TO MY WIFE.
Why need you care, dear wife, or heed,
The passing of your early grace?
What though the lilies supersede
The springtime roses of your face?
What though the stars in your eyes
Has melted to a softer blue?
The fairest tint that deck the skies
Are caught from twilight's fading hue.
Why should the ripened fruit regret
Its summer bloom, however so fair?
Why need you sigh, though Time should set
His crown of silver on your hair?
The sweetest fragrance of the rose
Is from its petals pressed.
And Nature spreads her earliest snows
Above the flowers she loves the best.
What care we for the vanished years,
Save for the fruit their summers brought?
What care we for our fallen tears,
Save for the rain that on our hearts is wrought?
Why should we mourn the joys we shared,
Or see them perish with regret,
Since on the fruit our hearts have fared,
And memory keeps the rainbows yet?
What though our winter time has come,
And summer's buds and blossoms expire?
Love hath an ever radiant home,
And bids us welcome to its fire.
He dwelt with us through all the spring;
We sheltered him from the heart's heat;
Now at his hearth we'll sit and sing,
And let the wintry tempest beat.
—Leo O. Harris.

A Tinker Worth Mending.
The man who rambles roundabout New York with his little pine box on his back and a tinsmith's furnace in his hand and sings at every other step: "Any umbrellas, wash kettles or boilers to mend," is a familiar personage, but the dilapidated specimen that blew into the police bureau of the Mail and Express the other day was a rare avis. His entire kit of tools was a little black pot about the size of a tomato can and a flat brush about half an inch wide.
"Ye hadn't got no umbrellas nor overcoats nor shoes ye want done up, be ye?" His question was so uncommon that the writer was puzzled for a minute and hesitated while the peripatetic tinker continued:
"I kin take any old cotton umbrella and make it er genuine waterproof warranted never to leak, rip, stick or tear. Ef ye are got a rubber coat I'll size er over fer ye en overshoes wot's worn I'll make it good as new fer ye."
A set of rubber leggings was the only article the writer could find about the place, and passing them over to the tinker he bade him "size 'em over." The operation consisted in painting the leggings in such places as where the rubber was worn away or cracked, and it is only just to say that the work was well worth the fifteen cents charged for it. The leggings were really as good as new. The composition used in the work was dammar varnish and asphaltum in about equal quantities, to which a little turpentine has been added. The varnish is a fine, clear, yellowish goods restores their original appearance and usefulness, and, according to the tinker, "is an excellent compound for to cover spots wot gets on gossamer coats and cloaks."—New York Mail and Express.

Advantages of Whitewash.
Whitewash has many uses, political and moral (or immoral) as well as economic. But as a fire extinguisher it has not been hitherto generally recognized here. "Do you know," said a scientific gentleman the other day, "that it is next to impossible to burn a whitewashed fence? And do you know further, that in France, to protect frame and the interiors of other buildings from fire, the walls, beams, joists and the under side of floorings are thickly coated with lime wash before they are placed in position? It is so, and if this course, which has prevailed abroad almost from time immemorial, were adopted here, it would save many a house, many a village, from destruction. I do not mean to say that it will prevent the spread of a fire once under great headway; but from its unflammable character it is a guard against the prime ignition that often leads to dire results." This little hint set the writer to making inquiry among competent authorities, and full confirmation of the doctor's words was the outcome.—Boston Transcript.

The Law's Delay and Abuse.
David Dudley Field is doing good service in his old age in protesting against the "law's delay," which now practically amounts to a denial of justice in our courts. He says the average length of the suits which are sent up to the court of appeals is five years. Matters are worse in the supreme court of the United States. The whole aim of our court machinery seems to be to prolong litigation and add to the emoluments of the legal profession. Then, as Mr. Field points out, how shocking is the condition of our criminal courts. There are 9,000 untried cases in the court of general sessions in this city, yet in any civilized state particular care should be taken that prompt justice should be administered to petty criminals who are brought before our police courts.—Real Estate Record.

Limitation of Wealth.
Great is gold. Money can do almost anything. It can buy men. It can build palaces. It can run elections. It can encircle the globe. It can reach to the clouds. It can dive to the depths. But there is one thing it cannot do. No amount of it will enable a man, while crossing a "snaky street," to preserve the innocence of a five-cent shine.—Baltimore American.

KAISER WILHELM.

The ninetieth anniversary of the birth of the Emperor of Germany will be celebrated to-day by the German people. Those residing at Honolulu will not be behind their compatriots elsewhere in celebrating this event.

Emperor William was born March 22, 1797, and succeeded his brother as King of Prussia, January 2, 1861. He took part in the campaigns of 1813 and 1814 against France, and in 1849 he commanded the Prussian troops against the revolutionary army of Baden.

The defeat and humiliation of France and what followed are matters of history, and need not be referred to further in this place. That Emperor William of Germany is one of the greatest members of a great historic family is unquestioned.

TELEPHONE CHARGES.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Mutual Telephone Company will be held on Thursday next, at which it is understood important changes in the by-laws are to be submitted.

Another proposal is that at the division of the net income of the company twelve per cent per annum shall be paid to stockholders on the amount of their stock, and then dividends shall be declared by the Board of Directors.

To meet these liberal proposals and enable the company to keep up with the march of improvement, it is suggested that business and office telephones should pay $4 per month, telephones in private houses paying $3 per month.

The progress of the Mutual Telephone Company since its start has been very satisfactory. There are now considerably over 500 regular subscribers, and fully seventy new applications for instruments are on the list.

basis to meet all demands for instruments, while at the same time adopting all proved improvements in the special field of intelligence covered by its operations.

THE NEWS.

Contrary to expectation the Zealandia brought no news of a warlike demonstration from Europe. Emperor William's ninetieth birthday anniversary, which will be celebrated to-day, seems to have exercised a moderating influence.

The Bulgarian question is still open. It will ultimately precipitate war. Austria and England adhere to the Berlin settlement regarding Bulgaria, according to the dispatch; but they had previously acquiesced in its nullification by the union of Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia under Prince Alexander.

The Tory Cabinet of England is evidently fast breaking up. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach has resigned his seat as Chief Secretary for Ireland on account of bad health, and Mr. Balfour succeeds him.

The March issue of this valuable publication is to hand. Its contents are as usual varied and well selected. The original articles are valuable.

Emperor William's Ninetieth Birthday.

To-day is the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of the Emperor William of Germany. Several selections by German composers were played at the band concert last evening, and from 12 to 1 o'clock to-day the band will play in front of Messrs. Hackfeld & Co.'s store.

FOREIGN JOTTINGS.

The Depretis Ministry has resumed office in Italy. Another Cabinet could not be formed to last.

The French Government has made overtures to the Vatican to put its relations with the Holy See on a better footing.

In the debate in the House of Commons on the Egyptian credits, Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, confirmed the report that the British Government had decided to cease granting subsidies for the Egyptian army and the defense of Suakin, thus compelling Egypt to provide for the deficit in her budget or suspend the paying of interest on the national debt.

A London cable special of the 11th says: This morning it is officially announced that the Government has the name of the person who paid young Terry, naval draughtsman, for the naval plans and specifications, and also that the Government has information that Russia received the papers that Terry sold its London agent, America had nothing to do with the bribery. It is certain that Russia has possession of the drawings and papers in question.

The new belted cruiser Galatea, 300 feet long and 5,000 tons displacement when in fighting condition, was launched at Glasgow on the 10th. The engines are of the triple expansion type, working twin screws. She carries two nine and a quarter inch Armstrong guns, ten six-inch guns of the same class, eight six and eight three-pounder quick firing guns, and six torpedo impulse tubes.

Imposing naval manoeuvres were begun at Toulon on the 10th by a fleet numbering thirty-eight men-of-war, including nine iron-clads. The principal event of the programme will be the attempt of the squadron to force the passage of an imaginary strait defended by torpedo-boats.

Russia is willing to give England carte blanche in Egypt in consideration of the abandonment of English opposition to Russian plans in the Balkan States.

Cholera has been declared epidemic at Montevideo.

Solace for a Dull Play.

The other evening at one of the theatres a newspaper man had the good fortune to have for his right hand neighbor a very pretty girl. The play was rather dull, and the journalist wickedly amused himself by watching the charming little woman as she sat and gazed, and watched the dramatist's dullness and yawning, freely through the first act. The second act showed no improvement, and toward its close the escort whispered something to the lady. She gave an eager consent to his proposition, and then he began a search through his pockets. Finally he produced a store of small coin, which he divided into two portions and gave one to the lady. Then he rattled a penny in his hand and she did the same. Both showed their coins, and as she matched him she uttered a little shriek of delight and grasped her winnings.

For the rest of the evening these two forgot the drama in the gambling. At first the man won, much to the disgust of his companion. Then fortune took another turn and the lady won right on to the end of the game. Five or six times she replenished her escort's stock, and when the curtain fell she must have been ahead at least $1.50. The newspaper man was pained to observe, however, that her system could hardly be called fair, for she held the coin on its edge in her hand and soot from the gasolene lamp, which she was head or tail she dropped hers on the side that would win.—Philadelphia Call.

A Loud Call for Beans.

There is no one thing that a New England man misses so much in New York as a plate of good, old-fashioned baked beans. It is estimated that there are 100,000 strangers here every day, and a large number come from the eastern States. And yet with the constant call day after day for baked beans the hotel men and restaurant keepers have made no progress toward supplying the demand. Outside of half a dozen places, there is nowhere in the metropolis that this famous dish can be had. There are, of course, thousands of eating houses where baked beans are regularly served. But they are always served with a great slab of boiled beef or ham, and to a person who has been accustomed to the good old Massachusetts dish they are a delusion and an absurd joke. Still, this is all the New Yorkers know of baked beans. They eat them now and then and suppose they are tasting the real thing, and in their ignorance wonder why the fabled sustenance of Boston is so popular. Taking into consideration the great number of New England people here, it seems as if there was a fortune to be made for the man who would come to New York and give the people a taste of the good, old-fashioned Boston baked beans.—Springfield Republican.

Mexico's Cheap Funerals.

In the City of Mexico crematories are utilized often for queer services. The citizens hire these tramway cars for picnics, excursions and funerals. A couple of cars can be had for $15, and they convey the deceased, relatives and friends to the cemetery—often some miles out of the city. Funerals are very cheap in the Mexican capital, and do not come under the head of luxuries as here.—New York Mail and Express.

Where Politeness Paid.

In an ancient and very wealthy town near Philadelphia live two brothers who began life penniless, and are both unbelievably filthy for their age, their locality and their time. One is a master mason, one a master carpenter, and they are between 40 and 50 years old. Of the two the mason has a decided advantage in person and solid sense, and he has had little trade competition to impede him. But poor and struggling he is, and poor and struggling, unless by miracle, he will remain till the end of the chapter, while the carpenter is the owner of several houses that rent for a high price, and might, if he pleased, live henceforth at ease in his own artistic and luxuriously equipped house.

The whole secret is in the carpenter's scrupulously polite manner. No patron was too insignificant for him to try to please. When summoned to a consultation his shoes were carefully scrubbed at the door, his hat came off his head the instant he was inside the house, and remained off, and especially if his employer were feminine was it a treat to watch him receive her instructions, listen deferentially to her suggestions, enter into her views with respectful appreciation, follow her about, measuring rule in hand, and wait upon her indecisions as if time were a valueless detail, then set himself ardently to reduce her somewhat impracticable ideal to possibility. When his hieroglyphic bills came in they were gessed out with shrieks of laughter. They proved that if he treated madam like a duchess he made her pay like a duchess, and that every moment of his apparently spendthrift time had been counted, but the thriftiest of lady patronesses neither rebelled nor called in a rival workman. Such a carpenter was a luxury worth his price.—Providence Journal.

THE MOLTONO CASE.

The Proprietor of the Kapiolani Bath House Remanded—Preliminary Proceedings.

There was a large crowd in attendance at the Police Court yesterday at 9:30 o'clock, the opening hour. His Honor took his seat on the bench promptly to time. The dock was full of prisoners of various nationalities. Several lawyers occupied seats at one of the tables. The interpreter, Mr. Wilcox, was busy perusing the morning's ADVERTISER, the Chinese interpreter, Li Cheung, looked quite smart, having visited the barber since Saturday morning, and the Clerk, Mr. Wood, was ready for business with pen in hand. The Attorney General, His Excellency A. Rosa, and his deputy, Mr. A. P. Peterson, were also present.

The audience had among it a large number of persons who rarely visit the Court, and were no doubt attracted by the expectation of seeing the business men, dukes and wabines who had been surprised early Sunday morning at the Kapiolani Bath House, having a real good time. The Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. stretched his long legs out from an arm chair, quietly taking in the surroundings. The whole appearance of the Court wore a different aspect from what it generally goes.

The first called was Charles Moltono, charged with keeping a disorderly house. After the charge was entered His Honor asked for the defendant. "He was not here," said Captain Fehlberr. The Marshal winked, and told Fehlberr to go to the head of the stairs and call the defendant three times. The genial Captain obeyed, and with his sonorous voice, which caused the whole building to vibrate, said three times: "Charles Moltono, come into Court and defend your case: or forfeit your bail." The defendant did not appear and the bondsman were called in the same manner, but still no appearance. His Honor then declared the bond forfeited, and the business of the Court proceeded.

At 9:45 o'clock the Hon. Paul Neumann entered with Moltono. He asked that the order of forfeiture be rescinded. It was usual for the Court to take dock cases first. He did not believe in "snap" judgment. The Court should set the default aside and let the defendant plead.

His Honor—What has the Attorney General to say to it? Marshal Kaulukou—What ever had been the practice of the former Deputy Marshal, he did not propose to follow it. The Court sat at a certain hour, and he was at perfect liberty to call any case he chose to.

Mr. Neumann—Was I here, Captain Fehlberr? Fehlberr—Vile I was calling the sureties you came upstairs.

The Marshal—The Court can use its discretion in the matter. If it is opened I will have to summon as witnesses all those who offered millions not to be arrested.

Mr. Neumann—All right, we will go into it and call up the whole town.

His Honor—I will set aside default and let the case be reopened.

The Marshal—I would ask to have the case put off until Monday, the 28th.

Mr. Neumann—Can't you get ready to-day? We are ready; in fact, I am always ready.

The Marshal—You have no objection, Mr. Neumann, to it going over to Monday?

Mr. Neumann—Certainly not; Monday goes. [Laughter.]

His Honor then remanded the defendant to the 28th, and the larger part of the audience left the building.

A Japanese Girl Sent to Prison.

A young Japanese girl named Dio was sentenced to imprisonment at hard labor for one month, yesterday, for larceny of a quantity of goods, the property of Hon. A. S. Cleghorn. The girl was in the latter's employ at Waikiki up to last week, when she was discharged. After she had left a number of things were missing, some of them of great value, and suspicion at once fell upon the girl. A policeman, armed with a search warrant, proceeded to a house near Smith's bridge, last Thursday, where the girl had been staying. Her trunk was opened, and several of the missing articles were found. Later on the girl was arrested, and at the preliminary examination pleaded not guilty. Yesterday she withdrew that plea, and pleaded guilty. The Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, who was in Court, asked that leniency be shown towards the girl. In only giving a month's imprisonment His Honor let her off very lightly, as she was liable to a heavy sentence.

Two More Arrests.

George S. Houghtaling, proprietor of the Bay Horse Saloon, was arrested yesterday on a warrant for selling liquor on a Sunday. He was admitted to bail on a bond of $200. John Young was also arrested yesterday for selling liquor without a license. He has not furnished bail. Both cases will probably come up in the Police Court this morning.

THE SUGAR MARKET.

Our latest advices from the Coast were not very satisfactory, and indicated a reduction in values for raws, which, of course, is not good news for Hawaiians.

The special correspondent of the Advertiser at San Francisco reports, on the day of the Zealandia's sailing, a decline in both Cuban and Manila raws. As a large quantity of sugar had arrived in San Francisco for the American Refinery and its agents, just at the time of the drop, this is not encouraging for our planters. Refined sugar in New York was on about the same low basis as our former quotations. There had been an advance in the London beet market, but there was no prospect of any strengthening in New York futures.

Important changes have taken place in the share list of the American Refinery, which may have considerable bearing on the future of that concern and the plantation interests supporting it in this country.

Several of the original stand-byes of that company have withdrawn. Mr. Tillman, of Tillman & Co., has no longer any interest in the American Refinery. Mr. Jones, the well-known San Francisco merchant, has withdrawn. Mr. C. Adolph Low, a member of the firm of E. L. Steele & Co., has sold out almost his entire line of stock, and now holds only a nominal interest in it. Last, but not least, Major Hermann Bendel, who was recently in Honolulu, has sold out his whole interest of $100,000. He made no secret of this, speaking openly of the sale. It is said that the purchasers are Hawaiian planters. Offers of a compromise from the American Refinery to the California have, we understand, been persistently rejected. Each concern stands upon its own merits in the commercial world.

NEW YORK. This market has improved considerably, indicating a greater willingness on the part of refiners to replenish their supplies. Buyers have bought pretty freely on the spot, and secured considerable stock to arrive and for shipment, absorbing all at the cheap parcels that were available, and the cheap bidding quite freely on the basis of prices previously paid.

LATER telegraphic news indicates a much weaker feeling, with a decline.

NEW ORLEANS. "Bradstreet's," March 5th, has the following telegram: Sugar at New Orleans is quiet and easy at decline. The heavy arrivals of Hawaiian sugar at Western points have checked orders for Louisiana sugars. Stocks at New Orleans are light, and the supply on plantations is practically exhausted.

Table with columns: MARKET, QUOTATION, CHANGE, CONDITION OF MARKET. Includes prices for various sugar grades like No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 4, No. 5, No. 6, No. 7, No. 8, No. 9, No. 10, No. 11, No. 12, No. 13, No. 14, No. 15, No. 16, No. 17, No. 18, No. 19, No. 20, No. 21, No. 22, No. 23, No. 24, No. 25, No. 26, No. 27, No. 28, No. 29, No. 30.

A Crushed—6 1/2 to 6-16. Granulated—5 1/2 to 5-16. Standard A—5 1/2. New York market—Firm and fairly active.

Let Me Have a Mild CIGAR!

THE ABOVE REQUEST IS HEARD DAILY IN cigar stores, saloons and other places where cigars are sold, for it is an undisputed fact that most smokers prefer a mild cigar, and that those who have for a long time smoked strong cigars, principally imported from Manila, will, after having thoroughly injured the stomach and impaired the nervous system, surely want a mild cigar if they could and the right kind.

How many thousands of smokers who suffer from loss of appetite, headache, nervous irritability, asthma, etc., and who have tried all possible remedies without success, might be cured if they knew that their sufferings were caused by the impetuous use of strong cigars, and that they should only smoke mild and a properly prepared ones.

It is a fact that not all mild cigars agree well with smokers, for in most cases there is a lack of care in the selection of the tobacco, and often the necessary experience for it is wanting, yet there is one brand which suits the most fastidious smoker, and that is

ENGELBRECHT'S

"Sampler" Health Cigar,

Which is made from mild, aromatic and particularly selected and prepared tobacco, and combines all the qualities which may be expected from a health cigar. It causes no bad effect of any kind, is agreeable to the taste, burns evenly to the end, and possesses a fine aroma. No smoker should fail to give.

A fair trial, and benefit himself at the same time.

BRIGHAM'S GUIDE.

THE MORMON APOSTLE'S HISTORIC JOURNEY ACROSS THE ROCKIES.

A Veteran Frontiersman Tells How He Led the Mormon Chief Over the Mountains and Into the Valley of Salt Lake.

John Y. Nelson, the guide who in 1846 piloted Brigham Young across the plains and over the Rocky mountains to the site of the present capital of Mormondom, is one of the most interesting of the strange band of pioneers and savages now depicting the perils and pleasures of frontier life for the delectation of effete easterners with Buffalo Bill.

He was seated on a camp stool in one of the score or so of tents that line the sides of the broad upper corridor at Madison Square garden, his wife, a Sioux squaw, squatted at his feet industriously stitching with shreds of buffalo tendon for thread, a boy of 12 stretched on a couch of deer skins in one corner and a copper colored lassie of 8 sleeping peacefully on a bank of blankets in another corner.

It was late in the fall of 1846. Nelson began as he lit his pipe and shoved back his broad sombrero. "I was at Cottonwood Springs, Neb., living with an old Mexican half breed, who knew every inch of the Rockies like a book. We were doing nothing in particular and ready for a job when Brigham Young came along and asked my Mexican friend and myself to be his guides across the Rockies, promising us good pay. He had four companions, Mormon elders, I think, but I cannot remember their names. Seven in all, we started with two emigrant wagons, one of them loaded with flour, bacon, coffee and biscuit enough for two years' supply. I don't believe Brigham had any idea when he started just where he was going and when he would get back! It was a sort of prospecting trip. He and the elders called each other 'brother,' and the old man was a good natured, jolly sort of fellow. He talked a good deal of religious lingo, but he was not the Sunday school, pious Jonah kind; would say 'damn it' just the same as I would, and young and bicent enough to be quite a young fellow in those days, and as the old Mexican didn't speak much English, Brigham talked a good deal with me and tried to convert me to Mormonism.

"He was about 40, well set up and with a big, strong head and neck. I didn't take much stock in his arguments defending polygamy, which Jo Smith had recently introduced as a revelation among the saints. But Brigham gave me the idea of a man who was pretty firm in his opinion and actually believed what he preached. "We didn't hurry ourselves much, making only about twenty miles a day with the wagons, pitching our tents for three or four days at a time when we got into a likely region where game was plenty and exploring the country for miles around. I don't think we met a white man all the way across. There were lots of Indians, but they didn't trouble us just coming into camp to trade off fresh meat or skins for bacon and coffee. Toward Christmas we struck Ham's fork, in western Nebraska, after making a journey of nearly 1,000 miles. There we were snowed up until the spring.

"That was a particularly hard winter, and the snow was forty feet deep in places where it had drifted over the canyon. But we didn't suffer; provisions were plenty, there was lots of game, and when we couldn't get water we got snow and melted it. Our camp at Ham's fork was pitched in a sheltered valley, and we got all the elk, antelope and bear we could shoot. "Late in the spring, when the snow had melted, we struck camp and started straight up the mountain about forty miles. Right up on the top of the mountain we found a large lake fed by a living spring chuck full of trout that beat anything in the world. The smallest of them was about two feet long and weighed five or six pounds, and the flavor! The trapper snatched his lips as the recollection of the gustatory gratification of forty years before arose in his mind. "Brigham was all the time spying out the lay of the land, and as he looked from the top of the mountain over the level stretch of desert, he said to me by a living spring chuck full of trout that beat anything in the world. The smallest of them was about two feet long and weighed five or six pounds, and the flavor! The trapper snatched his lips as the recollection of the gustatory gratification of forty years before arose in his mind.

California Marble. One of the largest deposits of marble in the world has been discovered in San Bernardino county, Cal., only three miles from the railroad. It covers 600 acres, and no less than eleven different shades of marble are found.

Beating the Market Man.

The simple dodge is an old and mean trick by which some sharpers in a small way beat the market man out of a dinner now and then. If you stay here long enough you'll see one of them. I usually get from two to a dozen visits from them every day. Many of them are men, old men, usually, of respectable appearance, though occasionally you find a well dressed woman in the business and now and then a child. It is worked like this. The simple fiend comes up when you are not busy and tells you that he has not laid in his winter stock of vegetables yet. Then he talks about different kinds of potatoes and wants to see what we have got. He takes a potato out of each barrel, says he'll try them all and see which he likes best, and moves coolly off. Of course we never see him again.

Now that seems like a very small kind of a confidence game for grown people to be at, doesn't it? But I believe there are scores of families who depend on just such little tricks for the chief part of their sustenance. Anyway, we have lots of them down here. I have known them to come and "work the racket" and go away and then be at some other stand on the same errand an hour later. I actually believe some of them have gathered enough vegetables in this way out of this market in a day to last them all winter. Of course beggars would fire out of here in a holy minute, and persons who didn't look respectable we shouldn't allow to take a sample. But what can you do when nicely dressed persons, who, for all you know, may own a brown stone block and be able to buy you out a thousand times, come along and work you this way?—Stallkeeper in New York Commercial Advertiser.

Reasons for Weathercocks. Why should cocks figure on the top of steeples? Christians connect the custom with the approach of the cock once crouched upon the tops of sacred trees long before it was transferred to church steeples, and in north Germany it still stands upon the May poles. It was partly a witchman and partly a weather prophet, and by its crowing it could disperse evil spirits and all approaching calamities. Its life was sacred in India and Persia, and Cicero speaks of the ancients regarding the killing of a cock as a crime equal in blackness to the suffocation of a father. Our weathercocks are doubtless the survivals of the old ideas; though the solar mythologists trace all these things to the use of domestic fowls as obvious personifications of the sun, so that "the pearl which the fowl searches for in the dung-hill is naught else but its own egg, and the egg of the hen in the sky is the sun itself," and "the hen of the fable and the fat hen which lays golden eggs is the mythical hen (the earth or the sky) which gives birth every day to the sun." One can scarcely conceive anything more absurd, and it would be interesting to know how, on solar principles, the birds would be explained. The Tyrolese custom of not letting a black hen live for seven years lest she should then lay an egg, out of which might issue a dragon destined to live a hundred years.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Ways of American Yachtmen. One of the most prominent members of the New York Yacht club have up at once with the remark that: "American yachtmen are becoming as set and immovable in their scruples and prejudices as the most rabid sons of Great Britain. Whether it has anything to do with the prevailing craze of Anglomaniacism or not I cannot say, but it is there just the same. The most steadfast and vigorous yachting men of America toward having the races for the America cup occur in the spring instead of the fall have failed again. Because the races have always been held in the fall, the British insist on continuing to hold them at the same time of the year, although the contests nearly all resolve themselves into drifting matches, and are unsatisfactory alike to yachtmen and spectators. If the rule were changed now in the face of precedent and the race held in the spring, it would give us another year to get ready for the Scotchman's boat—which you may mark my word will be a clipper—and we would thus be sure of having brisk winds and races fair to all comers."—New York Cor. Pioneer Press.

Paper, Pens and Pencils. In a communication to one of the scientific journals, on the subject of paper and the industries connected with it, M. De Bontaire presents some valuable data showing the great increase in the quantity of pens, paper, pencils, etc., manufactured in Europe and the United States alone. According to this authority, the production of paper, which at the beginning of the century was practically stagnant in the United States, some time since amounted to 500,000 tons per annum, and this quantity is just doubled in Europe—the value of the straw, rags and other materials used in the manufacture of the paper being about $100,000,000. The value of all this paper, when manufactured, is estimated at $200,000,000. The value of the steel pens annually produced, M. Bontaire finds to be not less than $4,000,000.—New York Sun.

Villains With Light Eyes and Hair. "Why is it that stage villains are always represented with black eyes, black hair and fierce black mustaches?" asked a young man who has recently turned from the rowdy west. "I have spent a couple of years among the cowboys of the plains and I have seen many of the most noted desperadoes in that frontier country. It has been my observation, and I have heard others say the same thing, that these desperate men are nearly always blondes—fellows with light hair, light mustache and light blue eyes. Some of the most desperate characters I have ever seen were small in stature and quiet looking. The male 'brunette' has, I think, been unnecessarily slandered by the make up of the melodramatic villain."—Louisville Post.

An Ingenious Method. Mr. L. Thielen, of Stassfurt, Germany, has recently patented an ingenious method of damming back the flow of water in shafts, by the application of the well known fact that certain salts increase their volume very materially by the absorbing of water of crystallization in hardening. To accomplish this he takes either calcined soda, anhydrous alum, kieserite, or oxychloride of magnesium, mixes them into a paste, and then immediately injects them through a suitably arranged pipe into the fissures through which the water flows. It is said that as this paste hardens it swells enough to fill all the interstices of the rock and to render it water tight.—English Mechanic.

What Miss Cleveland Says. Ross Elizabeth Cleveland in her last poem talks about the "punny, pretty women of the period." She also says: "A man is just precisely what his food will make him." Green Eyed People. In a paper on the color of eyes in France M. Topinard has called attention to the extreme rarity of greenish eyes in Europe, only six cases having been observed by Professor Virchow in 6,000,000 Germans. With us a green eyed person must be fully as uncommon a sight. Yet Chinese annals record that green eyes abound in parts of Asia, and Pallas notes they are met with in Siberia.—Arkansas Traveler.
