WATER SLUGS.

Uncanny Things that Come Through the City Mains and Taps.

This morning a slug nearly two inches long by an inch wide was sent to Professor Koehle for identification. It came through a water pipe. The specimen is a mole brown with a white streak beneath the body. Its general make-up suggests the leech, but it is much larger and wider. It is provided with a small mouth and suckers.

Professor Koehle says that several slugs have been sent to him lately, and it appears that they are becoming quite numerous in the valley reservoirs. They are harmless little creatures in the ordinary sense, but would be apt to make one feel very uncomfortable to see one in a glass of water.

NAVAL PROMOTION.

Promotion in the British navy is entirely by selection, and twice a year the list is carefully scanned by the service to ascertain who were the lucky ones. Last July five officers were advanced to the rank of captain, 17 to commanders and 24 to lieutenants. One of the new commanders is 40 and another only 33 years of age. In the United States navy promotion is made by seniority, by which many excellent officers remain stationary in one grade for many years. The youngest officers in the several grades in the line division in the United States navy are: Rear-admiral, 60; commodore, 57; captain, 50; commander, 48; lieutenant-commander, 46; lieutenant, 35. In the latter grade the ages of the first 150 range from 40 to 48 years.

DARE STILL ELOQUENT.

GREENVILLE, Sept. 29.—John T. Dare of San Francisco, at one time attorney general of the Hawaiian islands, addressed a large and enthusiastic gathering of Republicans of this valley at Taylorsville last night on the political issues of the day. A large delegation from this place, accompanied by the Greenville band, and also a delegation from Crescent Mills were in attendance. The address lasted about two hours and was frequently applauded. The meeting closed with cheers for the speaker and McKinley.

U. S. PENSIONS.

The pension list of the United States is still wonderfully large. The number of names on the list amounts to nearly a million. The actual number of the recipients of the nation's bounty was for the year ending June 30, 1896, 970,678, and this multitude receive in the aggregate $138,214,761.

Photograph Gallery

T. P. Severin has taken the photograph gallery opposite Love's bakery on Nuuanu avenue, where he will enter immediately into the work of taking pictures. Mr. Severin has had years of experience at this branch and has always met with success in it.

WHICH?

The business man is often perplexed in deciding on which make of typewriter to get. They all claim to be the "best." Which machine really is the best?

The Peerless is a modern typewriter. It is right "up-to-now." Strong, handsome, durable. Easy to operate and its work is excellent. It is the business man's best friend. There's no question about the Peerless being the best typewriter. Examination will prove it. Price $100.

AN HISTORICAL CANVAS

LE BRETON'S CONCEPTION OF BATTLE OF NUUANU.

Large Painting Now on Exhibition—Army of Kamehameha—Alexander's History Gave the Theme.

In the window of the Pacific Hardware Company was displayed this morning the large historical painting by Le Breton of the battle of Nuuanu, the downfall of Kaiana and the conquest of Oahu, the last of the eight islands to that time not under the rule of Kamehameha. The painting is very large and shows the whole battle ground. Of the painting Mr. Le Breton wrote at the time it was executed, as follows:

"Alexander, in his history of Hawaii, says: 'Kamehameha at this time was sixty-two years of age. Kamehameha saw that the time had now come to conquer the leeward islands. He ordered a levy of all the fighting men and war canoes of Hawaii. He had sixteen foreigners in his service, of whom, Young, Davis and one Peter Anderson had charge of his canoes. Of late years there had been a growing jealousy and suspicion between the four old Kona chiefs and the turbulent Kaiana. As he was not invited to a council of war held at Kannaakakai he concluded that his ruin or death had been determined upon. Accordingly, during the voyage to Oahu he and his brother, Nahiola, separated from the main fleet with their followers and landed at Koolau, whence they crossed to Nuuanu and joined Kalanikapu. Kamehameha marched up Nuuanu where Kalanikapu had posted his forces. The Oahu troops made a brave resistance until Kaiana was killed by a cannon ball, when they gave way. They were closely pursued up the valley, some escaping up the ridges on either side, while others were hemmed in and driven over Nuuanu Pass. Kalanikapu for several months wandered in the Koolau mountains, until he was captured above Waipio, brought down and offered in sacrifice to the conquerors war god at Moanalua. April 1795.'

"This is the subject I worked on." With it too he has left a description of the picture, which indicates clearly the principal figures in it and the relative positions of the various forces. This is in the artist's own handwriting and is as follows:

"THE DEATH OF KAIANA IN NUUANU 1795.

In the center stands Kamehameha and the Kona chiefs, Kaiana the high chief lies on the rank grasses, his head resting upon his wife's breast, who has followed him in battle. At her side kneels Kamehameha's queen, Kahumahu, who defends Kaiana against the charges of desertion and treachery.

"The dead belong to Kalanikapu's army. The wounded white man is one of the sixteen foreigners in Kamehameha's services.

"John Young, cutlass in hand, stands in the center of the group, urging his fellows to renewed action and victory, while Kamehameha's native troops arriving, some crossing a mountain running stream in the attempt to capture the Oahu king and chiefs as they stand rallying their fleeing forces.

LE BRETON."

Le Breton is a French artist and writer, who has been on a visit to the Islands during the present summer. He was stopping with Mr. F. Holmes at Lahaina when the work was done. In a private letter to a friend here he apologizes for the ohia trees in the background, which, he says, are necessary, however, to clearly set off the distances. Crowds of natives have viewed the picture during the day.

JAPANESE NAVY.

At the Nagasaki dockyard Japan has three vessels in course of construction of 1800, 2000 and 7000 tons, most of the material of which is sent out from England. A second dock 371 feet in length will be opened shortly. During 1895 there were 171 vessels-of-war and 198 merchant vessels docked at Nagasaki, which indicates very lively times along the water front and in the dockyard.

A NOTED NATIVE GONE

HEART DISEASE CAUSES THE DEATH OF DAVID W. PUA.

A Prominent Man Among His People—Once a Member of the House of Nobles—Estate and Family.

David W. Pua died suddenly during last night at his residence in Palama of heart disease. He retired feeling well and in good spirits. Shortly after midnight it was discovered that he was dead.

Mr. Pua was born on the island of Nihaun sixty years ago, though he has lived about a half of that time in Honolulu. When in his prime he was a noted swimmer. He was one of the few who could cross the channel from Nihaun to Kaimuki. He is said to have accomplished this feat several times.

Mr. Pua was a fisherman until a few years ago, when he branched out more into real estate. He amassed considerable property on this island, on Mokolai and on Kaula. All his life he has borne the reputation of being a very hard worker and a good business manager.

In 1887 he, for the first time, entered politics and in 1890 was elected a member of the house of Nobles for two terms. He retired with the Legislature of 1892 at the overthrow of the Monarchy in January 1893. Since then he has lived a quiet life, attending strictly to his private affairs.

Mr. Pua was a member of the Aloha Aina and other native societies. His funeral will be conducted under those auspices from the residence at 3:30 this afternoon. Ed A. Williams will have charge. Mr. Pua leaves several children and grandchildren. His father also survives him.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

The American League will hold its regular weekly meeting at 8 o'clock this evening. A number of new members will be initiated. In honor of the occasion there will be a sort of celebration. Refreshments will be served. A large turnout of members is expected.

MILITARY BAND.

A Plan to Perfect the Composition of the First Regiment.

Several gentlemen who are interested in the welfare of the First Regiment, N. G. H., to the point of enthusiasm have decided that the eight companies shall have a strictly military band. The Legislature refused to attach the Government band to the Army. Professor Berger and his players are reserved for concerts, with military duty as a concession or extra. It is now proposed to have a regulation army musical corps, well drilled, rendering marches perfectly and constantly at the service of the command. At first it was talked that such an organization might be made by the selection of amateur musicians from the various commands. This idea will probably be followed to a certain extent, but no expense will be spared to secure a band that will be a credit to the Regiment. The leader will be imported. There has been correspondence already with men at the Coast and in the East. A young and capable man at this time the leader of a military band in New Jersey has made a proposition that may be accepted. He will come upon a guarantee of three years and he furnishes references that insure satisfaction on his part. His entire time will be devoted to his military duties. The Government will be asked to assist a trifle in this matter, but most of the expense will be borne by private subscription.

AN ELECTRIC STEVEDORE.

The latest invention in labor-saving machinery is the electric stevedore. This is a movable conveyor for loading a ship with flour or grain from an ordinary wharf. Its length is forty feet two wheels in the center allowing it to be moved at will. The actuating power is electricity. The revolving belt, on which the sacks are placed, is of rubber, and passes over twelve rollers. It revolves at such a speed as to carry all the weight in flour or grain that can be placed upon it. This apparatus recently loaded a steamer with 3,000 tons of flour at the rate of seventy-five tons per hour.

STRAW HATS.

A special line of straw hats for both ladies and gents is displayed at Iwakami's, on Hotel street. The prices range anywhere from 25c to $5.00.

IN THE HIGHER COURTS

A NICE LITTLE STORY FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

The Warlike Natives Had Never Seen a Chinaman—Spared a Captive—Was Perhaps a Kahuna.

John Chinaman, writes the South African correspondent of a London paper, has penetrated even to the heart of Matabeleland. At least there is one adventurous Chinese who reached there, and who now owes his life to this pig-tail and the quaint, personal peculiarities of his race. He was on his way to a certain mining district to act as cook, etc., to some prospectors when the present disturbance began. Poor "Pigtail" found that to continue his journey or to return would be equally risky, but he decided on the latter plan. He had passed the remains of many murdered whites lying along the road, when he was overtaken by some ten or twelve Matabele bloods on murder bent, and armed in various ways. On reaching him and finding that he was not a "Meoongar," or white man, they consulted among themselves, and finally, after chafing around the Celestial one, in a hesitating manner they drew nearer, and, with respectful awe, touched him, to make sure that he was in reality flesh and blood. He was certainly neither a Cape half-breed Hottentot, nor anything else they had ever seen; so, after an exchange of compliments, carried on in best Matabele and Chinese respectively, they withdrew, probably thinking he was a powerful English "witch-doctor," who might have annihilated them by some mystic process. Poor frightened "Pigtail" was overtaken by a small armed party of fugitives, who, with the assistance of an Indian coolie, hailing from Natal, where our hero had also sojourned, extracted from his quaking lips the particulars of his escape. They had themselves been attacked by the same band of Matabele. However, a triumphal entry into Bulawayo was finally accomplished.

From the District Court—Matter of More Wharf Space—Report Filed—Jury Waived—In Chambers.

In the matter of Jonathan Spooner vs. Julia S. Rice and Wm. B. Rice, defendants have filed an answer denying all of the allegations in the complaint set forth and giving notice of their intention to rely upon illegality, release and payment as their defense. Jury is waived in the cause, the same to be heard in vacation after the return of Attorney W. A. Kinney from the Coast, which will be in December.

The case of C. B. Maile, et al. vs. Chin Wo Co., et al., has been, by stipulation, continued for the term. This cause will also be heard in vacation after the return of Mr. Kinney.

In the ejectment case of Henry Smith vs. the Hutchinson Plantation Company, a general denial has been filed and the cause is set for hearing in vacation after the November term.

The following appeals from the District Magistrate of Honolulu to the November term have been perfected: Lee Hong vs. Alex. Kahoalii, damages, judgment for plaintiff for $10; Republic vs. W. R. Johnson, drunk, fined $3; Republic vs. Ah Son, che fa tickets in possession, three months; Republic vs. Ah Chong, maintaining a lottery, three months; Republic vs. Ah Hay, cruelty to animals, five days; Republic vs. Chang You, che fa tickets, $50 fine; Republic vs. G. W. Clark, violating act 26, one month; Republic vs. J. S. Houghtailing, liquor, $300 fine; Republic vs. Yosida and Kurutawa, maintaining lottery, two months each; Republic vs. Maka (w), vulgar language, fined $40.

In the matter of J. A. King, minister of Interior vs. Charles B. Bishop, et al., action for the condemnation of land below the old fishmarket for wharf purposes, defendants Sarah J. Emmes, Margaret Ann Robertson and Eliza Emily Cassidy, have filed an answer, to plaintiffs' declaration, offering to accept $3000.

Ah Heong was given three months on the reef for vagrancy.

Arrests today were a native for the larceny of a coat, three for investigation and two Chinese for having che fa tickets in possession.

The Houghtailing case will come up in the District Court tomorrow.

EARTHQUAKE INDICATOR.

Important Invention of a Honolulu Rising Young Scientist.

Charles Ramsay, who is a bit of a genius, as well as an Edwin Booth or two, has invented an earthquake indicator. It is a pendulum arrangement which moves on a smoked glass. When shaken by a force seismic (or animal) the needle moves over the smoked surface and describes a line which corresponds in length to the violence of the shock. By a careful geometric calculation the per cent of violence is reached. The invention will be patented at Washington, London and Launapohoe.

MISSIONARY WEDDING.

(Japan Gazette.) A numerously attended marriage ceremony took place today at 12 o'clock at the Yokohama Union church. Rev. Henry Loomis officiated assisted by Rev. Jas. H. Ballagh, both of Yokohama. The groom was Dr. Jas. Hunter Wells, formerly of Portland, Oregon, U. S. A., a missionary physician of the Presbyterian Board of Mission at Gensan, Corea. The bride was Miss Sarah Lulu Ribble, of the United States, recently arrived by the steamship Rio Janeiro. Mr. Johnson, of Los Angeles, California, now a guest at the Grand Hotel, gave away the bride. Mr. Isabella Bird Bishop was among the guests.

FUNERAL OF MISS LYLE.

The funeral of the late Miss Deborah N. Lyle took place from the family residence, Spencer street, Monday afternoon. A large number of friends were in attendance. Rev. D. P. Birnie conducted the services. The choir of Central Union church was present and sang several hymns. Many beautiful floral remembrances were sent in. The remains were interred in Makiki cemetery.

BLASTING.

Heavy blasting is being done on the site of the new Iryia block, Nuuanu street. This forenoon a gentleman who is a trifle near sighted, happened to pass. He did not see the danger flag and was directly in front when two tremendous charges went off. Fortunately he escaped being hit in the shower of missiles hurled in every direction.

FURTHER DELAY.

Rebellion on the Sugar Ship Troop Holds Her Here Yet.

The ship Troop will not likely get away until Thursday. It has been decided that the second mate, who is the means of all the trouble, must stay aboard of her. He is, by the way, the man who was the center of the rumpus on the Iryia Brewer a year or two ago. Capt. Fritz has done everything in his power to preserve order on his vessel. The present trouble will cost him nearly $200. He has conceded at every point in the interest of peace and the reputation of the ship, but has had a hard crowd to deal with.

Early this morning Capt. Harry Evans and Capt. Bob Andrews took out the four new men who have shipped on the Troop and also the twelve natives who were engaged Monday to bend the sails. The rebellious crew are still in irons and will not be released until the vessel is clear of the islands.

UNION MEETING.

There will be a Union meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at 6:30 Sunday evening of the Association, the Y. P. S. C. E. of Central Union church, Epworth League of the M. E. church and Young People's Society of the Christian church. A part of the program will be five-minute talks by the presidents of all the societies named. The meeting will last about forty-five minutes.

GET YOUR STRENGTH BACK.

We all like to be strong. We like to feel our muscles creeping under the skin, as though they wanted us to call them to act and to work. But what is strength? What creates it? Let us try to get at that. In five words, strength comes from digested food. When this vital process is retarded what should you expect to follow? Why weakness, to be sure, and by and by Asthma, Torpid Liver, Deranged Nerves, Sleeplessness, Loss of Flesh, Mental Dependency, then a Hacking Cough and, very likely either a slow Consumption that may make you miserable for years, or a quick one that will send you to the churchyard in six weeks. That's how strength goes and what happens afterwards. If there is any power in the world to help in such cases (alas, how common!) it is Wampole's Preparation made from Fresh Livers containing the active medicinal principles of Cod Liver Oil rendered tasteless and odorless, the Hypophosphites, and Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry Bark. It is a medicine made in the light of modern science, with all experience to go by. It has no rival; its merit is wholly its own. It is in every sense—good. Give results from first dose. Sold by druggists.

Bubbles or Medals.

"Best sarsaparillas." When you think of it how contradictory that term is. For there can be only one best in anything—one best sarsaparilla, as there is one highest mountain, one longest river, one deepest ocean. And that best sarsaparilla is—? ... There's the rub! You can measure mountain height and ocean depth, but how test sarsaparilla? You could if you were chemists. But then do you need to test it? The World's Fair Committee tested it,—and thoroughly. They went behind the label on the bottle. What did this sarsaparilla test result in? Every make of sarsaparilla shut out of the Fair, except Ayer's. So it was that Ayer's was the only sarsaparilla admitted to the World's Fair. The committee found it the best. They had no room for anything that was not the best. And as the best, Ayer's Sarsaparilla received the medal and awards due its merits. Remember the word "best" is a bubble any breath can blow; but there are pins to prick such bubbles. Those others are blowing more "best sarsaparilla" bubbles since the World's Fair pricked the old ones. True, but Ayer's Sarsaparilla has the medal. The pin that scratches the medal proves it gold. The pin that pricks the bubble proves it wind. We point to medals, not bubbles, when we say: The best sarsaparilla is Ayer's.

FOR FOREIGN FOOTBALL PLAN TO TAKE A HAWAIIAN TEAM TO THE COAST.

The Scheme Seems Entirely Practicable—Big Audiences in Sight—Local Men Must Work Hard.

A matter of a dozen active foot ball players met at the Y. M. C. A. at 7:30 Monday evening and had a sort of lobby discussion of the project to take a team to San Francisco. Mr. G. H. Robinson, a visitor, who suggests the scheme, was present. The general consensus of opinion seemed to be in favor of the trip, though innumerable details first to be arranged presented themselves.

Mr. Robinson's idea is to leave Honolulu with twenty men on December 12, play Christmas and New Year's Day and be back in six weeks. One of the games would be with the Olympics and the other with the Reliance Club. It is calculated that if the weather is fine 12,000 people will see each game. The Honolulu will try to get sixty per cent of the gate receipts.

Mr. Robinson knows the Coast clubs and agrees with Mr. J. Q. Wood that the Honolulu can, in practice, play enough at the Coast to keep themselves warm. Some of the best material in the country is outside of the organized teams altogether and would have to go in training at once. Crane could not go to the Coast, and Mr. Wood would only go as coach. Very strong men who are already in sight are: Cupid, Dayton, Kupihea, Taft, Waterhouse, Johnson, Andrade and others.

The team for the Coast will be organized at once and put into active training. Not much can be done in the way of playing together until after the season is over. Excursion rates will be given by the steamship company, which will reduce expenses. At the Coast an effort will be made to get three games in San Francisco and one in some other city.

LONDON ASSESSMENTS.

The rateable value of London has increased during the last five years by two and three-quarters millions, making a total of nearly $180,000,000. While the rate remains the same the London County Council will get $500,000 more than last year, the London School Board $400,000, the police $300,000 and the water companies $325,000.

A Fool and His Money.

A Washington correspondent of the Philadelphia Times reports the tragical adventures—tragic and comical—of an Ohio miser, one of those belated simpletons who have no faith in savings banks and hoard their money in an old stocking or in some other equally secure receptacle. This man buried his treasure in the ground.

Some time afterward he dug it up to look at it, and to his dismay found that the notes had begun to decompose and were already almost beyond recognition. In great alarm he emptied the mass—almost $20,000—out of the glass jar into a pillow case, fastened that about his body next to the skin, and started for Washington.

There he presented himself at the treasury, and after some delay, caused by his unwillingness to trust the treasure in any one else's hands, the stuff was turned over to the ladies of the redemption division, who finally succeeded in identifying about $19,000, or all but about $400 of the full amount.

Payment was offered the man in the form of a draft, but he would have nothing to do with drafts. He wanted the bills, and of course they were paid him.

It seems that he felt really grateful to the ladies who had done the work of identification, for he sent them the next day a newspaper full of grapes, together with the following original poem:

Since the ladies are skillfully at work
Counting the money,
Wish to say to them truly I am none
So much any one else's honey.
Performing so laborious a feat,
Will kindly accept a few grapes to eat.

It is said that he was afterward robbed of the whole $19,000.

PUNISHMENT OF JOCKEYS.

A Racing Man Points Out the Necessity of It.

In criticizing the unfair methods of certain successful jockeys a writer for the New York Journal pertinently says: "The crack rider gets 'picked' mounts. The horse he rides is always one of the dangerous division, and naturally every move he makes while at the post gives a cue to the other jockeys. The result is a serious handicap for the starter."

"It starts where a machine is used they can make most of this inclination of the lesser lights to follow a leader. They will take a horse back several lengths and bring him up running. The others see him coming and break. The starter orders the barrier lifted, sees all in motion and naturally drops his flag. The start which to him appears to be good brings howls of disapproval from the crowd, for when the horses are settled into their strides the field is badly strung out, with the 'star,' thanks to his running send off, lengths to the good. This is an everyday happening, and unless punishment is meted out things will go from bad to worse."

"In other cases we see good starts spoiled by the refusal of these crack riders to take a little the worst of it. They must have the best of it or they refuse to break. This sort of thing makes good work on the part of the starter almost impossible, and yet when he attempts to check it by punishing a public favorite he is abused in all quarters."

"How is this to be remedied, unless the offenders are punished? To request their help at the post is a waste of words. To threaten punishment is equally fruitless. The one way to end the trouble is to put the offenders on the ground and keep them there."

"Fining has been tried repeatedly, but this brings no relief, for owners, in order to secure the service of some favorite rider, pay the tax, thus killing the sting of the penalty."

"A firm stand is necessary. Suspend the offenders, no matter what their connections or how great the need of their services, even if it be necessary to have all the 'stars' on the ground at the same time."

"A lesson of this sort would be a telling one, and in the end would have the desired result."

BASEBALL BREVITIES.

Zimmer has had but three passed balls this season.

Rhines is the only Cincinnati pitcher who wears a glove.

Standish has been pitching nice ball for Fall River, Mass.

Breitenstein is a sprinter. He can run under 11 seconds.

Bill Lange will spend the winter at his home in California.

LaJoie is rapidly overhauling the League's heaviest batsmen.

"Pop" Anson's Colts are within striking distance of second place.

Fred Pfeffer thinks that the Chicagos will finish ahead of Cleveland.

Billy Hart of the Browns wants to be an umpire when his pitching days are over.

Billy Barnie says he will make at least $6,000 out of the Hartford club this season.

Con Dailey says his health is improving and that he will be in condition to play next season.

More tie games have been played at Chicago than in any other city in the country this year.

St. Louis has signed a second baseman of the name of Steinfeldt. He comes from the Texas league.

Anson claims that he owes his strength as a batsman to the training that his eye received in billiards.

Tony Mullane may wear a National League uniform next year. He is anxious to get back into his old company.

Stivett's of the Bostons is going to take a team of Boston players on a barnstorming tour through Pennsylvania this fall.

In 1890 Joyce and Van Haltren played with the Brooklyn Players' league team, and now, six years after, they are with New York.

It can be stated on excellent authority that if the Baltimore play the Cincinnati for the Temple cup and win Von der Horst and Hanlon will take the champions to Europe.

An Athletic Swimmer.

Few athletes have attained the prominence of a national reputation in so short a time as Bertram A. Hart, who won the championship of America in the one mile swimming race at Wayne, Pa., near Philadelphia, recently. Before the championship events at Wayne, Hart was little known, excepting in certain parts of the west, although those who knew him or had seen him perform in the water realized he had a great aquatic future before him. Hart was born in London in 1870 and took to swimming naturally at an early age. He showed such good form when 19 years old that he was entered in the half mile race for the championship of England. He was not fast enough to finish better than fourth, however, in a large field. That was considered an excellent performance for so young a man. He uses a long overhand stroke in his races, and during a stroke his entire body and head are submerged. He obtains breath by bringing his head out of the water at the completion of the powerful kick with the legs. His endurance is marvelous.

Wonderful Wefers.

Bernard J. Wefers of Georgetown university has certainly proved himself to be the most remarkable amateur short distance runner of the present decade. On a single day recently he won a 100 yards race, ran a special 300 yards match with Thomas E. Burke, the international champion quarter mile runner, beating him easily, and subsequently ran an exhibition 300 yards in world's record time.—Exchange.

It must not be forgotten at any time by the local athletes that Pacific Coast football is a somewhat speedier game than has so far been the local article.

The growth of commerce in the Pacific, which is proceeding by leaps and bounds, with the port of Honolulu as the "cross roads," should mean, if it signifies anything at all, that at no distant day it will be found an engaging enterprise to provide at this point facilities for docking and repairing the very largest and heaviest of the ships in the booming trade.

The Government might make some sort of a treaty or further agreement with the Oceanic and Pacific Mail Steamship companies against the long waits for mail. There ought to be some way of devising against the exasperating condition or situation of having foreign mail two or three days in succession and then no news for over a fortnight.

For Oahu it was a luckless day when the Japanese beetle plague came to destroy the roses. The queen of flowers is sadly missed. To date all efforts to root her enemy have been of but little avail.

It will be on Thursday evening of this week and at the Y. M. C. A. hall that a scholar of this city well equipped for the task, will deliver a brief lecture upon the subject of gold and silver as money.

Than the post of Circuit Judge for the Island of Hawaii, there are very few more important chairs within the gift of the Government.

The public will expect the new park on the Ewa bank of Nuuanu stream, right in the heart of town, to be ahead of any present pleasure ground.

The Star is told that the face of Mr. Thurston will remain upon the new special postage stamp because it is proper policy to honor a useful and faithful man before he is dead.

and such an array of good reasoning against it that The Star cannot believe it will stand.

While the people of the United States, and the press more than the public, find attention now for little else than the campaign in progress, the element of the new order here can be assured that the visit to the Great Republic of the Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs, will not be without political profit to the Islands.

It was a subject for remark at a meeting of the officers of the First Regiment, N. G. H., that but very few of the men of the entire command were seeking employment.

CHURCH GOING.

"If there is any decline in church going in certain places, either on this side the Atlantic or on the other, it must be attributed to the want of religious training in families," says the "Churchman" (P. E.).

SUPPOSED TO BE FUNNY.

Some one says that liquor strengthens the voice. That is a mistake. It only makes the breath strong.

Agent—Hurt yourself much? Scorer—Oh, no; got off pretty easy. Eye discolored; wrist fractured, kneecap dislocated, ribs jumbled up a bit and wonderfully clean out on the scalp.

Agent—Humph! Lucky dog!

Where the Orleans Princes Lie. The Chapel of Dreux, in which the Duc de Nemours has been buried, has a specially sad interest for the Orleans family.

In 1816 the Dowager Duchesse d'Orleans laid the first stone of the new chapel, and the crypt was barely finished when the 2-year-old child of Louis Philippe, Mlle. de Montpensier, was buried in it.

The royal tombs at Dreux are about 38 in number, and the most remarkable is that of the Duchesse d'Orleans, Helena of Mecklenburg, mother of the Comte de Paris, who, being a Protestant, is separated in death from the rest of the family by a grille.

Hawaiian Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest, safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu was rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks." This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light. Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want. We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers.

PLANTATION FEVER. Fever has again appeared at Spreckelsville, Maui. There were a number of cases last week among the laborers. The cause of the sickness is thought to be the condition of the deflating water and also the upturning of new dirt in plowing.

THE WHEEL'S FUTURE.

Isaac B. Potter Thinks the Limit of Development Has Nearly Been Reached.

The bicycle has changed many times in its form, and always for the better. Each form has taken on its multitude of improvements, and no part of the modern wheel has escaped the ingenuity of the mechanic in his aim to secure better material, stronger connections, lighter weight, greater speed, grace of design and comfort to the rider. Every day is a day of new records and of the revelation of new possibilities. Four hundred and odd miles for a single day, 30 miles in an hour, 109 miles in 3 hours and 47 minutes, a single mile in 1 minute and—but a statement of the records here would be true only for the week in which it was written.

Six years ago one of the best informed and most progressive of our cycling authorities, Mr. E. P. Prial, editor of The Wheel, mentioned the drawbacks of the pneumatic tire as being "its large size and the necessity of replenishing the air to keep it properly distended." He advised that the ideal safety should not be geared too high, but only to 54 or 57 inches, "except in the case of strong riders." The gearing of the man's wheel of 1896 is from 63 inches upward, a gearing of 70 inches being about the average, and 80 not at all uncommon, while the woman's wheel of today when geared at 60 is easily propelled by new and inexperienced riders. Saddles, tires, frames, bearings, handle bars, cranks, spokes and rims have been lightened, simplified, improved, and from year to year made to displace the cruder product of the year before.

Where is the limit? No man can tell. But so far as it relates to the common pedomotive bicycle of today, the practical limit would seem to be not far distant. A year or two hence will probably witness the introduction of a practical motor bicycle and the more general adoption of motor carriages in certain parts of the country where the roads have been improved. Meanwhile the bicycle now in common use will hold its way with such improvements in detail and perhaps in form as will add to its usefulness and to the comfort, convenience and security of the rider.—Isaac B. Potter in Century.

THE WHIRLING WHEEL.

The Welsh name for cycle is "ceffel haulun," which, being literally translated, means "the iron horse."

Charlotte Smith, who says bicycling is degrading to woman, weighs about 200 pounds and is therefore about half right.

If the searcher believes in appropriate costuming for his deadly work, surely a blazer should find a prominent place in his wardrobe.

There never was a dealer who found it difficult to be generous to a fault—when the fault happened to be in the wheel he was selling.

The most uncomfortable man in the world to get along with is he who will not acknowledge that you know more about a wheel than he does.

It is said that one of the causes of Linton's untimely death was that he was in the habit of taking arsenic to sustain him in his long races.

A barber and a farmer in Kansas have bet five gallons of buttermilk and a hair cut on a road race which is shortly to take place between them. It is this gambling that is ruining racing.

There are real amateurs yet. Italy proves this in the person of one Turiolato, who, while he races for money, turns the amount of his winnings over to charity. So far this year Turiolato has thus given away $2,000.—Wheel.

Mr. J. K. Fowler, secretary and treasurer of the Corinne Mill, Canal and Stock Co., of Corinne, Utah, in speaking of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy says: "I consider it the best in the market. I have used many kinds but find Chamberlain's the most prompt and effectual in giving relief, and now keep no other in my home." When troubled with a cough or cold give this remedy a trial and we assure you that you will be more than pleased with the result. For sale by all druggists and dealers. Cures Talk

"Cures talk" in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as for no other medicine. Its great cures recorded in truthful, convincing language of grateful men and women, constitute its most effective advertising. Many of these cures are marvelous. They have won the confidence of the people; have given Hood's Sarsaparilla the largest sales in the world, and have made necessary for its manufacture the greatest laboratory on earth. Hood's Sarsaparilla is known by the cures it has made—cures of scrofula, salt rheum and eczema, cures of rheumatism, neuralgia and weak nerves, cures of dyspepsia, liver and kidney troubles, catarrh and malaria.

Such Cures as This Prove Merit. "My little nephew was a plump and healthy baby until a year and a half old, then sores broke out behind his ears and spread rapidly over his head, hands and body. A physician said the trouble was scrofula humor in the blood. The child became one complete sore. We had to restrain his hands to keep him from scratching the sores. We were induced to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and in a short time he had more life. He improved rapidly, his skin became entirely clear of sores and he is now a healthy child." MRS. FLORENCE ANDREWS, Clearfield, Iowa.

WITH THE FIRST REGIMENT

COMPANY H WILL PUT A SHOOTING TEAM TO THE FRONT.

Candidates for the Polling to Be Held Early Next Month—Some Close Contests—Regimental Hop Soon.

There was a fair turnout of Company H for business meeting Monday evening. In the absence of Capt. Murray, Lieut. Wolter presided very creditably.

The orders published Monday for elections to be held early in November has set matters in the volunteer companies agog. In company A the candidates for first lieutenant are, so far, Lieut. Fetter and Corp. Schmeden.

At a meeting to be held next Monday evening the first team of Company H will accept the challenge of the D "sawed-offs" for a match to be shot at Kakaako butts Saturday week.

At a meeting of officers, Col. McLean presiding, it was decided that an invitation regimental hop should be given before November 1.

A BICYCLE PUZZLE.

"Have you been riding my wheel?" Mrs. Harris looked her husband straight in the eyes, but that gentleman returned the inquisitive and defiant glare of his better half with perfect composure.

"No, my dear, I have not been riding your wheel," said Mr. Harris calmly. "I have enough trouble with my own and have no ambition to become familiar with any other. Why do you ask?"

"Well, it is curious," remarked that good woman, still somewhat suspicious. "If you have not been using it, I am sure I don't know who has."

"What's the matter with your precious wheel?" asked Mr. Harris. "Busted again, I suppose? You have more trouble with that bike than I do with my money."

"The last time I went riding my cyclometer registered 237 miles," said Mrs. Harris. "Look at it now! The cyclometer says 261 miles. Some one has ridden that wheel 24 miles. Why, John, you were with me the last time. You remember that we rode 15 miles, and that you looked at the cyclometer when we arrived home."

"That's right," said Mr. Harris after a moment's thought. "I remember that it showed 237 and remarked that you had to ride only 13 miles to reach the 250 mark. Probably one of the children has been amusing himself by revolving that front wheel."

But Mrs. Harris dismissed that theory with scorn. The children knew better than to touch the wheel. Mr. Harris smoked in silence for a few minutes and was deep in thought.

"How about that new hired girl of yours?" asked Mr. Harris. "Do you know whether she rides a wheel or not?"

"What a question!" exclaimed Mrs. Harris. "You don't suppose for a moment that May would dare ride my wheel?"

May was the new servant girl. Mr. Harris had no opinion to offer on that proposition and closed the incident for the day by remarking that he knew nothing about the mysterious record of the cyclometer and suggested that perhaps the ghost of a former tenant, now dead, might have taken a night spin.

The mystery deepened the following day. When Mrs. Harris looked at her wheel, the cyclometer registered 278 miles, an increase of 17 miles over the preceding day. More than that, Mr. Harris' bicycle lamp was on the mysterious wheel. Upon investigation it was found that Mr. Harris' lamp had been transferred to the other wheel, and that it was in a badly damaged condition.

"This beats anything I ever heard of," said Mrs. Harris. "Do you suppose May would dare to take this wheel out after we have retired? She told me today that she was afraid to go out on the streets after dark. She asked me to go out on the back porch with her, as she was afraid to go alone."

"That looks suspicious," mused Mr. Harris. Miss Olive contributed a clue. Miss Olive is about 9 years old and has but one ambition—to own a bicycle.

"May said to me today," said Miss Olive, "that she wished it would stop raining, as she wanted to go out on her wheel. Then she laughed and laughed as hard as she could."

"I'll make her laugh if I catch her with my wheel," said Mr. Harris. "We will try tonight. Do not say a word, and we will solve this bicycle puzzle."

The erratic wheel occupied a room adjoining that of Mrs. Harris, and the connecting door was always open. All that afternoon the lady of the house was in a frenzy of excitement. May went demurely about her work. There was never a more bashful, retiring servant girl than May, with her timid blue eyes and abashed manners. The more Mrs. Harris studied the girl the more she became convinced that the suspicions of her husband were unfounded. When John came home, Mrs. Harris told him it was a shame to suspect the poor girl.

"That's all right," said the heartless man of the house. "This bicycle mania does queer things. Let me alone, and I will straighten this thing out."

About 9 o'clock that night Mr. Harris fastened a black silk thread to the frame of the wheel, unwound about 30 feet of it and tied the other end to a large tin pail, which he balanced carefully on the upper edge of a picture frame. He surveyed this trap with great satisfaction.

"I have given her enough rope, so that she will be half way down the hall before the pail falls," exclaimed Mr. Harris. "We will turn down the gas, pretend to retire and await developments."

Mrs. Harris was in a tremble of excitement, but remained quiet. The moments passed slowly and John dozed into a doze, when a crash in the adjoining room sounded through the flat.

"You stay right here," commanded Mrs. Harris. "You would scare the poor girl to death. Let me attend to her."

And Mrs. Harris "attended" to her. The guilty May was discovered half way through the dining room, with the wheel in her possession. "For a girl who is afraid of the dark you have considerable nerve," said Mrs. Harris. "You march right back with that wheel. Of all the things I ever heard of in my life! How dare you do such a thing, May? Don't you know what a cyclometer is? Did you not know that you would be discovered? The idea of your stealing out at night and riding my wheel!"

It took Mrs. Harris ten minutes to express her feelings properly, during which time May said nothing. She had nothing to say. The next day the following ad. appeared in a morning paper:

Wanted—A servant girl who does not ride a bicycle, at 428 Sixty-first place, Woodlawn. —Exchange.

Pheasants and Thunder. The effect of thunder or the firing of cannon on pheasants is very curious. Either of these sounds starts the cock birds crowing as if in defiance. Mr. G. T. Rope, writing to The Zoologist, says that at a place between Ivo and six miles distant from the garrison town of Cochester he has heard pheasants close to him, each report of the artillery practicing there and has on many occasions noticed the same thing elsewhere. The crowing sounds more like the answer to a challenge than the expression of fear. Mr. J. E. Hartung points out that the observation is not new. Gilbert White remarked a century ago that the pheasants in his neighborhood crowded when big guns were fired at Portsmouth and the wind was blowing from that direction, and says Mr. Hartung, Charles Waterton also, in his "Essays on Natural History," makes the following remarks on the subject: "The pheasant crows at all seasons on retiring to roost. It repeats this call often during the night and again at early dawn, and frequently in the daytime, on the appearance of an enemy, or at the report of a gun, or during a thunder-storm."—Nature.

RIDING BOTH SIDES.

PROFESSOR ELLIOTT COUES' REASONS IN BEHALF OF WOMEN.

He Says the Old Riding Habit Must Go and Calls It an Old Fashioned, Out of Date Monstrosity Which the New Woman is Discarding.

[Copyright, 1906, by the Author.]
"Both sides!" is the answer to the question, "On which side of a horse should a woman ride?"
"How well they ride, and how well they look!"

So I exclaim as I sit smoking on the veranda of the hotel in Hot Springs, S. D., and see the women, both young and old, go by on horseback, riding astride like the men. I am a tenderfoot from the east, and the novelty of the sight attracts my attention. But that is because I am a conventional old fog, hopelessly behind the times in the progressive west, where everybody rides and the women know how to ride as well as the men.

RIDING BOTH SIDES.

That is something they never learned to do till they let the old riding habit go and got into the new habit of riding as they ought to.

It is Saturday afternoon in Hot Springs, and the principal street is thronged with town folks and country folks. Some walk, and some drive, but most of them ride. Here comes a couple of the best riders in the world, in from the stock range swinging along at an easy hand gallop, man and horse one. They personify the poetry of motion, in ease, grace, speed, strength and safety. A moment more and they are out of sight. Here come two more of them—but, no! As these sweep by like a breeze I perceive they are two girls, riding astride like the men, and, like the men, riding with ease, grace, speed, strength and safety. This is the first time I have seen anything of the sort, and I watch them till they are out of sight. But that is because I am an old fashioned tenderfoot. Nobody else notices them; nobody turns the head to look at them; nobody says anything. And why? Because it is fashionable in Hot Springs, and in a good many other parts of the west, for women to ride sensibly and dress sensibly for that purpose.

Fancy the sensation of such a spectacle in New York—if some woman should come cantering along Fifth avenue on both sides of a horse! But why not so on a horse as well as on a bicycle? The only reason is that women can ride a horse sideways, but cannot possibly cycle in such an awkward and ridiculous manner. That is simply thanks to the horse, which can stand up under what the machine cannot bear, but it is no credit to the rider.

Who turns the head now to take a look at the flying wheels and heels of the woman cyclist? Nobody. And just as soon as the new equestrienne appears in the east she will find she has the right of way. The wheel, by a mechanical paradox, has proved to be the entering wedge, with power to split conventional prejudice. If a few sensible city women will mount horses as they now do bicycles, they will soon find themselves fashionable leaders of a much needed reform. The period of probation would be too brief to try their nerves much, and the triumph would be complete. The men would tumble to it after a brief stare, because women look so well riding astride. The women would take to it naturally if for no other reason, and those who now ride the wheel would not even have to buy a new dress, because the cycling costume would answer just the purpose.

The new equestrienne makes the strongest possible plea for woman's right to use her lower limbs and clothe them to suit her purposes. Why she should swathe them together for walking, and for riding swaddle them in something like her original baby slip on a large scale, are things no fellow can find out or woman either. There is no reason why a woman should sit askew and assant on a horse except that some women have been forced to do so for some time in some countries, of which ours is one. There is every reason why a woman should sit squarely on a horse's back and hold on with her knees, the way men do. In many or most countries they have always done so and do so still. It is the natural way to ride. There is nothing whatever in the difference between a man's and a woman's figure to account for the awkward, uncomfortable, ungraceful, unsafe and even perilous fashion in which our women are now forced to ride. They must be good natural riders not to come to grief earlier than they do. If there be any difference between men and women in conformity with a horse's back, it is decidedly in favor of the female figure.

She can take if anything a better seat than a man and get a better grip on the horse's sides. She seems better built for that than a man, whose shoulders are broader and hips narrower in proportion. His seat is naturally less secure; he is top heavy, and his equilibrium is less stable. What fine riders astride women naturally are is shown in some countries where men ride races for their prospective brides, who need not be caught unless they want to be.

I lately rode with a lady who rode as I did. She was a good horsewoman in the old way, and tried the new way for the first time on this occasion. She said she never knew what riding was before, for comfort and security, and she certainly looked well.

If the horse could have his say in this matter, I fancy his enthusiasm on the subject would be great. A horse hates a sidesaddle because it hurts him, and is naturally afraid of long skirts because he does not understand them. Women are said to be harder on horses than men. It is true; ask any liverman. But that is mainly because they ride askew and assant, with their legs twisted awkwardly to one side, and nothing in their position that fits a horse's back and ribs. The saddle pulls and drags and galls the horse. It is likely to turn if it be not cinched so tight that the poor animal cannot breathe comfortably. It is as bad for the horse as corsets for the woman. A sidesaddle is an abomination. Its proper place is neither under a woman nor over a horse, but in a museum of medieval machines like the thumb-screw, the boot, the wheel, the rack and the scavenger's daughter. The sidesaddle must go, with other bad riding habits.

Some fair reader may think: "This is all well enough when I am on the horse, but how about getting on, and especially getting off again? Wouldn't it be awful?" No, certainly not half so awful as the performance in which you are now a star actress with a full stock company for the benefit of the whole neighborhood. You appear in your stovepipe hat and tight waist, holding up your black baby slip with both hands. Somebody is holding your horse by the head and punching him in the stomach to make him stand up close to a chair, which, very likely, he refuses to do by about a yard. Then somebody else comes to your assistance and gets you in his arms more awkwardly than on some other occasions, not knowing exactly what to do next, and you give a gasp, and a gulp, and a jump, and he gives a heave, and if these things are simultaneous enough you are dumped half way on the side of the horse, with your skirts hitched so tight you can get no farther. Then you wriggle and hunch yourself about till you manage to get your right knee over the pommel, but cannot find the stirrup for your left foot. Then he fumbles foolishly about the mysterious folds of your drapery till he finds the stirrup and the foot and sticks them together. Then somebody else puts the bridle in your hands. You are really on horseback, and after the ride you repeat the process hind end foremost.

All because you have been taught the wrong way to get on a horse, the wrong way to stay on a horse and the wrong way to get off a horse. You are at the mercy of some man to begin with and to end with, and at the mercy of the horse from beginning to end.

Notice that girl coming out of the store in Hot Springs. She hitched her horse to a post when she went in by simply throwing the bridle over the post. The saddle is just like the ones the men ride, stirrup leathers a trifle shorter. She throws the bridle over the horse's neck and holds it in the same left hand that grips the pommel. The other hand is free, for there are no skirts to hold up. She just lays it on the cantle a moment, puts her left foot in the stirrup and vaults into her seat, the right foot coming down into the off stirrup with perfect ease and accuracy after no ungraceful swing of one limb over the horse's quarters. She is away in an instant, and when she is ready to dismount she reverses the way of getting on just as a man does.

And why not do so yourself?
ELLIOTT COUES.

A Sewing Convenience.

Get a small bisque doll with arms jointed at the shoulders and put on it a skirt of white flannel cut in two parts, each two inches wide and long enough to fall 2 inches below the doll's feet. Seam these pieces down to the feet and pink the bottom and sides below the seams. Fasten on the doll so that the seams are on either side. Over this fit a long dress made by folding half a yard of 2 inch ribbon, any preferred color, leaving the fold or loop for the bottom of the dress. Turn in the two ends, gather and fasten around the neck, sewing it on tightly. The doll's arms project from between the two parts of the ribbon. The edges of the ribbon are laid together and overhanded together from below the arms down to the feet, leaving a long loop below. Put a sash of narrow ribbon around the waist, sewing the loops firmly, as one is used to hang the doll up by.

The long loop is used to hold spools of thread and silk. They are laced on baby ribbon, as shown in the illustration. The ribbon is put through the first spool; then each end of the ribbon is passed through the end of the spool above, coming out at the opposite end. Continue in this way until all are laced; then sew the ends of the ribbon up where the overhanding stops, fastening them on the underside. The set of spools rests inside the fold of broad ribbon and can be pulled out when used. This is much more practicable than putting each spool on separate ribbons.
The petticoat below the feet does for a needlebook. A little bag of shirred silk tied on the right arm holds the thimble.

We quote from a letter of Anheuser Busch Brewing Association, dated Sept. 8th, the following:

Your honorable firm having represented us for so many years, we believe it is useless to call your attention to the merits of our article, but we should like to repeat again and call your attention to the fact that ours is the only pure barley malt beer manu-
