FOOD SPECIALISTS.

LEWIS BONELESS BREAKFAST
 Bacon is the finest in the world. Nothing equals it for mildness of cure and delicacy of flavor, and when sliced to perfection, nicely cooked and daintily served it fairly "melts in the mouth," and is so much superior to other brands that there is absolutely no comparison. A moment's time and a chafing dish will convince you.

THIS BACON
 being sliced thinner and more evenly than is possible in the ordinary household, giving more slices to the pound, and there being absolutely no waste, is really AN ECONOMY, AS WELL AS A LUXURY. In key-opening tins of one-half and one pound each.
 Order a pound box from us, we guarantee you will be pleased with it.

LIFE IN HONOLULU.

A Trip to Kilauea—Its Discomforts and Moderate Rewards—A Day at the Race-Track—Some Undesirable Visitors.

HONOLULU, June 11.
 The trip to the volcano of Kilauea is of necessity one of the important things to be done here—at least so every one tells you. Whether it pays or not for the trouble, especially if the volcano is quiet, is open to discussion. About a month ago the larger volcano, Mauna Loa, 14,000 feet high, was very active, and hoping to see that, I undertook the trip. It has been described many times, and almost always in glowing colors and enthusiastically. To him or her who has good digestion, is unacquainted with seasickness, and can put up with all sorts of discomforts, I would say go by all means. Anyone else should take Punch's advice to those about to marry.

The steamers leave Honolulu twice a week, and are of the smallest and crankiest order. There are a few staterooms for first-class passengers; all other classes are one, and shift for themselves as they can. If there is too a large crowd—it is generally made up of coolies going to work on plantations—crossing from Honolulu to the shelter of Maui, about sixty miles, is like crossing the English Channel on the smallest Channel steamer on the stormiest day. Pitching, tossing, and rolling are only some of the minor accomplishments of these tiny steamers, and one's individual ailments are in no way mitigated by the groans and moans and protestations in an unknown jargon of the gang of wretched laborers. Along the coast,

A SUCCESSION OF PLANTATIONS in full bloom—coffee, rice, sugar, bananas in their various shades of green, with a background of brown lava mountains—make a tone picture well worth seeing. In places there are cascades and waterfalls without number, some of them plunging directly into the sea. These are a delight, and as the water in Hawaii channel is smooth by comparison, the moving panorama can be enjoyed.

After thirty-six hours of sea travel, the steamer Kinau arrives at Hilo, a little sea-port town, for which great promises are made in the near future. Here the Hilo Hotel is the one hostelry, and, having the monopoly of the business, is as bad as a hotel can possibly be, dirty, uncomfortable, and ill-kept. One night here is obligatory, and when the early morning start by stage-coach on the morrow, is made with a feeling of relief. The drive of fifty miles up to the Volcano House is made in a six-horse open carryall, dignified by the charitable name of "coach." It is a slow, creeping, all-day trip, with one stop for luncheon at the half-way house; but the eye is feasted on the wonders of the tropical virgin forest. The marvel of all this foliage is the fern tree, which at times reaches the height of thirty or forty feet, with wonderful and delicate leaves. Many waterfalls at intervals there are forming delightful pictures at unexpected turns in the road.

Nearing the top—Kilauea is only 4,500 feet up—crevasses occur from which sulphurous fumes and steam are spouting. These they call blow holes, which are apt to appear anywhere and at any time, and are only samples of what the crater can do on a large scale. The scenery, with the smoky steam coming from the rocks, inevitably reminds one of the last scene of "Die Walkure."

THE VOLCANO HOUSE, near the edge of the crater, is our final resting place, and though so far away from civilization, is most

MONDAY, SEPT. 14, 1896.

RELIGIOUS PERSECUTION.

The violent attacks and persecution against Roman Catholics in the United States by an organization composed of fanatics, bigots and adventurers seem not to be imitated in other parts of the world. At the Catholic congress recently held at Dresden, Saxony, resolutions were passed demanding that there shall be no discrimination against Catholics in appointments to public offices. In Canada things have been very bitter lately between Protestant fanatics and Roman Catholics. In Belfast, Ireland, a riot took place last month while a Catholic procession was in progress from the Cathedral. Even here in Hawaii we cannot help noticing the discrimination against Catholics and their schools by the Government, and the open hostility of the clique headed by Sereno E. Bishop, who devoted the greater part of his last term to attack, misrepresentation and abuse of Romanism and Catholic missionaries.

It is the constant progress of the Catholic church which causes the envy and enmity of Protestant fanatics who treat religion as a business and object to competition in the saving of souls. The ostensible reason for the present persecution is, however, claimed by the A. P. A. to be "that according to papal definition the United States are merely a province of the papal church" and that "there is not a papist who does not place the church above the state and the priest above the ruler." All Catholics emphatically deny that their church has any temporal power, and the A. P. A. has never produced a scintilla of proof to the contrary.

That religious dissension should have broken out in the end of the 19th century, in the manner it has, is to be deeply regretted and if the fanatics are not checked will become a menace to the civilized world. Vattel, the highest authority on the law of nations, says: "We may boldly affirm that the most certain and equitable means of preventing the disorders that may be occasioned by differences of religion is a universal toleration of all religions. Do but crush the spirit of persecution, punish severely whoever shall dare to disturb others on account of their creed, and you will have all sects living in peace in their common country and ambitious of producing good citizens."

May Hawaii be saved from the curse of religious strife and may all good citizens band together to down religions fanatics of whatever creed or sect.

ANOTHER VENTURE.

We notice with pleasure that Mr. R. Rycroft has established a guava jelly factory at Puna, Hawaii, and that he intends to manufacture jelly on a large scale. The guava jelly put up in these islands is of a superior quality to that prepared in other places, and we hope Mr. Rycroft will not be disappointed in his expectations.

The demand in the home market, however, will hardly be sufficient to make the enterprise pay. There are numerous private persons who make guava jelly for home consumption and for sale at a small figure. The thing is to find a market across the sea. The duty on jelly in California is unfortunately too high, which will necessitate the placing of a market figure on the product which will bring it out of the reach of the majority of householders. We do not know what duty there is on preserves in Canada, New Zealand and Australia, places which should prove good markets for tropical fruits.

Of course when we get annexation, in a few weeks or whenever it is we are going to get it, according to the Advertiser's friend's friend in Augusta, Me., everything will be lovely and the jelly hang high. But it is probably risky to build factories on the strength of the prophecies of the Augusta man. There was another man from that place who a few years ago prophesied annexation and wanted to pluck the "ripe pear." He counted without the owners of the pear who yet are unwilling to surrender the fruit, even if all the wise men of Augusta, Me., covet it.

It is pleasing to see new enterprises, however, and we wish success to all who venture their money in diversified industries. Whatever they are let them avoid the artificial boom which we fear is to be found in our coffee business just now. It generally ends disastrously and with a crash.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

The Attorney-General and the Marshal addressed the police force yesterday morning and gave the men in blue some wholesome and fatherly advice. The rules laid down by the Marshal in regard to the conduct of the men when on duty or in uniform are not stricter than similar rules in other countries, and they should certainly be observed.

An amusing story is brought to us of two would be leading lawyers, closely connected with the highest missionary ranks. One discovered that he had a dead rat in his upper story (of his house be it understood, and not in his cabeza,) and the other that his bath tub was stopped up. Did they attend to these trifling matters themselves? Oh! dear no! they at once appealed to the Board of Health and landlords. Economy is the source of wealth, especially if you are in a missionary soul-saving hard labor gang; but there was some tall talking around, in fact, brother Peck might have called it profanity.

It was generally reported in England that Oscar Wilde, who is undergoing penal servitude, was dying in jail. By order of the Home Secretary an examination of the prisoner was made by two medical experts who reported that there is no cause why he should be treated with any special leniency. The once brilliant writer is occupied in the very esthetic work of making canvas bags for the post office. Sic transit gloria mundi.

Previous to his departure for the Arctic region in search for the North Pole Dr. Nansen was legally separated from his wife. This step was taken in order to permit her to marry again in case of his disappearance or death without going to the somewhat onerous trouble of proving his decease in case he should have been frozen to the Pole. The explorer did not find the North Pole, but upon his return he found his wife still single and they were speedily re-married.

BASE BALL.

The Firsts Defeated the Honolulu by 15 to 6.

Saturday's ball game was not as attractive as anticipated; in fact by those who attended it was voted a drag. The teams were made up as follows:

The Cricket Club Smoker.

Our cricketers and their friends, on Saturday evening, played cricket with glasses and pipes for a change instead of the machine placed round arm—er. For fun, mirth, harmony and social friendship, it was the most successful entertainment of its kind hitherto presented. The committee consisting of W. H. Paine, M. Beach, F. Auerbach, C. H. W. Norton and Thompson are entitled to full credit and the thanks of their guests.

Of course MacIntosh, Stanley and Marx were much missed from the program, but their places were well filled by others. Coelho with his native songs, written and composed by himself made quite a hit, while Chester Doyle brought down the house with his new topical song. He ventured to assert in it that

"But I think we'll be all dead and buried,
Before we are ever annexed."

The President of the feast of wit and flow of bowl (not omitting the soul) was genial Joe Marsden, the all rounder. That enough was suggestive of success. W. H. Paine efficiently supported Joe. The lengthy program was admirably presented throughout.

An Earthquake.

Shortly before early dawn yesterday morning there were two rather severe shocks of earthquake. The first shock lasted about three seconds, and occurred at 4:48 a. m. It apparently travelled in a north-easterly direction. The rumbling noise lasted for about 15 or 20 seconds. About 10 seconds later there was another shock equal in severity but of briefer duration, probably a reflection of the previous wave.

Timely Topics.

Honolulu, Sept. 10, 1896.

While in Hawaii we are safe from those fatal heat waves that have recently been so disastrous in parts of the United States, yet we all like to keep cool, pleasant and happy. Now almost the only way, or rather the best way, is to be the fortunate possessor of an ALASKA REFRIGERATOR which we have in different sizes and at proportionate prices. They are perfection, and beautiful pieces of furniture

Then there is the ALASKA ICE CHEST, without compartment, in four sizes ranging in price from $9 to $18. They are a necessity in every household, and so good and cheap as to be purchaseable by all.

Another convenience in every home is the GEM ICE CREAM FREEZER, in capacity from 2 quarts upwards and at extremely moderate prices.

We must also look after our beautiful lawns and lovely flowers and for this purpose we most highly and sanguinely recommend our 3-inch RUBBER GARDEN HOSE, which we have in 25 and 50 feet lengths. Come and inspect these goods under our new management.

Cycle Races at the Park.

Fortunately there was not a very large attendance at Kapiolani Park, on Saturday afternoon, to be disappointed at the fizzle of the announced 50 mile race in which Horstman was to be the main attraction and to do wonders. Sylvester and Sylva ran with him and ran away from him, when he wilted, punctured his tire and withdrew from the contest. Sylva met with an accident, and consequently Sylvester won in 2 hours 56 1/2 minutes.

R. Boyd won the 1/2 mile for boys in 19 seconds, Chilton second. The one mile flying start was won by H. Walker, R. Bond, second. Time disputed.

Excellent Target Practice.

In preparation for their Denver challengers, the Sharpshooters on Saturday shot off a ten-team match between the married and single, in which some excellent scores were made. The totals were 845 for the singles to 829 for the married. The maximum being 100, both captains, W. E. Wall for the singles and J. L. McLean for the doubles, made 90 apiece. Forbes scored 87, Damon 86, A. C. Wall, Drummond and Dodge 85, Marsden, C. J. Wall, Waterhouse, McVeigh, Cassidy and Rhodes, 84 each.

A Score.

A native named Hoapili, who lives at Kualoa, was the cause of a sensational excitement yesterday. A blood stained trunk and clothes were found on the Pali road; and Capt. Scott and officer Wright were dispatched to investigate. It appears that Hoapili left town with a mule and the trunk packed on its back. He reached home without either as saki had conquered him. The mule left in charge smashed the trunk and wounds its legs—hence these tears.

Sailors Fight.

The cook and some of the crew of the S. N. Castle had an unfortunate rencontre early yesterday morning, the result of Saturday's indiscretions. The cook accused the men of stealing food and some of them attacked him. He received a crack on the head with a belaying pin, and in return jabbed a knife into Gus Oleson's body. A revolver bullet fortunately went astray. Arrests were made and in due course the men may have an innings with Judge De la Vergne.

The Yacht Race.

The yachts had a capital run to Pearl Harbor on Saturday, the Rescue, Bonnie Dundee and Hawaii were the sailers. The Bonnie Dundee with President Dole, E. R. Adams, Judge A. W. At the Pacific, Royal and Cosmopolitan saloons you obtain interchangeable checks for the famous Pabst Milwaukee beer on draft. This is a great convenience to patrons.

In a warm climate beer should be cool, clear, bright refreshing and wholesome, but not too strong or heady. These requisites are perfectly blended in Pabst Milwaukee which you can get on draught or in bottle at the Peacock saloons.

At the Royal Annex an adjunct to the Royal Saloon patrons will find the prettiest little saunple room in town and the famous corregio. At lunch time a pleasing lunch is spread, and all the liquors supplied are of the finest quality.

The Seattle Rainier beer under Capt. Charles McCarthy's management is competing very strongly with its rivals. Originally it was confined to the very quiet and respectable Criterion Saloon. It is now supplied at the Anchor, Empire and Louvre. Merit will tell.

If you want to read the latest papers, especially the leading illustrated ones of all around the world, and to enjoy a cool and refreshing drink of Enterprise beer, and any beverage of pure standard articles call at the Pantheon and interview John and Harry. Jim Dodd always keeps the best.

There is a charm about the Criterion that attracts a steady and unchangeable custom. With Rainier Seattle beer for the thirsty and choice drinks for connoisseurs; with Charley McCarthy as chief, and Charley Andrews and Peter O'Sullivan as courteous and competent assistants all are pleased.

W.W. DIMOND'S

By the Transit which arrived on the 4th inst., we received 100 Jewel stoves and ranges (one large car load) direct from the factory at Detroit.

This is our third shipment, and we find that we have only 4 stoves left from our previous lot.

The excellence of these stoves has already been proved by the large sale, but we will name three points:

First. Long life from the heavy high grade of iron which is the same in the $12 stove as in the $50 range.

Second. Economy in the use of fuel.

Third. Quick and even bakers.

We propose leasing these stoves on the following terms:

When the stove is delivered one-third of the price is paid in cash, and the balance monthly thereafter in five equal payments.

If before the expiration of the five months, the lessee wishes to pay off the balance, he will be entitled to a discount of five percent on the amount unpaid.

If a customer wants to buy outright, he gets five percent discount on the whole amount.

Jewel stoves and ranges can be had only of us.

DON'T forget that the quality of the leather in a harness regulates more than anything else its wearing properties. You cannot expect poor leather to wear well. comfortable. All around it and under it were the low hills of sulphurous fumes and vapor, and along the sides of the mountain were the hot springs and the steam vents.

The descent from Kilauea takes much less time, and is arranged so as to catch the steamer at Hilo and avoid another stop at the Hilo Hotel. But the trip by steamer takes the same length of time, and is often aggravated by the presence of a deck-load of sheep or cattle. To-day, June 11, is a holiday, the conqueror and founder of the Hawaiian Islands, although some of the historians assert that he was born in November; 1737 is the given year of his birth, and in 1782 he ascended the throne upon which he reigned for nearly forty years.

Apropos of him and the present regime, the Royalist organ says: "Kamehameha I. was a remarkable man, and his memory will remain imperishable in the record of the ages. The islands over which he ruled have degenerated into a planters' paradise, and the descendants of the once brave, manly, intelligent, and hospitable people over whom he held undisputed sway have had their lands and properties stolen from them, their morals corrupted, and their homes intruded upon and disgraced by the men who brought in either hand, and offered them the redemption of their souls at the cost of body service and physical and moral degradation." There is more truth than poetry in this statement.

To-day at the Hawaiian Jockey Club at Waikiki there were races of various kinds from morning until night. The road was crowded early with every sort of vehicle and animal carrying the pleasure-seekers, in gala clothes, decked with leis of all colors and kinds. A few—very few—of the women on horseback appeared with the old-fashioned red trousers, or divided skirt, with long extension pieces reaching to within a few inches of the ground. Most of those driving were in immaculate white flowing holokus—Anglice "Mother Hubbards"—their straw hats bound around with garlands of fresh flowers or brilliant feathers.

The Ponciana Regia, with its mass of crimson flowers, the Cathartocarpus, a giant imitation of the cherry blossom, and the golden shower are at this season in full bloom, and the effect of these trees, one large expanse of vivid coloring against the green background of the Algeroba, or palms, is more charming than words can describe.

IT WAS AN IDEAL DAY

for a holiday and for racing. To get into the enclosure of the grand stand a small fee is charged, but the people, the majority, remain outside, and as the fence is very low have an uninterrupted free view of everything but the finish. Until the establishment of the Hawaiian Jockey Club, a few years ago, the races were held in an open plain, under the shadow of Diamond Head, but now they have come under the direction of a properly incorporated jockey club, which insures a good track, a comfortable grand stand, and certain privileges for the members and officers. The club has a stand of its own, and there are besides three or four private booths, two stories high, to which the owners bid their guests welcome, and a comfortable if primitive grand stand for the public. The private booths are all decorated with bunting and flowers and help to make the course look gay. In the intervals between the races—alas, too long—the band played its usual well-worn repertoire of trashy music. Of the races the little band of spectators, who were in the stands, had started at 10 a. m. and this time the crowd had arrived. There followed the usual "pacing" races, of 2:30 and 2:45 classes, in heats, best two out of three and three out of five. The starting of some of these was stupidly slow and tedious, and the starter was more than once hissed and loudly abused. Notwithstanding on the part of the drivers, there was no word of warning, no reproof, no fine imposed. Patience, the one prominent kanaka virtue, was here apparent, and although the crowd showed their dissatisfaction, it was all good-natured. In one heat there were nineteen false starts before the horses fairly got off, and in every instance the start could have been made a fair one but for the flagrant disobedience of all known rules by some over-smart jockeying drivers. The running races, principally for Hawaiian-bred horses, were of various distances, half, five-eighths, three-quarters, mile, and mile and a half, for purses or cups or both, presented by individuals or companies. Although no very fast time was made, they were pretty races, and promised well for the future of the racehorses in the islands. There are several prominent business men interested in the breeding of native horses, for the betterment of which good stock has been brought from California. It is of necessity an expensive luxury, as nearly all the feed must come from the continent, oats being an impossible crop to grow here.

OF COURSE THERE WAS NO BETTING,

at least no open betting, on the races. It was positively prohibited by the new law-makers, and their employees were there to report any infraction of the rule and to call upon the police to enforce the law. All the same, nearly every man, woman, and child at the races had something on, and under the very noses of the "P. G.'s" (as they call the officials of the provisional government), won and lost as their purses allowed. P. G. is almost a term of contempt among the natives and those sympathizing with them.

Baseball is to-day one of the popular amusements here, and there is in existence a league consisting of four clubs, the Stars, Kamehamehas, Honolulu, and First Regiment. These clubs meet on the diamond field every Saturday afternoon, and draw to their games an enthusiastic and appreciative audience. There are some good players among them, but the majority are at best very amateurish, and any college nice would astonish them.

PATRIOTISM IS NO DOUBT A SPLENDID THING, but at the same time there are unpleasant quarters of an hour for those who have to listen to the eagle's shriek and see his wings flap when the strings are pulled away by some loud-talking countryman of the type of the third-rate commercial traveller. Of these we have had several splendid specimens, most of them hailing from the West. Some of them have become red-hot royalists, denounce the executive and the powers that be at home, and are ready to become filibusters at once should an expedition be undertaken. One lady, who, after much persuasion, was finally allowed to visit the Queen, who, by the way, does not care to receive strangers, returned from her visit and related a lot of absurdly exaggerated tales, all of them imaginary, and then loudly proclaimed herself a rebel, and adding that she had promised all sorts of aid and support to her Majesty. All this served only to bring her into ridicule and to do much harm to the Queen, who was in no way responsible. V. A. B.
