THE NATION WAS HUSHED

WORK CEASED FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

In Every City, Town and Hamlet Memorial Services Were Held, Timed to Those in Canton.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 19.—In almost every city, town and hamlet throughout the nation, public memorial services were held today. These for the most part were timed to correspond with the funeral services at Canton. In this city all business was suspended. NEW YORK, September 19.—All business except work of necessity, was suspended in this city today in respect to the memory of President McKinley, and the day of mourning was observed by persons of all religions. In all churches and in the synagogues, special services were held and public meetings were held at various places, at which addresses were made eulogistic of the life and public services of the dead President. In marked contrast to the ordinary holiday here, all sporting events scheduled for today were either abandoned or postponed. The public golf links in the city were closed. In addition to the closing of stores, banks and other places of business, all street car and railroad traffic stopped for a period of five minutes at the time the funeral services were to begin at Canton. At the time of the removal of the late President's body to the cemetery, the Commercial Cable Company's cables and land lines in America, England, Ireland, Scotland, France and the Azores Islands were silent for five minutes. The lines of the Postal Telegraph Company observed the same ceremony, and the leased-wire system of the Associated Press also suspended. The Western Union Telegraph Company observed holiday hours throughout its entire system, and all signaling on the international cables and land lines of the Western Union Telegraph Company's central office was suspended, every instrument being silenced for five minutes. CHICAGO, September 19.—The noises of a great city were hushed for five minutes today, while mourning thousands paid their tribute to the memory of William McKinley. The silence was broken only by bells tolling off the fifty-eight illustrious years of the dead President's life, or voices raised in singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee," or "Lead, Kindly Light."

The demonstration took place during the afternoon and was timed to be in unison with the last rites at Canton. The parade came to a respectful standstill at 2:30 o'clock. Street-car traffic suddenly ceased and pedestrians halted on the sidewalks.

CEREUS BLOOMS TONIGHT.

The hedge of night blooming cereus at Punahou College was in full display last evening, the flowers making a beautiful sight in the full moonlight. There will be another opportunity to see the blooms tonight which will be grasped by the usual crowd of residents and visitors. The cereus is a common thing in the States for the whole neighborhood to assemble to see a single specimen of the flower blooming in a hot house and the almost unearthly beauty of several hundred feet of cactus hedge covered with thousands of starry blossoms gleaming in the moon rays is a spectacle not to be lightly passed over or easily classed as a thing seen too often.

CLERKSHIP GOES A-BEGGING.

A first class clerkship in the custom's service is awaiting the applicant who handed in to the examiners at the civil service examination on July 5th last the papers numbered 13019. There is no record of his name, so that he cannot be notified by the secretary of the local examining board. Since the examination, the applicant has not been heard from and as he passed with a percentage of 74.35 and stands fifth on the list there is a clerkship going a-begging, or will be at the next call for eligibles by the collector. In the meantime the gap will not be kept open for ever and if the fortunate applicant wants the position he would do well to come forward promptly.

BARGAINS IN FOOT WEAR.

Some wonderful bargains in men's, women's and children's shoes are to be had at the shoe sale at Kerr's Shoe Store, Hotel de Port streets. HOUSES GOING UP. Purchasers in College Hills are beginning to build; three residences are in course of construction, another begins next week. Plans for others are in the hands of local architects.

THE JAPANESE TESTIMONY

STRANGE EVIDENCE BEFORE FIRE COURT.

The Jap Who Lost a Gold Tooth—A Woman's Doubt About Her Deceased Husband.

"What is your husband doing now?" "I don't know." "Why?" "He's dead." The above was the bright expression of a Japanese woman's doubts about the standing of her late husband in the Beyond, before the Court of Fire Commissioners. The court was trying, as in other cases, to find out how much the claimant, judging by her income, might reasonably be supposed to have in the way of household property. Strange claims and stranger testimony continue to entertain the commissioners and the lawyers. One Jap yesterday had a claim for a gold tooth. Chairman Macfarlane got curious about it and wanted to know how the claimant happened to have lost a tooth in the fire. He got an explanation. "I lost a tooth and had a gold one put in," said the Jap "and on the day of the big fire I took the tooth out to clean it. Just then my wife came and shouted that the fire was coming, and I ran and left the tooth behind." As proof that the gold tooth had really been lost the Jap approached the court and invited the judges to examine his molars. He opened his jaws and pointed to a cavity where the gold tooth had been before the fire, but the commissioners didn't want to make any dental investigations, and they waved him aside.

A woman named Nakichi came to the front with a claim for about a hundred dollars, on which Macfarlane found some blanks calling for questions. "They were glass lamps, at $5 each. Isn't this a mistake? Weren't they $5 a dozen?" asked Macfarlane. The woman indicated the splendid hanging chandeliers of the throne room, and said that her three lamps at $5 each had been great big hanging lamps like those. She was excused, without having to tell in what part of her palace she kept them. Sake got into a tangle over some watches. There were 63 of them originally, he said, but he got 20 back. The commissioners once got him down to it actually lost, but the figures rose and fell as the witness struggled through inquiries. Macfarlane finally told him he evidently didn't know anything about it, and had better take back his claim and make another. He admitted that he hadn't written it out and couldn't know much about it. The Jap claims still have the right of way. The witnesses are very polite and ceremonious. Each claimant as he or she walks to the witness chair before the commission, bows low to Interpreter Chester Doyle, to the lawyers and to the commission. When it comes to giving evidence a good proportion of them rivet their eyes on the ceiling. With most of the claims little time is spent. The commissioners simply find out where the claimant lived, his or her income and how long the income had lasted before the fire, and then the witnesses are excused. In other cases, where the list of lost property includes doubtful items there is questioning about it, often ending in a very significant "that's all," as the witness finally lands in a mesh of statements it is no use trying to straighten out.

The court will not sit tomorrow, adjourning in honor of the McKinley memorial day.

THE WHITE HOUSE.

Congress Allows No Draping on Federal Buildings.

WASHINGTON, September 14.—For the third time in thirty-seven years the flag over the White House Mansion hangs half-mast for a martyred President. An enactment of Congress forbids any other outward mark of mourning on any Federal building. The White House is now being prepared for the occupancy of Mrs. McKinley for whatever period she may desire to remain, and eventually for the family of the new President. A great many personal effects of the late President and Mrs. McKinley are at the Canton home, and when Mrs. McKinley has removed permanently from the house that has been her home in Washington, whatever else belongs to her and her late husband will be shipped to Canton. Then President Roosevelt will take possession.

MATINEE POSTPONED.

In consequence of the death of President McKinley, the management of the Liliupatua Opera Company has decided to postpone the matinee of the "Belle of New York," till the following Saturday afternoon. For further particulars see Well, Nichols Co. Tomorrow evening September 28 "The Belle of New York" will be staged. This is undoubtedly the company's masterpiece, and has earned for it a wide reputation. There will be no performance tonight, Friday.

OBJECTS TO WATER DEAL

F. M. SWANZY RECALLS PREVIOUS EXPERIENCES.

H. B. Gehr and the Railroad Franchise. Strong Doubt as to Whether Capital is Subscribed.

Despite official assurance that the plantations have entered no objections to the granting of the Kohala water proposition, there seems to be a feeling among many of the plantation agents that not only has the matter been refused the proper publicity and insufficient time allowed the interested plantations to look into the matter, but that the franchise thus asked is of the nature of an option on public property given to private individuals under representation of already subscribed capital, which from previous experience with the same parties is more than likely not to be forthcoming at the time promised; and that the franchise will be used as a lever to gain subscribed capital, easily enough secured after such a valuable privilege is shown to be already gained. "I do not think that the granting of the Kohala water contract was given sufficient publicity," said F. M. Swanzy yesterday afternoon. "The whole affair being conducted in a hole in the corner method which has not given either the general public or those more directly interested in the results of such a proposition opportunity to either look carefully and fully into the matter or time to enter a protest should they see fit to make one." A protest was made at the executive council meeting by Mr. Swanzy on behalf of the many plantations likely to be affected by the proposed scheme and for which Davies and Company are the agents; submitting at the time the request of the managers and planters that they be allowed at least three months in which to fully look into the scheme and realize to what extent they would be affected by its carrying out.

"When the first draft of the contract, as proposed to be given to the franchisee, was issued and sent up to the Kinohiwa to Hawaii, the quick return of that vessel, owing to regatta day arrangements, made it practically impossible for anything to be done in the way of discussion. The revised draft was not brought to the office of Davies and Company until fifteen minutes before the sailing of the Kinohiwa, leaving no time for more than a brief communication from the agents to the plantations asking that a meeting be called and the matter taken up. At this there is but forty-eight hours in which the matter could be discussed."

The protests against the contract at the council meeting did not come entirely from Davies and Company. J. B. Atherton also demurred on behalf of the Kohala Plantation as did Mr. Wundenberg for the interests of Samuel Parker, Mr. Low for R. R. Hind of the Hawaii mill and plantation and F. and P. Woods of Kahua and Mahukona.

Lloyd Forbes, manager of the Pacific Sugar Mill at Kukuhiua made a vigorous protest, concerning the likely injury to his headquarters, which was withdrawn when the second draft of the franchise, providing for a regularly circumscribed area was issued. "The chief objections I have to the scheme or rather not so much to the scheme as to the manner in which it is being carried out," said Swanzy, "are these: In the first place I do not think such a contract should be granted to a government official or a man that is holding a government official as is Colonel J. W. Jones. I do not think that is right on principle. Then again it is excellently well remembered by all of us how some two years ago a franchise for the Hilo-Kohala railroad was asked for by H. B. Gehr and granted to that individual upon certain conditions under which we were assured that the labor employed on the new road would be all brought from the States and would in no way interfere with the labor on our plantations, while above all it was emphatically stated and reiterated that the capital, Eastern capital as in this case, was already waiting to go ahead with the project immediately the franchise was granted.

"The scheme was a good one, I myself became a director in it, but the franchise was not forthcoming, it proved not to have been even subscribed for and Mr. Gehr went to the States to get his capital after he had got the franchise and could use it as a bait. "I do not think this kind of thing should be repeated. It is not antagonistic to the development of the Kohala mountains water supply, but is the capital waiting as claimed? The same man that obtained the railroad franchise, H. B. Gehr, is at the back of the present undertaking and judging from the terms promised in previous experience, there is in the eyes of a great many people reason to doubt strongly whether the Chicago capital is not more or less mythical, and will be sought after the franchise is obtained.

"The capitalists who are interested so deeply in this matter have never been mentioned by name and there has been too much mystery cast over the whole affair not to make it look suspiciously like a repetition of the railroad franchise of two years ago."

HAWAII'S MOURNING DAY

BUSINESS TO BE ENTIRELY SUSPENDED.

The Decorations of Mourning Continue To Go up—Memorial Services at Kawaiaha Church in the Morning.

Though Honolulu for several days has already shown her citizens' feelings of grief over the great national tragedy at Buffalo, the city will observe tomorrow as a day set aside for mourning and prayer. Indications are that the observance will be universal. All government offices and all the courts will be closed, business houses generally of all nationalities will suspend business and even the saloons will close their doors at nine in the morning and remain closed until one o'clock. Governor Dole and staff will attend the exercises at Kawaiaha church in the morning and the officers of the National Guard will be present in full uniform. The Federal officials here will be in mourning and citizens generally there will undoubtedly be an assemblage that will fill the large church to its utmost capacity.

About town new black decorations are still going up, and many pictures of McKinley are shown, draped with black. The city generally will wear an appearance of mourning. A few business houses, mainly those which supply necessities of life and which the public will have to patronize before Monday, will be open a part of the day.

The interior of Kawaiaha church is being draped with black and readiness for the memorial services tomorrow. Two sailors from the Iroquois are assisting the church workers in the work which is being done in an effective manner. Only the one tone, sable, is being employed, relieved by the Stars and Stripes and a quantity of palms brought from the Government Nursery. The gallery as well as downstairs is draped with mourning folds from the pillars to the pulpit. Outside the massive pillars on each side of the door are swathed in sable.

There will be memorial services tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Roman Catholic Church, out of respect to the memory of President McKinley. Several priests are expected on the steamer Mariposa from San Francisco but if they do not arrive in time to deliver the address, His Lordship, the Bishop of Honolulu will officiate. Kawaiaha church will be dark with crepe when the exercises begin. Men are at work today decorating the interior. The choir's gallery will be draped with black and all woodwork, the windows and pillars will also be draped. The pulpit as well will be covered with the drapings of sorrow. Outside, the entrance, the columns and the gate post will be draped.

The inside of the building is being arranged for the special accommodation of many of those who are to attend. There will be places reserved for the officials, for members of the various committees, officials, etc. The banks will be closed all day tomorrow and all other business suspended. The Stock Exchange will hold no meeting, and the court of Chinatown Fire Claims, which has been the only court in session since the news of McKinley's death arrived will adjourn this afternoon until Monday. It has been in session yesterday and today as it has a lot of work to do in a two month limit and cannot afford to lose a day.

The ornate decorations of the Executive building are draped in the gloomy colors of a funeral pall today. The inside of the building with their florid capitals are shrouded in black. The Italian balustrades are hung with the same mute trappings of woe. Wherever the architect set the seal of his happier and brighter impulse, black, in solemn funeral folds hides the decorations and reduces the Capitol building in the semblance of a mighty mausoleum, a symbol of the Territory's mourning for the lost head of the nation.

The designer of the drapery, A. E. Murphy of the Public Works Department has conceived and carried out a most effective scheme. It is not an easy thing to arrange the decking of so large a building as the late palace, on account of its florid style of decoration and the quantity of cloth necessary for effective results.

The various store windows are appropriately draped throughout town and timely symbols are shown by the Bank of Hawaii. The designer of the banking house's drapery Charles Fraser, has been very successful in using just enough artistically arranged cloth and ribbon to render a most effective tribute, the lines of the building being admirably adapted in the design.

SALOONS WILL CLOSE.

All of the saloons in the city have decided to close tomorrow from 9:30 a. m. until 1:30 p. m. out of respect to the memory of the late President McKinley.

A DAY OF MOURNING.

Governor Dole has given notice that tomorrow, Saturday, all government offices will be closed and the day will be observed as a day of mourning and prayer, and expression of public sorrow over the death of William McKinley.

HAS A HORSE FOR SALE

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT BARGAIN.

Sam Johnson Injured by an Animal With a Bad Record—Its List of Smash Ups.

Captain Sam Johnson of the department of public works had a narrow escape yesterday from serious injury while out driving. His brake was overturned by the horse he was driving, a vicious animal known as "Romeo" that has badly injured several men, and Johnson's foot got tangled up in the wheels. He was dragged for a block, and much bruised. The department would like to get rid of the horse, but the animal is beginning to get a reputation that doesn't aid a sale. He has broken two men's legs and gave a hackman who tried him a bill of damages to pay. During plague times the animal overturned a vehicle in which Charles Clarke of the board of health was driving, breaking Clarke's leg. A short time later he did the same trick again, and a native boy in Johnson's department was injured so that he was laid up in the hospital for two weeks.

After that it was decided to sell the animal. He is a splendid looking horse and a hackman was found who proposed to buy the horse—after a trial. A day later the hackman led the horse back. He said he had paid all the damages for the smash-up and wasn't hurt any, but he didn't want the horse. Yesterday's accident was due to the electric car line. The horse didn't like a trolley and he began his favorite trick of making circles about the road. Sam Johnson struggled to his feet when he got loose from the wreck, and took the horse back. This morning he was limping about after a new horse.

BOY GAMBLERS WARNED

JUDGE WILCOX WILL INFLICT HEAVY SENTENCES.

Told Some Boys if They Were Again Charged With Gambling it Would go Hard.

It is likely to go very hard with the next boys who are brought before Judge Wilcox on charges of gambling. Christian Vierra, Jimmie Vierra, J. Caldera, Kakalewai, Apelena and George Kahe, all small boys were before Judge Wilcox yesterday morning to answer to charges of violating section 291. These boys were said by the police to have been in the habit of gambling in the public streets. They made the vicinity of Pauoa Road and Nuuanu street their principal place of resort and there, at almost any hour of the day and evening, some of them could be seen showing craps or gambling in some form or other.

When arrested the other day, about $1.50 in cash was secured, in addition to the dice which were used in gambling. One of the crowd had supplied the dice. Judge Wilcox thought that it would be wiser not to commit the boys to jail or the reform school for this offense, but he announced to them in very positive terms, that if ever any of them were before him again, he would certainly give them heavy sentences. The crowd was given a severe reprimand and allowed to depart.

Several other boys who had merely been convicted of loafing around and had not gambled were given heavy sentences by the court. Joe Guerrero and John Enoka small boys who stole a bunch of bananas from a Chinese store, were sentenced to six months in the reform school yesterday morning by Judge Wilcox.

Joe Pacheco a small boy was given two months in jail at hard labor for being a vagrant. Judge Wilcox thought the boy should receive a severe sentence. Judge Wilcox gave Joe Kaeha six months in the reform school for being a vagrant.

DEATH OF MRS. TINKER

WIFE OF ISLAND-BORN MAN DIES IN ILLINOIS.

Robert H. Tinker Son of Hawaiian Missionary and Playfellow of Rev. Sereno Bishop.

The death on September 3 of Mrs. Robert H. Tinker at Rockford, Ill., will recall her personality to many of the kamaainas of the city. Mrs. Tinker in '52 married John H. Manny, whose premature death at the age of thirty robbed America of one of its most promising and brilliant inventors. His death was due to disease fostered by the strain of an over wrought brain when his fame was becoming known on both sides of the Atlantic, and his royalties brought great wealth to his widow.

Still young she rejected many offers, until, in the words of the tribute written by Mrs. Ralph Emerson to the memory of her friend, she preferred one whose rare artistic tastes, objects and ambitions so exactly coincided with her own.

This was Robert H. Tinker whom she married in '70. Mr. Tinker was born in the Hawaiian Islands where his father was a missionary in early days. The Rev. Dr. Sereno Bishop was a playfellow of the younger Tinker in their boyhood days together. The wedding trip of the well matched pair was spent here in Honolulu and will be remembered by many.

Mrs. Tinker was known in Rockford, where most of her life was spent, as a prominent and public spirited Christian woman, for ten years never absent from her self imposed post of duty as secretary and treasurer of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of Rockford and numerous other ecclesiastical and Christian enterprises in which she was a leading spirit. "All," says Mrs. Emerson, "who have in any manner been recipients of her cordial hospitality, her thoughtful kindness, her unostentatious bounty, will deeply mourn her going from us."

Abraham Lincoln, on the occasion of his only visit to Rockford upon legal business for the Manny's in which attorneys of international reputation were engaged for the fight, involving certain infringements on a patent, stayed at the Manny home in Rockford. The suit was won by Lincoln in connection with E. M. Stanton and Peter H. Watson afterwards assistant secretary of war. Mr. Lincoln's fee was $1000, the largest he had received up to that time.

Mrs. Tinker's illness was a short one she having recently passed her 72nd year.

THE PILIKIA OF FEARLESS.

It is very likely that the United States district attorney may take a hand in the trouble between Captain Brokrow of the tug Fearless and the Marine Engineers' association. The association demands that Brokrow have two engineers aboard his vessel but under new papers which were granted the vessel by the master inspector at San Francisco, the boat does not have to carry more than one engineer, as she is now a harbor tug and not a sea going tug as formerly. The Chief Engineer of the Fearless had to leave his position on the demand of the association for fear he would be black-listed. According to one of the maritime regulations he has laid himself liable to forfeiting his license for leaving the vessel without proper cause or reason. Judge Estee may have to pass on the case and it may get into the United States court.

VALUE OF LIFE INSURANCE.

No prudent, thoughtful, up-to-date business man today would neglect to carry some insurance on his property as a safeguard in case of unexpected loss. He may go through life and perhaps never have a loss. This is not the case with life insurance. He is insuring against a loss that is certain to come to him sooner or later in life. The Provident Savings is a first class company. J. Newhouse, resident manager, office: 15-16 Progress Block.

The bark Alden Besse, with a cargo of general merchandise got away today for Honolulu.

THE AMERICA CUP.

NEW YORK, September 14.—The date most talked of now for the international yacht races is October 5.

It is said tonight that Sir Thomas Lipton will insist that the races begin September 28. If this date is unaccepted he and the Shamrock II will return to England.

The New York Yacht Club failed to notify Lipton of the selection of the defender yesterday as required by the rules, and Lipton could claim the cup by default. However, won't do this.

The Constitution won't be hauled out at Bristol Yards until after the cup races are over. Her sails have been removed and the boat has been generally dismantled, but nothing was done which could not be changed back in a couple of days. It is understood the idea is to have a boat in reserve in case anything should happen to the Columbia. That anything should happen to such a carefully guarded craft is hardly to be expected, yet the two close calls experienced by the Shamrock have served to remind people that all these boats run considerable risk as long as they are out sailing, even for practice.

AFTER THE BEER BUSINESS

SUIT TO VOID HONOLULU PRODUCT LICENSES.

A Law That Gives Sellers of Local Beers an Advantage is Attacked in Ester's Court.

Suit was filed yesterday in the United States District court by a number of the largest local liquor firms, to nullify the liquor license act of 1888, under which the many sellers of Honolulu beer are doing business. The Interstate Commerce law will be invoked to abolish the special advantages which it is claimed the Hawaiian law gives to the local brewery in competition with the Milwaukee, St. Louis, San Francisco and Seattle breweries, which have lost a lot of business here since the new brewery started.

The plaintiffs in the suit are MacFarlane & Co., H. Hackfeld & Co., W. C. Peacock & Co., Ed. Hoffschlaeger & Co., St. C. Sayers and L. H. Dee, Treasurer W. H. Wright, who issues the licenses is the defendant. The plaintiffs asking that he be stopped from issuing more licenses under the act of '88. The retailers who deal in liquors generally, selling imported beer as well as local, are paying a license of $1,000 a year, while the men who sell only Honolulu beer pay $250. It is claimed that this is a discrimination against the easterners and in violation of the Interstate Commerce law, which provides for free commercial intercourse between the states and territories.

None of the eastern beers can be sold, under the law, in the places that are licensed at $250 a year. The licenses are issued under section 479 of the penal code, which allows such a licensee to sell "malt liquors manufactured in Honolulu." The law was originally one designed as a sort of measure of "protection" to protect a Honolulu brewery from the competition of American concerns.

United States District Attorney Baird, Assistant J. J. Dunne and Robertson and Wilder are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Bishop and Company yesterday filed an amended answer in the Peart harbor condemnation suits. It is similar to the other answers filed, and claims $200,000 as before.

A GOOD THING. There's one good thing when they feel dry. That business men cannot pass by. For far and wide it's fame you hear. They stop to drink of "Rainier" beer On draught or in bottle at Criterion.

Between Men's and Boy's Clothing...

We make no difference in it is ease and furnish all attention to detail. There is no sweat-shop work on any of our suits. Is not this worth the thoughtful consideration of mothers? Isn't it worth paying a trifle more to have your boy's suit made in a proper manner. If the wife were consulted, wouldn't she insist that the husband avoid wearing sweat-shop clothing?

We have just received a new line of STAR WAISTS, with and without collars. Just the thing for the school season.

Also a fine line of EXTRA PANTS FOR MEN AND BOYS. Extraordinary efforts have been made by us to find and prepare the things needful for your good appearance and comfort—the very best SUITS FOR MEN AND BOYS; SHIRTS, HATS, CUTTING FLANNELS, ETC.

All these are worthy of your attention, being fashionable in cut and stylish in appearance.

THE FUNERAL OF MCKINLEY

MARTYRED PRESIDENT IS LAID TO REST. Impressive Services Held Every Part of the Country—The Nation Bows in Mourning.

CANTON, (O.), September 19.—The mortal remains of President McKinley are at rest. For six days and through hundreds of miles a sorrowing nation has followed his bier. Now the last looks have been taken, the last farewells have been said. The last salute to a dead President has echoed above his head. His body lies for the moment in the little cemetery of Canton, guarded by soldiers of the flag he loved so well, until it shall be placed beside the mother and dear ones, who passed out before him. Those who people who mourned and honored him will raise a monument to his name and make his grave a shrine. But his highest monument must, ever remain in the hearts of his countrymen. A mourning people raises its head from the dust and goes forward encouraged and guided by the life he lived.

There is one heart that knows no surcease of sorrow. His widow lies prostrate. Tributes of city, state and Nation, incense burned to his memory by the millions who mourn, but accentuates her plight. He was so much, he was all hers, and he is gone. Because of broken health she was denied the widow's last and most sacred privilege of following her dear one to the grave. In the little house whither the American people were wont to throng, bearing garlands of admiration and confidence and heaping honors upon him, she sits alone and fights with her grief. Ten times ten thousand have come and gone this day in sympathetic procession between her and them. Tomorrow they will resume their accustomed duties and the world will go on, its load lightened by new interests. The President was; another President is. But the husband who has gone is not to be forgotten.

CANTON (O.), September 19.—The last sad word were said over the remains of President McKinley at the Methodist church today. It was the simple, yet beautiful, service of that church, and there were few dry eyes in the crowded edifice. The service in the church when the casket was carried in on the shoulders of the stalwart soldiers and sailors was profoundly impressive. A black border twenty feet high, relieved at intervals by narrow white bands falling to the floor, swept completely around the interior. Only the gilt organ pipes back of the pulpit, rose above it. The vestibules on either side of the chancel leading into the church were black tunnels, the stained glass windows on either side were framed in black, and the balcony of the Sunday school to the rear, thrown open into the church by large sliding doors, was adorned in the same somber fabric; graceful black streamers, festooned along the arches of the nave, formed a black canopy above the chancel; from this, directly above the low, flag-covered catafalque on which the casket was to rest, hung a beautiful silk flag, its red and white folds tied midway with a band of crepe.

CANTON, September 19.—The line of funeral march from the church to the cemetery was about one and one-half miles in length. From the gates of the cemetery to the doors of the church there was an almost unbroken line of soldiers, and on all the intersecting streets detachments of the militia were posted about 100 feet from the thoroughfare on which the cortege was to go and nobody was permitted to pass in either direction. There was not a window that commanded a view of the line of march that was not filled with faces, the numerous stands were crowded to their utmost capacity and on the roofs were hundreds of people. From 9 o'clock in the morning till 5 o'clock in the afternoon, by which time the last of the parade had passed the church on its way to the cemetery, this condition prevailed.

All day long the streets were kept clear by the military, and not a vehicle of any description, save those belonging to the funeral cortege, were permitted to enter them. Notwithstanding the dense crowds no accident of any kind was reported. No greater reverence has ever been shown to any man, living or dead, than was exhibited toward the dead President today. As the funeral car passed through the streets men and women sobbed convulsively, and at the cemetery gates, where the crowd was densely packed, and where the people had remained for hours pressing against the iron fence, two women fainted during the exercises at the vault.

THE LAST JOURNEY. Millions Watch With Bared Heads the Funeral Trains. BUFFALO, September 15.—President McKinley's body started on its last earthly journey this morning. Members of his family and his personal friends will follow through four days more, while saddened people bow beside his bier, until the mortal husk of his soul shall find its last resting place in Canton beside his mother. The funeral service of William McKinley, the man, took place in Milburn house, where he died, this morning. There were gathered men and women who knew and loved him before an admiring Nation elevated him to the highest state man can attain, but did not isolate him from those he knew in humbler days. That was as he would have had it. The simple ceremony, simple as the nature of the man it commemorated, was arranged by men who knew his heart. It was conducted by Rev. Charles Edward Locke, the son of his pastor and one who, as a boy, had sat upon his knee to prattle boyish troubles into his willing ear. There was a prayer for his soul; for heavenly support in their sorrow of those he left. His favorite verses of Scripture were read. His favorite hymns were sung. Then the family and friends took their last look upon the dear face. BUFFALO, September 16.—The silent form of William McKinley was borne from this city in impressive state this morning, and taken on its last journey to the national capital. Exactly at the appointed hour, 7:45, the escort was in perfect readiness. Major Mann, commanding the escort, delivered the order "present arms." Noiselessly the arms leaped to position; the commanding officer turned about,

YOUNG GAMBLERS.

Some half dozen small boys of various nationalities were before Judge Wilcox yesterday for gambling. They were all of school age, had kept away from school for the purpose of continuing their game, and had somewhere near two dollars in nickels and dimes which they were playing for. They were caught by the school policemen, who, of course, could only deal with children of school age. The remainder of the gang, who were above school age, escaped capture, one being carried off triumphantly by a car driver who whipped up his spavined mules to save his friend.

This question of the continued increase of gambling especially among the very young, grows more serious every day. Gambling is one of the worst vices that can seize upon a people. It leads to more crime, and causes more widespread disaster than almost any other vice. Indeed it carries all other vices in its train. We deprecate the vice when we see it engrossing the full grown members of the community, how much more must we feel its balefulness when we see it taking hold of our youngest boys.

The gambling outfit of children which appeared before Judge Wilcox yesterday had its headquarters at the tram car terminus on Nuuanu Avenue. Its operations were watched with interest by the drivers who occasionally would take a hand, between whiles, during the time the exhausted mules were resting. It was in full view of the cars, but the small boy has learned that the ordinary car passenger will not interfere with him. If, however, there is anything suspicious, there is a spy or guard out, and the game is instantly converted into an innocent one of marbles, the crap outfit being promptly pocketed.

How to meet this very serious phase in the life of the community is one of the problems which it is so difficult to solve. There are a number of boys over school age who do nothing but loaf. They are the friends of the tram car drivers, ride on the platforms with them, puff their cigarette smoke into the cars, and ingratiate themselves into their good graces by moving the mules, altering the switches, driving a part of the way, and so forth. These overgrown louts undoubtedly lead the small boy to vice. One never sees a group of small boys playing craps, but one also sees from one to half a dozen of these loafers taking an active and leading part in the game. Such hobble dehoys ought to be given a little hard work on the roads or in the stone quarries. Their parents are in nine cases out of ten hard working, they are supplied with all necessary food, and probably get a little money from their mothers, this they use as capital in their gambling transactions.

The small boy who has taken to gambling now will grow into the loafer above described, and the loafer will grow into the criminal and the ordinary criminal will grow into the desperate criminal. There is no doubt about our prospective danger. It is a danger and it is one to be met. There is not a part of the town which is not infected with the nuisances alluded to. We are slowly and steadily allowing a larrikin or hoodlum class to grow up amongst us, and some of these days it will be out of our control.

Besides punishing there should be some legal alterations, and there should be some executive alterations. Neither can be made until we have a legislature which will give its attention to broad lines of reform and not devote itself to petty squabbles about the salaries of policemen and janitors. We need a penal farm upon which prisoners for light offenses should be put to work. It would be very much better to have lads of sixteen to twenty working upon such a place, than herded into road gangs as at present. Another thing that is necessary is a detaining school for truants, a very different thing from the Industrial School which will soon be commenced at the north end of the Island.

These things have been pointed out again and again. A few see them, and then the idea is laid aside. But every now and again something happens and the public wants some reform made right off. Reforms cannot be made right off, and the reforms The Star speaks of require legislative enactment and money.

GOOD MEN.

The Court of Fire Claims has proved a very satisfactory body. It has worked hard, has been very conscientious, and has investigated evidence with great care. It is seldom that such work is done so satisfactorily to the general public and done in so thoroughly a cleanly and non-partizan spirit. The composition of the court has proved eminently a good choice. The members have not been technical, but they have been sensible. The absence of a majority of professional lawyers has probably led to the latter result. The members of the court are: Fred. W. Macfarlane, A. N. Kepoikal, J. G. Pratt, F. J. Testa and A. C. Lovekin. The detail work upon the claims has been very onerous, but the investigation of each individual claim has been still more so. The investigation has involved the examining and the cross-examining of claimants and their witnesses, with the result that many claims have been found to be far in excess of even liberal demands, and others have been found to be actually spurious. There have been undoubtedly some cases of rank perjury, and these may lead some of the claimants to the criminal dock.

It is a curious thing that there has been more tergiversation in the small claims than in the large ones. This may be accounted for by the fact that the large claims were presented by reputable lawyers, while the small claims were made up in many cases by shysters. Indeed it was brought out in evidence that the lawyer, so called, had increased the value of the articles lost anywhere from fifty to one hundred per cent. Upon points of this character much light was thrown by the clever questioning of the commissioners.

The commissioners feel the importance of their work so thoroughly, and feel their duty as citizens, that they will continue their sittings until the whole question has been gone through and settled. This speaks highly for the gentlemen who form the commission. They have performed their duties well, they are going to continue their work without pay, and there are very few instances of such unselfishness among our annals, especially when one foresees how much obloquy will be poured out upon them by disappointed claimants.

The rain of last night cooled the air and very thoroughly washed the vegetation, which sadly needed such a bath. The consequence was that today's morning hours were fresher and more charming than any for some time past, but we could get along very nicely with a few thoroughly soaking days.

The beer licenses are being taken up all over, and the brewery reports a very large sale of its product. Good beer is very much better for people than bad gin or worse whiskey, so one may hope that the cause of temperance may flourish under the changed conditions. Moreover the beer dividends go into the local pockets.

The stealing of sand from the beach is becoming quite a common offence. Some of these days an example should be made of these predators. Another common offence here is taking soil from vacant lots. Not so long ago a lot in the burned district was attacked by the omnivorous carter of earth, and it was only a threat of legal proceedings that frightened him off.

The callous way in which the anarchistic lecturer Emma Goldman received the news of the death of President McKinley is typical of her stripe of fanatics. Were she free to express her views she would be dancing a wild bacchanal measure in glee over his death, just as the New Jersey anarchists held a wild festival when the news of the murder of King Humbert arrived. They are a callous, hard hearted lot of villains, both male and female.

Tomorrow the city will devote itself to a public expression of grief for the death of the late President. The program has been arranged with care and the addresses will come from the leading men of the community. The city was partially draped in black yesterday, and today a number more of the business houses marked their respect in a similar manner. It will be a somber contrast to the gay and brilliant sight of last Saturday when the harbor was gay with waving flags and the wharves and boat houses were crowded with merry makers.

Several dances and entertainments have been very properly put off out of respect to the memory of the dead President. Gentlemenly feeling and delicacy naturally has dictated such a course whether those engaged in the proposed entertainments are American citizens or not. The delicacy of feeling should above all things be conspicuous on Saturday, a day which has been set apart by the Governor as one on which the citizens of the Territory should publicly express the sorrow that they feel for the untimely death of William McKinley, struck down by the hand of an assassin. It should be made a distinct day of humiliation and no amusements of any kind should be tolerated.

Consul-General Goodnow reports that the most disastrous floods are prevailing in the valley of the Yangtze River. He understands that they are the worst known by Europeans in that valley. All the towns in the neighborhood of Wuhu and Kiukiang are to a large extent under water. The farms, especially in the rice-growing region about Wuhu, are so completely flooded that there is no hope for the crop this year. In addition to this, thousands of people have been drowned and unknown numbers rendered homeless by the overflow. The stoppage of trade is very serious. Not only is the local trade paralyzed where the flood exists, but the river is so far beyond its banks that navigation is difficult and dangerous. It is reported that five large river steamers plying between Shanghai and Hankau are out in the fields in different places. The destruction of the crops in vast regions, and particularly the probable destruction of the rice crop in the region of Wuhu—the great rice-exporting center—will probably add famine in the Yangtze Valley to the other difficulties besetting the Empire.

and, facing the house of the dead, brought his sword to "present."
A minute of awe-inspiring silence, and then emerging from the doors of the City Hall, there moved the eight body bearers, four soldiers and four sailors. On their shoulders rested the casket inclosing the body of the country's dead. The flag-draped casket was lifted gently into the hearse and the doors closed.

Once more the strains of music, this time Chopin's funeral march, accompanied by the tolling of the church bells. Behind the toiling came the carriages of the members of the Cabinet.
Then came the hearse and following were comrades of the Grand Army of the Republic, with a company of local militia bringing up the rear.

The line had begun its march at 7:50 o'clock. Half an hour later, with measured step and to the strains of the constantly playing band, the line turned into Exchange street, where the railroad station is located. As the cortege passed Elliott street it was met by the carriage bearing President Roosevelt. By the President's order his carriage was stopped and with bared head the Nation's new executive waited the passage of his predecessor's funeral cortege.

At the station once more the troops were drawn up in line and came to "present." On the curb stood President Roosevelt, with Senator Hawley, General Brooke and his staff fell in directly behind the casket; then came the President, Secretary Cortesou and Senator Hawley, and then, walking with his cane for assistance, followed Senator Hanna, accompanied by his son.

Mrs. McKinley and the other members of the family had entered their car half an hour before the body arrived. The mourners entered the train and a few moments later President McKinley's remains were on their last journey to the national capital.

BUFFALO, September 16.—The train that bore the remains from Buffalo was a solid Pullman of seven cars minutes by two locomotives. Fifteen minutes before the train was scheduled to leave an engine sped out through the yards with orders to precede the train fifteen minutes and keep the track clear.

The casket was placed between the windows on the observation car, where it could be seen by the people as the train went by. Crepe was draped from the two locomotives and from the rear of the observation car, and the railings of the car were shrouded in crepe. The only relief was in two tiny pilot flags of white on the leading locomotive.

The casket of the President, completely covered with a beautiful silk flag, lay on a raised bier in the observation car. Two sheaves of wheat were crossed above the breast. A white dove, with outstretched wings, seemed to be rising from the head of the casket.

Shortly after 8:30 o'clock it was announced that everything was in readiness and at 8:34 the train pulled slowly out, just four minutes later than was scheduled.

WITH BARED HEADS.

WASHINGTON, September 16.—
Through a living line of bared heads people stretched from Buffalo up over the Alleghenies, down into the broad valleys of the Susquehanna and the city on the banks of the shining Potomac, the nation's martyred President today made his last journey to the seat of government, over which he presided for four years and a half.

The whole country seemed to have drained its population at the sides of the track over which the funeral train passed. The thin lines through the mountains and the sparsely settled districts thickened at the little hamlets, covered acres in towns, suddenly grew to a thickset of respectable citizens and were congregated into vast multitudes in the larger cities. Work was suspended in field and mine and city.
The schools were dismissed. Everywhere appeared the trappings and tokens of woe. Millions of flags at half mast dotted hillsides and valleys and formed a thickset of color over the cities.
And from almost every banner streamed a bit of crepe.

The train left Buffalo at 8:30 o'clock this morning and arrived at Washington at 8:38 o'clock tonight. In twelve hours it is estimated that over half a million people saw the coffin which held all that was mortal of President McKinley.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, September 16.—From the train the casket was taken under military escort to the White House.
President Roosevelt, accompanied by the members of the Cabinet, left the house almost immediately and was driven to his home. The casket had been placed lengthwise of the East room of the head to the north. Piles about it were a half-hundred bars of emblems exceptionally beautiful, and as many more were placed in the inside corridor until tomorrow. Two marines, a soldier and a sailor stood guard, one at each corner of the casket, while seated on either side were two members of the Grand Army and two members of the Loyal Legion. They will be relieved at intervals of two hours during the night.
Before midnight the household had returned to rest, and the only lights to be seen were those in the room where his comrades kept watch over the dead chief.

WASHINGTON, September 17.—The casket containing the remains of President McKinley were borne from the White House at 9 o'clock to the Capitol where religious services were held at 10 o'clock. The remains lay in State for the remainder of the day. They were then taken to the station of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the journey to Canton began at 8:30 o'clock.

TO THE CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, September 17.—The second stage of the late President's journey toward the waiting grave at Canton was begun just a few minutes after 9 o'clock. An hour earlier the chief officers of the Government, civil, military and judicial, began to arrive, and many others whose names are familiar the world over, came singly and in groups, to pay their tribute to the Nation's illustrious dead. Several members of the diplomatic corps in court costume were among the early comers.
Former President Cleveland and Former Secretary of War Lamont arrived about 8:30 and were shown to seats in the red parlor. The members of the Cabinet began to arrive soon after and were immediately followed by the members of the Senate committee and the members of the Supreme Court, headed by Chief Justice Fuller, in their robes of office.

President Roosevelt arrived at 8:50 o'clock, accompanied by his wife and his sister and went immediately to the blue parlor, where they were joined by the members of the Cabinet. President wore a frock coat with a band of crepe on the left arm.

Mrs. McKinley arose earlier than us-

SCHOOLS HOLD EXERCISES

REVERE THE MEMORY OF THE MARTYRED PRESIDENT.

The Attributes of the Dead Used as an Example and Impetus for the Coming Generation.

By the desire of Superintendent Atkinson and the Board of Education, Memorial services were held in the city schools between one and two o'clock this afternoon.

Special attention was drawn to the national calamity sustained in the death of the late President and the heinousness of the crime that murdered him.
At the High School prayers were uttered expressing the sympathy of the scholars of the land and the hope that, emulating the example of the late president, they would be noble girls and boys growing up to be noble men and women. Hymns were also sung by the scholars.

The occasion generally was improved to point out the many, noble and Christian qualities, the strict attention to duty that raised the late president from a lowly position to that of the highest executive in the land and the honor of the nation.

At the other schools the exercises were of the same character, appropriate to the example of the late president and appreciation of the various grades.

ROOSEVELT'S POLICY.

BUFFALO, September 16.—President Roosevelt has outlined in some detail the policy he will follow during his incumbency of office. It will be remembered that when he took the oath of office he stated with definiteness: "It shall be my aim to continue absolutely unbroken the policy of President Mc-Kinley for the peace (and he emphasized the word), prosperity and honor of the country."

Yesterday the President gathered together some personal friends in Buffalo and members of the Cabinet who were here and gave to them such ideas as he has already formulated for the conduct of public affairs and his own policy. In no sense are they divergent from what has been understood as Mr.
McKinley's policy. This policy, as outlined to his friends at yesterday's conference will be for a more liberal and extensive reciprocity in the purchase and sale of commodities, so that the over-production of this country can be satisfactorily disposed of by fair and equitable arrangements with foreign countries.

The abolition entirely of commercial war with other countries and the adoption of reciprocity treaties.

The abolition of such tariffs on foreign goods as are no longer needed for revenue, if such abolition can be had without harm to our industries and labor.

Direct commercial lines should be established between the Eastern coast of the United States and the ports in South America and the Pacific coast ports of Mexico, Central America and South America.

The encouraging of the merchant marine and the building of ships which shall fly the American flag and be owned and controlled by American capital.

The building and completion as soon as possible of the Isthmus canal, so as to give direct water communication with the coasts of Central America, South America and Mexico.

The construction of a cable owned by the Government, connecting our mainland with our island possessions, notably Hawaii and the Philippines.

The use of conciliatory methods of arbitration in all disputes with foreign nations, so as to avoid armed strife.

The protection of the savings of the people in banks and in other forms of investment by the preservation of the commercial prosperity of the country and the placing in positions of trust of men of only the highest integrity.

JAPANESE CORPORATION.

The First One to File Articles
Here.

The first Japanese corporation that ever filed articles of association yesterday presented its application yesterday to Treasurer Wright. It is the Asada Company, Limited, which proposes to take over the dry goods business of I.
Asada. The officers are I. Asada, President; T. Iwanaga, secretary and treasurer; and K. Kananami, auditor. I.
Asada has 50 shares, O. Asada has 18 shares, Iwanaga has 20 and Kananami and Wade have 1 each. The capital stock is $10,000, all subscribed.

There are many Chinese corporations in the city, and Japs in other corporations, but this is the first purely Japanese corporation to file its articles.

BY AUTHORITY

The Governor directs that notice be given that on Saturday next, September 28th, Government offices will be closed in honor of William McKinley, late President of the United States, whose death at the hand of an assassin has plunged the nation into the deepest sorrow and has enlisted the sympathy and regret of the world.

It is recommended that that day be recognized by this community as a day of mourning and prayer, and of public expression of the national loss and bereavement caused by the President's death.

THE LOCK AND THE KEY.

You can operate a lock only with the key that fits it. Very well. So you can cure a disease only with the medicine that goes down to the cause of it. Now, many so-called diseases are in truth only forms of one disease, branches of one tree, as we may say. For example, if we can nourish the body and enrich the blood, we speedily get rid of many of our troubles, such as Anemia, Fevers, Rheumatism, Scrofula and Blood Disorders, Lung Diseases, and so on—all proofs that the body lacks vitality and force. Nothing is so effective a bodybuilder as cod liver oil; but, alas, how many are nauseated at the very thought of it. In

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION

which is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, we have the rose without the thorn; the valuable drug minus its vile taste.
Add to this the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites for making bone, and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry for equally excellent purposes, and we have a remedy indeed; one as pleasing to the palate and stomach as it is potent and successful in banishing disease in old or young and making life worth having. "You cannot be disappointed in it." More lives have been saved by it, than by any other medicine;
you get an effective remedy while seeming to be using only a palatable food. Dr. G. C.
Shannon, of Canada, says:—"I shall continue its use with, I am sure, great advantage to my patients, and satisfaction to myself." It was made to cure and it sells because it cures. One bottle convinces. Effective from the first dose. Sold by chemists in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, North and South America.

Like the flight of the swiftest bird is the progress of a hacking cough into consumption. First a cold, then a settled cough, then slow fever, night sweats, and hemorrhages. Don't neglect your cough. Stop it at once and drive away all thought of consumption. Begin as early as possible—the sooner the better—to take the most effective remedy for coughs of every kind and in every stage.

One of the most annoying coughs is a throat cough, where you have that constant tickling in your throat. It comes on worse at night, keeps you awake, and makes you have that smothered feeling in the chest. It hardly seems possible what one dose of Cherry Pectoral will do for this kind of a cough, it brings such marked relief.

Put up in large and small bottles. When the cough gets down deep in the chest and the lungs are painful, put one of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plasters directly over the tender lung. It will draw out all the soreness.

THE FUNERAL OF MR. MCKINLEY

had prepared for the ordeal. She had rested quite well during the night but her pale face told plainly of her sufferings. Senator Hanna came, leaning heavily on his cane and it was painfully evident that he was suffering.

Major-General John R. Brooke was at the head of the line mounted on an splendid charger. Behind him came his aids, the red-coated Artillery Band, a squadron of cavalry, with red and white guidons limp in the air, a battery of field artillery with the men sitting straight and stiff as statues, a company of engineers, two battalions of Coast Artillery and a detachment of the Hospital Corps.

The funeral services at the Capitol over the remains of the late President McKinley were simple and beautiful. They were of the form prescribed in the Methodist church. Two hymns, a prayer, an address and a benediction comprised all of it.

At 10 o'clock the Cabinet entered and were seated to the south of the platform, and then, to the strains of "Nearer, My God to Thee," by the Marine Band outside, the casket was borne into the rotunda.

General Gillette and Colonel Bingham led the way and everyone arose. The guard of honor on either side separated and the casket was placed gently on the catafalque. Next came members of the family of the dead President. Abner McKinley leading. They were seated near the head of the casket.

Mrs. McKinley was not present. Senator Hanna was with the family party. Next the diplomatic corps entered, all in full court regalia, and were seated to the south. Former President Cleveland, with General Wilson, his escort, sat in the front row. Lastly came President Roosevelt, escorted by Captain Cowles and preceded by Cortelyou, secretary to the President. He was given a seat at the end of the row occupied by the Cabinet, just south of the casket.

When the noise occasioned by seating the late comers had ceased, a hush fell upon the people, and then the choir softly sang, "Lead, Kindly Light," Cardinal Neuman's anthem, while every one stood in reverence.

At the conclusion of the hymn Rev. Dr. Henry R. Naylor, presiding elder of the Washington district, Methodist Episcopal Church, delivered the invocation, while the distinguished company listened with bowed heads.

Following the invocation the hymn "Sometime We'll Understand" was sung. As soon as the hymn ceased Bishop Edwin Andrews of the Methodist Episcopal church, who had come from Ohio to say the last words over the remains of his lifelong friend and parishioner arose. He stood at the head of the casket and spoke in a sympathetic voice and with many evidences of deep emotion.

The address lasted only about a quarter of an hour. As the Bishop concluded every one in the vast rotunda rose and the choir, intoning the air, hundreds of voices joined in the grand old hymn, "Nearer, My God to Thee." In the midst of the singing, Admiral Robley Evans advanced and placed a beautiful blue floral cross at the foot of the casket.

The last notes died away softly and with uplifted hands, benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. H. Chapman, acting pastor of the Metropolitan Church. This ended the religious service.

There was a pause for a few minutes while the ushers cleared the aisles as the assemblage began to withdraw. The first to retire was President Roosevelt and as he entered the left, preceded a short distance by Major McCauley and Captain Gilmore, with Colonel Bingham and Captain Cowles almost pressing against him. The remainder of the company retired in the order in which they entered, the Cabinet members following the President and after them going the diplomatic corps, the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives, officers of the Army and Navy and officials of less degree.

As soon as the rotunda was cleared of those who had been invited to attend the religious services, the tier was prepared for the inspection of the general public. As the coffin rested upon the catafalque it was just about high enough to permit of easy inspection by adults. The crowd entered through the east main door of the Capitol and passed out through the west exit. The people came in double file, one line passing to the right and the other to the left of the casket. Only a hurried glance was permitted to any one, as it was announced that the ceremony would close promptly at 6:30 o'clock. The pressure from the outside was terrific.

Many women and children fainted and others were more or less hurt. The crowd consisted of men, women and children, and all ages and ages were represented. Many children were carried through the building in the arms of their parents.

Thirty minutes were required for the removal of the body from the Capitol to the train. The escort on this journey consisted of committees from the Army and Navy, and two squadrons of the Eleventh Cavalry. Twenty cars were required for the transportation of the funeral party to Canton. Tomorrow still another train will carry to Canton a large party of Senators and Representatives and others prominent in national life. The three sections into which the train was divided left at ten-minute intervals.

AT CANTON. CANTON, (O.), September 18.—The train bearing the remains of President McKinley arrived here at noon today. The journey from Washington was a repetition of the one from Buffalo. The casket was at once taken to the Court House where the remains lay in state the remainder of the day and were viewed by thousands of McKinley's fellow citizens.

CANTON, (O.), September 18.—As the dusk approached the coffin was again closed, and without any pomp or ceremony the remains were taken to the McKinley home. This was done at the express request of Mrs. McKinley. For one last night she wanted the body of her husband under the roof where they had spent so many happy years. At 10 o'clock the husband and lover, the devoted prop of the grief-stricken woman, was brought through the old familiar doors and into the drawing-room where Mrs. McKinley was waiting. For the last night he was not to be her martyred chief of a great people. Here he was simply the husband over whom the wife watched to mourn alone and apart from public life and public death.

CANTON, (O.), September 19.—At 1 o'clock this afternoon the casket was removed from the McKinley home to the First Methodist Church, where the last sad words were said over the remains of President McKinley. It was the simple, yet beautiful, service of that church, and there were few dry eyes in the crowded edifice.

It was after 2 o'clock when the quartet sang, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." When the sound of the last line had died away Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, in which President and Mrs.

THE FUNERAL OF M'KINLEY

McKinley were married thirty years ago, offered a fervent prayer. Every head within the church bent in solemn reverence as the invocation went up.

Dr. John A. Hall, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, then read from the Bible the Nineteenth Psalm, and Rev.
E. P. Herbuck verses 41-45 of the twenty-fifth chapter of First Corinthians.
The quartet then sang Cardinal Newman's grand hymn.

Dr. C. E. Manchester then delivered an address on the life of the late President and the lessons taught by his noble character and death.
Bishop I. W. Joyce of Minneapolis followed with a brief prayer and the services were concluded with the singing of the hymn which President Mc-Kinley repeated on his death-bed, "Nearer, My God, to Thee." The entire congregation arose and joined in the last stanza. Father Voltman of Chicago, chaplain of the Twenty-third Regiment, pronounced the benediction.
Then the notes of the organ again arose. The coffin was taken up and borne from the church. The relatives and those in official life went out in the order they had entered.

AT THE GRAVE.

At the grave Bishop Joyce of Minneapolis, read the burial service of the Methodist church slowly but in a voice that could be heard distinctly by all who were grouped about the vault. As his words ended, Colonel Bingham waved his hand to eight buglers of the Canton band, who had taken station upon the side of the mound above and to the south of the vault. Instantly, from the eight bugles rang out the notes of the soldiers' last call, "taps." It was beautifully done, and the last notes of the bugles died away so softly that all who heard it remained listening for a few seconds to hear if it was really ended.

In due time the casket will be taken from the vault and committed to the little plot of ground lying further on.
This is the McKinley lot, and here lie his father, whose name he bore, the mother he guarded so tenderly in life, his brother James, his sister Anna and his two children. And when that time comes a stately shaft of granite will arise above the grave, telling of the civic virtues, the pure life and death of William McKinley.

THE MARTYR'S LIFE.

President McKinley was born at Niles, Ohio, January 29, 1842. At the age of 8 years, the family removed to Poland, Ohio, where the future President attended the academy and, in fact, received the greater part of his education.
He left the academy at the age of 17 years to enter the Allegheny College in Meadville, Pa. His health broke down during the first year however and he was forced to leave. After his recovery he took charge of a school near Poland.
In June of 1861, he enlisted in the Twenty-third Ohio Infantry. The first commander of his regiment was William S. Rosecrans, who afterwards became the commander of the Union forces in the west. Rutherford B.
Hayes was later President of the United States became the commander of the regiment and young McKinley served for two years on his staff. Mc-Kinley served on the staff of General Crook and later on the staff of General Carroll and was mustered out of service in June, 1865.

Returning to the town of Poland he began the reading of law in the office of Charles E. Gilden. McKinley studied a year and a half and then took a course of lecture at the Albany Law school and was admitted to the bar in 1867. He chose Canton as his home and in 1869 was elected prosecuting attorney. He married Ida Saxton on January 25, 1871.
Two children were born of this marriage but both died at an early age, the mother being left an invalid.

In 1871 McKinley was defeated for re-election as district attorney. In 1878 and 1880 he was nominated by acclamation for Congress. He was unseated by Congress in 1882 but from then until 1890 he was repeatedly sent to Congress, where he soon came to be recognized as the leader of the Protectionists.

In 1891 he was elected Governor of Ohio and was twice re-elected by increased majorities. He was elected President of the United States in 1896 and 1900 and had been inaugurated only on March 4, of this year when his splendid career was cut down by the bullet of the assassin.

MRS. M'KINLEY BETTER.

CANTON, O., September 19.—The friends of Mrs. McKinley do not tonight regard her as being upon the verge of a collapse. On the contrary, they express themselves as quite confident that she will be spared to enjoy for a long time, at least in as good a state of health as she has enjoyed for the last five years.

NO EXTRA SESSION.

WASHINGTON, September 14.—It is not believed here that President Roosevelt will find it expedient or necessary to summon Congress to meet in special session. There is only a very meager sprinkling of Senators and members of the House of Representatives in Washington, but those here generally hold the opinion above expressed. Some even go to the extent of predicting that there will not be an extraordinary session of the Senate, though on this point there is a difference of opinion. The matter is entirely optional with the new President.

HE OWES HIS LIFE TO THE FORE- THOUGHT OF A COMPANION.

While on a camping trip in Webster county, Mr. S. I. Stump, of Norman-town, W. Va., had a severe attack of bloody flux. He says, "I firmly believe that I owe my life to the forethought of one of the company who had taken along a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy." Moral—Procure a bottle of this remedy before leaving home. It cannot be obtained when on a hunting, fishing or prospecting trip. Neither can it be obtained when on board the cars or steamship, and at such times and places it is most likely to be needed.
The safe way is to have it with you.
Thousands of travelers never leave home on a journey without it. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith, & Co., general agents, Hawaiian Islands.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

Molokai Matters and a Plumbing Question.

The Board of Health held a short meeting yesterday afternoon. Molokai matters took up most of the time. A number of petitions were received from persons anxious to go to the settlement to live with relatives there.

A tender was received from Ng Fawn to supply paid for the settlement. He offered to make a bond in the sum of $1,500 to keep the settlement supplied. His tender was referred to Superintendent Reynolds.

An offer was received from the Parker Ranch Company to supply 90 head of cattle per month at seven cents per pound, for the term from October 1 to June 30. The offer was unanimously accepted.

Plumbing Inspector Keene reported the case of a plumber who had refused to recognize his authority in disapproving the plans for some work to be done. The plumber was ready to take the matter into the courts and question the right of the Board's agent to prevent him doing his work in his own way. Keene was instructed to enforce the rules of the Board, and the matter may be tested in the courts.

Don't be Tormented by Mosquitoes. SKEET-GO. This small device is used over ordinary lamp chimneys, and a teaspoonful of powder will last an evening. It possesses so many valuable features that once used you will never be without a Skeet-Go. They are smokeless, and produces an agreeable odor from a powder which many prefer owing to its objectionable smoke, injuring the eyes and lungs. All the bad features from burning powder are removed. It is twice as effective as using the powder in the old way. Get one and spend a pleasant evening without the buzz of these flying tormentors. Price $1. Hobron Drug Co. FORT & KING.

Shirt Waist Collars Style and Comfort Combined. BE ADVISED AND TRY ONE! "My dear," said the groom, "Why do you insist on turning in the neck of your shirt waist like that? It isn't at all artistic." "Because, John, its so hot here," said the bride, "And, besides, low neck is all the style in the East now." Two good reasons; true ones, too; but we wonder if that bride had been introduced to the SHIRT WAIST COLLAR. Made of dainty laces and ribbons it can be worn with any shirt waist, adding prettily to the appearance of that garment, and taking away the unfinished look which it has when the neck band is merely folded in. They don't cost much either. A quarter will enable you to try the experiment. WHITNEY & MARSH, LTD
