I WANT MY MAMMA.

The red October sun had disappeared behind the distant hills in the midst of glorious inscriptions, and deep-brooding night hung over the quiet valley.

Toward the north, the thick clustering lights of a town sent up by a pearly challenge to the radiant stars in the eastward.

Toward the south, stretching down the valley like the tail of a little comet, the lights in hundreds of suburban villas peered like curious eyes into the outer darkness.

The entire scene was one of peace and repose. In one of the villas the upraised curtains revealed a pretty sight. A beautiful lady sat in a chair in the center of the drawing-room, and from opposite corners two small little fellows were making repeated onslaughts upon her, their apparent object being to see who should gain the chair first and be rewarded for his prowess with a kiss from his fair, sweet occupant.

A gentlemanly attendant of the room glanced up now and then with a sort of frowning smile as he peered over his shoulder at the two little fellows who were making repeated onslaughts upon her, their apparent object being to see who should gain the chair first and be rewarded for his prowess with a kiss from his fair, sweet occupant.

Meanwhile outside a figure was toiling up the road from an adjacent town. She was evidently a fugitive, for she was huddled, and her shawl had fallen down from her knees and was rolled about her diminutive shoes, leaving the little white legs exposed to the cold autumn air. A mass of tangled golden curls fell back in the breeze, and the sweet violet eyes were welling over in great tears, which rolled down the ruddy cheeks and splashed upon the little hands holding tight to her breast a ragged doll.

Greatly convulsed the tiny creature as she half ran along the dusty road.

"O God, tell me where my mamma is," the baby voice implored. And ever again that plaintive little cry broke forth—"O God, tell me where my mamma is."

No one had yet minded her from home, so there was no pursuit.

Presently she arrived at the house with the upturned curtains. It was only a few rods from her own home, but to the weary little feet the distance had been tremendous.

She paused at the gateway, and hearing the sound of laughter within, and attracted by the brightly lighted windows, she toiled up the steps to the piazza, and approaching the nearest window she looked down and looked up. Something in the merry scene within seemed to bring a fresh sense of desolation to the little heart without. The golden head leaned heavily against the bright pane, and a well-known "O God, I want my mamma, to"—burst from the quivering, rosy mouth.

"O God, I want my mamma, to." The words came suddenly, for the words seemed to cut through the clear glass to the ears within.

One of the boys ran to the window, but drew back, quickly, and with amazement and pity in his voice cried out:

"Oh, mamma, come quick! There's a poor little girl outside."

The beautiful lady came swiftly to the window. For one moment she gazed, motionless with pity, on the tiny creature lying huddled up against the pane; then, quickly raising the broad pane, she put out her arms, and gathered the little girl lovingly into her arms.

"It is little Grace Meredith," she exclaimed in wonder. "Why, darling, how did you come here all alone?"

The lady pressed the child to her warm mother's breast, and seating herself in a chair, wiped away the tears from the sweet eyes.

"I want my mamma," was all little Grace could say.

The tears sprang suddenly to the lady's own sweet eyes.

"John," she whispered to her husband, who had left his paper and was regarding the group with curious emotion. "John, go over, please, and tell Mr. Meredith his little girl is with us, safe and sound. And, as added, as the gentleman was about to leave, ask him, please, to let her stay with us to-night. It'll do her good to be with the children, poor motherless little darling."

The child looked from the gentleman to the lady with grave, questioning eyes, but said nothing. Her mother had been married the day before, and her little heart was filled with longing for the dear carousal she had lived and thrived upon.

"I want my mamma," she said again, in tones that seemed to pierce the heart of the lady who held her.

"Yes, dear," said the lady soothingly, tears dropping from her eyes upon the golden head. "Yes, dear, you shall have mamma one of these days, one of the beautiful distant days when God in His goodness shall give the child back to its mother, and the mother to her child. Husband, darling, husband, is waiting for you, way, way up beyond the shining stars, and you shall go to her, dear, when God has made you ready for the change."

And to her soothed little Grace, and sang to her, and the boys brought out their playthings for her, and all was so good and gentle to her that for a time she forgot the sorrows in her little bosom and was happy.

But that night after the golden head had sunk wearily to rest and the tiny white-robed form lay still in the crib that had been found for it, the beautiful lady's eyes again overcast with a tremulous sob reached her ear, and in her sleep little Grace again murmured her baby petition:

"O God, I want my mamma too."

LOCAL NEWS. The stock of S. J. Levey & Co. is being disposed of by the assignees.

There are three neat cottages being built on the Palama road above Liliha street.

There were two attempted opium raids last night which were not successful.

The authorities are keeping a sharp eye on the performances at the two Chinese theatres.

Some young gentlemen were out on the streets last night singing violent discords. Next time better keep the cork in the bottle.

The saloon beats are having a fat time while the British sailors are in town. The sailors are green enough to run with them.

Some Chinese carpenters have erected the frame of a new dwelling-house on Fort street, and are preparing to put up other buildings on the same lot.

It is reported that some of the girls of Honolulu contemplate starting a boat club. It is also reported the organization will be called the Holoku Club.

The Honolulu Rifles held their regular monthly meeting last night. Some committees were appointed and next Tuesday evening was set for the transaction of special business.

Two natives left by the Stmr. Kinzu for Hilo, they will walk along the coast to Pohoiki from there to Kona Point to see if anything can be seen of the Sch. Ka Mo'i having been wrecked.

The natives are old sailors of the Ka Mo'i. It is reported that the Chinaman who has the contract of disposing of the dead animals for the Government is running a hog ranch at Waikiki.

Yesterday morning one of Hebbard's drays drawn by two horses, and loaded with the bed of a maceration mill, which was being taken to the steamer planter for shipment, while passing the foot of Kaahumanu street became stalled.

An enterprising Chinaman on Nuuanu street has built a hot soup stand which takes up about one third of the already narrow sidewalk. After night it generally has a crowd of Chinamen around it and foot passengers are obliged to take to the street to get along. Soup is a good thing but clear sidewalks are more desirable.

A little native boy was almost run over the other day on Liliha street by thoughtlessly getting in front of a hack which was driving at a moderate pace. The hackman saw the little fellow in time, however, and pulled up so quickly to avoid hurting him that the horse broke one of the shafts of the hack.

From the Bulletin we learn that the Makiki reservoir which holds some 500,000 gallons of water has been lowered during the dry spell to 3 or 4 feet in depth. When compared with the Nuuanu reservoir it would seem, from this showing that the people of Makiki are using water rather extravagantly.

Two young fellows amused themselves night before last by pulling up the barber pole of the barber shop on Hotel street back of Mr. Tregloan's tailor shop. The pole was taken to a vacant lot near by and left. Some boys will be hoodlums in spite of their advantages. The names of these young fellows will be published if they are found out.

The British ships Edgewise and Lochie sailed lately from Newcastle, N. S. W. for San Francisco. It is a remarkable thing about the passage of these vessels that they left Newcastle the same day and hour, took the San Francisco pilots the same day and hour and arrived at that port both at the same time, but never saw each other during the entire voyage.

Yesterday afternoon about three o'clock while some Chinamen were running a hand cart full of produce from their gardens down Nuuanu street to the Chinese markets, one of the Chinamen fell and besides being bruised one of the wheels of the cart passed over one of his legs inflicting a severe wound. The unfortunate man was taken back to his home where he was attended to by an application of Chinese herbs.

An artistic painting is on exhibition at the store of Mrs. Luck on Fort street. It is painted on blue satin and represents wild roses, wheat and daisies. It is designed for a banner and is owned by Mr. James McGuire. The painting was executed in the State of Ohio, U. S. A., by Miss L. Moore, cousin of Miss Belle Smith, an artist of some note and a relative of Captain Turner, of the brigantine W. G. Irwin.

The boys at the Government Building, who were so anxious to know what Joe Wiseman would do with the sloop Lark, will be pleased to learn that Joe has sold her to Messrs. Michiels and McMillan for the snug little sum of $175—not $250 as reported. As Joe only paid $60 for her this is much better than most of us would have done. The sloop will not be used as a Government Revenue cutter as was contemplated.

Mr. D. P. Smith proprietor of the Central Park skating rink will start a rink in Hilo as soon as it can be built. While Mr. Smith is away the Central Park rink here will be under the management of Mr. L. J. Scott, catcher for the Champion Oceans. Mr. Scott will doubtless make a popular manager and expects to get up some special attractions during Mr. Smith's Hilo trip.

It is understood that the person who fired two shots the other night in Thomas' Square, which came so near hitting the driver of the Woodlawn Dairy, is known to be the Chinaman who has charge of the square. As some of the marshal's officers have expressed a desire to check the unlawful use of firearms in Honolulu the PRESS gives them this pointer and hopes soon to publish a police record with the Chinaman's name in it.

A Chinaman had the misfortune to get in the way of a hack, which was turning the corner of Alakea and Beretania streets yesterday morning. He was wheeling a hand barrow with a big basket of clothes on it. The hack struck the wheel barrow and scattered the contents of the basket in the street. The Chinaman talked Latin about the matter loud and long, but to no avail as the unkind hackman drove off after making faces at the washman.

It is rumored about town that the new Ice Company is already advancing rates and making discrimination in certain cases. Complaints have been made by several parties at this office since the consolidation of the two companies took place. At that time the PRESS was suspicious that higher rates and discriminations would soon follow the monopoly, and said the consolidation would be good thing—provided advances did not follow. It is the old story.

A gentleman returning to town yesterday evening from Waikiki, driving a spirited horse had a narrow escape from runaway. He was driving along Beretania street and when nearly opposite the Central Park Skating Rink a portion of the harness broke and the horse became unmanageable. The horse had succeeded in backing the buggy into the sidewalk and was trying to get away when some gentlemen passing caught him and probably avoided an accident.

Yesterday morning one of Hebbard's drays drawn by two horses, and loaded with the bed of a maceration mill, which was being taken to the steamer planter for shipment, while passing the foot of Kaahumanu street became stalled.

The horses were small and the native driver was whipping them severely. Mr. J. H. Black who was present threatened to have the driver arrested if he did not stop his brutal work. A large pair of horses belonging to Mr. Hebbard were at last sent down and the dray was pulled away.

Monday evening about eleven o'clock word was telephoned to the PRESS office that about six o'clock the same evening a general row had occurred at the Immigration Depot between some natives and the Japs stationed there since their return from the Paia plantation, but as the report could not be verified at that late hour it was not published. Investigation yesterday developed the fact that a misunderstanding occurred with the Japs who thought they could fish along the Depot beach because they saw some natives fishing there. The natives resented the interference and the Japs became defiant and commenced throwing stones. For awhile it looked as if there would be trouble, but at last every thing was quieted down without any body being hurt.

No. 6, of the O Luso Hawaiiano, is just to hand. It contains the end of Mr. Marques' article on the population question, in which, after showing the Portuguese what an important element they constitute here, the writer entreates them not to neglect the instruction of their children. This is followed by a correspondence giving the Portuguese some very good advice, especially advising them not to send away the money they save up, but to keep it here for future use, which is good advice both for the people and for this country. Other correspondence is inserted about the projected formation of a co-operative society amongst Portuguese, and about the Chinese question. The local and island news continue to be numerous and well selected and a continuously increasing number of new advertisements shows that the paper is receiving the patronage it well deserves.

They say that it will be advisable for the editors who write about Sanitation to take a trip through town—if they have not already not done so; that the fattest office is sometimes filled by the leanest man; that the power of love is reducible to dollars and cents; that the colonization project is taking with the moneyed people; that the worst attack made on the Board of Health may be found in the actions of the Board itself; that officials who control causes are responsible for effects and cannot logically defend themselves by saying "it is the best we can do under the circumstances"—as they are also responsible for the circumstances; that the man who drove the Waikiki bus yesterday cannot make as much noise on a fish horn as Jim Sherwood; that the luckiest find of the season was that of one of our citizens, who found his way home after 10 o'clock P.M.; that typhoid fever is on the point of becoming epidemic in Honolulu; that another fast horse is to be brought to Honolulu soon; and that the "age of reason" always precedes a period of success, but seldom follows it.

PHOTO-MECHANICAL.

THE SYSTEM EXPLAINED BY ONE OF ITS EXPONENTS.

How Art Serves Commerce—Making Pictures of Public Buildings, Bridges, and Merchandise—Tracing Architectural Drawings.

[Chicago News] A reporter was in the board of trade building recently after trading hours on change, and observed the taking of several sectional and full-sized views of the large trading hall by the two partners in a photographic firm.

"What constitutes the greatest number of these special orders?" "Our work is everything outside the ordinary portrait line, and even in that we do a great deal of enlarging by the negative and enlarger systems.

"Will you please illustrate the various systems and methods you have mentioned?" "The main system is, of course, the usual camera work on plates, more or less sensitized, but a simpler process is a great desideratum in our business.

"It often happens that the best point of view for an interior negative is a dark or otherwise unsuitable spot, when it takes much longer and is far more troublesome. In making open-air negatives it does not take nearly so long, but the chances of interruption or motion are so great that we often have to make as many attempts as in indoor work.

"How are these tracings of house plans and machinery made?" "They are done by sun photography without the aid of the lens or camera. We take a sheet of plain white paper and coat it on one side with a thin film of iron.
