THE MOSQUITO PEST.

One of the greatest pests of the Hawaiian Islands is the mosquito, which seems to thrive and multiply under any and all conditions, and in spite of the scattering or burning of buhach and other insect exterminators its unwelcome singing is still heard in close proximity to one's ears at all hours of the day or night, especially the latter.

The following, in a late issue of the New York Sun, from the pen of Congressman Amos J. Cummings, descriptive of the result of a recent botanical excursion through Florida, under the leadership of William R. Smith, Superintendent of the National Botanic Garden at Washington, and bearing special relation to "insect-feeding" plants may afford a possible solution of the mosquito nuisance from an unexpected source, and should be read with much interest by all residents in these Islands, and especially by the Bureau of Agriculture.

The search for Sarracenia or insect-feeding plants ran along the edge of a swamp back of the creek. They were found in great profusion. The first discovered were what Mr. Smith calls "whiskey shops." They were the trumpet leaf, known to science as Sarracenia Variolaris. The darkey declared that they were a sure cure for small-pox.

Another insectivorous plant is called the Sun dew (Drosera). It kills mosquitoes, and is abundant in the swamps of Florida. It is one of the species of plants of which Mr. Darwin made such interesting investigations. It has from two to six leaves, usually in a horizontal position. Sometimes, however, they have a vertical extension. They are more broad than long. The upper surface is covered with gland bearing filaments or tentacles. The average number of glands on each leaf is about 100. They are surrounded by drops of a viscid secretion. These drops glitter in the sun and give the plant its name. Insects are caught in the gummy secretion, and the tentacles are brought into play to secure them. The plants are of a red color, and are almost mossy in appearance.

Near these the Pinguicula, another insectivorous plant, was found. Its palate is hairy, and the margins of its leaves usually roll inward. It captures its victims with a glue-like secretion, and is said to absorb them by rolling its leaves around them.

The lamina are yellow, orbicular, pointed, downy, red at the base, and veined with purple. The trumpet is shaped so as to prevent the adulteration of its liquor by rain or dew. It bears the same flower as the variolaris, and its victims are full as numerous. Each, however, distils different liquor, and has a different class of customers. Both shops thrive in Georgia and South Carolina, despite their restrictive liquor laws. The effect of the liquor on insects is plainly seen. It would be interesting to know whether it would intoxicate men, if enough of it could be procured. It has a sweet taste, something like cider. Cows nip the plant greedily; nor does it seem to affect their milk, which has a fine color and as good a flavor as Orange county milk.

After an earnest search we found a whiskey shop bearing a red flower as its sign. There were very few of them. It was the Sarracenia psittacina, or parrot-beaked pitcher plant. Mr. Smith has named it "the Sunday saloon." He says its customers creep in by a back door. Once inside they stand at the foot of a tiny hill and the liquor runs down to them. They drink, drop and never return. We afterward saw many of these singular plants along the railroad in Georgia, between Waycross and Savannah, while returning to Washington. The leaves are short and spreading, and the tube is slender and broadly winged. It is marked with white spots, and is netted with purple veins. The beak is incurved, and the orifice of the tube is almost closed.

All these plants protect their liquor from the dew and rain. There is one species, however, which does not do so. It is the Sarracenia purpurea, or Huntsman's Cup. It has purple flowers, and is broadly winged. It grows in nearly all of the Florida swamps. The throat is contracted and covered with brown hairs, projecting downward. The botanist has dubbed it "the lager beer saloon." The insect crawls over the hairs and descends the cup to drink the beer. Becoming partly intoxicated, it rises to climb out. The down-growing hairs act as a sort of chevron de frise. The fly cannot surmount nor thread them. It finally drops into the water below and is drowned. This is the one insectivorous plant that drowns its victims. The Kew guide book says that they all do so, but Mr. Smith says it is clearly a mistake.

Another insectivorous plant is called the Sun dew (Drosera). It kills mosquitoes, and is abundant in the swamps of Florida. It is one of the species of plants of which Mr. Darwin made such interesting investigations. It has from two to six leaves, usually in a horizontal position. Sometimes, however, they have a vertical extension. They are more broad than long. The upper surface is covered with gland bearing filaments or tentacles. The average number of glands on each leaf is about 100. They are surrounded by drops of a viscid secretion. These drops glitter in the sun and give the plant its name. Insects are caught in the gummy secretion, and the tentacles are brought into play to secure them. The plants are of a red color, and are almost mossy in appearance.

MR. CLEVELAND AND HAWAII.

The President is Not Going to Turn the Islands Over to England.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Not for a single moment since the first news of the Hawaiian revolution was received in the United States, has any serious doubt existed in well-informed quarters here as to the ultimate result. Although it was vehemently asserted that the sugar interest, Claus Spreckels in particular, was at the bottom of the revolution, the real fact was that its power was against the movement, and behind the influence that withdrew the treaty of annexation and appointed Commissioner Blount.

There appeared in Washington, as soon as possible after the revolution, a leading member of the sugar trust, earnest for a knowledge of the ways to have the treaty withdrawn. Of the means he spoke understandingly. There was nothing the Trust would not do or promise, if the treaty was withdrawn and the annexation business stopped. What he did or promised to do may not be essential now, but the treaty was withdrawn and the annexation business for the time was stopped.

As soon as possible thereafter, Mr. Spreckels appeared in Honolulu and began to stir up sentiment against the Provisional Government. Mr. Blount's acts seemed to support Spreckels, and the Sugar Trust in the United States was quite confident that the monarchy would be restored. Whether or not such was the intention of Mr. Cleveland is not necessary to inquire now. It is as true in regard to the Hawaiian business as in regard to some other things that Mr. Cleveland undertook to manage as soon as he was inaugurated, that he blundered. He is preparing now to pursue a different course towards the Sandwich Islands, as he has had to do about other questions.

From no quarter has the supposed policy of Mr. Cleveland in the Pacific had any support worth naming. This he soon felt, and it was not long, as it can be stated on sufficient authority, before he began to change his course with a view to quite another policy: an American policy, such as it is now believed Judge Gresham advised him to adopt the first moment he was called on to act. The Judge did not like Mr. Blount, though he did not seriously oppose him for Commissioner. He believed, and so told Mr. Cleveland, that there would develop a sentiment in this country that could not be resisted. Although Mr. Cleveland resisted this view, it was not long before Judge Gresham was able to show how true it was that this overmastering sentiment not only existed but would prevail.

It is said Mr. Cleveland is nursing the Sandwich Island question until Congress meets, being convinced in his own mind that it will not be long before it solves itself, indeed, that it has practically done so already.

With Mr. Cleveland the problem how to manage the question is now more difficult than at first. Naturally he does not wish to appear to retreat from what at the time caused much criticism; and the only question is how shall he proceed and not have his course seem like retrogression.

If the Administration has done nothing else, as Gresham is understood to say, it has demonstrated by its course that this country must either take the islands or permit some other power to take them. That other power, it is highly probable, would be England. Mr. Cleveland has been made to see what others saw at the time, that this country would not tolerate that for an hour.

The details of the only course open to the Administration are all there is left for Mr. Cleveland to consider. It is easier to nurse the question until Congress meets than to assume the responsibility of negotiating for the acquisition of Hawaii at once.

Minister Thurston has come at an opportune time. Only one thing is possible. It is not material whether it be done in six months or six days. It will be done. Mr. Cleveland is a bold man at times, but he is not going to turn Hawaii over to England.—N. Y. Sun.

OF

Cod Liver Oil.

It aims to cure Consumption, Hits the Mark, too, and it most effectually breaks up Colds, Coughs, Hoarseness and all Throat and Lung troubles that cause this disease.

It is natural logic to conclude that if WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION OF COD LIVER OIL has power to prevent Consumption, it surely is able to cure these lesser emergencies.

This vigor-making, fat producing preparation is Absolutely Tasteless, in so far as Cod Liver Oil is concerned. All you notice is a delightful flavor of Wild Cherry and Anise.

But the purest Norwegian Cod Liver Oil is there all the same. It is a great blood enricher. Best of all it is a natural food that in its stomachic effects, actually assists its own assimilation.

In Pulmonary or Bronchial troubles it is unequalled. No one doubts the value of Cod Liver Oil, but not every one is able to take it.

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION

removes the nauseous objection and actually makes Cod Liver Oil palatable.

STILL TO BE DECIDED.

The German Army Bill Depends on Reballots.

BERLIN, June 18.—The election returns are virtually complete this afternoon. A report from one district is lacking, and a revision of the returns may necessitate a few alterations, but they will be trivial. Candidates elected number 215. Of these 101 will vote for the Army bill and 114 against it. In the following list by parties the Anti-Semitic Conservatives are included with the Conservatives, and the Independents are treated as members of the parties with which they affiliated in the Reichstag: Lieber Clerical, 63; Social Democrats, 29; Conservatives and Agrarians, 44; National Liberals, 18; Radical Unionists, who favor the bill, 4; Poles, 12; Free Conservatives, 10; Clericals favorable to the bill, 11; Alsatians, 7; South German Democrats, 4; Anti-Semitic, 3, two favoring the bill; Bavarian Agrarians, 2; Goelphs, 1; Danes, 1; Bavarian Separatists, 1; Reichrists, none.

That the Ministerial expectations of a general combination against the Socialists is not entirely unfounded is shown by the action of the Clerical leaders. The Socialist scare has been so general that the leaders sent out a letter calculated to solidify the Catholic vote against the Social Democratic candidates, even in cases where such a course will lead to the election of a Conservative or National Liberal.

Speculators on the Bourse take a sanguine view of the Government prospects in the second ballots. Imperial and Russian stocks, which weakened Friday, were strong yesterday in consequence of the reports that the Government would have a small majority at the opening of the Reichstag.

Count Herbert Bismarck, who was elected by the Agrarians in the Jericho district, received 11,669 votes to 6,848 cast for Ferdinand Woellmer, Radical, who was the last member for the district. Gloecke, Social Democratic candidate, received 4,431 votes. Count Herbert's majority over all, therefore, was 480.

WILL CHANGE THE DATE.

Cleveland to Call an Extra Session Before September 1st.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Herald will say to-morrow: The President will, in all probability, convene Congress at an earlier date than he has already intimated. He was reported a few days ago as saying that he would call an extra session not before September 1st nor later than September 15th. The Herald is assured, however, upon the authority of a personal friend of the President that he has decided to call a session before September 1st, and that his action in doing so is based upon his recent inquiries as to the present attitude of Congressmen regarding the Sherman silver purchase act. The work of repeal will be done at the very outset of the extra session.

KNOTT REFUSES TO GO.

Why Blount Does not Want the Hawaiian Mission.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Notwithstanding all the denials and so-called authentic statements, there is now no doubt that President Cleveland tendered to Proctor Knott of Kentucky the Hawaiian Mission. The famous Kentuckian was in the city a few days ago, and the tender of the office was made at that time. Knott took the matter under advisement, and word was received from Louisville to-day that he had declined the proffered honor. No one believes that Blount wants to retain the office. There is bigger game for him nearer home. He wants to be Governor of Georgia, and the administration will help him in gratifying his ambition.

The Wounded Men at Visalia.

VISALIA, June 16.—There are no unfavorable symptoms in the wounds of Evans or Sontag. Matthewson is confident they will get well. Black, wounded at Camp Badger, is not making the progress expected.

Knott will Succeed Blount.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Proctor Knott of Kentucky, it is now conceded, will succeed Blount as Minister to Hawaii.

It is known to all that the digestive tube is the first part of the organism attacked in cholera, whereas the liver and kidneys are only affected later on and apparently without the presence of the pathogenic bacillus. Furthermore, a great many experiments of inoculating this disease to animals show very plainly that the comma bacillus has to pass through the stomach before it begins to act. Now, the stomach is an organ which, when in its normal condition, the bacillus has great trouble in passing through, because the gastric juice, on account of its acidity, is a powerful means of destroying microbes.

Under these circumstances how can we account for the outbreak of the disease in man if we allow that the bacillus can only enter the body through the stomach? We can only explain the fact by admitting that at the moment that the disease is contracted the gastric juice was not in its normal acid condition, when by the microbe escaped from its fatal action and passed on and developed at its leisure in the intestine, a medium that is eminently favorable to it.

It becomes evident from these facts that by increasing the acidity of the gastric juice we shall place a most powerful obstacle in the way of the invasion of these microbes, and shall, so to speak, shut the door in their faces. To attain this purpose we may have recourse to drinks acidified with hydrochloric, tartaric or citric acid.—Japan Gazette.

M. McINERNY.

Are we to be, or not to be, a part of the Great Republic, seems to be the burning question of the day, and one we had rather leave to wiser heads than ours to solve; and while great statesmen are wrestling with this momentous question, we want to have a little "por-wow" with you on some other subjects, that concern you as well as ourselves.

Has it not occurred to you that you've been wearing that old hat long enough! In these progressive times if you intend to be "in it," you've got to keep pace with fashion. No matter how otherwise well dressed you may be, unless your hat is the correct thing you bear a shabby appearance.

We have already laid in a stock of the Latest Hats of the coming Spring and Summer styles, in hard felts, soft felts and straws, and including a line of the celebrated "Fedora" Hats, at present all the rage in the United States. There is therefore, no necessity for you to hang on any longer to that old Hat that bears such a strong resemblance to the hat "your father wore."

Believing that business will be better in the near future, we have not hesitated to keep our stock full in all lines. Take collars for instance: We have almost everything you could wish for. If you wear a standing collar, just come in and take a look at our "Narenta" or "Ardonia;" or if you prefer a turn down collar, try the "Winnipeg" or "Goswell;" we have have lots of others, and can't fail to suit you. Cuffs in abundance, links or otherwise.

Neckwear in profusion, scarfs, windsors, 4-in-hands, and a special lot of "Boys' Bows;" suspenders in great variety, leather and woven ends, good strong, serviceable goods.

We might go on indefinitely, but space is valuable, and to enumerate everything we carry would fill a pretty fair sized book. If there is anything you want in the men's line, just drop in and see us, and if we can't suit you, we don't believe any one can.

If you should want a pair of nice shoes, let us try a hand at fitting you. Did it ever occur to you

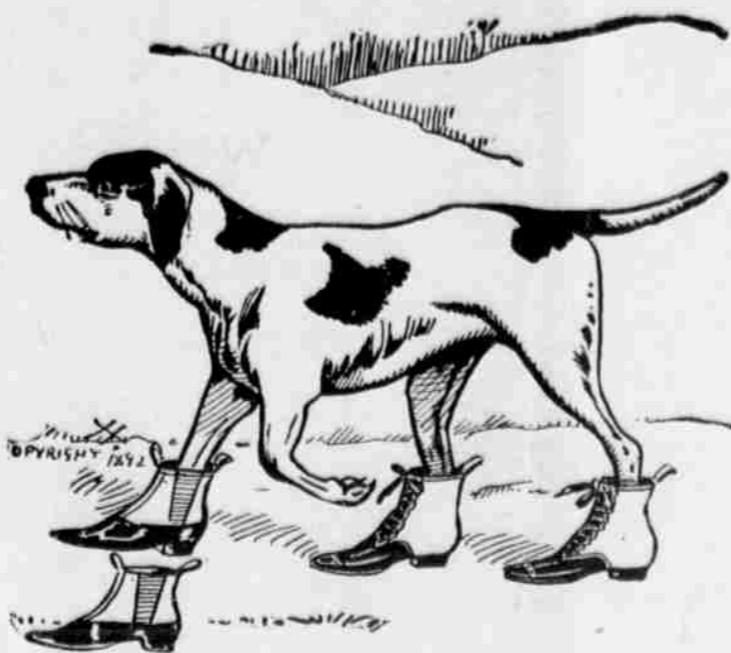

How much a man is like his shoes; For instance, both a soul may lose. Both have been tanned; Both are made tight by C-bblers; Both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete; And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold, And both in time will turn to mould. With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new; When men wear out, they're men dead too.

They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others nothing loth. Both have their ties, and both incline When polished, in the world to shine; And both get out. Now would you choose To be a man, or be his shoes.

POINTERS IN SHOES

Just three pointers will be enough for you: 1st—We have over 20,000 pairs of Shoes in stock to select from, embracing all leading lines. 2nd—We buy in larger quantities than any one in the country, only spot cash, consequently we buy cheaper. 3rd—We have no extraordinary inducements to offer; you would distrust a man who had gold dollars to sell for ninety cents. Look out for the shoe man with that kind of a story; his shoes may be Counterfeits.

MILLIONAIRE CREEDE.

HOW HE UNCOVERED HIS LUCK IN A DAY.

A Colorado Millionaire With an Income of $1000 per Day Tells the Story of His Strike.

N. C. Creede is one of the few mining men who have reaped golden dividends from mining discoveries in recent years. His story has been told before in a certain sense. He is a Colorado mining prospector, has been "dead broke" several times, is now worth half a million of dollars, and has come out to the Pacific coast in search of health not of wealth.

To a reporter of the San Francisco Examiner he gave the following interesting account of his life:

"I was born in Indiana in 1842 and left the State when I was four years old. My parents took me along to Iowa. When the civil war broke out I went to Nebraska and enlisted in the United States scouts. It was virtually an Indian border command, with about six white men to every company, of Pawnee Indians. I was first lieutenant of a company. It cost me just seven years of my life did this service as a frontier scout. I had plenty of experiences and encountered plenty of perils. Once, for instance, we had quite a series of battles on the Yellowstone river. This was in 1864. In one of these battles we captured and burned the Indian villages, drove off 760 head of cattle and killed about sixty Indians. General Connor was in command at the time. He was a regular army officer, stationed at Fort Douglas, Salt Lake. He died only a few years ago.

"Do I believe in California? Why, yes, certainly. Look at this pin."

Here Mr. Creede handed an oblong mass of granite or quartz, with gold streaks running through it. It was decidedly large for a pin, and the stone was an inch and a half in length, but Mr. Creede seemed to think nothing of it.

"This pin," said Creede, "was sent me by a California woman as a sample of the wealth of California soil. It may have had something to do with deciding me to come out and lay my bones here."

Creede does not look even a middle-aged man and yet he admits he is over fifty.

FROM THE BIG HORN TO COLORADO. "After the close of the civil war," said he, "our command was called to the Big Horn mountains. It was hard work, but I thought I would like to be a mountaineer, and incidentally I caught the mining fever. This led me to Colorado, and I began prospecting. It was bitterly cold in the winter and quite too hot in the summer. In Colorado mining means mostly silver and lead combined in the same ore, with a little native silver among the galena and silver sulphurets.

"I was lucky from the start. One of the mines I prospected and located is now turning out 150 tons of rich ore every day.

"Troubles? Yes, I have had lots of them, but I have made a number of good strikes. I found Camp Monarch. It is about 100 miles south of Leadville. I owned everything there for just twenty days. There were millions in it but I did not know it. I sold that mine for a trifle and since then $5,000,000 have been offered for it. The ore was mostly argentiferous galena. I was looking for silver, of which the ore carried very little, and that was what beat me. It seemed to me that if it did not carry a considerable portion of silver it was of no value. That is a big mistake for a man to make in Colorado. There are certain ores rich in lead which are very valuable in fluxing.

"The trouble with me at this time was the same that worries many poor men and makes them mad afterwards with a sense of opportunities lost. The Rio Grande Railroad was being built but I couldn't wait for results. I sold out for a trifle and somebody else got the $5,000,000. The prospector has to take what he can get. That was about my first experience in mining and it taught me a heap.

LEADVILLE AND PNEUMONIA. "Why did I come out here? Well, perhaps you never lived in Leadville. The people are all right, but there is a little too much pneumonia to suit me.

"Pneumonia is quite common in Leadville. I don't know whether it is the high altitude or the exposure to which the miners are subject, but certain it is that most everybody gets a dose of it, and pneumonia, let me tell you, is a dangerous disease. You have got to think of a place so dry that rains, fogs and clouds are unknown, and then add the rarity of the air at an altitude of 11,000 feet; no frost, no dews.

"The town of Creede I founded. It is only a year old but it has over 6000 inhabitants. The first 'strike' was called 'Holy Moses.' I bonded that to Moffitt, Campbell & Co. for $70,000 and subsequently went in with them. Then I struck the 'Amethyst' while prospecting for the firm. We still hold on to the 'Amethyst,' which at the present time is paying dividends of $80,000 a month. There are three of us directly concerned, and for two months past the dividend was $108,000 a month. Yes, I have a fortune."

They Have Come!

Those Razor Stropps you have been waiting for several weeks, are here. They are so good that it has been said of them, that if you lay your razor, and one of these stropps down together on your washstand, the razor will keep a fine edge; still, we recommend following the directions printed on each stropp.

Anti-Rattlers.—We have a new kind which you can put on to the shafts of your buggy, without breaking four fingers and a thumb. They prevent two things—rattling and swearing.

Boardman's Pat. Wrench.—4 sizes, just the kind of combination wrench to have about the house.

Try the new Keystone Egg Beater, if you want a beater that will do quick, clean work.

Hose,—1/2-in. to 2-in., 3 and 4-ply plain or wired, just received; cheap and good quality; also carbolized. We have a large stock of "Hubbuck's," "Pioneer," and cheaper brands of White Leads and Zinc. Also, Oil, Turpentine, and all painters' supplies, and you will do well to see our Stock and get our Prices before you paint your house.

American Flags,—6 to 18 feet long, came by the last steamer to us. They are a fine lot, sewed bunting.

Fire Arms and Ammunition.—A new lot of Sporting and Target Rifles, Colt's new Navy, Smith and Wesson, and cheaper Revolvers, came last week and can now be seen. We carry the most complete assortment of Cartridges in town, from 22 to 50 cal., and always have plenty of them.

Leather.—We have received within the past sixty days, by steamer and sail, 66 Rolls of Leather, containing 9088 lbs., and 5347 ft.; also, 3 bales containing 142 doz. sheep skins, so it looks as if we meant to keep our Stock of Leather up, although by getting it in large lots, we are able to keep the prices down.

Salt.—We are headquarters for Hawaiian Salt, as we make it. That the quality is good, and Price Low, is easily shown by the large quantity we sell every week.

Blight Compound.—Five gallons will make 65 gallons of wash. You spray your Lime and Orange Trees with this wash, and the Blight will do the rest, die and drop off the trees. We have the compound at our store, or can give you an order on the Gov't. Nursery for it, but don't forget to bring a 5-gallon can to put it in. We sell spraying outfits.

NORDHOFF'S SCRIBBLE.

HIS LATEST EFFUSIONS IN THE NEW YORK "HERALD."

He Says Hawaiian Provisional Rulers Do Not Want Their Actions Criticized.

The New York Herald of June 2d contains a two and a half column effusion on Hawaiian matters from the pen of Charles Nordhoff, under date of May 23d, from which the following is extracted.

The report received here from Washington, which is confirmed by Mr. Blount's instructions, that the President desires it understood as the policy of the United States that while he will protect the independence of the Islands against all foreign aggression he proposes to leave them their independence under such a form of Government as they may choose without interference from the United States gives satisfaction to all reasonable persons.

This policy ought also to please Mr. Thurston, the annexation envoy to Washington. It answers perfectly to what he upheld in a speech delivered in the Hawaiian Legislature as late as October 17, 1892, just three months before he and Mr. Stevens brought on the revolution and claimed annexation.

MR. THURSTON RESENTS SLURS. Further on he said: "Daniel Webster said that if the French took the Islands they would take them back and restore their independence if it took the whole empire of the United States to do it. This is their position, and it has been consistently maintained ever since. The United States has out of its bounty given us a treaty for which it received almost no monetary return, which has put millions into the lands of this country."

He concluded by saying: "Common decency and common gratitude should prevent these slurs and insinuations on the United States. It is an insult to the opposition, which is not less loyal than the Cabinet, and the ideas are advanced simply to keep the Cabinet in power."

I wish Secretary Gresham would ask Mr. Thurston whether on the very period when he made this anti-annexation speech he was not secretly intriguing with Minister Stevens for an annexation.

I repeat that the policy which is reported as the President's that the United States will protect Hawaii against all foreign aggression, but will leave this country independent to form its own government and carry on its own affairs, will satisfy the natives and all the other inhabitants of the Islands except the filibustering annexationists, who are not really a great number.

I asked an intelligent native why his people were so dissatisfied with the planter's constitution of 1887 as to ask the Queen for a new constitution. He replied that it was largely—mainly, he said—because that constitution took away from the sovereign the right to appoint nobles and gave it to qualified voters. The qualification was made, he said, an income of not less than $600 a year, but under that qualification a white dock laborer or mechanic in Honolulu, whether he was an intelligent man or not, might vote for a noble, while the native teachers and clergymen were excluded because they did not get so much. That did not seem to him just, he added, and I must say I agree with him.

It requires some courage here, nowadays, for either a native or a white man to openly express opposition to annexation. I know personally at least half a dozen men, mostly white or half-castes, who have in confidence told me they were compelled by their employer to sign the annexation roll under threat of loss of employment, and, therefore, under compulsion.

"Now, we want your signature to this annexation roll," says the employer. There is no question whether the poor fellow wants annexation or not. The natives sign the annexation petition when they have to, but I notice that where they are independent and living on their own land they are opposed to annexation. Notices such as the following are found in the annexation organ:—

"Information has come from Waiehe that all the Government officials there except the District Judge are pronounced Royalists and are working for restoration. These officials include the chief and three policemen. All of them except the Sheriff have signed the roll of the Hawaiian Patriotic League, and he, to keep on the safe side, affixed the name of his dead father. Until two or three days ago the whole outfit wore Royalist badges, but were warned to take them off. The Marshal has been notified of this state of things and investigation will follow."

Now that Mr. Spreckels has come out against annexation openly and squarely there may be presently a little more liberty, but a worse and more unscrupulous tyranny of opinion I have never seen anywhere.

I am trying to show you that until it became a political necessity to blackguard this Queen, to defame her character, by way of justifying the revolution against her, she was regarded as a good woman by all the best citizens of Honolulu—good enough for them to take their wives and young daughters to her house and to be invited to their houses and welcome to their church. It is impossible that they would have done this if the Queen had been a bad and unchristian woman.

I have said that in my belief the Queen must yet play an important part in affairs here, and here is my reason:—The present Government has, as it declares openly, no object except to get rid of its country, to unload it on the United States. That is, without doubt, a very unpopular policy in the Islands. Mr. Thurston, in a speech I have elsewhere quoted, declared it was not the policy of the United States. It seems to me certain that if the Provisional Government will have no policy except annexation the United States Government—and not that only, but all foreign governments—will presently recall their recognition of so absurd a situation. Foreign nations cannot deal with a faction which declines to be an independent government.

But there is here the old regular constitution and the legitimate ruler, the Queen, with back of her the very great majority of voters, and this Queen and these voters want to maintain their flag and independence. With them foreign nations must, in the nature of things, by and by deal, unless the Provisional Government makes itself a permanent Government. If they are wise, as they no doubt wish to keep in power, they should give up the silly and futile annexation fad, and taking the Queen as the constitutional head of the nation, which she is, rule under her and with some changes in the constitution which all would accept.

The Conspiracy Cases.

The case against Walker, Sinclair and Crick finally came to an end yesterday afternoon, after a long argument by the attorneys interested. The Court took the case under advisement, but it is anticipated an early decision will be rendered—probably on Monday.

A New Furniture Store.

Messrs Geo. A. Ordway and K. B. Porter will open a new furniture store on Hotel street, in the Robinson block, about the middle of next week. Mr. Ordway has just returned by the Alameda from a trip to the Coast whither he went for the purpose of purchasing the stock for the new store. The firm have about 400 cases of furniture, wicker ware, etc., on the barkentine Planter, which arrived this morning, and which will probably be opened up on Monday or Tuesday.

In addition to the largest stock of furniture, comprising elegant new designs in polished antique oak sets for parlor, bedroom and dining-rooms, etc., they have an elegant assortment of wickerware. The new firm will make a specialty of repairing, upholstering, etc., and will also make a business of laying carpets, matting, and repairing furniture at private residences.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. B. C. Cahoon of Oakland, Cal., is visiting at Dr. Lundy's.

Sir Claus Spreckels and Bishop Willis left for the Claudine yesterday.

Dr. C. A. Lundy will leave by the next Australia for a trip of several months duration in the Eastern States.

Frank Hoogs, of the Advertiser staff, went with the expedition to Kauai. Whether he will come back covered with glory or gore remains to be seen.

Alfred W. Carter, cousin of Judge Carter, formerly second deputy clerk of the Supreme Court, returned yesterday from a two years' course of study at an eastern law school.

Paul Cowles, the gentleman who has so ably represented the Associated Press and has made so many friends during his short stay here, has received orders to return home. He has been commissioned to appoint a suitable person to act in his place.

A SIMILAR OCCURRENCE.

The Murder of Sheriff Neville in Kona, Hawaii, in 1868.

EDITOR STAR: The recent murder of Deputy Sheriff Stoz makes a second instance in the internal history of these Islands where such an officer has been killed in the discharge of his duties. The other instance was the killing of Deputy Sheriff Neville by Kaona, a religious fanatic, and his followers, in Kona, Hawaii, in October of 1868. Kaona in the previous year had proclaimed himself to be the head of all powers, Church or State, and threatened extermination to any one who opposed him or his followers. With these he had taken unlawful possession of a tract of land, and had already had a notice to quit, to which he paid no attention. In fact, he tore it in pieces and stamped it under his feet.

When Deputy Sheriff Neville went to serve a second notice of ejectment, knowing what kind of a man Kaona was, he was armed and was accompanied by some constables. The party rode to the outskirts of the encampment, but before they reached Kaona's house they were greeted by a shower of stones and surrounded by a number of the followers of Kaona armed with clubs, staves and lassoes, crying out "kill the haole." In the melee Neville was struck on the head by a stone which fractured his skull (as it was supposed), and felled him from his horse. One of the constables was lassoed, dragged from his horse and killed, the others escaped. Neville later was killed by one of the men with a club.

The late John H. Coney, was then Sheriff of the island, and as soon as he heard of the disturbance, rode overland from Hilo with a number of police and volunteers. With these he marched directly to Kaona's encampment, and soon forced him and his followers to surrender. In the meanwhile news of the trouble had been sent to Honolulu, and the Government immediately dispatched a force of a hundred and fifty men, with one field piece to the scene of the disturbance, under the command of the late ex-Governor Dominis. On its arrival the guard under Sheriff Coney was relieved, and a number of the prisoners brought to Honolulu. Most of them were subsequently discharged, and some eight convicted of different degrees of manslaughter in the May term of the Supreme Court in Hilo in 1869.

Yours truly, W. C. PARKER.

The Editor is Sick.

Editor Smith of this paper thought he had recovered from the grippe yesterday and started to work with his usual vim. The result was that he was forced to give up shortly after noon and take to his bed. He is now under the care of Dr. McGrew, and is domiciled in one of the latter's cottages at his residence.

Down With the Grippe.

Minister Damon has been caught by the prevailing epidemic severely enough to be confined to his room. He hopes to be able to attend to business by Monday.

The Warrimoo will take away about 5000 bunches of bananas, 1000 water-melons and two or three thousand pine-apples, consigned to produce merchants in Vancouver, Seattle and Tacoma.

The grocery firms of Henry M. & Co., H. E. McIntyre & Bro., Lewis & Co., Henry Davis & Co., and Charles H. Hueste have a notice in this issue to the effect that their stores will be closed on the Fourth of July.

CHICAGO RIVER.
The Grand Jury Has Indicted It as a Nuisance.
 CHICAGO, Ill., June 23.—By a resolution the Grand Jury has indicted the Chicago river as a public nuisance and appointed three jurymen a committee on investigation and abatement. The committee is to find out the causes of the unhealthy condition of the stream; whether it is likely to breed disease, and obtain such information as will suggest proper and effectual measures for the abatement of the nuisance.
 Special attention will be paid to sewers which empty into the river and the gas house, brewery and stockyards' refuse, which is at present flowing into the stream, to foster and threaten the health of the city.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

ONE HENCE.—A year ago this month dignity compelled us to put a bullet into ex Judge Green of this town. He had sworn to humiliate us, and he met us on Apache avenue and pulled our nose. We dropped him, but to prove we had no ill-will we sat up with him every night for two weeks and paid his doctor bill. The Judge never forgave us, however. He came here to run the town, and he found us in his way. He had been used to licking editors all his life, and to have one of the fraternity get the best of him rankled in his soul. Six months ago we were informed that the Judge had bet two to one with Bill Poole, the faro man, that he would make us eat dirt in front of the postoffice at high noon, which is our usual hour for calling for our mail. We oiled up our guns and went forth, fully realizing that the prestige of the editorial fraternity of this Territory was at stake. While the Judge was looking for us from the south we approached him from the opposite direction. It will be remembered that we disarmed him and that on his knees he asked our forgiveness and promised not to thirst for our gore any more. We sold his two guns at public auction and gave the money to an orphan who wanted to get back to Boston awfully bad, and we supposed the Judge would go out of business. It seems, however, that he only let go again to get a better hold. Saturday evening last people saw him skulking in the vicinity of The Kicker office armed with a shotgun. He was no doubt looking for a chance to drop us, but Providence intervened. While skulking in the alley in the rear of the office, he must have fallen over some obstruction, for he was found dead Sunday morning, a victim of his own weapon. We buried him at our own expense, and also acted as pall-bearer. We had nothing against the Judge and we think of his death with sorrow. It is always a sad thing to find a man making a mistake in his mission on earth. The Judge would have made a good superintendent of a clothespin factory, or he would have done passably well as a stage driver or a prospector, but he was determined to become a champion editor killer. Had he not fallen by his own hand, we should have riddled him sooner or later, and the result would have been the same. We hope and trust that he is better off. In that land to which he has gone, may his ambitions have full swing, and may there be no editors to cast a shadow across his sunny path.
 THE MAJOR RETURNS.—Three weeks ago Major Hunnewell of this town started for New York city with a view of settling down there as our regular correspondent. We heard nothing from him until two days ago, when he walked into The Kicker office a sad, mad and disappointed man. The major didn't like New York to begin with. No one seemed to be looking for his arrival, and no one appeared to care a copper after he got there. He hadn't struck Broadway before he felt lonesome for a glimpse of a slab shanty saloon with a smiling proprietor and a double-barreled shotgun behind the bar. He missed the thrifty cactus, the barbed-wire fence and the ambling mule and long-horned steer. We not only cautioned the major that they probably burned gas in the big city, but gave him written instructions not to blow it out or tie a rag over the burner. He mislaid the card, blew out the flame and was discovered just in time to save his life. When the major started out to do New York with a lasso coiled on his shoulder, the police ran him in. When it was discovered that he had two guns strapped around him, a judge fined him $15. He put on his buckskin suit and stood in Union square and uttered a war-whoop, and he was run in again. He went into a saloon and pounded on the bar and asked the crowd to step up, and they called in a policeman to throw him out. He called at most of the newspaper offices, expecting to have a long, friendly chat with the editors and get some pointers, but all were too busy to see him. They demanded that he remove his hat in a restaurant where he went for grub, and because he refused he was bounced clear across the road. The major held on for two weeks, hoping to make a round up of it, but being robbed of his watch and bunked out of most of his money, he decided to give the East the cold shake and come home to this great and glorious province.
