VOL. I. HONOLULU, HAWAIIAN ISLANDS, MONDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1886. NO. 46.

Literary Gleanings.
In the first batch, now on its way to England, of the 1,200 palm-leaf books of which the Royal Library of Mandalay consists, will be found five volumes of a Burmese work entitled "Potay-kay Ya-za-win," containing a history of the Portuguese in Burmah. It begins about the year 1520.
Thackeray was improvident, and his expenses nearly always exceeded his income. His avowed purpose in coming to America the second time, in 1856, was, to use his own expression, "to lay up a pot of money" for his two daughters, and yet it shows the impulsiveness and boyishness of the man that he returned to England in the midst of a prosperous engagement and with half his lecture dates unfulfilled.
Julian Hawthorne assails "Ouida" with all the vim of a man who means what he utters. Referring to her recent article in The North American Review upon female suffrage, says: "Why not draw the line at 'Ouida'?" There is nothing in her, mentally, morally, or physically, which any man or woman can respect. The dignity of human nature (such as it is) is lowered by the fact of her existence, and every overt act of the unfortunate creature has been a mischievous and unclean act.
The following unique notice of the English edition of General Grant's "Memoirs," cut from the first number of a new English literary monthly, the Circulating Library, and written in all seriousness, is quite worthy of Mark Twain in most hilarious moments. With childlike blandness the reviewer declares: "The biography of Grant will be interesting not only for the career of this great man himself, but as showing how people rise sometimes from obscurity to great positions through industry, ability and circumstances. Grant was the son of a farmer, who gave him a much better education than he had himself received. The Civil War obliged Grant to become a soldier, in which capacity he served for fourteen years, when he again took to farming, which he had to relinquish on account of ill-health. He then became successively estate agent, clerk in a store and Senator. In this last vocation he distinguished himself so highly that he was elected President."

Cholera and Water Supply.
In a recent letter to Nature, Mr. George Higgin says that the epidemic of Asiatic cholera, which has been raging in Spain during the last two years, has furnished not a few interesting data as regards its connection with water supply. Mr. Higgin claims that cholera never became truly epidemic in any Spanish city in which there was a pure and good supply of water and proper means were used to guard the sources from pollution. In support of this idea he calls attention to the cities of Toledo, Seville, Malaga and Madrid in contradistinction to such places as Aranjuez, Saragossa, Granada and Valencia. Mr. Higgin shows very clearly that the fine condition and careful protection of the water supply of the cities first named was the main cause of the comparatively slight ravages of the disease within their limits. It seems, for example, that the ancient city of Toledo, into which the cholera entered in the summer of 1854, and did not finally leave until the autumn of 1885, furnished an official return of 200 cases of cholera, only-half of which were fatal. As Toledo has a population of over 20,000, the percentage of choleraic disease was about 1 per cent. of the population for the two seasons referred to. On the other hand, continues Mr. Higgin, the city of Granada, with a population of nearly 80,000 souls, is supplied with water by canals which are uncovered and exposed to all kinds of contamination. Through the streets the water is conducted in earthenware pipes, many of which are the original ones put down by the Moors before the conquest of the city by Ferdinand and Isabella. The cholera raged here with frightful results, says Mr. Higgin, the official number of cases reported being over 450 per day. No attempt was made, as was done at Toledo with such excellent results, to suppress the old water supply, and the epidemic took on alarming proportions in a very short time.
Some weeks ago a floating exposition was sent out by Germany. France has now fitted up the steamer Chateau-Lafitte, which will visit various foreign ports, with merchandise, wines and liquors, which will be sold and delivered at once to purchasers. The steamer is to be illuminated with electric lights. She sails for Trinidad. There is to be a bar and cafe on board. It will not be safe to visit the United States without procuring a license at each port. In prohibitory States there could be no sales.
Little boy (to theatrical manager)—"Pa, why is this called a free country?" Manager—"Because everybody wants to get in 'bout paying."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There are five candidates in the field for the Governorship of California, among them the famous Dr. O'Donnell. The four to be left may come down here and compete for the gubernatorial roost on Ocean Island.

The Paris press is exciting the populace by boasting that France now possesses the most powerful army in Europe. Wonder if Honolulu would become excited over the reiteration of the fact that Hawaii has the most powerful army in Polynesia!

The latest news received by the Mariposa on Saturday is that the occupation of Bulgaria by Russia is a certainty. A plot to provoke a rebellion in the chief centres of Bulgaria on October 15th, as a prelude to a Russian occupation on November 9th, had been discovered. An article from a New Zealand paper elsewhere gives a comprehensive summary of the situation.

FOREIGN NEWS

Bulgaria Stands Firm Against Russian Aggression.

The following summary of the latest European news is from the Auckland, N. Z., Herald of October 12th:—

The Bulgarian Regency having declined the ultimatum of the Russian agent requiring the release of the prisoners implicated in Prince Alexander's deposition and the postponement of the elections, and having also issued a diplomatic note to the Great Powers protesting against General Kaulbars' action in his tour of the provinces, has assumed yet higher ground. A circular has been addressed by it to the foreign consuls in Bulgaria threatening the expulsion of foreigners if they continue to meddle with the elections for the National Assembly now proceeding. There can be no doubt as to the significance of this action. It is made to have a general bearing, but it at the same time has a special aim, as it is well known that the agents of Russia are the only parties against whom it is directed. This is made very evident, even if there were no other grounds for the conclusion, by the fact that the Russian consul is the only one who has taken offense at the Regency's action. This arrogant official has, it is said, returned the circular suspended relations with the Regency, and awaits instruction from General Kaulbars as to his future course. What the orders of his coarse superior will be, may be inferred from previous occurrences. A recommendation of any other than an impertinent and offensive policy could not be looked for from a man of General Kaulbars' character. His advice to the consul will doubtless be to interfere still with the elections as much as he possibly can. What else could be expected from one who has been endeavoring to excite treason in the Bulgarian army, and to bribe its officers in command. And this advice he will be all the more disposed to give that he will interpret the threat of expulsion as being specially directed against himself. For it is not alone the consuls that are referred to in the circular but any foreigner who may interfere with the people in the exercise of their elective rights. And, of all who may have erred in this way, General Kaulbars is himself the greatest sinner. On him, therefore, the effect of the circular will be to compel him either to desist from his seditious practices, or to assume a more defiant attitude. And judging from the past the latter is the course he is almost certain to elect. True, his attempts to excite treason in the Bulgarian army or people have failed; but this will only dispose him to resort to conduct more outrageous, as his mission is by some means or other to create a pretext for Russia's armed intervention in Bulgaria. Looked at from this point of view, the bold front put on by the Regency may to some appear to be impolitic. More closely examined, however, it is suggestive of the fact that its members feel more sure of their ground. And there can be no doubt that they do so feel. For, the speech of M. Tisza and Lord Randolph Churchill and the unmistakable signs of an Anglo-Austrian alliance must have assured them that Russia will not be allowed to trample roughshod over the rights of the Bulgarian people and that despite the German alliance, she will be made to understand that it will be at her peril if she dare flagrantly to violate the provisions of the Berlin treaty, which prohibit the interference of a foreign Power in the internal government of the Balkan Principalities. Of this much the Bulgarian Government must have satisfied themselves before venturing to tell the officials of the Czar, that their further intermeddling with the elections will be attended with certain penalties. The Court of St. Petersburg will therefore have either to moderate its pretensions and observe the abstinence the Regency demands, or by increasing these, force an appeal to the sword. And this morning's cables show that the latter is the alternative to which, as we have always said, Russia's antecedents have committed her. The plot for effecting an insurrection at the various centres of Bulgaria, on the 15th instant, preliminary to a Russian occupation of that country on the 9th November, is quite in keeping with the whole of General Kaulbars' procedure, and the massing of forces at Odessa is obviously in anticipation of the intended hostile movement. Among military authorities in Austria and Roumania, there seems no longer any doubt of a Balkan invasion by Russia, and the reported nervous excitement of the Czar is a sure portent that the plunge into war is at length about to be taken.

Funeral of Mr. Brown.

The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Brown, Registrar of Conveyances, took place from St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There was a large gathering, many people being unable to gain admission to the building.

Among others were present Hon. A. F. Judd, Chief Justice and Chancellor; Hon. E. Preston, Second Associate Justice; Hon. J. L. Kaulkou, Marshal of the Kingdom; Hon. J. S. Walker, A. S. Cleghorn, S. G. Wilder, J. E. Bush, S. Parker, W. F. Allen, W. C. Parke, Paul Neumann, and S. B. Dole; Rev. W. C. Merritt, besides the officiating clergymen; Major J. H. Wodehouse, H. B. M. Commissioner, Capt. Luce, Prof. Alexander, Mr. F. A. Schaefer, Italian Consul; Mr. H. Macfarlane, Acting Danish Consul; Mr. H. F. Glade, Austro-Hungarian Consul; Mr. A. de S. Canavaro, Portuguese Consul, and Mr. J. A. Hassinger, First Clerk of the Interior, together with the chief mourners, sons of the deceased and Rev. A. Mackintosh.

The coffin was of handsome design, with silver mountings, and there was a beautiful display of floral offerings in crosses and other symbolic designs. Rev. Geo. Wallace conducted the services, assisted by Rev. W. H. Barnes. There was a very large procession to the cemetery. Government offices were closed and official flags flying at half-mast during the day, out of respect to the memory of the aged and esteemed citizen and faithful public servant.

Rather Rough.

A member of Engine Company No. 2 absorbed more stimulant than was good for him after the fire. On arriving at the engine house he lay down and fell into a heavy sleep. Some of his comrades knocked together a rude coffin, into which they laid the slumbering form, placing lighted candles and a cross in position about it. Then they asked loiterers in the wake, and among others a Chinaman, who was very much frightened when the supposed corpse gave a loud snore. When the fireman woke up he was horrified at the situation, and would have taken vengeance on the practical jesters, but none of them could be found to own up to the ghastly and irreverent prank.

LOCAL NEWS.

At the Seventh Day Adventist Mission to-night the subject will be Daniel II. All invited.

The Myrtle junior crew is reported to have gone over the course in 10 minutes, and 20 seconds, a Honolulu Club man taking the time.

The King's junior crew in a recent race showed the way to the senior, and it is rumored that there will be some transpositions before the regatta.

Hon. George W. Macfarlane was officially announced, prior to his departure on Saturday, as Financial Agent of the Hawaiian Government, to negotiate its loan.

It is announced that Hon. J. L. Kalulouka has resigned the office of Attorney General, and that Hon. L. Aho'o, Minister of Interior, exercises the functions temporarily.

There were seven arrests for drunkenness, mostly of natives, on Saturday. Yesterday two cases of drunkenness were captured, and three Chinese were hauled in from Moiliili for gaming.

A runaway horse attached to a brake, getting away from a hitching post at the corner of Fort and Bereianai streets on Saturday, after a lively dash was caught by a policeman in Merchant street.

Mr. McKenzie, plumber, had missed his watch for some time, when search was made for it where he had been working at the new Anchor Saloon. It was found lying in a hole under the ground where the waste pipe from the bar enters the earth.

In the absence of both Col. Spreckels and Hon. W. G. Irwin, the general management of the business of W. G. Irwin & Co., sugar factors, bankers and steamship agents, is left in the hands of Mr. W. M. Giffard, of whose business capacity the public are fully aware.

Caffrey, the Great Barrier, N. Z., murderer, and his accomplices, Penn and Lizzie Graham, who escaped in the cutter Sovereign of the Seas, have been arrested in New South Wales. An offer of reward, with descriptions, was sent to the Honolulu police some months ago.

The brigantine J. D. Spreckels arrived yesterday, 15 days from San Francisco. The captain reports that on the trip from Honolulu a wreck was sighted bottom up, in about 158 longitude, 22 latitude. The vessel was about 150 feet long, and 500 or 600 tons.

This is a sample of the confab between some Australian dudes on the steamer and a friend left here, which amused the Honolulu young ladies down at the wharf on Saturday: Good bye, dear boy. Tra la, dear boy. We'll meet you in Picalilly, dear boy. How's your ma, dear boy. We'll leave it to Rachel, dear boy. Don't fall in love with the kanakas, dear boy.

Rumored: That the negotiation of the loan is dead sure; that Col. Spreckels made his peace with the King just before leaving; that the Colonel will be back inside of six weeks; that if he comes there will be financial gladiators to meet him; that his best helper in the last two Cabinets is in the present one still he's to command; that the South Sea business is still on the brain and be more divulged in December, and that the billiard matches between McCleery and Saylor are "for blood."

Honor to Major Bendel.

Major Hermann Bendel left for San Francisco on Saturday, after a stay of three weeks on these Islands. Major Bendel is a director of the American Sugar Refinery, and a partner in the large importing house of Tillmann & Bendel. During his stay the Major has been the recipient of royal hospitalities, and just prior to his departure had conferred upon him the rank and jewel of Knight Commander of the Royal Order of Kapiolani.

A Prospective Medical Acquisition.

The News Letter regrets that the medical profession of San Francisco is about to lose a valuable member, in the person of Dr. Kingsly, who expects an important appointment in the Hawaiian Islands. He is the nephew of the distinguished Dr. William Kingsly, the founder of the British Medical Benevolent Society; also was a resident pupil of Sir D. Corrigan, physician to Queen Victoria, and a pupil of Dr. Adams, surgeon to Her Britannic Majesty, besides having taken degrees as a specialist in various colleges. "Added to all these evidences of medical erudition, training and accomplishment," says the paper named above, "Dr. Kingsly is a gentleman of pleasing address, and possesses the confidence and friendship of all of our people with whom he has come in contact."

FIRE ON SHIPBOARD.

Steamer W. G. Hall Badly Scorched.

Between one and two o'clock on Sunday morning smoke was seen issuing from the forward hatch of the steamer W. G. Hall, the largest vessel of the Inter-Island Steamship Navigation Company, lying in her berth at the foot of Fort street. Mr. James Morgan, auctioneer, foreman of Engine Company No. 2, saw the outburst and immediately taking a hack drove rapidly to the Bell Tower to give the alarm. The bell was sounded at a quarter to two, and No. 2 engine was first at the wharf, followed soon after by Pacific Hose Company with its reel and Engine Companies 1 and 4 with their machines, in the order given.

There was nearly 200 bales hay stowed in the hold, and in this inflammable material the fire was raging. All the engines pumped water out of the harbor into the hold, and someone with good presence of mind opened the steamer's sea-cocks, letting in an additional flood of water. When the fire was flooded out, the scorched bales of hay were tossed out on the wharf and further drenched. Engine No. 2 went away at a quarter to five, leaving the others to pump the vessel out. The Hook & Ladder Company was early on hand, its members rendering assistance by cutting necessary holes in the deck. As usual in such material the fire proved a tough one, and it left the interior of the hold, up to the engine room bulkhead, pretty well charred. Mr. Godfrey, wharf superintendent for the company, estimates the damage at about $5,000. The hay, which is totally ruined, was shipped by the Hawaiian Agricultural Company for the Pahala Plantation.

Some of the firemen received severe bruises, from tumbling in the darkness. A more serious accident happened to Mr. Kennedy, shipping clerk of the Pacific Hardware Co., and steward of Pacific Hose Company, who fell into the hold breaking two ribs.

It happened that on Saturday a sugar mill roller of about seven tons, from the Honouapo Mill, fell and smashed the fore hatch. Otherwise the hatch would have been closed, leaving the fire in all probability undiscovered until it had gone too far to allow the saving of the vessel.

There is no knowledge of the origin of the fire. It may have been caused by a careless smoker, or spontaneous combustion from the hay having become dampened by a week's exposure it had on the wharf.

Yacht Race from San Francisco to Honolulu.

His Majesty has invited the Pacific Yacht Club, of San Francisco, to be present at his jubilee birthday festivities. By way of inducing the owners of yachts to visit the islands, he offers prizes for an ocean race from San Francisco to Honolulu, to take place so as to permit the yachts arriving here on or about the 16th of November. The first prize will be a trophy valued at $1,000; the second, valued at $500, and the third, a cup to be presented by the Hawaiian Boating Association. The race is to be under the auspices of the Pacific Yacht Club, provided it accepts the invitation. His Majesty promises to place a residence at the disposal of the officers and guests coming under the invitation. The invitation, inscribed on gilt edged paper adorned with the royal crest of Hawaii, is dated "Iolani Palace, September 25, 1886," and signed by H. M. Chamberlain, Governor Iaukea. The San Francisco Bulletin says, "it is not likely that this opportunity to promote the commercial and social relations between the Island Kingdom and the Golden State, to celebrate a royal birthday and enjoy a marine picnic, will be allowed to pass unimproved by our nautical citizens."

The Samoan Consulate.

Among the passengers who passed through here on the Mariposa were the Hon. Berthold Grenebaum, late American Consul to Samoa, and Mr. G. H. Bates, United States Minister to Samoa and Tonga. Mr. Grenebaum, who was appointed Hawaiian Vice Consul to Samoa on his way down, will return in December by the Zealandia, proceeding to the South Seas as full Consul for these Islands, in charge of a Commission to be appointed by His Majesty, for the purpose of promoting friendly and commercial relations with the other Pacific groups. From the brave stand he took in placing Samoa under American protection in the midst of a state of turbulence, there is no fear that Mr. Grenebaum will lack the necessary courage for executing any task that he may undertake in those scattered regions.

A Large Theft.

Thomas McGiffin, who was at one time a special police officer, was arrested on Saturday on a charge of being accessory to the theft of $930. A boy owned up to abstracting the money from a purse in his father's store, and said he gave it to McGiffin. When sent after McGiffin to get the money, the boy returned saying the former told him he had buried the money down the country. A strange circumstance is that McGiffin, before the robbery was discovered, informed a policeman that the lad was going to stow away on the Mariposa. It is hardly likely the case will be brought on for trial in the Police Court before to-morrow.

Voyage of the Mariposa.

The Oceanic S. S. Mariposa, carrying the English mails, left Sydney October 7th at 4:50 p. m. Experienced strong to heavy southwest and southerly winds, with heavy beam sea to North Cape; thence to Auckland light winds and smooth sea.

Arrived at Auckland October 11th, at 2 p. m., running time 3 days, 19 hours, 45 minutes. Left Auckland October 12th at 6 p. m. October 13th, 5:58 a. m., passed S. S. Mararoa bound south. Arrived off Tutuila October 16th, 11:57 a. m., detention 34 minutes. Left at Tutuila U. S. S. Mohegan and British S. Explorer.

Since leaving Auckland the weather has been anything but favorable for fast steaming. We got the southeast trades well to the south and the wind was too far to the east to carry sail, and was strong with heavy seas. Passing through the doldrums had immense quantities of rain. Got strong north-east trades in 4 deg. north, and had heavy head sea from thence to port. Running time from Auckland to Honolulu 11 days, 15 hours and 57 minutes.

The foregoing is the purser's report. The Mariposa was telephoned off port about half-past eight on Saturday morn. On arrival she was announced to sail at five in the evening, the mail closing at three. She was detained nearly an hour waiting for Col. Claus Spreckels, one of the owners. A large number of passengers, whose names were published in Saturday's HERALD, went from Honolulu.

Shortly before the steamer's departure a Japanese lady, Mrs. Nakayama, fastened a large lei, in sash fashion, about His Excellency Geo. W. Merrill, the American Minister Resident, going away on a holiday visit home. He already bore heavy tributes of esteem of the same kind from other hands.

Besides the notable passengers named above, there were Hon. C. R. Bishop, of Bishop's Bank; Hon. W. G. Irwin, of Spreckels' Bank; Hon. G. W. Macfarlane, accredited financial agent of the Hawaiian Government to negotiate the $2,000,000 loan in England, and Major Bendel, one of the principal owners of the American Sugar Refinery.

Billiard Match.

The match between the two champions, Mr. B. F. McCleery and Ben. F. Saylor came off at the Hawaiian Hotel billiard room on Saturday evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience. The match was for $250 and the gate receipts.

Saylor won the toss, but failed to score. McCleery followed and also earned a goose egg. Saylor scored 1. McCleery did not score. Saylor scored 4.

McCleery got the balls against the cushion and keeping them made 170 before they broke away. He then made 12 in all round the table shots—182.

Saylor commenced to play very poorly, as if he was discouraged, scoring 2.

McCleery with very careful play, scored—5. Saylor commenced scoring, and seemed as if he had picked up courage, making some brilliant play and a run of 23.

McCleery cautiously handling the cue, made 22.

Saylor, amidst immense applause, and making some of the most difficult shots, scored 81.

McCleery scored none. Saylor added 6.

McCleery put 5 to his score. Saylor, after careful play, got the balls to the cushion, and missing then made 116, then all round the table 11, a run of 127.

McCleery with careful all round play made 6, bringing his total up to 220.

Saylor, after a few shots around the table, got the balls to the cushion and made 256 points, thus winning the game and money.

The game throughout was thoroughly enjoyed by the spectators.

A few minutes after its conclusion, McCleery came to the table, and, throwing a handful of gold coin on the green baize, announced his readiness to play the same game over then and there, for $250 a side. The challenge was accepted, but an arrangement was made to have the match come off this evening, as announced in an advertisement elsewhere.

By the J. D. Spreckels, Mr. Hahn, well known as a sugar manufacturer, returned to Honolulu after an absence of about a year. Mr. Schnabel, agent of the Fredericksburg Brewery, San Jose, arrived by the same vessel; also an engineer for Koloa Plantation, whose name our reporter failed to obtain.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

A Peculiar Boarder.

A well dressed and handsome lady, with rich golden hair and sapphire eyes, seated herself in the parlor of the Oriental Hotel at Monterey, recently, and called a waiter.

"Who, prithee, is manager now of this brave hostelrie?" she inquired of the boy who waited on her.

"Yes, ma'am, he's down dem yere stairs in de office. He's Mr. Romeo Gillis what done de bossin' about yere.

"Bid him then approach," said the lady, "for unto him I fain would speak me of the travail which my poor heart suffers lest I fail of those accommodations in meat or sleep that lie in his advantage now to barter."

The waiter eyed her a moment, and then called Mr. Gillis, who entered the parlor all smiles.

"Good Romeo, for so do I hear thee called; sweet Romeo, as I would call thee to myself, hast rooms?"

"Why, yes," responded Mr. Gillis, somewhat taken aback. "We have a few left; what would you like?"

"Nay, gentle Romeo, speak not so sternly, but rather tell me what thou hast. Perchance I might ask what might be beyond thy gift, or sale, or rent. Coin thy thoughts into words, and from the portals of thy countenance drop the silver currency upon my waiting ears."

"How high would you like to go?" said Mr. Gillis, backing toward the door.

"Thy tongue asketh now conundrums, pure Romeo. Dost mean financially, or dost thou reckon from the sordid earth to where thy roof doth glisten in the noontide sun?"

"Oh! I say," responded Mr. Gillis nervously. "I mean, you know, do you want a parlor or rooms up stairs? Don't want to offend, you know, but just tell me what you'd like, and I'll try to fix it."

"All places are parlors with thee, fair Romeo, and recollections of thee would light up dungeons—"

"Gas in every room, ma'am; hot and cold water. Shall I call the chambermaid, ma'am?"

"Nay, nay. Invoke not cords and nurse. My blazing brain—"

"Want a room with a fire escape?" asked Mr. Gillis, anxiously.

"Might I but find escape from these swift waves that burn my heart. But, Romeo, if anon I take unto myself such rooms as thy bright eyes have illumined, what—?"

"Four dollars, ma'am. Four dollars a day."

"And canst thou not for less appease my hungering heart?"

"That will be extra, ma'am. You can feed a la carte or table d'hote, as you prefer. I'm only speaking for the room."

"And I—I am speaking of thee, my Romeo. My bankrupt heart—"

"Any baggage, ma'am?"

"Aye, baggage! He thinks me poor in the world, since I have yielded him the wealth I had of spirit."

"Cause transients without baggage must pay in advance," said Mr. Gillis, in a soothing voice.

"And may I see this cave to which thou wouldst consign me, glowing with the hope of life? Wouldst show me, Romeo, the prison now to which I am ordained?"

"The prison! You mean the cells; they're over in the other house. I don't have—"

"Nay, sweet Romeo, not those. I fain would see the chamber whereof you told in those tender tones was—"

"Four dollars? You mean a $4 room?" said Mr. Gillis, brightening up.

"I marked me not the sordid value that thou didst place upon thy proffered retreat. 'Tis food—"

"We haven't any $4 rooms with meals. You can see the room and make up your mind what you want."

"Come cords, come nurse, and I'll to this chamber fair—"

"Certainly," said Mr. Gillis, as he dashed out of the parlor after the house-keeper.

Half an hour later Mr. Gillis entered the bar-room, pale and with fixed features.

"Come hither, gentle bar-keeper," he said. "Fill me high a toaming chalice with the bitters intermingled with the spirit, while the crystal ice shines sparkling and the yellow peel floats idly on the bosom of the nectar, for I fain would fill my system with nepenthe from the sorrow I have felt, and Lethe of that long legged, slab sided, lantern jawed old mixture of a Dominica hen and a Gibraltar jackass, who's been howling poetry to me. The confounded old heifer was the agent of a baby's swing factory, and told the housekeeper she wanted to put four up in the parlor at $40 each. Say, you," he yelled, as the waiter who first called him dashed by, "Say, you imp of sulphur, if you ever let in another red headed woman with a wen under her ear, I'll break your leg off and throw it away. Give me a cocktail before I put this house in need of repairs."

Price Six Dollars per Annum or Fifty Cents per Month.

All who receive a copy of the initial or any succeeding number are respectfully

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.

Business men are solicited to test the advantages of THE DAILY HERALD as an ADVERTISING MEDIUM.

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.

Try the "Daily Herald" for a month at least.

THE DAILY HERALD.

VOL. I.

HONOLULU, HAWAIIAN ISLANDS, MONDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1886.

NO. 46.

Literary Gleanings.

In the first batch, now on its way to England, of the 1,200 palm-leaf books of which the Royal Library of Mandalay consists, will be found five volumes of a Burmese work entitled "Potay-kay Ya-za-win," containing a history of the Portuguese in Burmah. It begins about the year 1520.

Thackeray was improvident, and his expenses nearly always exceeded his income. His avowed purpose in coming to America the second time, in 1856, was, to use his own expression, "to lay up a pot of money" for his two daughters, and yet it shows the impulsiveness and boyishness of the man that he returned to England in the midst of a prosperous engagement and with half his lecture dates unfulfilled.

Julian Hawthorne assails "Ouida" with all the vim of a man who means what he utters. Referring to her recent article in The North American Review upon female suffrage, says: "Why not draw the line at 'Ouida'?" There is nothing in her, mentally, morally, or physically, which any man or woman can respect. The dignity of human nature (such as it is) is lowered by the fact of her existence, and every overt act of the unfortunate creature has been a mischievous and unclean act."

The following unique notice of the English edition of General Grant's "Memoirs," cut from the first number of a new English literary monthly, the Circulating Library, and written in all seriousness, is quite worthy of Mark Twain in most hilarious moments. With childlike blandness the reviewer declares: "The biography of Grant will be interesting not only for the career of this great man himself, but as showing how people rise sometimes through industry, ability and circumstances. Grant was the son of a farmer, who gave him a much better education than he had himself received. The Civil War obliged Grant to become a soldier, in which capacity he served for fourteen years, when he again took to farming, which he had to relinquish on account of ill-health. He then became successively estate agent, clerk in a store and Senator. In this last vocation he distinguished himself so highly that he was elected President."

Cholera and Water Supply.

In a recent letter to Nature, Mr. George Higgin says that the epidemic of Asiatic cholera, which has been raging in Spain during the last two years, has furnished not a few interesting data as regards its connection with water supply. Mr. Higgin claims that cholera never became truly epidemic in any Spanish city in which there was a pure and good supply of water and proper means were used to guard the sources from pollution. In support of this idea he calls attention to the cities of Toledo, Seville, Malaga and Madrid in contradistinction to such places as Aranjuez, Saragossa, Granada and Valencia. Mr. Higgin shows very clearly that the fine condition and careful protection of the water supply of the cities first named was the main cause of the comparatively slight ravages of the disease within their limits. It seems, for example, that the ancient city of Toledo, into which the cholera entered in the summer of 1884, and did not finally leave until the autumn of 1885, furnished an official return of 200 cases of cholera, only half of which were fatal. As Toledo has a population of over 20,000, the percentage of choleraic disease was about 1 per cent. of the population for the two seasons referred to. On the other hand, continues Mr. Higgin, the city of Granada, with a population of nearly 80,000 souls, is supplied with water by canals which are uncovered and exposed to all kinds of contamination. Through the streets the water is conducted in earthenware pipes, many of which are the original ones put down by the Moors before the conquest of the city by Ferdinand and Isabella. The cholera raged here with frightful results, says Mr. Higgin, the official number of cases reported being over 450 per day. No attempt was made, as was done at Toledo with such excellent results, to suppress the old water supply, and the epidemic took on alarming proportions in a very short time.

Some weeks ago a floating exposition was sent out by Germany. France has now fitted up the steamer Chateau-Lafite, which will visit various foreign ports, with merchandise, wines and liquors, which will be sold and delivered at once to purchasers. The steamer is to be illuminated with electric lights. She sails for Trinidad. There is to be a bar and cafe on board. It will not be safe to visit the United States without procuring a license at each port. In prohibitory States there could be no sales.

Little boy (to theatrical manager)—"Pa, why is this called a free country?" Manager—"Because everybody wants to get in 'thout paying."

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

There are five candidates in the field for the Governorship of California, among them the famous Dr. O'Donnell. The four to be left may come down here and compete for the gubernatorial roost on Ocean Island.

The Paris press is exciting the populace by boasting that France now possesses the most powerful army in Europe. Wonder if Honolulu would become excited over the reiteration of the fact that Hawaii has the most powerful army in Polynesia!

The latest news received by the Mariposa on Saturday is that the occupation of Bulgaria by Russia is a certainty. A plot to provoke a rebellion in the chief centres of Bulgaria on October 15th, as a prelude to a Russian occupation on November 9th, had been discovered. An article from a New Zealand paper elsewhere gives a comprehensive summary of the situation.

FOREIGN NEWS

Bulgaria Stands Firm Against Russian Aggression.

The following summary of the latest European news is from the Auckland, N. Z., Herald of October 12th:—

The Bulgarian Regency having declined the ultimatum of the Russian agent requiring the release of the prisoners implicated in Prince Alexander's deposition and the postponement of the elections, and having also issued a diplomatic note to the Great Powers protesting against General Kaulbars' action in his tour of the provinces, has assumed yet higher ground. A circular has been addressed by it to the foreign consuls in Bulgaria threatening the expulsion of foreigners if they continue to meddle with the elections for the National Assembly now proceeding. There can be no doubt as to the significance of this action. It is made to have a general bearing, but it at the same time has a special aim, as it is well known that the agents of Russia are the only parties against whom it is directed. This is made very evident, even if there were no other grounds for the conclusion, by the fact that the Russian consul is the only one who has taken offense at the Regency's action. This arrogant official has, it is said, returned the circular suspended relations with the Regency, and awaits instruction from General Kaulbars as to his future course. What the orders of his coarse superior will be, may be inferred from previous occurrences. A recommendation of any other than an impertinent and offensive policy could not be looked for from a man of General Kaulbars' character. His advice to the consul will doubtless be to interfere still with the elections as much as he possibly can. What else could be expected from one who has been endeavoring to excite treason in the Bulgarian army, and to bribe its officers in command. And this advice he will be all the more disposed to give that he will interpret the threat of expulsion as being specially directed against himself. For it is not alone the consuls that are referred to in the circular but any foreigner who may interfere with the people in the exercise of their elective rights. And, of all who may have erred in this way, General Kaulbars is himself the greatest sinner. On him, therefore, the effect of the circular will be to compel him either to desist from his seditious practices, or to assume a more defiant attitude. And judging from the past the latter is the course he is almost certain to elect. True, his attempts to excite treason in the Bulgarian army or people have failed; but this will only dispose him to resort to conduct more outrageous, as his mission is by some means or other to create a pretext for Russia's armed intervention in Bulgaria. Looked at from this point of view, the bold front put on by the Regency may to some appear to be impolitic. More closely examined, however, it is suggestive of the fact that its members feel more sure of their ground. And there can be no doubt that they do so feel. For, the speech of M. Tisza and Lord Randolph Churchill and the unmistakable signs of an Anglo-Austrian alliance must have assured them that Russia will not be allowed to trample roughshod over the rights of the Bulgarian people and that despite the German alliance, she will be made to understand that it will be at her peril if she dare flagrantly to violate the provisions of the Berlin treaty, which prohibit the interference of a foreign Power in the internal government of the Balkan Principalities. Of this much the Bulgarian Government must have satisfied themselves before venturing to tell the officials of the Czar, that their further intermeddling with the elections will be attended with certain penalties. The Court of St. Petersburg will therefore have either to moderate its pretensions and observe the abstinence the Regency demands, or by increasing these, force an appeal to the sword. And this morning's cables show that the latter is the alternative to which, as we have always said, Russia's antecedents have committed her. The plot for effecting an insurrection at the various centres of Bulgaria, on the 15th instant, preliminary to a Russian occupation of that country on the 9th November, is quite in keeping with the whole of General Kaulbars's procedure, and the massing of forces at Odessa is obviously in anticipation of the intended hostile movement. Among military authorities in Austria and Rumania, there seems no longer any doubt of a Balkan invasion by Russia, and the reported nervous excitement of the Czar is a sure portent that the plunge into war is at length about to be taken.

Funeral of Mr. Brown.

The funeral of the late Mr. Thomas Brown, Registrar of Conveyances, took place from St. Andrew's Cathedral on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. There was a large gathering, many people being unable to gain admission to the building.

Among others were present Hon. A. F. Judd, Chief Justice and Chancellor; Hon. E. Preston, Second Associate Justice; Hon. J. L. Kaulukou, Marshal of the Kingdom; Hons. J. S. Walker, A. S. Cleghorn, S. G. Wilder, J. E. Bush, S. Parker, W. F. Allen, W. C. Parke, Paul Neumann, and S. B. Dole; Rev. W. C. Merritt, besides the officiating clergymen; Major J. H. Wodehouse, H. B. M. Commissioner, Capt. Luce, Prof. Alexander, Mr. F. A. Schaefer, Italian Consul; Mr. H. Macfarlane, Acting Danish Consul; Mr. H. F. Glade, Austro-Hungarian Consul; Mr. A. de S. Canavarro, Portuguese Consul, and Mr. J. A. Hassinger, First Clerk of the Interior, together with the chief mourners, sons of the deceased and Rev. A. Mackintosh.

The coffin was of handsome design, with silver mountings, and there was a beautiful display of floral offerings in crosses and other symbolic designs. Rev. Geo. Wallace conducted the services, assisted by Rev. W. H. Barnes. There was a very large procession to the cemetery. Government offices were closed and official flags flying at half-mast during the day, out of respect to the memory of the aged and esteemed citizen and faithful public servant.

Rather Rough.

A member of Engine Company No. 2 absorbed more stimulant than was good for him after the fire. On arriving at the engine house he lay down and fell into a heavy sleep. Some of his comrades knocked together a rude coffin, into which they laid the slumbering form, placing lighted candles and a cross in position about it. Then they asked loiterers in to the wake, and among others a Chinaman, who was very much frightened when the supposed corpse gave a loud snore. When the fireman woke up he was horrified at the situation, and would have taken vengeance on the practical jesters, but none of them could be found to own up to the ghastly and irreverent prank.

A Peculiar Boarder.

A well dressed and handsome lady, with rich golden hair and sapphire eyes, seated herself in the parlor of the Oriental Hotel at Monterey, recently, and called a waiter.

"Who, prithee, is manager now of this brave hostelry?" she inquired of the boy who waited on her.

"Yes, ma'am, he's down dem yere stairs in de office. He's Mr. Romeo Gillis what done de bossin' about yere.

"Bid him then approach," said the lady, "for unto him I fain would speak me of the travail which my poor heart suffers lest I fail of those accommodations in meat or sleep that lie in his advantage now to barter."

The waiter eyed her a moment, and then called Mr. Gillis, who entered the parlor all smiles.

"Good Romeo, for so do I hear thee called; sweet Romeo, as I would call thee to myself, hast rooms?"

"Why, yes," responded Mr. Gillis, somewhat taken aback. "We have a few left; what would you like?"

"Nay, gentle Romeo, speak not so sternly, but rather tell me what thou hast. Perchance I might ask what might be beyond thy gift, or sale, or rent. Coin thy thoughts into words, and from the portals of thy countenance drop the silver currency upon my waiting ears."

"How high would you like to go?" said Mr. Gillis, backing toward the door.

"Thy tongue asketh now conundrums, pure Romeo. Dost mean financially, or dost thou reckon from the sordid earth to where thy roof doth glisten in the noontide sun?"

"Oh! I say," responded Mr. Gillis nervously. "I mean, you know, do you want a parlor or rooms up stairs? Don't want to offend, you know, but just tell me what you'd like, and I'll try to fix it."

"All places are parlors with thee, fair Romeo, and recollections of thee would light up dungeons—"

"Gas in every room, ma'am; hot and cold water. Shall I call the chambermaid, ma'am?"

"Nay, nay. Invoke not cords and nurse. My blazing brain—"

"Want a room with a fire escape?" asked Mr. Gillis, anxiously.

"Might I but find escape from these swift waves that burn my heart. But, Romeo, if anon I take unto myself such rooms as thy bright eyes have illumined, what—"

"Four dollars, ma'am. Four dollars a day."

"And canst thou not for less appease my hungering heart?"

"That will be extra, ma'am. You can feed a la carte or table d'hote, as you prefer. I'm only speaking for the room."

"And I—I am speaking of thee, my Romeo. My bankrupt heart—"

"Any baggage, ma'am?"

"Aye, baggage! He thinks me poor in the world, since I have yielded him the wealth I had of spirit."

"Cause transients without baggage must pay in advance," said Mr. Gillis, in a soothing voice.

"And may I see this cave to which thou wouldst consign me, glowing with the hope of life? Wouldst show me, Romeo, the prison now to which I am ordained?"

"The prison! You mean the cells; they're over in the other house. I don't have—"

"Nay, sweet Romeo, not those. I fain would see the chamber whereof you told in those tender tones was—"

"Four dollars? You mean a $4 room?" said Mr. Gillis, brightening up.

"I marked me not the sordid value that thou didst place upon thy proffered retreat. 'Tis food—"

"We haven't any $4 rooms with meals. You can see the room and make up your mind what you want."

"Come cords, come nurse, and I'll to this chamber fair—"

"Certainly," said Mr. Gillis, as he dashed out of the parlor after the housekeeper.

Half an hour later Mr. Gillis entered the bar-room, pale and with fixed features.

"Come hither, gentle bar-keeper," he said. "Fill me high a foaming chalice with the bitters intermingled with the spirit, while the crystal ice shines sparkling and the yellow peel floats idly on the bosom of the nectar, for I fain would fill my system with penitence from the sorrow I have felt, and Lethe of that long legged, slab sided, lantern jawed old mixture of a Dominica hen and a Gibraltar jackass, who's been howling poetry to me. The confounded old heifer was the agent of a baby's swing factory, and told the housekeeper she wanted to put four up in the parlor at $40 each. Say, you," he yelled, as the waiter who first called him dashed by, "Say, you imp of sulphur, if you ever let in another red headed woman with a wen under her ear, I'll break your leg off and throw it away. Give me a cocktail before I put this house in need of repairs."
