and a preliminary inquiry was made of the circumstances leading up to the abandoning of the fine vessel which is now probably a smoking hulk on the broad bosom of the Pacific.

The officers and men were seen early this morning at the Sallo's Home. Each man had his story to tell. In the main each account was the same as far as the fire aboard ship was concerned. The occupants of the different boats which pushed off from the burning ship's side, of course, varied, as did the fortunes of the boats.

GOOD RACES MAY BE LOOKED FOR

Out at Kapiolani Park on Kamehameha Day.

EVERYTHING SEEMS TO PROMISE GREAT SUCCESS

C. B. Wilson Will Do Starting—Officers Have All Been Chosen—Large Crowd Assured For Tomorrow.

From the present indications, the races at Kapiolani Park tomorrow will be far above the average. This impression is so general that there is hardly anyone on the streets today who does not intend to go out to Kapiolani Park. The races will begin at 10 o'clock sharp or as sharp as possible. The band will be present, the wind will blow, the track is in good conditions, the officers are in a good mood, it will be just hot enough to assure the very best of races, and everything, it is believed, will conspire to make June 11th this year one of the most successful that has been held here for a long time.

The Jockey Club officers in charge of the arrangements at Kapiolani Park tomorrow are as follows: W. H. Cornwell, president; Edgar Halstead, vice president; C. L. Crabbe, secretary; and G. P. Wilder, treasurer.

Executive Committee—Prince David Kawananakoa, Frank Halstead, S. I. Shaw and C. L. Crabbe.

Reception Committee—H. M. Whitney Jr., Dr. M. E. Grossman and W. C. Wilder.

Judges—A. N. Tripp, Edgar Halstead, and A. Horner.

Clerk—T. J. King.

Starter—Charles B. Wilson.

Timekeepers—James L. Torbert, Louis Marks and Chris Willis.

Clerk of the Course—Thomas P. Cummins.

Saddling Padock—L. H. Dee.

Handicapper—Robert Ballantine.

These rules must be observed: All races to be run or trotted under the rules of the California Jockey Club and the National Trotting Association. All riders and drivers to appear in colors.

At least three to enter and two to start. All horses are expected to start unless withdrawn by 10 a. m. on the day previous to the race.

The grand stand and refreshment- Today, all in haste at the track and booths are being whipped into shape for the great events tomorrow. Every- one of the boxes in the grand stand have been taken. The press box which occupies a position opposite the judges' stand, will be kept for newspaper men alone and outsiders will not be allowed to take seats in this box as on previous occasions.

The Bulletin is unable to publish the list of entries because the men in charge of the program wish to have their copyright protected and the easi- est way to do this, they believe, is to allow no one to see these entries.

Great interest is being taken in the Weller races in the running events. It is said that there may be a surprise which is not anticipated at the present time. However, there are plenty who will still bank on Weller.

This morning, more light was thrown on the question which had arisen among the polo players as to whether the mare which Charles Rice brought over from Kauai and entered for the polo pony race was qualified to start in that race or not.

It appears that this morning Mr. Rice had a consultation with those in au- thority and demonstrated that his mare is a bona fide polo pony and, as such, is qualified to run in the race. Mr. Rice states that his animal, a black mare by the name of Gypsy, a half-Arab, has been used by him in numer- ous polo games on the Garden Island. She has also been used by Mr. Rice for cattle work but has never entered in a race before. Mr. Rice does not ascribe any especial speed to the mare.

In addition to the racing cups displayed in Pearson & Potter's window on Hotel street yesterday some new and interesting trophies have been added. Among them, the California

STRANGE EXPERIENCE

SUDDEN SORROW FOLLOWED BY JOY UNSPEAKABLE

Brother of Dr. Murray, Late of Honolulu, Proves Very Much Alive After His Supposed Burial.

An extremely trying experience lately befell the family of Dr. H. V. Murray, formerly of Honolulu but now living in Shanghai. It was another exemplification of the adage that truth is stranger than fiction, being a case where a great and sudden sorrow was speedily followed by its abrupt wiping away.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus Murray of Truro, Nova Scotia, have brought up a large family. There are five or six sons who have been highly educated, and two daughters are at home with the elderly parents. One son is a professor in Dalhousie College, Halifax, only sixty miles from home. Another is professor of mathematics in Cornell University and the author of standard text books on that subject. Dr. Murray, already mentioned, is well known to many Honolulu people from his service in steamships calling here and several years of practice in this city.

Lately the Murrays received the dis- tressing tidings in one week that one of the sons had died in British Colum- bia and another was critically ill in Colorado. Within a few days a sealed coffin was received at the old home and was sadly and solemnly interred in the family burial plot. The flow- ers had not withered on the mound, however, until Professor Murray of Halifax received positive tidings from his brother supposed to be resting in his grave, that he was still in the land of the living. The body of mistaken identity was to be disinterred, according to a Halifax dispatch in a Montreal paper, which, however, neither tells how the ghastly mistake was made nor what was to be done with the stranger dead.

One of the Murray boys was a col- lege chum of a son of Geo. R. Ewart of Kamea, Kauai, in McGill University, Montreal, three years ago and possibly is the one here shown to have been buried by proxy.

BADLY BUILT WALL FALLS INTO STREET

Very Fortunately No Lives Are Placed In Danger.

HOW JAPANESE ARE PUTTING UP BUILDING

Mortar Used Comes From Kaunakapili Ruins—Authorities Have Made No Investigations Whatever.

Without any apparent reason; with not even the slightest breeze from any direction or the impelling force of even the slightest earthquake; with no one to push or no one to pull, the front wall of the Japanese built brick wall of the new structure being erected at the makai Ewa end of Nuuanu and Beretania streets, fell at about 3 o'clock this morning.

It was certainly great good fortune that no one happened to be passing by on Nuuanu street at the hour mention- ed for, even had persons been in the middle of the street near the building that ought to be condemned, death or horrible maiming would have surely resulted from the hundreds of falling bricks and mortar.

When a reporter of the Bulletin called at the place at about 7 o'clock this morning, the Japanese employed on the structure were working with might and main to clear the street of the bricks but with all their quick work and zeal in the matter of covering up their tracks, they could not obliterate the marks the mortar, ground into the hard dirt, by the falling bricks. These marks extended over and upon the tramcar tracks showing that, had a car been passing at the time, it must have been wrecked beyond all power of recognition.

The building in question is another one of those charmingly shabby struc- tures that, since the commencement of rebuilding operations in old Chinatown, have seemed to hold sway. Although a brick building, there is absolutely no foundation, the various pillars and walls have been built directly from the ground and in such a way as to make them accommodate themselves to the various curvatures of the ground, thus assuring curvatures in the very spine of the building.

With this sort of a lack of foundation on which to build, the Japanese brick masons have gone to work like a lot of children with mud and stones. The walls of the lower floor, constituted no problem whatever. In no time, they were up and then began the work on the walls of the second floor. The start was made from the makai end and the work went along swimmingly until yesterday afternoon at quit- ting time, between fifty and sixty feet of the wall had been built a little above the frames of the numerous win- dows.

The Japanese quit their work con- tented and during the early morning hours, when all were asleep, the wall for a space of something over forty feet from the mauka end, just nodded and collapsed and now, as the day progresses, the same men are putting up the same wall in the same way and with the same mortar, without even the semblance of an objection from the proper authorities, based on the san- itary regulations of the Board of Health for the Honolulu District.

The reporter who called around this morning to view the building which hundreds of people passing by on Nu- anuanu cannot help but be a menace to the

The Advertiser's Denial Is Absolutely False

MR. COOPER DECLARES

This morning's Advertiser contains the following editorial paragraph: "The statement of the Bulletin that Acting Governor Cooper refused the pardon in the Smith contempt case which Governor Dole so promptly granted is untrue and is probably de- signed to create more friction in the Republican party. When called upon last Thursday night Judge Cooper was a very sick man, but he said he hoped to be able to take up the question of a pardon the first thing in the morning. When morning came he was worse and he has not yet returned to duty. As Judge Cooper is the man who, in the famous contempt proceedings of a year ago issued the pardons which kept Judge Hartwell and Messrs. Kin- ney and Ballou from going to jail at the instance of a disreputable and re- vengeful court, his attitude in the more recent crisis of the fight for good government may be easily surmised."

Taking the third statement in the foregoing first, namely, that Secretary Cooper "has not yet returned to duty," the reply is that he attended the exe- cutive council yesterday morning and remained there until noon. He was seen in his own office after 1 o'clock by a representative of the Bulletin, who asked after his health and when- ever he had been present at the council meeting. Answering the latter ques- tion in the affirmative he remarked that his regular custom was to retire from the meeting at 12 o'clock. Secretary Cooper was ascertained to have been detained at home again this morning, not having quite recovered from his recent illness. The same member of the Bulletin staff who had seen him yesterday called up his resi- dence telephone number at Pearl City to ask if he had seen the contradiction of the Bulletin's news article about himself in the Advertiser. The an- swer was that he had not seen this morning's paper, and the following message was conveyed to him: "The Advertiser says that the Bulletin's statement regarding Mr. Cooper and the Smith pardon is untrue. Ask Mr. Cooper, please, if he has anything to say on the matter."

"It is absolutely false. The last words I had with Mr. Thurston were to tell him I would not interfere in the matter at that time, but if Mr. Dole did not return I would take it into con- sideration."

This contradiction of the Advertiser by Secretary Cooper incidentally cor- roborates the concluding statement in yesterday's Bulletin, upon which the Advertiser evades commenting, name- ly:

"Mr. Cooper steadfastly refused to interfere, as, in the face of the affirma- tion of sentence by the Supreme Court, it would have been an unwonted interference with the judiciary. While the acting chief executive felt that the sentence was excessive, he consid- ered that intervention the very day the sentence began to take effect would be decidedly premature."

Since the Advertiser has ventured upon a bluff in the matter, it may be stated that the Bulletin was in a position to state yesterday, but preferred reserve to that extent, that Secretary Cooper had in conversation expressed regret that Governor Dole should have interfered so hastily.

HAGEY CURE CASE UP

EXCEPTIONS FROM VERDICT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Another Consenting Defendant in Partition Suit—Mesick Separation Case Discontinued—Van Giesen Divorce Case.

The famous Hagey Cure Company case continued from yesterday before the Supreme Court this morning. Robert- erson & Wilder represent the plaintiff, while Kinney, Ballou & McElanahan appear with J. A. Magoon, one of the defendants, for the local members of the company. A jury returned a ver- dict for T. M. Harrison, allowing him $10,000 on the contract shown. Judge Gear denied a motion for a new trial made on the ground that one of the jurors had taken the same cure for alcoholism as the company was formed to exploit in the Colonies and India.

The appeal is on exceptions from Judge Gear's ruling and the verdict. Mr. McElanahan was arguing this morning on the limited liability of the Honolulu stockholders under the ar- ticles of association.

William Lono Austin by his attor- neys, Peterson & Matthewman and T. McCants Stewart, agrees that R. Wil- liam Holt and others may have ten days more to answer his bill in equity to declare a trust.

Anne W. Akong by her attorneys, Robertson & Wilder, files a replication to Rudolph Duncan's answer to her complaint, saying it is untrue, uncer- tain and insufficient, and she will pro- ceed to file her bill for injunction to be true, cer- tain and sufficient.

Judge Robinson approved the report of sale in Buffandeau vs. Montana by C. F. Reynolds, commissioner, allowing him a fee of $300.

James D. Lewis, one of the defend- ants in the partition suit of Bailey and others vs. Cushingham and others, in- volving the old Auld estate, answers with consent to the sale of the property at King and Bethel streets, besides giving his opinion that another piece of equitable partition and ought to be sold. A portion of it is low and swampy and far from the government road, other portions are not swampy and a third locality is high and suit- able for residences. He prays that all of it property be sold at public auc- tion and the proceeds divided amongst the parties entitled thereto.

The Mesick separation case has been discontinued before Judge Robinson.

In the divorce case of George Henry Van Giesen vs. Elizabeth H. Van Gie- sen, the libellee was refused custody of the child but allowed $15 a month alim- ony from the husband pending a de- cision, together with $25 for her law- yer's fee. Chillingworth for libellant; Magoon & Peters for libellee.

Commissioner E. S. Gill, after hold- ing an examination, bound Manuel and Daisy Vierra over to the grand jury in $1000 bail each, for the unlawful distil- lation of spirituous liquor. Up till this afternoon, they had not found bail. The Vierras with their okolehao still were captured Saturday night by Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth.

LAVA IS RISING

IN KILAUEA'S PIT

Strangers' Friend Society Will Celebrate Tonight.

MEETING TO BE HELD WHERE SOCIETY BEGAN

Officers Elected at Regular Annual Meeting Held This Morning—President to Read Report Tonight.

Lava in Kilauea's pit has risen a few feet higher and Mokuawewewe is smoking at a great rate. This is the report brought from Ha- waii by the steamer Kauai this morn- ing.

The Kauai touched at Punaluu, Kailua and Honououou. At each place there was talk of increased activity on the part of Kilauea and brighter prospects for an eruption of Mokuawewewe. Pur- ser Clark of the Kauai did not hear from Manager Waldron of the Volcanic House, but Mr. Fennell at Punaluu in- formed him that Waldron had tele- phoned that the lava was a little higher in Kilauea than it had been.

Mrs. Ellen McCully-Higgins has re- placed her former gift to the Supreme Court of an oil portrait of the late Jus- tice Lawrence McCully with the paint- ing of Theo. Wores lately exhibited by the Kiloheana Art League, which she and others consider much superior to the other. The new one hangs in the same position as the old one did oppo- site the bench in the chief courtroom.

H. Miki, one of the best educated and most prominent Japanese of the city, was, upon recommendation of Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth, appointed Japan- ese interpreter at the Second Circuit term of the Circuit Court this morning. He leaves for Walluku in the Claudi- ne this afternoon.

Niho Manuwal, the pilot boat boy who beat his wife just after she gave birth to a child, had his case nolle pro'd in the Police Court this fore- noon, the woman not wishing to prose- cute. It is understood that divorce proceedings will shortly be instituted.

Thursday, June 12, at 10 a. m. Jas. F. Morgan will auction the furniture, etc., of Mr. Stebecker, Gaudell Lane. See his column.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNICS

The evangelical churches of Honolulu are making great preparations for the entertainment of the Sunday school children to be given tomorrow at various places in and about the city.

Central Union church will have its picnic on the Oahu College grounds and preparations are being made for 1200 people. The children, committees and members of the congregation are to meet at the church at 8 o'clock and will, after collecting there, go to the corner of Richards and Hotel streets where, at 8:15 o'clock, they will take the electric cars for the Oahu College campus.

This picnic will begin at 9 o'clock and will last until 4 in the afternoon. Besides an abundance of refreshments, the committees have made arrangements for all manner of games and other amusements. Clifton Tracy is chairman of the committee on games for the boys and Mrs. McCully-Smith for the girls. Admission to the grounds will be by ticket, and those not already provided with them can obtain the same at the church today at any hour.

The Methodist Episcopal church picnic will take place at the Cassidy home, Waikeiki. The children will assemble at the church on Beretania street early tomorrow morning and will be taken to their destination in buses.

The Christian church picnic will take place at Pearl City. The train leaves the Honolulu depot at 9:15, and as with the other picnics there will be no end of provender.

CHINESE FIGHT

Tang Sheong has been arrested on the charge of assault with a weapon on Tang Yuk, his partner in the gardening business. The two have a strip of land in Kalihi near the home of the late W. H. Cummings and while the two were at work in their gardens yesterday a dispute arose during the progress of which Yuk demanded an accounting from Sheong in the matter of dividends.

A quarrel soon arose and Yuk, becoming insistent, approached his partner. It was not long before the conflict was on. Sheong used a rake and swinging it with great force, cut his partner's head, neck and body and then broke his left hand.

Yuk called at the police station yesterday afternoon at about 4 o'clock. He was covered with blood and upon arrival in the deputy sheriff's office, the fellow fell on the floor, so weak was he from loss of blood. Dr. Emerson was called in and he attended to the wounded man's injuries.

MOSQUITOES AS PLAGUE DISTRIBUTORS

In a very fine article on the Recent Advances in Medicine in the new issue of Appleton's Annual Cyclopaedia (1901), a comprehensive review is given of the part played by the mosquito in the propagation of malarial and yellow fever germs. After a description of the various experiments that succeeded in fastening suspicion on the pestiferous insect, an account is given of some interesting tests made for the purpose of completing the chain of evidence against them.

Some infected mosquitoes were allowed to bite a man in Rome, and he soon developed the malaria parasite in his blood. The skeptics, however, insisted that he might have been infected in some other way or had a latent infection in his blood all the time. Dr. Manson, therefore, wishing to make the proof striking and positive, devised two crucial tests, which were carried out in the summer of 1900, and the results have left the fair-minded skeptic defenseless.

The first of these consisted of sending two physicians, Drs. Sambon and Low, to live in a very malarial district on the Roman Campagna (Ostia) during the most malarious season of the year, their only protection from the disease being mosquito-netting. No quinine or other prophylactic was taken, and they were directed to sleep with the windows and doors open, so as to give any bad night air there might be a "chance at them." This they did, living in a house whose only peculiarity lay in its being mosquito-proof. Here they stayed all summer, and while the whole surrounding population of natives was down with malaria neither of the unacclimated experimenters ever showed a trace of it. This proved that unacclimated people could live in perfect health in an extremely malarious region, where even the acclimated natives are serious sufferers, by simply avoiding mosquito bites.

For the second experiments some laboratory mosquitoes were reared from eggs in Rome, pastured on a malarial sufferer, and sent alive to London. Here they were permitted to bite a healthy man whose blood had been examined and shown to be free from the malaria germ. Dr. Manson's son fourteen non-immune individuals subjected to the bites of infected mosquitoes during the whole test, ten contracted yellow fever, the attack always following the bites within the period of incubation of the disease.

Of the five individuals who received direct injections of blood from yellow fever patients, four contracted the disease.

On the other hand, seven non-immune Americans who slept every night in the "infected clothing building," poorly ventilated, and to which no sunlight ever came, engaged in the morning in packing boxes with garments much soiled by contact with the bodies and excreta of yellow fever patients, and at night unpacking these same boxes in order to obtain articles for their beds and clothing for their bodies. Sleeping in the very beds and garments just vacated by yellow fever cases, these seven men came out of this pest-house at the end of the experiment perfectly well, not one of them having contracted the disease.

The "infected mosquito building" divided into two compartments by a wire screen partition, was next used as follows: Fifteen mosquitoes were freed on one side of the partition and a non-immune man, Moran, was placed in the room. On the other side of the partition were two other non-immunes. Moran was bitten freely by the mosquitoes and soon developed a sharp attack of yellow fever, while the two non-immunes on the other side of the screen remained perfectly well.

The next experiment was on one of the non-immunes who had occupied the "infected clothing building" for twenty-one nights, and had then been kept in strict quarantine thirty days longer. He visited the mosquito room, was freely bitten, and in three days and twenty-three and a half hours developed a well marked case of yellow fever.

These experiments appear to leave no possible doubt regarding the ability of the mosquito to cause yellow fever, and also point strongly to the absence of any infection due to simple contact with yellow fever patients or their excreta or clothing. If this be true, the elaborate systems of quarantine now in vogue against the disease and the severe disinfection practiced with yellow fever patients and their belongings are quite unnecessary.

Dr. A. H. Doty, health officer of the port of New York, says:

"These experiments have not conclusively shown that there may not be some other means than the mosquito by which yellow fever is transmitted. But when the experiments are considered in connection with the results of our practical experience, it is clearly evident that the disease is not contracted by personal contagion or through the medium of clothing, bedding, cargoes of vessels, etc. Therefore, I believe we are justified in changing our quarantine regulations to conform to these views, and that such a proceeding is just and reasonable, particularly as we now have at hand a method which, if properly and scientifically carried out, can be depended upon to limit the extension of yellow fever. If the future shows that there are other means of infection, it will then be time enough to add whatever restrictions are necessary to the public health. I am convinced in following this action that we are not only offering full protection to the public, but are extending to commerce a relief from unnecessary and unreasonable regulations."

From the purely scientific as well as from the utilitarian point of view, few achievements in modern medicine have equaled in value the results of these experiments.

TUESDAY, JUNE 10, 1902.

The Advertiser says the Governor acted after a conference with Chief Justice Frenn. Has it indeed come to this, that the Chief Justice renders a decision and then advises the Governor to upset it.

What will Washington say? That's the question that always goes the rounds. Among postoffice officials the influx of the mails will probably go down to history as the Second Bombardment from Hawaii.

The Advertiser may try to convince the public that it is attacking the courts on principle, but the public is steadily becoming convinced that the Advertiser disregards every honest American principle and is moved solely by personal spite.

Somehow or other, the Governor doesn't seem to be worrying his head over Attorney Hitting, who is serving a sentence of more than forty-eight hours for contempt of what the Advertiser this morning says is a disreputable and revengeful court.

There is no holiday of the year which the people of Hawaii more universally give over to enjoying themselves than Kamehameha Day, the 11th of June. The sports and many special events of the day will to mind the pleasant features of good old days which none regrets and few of this Territory will forget. Human nature has many faults but it can be credited with remembering firmly the happy features of the past, allowing the worries and the difficulties and the wars to remain buried.

THE LIE NAILED.

The statement of the Bulletin that Acting Governor Cooper refused the pardon in the Smith contempt case which Governor Dole so promptly granted is untrue and is probably designed to create more friction in the Republican party. When called upon last Thursday night Judge Cooper was a very sick man, but he said he hoped to be able to take up the question of a pardon the first thing in the morning. When morning came he was worse and he has not yet returned to duty. As Judge Cooper is the man who, in the famous contempt proceedings of a year ago, issued the pardons which kept Judge Hartwell and Messrs. Kinney and Ballou from going to jail at the instance of a disreputable and revengeful court, his attitude in the more recent crisis of the fight for good government may be easily surmised.—Advertiser.

This statement published in Mr. Thurston's newspaper this morning proves, beyond any possibility of successful refutation, the Advertiser's absolute disregard for the truth.

The Bulletin has only to refer to the personal statement of Secretary Cooper which shows Mr. Thurston's paper to have uttered and published a deliberate falsehood, the more brazen because Thurston himself went to Acting Governor Cooper's residence and Thurston himself heard from the Governor's own lips the positive and absolute refusal to interfere.

The comparison between the Advertiser case and the Hartwell affair is interesting because the incidents have such marked features of difference. The Hartwell contempt case occurred at a time when feeling was running high. Even the Executive performed acts which more mature deliberation might have changed, furthermore the Hartwell case had not been before the Supreme Court for final determination.

The Advertiser contempt case had run the whole gamut of judicial review and judicial decision. The action of the Circuit Court had been upheld by the court of last resort. The Advertiser may lie, it may distort the truth, it may malign, but it cannot evade the fact that there was a man in official position in this Territory who refused to become a willing tool in a struggle to destroy the integrity of American courts.

THE POOR MAN AND HIS DEBTS

By WM. J. O'BRIEN

Four letters spell ruin; four others spell debt; but to the poor man each set should mean the same. To facilitate exchange, to make possible the financing of great enterprises, the assumption of debt is essential, but in the one case the ability to settle is always present, unimpaired by the obligation; in the other there is usually a corporation's long life and the good business prospect which made bond borrowing advisable to secure respectively ease in the payment and profit in the venture. So, too, with a church, a city or a nation, which can shift upon posterity the burden undertaken for posterity's benefit, there is good and wisdom in a debt.

But with the poor man the case is vastly different. His debt frequently is contracted for what should be regarded by him as a luxury and unnecessary. The desire to emulate the more expensive living of the better paid Smith or Jones, to send his children to as fashionable a school as the little Smiths or the young Joneses attend, the eager wish to see his wife hold up as dresy as head Mrs. Smith or Madame Jones, often tempts him to consider the very smooth advertisement of the Shylock. There is no dividend on that investment, and it cannot be left to posterity to pay. Neither is it an obligation undertaken for convenience, which he could discharge at the moment at a mere loss of time and business. It is a further mortgage on a future already well mortgaged to the needs of bringing up his family.

The charges, such as they are, in the distance of a month or two, soon set their exorbitance to snatch the food from wife and children, soon put the gloss of shabbiness on the man's own clothes, soon drive him desperately to other dangerous harbors. His ability to meet the interest demands grows less with his own despair; that same vampire, feeding ceaselessly on brain and nerve, makes his work worthless or next to it; his position becomes imperiled; he foresees a blacker outlook for wife and children than anyone else could dream—well, sometimes he commits suicide and so ends it all.

But suppose the loan to be only one lightly and thoughtlessly accepted from a friend. The effect on the mental condition is little better. The borrower begins by feeling that the friend regards him in his ability to lend. He next detests the friend for the supposed sentiment. Until he is able to pay he avoids that friend, and every time one man skulks to avoid the eye of his fellow man he is nearer to dishonesty, and dangerously near to such form of criminality as he is naturally most inclined to.

Again his work suffers. He has the constant worry which does not permit the best use of brain or hand; he is inclined to be quarrelsome with wife and children, for some fiend whispers to him that if he had not them to keep he might easily resume his self-respect by payment. Quarrels at home lead to poorer efforts on his part abroad; he sees the ground of permanency of employment slipping away from him.

He now is in despair. There is a chance to steal; it means to his tortured mind rehabilitation; he steals and is lost.

These are extreme cases, perhaps, but the principle is the same in all. Debt for the poor man is the assassin of manhood and hope, the tempter to crime, the fiend that gleefully leads to danger, to destruction.

IS HAWAII UNDER A DICTATORSHIP?

"A disreputable and revengeful court."

These words applied to the First Circuit Court of this Territory by the Advertiser again brings to public notice the interpretation which the proprietor of that paper places upon the exercise of the pardoning power by the Chief Executive of Hawaii just returned from Washington. The Advertiser has been and is the generally accepted newspaper organ of the Governor. For the past two years it has made a vicious and unrelenting warfare on the First Circuit Court, misrepresenting the acts of its judges and by every invention of argument and invective endeavored to bring the judges and the court into public disrepute. If there has been any merit in its attacks, the virtue has been clouded, absolutely lost to sight by the vindictive character of the onslaught and its overwhelming smear of personal spite.

Finally the spite campaign reached a point where it directly interfered with the course of justice in the case of a prisoner on trial before a jury. The editor of the Advertiser was called to account for contempt of court. Three judges concurred in finding him guilty as charged. Three judges concurred in the sentence of thirty days imprisonment. This took place on March 12th.

The case was immediately taken before the Supreme Court of the Territory on a writ of habeas corpus. The Chief Justice granted the writ, making it returnable April 26, at the same time admitting the petitioner to bail.

The case was ably and fully argued before the three justices of the court. On June 5th following the court rendered a decision confirming the ruling of the Circuit Court and remanding the petitioner to the custody of the High Sheriff.

On the evening of June 5th, L. A. Thurston appealed to Acting Governor H. E. Cooper for a pardon. This Mr. Cooper positively refused.

Friday afternoon, June 6th, Governor Dole arrived in Honolulu and assumed the duties of his office.

Saturday afternoon, June 7th, Governor Dole granted the pardon, which Cooper refused, thereby boldly upsetting the order of the courts. Governor Dole gave no other reason for his action than the statement that he considered the sentence excessive.

On June 10th, the Advertiser, in whose behalf the Governor overthrew the mandates of the courts, speaks of the First Circuit Court as "a disreputable and revengeful court."

Not one word of criticism for the action of the courts has been uttered—except in the Advertiser.

Not one word of approval has been offered for the action of the Governor—except in the Advertiser.

The Governor's action was received with comments of disgust by men recognized and accepted as his friends. The political situation which seemed to be clarifying and brought into something like a peaceful condition was immediately stirred again into a ferment. The community could overlook idiosyncrasies, or executive indifference, but it protests and vigorously protests against any Governor of any Territory becoming a law unto himself, the judge, the jury and the law, riding down rough shod the five courts and the conclusions of five judges reached after mature deliberation. The most commonplace citizen is quick to see that the Governor, either intoxicated with power and the Presidential endorsement, blind to his duty or boiling with personal spite against the judges, has struck at the very foundation of American justice. His first official act has been to defy the fundamental principles of American institutions. He has to all intents and purposes endorsed the malignors of the courts, telling them, "Go on, boys. I am always at hand with the pardon."

It has been demonstrated by the Governor's public interviews that he has no love for individuals members of the local courts appointed to office by the late President McKinley, but his most ardent admirers did not believe he would carry this feeling to the point where he would arbitrarily override the whole judicial system even to the Supreme Court of the Territory.

The people of Hawaii had hoped that, returning from a conference with the President, the Governor would evince some inclination to use his high office in a manner to bring about a better degree of good feeling, and, during the closing years of his term, assist in leading the people out of chaos. His first official act, however, has been along the lines that turn chaos into anarchy. He seems to feel that the President, by an official endorsement, has declared the Governor of Hawaii to be the dictator, the executive, the legislative and the judicial power of the land and people over whom he presides.

It may be that such was the spirit and intent of President Roosevelt's action. The Bulletin does not believe it was nor do the citizens of Hawaii believe it. As between such arbitrary action upholding malignors of the judiciary and what Thurston in his contemptuous newspaper terms "a disreputable and revengeful court," the President, the Governor or anyone else interested can bank on it that the people of Hawaii will stand by the courts.

The Bulletin and the people of this Territory are quite willing to allow Governor Dole to pursue the even tenor of his way in the details of his executive administration, but when Mr. Dole goes out of his way to lend his official power to a personal and a spiteful campaign against the courts of the Territory, he will discover that the citizens of Hawaii refuse to play the role of dumb driven beasts.

A MONOTONY BREAKER.

(Hilo Tribune.)

A term of court in Hilo, while not the attraction it is in the back counties of Missouri, is yet an agreeable awakening from our midsummer dream. It does not bring into town a cohort of crack tobacco spitlers from Coon Creek Township as in Missouri, nor does it serve to reemphasize the remnant "colonels" of a "civilization" gone, a gentry still extant in Kentucky and Tennessee, and other border States, where they still congregate at the country seat, court week, and discuss together mint juleps and old times. A Hilo court term brings us variation but does not bring such reminiscent tavern haunting statesmen as are delivered up by the timbered hills of the old fatherland.

The chief discernible difference, between court week in Hilo and any other week is the presence of a Grand Jury made up of good men and true from the sugar cane plantations from Puna

ON MERCHANTS' DAY

Yesterday afternoon, George W. Smith of the committee of the Merchants' Association appointed for the purpose of making preliminary arrangements in the matter of a Merchants' Day, received from the Wilder and Inter-Island steamship companies a joint note stating that all passengers from the other islands would be allowed to travel on their steamers at half rates during the progress of the Merchants' Association program in Honolulu.

The note went still further and stated that all exhibits intended for the Agricultural Fair would be carried free of charge. It is expected that the fair and the merchants' doings in the city will take place at the same time—the last of July.

The committee is now preparing its report which will be presented at a special meeting to be held some time during the latter part of the week.

W. W. Dimond of the Merchants' Association committee said this morning on the part of the steamship companies makes everything plain sailing now and it would seem as if the merchants' week program will be carried out. With half-fares on the various steamers, a large representation of strangers from the other islands may be expected.

AMERICAN SHIPPING CO., LTD.

The American Shipping Co., Ltd. is not going out of existence, as stated in the Advertiser this morning.

The American Shipping Co., Ltd. are agents only for the Eclipse since March 6, 1902, and are not responsible for the debts of the Hawaiian Navigation Co.'s gasoline sloop Eclipse. The sale of the Eclipse by the Hawaiian Navigation Co., Ltd., is to liquidate their indebtedness and go out of business.

The schooner Alice Kimball is owned by the American Shipping Co. The company is in a prosperous condition and doing a good business, and has no intention of going out of business.

SHAFTS CAME OFF.

A hack driven by a Japanese caused a mild sensation on King street, near the depot, at about 11 o'clock this forenoon. The hack was coming from the direction of the depot with some baggage and boxes. When near the corner, the horse became frightened and bolted. Suddenly the shafts parted company with the hack and the animal, shafts dangling, continued out King street.

The hack kept on going and brought up against the curbing just outside of the barber shop on Bethel street. The horse was finally caught near Fort street. There was no damage done outside of the injury to the hack.

LEPROSY IN SOUTH AFRICA

Mr. Jonathan Hutchinson, whose departure for South Africa to investigate the mode of diffusion of leprosy we announced in The Journal, has returned and made a highly important communication to the Times. Later his researches will probably be communicated at greater length to the Royal Medical and Chirurgical Society, in addition to the large leper asylums on Robben Island (Cape Town) and at Emjanyuwa (Tembuland), he has visited many districts where the disease occurs, in order to investigate the domestic conditions of lepers. His inquiries establish the fact that the disease is very sparingly scattered over the whole of South Africa, and is by no means abundant anywhere. It chiefly affects the colored races, but a certain number of cases are to be found among the Dutch farmers. The first cases (in members of the latter class) were recognized near to Cape Town 150 years ago. Since then it has gradually spread from the Cape Town district over the whole British territory, including the newly annexed colonies of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. In Natal it was a new disease as recently as sixty years ago, and is still met very sparingly. In Zululand it is as yet almost unknown. Mr. Hutchinson concludes the primary cause of the disease is the use of badly cured salt fish. Such fish is prepared at Capetown and various places on the south and west coasts, and is sent inland in large quantities. While believing that this has been by far the chief agent in its diffusion, Mr. Hutchinson thinks that he has obtained conclusive evidence that leprosy may in very exceptional circumstances be communicated from person to person. He does not believe that it is either infectious or contagious in the proper sense of these words, but that it may be communicated by eating food contaminated by a leper's hands. This mode of transference can obviously occur only under the most careless conditions as to taking food and hence the explanation that the disease never spreads in leper asylums or in well-civilized communities, while it does so in Hottentot and Kaffir kraals. Its introduction into these kraals is usually effected by some laborer who has been into Cape Colony to work and returning home with the seeds of the disease has become a source of this kind of food contamination in his native place. The measures suggested for the prevention of the disease are first (and by far the most important) the legislative control of the fish-curing establishments; secondly, the diffusion of information as to danger of communication; and, thirdly, the establishment of small isolation homes into which lepers should be induced to go during the stage involving risk. Thus Mr. Hutchinson, as the result of his investigation, reaffirms the "fish-hypothesis" of the origin of leprosy—a doctrine which he has strenuously and persistently maintained for many years in the face of almost universal opposition of all the other authorities. He has also, against the general view, insisted that leprosy is not in the ordinary sense a contagious disease, pointing out that although a number of lepers live in England and mix freely with the population no case of contagion has ever been observed. This peculiar method of contagion from lepers through food is a new hypothesis, but it in no way invalidates for (the contrary, it confirms) Mr. Hutchinson's view of the non-contagiousness of leprosy in civilized life.—Medical Journal.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CHAFING DISH PARTY

Blessed be the man who invented the chafing dish, says the modern hostess, for few more delightful ways to entertain chosen spirits can be conceived than a delightful little chafing dish supper. Those planning such an affair may find helpful the one given at Mrs. Rorer's Cooking School in the series of functions now being held by the pupils as a practical demonstration and test of their year's work, says the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Miss Helen Weston of Memphis, Tenn., was the noxious, and very dainty and pretty did the table look around which her guests assembled. A glowing bunch of golden buttercups brightened the table and the same cheerful color appeared in the china. The little ball of yellow butter at each cover was placed on a fresh, crisp lettuce leaf, and at the end where she presided all the needfuls for her work were daintily arranged.

- Cricken in Brown Sauce.
- Wafers. Neufchatel Cheese.
- Whipped Cream with Nuts.
- Coffee
- Cricken Canapees.
- Chop the meat from the back and the tips of the wings of one cooked chicken. Add to it two tablespoonfuls of finely chopped celery, a saltspoonful of salt and a dash of red pepper. Cut bread into round or triangular pieces. Butter and toast quickly. Spread one side with the chicken paste. Garnish with olives. Dish on small heated plate with little paper doyle, and serve.
- Sweetbread with Mushrooms.
- For this dish is needed one pair of

RIPOSTE.

A certain man of letters entertained at dinner a number of eminent contemporaries. Several of the courses had been served before it became obvious that Professor Smythe and Professor Browne, who were seated side by side, were apparently oblivious of each other's presence, while assiduously devoting themselves to the viands before them.

Prof. Smythe, being rather a sensitive man, presently became cognizant of the attention he was inviting on himself. Therefore, crushing his enemy for the time being, he turned to his adversary, and, in a most engaging manner, said:

"Browne, my head rings; can you account for it?"

For a moment Prof. Browne's brows contracted, while courtesy and animosity contended. Then he smiled indulgently, as he replied:

"Naturally. It is hollow."

The silence became oppressive. Finally it was broken by Prof. Smythe who asked:

"And does your head never ring, my friend?"

"Never," came the response.

"Ah," reflectively, "so I thought. It is cracked."

And each philosopher applied himself, diligently, to his course before him.—Hastings-Bailey in May Smart Set.

THE TOPPER'S VIEW.

HAIL TO MEN

Even unto old age you may feel the vigor of youth, with its light heart, elastic step, courage and tireless energy. You may be free from pains and aches and defy your years.

There is a fountain of perpetual youth, and you have only to reach out your hand and take it. You can drink of it until your heart shouts with gladness, and with all your might you will proclaim, as other men have:

"I AM A MAN!"

Like the giants of old, you can be in your prime at 60—strong, vigorous and full of youthful enthusiasm.

John Page, Boulder Creek, Cal., writes, after wearing Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt: "I have no aches or pains now, and the varicocoele has disappeared. I did not think it possible for me to obtain relief from my sufferings, but the Belt has surprised me. I feel as young as I did thirty years ago, and nothing could induce me to part with it."

It cures Rheumatism, Lame Back, Sciatica. Call and see it today or send for free book about it. I will send it sealed if you send this ad.

Dr. M. H. McLaughlin, 906 Market St., San Francisco.

Office hours, 8 a. m. to 8:30 p. m.; Sundays, 10 to 1. NEVER SOLD BY DRUG STORES OR AGENTS.

ABSENT.

A well-known clergyman of Germantown tells the following story: "While on a tour abroad last year I was being shown around Dublin by a resident of that city. I took occasion to remark that the architecture of the city could in no way compare with that of some of our American cities. The Irishman said nothing at the time, but we soon came to a large building which he informed me was the postoffice. Pointing to the three statues in front of the building, I asked him whom they represented. They are the three disciples, Peter, James and John," he replied. "But where are the other nine?" I asked. Quick as a flash he replied: "Share, they're inside sortin' the mail!"

THE SAILOR'S COMPLAINT

Anybody with any knowledge of nautical matters at all knows what a habitual growler Jack is. Never was he known to be satisfied with any possible condition of affairs, no matter what efforts might have been spent in pleasing him.

A good example of this is shown in a story told by the skipper of a large American sailing vessel now in port. On his last trip from San Francisco to this port he had with him some passengers; so to prevent friction he hurried the seamen more than he otherwise would have done. On the second day out the crew all came aft and demanded to see the skipper.

"Well, boys, what's the growl now?" he asked.

The spokesman, an old seaman, stepped forward with a tin of beef in his hands.

"Wot we wants to know, cap'n," began the old salt, "is, are you a-goin' to feed us on this muck right along?"

"Well," answered the captain, "it isn't swell grub, I'll admit, but what can I do?"

"Give us cabin fare," growled a dozen voices.

The captain agreed. The steward was ordered to prepare the tinward stuffs of the officers for the "fo'c'sle, and also to have the cook make them cabin pastry.

For several days all went well. Then the men came aft again.

"Well, not satisfied yet?" asked the captain.

"No," growled the old seaman, "we don't want any more of this stuff. Give us back our old whack."

"What's the matter with this," exclaimed the skipper, examining the chicken, Charlotte ruse and ice cream.

"Matter?" growled the men, "matter enough. There ain't no chaw to it."—New York Tribune.

WHAT HE CAME FOR.

S. D. Faust of Cleveland, while on a visit to this city a few days ago, in company with a Philadelphia, decided to go to Atlantic City. Before buying the tickets the Philadelphia proceeded to show his guest the improvements along Delaware avenue.

Sitting on the edge of the wharf was a typical street arab, fishing. Just as they were about to leave they were startled by a splash, and discovered that the boy had tumbled overboard. After some trouble he was drawn out. "How did you come to fall in?" inquired Faust.

"Ah, gwan," said the boy. "I didn't come to fall in. I come to fish."—Philadelphia Times.

ann street daily had occasion to examine the mortar used by the Japanese in their work and found it to be absolutely "dead," with none of that sticking quality so necessary when it is desired to put up a building that will at least stand during calm weather.

At the rear of the building, hidden from the view of the inquisitive but to be easily found by any of the authorities who might be taking a casual look at the side of this self-same mortar and on inquiry it was learned that this was the old stuff that had once held together the bricks that went to make up the old Kaunakapili church, the ruins of which were recently sold at auction. This then is the mortar that is to be found between every brick of the threatened life destroyer.

Although some of the bricks in the fallen wall had been standing several days and the mortar must have set to some extent, there was not one to be seen on the ground this morning that had any of this mortar sticking to it, so that when the Japanese went to collect this precious material, they had a heap of something that bore more the appearance of a pile of sand than anything else.

It might be remarked in passing that there were no splits in the wall, sending some parts over and allowing others to stand. The line of demarcation was perfect. The wall where it had been started on top of the lower floor wall, fell in its entirety, leaving not one brick to show where another might have stood.

An active Japanese with no appreciation of the artistic and hence of graceful curves, was busy at the place where the wall had been, piling one brick on top of another with quick motions and with regard to neither a straight line or a straight brick. He was trusting to the mortar to do the work.

A number of white men, bricklayers by trade, were standing on the opposite side of the street this morning watching the lively man at his work. He would take a great mass of mortar, or what ought to be mortar, on his trowel, dump it at the most convenient place, take up three or four bricks, put them down on the mortar, or what ought to be mortar, and then hurriedly continue the same operation. The speed of the work was commendable but that is really all that can be said of it.

with the whole ground floor covered with concrete, as neat and sanitary a building as can be found.

Hardly a block from this building Oriental contractors are at present putting the finishing touches on a two-story building on the makai Waikiki corner of Kekaulike and Hotel streets.

The section quoted states that "Every building shall have at least twenty inches of clear space for the circulation of air between the floor timbers and the ground," etc. This would naturally be construed to mean that the floor timbers should be twenty inches above the level of the ground but, in this case, as in numerous others the builder gets around the law by excavating a space twenty inches deep under the building.

The effect of this is evident. In place of leaving a space for the free circulation of air, a hole is made which the first rains will fill with slime and filth, making it a veritable cesspool.

By evading the law in this manner, the effect is worse than if the building had been built in direct violation of the building laws and been right on the ground.

This method of doing things is in open violation of not only the sense but also of the wording of the section which specifically sets forth that the space be "for the circulation of air," which is a thing which an excavation can never pretend to be.

THE LUXURIOUS COFFEE SACK. The new coffee sack is another luxurious garment to be added to the requirements of fashion. It is made of muslin and voluminous lace, something between a mantelette and a jacket, but viewed in any light, is charming and graceful, having a turndown collar edged with a pretty double fold and wide hanging sleeves.

A bodice which would be invaluable to a young girl or matron is made of black pailletted tulle with blue satin—a full, low bodice of the very latest cut.

In many of the smart blouses Irish lace forms yokes and boleros and sleeve trimmings; others are trimmed with lace worked with paillettes, some are veritable jackets, with deep basques, and there are elbow sleeves on others that reach to the wrist and fall in the new graceful style loosely from the elbow.

The herringbone silk worn unites a good many of the insertions, laces, and cross-cut bands which form the ornamentation. Black blouses with handsome jet trimmings are very much to the fore, and those who want linen shirts of the most dainty description will find them embroidered in white and trimmed with lace.

For evening there are most charming mouseline de soie boleros and others with silver trimmed boleros. Soft poplin lumiere is a quite delightful stuff in purple, light blue and other delicate colors. It is thin and light and most effective. Spotted muslins will be worn a great deal for blouses, lounging gowns, and the rest.

The tea gowns grow more and more ethereal. They are made of the most filmy materials, with long sleeves, the waists indicated rather than defined, a billowy mass of lace and gossamer material.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

THROUGH FIRE AND WATER SHIPWRECKED MEN COME SAFE TO PORT AT LAST

Mr. James Makee first brought the report of the burning of the Fannie Kerr and the arrival of Captain Gibbons' boat at Makaweli, all who had ever heard of a fire in a cargo of coal supposed that the fire in the hold of the Fannie Kerr must have been burning for many days and must have been discovered a long time before the vessel was abandoned.

This was not the case. The story as it now comes from the lips of those who experienced the things they tell about, is far different than people on the waterfront expected.

The fire in the hold of the vessel was not discovered until about thirty-six hours before the crew were compelled to leave the ship.

Benjamin Pearson, one of the two apprentices, was the first to notice something wrong. Second Mate Thomas Miles sent him aft about 3 o'clock in the morning of the 28th of May to read the patent log. When Pearson reported to the officer he told him that the record of the log to him.

"There's a funny smell aft," said Pearson. "What's it like?" asked the second officer. "Smells like gas, sir," answered the boy.

The second officer lost no time investigating and ascertained for himself that there was a very strong smell of gas. The odor could not be noticed forward for the wind carried the fumes aft.

The gas was coming from one of the after hatches which had been opened for ventilation. The second officer aroused the captain and all hands were summoned on deck to close the hatches and stop the ventilators. If there was a fire below the captain determined to smother it if possible. Double tarpaulins were put over the hatches and the ventilators were stopped with oakum and canvas.

During the 28th of May no more fumes were noticed, but when some drinking water was drawn from one of the tanks amidships about noon it was found to be hot. The fire seemed to be amidships.

The lifeboats were at once made ready for an emergency, although the captain hoped to the last to be able to overcome the fire, or else control it until he could take the ship into San Francisco or some other port. Later in the day, the 28th, the water in the tank which had theretofore been hot, was almost boiling.

Between 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning of May 29th, Thursday, while the watch was below sleeping and the other watch was forward, standing by a terrific explosion suddenly rent the air and the two after hatches were thrown fifty or sixty feet up, falling overhead in their descent. The good ship trembled from stem to stern and rocked with the force of the explosion. When the hatches were shot into the air, great columns of flames burst from the hold of the vessel. Then the flames died down as suddenly as they had arisen and great, dense, black clouds of smoke rolled skyward from the after hatches.

For over twelve hours the crew fought the fire. Coverings were put over the hatches and another attempt made to smother the fire. This had little effect, however, for the gas was bound to escape and the coverings on the hatches could not be kept on.

Fortunately, none of the crew were aft at the time of the explosion. The steering gear was placed amidships in the Fannie Kerr and the steersman was stationed as he would be aboard a steamship.

At 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Thursday, May 29, the crew were forced to abandon the ship. Captain Gibbons was the last man to leave his vessel, remaining on the bridge, while dense clouds of smoke circled around him and hid the higher yards from view, until every man was safely in the boats.

The sea was very rough at the time and the boats had to be put in the water over the stern. They would have been knocked to pieces had an attempt been made to lower them over the side.

When the boats left the vessel's side there were four of them, two life-boats, the gig and the dingy. Captain Gibbons, his son, and eight men were in one life-boat; the mate and ten men were in the other life-boat; the boatswain and three men were in the dingy. All the boats hoisted sail and sped away, steering about east-south-east.

When taken from the dingy lost everything except the clothes they wore. The dingy sank. The men who had left the ship in the dingy were Second Officer Thomas Miles, George Farly, Peter Green and C. Peterson.

The boats kept pretty well together until darkness fell. When the sun set the ship was out of sight over the rim of the ocean, although the cloud of black smoke still still be seen.

During the first night the captain's boat separated from the other two. It was arranged that the mate's boat was to take the gig in tow at nightfall every day. Only the two life boats had been provisioned. The gig had to depend on the mate's boat for food and water. A cask of water was handed over to the gig from the mate's boat the first day, together with some provisions.

Early in the morning of Friday, the 6th inst., the captain's boat reached Makaweli. The men in this boat, while they were sore from sitting in cramped positions in the life boat and were drenched to the skin from the water that was taken aboard, had not suffered at all from want of food. Nevertheless they were uproariously happy when Kaula was sighted.

The mate's boat arrived at Waimea on Saturday morning. This boat had a little longer sail of it than the captain's boat.

The boatswain and three men in the gig are the men who really suffered the most. After the third night the mate's boat did not tow the gig. The boats became separated and the gig went ahead of the mate's boat.

The gig sighted Bird Island on the morning of the fourth day from the burning wreck. She lay off Bird Island for a couple of hours, waiting to see if the mate's boat would catch up. But there was no sign of the mate's boat.

THE GEISHA Shirtwaist

THE QUEEN OF WAISTS THE SEASON'S GREATEST PRODUCTION

The selling of the GEISHA WAIST has been so enormous on account of its surpassing excellence that we have found it difficult to supply the demand, but large orders given in advance of the rush in the mainland, which arrived by the S. S. Hyades and Alameda, place us in position to serve our old customers and invite new ones.

The GEISHA WAISTS just received are made of organdies, mulls, lawns, batistes, madras gingham, mercerized chambrays, china silks and crepe silks, the trimmings always in perfect accord with the materials, but the STYLE of the GEISHA WAIST pleases you most. The sizes are 32 to 44. Ladies looking for size 44 will find them here now.

We sell the GEISHA WAIST at moderate prices. One twenty-five to five dollars—no more than the common kinds are. A special display this week.
