late James Campbell, father of Princess Kawannakoa. Afterwards he served on the Maui police force. He was married three times. A son by his first marriage is now living. He is William Kaae, County Clerk for Maui. His second wife was Kamehaokalani, a cousin of Queen Kapiolani, who died in 1882. There were three children by this marriage. On February 3, 1883, he married Miss Jessie Kapahi Lane, who survives him. Mr. Kaae has been at various times a notary public on Kauai, tax assessor for Ewa and Waianae, an dln 1884 on Maui. In 1886 he was appointed Registrar of Conveyances, resigning the next year. In 1882, King Kalakaua appointed him a member of the House of Nobles and a member of the Privy Council. The king also decorated him with the order of the Crown of Hawaii. He was one of the original members of Kalakaua's Hale Naha Society, and one of the members of the Board of Health which was to have licensed kahunas, but that the law was changed. His name was connected with the corporate handling of the $80,000, paid Kalakaua for the opium license, which the Chinaman who paid the money didn't get. In 1902 Kaae began suit to recover much of the land on which Honolulu is situated claiming it as a part of the estate of his former wife Kelliahonui.

WALDRON'S NEW HOME BURNED

MANOA VALLEY RESIDENCE DESTROYED BEFORE OCCUPIED—FULLY INSURED.

The fine new Manoa valley residence of Fred L. Waldron was destroyed by fire last night about 9 o'clock, being doomed before the firemen could reach the place. The building had been just completed and was unoccupied. The cause of the fire is unknown. Mr. Cathcart living next door, discovered the flames. A Gartley sent in the alarm, living across the road. The Makiki apparatus lost no time in getting there, but the flames had control and the department saw to saving the Cathcart house already a fire, soon bringing it out of danger. The Cathcart stables also on fire, was likewise saved. Thirty minutes after the fire started nothing remained of the Waldron house save the concrete foundations. Waldron's house was insured for $10,000 with the Waterhouse Trust Company. He insured as the building progressed placing $3,000 insurance last Monday. It is suggested that the fire started probably through spontaneous combustion among oil rags used by painters yesterday. Waldron's house was designed by Fred S. Harrison and was a two story structure and considered by many the handsomest in Manoa Valley. PRISONER RECAPTURED. Lopez, Porto Rican, who broke jail several weeks ago was recaptured last night at Waiapahu by Deputy Sheriff Fernandez. The fugitive had hidden in the hills and armed himself, though he made no resistance.

CASES BEFORE JUDE LINDSAY

HOES AS DANGEROUS WEAPONS—A DEMURRER OVERRULED AND TIME FOR PLEA IS GIVEN.

There were a number of cases called before Judge Lindsay this morning. Joe Clark charged with violating the liquor license laws, was up on the indictment recently found by the grand jury. His counsel entered a demurrer on the ground that the allegations of the indictment did not state facts to constitute an offense. The court overruled the demurrer and the plea was continued to January 2.

Lau Fong Piu and six other Chinese charged with assault with a dangerous weapon on Tam Fong, to wit with hoes and iron bars, were arraigned and their pleas continued to January 2. The case is one of the indictments returned by the Grand Jury.

Kee Long was before the court to answer to a charge of manslaughter. His case was continued to January 2 and bail fixed at $5,000. Loo Chuck and L. Apapa qualified as sureties so the defendant was released.

Deputy Attorney General M. F. Prosser appeared to represent the territory in these cases, as all were on indictments found by the Grand Jury. A former charge of manslaughter against Kee Long was nolle prossed.

All criminal cases except those against Kee Long was nolle prossed. All criminal cases except those against Clark, Lau Tong et al and Kee Long were assigned to Judge De Bolt. The Court adjourned to January 2 at 10 a. m.

PARK COMMISSION TO HAVE KUNTZ PROPERTY

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS VOTED TO TURN THAT PROPERTY OVER TO THE COMMISSION.

The County Board of Supervisors decided last evening to turn the Kuntz property over to the Park Commission and sometime today a deed will be presented to George W. Smith, chairman of the Board, for his signature. When this is done the property will be wholly in the hands of the Commission.

The property is at Waikiki and is on the beach. The Supervisors have for some time past been improving the property making a public bathing place of it. As the Park Commission has charge of the other parks in the city it was thought best to place this property in their hands also, and so the Board took action accordingly.

THE POPE ON THE SEPARATION LAW

The text of the Pope's long-expected encyclical to the archbishops and bishops of France concerning the future conduct in view of the enactment of the law providing for the separation of church and state, has appeared in the Observatore Romano.

It refers to the previous encyclical condemning the general principles of the law and says the time has now arrived to indicate what should be done to defend and preserve religion in France.

"We deferred our decision," the document continues, "owing to the importance of this grave question, and particularly through a charitable feeling for the great service your nation has rendered to the church. Having heretofore condemned this iniquitous law, we examined with the greatest interest articles to see if they promoted the organization of religion in France without jeopardizing the sacred principles of the church."

After approving the recommendations of the French hierarchy disapproving of the law, the encyclical says: "Therefore concerning cultural associations, such as the law prescribes, we decree absolutely that they cannot be formed without violation of the sacred rights which are the life itself of the church. Putting aside, therefore, these associations which our conscience forbids us to approve, it is opportune to examine in some other kind of organization, both legal and canonical, which can avoid the dangers to the church."

The encyclical then examines at some length the other forms of organization. The Pope says nothing causes him greater agony than the dangers menacing the church in France, and therefore he hopes to find some kind of associations not endangering divine rights, adding: "But as this hope falls us and the law remains as it is, we declare it is not permissible to try this other kind of associations as long as they do not establish in the most legal and most positive way that the divine constitution of the church, the immutable rights of the Roman Pontiff and the bishops and their authority over the temporal affairs of the church, particularly the sacred edicts they have made atrocious war against religion. They hurl a brand of the most violent discord, thus arraying to the great detriment of the public welfare. We have suffered patiently injustice after injustice, through love of the French nation, and are finally asked to overstep the last limits of our apostolic duty, and we declare our inability to overstep them. Let the responsibility rest with those whose hatred has gone to such extremes."

The Pope counsels against seditious or violent action, and says firmness will give better results than violence. United action, he says, can be learned from those who have imposed the stigma of this criminal law upon the nation.

In conclusion the encyclical says: "In the hour of hard trial for France, if all unite in defending the supreme interest of the country, the salvation of the church is far from desperate. On the contrary, it is to be hoped that her dignity will be raised to its former prosperous height."

The document was signed on August 12.

The Pope's encyclical to the archbishops and bishops of France their attitude with regard to the church and state separation law attracted widespread attention in Paris and its probable effects were the subject of an animated discussion by the press and public, particularly by the clerical and official classes responsible for the execution of the law. A pontifical messenger arrived here this morning bearing the document to Archbishop Richard, who soon afterwards gave out the document for publication. The entourage of the archbishop summed up their views in the following words: "The Pope has spoken and we bow with submission and joy to his instructions."

While this reflects the general attitude of the hierarchy, yet a considerable element among the clergy recoiled at the decision of the pontiff with disappointment and regret, as being likely to inaugurate an era of religious strife. The decision causes serious confusion with regard to the practical carrying on of churches. The new law lays down specific provisions concerning associations, but the Pope's decisions appear to make it impossible for the clergy to conform to the law.

At the archbishopric it was stated today that no steps have yet been taken to assure the continued operations of churches. It is understood that the encyclical was accompanied by instructions concerning the means of hierarchy should adopt.

The view generally prevails that the Vatican seeks to create a situation compelling the government to enter into negotiations for some form of church organization that will be acceptable to both the church and state. However, there is no indication of the government's willingness to move in that direction.

The government journals strongly disapprove of the encyclical. The Temps says: "The resolution to afflict all friends of religious peace is very apparent. Uncompromisingness dominates pontifical circles. An immense majority of reasonable French Catholics desired the benefit of the liberal provisions of the separation law. It goes without saying the Pontifical decision will not meet the sentiment of liberal-minded French, who above all wish for religious peace."

"The separation law contains broad and tolerant dispositions and is accepted as such by unprejudiced men."

"The anti-clerical seven raised objections to the liberality of the law and wonders to what hopes of chimera the people are now clinging. Has the lesson of the inventories taught Rome nothing? The only outcome of Pontifical resistance is that the church herself deprives her devoted of the means of worship to which they are attached. The strange paradox occurs that the religious authorities refuse the churches the powers offered them by the law. This sensible and clear-minded nation, desirous of peace before everything never will admit the decision to be the fruit of truly Christian or logical and sensible inspiration."

MORE LIBELS ON THE BARCOCK.
Another libel aggregating $45,000 was put on the American ship W. F. Babcock yesterday. Nine of the former members of the crew demand $5000 each upon the same ground as those given in the first libel. It is understood that another libel is to be put on the vessel.

Flora M. Girvin, widow of the late James W. Girvin who was drowned in the harbor some nights ago, has petitioned that W. O. Smith be appointed administrator of the estate of her husband. The value of the estate is estimated at about $4000.

STRANGE INCIDENTS IN VALPARAISO

INCREASES PANIC AFTER EARTHQUAKE BY SHOUTING CLAIM OF DIVINE AUTHORITY.

It has been discovered that certain parts of the bay of Valparaiso are considerably shallower as the result of the earthquake there, and new soundings will be necessary.

As a result of the destruction of all the drug stores in Valparaiso medicines and drugs are lacking. Eighteen ambulances with beds, a consignment of medicines, and a number of nurses are leaving for Valparaiso. Consignments of provisions are being shipped as quickly as possible.

The destruction of the villages of Papudo, Alzapilla and Reniso has been confirmed.

During the height of the panic a man went mad and ran through the streets shouting: "I am the Son of God, and I announce the end of the world."

His wild actions increased the alarm. The madman was arrested by the police, who had great difficulty in preventing the crowd from lynching him.

The barracks of a lancer regiment at Limanche were wrecked and two officers were buried beneath the falling walls.

NEWCASTLE COAL USED HERE.
The Hawaiian Islands increased in the first half of 1905 over 1904, though not to any material extent their consumption of Newcastle coal; while in the latter half of 1905 they took very nearly double the quantity of the previous half-year's supply. It is impossible to say yet whether the end of this six months will see a like pleasing expansion, the demand seeming to fluctuate very much, says the Daily Commercial News and Shipping List of Sydney, N. S. W., of November 1.

Brown Gets No Pardon

GOVERNOR HAS RECEIVED ANOTHER PETITION FOR RESTORATION OF CIVIL RIGHTS.

Another attempt has been made to induce Governor Carter to restore the civil rights to B. H. Brown, formerly a police officer at Hilo. Brown was convicted, shortly after annexation, of extorting money from a party at Hilo. He was sentenced to pay a fine, escaping imprisonment.

Efforts were made shortly after Carter became governor to induce him to restore Brown's civil rights. The governor took the position that he did not think Brown was entitled to the restoration of such rights. Brown had degraded himself and his race by adopting such a low standard of honor and so long as he was in the executive chair Brown would not be pardoned.

A petition signed by Rev. Stephen Desha, Samuel K. Pua, N. C. Willifong and various other prominent people on Hawaii has reached the Governor asking for the pardon of Brown. It is set forth that Brown has suffered sufficiently for his crime and can not in consequence of being deprived of the right to vote, secure public employment and is also handicapped in securing a living otherwise.

The Governor says that he has not changed in his position regarding Brown.

WM. ESTER ASKS TO BE PARDONED

SAYS HE WANTS TO GO BACK EAST TO KANSAS AND WORK FOR HIS WIDOWED MOTHER.

William Ester, who is now serving a sentence of 20 years for manslaughter in the first degree, has appealed to Governor Carter for a pardon. The petition is signed by members of the jury that convicted Ester and bears the names of other residents also.

Ester sets forth the facts connected with his conviction as follows: He was attacked by Toyo Jackson in the Pacific Saloon on March 10, 1900, without any provocation. He was knocked down by Jackson and later attacked and pursued by Jackson and Isaac Cockett. Ester does not recall the circumstances of his killing Jackson and claims that he has no recollection of having held a knife. Ester was born in slavery in Missouri in 1863. He wants to go back home in Kansas and work for his widowed mother and young sister.

The following names appear on his petition: John W. Cathcart, prosecutor of case; H. G. Wooten, W. Savidge, Edwin Benner, Fred Philip, J. H. Schneck, C. J. Ludwigen, J. T. Copeland, and F. S. Lyman, Jr., jurors. E. B. Turner, E. O. White, W. W. Tall, Edgar Wood, Robert Law, P. W. Rider, A. F. Cooke, C. J. Day, J. T. Van Valkenberg, Ed. Ingham, P. M. Snodgrass, John M. Martin.

PINKHAM AND THE HILO PEOPLE

PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF HEALTH RETURNS FROM THE RAINY CITY.

President Pinkham of the Board of Health returned last Sat. day from an official trip to Hilo. A number of matters were discussed but the most material was that relating to the reimbursement of the Hilo shippers' wharf committee, for funds advanced for health measures to keep the port clean. President Pinkham said that the best plan to follow would be to secure the aid of the Hilo members of the legislature, for the purpose of having a special appropriation made by the next legislature to reimburse the shipping committee. It was decided to have the matter brought up in the legislature through this source. President Pinkham will recommend the passage of the appropriation, in his biennial report to the Governor.

The matter of making some repairs at Hilo in connection with health work was also discussed. The desires of the Hilo people for the next biennial period were not very extensive.

VOYAGE OF THE "JAMES CASKIE"

In the fifties, British merchantmen were, with few exceptions, anything but abodes of pleasure. Food of the vilest kind given with a niggardly hand was the rule and scurvy was no unusual visitor in an outward bounder, as it was always the usual guest in the fore-castle of a homeward one.

American ships were a great contrast at that time good food without stint was the rule, but the crew were certainly harder worked. Afternoon watch below was a thing unknown. Night watches were spent in clearing ship when other work necessary to the safety of the vessel gave an opportunity. The number of the crew on an American vessel was only two-thirds or one-half of that of a Britisher. Patent blocks, smaller ropes of a superior quality and other improvements made handling a ship easier and cleaner than the tarred and old fashioned equipment of a time-jailer. But things change. Now it is the American deep water ship which is underrmanned and half starved and the resuscitated form of the unwelcome guest, notwithstanding rules laid down, comes in and looks up a few victims.

A tale published by me in the Colonist of Victoria B. C., gives an instance of how vessels were sent to sea in those days but rigid inspection of provisions by government inspectors before a British ship leaves port, prevent the recurrence of such crimes as were common in those days—much to the improvement of the personnel of the crew both fore and aft.

Yours truly,

F. D. WALKER.

It is hard to tell definitely the happiest moments of one's life, but the feeling of having risen in one's profession is, in youth a most agreeable one.

After I had passed my examination for "Only Mate," I think I was the happiest fellow on earth. I was at last out of the fore-castle with its disagreeable features, and I now could eat at a table with and use a knife and fork. Things today are, I am happy to say, greatly changed for the better, and fore-castles now have a degree of comfort and cleanliness unknown in the fifties and sixties. Food, too, is better and more of it owing to government inspection.

Shortly after I acquired my certificate, I was asked by the shipping master at Dublin whether I would accept the berth of mate, as a brig lay up at Tralee was in want of one.

Being always accustomed to large ships I felt disinclined to accept, as brigs were always considered by big ship sailors as deuced low. I asked the shipping master if he knew whether she was a handsome vessel.

"My dear young man," he replied, "all brigs are beautiful."

As I was anxious to be actively employed I accepted the berth, and the following day I was at the railway station with a complete "officer's outfit" my poor aunt having generously fitted me out with sextant, books, charts for navigation, and every requisite, with clothes for any climate. Having only ten pounds with me she slipped twenty-five more in my hand at parting, saying if I got wrecked it would be useful.

I was much surprised as the train sped along, on nearing Tralee to see so many girls in ragged garments watching the train as it passed. I arrived at Tralee late in the evening and went to the hotel, where I enjoyed a good supper. The host enquired my business in these parts. I informed him that I came to join the brig "James Caskie," as mate, and enquired for the captain. I was agreeably informed that the captain and owner was absent and would not be back for two days, but I was to remain here until they returned. This gave me a chance to look at the town.

During the evening we had a party of custom house people and others, who would drop in and come upstairs. What with anecdotes, punch and songs we passed a pleasant time till we retired.

In the morning I had a capital breakfast of bacon, fresh eggs, cold chicken with potatoes boiled as I have never seen since.

I took a long walk before lunch and enjoyed it greatly. The old quaint town with its streets paved with cobble stones, which made walking tiresome to man and beast, the little shops generally served by an old woman with a short pipe in her mouth, was very truly rural.

After lunch I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Miss Kate the proprietor's daughter. She was a tall, handsome girl with a superb figure, but as the Paris fashions were unknown in Tralee, she was just a little bit slatternly.

We had a long chat.
"And not tell me," said she, "have you come down to go mate in the auld brig, and you a gentleman?"
"I have indeed," I said.

"Sure the last mate was a dirty faced fellow with no coat on. Oh faith I am sorry for you."

"Never mind, Kate, it will be all right. What kind of a fellow is the captain?"

"Oh sure, he is nice enough but don't say I said so, but he is that stingy. They say there is never anything to eat in the auld Ballahoo."

This was not pleasant news but I was in for it, and so was determined to make the best of it, and I would take care of myself anyhow.

Kate and I got on famously. She told me that her father had made up his mind that she should marry nobody but a captain, so when I proposed to her, which I did after a few hours conversation, she refused me flatly.

"Kate, darling," said I, in a tone that would melt a marble spike "give me a lock of your hair if you can't give me your heart, so as I can have something to worship."

"Sure I won't," said she "you must only worship the saints."

I was sorry when her mother called her down stairs. As the brig was in the bay some twelve miles from town, the walk was too long to undertake, although I wished to see her very much after dinner. I was informed that the owner and captain had arrived. Kate and I took a long walk and on returning I introduced myself to them. I think they were rather surprised that I had not traveled third class by train and that I put up at the best hotel in the town, but they said very little.

Next day I signed on, and was told at four o'clock a jaunty car would take me to the place where I could find a boat to take me to the vessel.

An amusing incident occurred during the morning. The hotel, I may say, was a two story stone building. The first floor was a vast store, containing everything you could think of, the upper part was the hotel.

I happened to be in the store that morning when the proprietor's wife came in. She was a very stout, red faced, middle-aged body, with an uncertain gait and a loud voice. One of the maids was calling out lustily: "Kitty, Kitty," when her ladyship with a wrathful tone of voice, said:

"An' bad luck to you, why don't you call her Misk Kate?"

"Sure I won't," was the answer. Angered by the reply she was about to inflict personal chastisement on the rebellious maid when she stumbled and fell into a very large tub of molasses which happened to be there for the purpose of settling. Poor woman; I am sorry to say I laughed immoderately at her immersion. When they fished her out she was the sweetest thing you ever saw. The rebellious maid: "Oh darlint, sure it was my fault, bad seran to me. Faith, I'll never call her anything but Misk Kate again. Winna wirra! look at your hair?"

Before I left I took the precaution to put up a case of edible luxuries, and after a heartrending farewell scene with Miss Kate on the quiet, jumped on the car with my baggage and drove away.

It was a lovely afternoon, the roads fairly good, and the jarvey, like most good-hearted Irishmen, was communicatively. I spoke of the brig.

"Ah sure, I know all about her."
"You don't say so," I replied. "What is she like? I was told she was a perfect beauty."

"Begob, the man that told you that hadn't been to confession for a long time, an' its a hard time he'll have with the priest when he does go. The auld trap has been here for weeks trying to get away, but as soon as the sailors see her they made a bout of it. But sure, I heard she is all right now, and they hope to get away shortly, because the polls will catch every mother's son that shoves his name on paper he has to sign if he deserts. Ye never seen her, did ye?"

"No, I have not."

"Of course you didn't, or bejabbers, I wouldn't, be driving your honor this blessed minute."

"Well tell us what does she look like, anyhow?"

"Well, I tell you. Did you ever see a brack kiln?"

"Yes, I have."

"Well, your honor, just shove a couple of masts on it and there she is. They say she was in San Francisco and the people there had her for a hotel, and every mother's son that came aboard to live, that had a bag of gold dust, was murdered. They say that for twenty-five years she was haunted with spirits—till she went to the Crimea, for the government as a store ship, to hold horse-collars and pratties."

We drove up to the cottage. It was a perfect picture hid in flowers, and a colleen came out to greet us. She certainly was a picture of loveliness. I regretted that I had only a few minutes to stop.

Towards late in the evening we reached the boatman's house and having given the driver a few shillings to drink my health, I put my things in the boat and in half an hour was on board. As I got on deck a boy, in the dirtiest condition possible, welcomed me on board and asked me if I brought anything to eat with me.

Poor boy, what a picture of dirt he was. He had been by himself for several days without food, not even a biscuit being on board. I made some coffee, and with my private supply, he had the first good meal for weeks. After which, with plenty of hot water and soap, I got him clean. We then cleaned up the cabin, or rather my room, and then had supper, a good smoke, and turned in. My dreams that night were of all sorts, as may be well imagined.

In the morning after breakfast, we managed to clean the vessel somewhat. The coal dust was thick on her. A week previous she had been re-cooped with coal tar and the operators not being particular, left sundry splashes here, there and everywhere. Towards noon, the second mate came aboard, and together we got the tub, after a lot of hard work, fairly clean, cabin included.

Next day the ballast boats came off, manned by girls with a man in charge. As they spoke in Irish I am unaware of his brutal language, but his manner in ordering them to "get on faster" was unmistakable. I felt inclined to put a lump of ballast at him. I had sent the second mate on shore for meat, vegetables, eggs and bread, and when he arrived with a boat load, the ballasting was finished. I invited the girls on board and gave each a few biscuits.

In the evening we held a council of war and determined to lay in a stock of provisions privately, so taking the boat I purchased potatoes, butter, ham and bacon, and stowed them away.

Next day the captain came on board. I told him there was nothing to eat and that I had to purchase provisions, the account of which I would give him later. I also incidentally remarked that a cook would be a very welcome addition as I was heartily tired of cooking my own food. He said nothing but went below. In an hour he came up and said the crew would be off next day and the provisions at the same time. He also remarked at the cleanliness of the vessel, but requested me not to scrub all the paint off the wood, as he had no paint on board to renew it. I then mentioned the sad case of the poor boy—that a few clothes were absolutely necessary and a few bars of soap, etc. Well, he said, he would see what could be done, but the owner would have to be consulted.

Early next morning the provision came alongside, including two barrels of herrings, and was taken aboard. The crew came on at noon, and the captain with his chronometer immediately afterwards. By night sails were set and at daybreak next morning, with a good easterly breeze, we shaped our course for Miramichi, Nova Scotia, there to load deals for a port in England.

A brief description of the brig is due to my readers. She was about ninety feet long, about twenty-six feet beam and depth of hold I cannot remember, but it must be over twenty. Built of good oak, she was as strong as you could make her. Her stern seemed to be cut off with a saw with a slight, very slight rake; the rudder was attached to the stern post with iron pintles and gridgevins, and then the stern was boarded up with oak plank and covered with coal tar. It was manipulated by a shifting wheel.

With all sails set we made, being newly cleaned, about four knots.

We had steady easterly winds the whole way to Miramichi, which we reached in two months. Nothing of interest occurred during the trip. The two barrels of herring were lashed, one on each side of the pump rail. They were put there for the crew to steal, so they could not complain of the atrocious character of their food, but they never took any and complaints were of daily occurrence.

Our food in the cabin was as bad as the men forward, but I made it better with my supplies, which the skipper duly appreciated.

"Ah, Meister Mate, it is a grand thing to be a rich man's son," he would say as he munched a buttered biscuit with a pork accompaniment. Owing to my having a small stock of raisins we had plum duff twice a week. My crock of butter lasted till we arrived in port.

We had our first quarrel when no fresh meat or vegetables were forthcoming at the cabin table the day after arrival.

He could not afford it, he said, he

HYLO LAMPS

TURN DOWN AT WILL

THE HYLO LAMP is known as the lamp that turns up and down as needed. Its principal virtue is that of economy. There is no valid reason why you should go on paying for 16-candle power when 1-candle power at certain times would suffice for your needs.

HYLO LAMPS turn down from 16-candle power to 1-candle power and can be used wherever an ordinary electric incandescent lamp is used. For a sick room, where a dim, steady light is a necessity, the value of the HYLO LAMP cannot be overestimated.

THE VOYAGE OF "JAMES CASKIE"

seldom had his meals on board. So I ordered fresh meat, potatoes, vegetables, etc., and paid for them. Out of sympathy, the crew had an occasional meal of fresh food.

In three weeks time the brig was loaded with deals and ready for sea. I called the attention of the skipper to the fact that we might have a long voyage to London and the bread locker was nearly empty, and everything else was in the same condition. He asked me to step down to the cabin as he wanted to have a private conversation with me. I did so.

The gist of his conversation was as follows:

"Meister Mate, I want ye to help me out as you are a rich man's son and lots of money. My expenses in this port are so heavy that I am afraid that my owner will make me pay part of them, or turn me out with a bad character. I cannot sleep at nights. Now, couldn't you give me, say twenty-five pounds, to help me along?"

I flatly refused. I reminded him that the cabin food was paid for by me. Up to the present time we had nothing but what the law required and that was of the worst description. How his expenses were so high I could not imagine as nothing was supplied. "An how are we to get home?"

"Oh," said he, "we can halt a passing vessel and get a supply from them if necessary."

I took care to lay in a stock for myself and the second mate.

We sailed to London with a westerly gale to drive us home. If she sailed badly on the way out, she was twice as bad loaded. Give her her due, however, the old tub though she yawned about, never shipped water. Her bluff bow would send the sea a mile away from her.

We halted several vessels (American) for her skipper said a British ship was too mean to give anything, and obtained flour, pork, oil, and a few other necessary articles of food. He always went in the boat himself, much to my satisfaction.

The wind, fortunately, was fair, and in twelve weeks we entered the British channel.

On arriving at Dungeness the wind changed to northeast, so stood off. The following morning we were on the French coast, tacked ship in company with two other vessels, and towards evening we sighted the two on the Goodwin Sands. Had we sailed as well as them we would have been there also. Not having anything to eat for several days we bore away and next morning anchored at Dungeness.

Then the skipper went ashore and shortly returned with two days food and a pilot.

When the tide was favorable we got under weigh. We quickly had the anchor up and on the rail, all sails set, and she barely moved. The following conversation then occurred:

Pilot: "Mr. Mate, when the devil are you going to get that blessed anchor up?"

Mate: "The anchor has been up for the last half hour and you see it is on the rail."

Pilot: "Then what is the matter, she will scarcely move?"

Mate: "Oh, she is getting along fine."

Voice from someone: "She has nothing to eat and is lazy."

During this conversation the pilot walked fore and aft the deck and would look over the bow. His remarks I will not mention here.

At last the skipper came on deck.

"Captain," said the pilot, "where on earth did this tub come from? Damn it, you should present her to the Queen for a yacht."

They retired together for a while and he finally persuaded the skipper to get a tug.

"We are going to have fearful weather," said he, "you have no provisions on board, and your only chance to get to London is to employ a tug."

Presently a tug came along. "Want a tow?" said the captain of the tug.

"Yes," was the reply, "what will you charge to tow to London docks?"

"Seventy-five pounds."

"No, I'll give you twenty-five."

"Offer him fifty," said the pilot.

Just then the vessel made a huge roll disclosing her bottom which had grass ten feet long firmly attached.

"I wouldn't tow you for five hundred blast you," and away he went.

The pilot was furious and talked about sending signals of distress. Little as there was to eat, there was nothing to drink and night came on. Next morning we were still at Dungeness.

Then a tug came along and an agreement was made to tow her to the London docks for, as far as I can remember, sixty pounds. Oh, how glad we all were. The hawser was given and the tug started. After towing for a few moments the tug stopped and wanted to know if we were still anchored. We replied no. Again he went ahead, and giving her full steam, the hawser parted. The usual thing then occurred. A bargain was struck for the use of the tug's hawser, a big 1 1/2-inch rope, for ten rounds extra, and went at it again. We got nearly to Dover roads when this rope parted. It took some time to get it spliced and finally we reached an anchorage, when the tug left to get coal, and these days provisions for us. It took us two days to reach Gravesend, where we anchored.

The mud pilot came on board and as the sea pilot left he shook me by the hand and said: "I have had some tough times, but this beats all I have had nothing to eat and not even a decent wash, no good-bye, and may you get a better ship next time."

The skipper left for London, saying he would be back next day. After his departure, the pilot gave instructions to moor the vessel close in shore, as he said: "We are going to have a terrible cold spell, and if she remains here the ice will sink her."

"How long is the cold spell going to last, pilot?" said I.

"About a fortnight; we will have no communication with shore for two weeks."

"Good heavens," said I, "we have no provisions on board, just enough for two meals."

"What!" said he, "got ashore while there is daylight. I'll take the craft ashore myself, and bring off enough to last three weeks."

I took two men and had great difficulty to get ashore owing to the floating ice. I bought flour, potatoes, a side of beef, (half a sheep, raisins, tea, coffee, bread, sugar and, don't mention it, a few bottles of rum for the pilot, and two bottles of wine for myself, which I paid for. The stores I directed them to charge to the ship. We got back to the ship all right. Next morning we were frozen in, and all traffic was stopped in the river.

Next day we stripped the vessel according to orders and then nothing to do but sleep and eat.

In two weeks, just as the pilot predicted, a thaw set in and the ice was sufficiently soft to allow iron steamers to crush through it. The captain returned in the tug, wondering if we were still alive, as he knew we had no food and communication with the shore was impossible. We got under weigh, and in tow of the tug which followed in the wake of the large steamers. We reached the London docks and just as we got inside the gates were closed. The cold set in with terrible severity, and the dock was frozen over, but we got our chests on shore over the ice. In two hours I had a nice warm bath, put on my shore clothes, and sat down to a good supper.

Next day we were paid off. The skipper asked me if I could contribute something to pay the expenses of the vessel. No use.

"Well, then, will you stand me a new hat?"

"No."

"You will treat me to a dinner, won't you?"

"I shan't."

A few years afterwards I met him. He told me he had just bought a new ship and was going to India.

ARRESTS MARK THE DAY. (Associated Press, Morning Service) ST. PETERSBURG, December 20.—The name day of the Czar was celebrated here yesterday.

One hundred militant socialists have been arrested.

DAVIS FILED EXCEPTIONS.

George A. Davis for plaintiff yesterday filed in the Supreme Court the record on exceptions from Judge De Bolt's ruling in the case of Harry T. Mills vs. John S. Walker. There are twelve documents in the batch, starting with the declaration in the District Court and finishing with the exceptions from Judge De Bolt's decision dismissing the appeal.

AMENDED JUDGMENT FILED.

An amended judgment by Judge Robinson was filed in the case of Tim Soarock vs. Hu Kwong et al. It is in favor of the plaintiff for an undivided one-eighth of a fish pond, a house lot and a house in Koolapoko, $5.67 damage and costs taxed at $60.10.

MRS. NAKUINA WAS PROVOKED.

Mrs. Nakuina, the commissioner of private ways and water rights, was provoked yesterday. The occasion was the attempt made by various attorneys in the case of Annie K. Woolsey against E. C. Winston and Lee Let for a three-foot right of way in the Asiatic section of the city to secure continuance. The petitioner claims that the Winston building encroaches on her property. None of the dates suggested by the commissioner were satisfactory to the attorneys and finally she became annoyed and said so. January 25 was finally set as the day of the determination of the continuance.

FOUND INTERESTING LETTER.

An interesting autograph letter from King Kamehameha II was found yesterday in the archives. The letter was written in London by the King. It stated that the King was ill in a hotel, the expenses of his living were to be borne by the British Government. He addressed the letter to the chiefs of Hawaii and informed them that he had not been presented to the King of England. Kamehameha died soon after writing the letter. It is thought to be the only autograph letter from him in existence.
