Drawing of the Moanalua petroglyph boulder [found in Moanalua Valley, O‘ahu], now in the Bishop Museum. The faces are human, not bird-like. These figures are close in feeling to Hawaiian wood carvings. The panel measures 41 × 30 cm (Lee and Stasack, Spirit of Place: Petroglyphs of Hawaii, Easter Island Foundation, 1999, Page 154, Figure 10.12b).
